AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Major foreign adversaries, such as the People's Republic of China, have identified biotechnology dominance as a critical priority of national power in military literature. The flow of U.S. IP and genetic data to the medical infrastructure of foreign adversaries' militaries is considered a crucial component of this effort.

The "Texas Genomic Act of 2025" secures the genetic information of Texans and introduces Chapter 174 to the Health and Safety Code, with a focus on protecting genome sequencing data.

It requires medical and research facilities, as well as companies and nonprofit organizations, to ensure the security of genome sequencing data through the use of encryption and other cybersecurity best practices. Data must be inaccessible to individuals outside the United States unless authorized by the attorney general.

Violations of this chapter may result in a civil penalty of $10,000 per violation. It also provides a private cause of action. Residents harmed by violations can bring a lawsuit against the violating entity to recover damages, including actual damages or statutory damages of up to $5,000 per violation, along with court costs and attorney's fees.
