AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

A medical examination is crucial before admitting a patient to a mental health facility to rule out physical conditions that may mimic, contribute to, or cause mental health symptoms.

Conditions like thyroid disorders, brain tumors, head injuries, and medication side effects can resemble or trigger mental health issues. Identifying and treating these conditions may alleviate symptoms, reducing the need for mental health interventions alone. In Texas, state hospitals are already required to conduct in-person physical exams for admitted patients.

Despite the importance of in-person physical examinations, some patients have been admitted without one. S.B. 1608 aims to prevent this by requiring an in-person medical examination before admission.

S.B. 1608 is a refile of S.B. 2628 (88R), which was voted out of the Health and Human Services Committee 8-0 and the Senate 27-3.

Key Provision:

1. Amends Section 575.004 of the Health and Safety Code to require facility administrators to ensure the in-person physical examination as required by the treatment plan.

Committee Substitute:

1. Extends the time frame to 48 hours (instead of 24) for counties with a population under 200,000.
2. Temporary exemption in the case of a state disaster declaration.

C.S.S.B. 1608 amends current law relating to physical examination requirements for patients admitted to an inpatient mental health facility.
