Fiscal Analysis

The bill would require reporting of certain employee or service provider misconduct to the State Board for Educator Certification (SBEC) and the Texas Education Agency (TEA).

The bill would create an offense if a person fails to disclose certain required information relating to misconduct in a pre-service or pre-employment affidavit.

The bill would amend the registry maintained by TEA of certain persons prohibited from employment by educational entities to include service providers who meet certain criteria.

The bill would require the commissioner of education to temporarily include a person in the registry if the commissioner determines that the person's continued employment at or provision of services to an educational entity would constitute a continuing and imminent threat to the public welfare.

The bill would require the State Office of Administrative Hearings (SOAH) to hold a preliminary hearing not later than 17 days after the date of a person's temporary inclusion on the registry to determine whether probable causes exist that the person's employment constitutes a continuing threat to public welfare. SOAH would be required to hold a final hearing not later than 61 days after the date of temporary inclusion.

The bill would authorize the commissioner to include an employee or service provider for an educational entity in the registry if the employee or service provider is arrested for certain offenses.

The bill would require that the internet portal maintained by TEA through which certain reports may be filed comply with any requirements adopted by SBEC for filing reports.

The bill would require TEA to review investigations conducted by educational entities involving allegations of misconduct to ensure the investigations are conducted using the appropriate protocols. The commissioner would be able to authorize a special investigation if TEA determines that an educational entity failed to follow the appropriate protocols. TEA would be authorized to directly investigate certain allegations of misconduct, regardless of whether a report or complaint was filed with TEA.

The bill would allow SBEC to temporarily suspend an educator's certification or permit if the educator is arrested for certain offenses or if SBEC determines that the educator's continued certification or permit issuance constitutes a continuing and imminent threat to the public welfare, based on information presented to SBEC regarding a complaint alleging misconduct by the educator.

The bill would require SOAH to hold a preliminary hearing not later than 17 days after the date of the temporary suspension of an educator's certification or permit to determine whether probable causes exist that the educator's certification or permit issuance constitutes a continuing threat to public welfare. SOAH would be required to hold a final hearing not later than 61 days after the date of temporary inclusion.

The bill would require the comptroller to notify SBEC and the commissioner if the comptroller becomes aware of evidence that a person who provides educational services to a child participating in the education savings account program engaged in certain misconduct.

The bill would require the Department of Family and Protective Services to release certain information to TEA or SBEC through the internet portal developed and maintained by TEA.

Methodology

This analysis assumes that any impact on state correctional populations or on the demand for state correctional resources would not be significant.

TEA estimates costs relating to compliance monitoring investigations would be $38,250 annually.

TEA estimates the cost for child abuse investigation training would be $15,000 annually.

This analysis assumes that TEA would require 12.0 FTEs annually to implement provisions of the bill at a cost of $1.6 million in fiscal year 2026 and $1.5 million in subsequent years.

This analysis assumes that SOAH's increased workload due to additional TEA cases would be equivalent to 10.0 FTEs to implement provisions of the bill at a cost of $1.4 million annually from Interagency Contracts. This analysis further assumes that TEA would transfer funding to SOAH to cover these costs from TEA's General Revenue appropriations. SOAH could not provide an estimate at this time for the additional DFPS caseload.

This analysis assumes that any costs to other state agencies to implement the provisions of the bill could be absorbed using existing resources.

Technology

TEA assumes IT costs to implement the provisions of the bill would total $0.1 million in fiscal year 2026 and $0.2 million in fiscal year 2027.

Local Government Impact

This analysis assumes that any fiscal impact to units of local government associated with enforcement, prosecution, supervision, or confinement would not be significant.

Local education agencies could incur costs relating to the adoption of new and revised policies, including employee misconduct and timeline and reporting requirements.
