AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Unlike skilled nursing facilities and assisted living centers, senior independent living communities currently operate without mandated disaster protocols. This regulatory gap leaves thousands of vulnerable older Texans at risk during emergencies when power outages can quickly become life-threatening for those with chronic medical conditions. The urgency of this legislation is underscored by devastating accounts from Hurricane Beryl, when numerous senior independent living residents endured days without power, air conditioning, or elevator access in extreme heat. Unlike more regulated facilities, these communities, which house thousands of older Texans with varying degrees of independence, were often ill-prepared to respond to seniors' needs during the prolonged emergency. S.B. 1310 addresses a critical gap in Texas' emergency preparedness law by requiring "senior independent living communities" to develop and maintain comprehensive emergency response plans. By closing this dangerous regulatory gap, S.B. 1310 fulfills our moral obligation to protect vulnerable senior Texans living independently while acknowledging their right to dignified and safe housing during emergencies.

Proposed Legislation/Key Provisions

- S.B. 1310 requires these communities to implement emergency response plans that detail communication methods during disasters; ensure onsite staff presence during emergencies; provide for essential supplies; outline potential evacuation transportation options; conduct biannual emergency planning meetings; and connect residents with resources such as utility priority restoration programs.
- S.B. 1310 directs the communities to provide copies to residents, share plans with family members, and post notices in common areas.
- The bill provides communities until January 2026 to develop compliant emergency plans, offering reasonable time for implementation while ensuring protection before the next hurricane season.

C.S.S.B. 1310

- Clarifies an employee is not required to stay on-site in the event of a community-wide evacuation
- Removes the provision requiring the distribution of medicine or medical care
- Strikes the provision requiring senior independent living communities to annually file their emergency plan with HHSC
- Removes the civil penalty provision

C.S.S.B. 1310 V2

- Allows the use of contracted entities in the provision of food and water
- Aligns definition of "senior retirement community" with Section 301.043 of the Property Code

C.S.S.B. 1310 amends current law relating to senior retirement communities.
