

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 126

WHEREAS, Port Freeport is celebrating the 100th anniversary of its founding in 2025; and

Austin first recognized the potential of the Brazos River as a deep-water port and selected the area for his own colony; the region became a hub for economic activity, and following a recommendation from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Brazoria County Commissioners Court held an election to establish the Brazos River Harbor Navigation District, divert the Brazos River, and construct a bridge over the Diversion Channel; the district was officially established in December 1925, and the Diversion Channel was completed four years later; the first public dock facilities were constructed in 1936; and

WHEREAS, Following the passage of Texas House Bill 542 in 2007, the Brazos River Harbor Navigation District was renamed Port Freeport; since its inception, the port has grown to become a strategic gateway for international trade, and it currently ranks among the top ports in the United States for foreign waterborne export tonnage and chemicals; in addition, the port is one of the largest petrochemical and energy ports in the nation, and it encompasses facilities for top leaders in the chemical, aviation, agriculture, and automobile industries; and the $295 million project includes the widening and deepening of the Freeport Harbor Channel to depths ranging from 51 to 56 feet, which would make it the deepest port in Texas; moreover, in September 2024, the Port Freeport Commission voted to adopt a zero-tax rate, enabling the port to operate as a self-reliant entity with no tax assessment; and

WHEREAS, Over the past century, Port Freeport has played an important role in the economic vitality of the State of Texas and demonstrated a steadfast commitment to sustainability, innovation, and operational excellence, and it is indeed fitting to join the people of Brazoria County in celebrating this important milestone in the port's rich history; now, therefore, be it
