Vouchers for those who choose a private school steals from the public schools by reducing the census on which school funding is based and reduces the budget which in turn makes it hard to recruit good teachers. In addition, this proposal seems to be intending to pay for those vouchers through the school budget further reducing the funds to provide a good education. If a family has the money to choose a private school then it should be their sole responsibility to pay for it.

Jayden Delgado

Self

Houston, TX

I am a student at a public school and I don't appreciate how the wealthy students get to get funded with tax payers dollars instead of students at public schools who need these fundings. This bill is ridiculous and will only set up public schools to fail.

Andrew Zachry
Parents and Teachers
Fort Worth, TX

Any time we see public funds going to private enterprise it should give us pause. The current GOP leadership is presently hard selling the public on this as it cancels grants and contracts with little to no review (see USAID). However, it should be noted that grants and contracts specifically benefiting the private, unelected "citizens" currently doing this work are unscathed. The GOP only serves one group, themselves.

This voucher bill is no different. Before vouchers, school districts, governed by elected officials with specific duties to their constituents, had to apply for additional funds or grants with very clear oversight and accounting practices. Public funds are collected through a democratic process of passing tax legislation as well as local bond measures that serve the public doing the voting and are accountable to those same individuals sometimes referred to as We the People.

What gives us great pause at this moment is the obvious GOP push to fatten the pockets of their major donors. It is being floated that soon, foreign Russian oligarchs may be buying US citizenship. What will happen to Texan tax dollars that go floating out to the "free market" to be mopped up by predatory private schools. The possibility of a greater cycle of public figure self-dealing sits before us here with HB 3.

Why is it that a private Pennsylvanian citizen donated $12 million dollars to the Governor's war chest? Well, we know it was this current repeated cycle of shoving private school vouchers down the throats of Texans, through their pocketbook, and back to a Pennsylvania millionaire through their connections to private schools in our state.

When will we stop selling out the public trust to the highest bidder? We see what you are, and it is far past this bill. Step back, or get put back. Vot hard no to selling out Texans via our public schools.

Sean O'Brien
Self
San Antonio, TX

Public education funding should not be taken from people in need and given to wealthy families who don't need it. School choice is already established. If you choose to pay to put your child in private school vs. the public education system, that is your choice. You do not get take money from the general public and use it to reduce the cost of your "choice" of private school.

Stephanie Ashworth
self
austin, TX
Opposed

Karen Tarzia
self/HR Program Manager
Austin, TX

Public funds should be used to fund public schools, NOT private schools! Vouchers are a subsidy for wealthy families who already attend private school. Public schools serve so many kids that have no alternatives, and taking money from those schools to give handouts to upper middle class families is un-American. Texas has 5.5 million public school students, and that money should be used to fully fund THEIR schools. This is non partisan, the majority of small, Republican leaning rural communities don't have a private school option. They need their public schools fully funded!

Jamel Cooth, Behavior IA
Self - Public School Behavior IA
Cedar Park, TX
Support Public Schools

Natalia Ornelas
Self
Georgetown, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a social worker who has worked in Title I schools across Central Texas, I have seen firsthand the impact of underfunded schools on students, families, and communities. For the future of all Texas children, I urge everyone to vote against the creation of a voucher program and to fund our public schools. Thank you.

yvonne hien moore Constituency
Round Rock, TX

I want it known that I do not agree with this bill

Tina Fischer
Self
Allen, TX

I oppose this bill. Private education is a privilege that is not economically available to all and should not get taxpayer dollars. If parents want to send their children to a private school, it should be on their dime not the general public. This program would take funds away from public schools that already have a limited budget especially in areas where funds are limited.

Joan Yaffe
Self
Austin, TX

Quality public education was an important value in my family. My father was on our local school board for 24 years. Free, quality public education, available to all is what made America the great country it is today. Our public schools face many challenges, but with fully restored funding, they can meet those challenges and educate our Texas kids to their potential. I do not want my tax dollars going to private schools which do not have to accept all students and over which there is no oversight. Please vote to FULLY FUND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS and VOTE NO on any voucher/ ESA bill. I vote and this matters to me. Thank you.

Teresa Camp
self- Principal at an elementary school
Thicket, TX

The school voucher system diverts critical funding away from public schools, ultimately harming the students who rely on them. In our district alone, implementing a voucher program would cost approximately $221,365, money that should be used to support our students, teachers, and educational programs. Public schools are already operating with tight budgets, and losing these funds would make it even more difficult to provide essential resources, maintain small class sizes, and offer quality instruction.

Vouchers primarily benefit private schools, which are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. Unlike public institutions, private schools can select their students, often leaving behind those with special needs, behavioral challenges, or lower academic performance. This creates an unequal system where public schools bear the responsibility of educating the most at-risk students while receiving even less funding to do so.

Additionally, there is no clear evidence that voucher programs improve student outcomes. Studies have shown that students who transfer to private schools through vouchers often perform no better—and sometimes worse—than their peers in public schools. Instead of diverting funds away, we should be investing in proven strategies to strengthen our public schools, such as reducing class sizes, increasing teacher support, and expanding access to academic resources.

Public education is meant to serve all children, regardless of background or income level. Taking away over $221,000 from our district would weaken our ability to fulfill this mission. Rather than funding private schools with taxpayer dollars, we should focus on improving the schools that serve the vast majority of students in our community.

Kristyn Reed, Dr.

Self/optometrist

Conroe, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, whose entire family (3 other siblings and several nieces/nephews) are products of the public education system and whose parents and sister taught in TX public schools, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Mary Rose

Self

Austin, TX

It is heartbreaking and outrageous to see Texas heading into such a misguided effort as vouchers. Public schools need more support, not efforts to help wealthy people go to private schools. One of the things the U.S. should be most proud of is its efforts - however imperfect they may be - to educate ALL citizens. The voucher proposals undermine our commitment to open-access education. For the poorest students, the vouchers do not provide enough to help them cover costs. Additionally, private schools get to pick and choose whom to educate, which puts our vulnerable students at risk, particularly if they are disabled. The bill is wrong-headed in the extreme and not what Texas needs. Please stop the madness you are inflicting on the hard-working people of our state, particularly in rural areas that are not helped by having schools be gutted to help city-people go to private schools.

Yadi Landaverde, Teacher and Parent

AISD

Buda, TX

I oppose the bill. I do not want school vouchers.

Jessica Wood

Self

San Antonio, TX

School vouchers will put tuition money in the pockets of parents who can already pay for private education for their children. Fund public education! Fund public schools. My tax dollars should be going to public schools, not private schools. It's a parent's choice if they want their children indoctrinated with your Christian nationalist rhetoric. They can spend their own money on that, not mine. Vote no for this ridiculous voucher scam!

Andrea Ramos, PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER

Public schools

Austin, TX

No to school vouchers

Jo Ann Danielson, Mrs

Self

Round Rock, TX

I am opposed to HB 3. I'm a Republican primary voter and I do hold a grudge.

Jennifer Espey
Spring Branch ISD Parent & Community Advocate
Houston, TX

Dear Chairman Buckley, Vice Chairman Bernal and committee members,
My name is Jennifer Espey, I'm the mom of three Spring Branch ISD graduates and the wife of one too. I'm also a co-chair of SBISD's School Finance Advocacy Team (SFAT). I'm writing to voice my opposition to House Bill 3. When Chairman Buckley visited SBISD in September, meeting with Superintendent Jennifer Blaine, her senior staff, school board members and the School Finance Advocacy co-chairs he told us to be "FOR" something as we advocated this legislative session.
I am FOR public school education. Our Founding Fathers had it right when they advocated for the creation of a public school system before we even had a Constitution. Public schools build strong neighborhoods and community, and give EVERYONE the right to a free, quality education. What troubles me immensely is the pro-voucher narrative that paints Texas public schools as "failing". We all get lumped together – and it is extremely disingenuous and downright wrong to paint us all with the same brush. The truth is there are many districts getting it right with strong leadership, targeted solutions, and more funding. Spring Branch ISD has achieved the strongest academic results in decades on the local, state and national levels – thanks to ESSER funds which the district used to provide instructional specialists to work with teachers and students. Texas schools have been chronically underfunded for years now. A recent Rice University Kinder Institute Report found that 73% of Texas schools are underfunded and 17% are severely underfunded. SBISD is one of the 17%. Thank goodness for those ESSER dollars. But those are gone now. And, now, with federal dollars in the crosshairs, our schools funding crisis is even more dire. What troubles me even more is "Why are vouchers being touted as the solution to "failing" schools?" What data is there that proves vouchers are the answer? And what problem are we really trying to solve? Any funds used for vouchers are public tax dollars and should have the same accountability and requirements public schools have for services required. Throwing money at a problem that will cost taxpayers more and more each legislative session with no real accountability or transparency to track success is not the solution. And, a voucher student should not be worth more than a public school student. They are all our children. Now is the time to stop starving our public schools and portraying them as failures. Our public schools should be the pride of Texas. Ranking #44 in per student funding is shameful in a state with one of the biggest economies in the world. We must prioritize our state's public school children first and foremost. WE can fix public schools together -- lean on the districts that are getting it right -- like SBISD. You have the power to be true champions of public education - say no to vouchers and yes to funding our public schools fully and fairly. Thank you for your time and consideration.

TINA ZAMAN
Self
Plano, TX

I do not support the school voucher system. I do not want my tax dollars to go toward paying for private education.

Sarah Holdgrafer, MRS
self, technical writer
Manchaca, TX

NO!!! I oppose diverting public funds to private schools! I am a Texas voter and I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates, not divert funds to unaccountable private and religious schools. I know that virtually every other state that has created a voucher system with the limited guardrails you are proposing has seen a decimation of their public school systems and increasing burden to their state budgets. We don't want any of that here in Texas. Please fund our public schools and don't pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Kristi Goodson, Dr.
Self, Pediatrician (physician)
Celina, TX

Please vote against HB3. My children attend public school in Celina ISD and this bill would divert crucial funds away from our rapidly growing school district. Our public schools need a crucial increase in funding to provide quality education for all students. HB3 also sends taxpayer support to high earners, not targeting low income families as advertised. There is also no oversight to these private school options to require additional services that children may need (IEP, 504 plans) and can turn these students away in favor of children who do not require these services. I would like to remind the house that parents already have the right to send their children to private school if desired. This is not about school. This is about diverting taxpayer money to private schools, instead of increasing funding to our public schools that need it. Please vote AGAINST HB3.

Jeff Hobbs
Self
Austin, TX

Force
Inc parents that can't pay to self educate say their 12 kids at home in a small house will destroy and leadership US could hope to continue in STEM. The number of nuclear physicists to drop to near zero. I am a physicist a parent with a high school education has zero chance to result in a nuclear physicist son or daughter. And what about the other 11 kids?

Meghen Hiller, Mrs self, bookkeeper
Austin, TX

As a parent with multiple children in Texas public schools, I urge you to vote against this bill. The proposed bill presents serious concerns for education funding, equity, and community cohesion. It would strain already limited resources for both rural and urban schools by enabling student departures without addressing the fixed costs these institutions must maintain regardless of enrollment numbers.

The exemption of charter schools from standardized testing requirements like the STAAR exam creates an uneven playing field. When different institutions operate under different accountability standards, we cannot make fair comparisons or ensure consistent quality across all educational options.

This bill essentially provides a subsidy that fragments our educational community. Rather than bringing parents together across income levels to work toward better schools for all children, it enables withdrawal from the shared project of public education. Most troublingly, data from neighboring states like Louisiana demonstrates that similar charter school initiatives have not delivered improved educational outcomes. On average, charter schools perform worse than their public counterparts despite operating with different rules and standards.

I urge you to vote against this bill. Our focus should be on strengthening public education through evidence-based improvements that benefit all students rather than diverting resources to alternatives without proven success. We need solutions that unite our communities in supporting education rather than fracturing them.????????????????

Oralia Hernandez
Self, Physician Associate
San Antonio, TX

Vote NO to school vouchers. This bill will take money away from the public school system that my children and many other Texas children need. Children who attend private school do so out of choice so their parents should cover this cost not myself or other Texans. VOTE NO to school vouchers!!

Maureen Orth
Self
Sugar Land, TX

Please do not pass the ESA program! This will not benefit ALL Texas students but a small minority. Please use our taxpayer money to make our public schools better for the majority of our children!

Beverly Moore
Self/Retired
San Angelo, TX

Vouchers are going to hurt middle class and low income students. Funds going to private schools will have a negative affects on public education which is already struggling due to lack of funding. Public schools are having to cut programs and close schools. Fund our public schools not private schools. NO to VOUCHERS!

Madyson Russell
self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB3. Defunding public schools through the implementation of the school choice/voucher program will only hurt our state and the people who live here.

Meredith Reid
Self
Houston, TX

I oppose HB 3. Keep public dollars in public schools so all children have access to a quality education and equal opportunity to succeed.

Cindy Moon
Me and my family
Fort Worth, TX

As an advocate for public schools, I strongly urge you to oppose school vouchers, which would divert taxpayer dollars from public education to private institutions, ultimately harming Texas' most vulnerable students and communities. Public schools serve the vast majority of Texas children, including those in rural and lower-income areas where private school options are scarce or nonexistent. Though I live in Fort Worth, I grew up in Granbury, where there are limited public school choices. Families in communities like mine rely on strong public schools as their only viable option, and taking funds away from these institutions will only widen the opportunity gap, making it even harder for students to succeed.

Vouchers do not increase educational opportunities for all students—they primarily benefit wealthier families who can already afford private school tuition. The proposed system would funnel public money to private and religious schools that are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. These schools can deny admission based on academic ability, disabilities, disciplinary history, or other factors, leaving behind the students who need the most support. Instead of improving education overall, vouchers would exacerbate existing inequalities by favoring families who already have advantages while leaving the majority of Texas children with fewer resources and less support.

Additionally, school vouchers would weaken the Teacher Retirement System (TRS), which relies on a steady number of public school employees contributing to the system. With fewer teachers working in public schools, fewer contributions will be made to TRS, threatening the long-term financial security of our educators. My sister dedicated more than 20 years to teaching in Texas public schools, and yet she can barely make ends meet on her meager retirement. This is unacceptable. If we want to attract and retain quality educators, we must strengthen their benefits, not erode them by diverting funds elsewhere.

Public education is a fundamental pillar of our society and economy. Strong public schools benefit everyone, not just those with children enrolled. They increase property values, contribute to workforce development, and help create a well-educated citizenry that drives economic growth. Instead of pushing policies that undermine our public school system, Texas leaders should focus on fully funding education, reducing class sizes, increasing teacher pay, and ensuring all students—regardless of their background—have access to the high-quality education they deserve.

I urge you to reject school vouchers and instead support policies that strengthen public education for all Texas children. Our students, teachers, and communities deserve better.

MONIQUE Carreon

Self

AUSTIN, TX

Vote no! No negotiation here. The citizens do not want this!

Jordan Preddy

Self- attorney

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill, and I do not want school vouchers. I want fully funded public schools.

Amanda Bishop

Self

Pflugerville, TX

Keep public dollars in public schools! The rich do not need a handout. If they want public money for schools, send their child to a public school.

Invest more money (surplus tax dollars) in public schools, make them better than the 29th place they were ranked in 2024. You can't do this by taking money out of the system.

Jeremy Palafox

Self

Austin, TX

VOTE NO on HB 3

Jill Eastwood

Self

HOUSTON, TX

I strongly oppose any bill that supports any sort of public money going to private schools. I don't care what you call it, it's a voucher scam. Stop killing public education! Fully fund public education! You can't fund public education and provide millionaires with private school funds.

Sarah Wolfe

self

Lockhart, TX

This bill is a scam led by republicans to defund public schools and funnel taxpayer money directly into the hands of elitist private and charter schools with zero accountability or transparency.

Mary Carrell

N/a

Houston, TX

I am a mom of two who grew up in public school and had my children in public school up until 2022. We left public school because 1) my oldest transferred to a dual credit charter high school that provides an independent learning environment and 2) my youngest was one of the many children who suffered from the school shut downs in 2020-21. Her school diagnosed her with dyslexia and wanted to put her in special ed. While we do believe she has some dyslexia, a large contributor to her being behind on reading was because of the shutdowns. She now attends a small & affordable private school in the NAUMS organization. This is a hybrid school (both at home and in a small classroom setting) that also teaches independent learning. She is wrapping up her second year and is thriving!

We made sacrifices as a family to seek out these opportunities for our daughters. Public school has failed students due to overspending on bulky administration, abandoning basic education, and choosing funding over student/teacher success and safety.

My husband and I both work in real estate. From 2021-2023, we saw an influx of teachers quitting and switching over to jobs in our field. It felt like animals seeking shelter before a storm - the teachers knew first hand how bad it was getting and going to get.

While I do believe this bill and topic is complex - and trust me, I'm not a fan of government getting involved with private schools - barring any interference or influence from legislators outside of normal law, I am for a change.

Opponents of this bill claim it will only serve the rich - no, it will significantly help families like mine who live a modest life but want better opportunities for our children. I believe this will create more educational opportunities for children and hopefully increase the number of schools to choose from.

We transitioned

Megan Ruf

Self

Robinson, TX

I am a firm believer in school choice which we already have in this country. We have the choice to send our children to public or private school already. However I do not feel that providing state or federal funding to a parent sending a student to a school that has 0 oversight or expectations from the state or federal government is okay. Even with a voucher most students (except those that are wealthy) can't afford a private school. All we are doing is lining the pockets of a select few rather than spending the money to raise teacher pay or give more to the schools to use on students. I also feel that our governor has a pretty significant conflict of interest in this bill considering his wife seeks to benefit from this voucher as a private school employee.

Kelly Savedra

Myself

Austin, TX

I oppose HB3 and propose instead we fund public schools. Both my children are a part of the special education system, which no private school will adhere to. This bill is meant to privatize education so that rich donors to our governor can become richer. Save our schools, vote against HB3. Thank you for your time.

Molly Pratt

Self

Austin, TX

We agree that parent's should have a choice in how their child is educated. But 80,000 children out of 5.84 million is not choice, it's chance.

A 500% FPL limit on a subsidized education program--the education savings accounts--vs. a 200% FPL limit on a subsidized health insurance program--Medicaid-- doesn't equate.

Supporting parental choice when it comes to how they educate their child--public, private, or homeschooling--vs. not supporting parental choice when it comes to healthcare options for their child--equitable access to insurance, gender affirming care--doesn't equate.

I find this law as written and discussed today to be discriminatory and classist. A lot of intentionality and care went into establishing our public education and healthcare systems. It seems to me the option of greatest impact would be to allocate state funds to our public education and healthcare systems.

Pam Sohan

Self

New Braunfels, TX

Educational savings accounts or vouchers, take money away from public schools. Texas is already ranked at or near the bottom in public school funding. Private schools do not have to take every student that wishes to attend, which penalizes children with disabilities, children that don't speak English as their first language, children from different ethnic, racial and religious backgrounds. Vouchers put more money in the system which quite often leads to private schools raising their tuitions, which makes it harder for middle to low income students to attend. Don't defund public schools, the Texas constitution, specifically in Article VII, mandates the state legislature to establish AND SUPPORT a system of public free schools!!!! Vouchers will further enlarge the education gap between rich and the not rich. Private schools rarely provide transportation for students attending them. Which means a parent has to be available before and after school to transport that student. This puts an undue burden on those families where both parents work. Yet another barrier to attendance. Vouchers are not the end all and be all solution to failing public schools. There is money to help public schools, but it's being held up for political reasons. Rural schools will be further hurt by this program as their is rarely a private school nearby. This bill will deepen the educational gap between rich and not so rich, limiting opportunities for students as they move from elementary, to high school and college.

Martha Crownover

Self

Cypress, TX

Do not pass this voucher as it only serves to defund public education. We need more funding not less.

Mandy Gegoux

Self

Leander, TX

As a proud native Texan, I value the role public schools play in shaping our future. I oppose private school subsidies, also known as vouchers or education savings accounts. I believe private school subsidies are wasteful, deceitful, inefficient, and unfair.

Public school dollars should go only to public schools. Public schools in Texas are underfunded by billions of dollars every year. The Comptroller is projecting a large increase in state revenue over the next two years compared to the past two years, and that money should go to fully funding public education.

Private schools pick and choose which students to admit. Vouchers force taxpayers to subsidize private schools' preferences. And without elected boards or state oversight, vouchers give away tax dollars with no financial or academic accountability.

Public schools educate more than 90 percent of Texas students, serving all the students in their boundaries. They build the workforce that powers the Texas economy. We can't afford to underwrite a few special choices at the expense of our collective future.

We elect legislators to represent the interests of their communities. Responding to their communities, Texas legislators have rejected private school subsidies time after time.

In the face of increasing pressure from special interests, I pledge that I will stand with my legislators in opposing vouchers. When they vote against private school subsidies, I will make sure all their constituents know they did the right thing.

Sandra Soria

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Vouchers are killing public schools—an educated electorate is necessary to our form of government . Please vote NO.

Elizabeth Armstrong

self

Carrollton, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution. I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program.

Mary Menzel

Women for Democracy

Austin, TX

Public schools must be fully funded with pay raises for all staff not administrative. We owe all children of Texas the very best education without religious indoctrination! We are not a theocracy!

Allison Shurr

self, program administrator

Austin, TX

I am a constituent and am urging you to vote NO on HB3. I have two children attending an incredible public school that is making do despite struggling with funding, as many of our public schools are. Every child deserves the right to a quality public education, and our schools must be fully funded and equipped to help all students succeed. Public funding should directly support public education, benefiting every Texas child who enrolls in public school.

Public funds should not be diverted to exclusive programs that are not available in many communities, do not have to serve children with disabilities and higher levels of need, and are financially out of reach and inaccessible, even with a voucher, for a significant number of Texas families.

Public schools rely on adequate funding to effectively serve ALL students. Texas communities, especially in rural areas, often rely solely on public schools, which cannot afford further funding cuts.

I urge lawmakers to firmly oppose any policies that threaten the stability and quality of public education by redirecting funds away from public schools. Please consider the diversity of communities around the state, many of which will not benefit from this voucher initiative as they do not have access to private schools. Please do what is best for our children and communities statewide, and support equitable funding for all by focusing funding on public education.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Webb Murphy

Self. Teacher

San Saba, TX

I am against this.

Raquel Helton

Self/teacher

Waxahachie, TX

“Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas Constitution

Ashley Barr

Self

San Antonio, TX

Please vote NO on HB3. If Texas wants to improve public education, we must continue to invest in public schools in rural and low income areas. We will not do this by siphoning off funds from public education to private. No matter what Governor Abbott says, money will obviously have to come from somewhere and it is disingenuous to assert that public schools will not suffer as a result of this plan. I am thankful for the public education I received in Texas and am concerned about the plans to use tax dollars to fund private education. We need to focus on the public good of educating all Texas children and we can do that by investing in public school infrastructure and public school teachers. Please support public schools, public school teachers, and public education in Texas--we cannot succeed without it.

Idona Griffith

self

Austin, TX

Two years ago ESA's were defeated decisively by a bi-partisan vote of this Legislative Body. Yet here we are again. Some contend that Texans want "ESA's" or School Vouchers. Others believe that the majority of Texans do not want their tax dollars to be funneled away from public schools and into private schools. Perhaps rather than continue this back and forth debate ad nauseum, we should simply ASK the voters. Put this on the ballot in November and let's find out what the majority of Texans want. LET THE PEOPLE VOTE!

Amanda Sharp

Self- homemaker

Hutto, TX

School vouchers are an absolute scam and just another way to increase the gap between those who have, and those who have not. On top of that, does conflict of interest just not exist? The governor's wife just started a private school that will absolutely benefit from school vouchers... I can't believe that much corruption is actually ok. As someone with kids in public school but can afford to put my kids in private school I think it's disgusting that billions of dollars went into making sure this bill passes. Those billions of dollars could have been put into the very schools they seek to do out of funding. Private schools should be made to accept all students if this passes. I'm sickened and furious at that state of our State education system and values.

Laura Keating

Self

Austin, TX

I called numerous congressmen last week begging them to vote against this bill and I'm here doing the same. This is not useful for everyone. Please, don't do this.

Crystal Romanelli

Self - teacher

Cypress, TX

Please support public ed and NO to vouchers. Parents already have choice and this has hurt the already struggling teacher shortage.

Melissa Konur

Self

Fort Worth, TX

As a parent of 2 public school students, I strongly encourage you to vote no to school vouchers.

The state has undercut state funding and not adequately funded public schools for many years now despite resources. This has put a tremendous strain on our public schools.

All tax dollars and public funds should be directed to public schools, not private schools. We should not be subsidizing a personal choice or private schools which accept tuition. Not all students even have access to an option without significant distance and sacrifice. This option only undermines the public schools that are already in our neighborhoods, towns and cities.

This is about social equity. Not everyone can even make this choice and until the public schools are funded sufficiently with public dollars on a per student ratio this should not even be a question being discussed.

Say no to vouchers for private schools. Say yes to adequately funding our public schools who provide a solid education for all Texas children. Do not continue to line the pockets of those who do not need money in exchange for out of state political contributions to your political campaigns.

Do the right thing for all of Texas. Support your public schools.

Sincerely, Melissa Konur

Kellie Fontenot

Public school

Brenham, TX

I am the director of special services for a small school district in Texas. As the cost of services, such as therapies, wheelchairs, equipment, assistive technology, etc. has steadily increased, the funding school districts receive per student has not increased. I believe in school choice and students have that already. If they are not happy in the school that they are at they have the option to move to a private school. But that is their choice thus they should take care of the payments for that private school. Giving a private school student $10,000 when that is not nearly comparable to what a public school student gets is an atrocity. This bill is basically saying that Texas teachers are not good enough. This is disrespectful to the many teachers that I work with daily. These teachers go out of their way for their students, knowing that they probably will not get a pay raise this year or the next year. It's not about the money for most teachers, it's about helping students. This bill is definitely not for students nor is it to support teachers. I already know several of my representatives and the current governor will not be receiving my vote during the next election. All due to this bill.

Donna Price

Mothers for Democracy

San Antonio, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

I respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 I support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Janetta Alspaugh

Self

Lewisville, TX

I do not like the idea or plan of “education saving accounts” they weaken our great institution of educating all of our citizens!
Free public education must be supported and not sold!

Ronda Fenn

self

Houston, TX

Please stand with Texas families.

Cedric Synnestvedt

self

Austin, TX

I respectfully do not endorse the school vouchers program. Our public schools are vital institutions that help make a better society in general, and they are already sadly under-funded. Even in a wealthy city like Austin, teachers are having to ask for donations, are not receiving competitive raises, and classroom sizes tend to exceed resources. Instead of funneling even more money away from our public schools, why not fund them and make them better? Why should my tax money go to fund schools my children are unlikely to be able to attend? Shifting the money elsewhere, putting it into private hands and interests with little oversight is not going to solve the most problems for the most people. I can only see the voucher programs as a way of benefitting already-privileged communities.

lueng tcheung

self/physician

austin, TX

Please do not pass this, I do not want my tax dollars used for private school tuition.

Karen Fernbach

Self

Bellaire, TX

No to vouchers it is a entitlement program for the wealthy

Imelda Harris

Self

Saginaw, TX

I am against this HB3 voucher system. This bill will defund our public schools in some of the smaller communities and all Texas children have the right to receive an education from the state. Gov. Abbott should release some of the funds that are currently being withheld. with the surplus that Texas has our education system should be in the top percentile not in the bottom. Education is important to the companies that have been relocating to Texas.

Monica Jones

self

Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to Texas House Bill 3 (HB3) and any school voucher program that diverts public tax dollars away from our public schools to fund private education. Public tax dollars should remain in public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas children, provide accountability to taxpayers, and are essential to our communities.

School vouchers are nothing more than a privatization scheme that weakens public education, disproportionately harms rural communities, and lacks the oversight necessary to ensure responsible use of taxpayer funds. Unlike public schools, private institutions that receive voucher funds are not required to accept all students, follow state curriculum standards, or provide transparency in how funds are spent. This creates a two-tiered education system in which public schools are left underfunded while private schools can pick and choose students based on income, ability, or other factors.

Public schools are the backbone of our state, ensuring every child—regardless of ZIP code, economic status, or special needs—receives an education. Rather than diverting critical funds to private entities, Texas lawmakers should focus on fully funding public schools, raising teacher pay, addressing school infrastructure needs, and ensuring all students have access to quality resources.

The claim that school vouchers provide “choice” is misleading. In reality, it is private schools that do the choosing, not parents. Vouchers do not cover the full cost of tuition at many private schools, making them inaccessible to lower-income families. Instead of empowering parents, vouchers shift public money to private schools that lack accountability and fail to serve all students equitably.

Texans overwhelmingly support strong public schools, and our leaders should respect the will of the people by rejecting HB3 and any effort to undermine public education. Our focus must remain on strengthening and fully funding our public schools, not on subsidizing private institutions at the expense of the majority of Texas families.

I urge you to oppose HB3 and any school voucher program and instead invest in Texas public schools, ensuring that every child receives a quality education in a system that is transparent, accountable, and truly serves all students.

Elisa Goldstein

Self

Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Brittany Owens
self - educator
Cedar Park, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 3 by Buckley, which I believe will have a detrimental impact on public education in our state. As an educator with experience in both public and private schools, I have firsthand knowledge of the challenges and differences between these systems. This bill threatens to deepen existing disparities.

Public schools serve all students, regardless of socioeconomic status, learning ability, or background. They operate under strict regulations to ensure quality education, equity, and inclusivity. Private schools, however, are not bound by the same requirements, including standardized testing, special education services, and non-discriminatory enrollment policies. By shifting state resources toward private institutions, we risk undermining the foundation of public education and leaving countless students without adequate support and opportunities.

While this bill does not directly take money from the education budget, it will indirectly reduce funds available for public schools, making it difficult to support students and maintain programs like the Teacher Retirement System (TRS). If vouchers are implemented, their value should not exceed the basic allotment provided by the state for public school students.

Evidence from other states shows that voucher programs have not successfully improved educational opportunities for all students. Instead, they often serve as subsidies for families already choosing private education. Many rural areas lack private school options, and even with vouchers, private education may remain cost-prohibitive due to additional fees and requirements.

I have personally witnessed a private school denying entrance to a special education student due to lack of resources and inability to pass the entrance exam. Other barriers, such as transportation, academic performance, attendance, and behavior requirements, may further limit access for many students.

If the goal is to offer school choice to underserved families, the majority of vouchers should be allocated to those receiving free/reduced lunches or free public pre-K, rather than including families with incomes over $100,000.

In Texas, parents already have various educational choices. While ESAs may not immediately impact public school budgets, they risk exacerbating the funding crisis in public education without addressing core issues. This approach fails to provide necessary support to our students and teachers.

Instead of creating ESAs, I urge you to consider:

- Increasing the basic allotment for each public school child
- Enhancing funding for special education students
- Providing more support for teachers

These measures would more effectively address the challenges facing our public education system and benefit all students.

Thank you for your consideration of these critical issues.

Sincerely,
Brittany Owens

Emily Kress
Self
Spring, TX

Fund public schools. Do not DEFUND them! We DO NOT want school choice!

Jennifer Simoneaux
Self
Conroe, TX

I homeschool and am opposed to this bill.

Karol Espinoza
Retired public elementary school teacher
Highland Vlg, TX

I'm asking that the school voucher program NOT be passed. This is so very unfair & detrimental to public education. Please DO NOT support school vouchers!

Karen Galloway
Self/dental hygienist
Spring Branch, TX

I drive 4 hours a day and live paycheck to paycheck to take my daughter to Austin Waldorf school. The vouchers would help my lower middle class family and would take the worry away of how we are going to pay for our second child to go to private school too.

Nancy Latner, Ms.
Self
DALLAS, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB3 and any bill that provides money for homeschooling or private schools. Millions of children depend on public schools. Any money diverted to homeschooling or private schools will weaken our public schools. Additional funds should be given to public schools to improve them. Private schools are never going to admit thousands of children who require special education, nor who have poor grades. It is very misleading to say this bill will provide free choice to parents. This bill only helps the wealthy who already have their kids in private schools and home schools that have no educational oversight. Public taxpayer money should never be used for anything other than public schools. Please vote against this bill.

Shingi Tichagwa
Self
PROSPER, TX

I'm against HB 3, against vouchers, and i (2/3) want our public schools fully funded. Pass it on. (3/3)

Lyndsay Brooks, Dr.
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose school vouchers for Texans. Not only does voucher money take away important funding from our public schools, but it weakens our communities, neighborhoods, and children's safety and futures. We should all be invested in the education of our society's children, whether we have children or not, and whether our children go to public or private schools. This is the same as our need to use our tax dollars for roads, community centers, parks, and libraries, whether we use them ourselves or not. I am strongly opposed to any voucher bills and urge our leaders to vote against any bills that would take away funding from our public schools.

Melissa DeGraff
Self, mother of three public school students
Pflugerville, TX

Public dollars belong in public schools. The people of Texas do not want vouchers. Listen to your constituents, not billionaires!

Nancy Morin-Bernal, Ms.
Self
Austin, TX

Completely against

Amy Merritt
Self/teacher
College Station, TX

As a teacher, we DO NOT the vouchers program in Texas! You are doing a disservice to the thousands of children that will be left in public schools without proper funding! You are essentially padding the pockets of people that can already afford to send their children to private school! Think long and hard about how you vote because you will be voted out next time the election comes around!

Anne McCausland, Mrs
Self
Frisco, TX

I am respectfully asking the House Education Committee members to not advance HB 3 out of committee. I am opposed to HB 3 for the following reasons:

- 1) Studies show vouchers do not equate to improved academic outcomes.
- 2) HB 3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas families already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity with public money.
- 3) Public money means public accountability. Any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing, and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4) Texans should decide! Vouchers would use public dollars for private education—Texans deserve a voice in this decision. Put school choice on a statewide ballot and let the people vote!

alessandra beavers
self - attorney
Austin, TX

I'm an Austin resident with one child in private school and one in AISD. I am strongly against HB3 or any other programs that divert public tax dollars to private schools.

Texas has rejected vouchers before but the issue keeps being revived by the governor & lieutenant governor in an attempt to score political points, not to help the people of Texas. Vouchers are still the wrong choice for Texas communities because they would undermine public education without benefiting underprivileged students. Instead, they will primarily benefit families like ours who can already afford private school - the amount of money provided through the vouchers will not cover most private school tuition - meaning most underprivileged families still won't be able to pay for private school but families like ours will be subsidized on the backs of taxpayers. Since more than 60% of Texas students are from economically disadvantaged families, taxpayer funds should be used to benefit the larger public, not those of us privileged enough to be able to afford private school regardless of vouchers.

Further, private schools aren't held to the same accountability and assessment standards and don't have to operate under the same financial reporting requirements, open records laws, special education rules, student safety rules or curriculum requirements. Giving public money to such schools without requiring them to meet the same standards as public schools is nonsensical.

We should consider the evidence from other states, which shows that vouchers do not improve student outcomes, and instead of diverting money to fund unaccountable private school systems, the legislature should properly and fully invest in our public schools.

Vouchers are not fiscally responsible and are the wrong choice for Texas students and families and the overall public.

Hallie LaPell
Homeschool Families
Spring, TX

We are a homeschooling family and I oppose this bill.

Brianna Mcdonough
Self
Austin, TX

VOTE NO on HB3

Prairie Parnell
Self, instructor
Springtown, TX

No. No. This bill does not represent me and my family in any way and it will further the class divide between folks.

Betty Owens
self; retired attorney and former teacher
Houston, TX

I am adamantly opposed to school vouchers requiring public money to pay for private schooling. Abbott and other voucher supporters cry "school choice," but the reality is that only families that can already afford most of private school tuition, and who live in one of the minority of Texas counties with any private schools, would benefit. Public schools are for the benefit of the public. We have no children, but we recognize the importance of an educated population and happily support public schools. Do not use our tax dollars for a small number of families. Increase funding for public schools instead.

Martha Coleman self, music teacher
Austin, TX

I OPPOSE HB 3. This bill will leave many under-served families behind, as the money used for school vouchers lacks transparency on how it will actually be used.

Christine Owen
Retired
Fairview, TX

No vouchers. Fund education for ALL students equally.

Patricia Glowacki, Ms.

None

Austin, TX

Please vote no to vouchers/ESAs. Unfortunately, they will not provide real choice for low income children. The amount allotted will not help enough for those most in need to pay private school tuition. In addition to tuition, books, uniforms, transportation, and availability still provide hurdles. Many private schools will not accept children with special educational needs. Our tax dollars can be better used to provide quality public education for all children.

As a retired teacher, I have seen first hand the effects to education when financing does not keep up with inflation. Teachers are left to do more with less.

I grew up in a low to middle income family. My father joined the military at 17 and did not finish high school. He taught me the value of education. With 3 children, my parents - even with an ESA - would not have been able to swing private education. Besides tuition, my family had one car for most of my childhood. Providing transportation to school would have been a big deterrent. For many families private schools are too distant from their home and transportation options too limited. It was a quality public education with teachers who supported and encouraged me to pursue college that eventually lead to me to complete a master's degree in education. Without the public schools providing community and support, my family and I would have had a difficult time navigating the college application process. Thankfully, a scholarship used at a state school paid for my undergraduate program. Public schools should be the great equalizers that provide the foundation for all children to pursue a better life. Draining money to support private schools is not the way to make this happen.

I proudly taught in Texas schools for 20 years. The voucher/esa program could drain teachers from public schools and place a burden on the Teacher Retirement System. This is a problem we do not need to create.

Please vote no to vouchers/ESAs. Let's put our time, care, and tax dollars into public education!

Terri Johnson

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I am AGAINST vouchers and for fully funded, high quality, public education.

It's bad for the Texas taxpayer, bad for public educators, and bad for the kids in our public school classrooms.

Terri Johnson

Suzanna Finnegan Guyton

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. I do not want school vouchers

Valerie Momii

Self

Buda, TX

I completely do not support this!

Elissa Batzer

Self

Cypress, TX

Please vote no on school vouchers. Please fully fund our public schools.

Camille Mami, Dr

Parent

Austin, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Alexandra Checka, Ms.

Self, Texas Public School Teacher

Fort Worth, TX

I beg you to vote against this disastrous bill. It is a grave disservice to my Fort Worth students, and the impacts will be many times worse in rural communities. I am proud to have taught thousands of kids and to have been the teacher of the year of Fort Worth ISD. I bring my whole heart and soul into my classroom and I am fully committed to the success of my students. The kids bring their best every day, and their parents are fully invested in their learning. I am begging for you, the lawmakers elected to be responsible for the education kids in Texas, to be brave and stand for what you know is right. We, the voters, will stand by you and remember who stood against this wildly, wildly, unpopular bill. We will also remember who caved at this crucial moment and vote accordingly. My students deserve better than the widespread closures and uncertainty that have plagued us despite the state's surplus of billions. I thank you for your courage.

David Kossey

Self and over 760 school districts who will have increased losses if this bill passes.

Stinnett, TX

Honorable Committee Members,

Imagine the heart of your districts—kids laughing in hallways, teachers shaping futures, schools binding communities. Now picture that fading away. Rep. Gary VanDeaver of New Boston knows this fear, saying, “In my district, public school is the community.” His rural House District 1, where New Boston ISD faces a $1.2 million deficit, can’t lose more—not when there’s no private school to flee to. Vouchers would rip funds from these kids, leaving empty desks and broken dreams.

Rep. Terry Wilson, in Marble Falls, your House District 20’s Marble Falls ISD is $2.8 million underwater. Parents there plead for books, not budget cuts. Rep. Matt Shaheen, Plano’s kids in House District 66 see Plano ISD slashing $29 million—teachers let go, classrooms packed. Rep. Tony Tinderholt, Arlington’s House District 94, where Arlington ISD braces for a $40 million hole, families dread losing what holds their neighborhood together. Rep. Joanne Shofner, Conroe’s House District 11, Conroe ISD’s $32 million deficit already stings—vouchers would be a gut punch to kids who’ve got nowhere else to turn.

These aren’t numbers; they’re our children—your constituents—watching their schools crumble. Vouchers don’t save them; they save the wealthy who don’t need help, draining funds to private schools miles away. Florida’s voucher mess cut public school funding 12% while private spending ballooned 313%. Texas, scraping by at the bottom of per-student spending, can’t survive that betrayal.

VanDeaver’s words burn true: “I’m philosophically against vouchers.” In rural New Boston, schools are lifelines—jobs for locals, hope for kids. Vouchers offer nothing there, just a slower death for what’s left. In Plano, Arlington, Conroe, Marble Falls, it’s the same heartbreak—schools you’ve fought for, now bleeding out. Private schools dodge rules your public schools live by; Arizona’s voucher cash bought jet skis while kids went without. And the results? Louisiana’s voucher kids fell behind—test scores crashed. Is that the future you want for your districts?

Think of the faces in your towns—the little girl in Plano dreaming of college, the boy in Arlington counting on his coach, the family in Conroe praying their school stays open. Vouchers steal their shot at a fair fight, handing it to those already ahead. You’ve stood for your people before; don’t let this policy break their trust.

In 2023, 21 Republicans said no to vouchers, 84-63, because they saw the cost: not just dollars, but futures. With $18 billion in surplus, you can save these schools—hire teachers, fill classrooms with hope—not watch them fade. Don’t let your kids down. Stand with VanDeaver’s heart and vote no on vouchers. Keep our communities alive.

This is Texas, we don’t need New York influence in our schools—fancy voucher schemes cooked up by outsiders who don’t know our grit. We don’t abandon our own for some elite experiment.

David Kossey

Amanda Soisson

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose the use of public funds for private schools. Public money should be only for public schools.

Phyllis Geris

Retired teacher

League City, TX

Fully funded public education is the foundation for every future endeavor our children seek.

Lesli Blevins, Mrs

Myself

Cypress, TX

I was a public school teacher for 12 years. My husband is also a public school teacher. We have 2 boys in public school. We are AGAINST vouchers. Vouchers are going to encourage segregation and take funding away from already struggling schools! If people want to go to private school, they can pay for it! Public money should go to public schools.

Sherry Donahe

Self

Dickinson, TX

You all know that this is not a good idea. I am very sorry that the governor has put you all in this position and threatened your careers over this mess. Vouchers are not the answer. Fully fund our schools. Back in the day when the lottery was approved, we were told that all the money would go to our schools. But no, that money was taken from Our schools and put elsewhere. Fund our schools stop this voucher nonsense.

Ryan Olson

Self, software engineer

Breathing, TX

Please vote no. This is a clear theft of my tax dollars

Jenna Smith

Children of the State of Texas

Austin, TX

Please do not defund public schools to instead fund private schools. School vouchers will take tax payer money and allocate it to private schools. I DO NOT wish for my tax dollars to fund private, non-transparent education systems.

Anna Lindsey, Mrs.

Self, Adjunct Professor

The Hills, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Voucher programs have ruined public education in states that have implemented them. There is not ONE successful example of a voucher program, yet we are still talking about it. Don't give coupons to the rich with our taxpayer money. Put our public funds back into public schools and ensure ALL Texans have the right to be educated, for free, by certified teachers in regulated public schools.

Kyle Blackwell

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Private school vouchers are a further redistribution of wealth from Texans. If you really want to help kids, RAISE the investment in public education.

Brandi Morley

Bryan ISD

Bryan, TX

The basic allotment for students in public schools has not increased since 2019. Public tax dollars should fund - fully fund - public schools. Parents already have a choice to send their children to private schools. I oppose HB 3! Let Texans vote!!

Yolanda Garza

Self

Weslaco, TX

Please vote yes for this bill

Joshua Wright

Self

Hawkins, TX

I write to oppose this bill on several grounds. It will harm rural schools and students with special needs. The track record of states that have implemented similar bills have been overwhelmingly negative. Public schools serve all. The lack of oversight is astonishing.

Jazzmine Rosales

Self, Communications Assistant

San Antonio, TX

Vouchers will most benefit families who can already afford private education while taking funds from desperately underfunded public schools. I ask you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

APRIL CALDERON, Dr.

Self

Austin, TX

I am a parent of 3 children that attend highland park elementary. I have been pleased with the kind supportive education my kids have received in public schools. I attended a private school from kinder through highschool and have not once thought about sending my kids elsewhere. Public school in Austin is amazing and needs these funds to continue to offer the highest level of education.

Public funds should stay with children in Texas public schools. Period!

Megan Duffy

Self

Trophy club, TX

Please reject this bill. I am an American educator, parent and past PTA president. Our schools have been hurt by our government not fully funding them. It is NOT a solution to divert public funds to private schools, which have no accountability. Furthermore we know this favors higher income families who already have a spot in these private schools. It does NOT favor low income or special needs students, who cannot gain admission to these private schools. Do the right thing for our state, our teachers and ALL our children.

Leah Mandujano

Self/ Teacher

Willis, TX

A less than $300 dollar allotment is not enough for public education. Education is our future. We have to invest in the future. Public schools are vital parts to the local community. I am completely against private education vouchers. There are charter schools that parents can go to that are already funded partly by the state with no elected board members... There is already parent choice, just not at the expense of the tax payer. Fund schools and pay teachers well for staying in education and watch the schools soar to success. FUND PUBLIC EDUCATION AND PAY TEACHERS WELL, including a quality retirement fund. Do not take money from the TRS account to fund 1 year of raises. Most of Texans, RED and BLUE and PURPLE , DO NOT WANT VOUCHERS. If you don't believe us, put it on the ballot!

Dale Hahn

Self - retired educator

San Antonio, TX

In the strongest possible terms, I am OPPOSED to any voucher system removing monies from Texas public schools for use in private schools. Furthermore, Texas public schools need drastically increased funding, now.

Erin Rudd, Mrs

Self, Teacher

Tomball, TX

Vouchers will take money away needed to serve fragile learners for their success and later contributions to society. Please don't do this.

Casey Lampert

Self- business owner

Lubbock, TX

Vote NO for this! Our public schools need their funding!! Private and homeschoolers are outliers. The wealthy can pay to live on their own island. The majority- including those most vulnerable- do not want this!! Listen to your constituents! We do not want this!

Ashly Adcox

Self - Learning Leader

Amarillo, TX

School vouchers are not a great step nor are they wanted by most Texans. They take tax payer dollars and put them in the private industry. Private schools are not regulated, and don't have to accept all children. My child wouldn't be able to benefit from this as a child with disabilities served under an IEP. If you're going to allow this, private schools need to have more regulations to ensure they are serving the needs of all students. Private schools aren't required to teach the TEKS, their teachers don't have to be certified, and they should not be the recipient for tax dollars. In addition other states that have implemented this have seen it is to be a subsidy for the rich, rather than providing opportunity for those who normally wouldn't be able to afford private schools. No harm will come from slowing this down.

Alejos Salazar, Dr.
Self-superintendent of schools
Harlingen, TX

As the superintendent of Lasara ISD, I strongly oppose HB 3 due to its lack of accountability and transparency in how taxpayer dollars would be used. Texas public schools must meet rigorous academic, financial, and operational accountability standards, ensuring that funds are spent effectively and that students are receiving a high-quality education. HB 3 circumvents these safeguards by funneling taxpayer dollars to private institutions that are not subject to the same level of oversight. Public schools are required to administer standardized assessments, report student achievement data, comply with state curriculum requirements, and undergo financial audits. Private schools and other ESA-approved entities, however, are not held to these same standards. Without proper accountability, taxpayer dollars could be spent on low-quality or unregulated educational services that do not guarantee student success.

Moreover, HB 3 creates the potential for misuse and fraud. Other states with ESA-style programs have encountered cases where funds were used for personal expenses, unapproved services, and even fraudulent vendors due to weak oversight. Texas should not risk taxpayer dollars on a system that lacks financial controls and academic accountability.

If the goal is to improve education for Texas students, we must ensure that all schools receiving public funds meet the same high standards. Instead of diverting resources to an unregulated system, Texas should be investing in public schools that serve all children and are held accountable for student success.

For these reasons, I strongly urge you to oppose HB 3 and instead support policies that strengthen public education with transparency, accountability, and student outcomes in mind. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Amy C Hays
Self, teacher
Cypress, TX

I do not support this legislation. It is a terrible decision for the future of Texas.

Jonathon Bejarano
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose H.B. No. 3, which establishes an Education Savings Account (ESA) program. This bill reflects neoliberal policies that prioritize privatization over the public good, diverting funds from underfunded public schools to private institutions. It exacerbates inequality, harming low-income communities and students with disabilities. Public education is a cornerstone of democracy, and we must resist marketizing essential services. Instead of vouchers, fully fund public schools to ensure equitable access for all.

Reject H.B. No. 3 and invest in public education.

Valeria Suarez, SLPA
Self
Uvalde, TX

I oppose

Morgan Murphy
Self - homemaker
Keum, TX

I am a homeschooling parent and I oppose this bill

Brittney Hernandez

Self and public school SLPA

Kyle, TX

I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability

Jennifer Kost, Mrs.

self (stay at home mom, volunteer in schools)

Austin, TX

The Honorable Chairman Buckley and members of the House Public Education Committee,

I am against ESA's. That said, I have read HB 3 in detail & appreciate the efforts that were made to prevent fraud, to prioritize high-need students, to provide minimum standards & some methods of measuring outcomes, & to ensure funding for ESA's doesn't outstrip funding for public education. I have comments on this bill, for your consideration.

1. Index to basic allotment: Change the program payments in Sec. 29.361(a)(1): 85 percent of the basic allotment provided in Chapter 48, Subchapter B, Section 48.051(a)
2. The above change would eliminate the need for the entire Sec. 29.361(c)
3. No roll-over: Change the way remaining ESA funds are handled in Sec. 29.361(f): Any money remaining in a participating child's account 90 days after the end of a fiscal year shall be returned to the comptroller for deposit in the program fund
4. Required assessments should match public schools: Change Sec. 29.358(b)(2)(B): administration of the appropriate assessment instrument required under Subchapter B, Chapter 39
5. Disqualify for-profit schools: Add Sec. 29.358(b)(2)(C) to read: registration with the IRS as a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization
6. Special Education: Provide full compensation from the program fund to public schools/districts for evaluations for special education services, development of IEP's, & any appeals that are requested under Sec. 29.3615(a)-(e)
7. Gifts, Grants, & Donations: Add a subsection to Sec. 29.370 requiring that any funds received from outside sources by any certified educational assistance organization be allocated to the comptroller for deposit in the program fund
8. Modifications to collection and reporting of demographic information under Sec. 29.3715: change (a)(9) to clarify what is meant by "educationally disadvantaged" & add (a)(11) whether the child's family income is at or below 200%, above 200% but below 500%, or at or above 500% of the federal poverty guidelines at the time of their enrollment in the program, (a)(12) whether the child attended public school in the year prior to enrollment in the program, & (a)(13) if the child qualified as an English language learner at the time of enrollment in the program
9. Limit the advertising scope allowed under Sec. 29.3535 to details of the program, & explicitly disallow naming of any providers or vendors
10. Under 29.354(e), why is a certified educational assistance organization not considered to be a provider of consulting services under Chapter 2254, Government Code? It seems like they should be specified as such to limit the possibility of fraud & abuse & to require an open bid process to potentially save the state money on administration.

Thank you for your time and consideration, and for crafting a thoughtful and detailed bill for ESA's.

I still believe ESA's are not right for Texas, especially while public education is underfunded, so I ask that you modify but do not pass this bill.

Frannie Sanchez

Self

Austin, TX

No vouchers. Not now, not ever. Our family supports public schools. I attended public schools and my children do as well. We have had wonderful teachers and met wonderful families. Vouchers are not school choice. Vouchers will privatize a system that is meant to serve all children. Private schools do not serve all children, they prioritize families that can pay huge sums of money. Our family will never be able to afford these private schools and neither will many families in rural districts. Public funds should NEVER be set aside for private companies. Being educated is a human right. It is the role of the government that ensure that every one of our citizens has rights. Every child in Texas requires a fully funded school. This voucher bill will drain money away from public schools. Taking money and resources from public schools denies children their right to a quality education. Our schools are already underfunded. Why would the government pay for a private system of education when they do not have any standards or accountability? The state has been obsessed with accountability and tested our children to death with STAAR testing. Now, we find out that some people are willing to hand over money to private schools. They don't take STAAR and do not have the same restrictions public schools face on a daily basis. This is extremely hypocritical. Do not vote to pass vouchers! Stay strong! The public does not want money siphoned away from our public schools! The general public believes in the basic right to an education! Private schools can do their thing without public funds! No vouchers! Not now, not ever!

Patrick Rosenberg

Self, Teacher

League City, TX

My name is Patrick Rosenberg, and I am a Texas citizen who lives in League City. My wife and I are teachers in neighboring Friendswood ISD, and I would like to express my concerns regarding HB3.

My wife and I are fortunate to live in an area with excellent public schools provided by Clear Creek ISD, and as educators in Friendswood ISD, we get to witness each and every day how important our public schools are to the children we serve. After researching HB3, I have two grave concerns regarding this bill.

First, I am worried that this bill would provide support almost exclusively to higher-income families who already send their children to private schools and provide negligible support to lower-income students. After researching education savings account policies in other states, it appears that in those states, the vast majority of students who capitalized on ESAs were students who were already enrolled in private schools! Even though HB3 claims to provide a large amount of funds to low-income students, "low-income" is defined in such a way in the bill as to potentially include families that make over $150,000 per year - that, to many people, is not low income. Therefore, I am worried that the way the money for this program would be distributed would result in wealthier families essentially being given a $10,000 tax-funded gift for "choosing" to send their students to schools which they may already attend.

Second, I am worried that this bill will negatively impact public schools by diverting extremely important funding away from public schools. Since public schools gain a large portion of funding from the student allotment, any student enrollment decrease due to this bill would negatively affect the funding the school district receives and, therefore, negatively affect the services that the school would be able to provide. Despite the fact that increases to the student allotment have been proposed, these increases pale in comparison to potential losses that districts could face. For instance, if just 50 students left a district due to the adoption of this bill, the district would lose over $300,000 in student funding - for districts, this would most likely result in cutting employees and services that they already desperately need. As an educator, I want to ensure that my students have the means to succeed, and I feel that potential decreases in funding to districts that are already underfunded (when taking into account the length of time since the last student allotment increase and inflation) would be detrimental to the success of my students.

In conclusion, I have very serious concerns about HB3 and I encourage that this committee opposes the bill. I think that my students, and all students in Texas, would benefit more from a different bill that provides more resources to our public schools, which are the backbone of education in the state of Texas.

Parysa Oskouipour
self, concerned citizen
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3 (HB 3), introduced by Representative Brad Buckley, which proposes the establishment of an Education Savings Account (ESA) program in Texas. While the intent to provide families with more educational choices is commendable, I believe this bill poses significant risks to our public education system and may not effectively serve the students it aims to help.

HB 3 proposes allocating $1 billion in taxpayer dollars to create this program. This redirection of funds would significantly reduce the resources available to public schools, which serve the majority of Texas students. Public schools are already underfunded, and diverting funds to private institutions may exacerbate existing challenges, such as larger class sizes, reduced extracurricular programs, and diminished support services. Further, although HB 3 aims to prioritize low-income and special education students, there are concerns about its practical implementation. The bill does not require private schools to accept all students, potentially allowing these institutions to deny admission based on academic performance, disabilities, or other criteria. This lack of accountability may result in the most vulnerable students being left behind, contrary to the bill's stated objectives. Examining similar programs in other states, such as Arizona, raises additional concerns. Arizona's expansive voucher program led to significant state budget issues, diverting funds from essential services and projects. This precedent suggests that implementing a similar program in Texas could result in unforeseen financial challenges and negatively impact public infrastructure and services.

Lastly, private schools receiving tax dollars through this program are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. They are not required to administer state assessments or adhere to state curriculum standards, making it difficult to ensure that students receive a quality education. This lack of oversight could lead to inconsistent educational outcomes and widen the achievement gap among students.

Instead of diverting funds to private institutions, I urge the Legislature to focus on strengthening our public schools by: 1) increasing per-student funding to reflect current economic conditions and the needs of our students, 2) investing in teacher salaries and professional development, 3) providing adequate resources for special education, counseling, and extracurricular activities to support holistic student development.

By focusing on these areas, we can improve educational outcomes for all Texas students without compromising the integrity of our public education system. Thank you for considering my concerns. I respectfully urge you to vote against HB 3 and instead work towards solutions that strengthen public education for all.

Sincerely,
Parysa Oskouipour

Diane Sanders
Dimmitt Area Retired School personnel association
Dimmitt, TX

Here is a comment if you need one. Or ideas.

Vouchers are detrimental to the Texas education system because they divert public funds away from already underfunded public schools, exacerbating inequities and reducing resources for the vast majority of students. Instead of improving education for all, vouchers primarily benefit private schools that lack accountability and can selectively admit students, often leaving behind those with special needs or from low-income backgrounds. This weakens the public education system, which serves as the backbone of Texas communities, and prioritizes private interests over the common good.

Diwana Zapalac
Self
Bolivar Peninsula, TX

Gentle Ladies and Gentlemen , Please remember all of of the children of Texas that have no rich parents, but still need and should have a good education. You all know in your hearts that this is not how you should treat others. God doesn't love you only if you are wealthy. Jesus even taught how you should help the unfortunate. It really upsets me to see how the middle class and poor are treated in our state and country now. Please show your true concern and vote no.

Thank you for your time
Diwana Zapalac

Andrée Chalaron
Self
Austin, TX

Equality in public education is crucial! Our tax dollars need to be spent where they are collected, to support the vibrant public school community in Austin. Vote no on this bill!

Katherine M Patrick
Self retired
Ft. Worth, TX

I am against this House Bill. School choice already exists, this just steals money from public education. Reducing their efficacy. Texas lags in per capita funding already, this bill would undermine our public education system.

Courtney Baker
self Haslet, TX

As a parent, I am fully aware of the many educational options available for my children, and I have chosen public education. I am satisfied with this choice and the opportunities it provides.

I strongly oppose the use of taxpayer dollars to fund private school education, especially when private schools are not held to the same standards of accountability and testing as public schools. Public funds should support public schools, which serve all students and are subject to oversight to ensure quality and equity. Redirecting public money to private institutions undermines the integrity of our education system and exacerbates existing inequities.

I urge you to prioritize funding for public schools, ensuring they have the resources needed to serve all students effectively. Please vote against HB 3, or at minimum, consider an amendment that would increase the basic allotment to account for inflation.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Janet Roberts
Self
Houston, TX

I am against education vouchers.
They do not/will not make for fair education opportunities across the economic status of different families. Just a plan to give the "well to do" financial break in their private school tuition.

Betty Perez
Self
Spring, TX

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1. Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
2. HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
3. Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
4. We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill.

Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Asher Yurowitz
Mesivta of Houston
Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Hannah McPhaul
Self
Richardson, TX

I oppose this bill and against school vouchers!

Margarita Johnston

Self

Waxahachie, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Hannah Holamon

Hays CISD

Buda, TX

My name is Hannah Holamon, and I am an elementary librarian in Hays CISD. I am extremely concerned about any version of a voucher program, and I am asking you to oppose HB 3 or any other voucher legislation.

Unlike public schools, private and home schools have very little accountability to taxpayers, and don't have to conform to most state and federal laws regarding curriculum standards, financial accountability, teacher qualifications, student performance, special education, and student health and safety. As an educator who attended private school by my parents' choice and financial sacrifice without the aid of school vouchers, I can attest to this statement. While the school I attended was nationally accredited, not all private and home school programs adhere to the same high quality standards of education.

Teachers and other employees are in desperate need of improved compensation, and low salaries are contributing to the shortage of qualified, certified teachers. Available funding should be directed into the classroom. Continued lack of funding, even with TIA (which is not available to librarians or other special area teachers), schools will struggle to retain qualified, certified teachers and staff. It's also important to note that private schools on average in the state of Texas pay their teachers $12,000 less than public schools. With inflation and the high cost of living, there is typically not enough incentive for the average teacher to choose a private school position over a public school one.

Private schools can refuse to admit a student for any reason, including for special education status, family religion and disciplinary history, while public schools educate any student zoned for attendance. The majority of private schools do not fund programs that support students with behavior or academic needs nor do they hire teachers who are certified in such areas of education.

The highest performing private schools are unlikely to accept voucher students due to costs (tuition is higher than the amount of the voucher) and concerns about state regulation. Private schools are privatized for a reason and they do not want the state directing their curriculum, teacher salaries, programs, or how their money is spent.

Our public schools already offer choices, including magnet schools, virtual education, CTE programs and much more. Public schools are also now providing many alternative programs that teach students a trade. These are critical jobs that will always be needed even in a world that is highly driven by technology. Not all students fit the classic education model or system and they should also have an opportunity and access to programs or education that focuses on their skills and knowledge in other areas. Our society needs students from all backgrounds and with a variety of skills.

Thank you for your time and consideration of these points as the future of education hangs on this decision.

Jennifer Kost, Mrs.

self (stay at home mom, volunteer in schools)

Austin, TX

To the Honorable Chairman Buckley and members of the House Public Education Committee,

I am writing against HB 3. Please do not pass any bill creating an ESA program out of Committee. Instead, prioritize every dollar you can to fully fund Texas public education.

The only type of Education Savings Account we should be discussing is an accounting to save public education. Instead of appropriating $1,000,000 for ESA's for this biennium, please appropriate that amount to increase the basic allotment by another $90 per student, in addition to the $220 already put forth in the introduced version of HB 2. (The fiscal note attached to this bill anticipates an approximate $3B net cost for ESA's in FY '28 and '29, and nearly $4B in FY '30, which would be much better spent increasing the basic allotment by another $600, at which point we'd be just about $400 shy of catching up with inflation since the basic allotment was last increased in 2019, but still in the ballpark of $3,000 shy of the national average for per pupil funding according to the most recent NEA report: https://www.nea.org/sites/default/files/2024-12/2024_rankings_and_estimates_report.pdf.)

The Texas Constitution requires the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools, and the Texas Education Code stipulates the mission of public education is to ensure all Texas children have access to quality education. Until that mission has been fulfilled, there should be no consideration of appropriating any state funds to private education. Creating a system of funding private schools is not efficient, and those schools are not accountable for the quality of education they provide.

I would like to address the main arguments I have heard for school choice, which are:

1. Public schools are failing our kids, and
2. Parents have a right to choose how their child is educated.

I agree that public schools in Texas are struggling and many are not serving our students as well as they should. The solution though is not to abandon public education, but to improve it, and fast. To do that, first and foremost, public schools need ample and reliable funding - increase the basic allotment, index it to inflation, and pay based on enrollment instead of attendance. Then, listen to what districts say they need and facilitate that rather than mandating one-size-fits-all solutions - review the Education Code and remove unnecessary requirements. And work to develop meaningful student assessments that don't correlate most strongly with students' SES.

Parents already have a right to choose how their child is educated. They are not required to send their children to public schools. I understand many families cannot afford another option, which is why fully funding public education is paramount. But taxpayers should not foot the bill for unaccountable private education options that can pick and choose which students they are willing to admit.

Thank you, and please do not pass this bill.

Kirthi Hanisha Moturu

Self

CEDAR PARK, TX

No to vouchers

Amby Clinkscale

Self

Cypress, TX

As a 29-year educator and the daughter of educators, I urge you to release all funds for public education and raise the minimum allotment per student to account for inflationary costs. School choice will only benefit a select few. Pro public education, no to vouchers.

Andrea McDonald

self

Burleson, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 4th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution and is greatly stealing from poor and rural areas where there aren't any private school options at all.

Grace Chomick

Self

Austin, TX

Hello, I would like to request that you do not pass HB3. Taxpayer funds should be used for public schooling. Stronger public schools make for a stronger and more prosperous Texas. Thank you!

Lyndsey Martin

Self - Teacher

Spring, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan and public school teacher, I ask you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Valerie Caddell

Myself and my children

Dallas, TX

Here's why HB3 is a bad deal for Texans.

No income limits: Wealthy families can use taxpayer dollars for elite private schools, even if they can already afford tuition.

Private schools pick students: Parents can apply, but private schools decide who gets in. Many exclude kids with disabilities, behavioral challenges, or lower test scores.

No access for rural Texans: Over 150 Texas counties don't even have a private school, making vouchers useless for many families.

No accountability: Private schools don't take the STAAR test or follow the same standards as public schools, yet public schools lose funding if scores are low.

Public schools are already underfunded: Texas spends about $4,000 less per student than the national average and ranks 46th in funding. Instead of fixing this, HB3 pulls even more money away.

Unfair funding rules: Public schools lose money when students are absent, but private schools get voucher money no matter what, with no oversight.

Texas can afford to fund public schools: With a $24B surplus and $28B rainy day fund, lawmakers want to spend $1B on vouchers that benefit just 1% of kids—costs that will only grow over time.

This isn't about giving families more choices—it's about defunding public schools to subsidize private ones.

John Gasko, COL

Self

Shavano Park, TX

Why are my tax dollars being spent on private education??!! Invest that money into private schools where it can do the most good!

Dona Holmes

Self

Friendswood, TX

I do not want my tax money to go to private schools. The vouchers will take away from public schools in which all children are accepted and able to attend. The private schools can turn away children on the spectrum or with other special needs. This is why I do not want my tax dollars to go to support vouchers that favor private schools.

Kelli Seay

Self

Houston, TX

Today us the public hearing on school I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability

Jennifer Kranzman

MY OPINION Republican Women of Gregg County

Longview, TX

I am in favor for HB3 that will only help all public and private school settings keep education needs children focused, not party or social issue focused. We have to improve education thru best practice and elevate required standards for Texas children so they can become strong, knowledgeable Americans in the work force.

Laura Jones

Self / Retired TX public school educator

Gordon, TX

I am a third generation TX public school educator, now retired. I was impressed with former Rep. Paul Colbert's testimony last week in which he demonstrated clearly that "traditional school districts have not received an increase from actual state revenue sources for over a decade. The modest increases in recent years have primarily served as tax relief rather than new investment in education." Yet, now, HB 3 proposes to add a third funding stream for K-12 education in the form of an Education Savings Account program, that is, vouchers. The Texas Legislature should keep the main thing the main thing, which is to establish and MAINTAIN public schools as stated in Article 7 of the Texas Constitution. Public tax dollars should not be used as partial payment for private school tuition. The mantra, "competition will improve outcomes" is a myth. Fair and quantifiable competition requires a level playing field. A traditional public school, a charter school, and if vouchers are passed, a private school which accepts a voucher are not held to the same accountability standards regarding academic outcomes or finances. I implore this committee to vote No.

Daisha Anderson

Magnolia Montessori For all

Austin, TX

This is me asking nicely--- I oppose you diverting public funds to private schools, no matter what you call it. I am a Texas voter and I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates, not divert funds to unaccountable private and religious schools. I know that virtually every other state that has created a voucher system with the limited guardrails you are proposing has seen a decimation of their public school systems and increasing burden to their state budgets. We don't want any of that here in Texas. Please fund our public schools and don't pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Rebecca Rice

Self - speech language pathologist assistant

Cypress, TX

I oppose HB3. Tax payer dollars should go towards fully funding public schools, not private schools.

Shannon Schoepflin

Self, engineer

AUSTIN, TX

As a Texas voter I am firmly against HB 3. I will not support - now or in the future - any bill/candidate that takes money from the public school system. Please - we feel like you're not listening to us. We don't want this.

Lacey Coker

Self

Electra, TX

This bill would NOT be good for public education! It will take away money from our public education system to give to private schools. The vouchers this bill is supporting will go to low socioeconomic families who rely on public transportation to get their kids to and from school. Then what about the students of parents that choose not to send their kids to private schools? They don't get funding? NO!!!!

Allison Cardwell

Self

Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Allison Cardwell and I am a graduate of Texas public schools. I am also a parent of a third grader in Austin ISD as well as a veteran teacher of 23 years in Austin ISD. Budget reductions have consistently plagued our schools and prevented students from receiving access to the level of education that they deserve. Our schools are overcrowded and teachers are asked to do too much with too little. As a fifth grade teacher, I have regularly had class sizes of more than 30 students, which means that in addition to not receiving the individualized attention that they need, students are often having to sit on the floor to learn or climbing over each other to get around the classroom. I know many teachers who have left the profession because of inadequate pay, despite the fact that they love their jobs and were excellent educators. They would have stayed if it had been financially viable. This has become a profession where the career educators are only able to do so because they have a spouse with enough earning power for the both of them. I am asking the committee to increase funding by at LEAST $1300 per student to account for inflation since 2019. Please use public funds to fully fund public schools.

Sarah Reyes

Self

Pflugerville, TX

No HB 3

Jeana Allen

Self public school teacher

Joshua, TX

As a dedicated public school teacher and strong supporter of Texas public schools, I am deeply troubled by the growing disregard for our public education system. I am writing to express my concerns regarding House Bill 3 and to advocate for fairness in the allocation of state funding.

Texas students deserve strong, well-funded public schools, and it is only fair that any school receiving taxpayer dollars be held to the same standards. If the state is going to pass vouchers and direct public funds to private schools, those institutions must be subject to the same rules as public schools—including transparency requirements, accountability measures, enrollment practices, and STAAR testing. Anything less creates an uneven playing field and undermines the integrity of our education system.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, and they deserve support, not policies that divert resources while holding them to higher standards than their privately funded counterparts. I urge you to ensure that all schools receiving state funding operate under the same expectations, reinforcing fairness and accountability in Texas education.

Philip Brandimarte

Self teacher

Austin, TX

No HB3

Andrea Castillo

Self

Austin, TX

I am firmly against this bill as I fully support public schools and public education.

Bianca Mercado

self

Azle, TX

Hello, my name is Bianca Mercado and I am a constituent from Azle, TX, 76020. I am messaging you today because I am concerned about to SB2 program. While it does have good intentions on the basis of wanting our children to have the chance to earn a better education it falls short on the ability to do so. Many of the families here in Parker County and even here where I live on the cusp of Tarrant have a household of 4-5 in a family and $49,996 of income per Capita. Even with a voucher for two children per household it still wouldn't cover the cost of ONE YEARS school tuition. Many of the families who live in the rural parts of Parker County live on food stamps and are part of the WIC program and public schools are able to cover for breakfast and lunch programs that public schools already have in place. Many of them rely on the school bus system or walking to school each day and the funds to go towards transportation to a "choice" private school would not be enough to cover the cost. My sister is an educator at Eagle Heights elementary and she has been teaching first grade students over the last 15 years. Not only has she had a stable job for the last 15 years but she has been able to stay in touch with a lot of students in her community that she has cultivated in that time. I would really hate for my sister to be out of job due to her school losing funding dedicated towards a hand-out for people who are already priviledged to take their children to go to private school.

Shonda Harwell

Self

Jones Creek, TX

If the State has an extra $1B to blow, give it back to the taxpayers and let us decide how to spend OUR money.

BTW, assuming the entire $1B goes to families and not to the Comptroller's office or the five educational assistance organizations (more government), let's do the math. $1B divided by $30,000 (for students on IEPs) is a potential of 33,333 ESAs. There are currently about 6MM Texas students and 350,000 of them are in private schools. Exactly how would this possibly benefit ALL families and ALL students when it doesn't even cover 10% of the students already in private schools?

Disgusted with what Abbott is pushing.

Herbert Williams

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. Our schools are a public good, one meant to strengthen our communities and ensure that the next generation is better informed and more able to work towards the betterment of themselves and our nation. Unfortunately, in our current education landscape not every school is given what it needs to help accomplish that goal. Any parent would want their child to attend a school with a proven track record of success, and this scheme would allow them to pick up their tax dollars and put them towards just that. The problem with that is two fold. First, those schools with a history of success are demonstrably already properly funded and equipped to meet the needs of their students. Additional funding that would come from these vouchers will not have nearly as strong an impact as it would on schools in more need. Second, while in a perfect world this scheme would mean every student would have an opportunity to attend the best funded school possible in their community, there literally isn't enough room in one building to teach every student. What then? Those students go to the second best school? The third? I agree that we need to improve the standard of our schools, but that can only happen by ensuring that EVERY school is properly funded, and is fully equipped to offer the best education to every student. I would rather not see a further stratification in our school quality. I'm all for options, but not when it comes at the cost of a strong base line standard.

Deidra Moitzheim

Self teacher

Helotes, TX

This is an absolutely ridiculous way to spend our hard earned tax payer dollars. Private schools do NOT take all students of ALL abilities; unlike public education. Private schools do not have the same oversights as public both for funding and testing. Private schools do NOT require certified teachers!

If you truly care about our future children being successful productive members of society, then stop shoving vouchers. The amount of money you will use to have a company manage these funds is outrageous. You haven't kept up with funding public education, but want to defund it. Why?! You want to hold our pay increases over voucher approval- why?! You know this doesn't benefit enough children nor educators. This BILLION dollars needs to benefit the most and your vouchers do NOT.

Do the right thing for everyone, stop siphoning money from public schools.

Corry Thompson

Self educator

Lewisville, TX

I am opposed to the mentioned HB3 I'll being proposed for the following:

estimates that vouchers will balloon to $4 billion by 2030. Texas cannot afford to experiment when public schools are underfunded.

Texas ranks in the bottom 10 in per-student public education funding. Lawmakers should focus on improving the funding disparities in our current system before implementing a new, private system.

Our school district in Lewisville ISD will drastically e impacted and already has had to make significant decisions impacting teachers, students and families with the closure of 5 schools for this upcoming year and no teacher pay raises while the cost of inflation continues to increase. Over the last several years I ha e seen cuts to additional district personnel , programs, and an increase in class sizes.

Based on public information resources, it is evaluated that Lewisville ISD stands to lose $19,857,227 dollars to privatization. The outcome would result in a loss of 479 fewer teachers, 397,144 fewer library books, and another increase in student-teacher ratio of 7.27%.

I encourage you to please rethink the impact of providing funds which will DEFUND public schools.

Sincerely ,

A mother and grandmother of public school children

Kimberly Wassmuth

Self

Round Rock, TX

This bill is unfair to students. If ESAs are going to pass, then the amount a public school gets per student should equal the amount of the ESA. It should not pass through committee.

Jennifer Nicas

Self

Humble, TX

I find it absolutely appalling that this bill is even coming up again. School vouchers are a bad idea and our public school system does not need more money taken away from it so rich kids can get extra money to go to private schools. Please vote no for this bill.

Terri Koen

Self, yoga teacher

Austin, TX

I am a proud product of public schools, growing up in the suburbs of Dallas and attending the University of Texas for both my bachelor and masters degrees. I now have two kids in public school, where we depend on parent volunteers daily in the cafeteria to give staff a proper lunch break. We rely on our PTA to raise funds for new vacuums for the custodial staff. Our air conditioning units struggle to keep the building cool at peak temperatures. All public tax dollars should go to public schools. Communities depend on public schools. Families who choose to send their kids to private schools do not need vouchers; they're doing just fine on their own. HB3 is robbing the vast majority of Texas families the quality education I received in the 1980s-1990s. I strongly oppose HB3, and I hope you reject this bill. Do the right thing. Fully fund our public schools.

Susan Pratt
Self retired teacher
Austin, TX

I do not pay taxes for the money to go to unregulated private schools who do not have to accept all students. The state does not pay $10,000 per student to public schools, why would it pay it for a private school?

This is a slap in the face to all who work in schools and try to educate children.

I ask that you vote against this education savings account program.

Emily Fuller
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing to ask my representative to vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy. Thank you.

David Castillo
Self; Business Analyst
College Station, TX

Oppose school vouchers

Michelle Mitchell
Self
DALLAS, TX

I am opposed to school vouchers. If it was such a great idea, why didn't you take it to a public vote? This is nothing but a boondoggle to steal money from public education and reroute it to private entities further weakening public education.

Carinn Sprecher-Reinke
Self & PTA
League City, TX

This is an attempt to curry favor with wealthy donors. It in no way, shape or form helps the majority of students. Private schools can be selective; public schools serve a higher purpose in educating all who enroll. The systematic undefunding and over-testing of public schools attempts to make them look inferior when no such limitations or assessments are applied to private schools.

Lacey Green, Mrs.
Self
Houston, TX

I am a hybrid homeschooling and private school parent and I oppose this bill.

Charles Richey, Mr.

Ingram Elementary 830 - 955-8547 self Teacher

Ingram, TX

Parents already have a school choice. This bill is to provide for the parents that already send their students to private schools. Meanwhile, you take away money from the public system Texas already ranks in the bottom 10 in per-student public education funding. Lawmakers should focus on improving the funding disparities in our current system before implementing a new private system. If a voucher passed, our district will lose $532,915, meaning we would have to cut nine teachers, raising the student teacher ratio by almost 6%. As a 32 year Texas teacher, I have watched students leave the public school system for private settings and, in most cases returned to the public system farther behind. The schools I have had the privilege of working in have been very successful and all have been Title 1. Our staff members meet students where they are and work hard to grow everyone. We have already lost staff members because funds have been withheld from the public setting. What a shame for kids !!! Please do not vote for the voucher. Charles Richey Ingram Elementary School Ingram, Tx 78025.

Hayley Murray

Self

Bryan, TX

The proposed bill presents serious concerns for education funding, equity, and community cohesion. It would strain already limited resources for both rural and urban schools by enabling student departures without addressing the fixed costs these institutions must maintain regardless of enrollment numbers.

The exemption of charter schools from standardized testing requirements like the STAAR exam creates an uneven playing field. When different institutions operate under different accountability standards, we cannot make fair comparisons or ensure consistent quality across all educational options.

This bill essentially provides a subsidy that fragments our educational community. Rather than bringing parents together across income levels to work toward better schools for all children, it enables withdrawal from the shared project of public education. Most troublingly, data from neighboring states like Louisiana demonstrates that similar charter school initiatives have not delivered improved educational outcomes. On average, charter schools perform worse than their public counterparts despite operating with different rules and standards.

I urge you to vote against this bill. Our focus should be on strengthening public education through evidence-based improvements that benefit all students rather than diverting resources to alternatives without proven success. We need solutions that unite our communities in supporting education rather than fracturing them.????????????????

Dustin Grabsch

Self

Dallas, TX

Would deviate public education in Texas. As an educator, I'm against this proposed voucher program

Aihanuwa Ale-Opinion

Self

Houston, TX

I've come to speak to you today as a college student, a graduate of the Texas public education system, and as someone who works with disabled students who have graduated and are still in grade school. What concerns me about the proposed voucher program is that private schools are not required to provide the same services to students with disabilities nor offer the same protections that students are entitled to by law in public schools. Additionally, there is a significant gap in the amount of schools willing to accommodate disabled students. A report by the US Department of Education on the voucher program in Washington, DC shows that the primary reason students didn't enroll in a voucher program was because of the lack of participating schools that provided services that accommodate their child's disability. Additionally, amongst students leaving the program, 12.3% cited a lack of special needs services as the reason. Similarly, in the Milwaukee voucher program, students have been discouraged or systematically excluded from participating because most private schools lack the capability to accommodate them. Less than 70 private schools in Texas provide services focused on special needs students, and most of these are in urban areas. I did research over the summer charting the distance of these schools from Texas counties and found that on average, these private schools are over 50 miles away from the average Texas county. Many of these schools accommodate a limited range of disabilities and most explicitly give preference to students of "above average to average intelligence". Educating students with disabilities can be costly and resource intensive, giving these schools an incentive to discriminate against students with even higher support needs. I urge our representatives to reject HB3 and instead focusing on bolstering our public education in Texas.

Peter Myers

Self homeschool mom

Seabrook, TX

I homeschool and am opposed to this bill

Pam Amason

Adhd kids. I have 2

Alvin, TX

I opposed hb3

Teachers will not earn more.

Children will learning issues will not be accommodated.

Kids can be kicked out .

Teachers in private school are not legally required to have as much education.

Rich kids will get better everything.

Poor kids will get very little of anything.

Whos going to provide transportation?

Who's providing lunches?

If you want a changes... Ask the experts on the front line... Teachers!!!

Working parents also need more before, after and school break help with child care.

Abbott and trump know nothing of the daily grind of taking care of hundreds of children.

Its shameful the kids have to learn to hide in case of a shooter.

Vote no hb3

Keey Houck

Conroe ISD

Conroe, TX

Please don't do this. Improve our public schools, but don't give tax payer, public money to fund private endeavors. Public schools are the backbone of our communities. And a concerted effort to destroy our public schools needs to stop. Fix the leadership & the funding of ponzi-schemes that long ago our state legislators put in place, that does not work. The vast majority of our schools' staff are there for kids. This will is part of a long calculated plan to destroy public education & lead out state down a very slippery slope. Kind regards, Keely Houck

Tori Leymeister

Self

Austin, TX

This is so infuriating! As someone who has considered charter, private, and homeschooling, the vouchers are NOT the way to go. Public education should be a privilege and fully funded. My child can be refused entry into private for his educational accommodations, charters are vastly unpredictable. Public school's are required to allow ANY child to attend. They have given both my kids speech therapy even before kinder! They provide lunches, and so much more. Taking funding away from public school hurts the Texas general public and really really hurts rural areas. It is simply going to become a coupon for private schools.

Wynter Chauvin, Dr.

self-retired educator

Nacogdoches, TX

This use of state funds will hurt rural populations. This would also cause a crossing of the line between church and state, as many private schools are religious based. Also you are trying to compare apples and oranges. If you are going to have vouchers then the private schools should have to have the same demographic, economic and scholastic achievement of the local public schools. Any school receiving voucher money must have state certified teachers, qualified support staff and students must take the same standardized tests as the public schools.

Rhonda Hanson

Self

Haskell, TX

I am a public school teacher and my three children are excellent products of our local public district. I am opposed to HB 3 and anything to do with vouchers that take public tax dollars and gives to the privatization of education. ALL the students of this state deserve fair and full funding, not just those who desire a private education. Vouchers create a two-tiered system, create societal divides and allow individuals to PROFIT from children's education which is just wrong! Do the right thing for the schools and students of Texas - fund public schools by increasing the basic allotment $1500, give teachers a full base pay raise, and let the parents who CHOOSE other avenues other than public schools, to pay their own way! THAT'S WHY IT'S PRIVATE.

Listen to your constituents, stop being bullied and paid by Abbott and his billionaires. The American people ousted Biden and spoke clearly about what direction they wanted for America - TEXAS will do the same for those who betray public education. Texans will find those who support public schools.

Craig Gonzalez

Self

Donna, TX

As a parent that has lost faith in the public school system, like many others, we would prefer to have a voucher to choose the school of our choice for our kids.

Patty Olree

Self

Allen, TX

I am against vouchers for schools and want you to vote against it!! Please listen to your constituents and support public schools!!

Karen Darby

Self - Retired Attorney at Law and Part-Time Organist

Georgetown, TX

I am generally opposed to routing public funds to pay for private schools. Therefore, until this legislation is modified in a manner that ensures that Texas' public schools are adequately funded, I remain opposed to HB 3. Several items in the bill raise a red flag for me. First, the creation of up to 5 "certified educational assistance organizations." These organizations will apparently administer this program. But is this not another layer of bureaucracy that will require funding for its operation? Second, I appreciate that HB 3 prioritizes awarding funds for private schools to children with special needs and those who are at a certain poverty level. However, more than half of Texas' counties have no private schools that parents can choose for their children K through 12. One mitigating factor is that funds can be used for private tutors, apparently. How widely available are private tutors? And what is their cost? Another part of the bill I noticed does not require that these private educational institutions are subject to federal and state laws regarding provisions of educational services. Does that mean that Section 504 of the Americans with Disabilities Act does not apply? Nor other state and federal laws mandating fairness regardless of race, color, creed, or gender? Does that mean that private schools, unlike public schools, can choose to accept only certain students, possibly leaving other students with no recourse to meet their educational needs, even if they can obtain funding? In summary, the Texas Constitution provides in its Article 7 that "A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools." To date, the Texas Legislature has not authorized any significant increase in the basic allotment for children attending public schools, and school districts in my county are suffering serious deficits in funding. Tuition for private educational institutions, where they exist in Texas, often exceeds the proposed $10,000 allotment that would go to a child wishing to attend a private school. Therefore, I still oppose HB 3 or any other "educational savings account" bill that does not ensure an appropriate FREE PUBLIC EDUCATION for ALL of Texas' children, regardless of race, creed, gender, or disability.

Sherry Rasmus

Self

Austin, TX

I am against school vouchers where public monies would be given to families to subsidize private school tuitions; because not enough money is appropriated to public schools now affecting special education and other educational needs of students and I believe that it will be destroy rural school who are struggling as is it to provide teachers and curriculum needed by their students. We have PUBLIC schools for all children. Instead of claiming that private schools provide a better education for children, more money provided to public schools to increase access to certified teachers and strong curriculums for K-12 students.

Jennifer Husband

Self, Deaf Education Teacher

Cypress, TX

Please vote NO to HB 3. This will take much needed funds from public schools taht are already underfunded by the state and the federal government. Most parents don't have a choice, even with the savings account program, so we should make our public schoola the best they can be, instead of giving a coupon to the wealthy. Fund public education, special ed, teachers, and staff appropriately.

Jennifer Connor, Mrs.

Self, tax paying, voting, Texas resident

Houston, TX

Any vote for the vouchers as written is a vote against public education. Please be bold and stand up to the corrupt members of the legislature and value our children.

Rebecca Davenport

Self, homemaker

Austin, TX

My name is Rebecca Davenport, and I'm a parent of two children in Austin ISD—James, who is in second grade, and Oliver, who is in kindergarten.

James, my oldest, is autistic and has a unique learning profile. Because I was unsure that his needs would be met in public school, I explored multiple private schools in town. We were very open with his challenges and obstacles as well as his great strengths during the application process. James wasn't granted admission to any of them. I believe that this was because of his disability. As hurtful as it was as a parent, these schools actually did nothing wrong. They don't have to accept children like mine. This highlights a critical issue. Private schools can pick and choose which students to serve, while public schools are required to accept and educate every child in Texas.

It should be a priority to adequately fund these public schools who serve ALL Texan children.

Implementing educational savings accounts will divert money away from public schools, and into the private schools who are able to pick and choose which students they want to serve. This deepens the divide between children who get access to quality education and those who do not.

Instead of funneling money into private schools, we should be increasing funding for public schools to ensure they can meet the needs of every student, including those with disabilities. I ask that you do not allow HB3 to progress out of committee.

David Kossey

Self

Stinnett, TX

Honorable Members,

Close your eyes and see your districts—kids tearing across dusty fields, teachers pouring sweat into lessons, schools stitching our towns into something proud. Now feel that slipping away. Chair Brad Buckley, your Salado ISD in House District 54 battles a $1.5 million deficit—mamas there clutch faded photos, whispering prayers over supper for their kids' crumbling classrooms. Rep. Trent Ashby, Lufkin ISD in House District 9 faces a $3.8 million gap—daddies fight tears as the band's last notes fade, school pride on the ropes. Rep. Charles Cunningham, Humble ISD in House District 127 slashes $15 million—families dread silent bleachers, Friday nights gone dark.

Rep. James Frank, Wichita Falls ISD in House District 69 scrapes by with a $5 million shortfall—grandmas mend torn jerseys, kids' dreams fraying at the edges. Rep. Todd Hunter, Corpus Christi ISD in House District 32 trims $20 million—coastal hearts splinter as schools strain, salt air heavy with loss. Rep. Helen Kerwin, Deer Park ISD in House District 129 battles a $7 million hole—parents beg for more than scraps, voices cracking. Rep. Jeff Leach, Plano ISD in House District 67 cuts $29 million—teachers' cries echo in packed rooms, kids' futures stuffed in lockers. Rep. Terri Leo Wilson, Galveston ISD in House District 23 faces a $3 million pinch— island mamas rock babies, staring at a school losing its moorings. Rep. Alan Schoolcraft, Judson ISD in House District 121 axes $12 million—hope unravels in Universal City's halls, kids left grasping.

These aren't numbers; they're our kids—your blood—watching schools teeter. Vouchers don't save them; they fatten the rich, raiding our taxes like thieves in the night. Florida's voucher flop slashed public funds 12% while private costs exploded 313%. Texas, dead last in school cash, can't take that gut punch. In Lufkin, Plano, Wichita Falls—schools are our spine, our roots. Vouchers bring wreckage; private schools duck rules we'd never dodge. Arizona's voucher loot bought boats while kids starved—our dollars deserve better. Louisiana's voucher students sank—scores crashed, dreams drowned. That's not Texas strong.

This is Texas—we don't need New York's voucher hustle, some pinstripe con from folks who've never felt our sun. We don't trade our own for their schemes. See that Lufkin boy dreaming of wide plains, boots kicking dust; the Plano girl gripping her pencil, eyes on college; the Corpus Christi family banking on their school, salt-streaked and stubborn. Vouchers rip that away, handing it to fat cats who don't know our fight. You're their wall—don't let it crack. In 2023, 21 Republicans stood tall, 84-63, guarding our kids' tomorrow. With $18 billion in surplus, save our schools—hire teachers, stoke fires of hope, keep our buses rolling. Keep Texas bold, fierce, ours. Vote no on vouchers.

Richard James, Dr.

Self - retired educator

Terrell, TX

Skimming public tax dollars to fund private schools is literally unconstitutional in Texas.

Vote no to diverting funds away from public schools to private schools.

Da'Taeveyon Daniels, Deputy Executive Director

Students Engaged in Advancing Texas

Fort Worth, TX

Chair Buckley and members of the committee. My name is Da'Taeveyon Daniels, and I am the Deputy Executive Director of Students Engaged in Advancing Texas, or SEAT, a movement of young people demonstrating youth visibility in policymaking. Beyond my work as an organizer, I stand before you today as a high school senior and a proud product of Texas public schools. Public education has shaped me, given me purpose, and equipped me with the tools to advocate for my peers. That's why I am here today to oppose school vouchers and urge you to reject HB 3. Vouchers are a dangerous policy that drains critical funding from public schools, institutions serving millions of Texas students, especially those in rural and underserved communities.

Instead of strengthening and investing in our public schools, vouchers would abandon them.

The reality is this:

Texas already has schools that could thrive if legislators prioritized students over corporate and billionaire interests.

We could ensure that every student, whether from a family 500% below the poverty line or 300% above it, has access to a quality education.

We should be focused on improving our public institutions, not giving up on them. Because when we give up on public schools, we give up on teachers, parents, and—most importantly—young people like me.

We've seen the consequences of chronic underfunding firsthand. Students like Sumya from Conroe ISD, a national-level debater, risk losing opportunities because of budget shortfalls. Alissa, a student in Cy-Fair ISD, has already seen her district cut bus routes and librarians. SEAT organizers across Texas sit in classrooms without functioning AC. In Sanger ISD, just north of Denton, students attend school only four days a week because of budget cuts.

Texas students deserve better. We deserve schools that give us the opportunity to succeed, no matter where we come from. I urge you—vote NO on HB 3.

Thank you for your time.

Abigail Guerra
Self- Public school educator
Hutto, TX

Subject: Request for Increased Funding and Opposition to Vouchers/ESA

Dear Education committee,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the use of vouchers and Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) as a means of funding education. These programs divert crucial resources away from public schools, undermining their ability to serve all students equitably.

I respectfully request the following changes to improve the funding structure for education:

1. Increase the Basic Allotment to $7,500: The current funding allocation is insufficient to meet the needs of students and educators. Raising the basic allotment to $7,500 would better support our schools and allow for more equitable access to quality education.
2. Determine Funding by Enrollment, Not Attendance: Funding should be based on student enrollment rather than attendance. This would provide more consistent and predictable funding for schools, allowing them to plan and allocate resources effectively, even in times of fluctuating attendance.
3. Tie Funding to Inflation: Education funding should be adjusted annually based on inflation rates. This would ensure that the value of the funding keeps pace with the rising costs of education, maintaining its purchasing power over time.
4. Ensure Funding for All Current and Future Mandates: All current and future state or federal mandates should be fully funded to avoid placing additional burdens on schools. This would ensure that schools can comply with legal requirements without sacrificing other essential services.

I hope you will consider these requests as part of ongoing efforts to improve the education system. Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,
Kindergarten Public School teacher Abigail Guerra

Audrea Straub
Self / parent
Austin, TX

I am against using our tax dollars for school vouchers. We want our money going to public schools where they belong and where every child has a chance to have a descent education. Please do the right thing - it's what the people want! Think of ALL the children, not just the privileged ones.

Kimberly McAdams

self; Corporate Consultant; School Board trustee

College Station, TX

I am commenting against the bill. While I am commenting on behalf of myself, I have served as a public school trustee in College Station for the past 9 years and understand both the strengths and the needs of our public schools. I believe this bill would be detrimental to our 5.5 million students, as well as an unfair burden to the taxpayers of Texas. While there are many private schools that offer viable options to parents, it is in no way fair to send our taxpayer funds to these schools, while holding the private schools to little or no requirements regarding admissions, curriculum, accountability, and transparency. In fact, TX Legislators have spent the past decades INCREASING the rules and regulations on public schools, while keeping funding stagnant. This bill acts as a handout to private schools and current private school parents to take our tax money with no strings attached. It is NOT an equal playing field. A true "representative" of our state would not take our limited tax dollars and give handouts to the wealthy. If this is NOT your goal, then have an income CAP on applicants where it would truly help those who can NOT pay for a private schools today.

There is also much evidence that Texans do not want this bill. They want our state to fund our public schools, that support the vast majority of our students, and this bill WILL cost money that could go to our public schools. Texas can't afford this. Our schools are suffering, and with no predicted enrollment increases, and funding we lose will negatively affect the remaining students. We are already having to ask for waivers to increase class sizes, even though this is not best for our students. There just isn't enough funds. And College Station was over $1.6M short in SPED funding last year. We do SO much for these students, but need the funding to do more. Instead of directing taxpayer funds to private schools, very few of which actually support SPED students, fully fund our teachers and programs.

Sadly, I believe this program is about politics and not what is truly good for the majority of our students. Parents have SO much choice either within our amazing public schools, or with charters, online schools, homeschooling, and yes, private schools. The way this bill hands out money with almost no requirements is NOT parent choice, but PRIVATE school choice.

Craig Campbell

Retired self

Austin, TX

There will be an impact on TRS when teachers leave. TRS gets 18.5% of their salary minimum. $40,000 times 18.5% = $7,400 per teacher lost.

Stephanie Showalter

Self

Allen, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB3. I do not support ESA or vouchers. Private school tuition should not be funded with public school tax dollars. Private schools do not have to accept every student, abide by IEP's or 504's. They can cherry pick students. Families that cannot afford a private school will still not be able to afford private school...

Susan Frazier

Self

Lubbock, TX

As an interventionist who works with students and teachers, I am trying to find the words to explain how disappointed I am that our "leaders" seem to be bowing to the pressures of those who have money. Why else would you be looking at giving $10,000 to people who already send their children to private schools, while you continue to under-fund our state schools. I am curious, how are you going to hold them accountable for how the money is spent? If you really want to be fair about public education money, then every student and school that receives a school voucher needs to have to take the STAAR test since that is what you use to hold public schools accountable. If everyone who receives public funds has to take the same state test, I bet many would not be interested in the money. School districts are scrambling with deficits because "our leaders" have not released 4 billion dollars, because it is tied up in the school voucher mess. Texas is ranked 37th in money spent per student according to educationdata.org...37th and you are holding public school funds hostage! If you want to know the impact on real people, I have teacher friends who are making less money than they did in the last several years because the funds have not been released, so we can't provide extra programs and tutoring opportunities. When I say less, one is making $500 a month less because we had to eliminate after school tutoring that our students really need. And yet you wonder why teachers are leaving the profession. As for the students, private schools aren't required to take or keep students so they don't accept students with poor grades or students that cause problems. So a voucher doesn't help the parent of a struggling student, because private school, and charter schools aren't going to accept them. So you are taking money away from the public schools who accept everyone and are working hard to help students with less resources and less money because you are taking money away from the public schools that are working with budget deficits because our elected officials are not funding the schools properly. What is going to keep schools from dismissing a student after they receive the funds? Who is going to make sure that the money is spent for education?

The article below, talks about how school vouchers are wreaking havoc in states and yet somehow this is up for another vote. <https://www.nea.org/nea-today/all-news-articles/no-accountability-vouchers-wreak-havoc-states>

In case I have not made myself clear, HB3 is NOT a school choice bill and should not be supported by our elected officials. If you really want to know what Texans think, let the people vote. Put it on a statewide ballot if you want to know what Texans truly think.

Sincerely,

Susan Frazier

Teacher

Interventionist

My husband and I are parents to 3 children who all attended public schools and public colleges, 2 have Masters and the 3rd one is working on her Masters.

Whitney Webb

Self

Springtime, TX

I do not support diverting public funds to private schools. I pay my taxes to fund public education not so the jerk next door can send his kids to a churchy private school with my money.

Lauren Chernow

Self and husband, both Retired and products of Texas public schools

Austin, TX

As retirees, with no children in schools at all, we oppose using any of our TAX DOLLARS to fund school vouchers. We are disgusted that public schools have not been funded as they should be by the Texas Legislature, and we do not want our tax dollars to fund private schools. That is a misuse of our tax dollars and goes against the Texas Constitution.

Jenniffer Reyna, Dr.

Self - School Based Physical Therapist

Friendswood, TX

I am writing to you as a neighbor, parent of children attending our wonderful Friendswood schools, and a physical therapist that services children with special needs in a neighboring school district.

With the passage of HB 3, all of our Texas children and Texas public school employees will be impacted negatively. Texas public education ranks in the bottom half when compared to the rest of the country, and it is not at the fault of public education. It is because for years now political games are being played with the funding that would support our Texas public schools. This has set up our schools to have bigger obstacles with less money.

The data has proven time and time again that in the states where something similar has already occurred, that it is not successful. The quality of public education continues to fall, and the majority of students are the ones that suffer. Private schools are not required to accept and provide the individual educational needs of students. So, the students that would be the most impacted are the most vulnerable... the ones with special needs and with IEPs.

This specifically tugs at my heart strings, because as a physical therapist in a public school district, I am closely involved with the most involved and the most fragile. Unfortunately, that also means they are the ones most forgotten. At work I advocate for them, their families, and their involvement in school, and now I'm advocating for their access to public education. They will be the ones that are the most hurt by HB3.

I implore you to please vote NO to HB3. But if you will ignore my (and many others request), then at the very minimum the amount per student should be equal. It is unfair that those who can afford private school are deemed to be worth more in the eye of the state then those who rely on and can only access public education

Kathleen Schwartz

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote no to vouchers! They unfairly benefit the few that can already afford private schools. Many students with special needs would never be admitted to private schools. Public money should support public schools! Vouchers will hurt the majority of students!

Holland Beseda

Self

Hutto, TX

I oppose HB3 because I believe that as a society, we have an imperative to make free, appropriate public education available to all students. HB3 takes taxpayer dollars out of public schools to subsidize private school vouchers. This is unacceptable. I support Texas children and families and ask you to stand with us against HB3.

Meredith Turnbow

self - mom

Highland Village, TX

No one wants private school vouchers. There is already school choice but the public shouldn't have to pay if people choose private school. Release the funds being held hostage for public school education and increase the amount per student attending public school which hasn't been increased in over 5-6 years!

Rhonda Anderson

Myself

Longview, TX

I am testifying in favor of this bill, it's time for Texas to have parental choice

Cynthia Brinkmeyer

Self - HR Consultant

Cypress, TX

The Texas Constitution Article VII guarantees that "ALL Texas children have access to a QUALITY PUBLIC education. The state legislature is responsible for establishing and maintaining the system." Republicans have had control of the TX legislature for over 30 years. If the system is failing, why are they blaming everyone but themselves? Conservatives are supposed to be Constitution advocates with a goal of smaller government. HB 3 does the exact opposite of both of those things. While, it is widely favored by Republicans, it cannot be considered a conservative bill. It is not fiscally responsible. The current estimate is that by 2030 this program will cost the state over $4.5B. Other current states underestimated their cost by 2-6x. Where is that money going to come from? Not the governor's office. School choice exists in Texas for those that wish to go that route. Proposed vouchers do not cover the cost of a private school education if you look at current averages. These tuition rates will also continue to rise. Vouchers are simply welfare for the rich, while public education suffers. The downfall of public education is a positive for no one. I oppose house HB3.

Tamara Stovall

Self

Rowlett, TX

Please protect public schools and public school educators; oppose HB3. I worked for 33 years and loved most of my time. I have earned my TRS and do not want to see it diminished. I also do not want my taxes going to fund voucher/private school education.

Alma Martinez

Self/educator

Portland, TX

I am firmly against creating a voucher program taking tax dollars away from public schools to be used to subsidize tuition for private schools. Calling this an "education savings account program" is insulting. As an educator, I frequently had to use personal funds to buy the supplies needed to create and present lessons to students. Do not undermine our public schools and make it harder for educators to do their job of preparing our young Texans to be productive tax paying Texans in the future. I expect you to represent your constituents and vote against the creation of a voucher program.

Rachel Crosby

Self

Rowlett, TX

I oppose the house bill 3. As a soon to be homeschool mom in the next school year I see this bill as potentially invasive on private citizens' rights to school their children in the way they see fit. While it may seem like a grand idea to give taxpayer money to private schools and vouchers to homeschool families, it is a doorway into state regulation of a private institution. State money should stay with state education. Pay teachers more! That would fix nearly every educational problem that exists. A good teacher with a smaller classroom size can do more good than all of the classroom resources and an overwhelmed teacher with a 30+ student to teacher ratio. No one can put up with the pressures of teaching without a livable wage, and monetary enticement and advancement over time. Give our money back to the teachers and let teachers be teachers. State regulations are crushing.

Vouchers and school choice take even more resources away from our public system and will compound the problems that already exist.

As a parent who has a degree in education, has had her kids in private, public, and eventually home education, I do not believe that taxes being siphoned away from the public system would be at all beneficial.

Cheryl Bentley

Self

Amarillo, TX

This will ruin our school system. Do not pass this bill.

Holly Anderson

Crowley ISD

Benbrook, TX

PLEASE VOTE AGAINST! Public schools still offer choice. Vouchers are welfare for the rich.

Lowry Manders

Self

Dallas, TX

As the daughter of a public school educator, an educator myself, and the mother of 2 children in public schools, I strongly against the voucher bills. Our public schools need more support, not less.

Laura Johnson

Self - engineer

Cypress, TX

I am begging the Texas House of Representatives to vote against school vouchers. Every other state who implemented a similar plan has failed to improve education for the children of the state. This will result in defunding public schools and hurt our poorest communities the worst. If you truly want the best for our children, vote to invest directly into public schools. Children should not be treated like a business.

Aiyana Franco

Self

Austin, TX

NO. NO. NO.

Peggy Reeder

Self, Retired

Georgetown, TX

I am adamantly opposed to school vouchers in any form, including education savings account programs. As a former teacher, I recognize that public schools need all of the resources that are available. Public schools are required to educate all children. When parents are given resources to remove their children from public school, that means that those resources are no longer available to school districts. With less money, teacher pay and working conditions deteriorate. Teachers will leave. Especially the best teachers who can easily find jobs elsewhere. The better students will also leave because the quality of education goes downhill. Ultimately, the public school is left with the students who have the most needs, and the teachers who cannot easily move on. This does not fill the promise made to citizens of the state of Texas that all children will receive a quality education. This absolutely dumps on the kids who most need help. I OBJECT!!

Melanie Lerew

Self/physician/mother

Wichita Falls, TX

We are OPPOSED TO HOUSE BILL 3

Please vote no

Ricardo Guimbarda

self/retired

Austin, TX

Please vote against HB 3. Please support public education.

Amanda Stevenson

Teacher - Music Education

San Antonio, TX

Public education provides life to our communities, state and our nation. It provides a place for kids to learn skills that are vital to living in this world. They are taught by certified professionals who care for them. It does not matter where they come from, who they are, if they have any financial or parental support. Teachers care for them. As a teacher, I have had many students who have returned to public school from charter schools. They return with a lack of education. Students return from charter schools with a lack of social skills. As a music teacher, they come back with deficiency in fundamental skills to play instruments because they were not taught by a music professional. Charter schools do not provide proper education and our future needs more. Public schools provide proper education. Public schools build skills, passion and love. Texas needs public school.

Tanya Lavelle

Self

CEDAR PARK, TX

I am a mother to a kindergartner in the TX Public School System, a taxpayer and a voter and I am vehemently against HB 3. For the purpose of my comments I will refer to "education savings accounts" by their more common and accepted name, school vouchers. School voucher programs are flawed in a myriad of ways. They've been shown to destabilize school systems (see: AZ), favor wealthy students, and invest money in schools that can reject any student for any reason, including a disability. School voucher programs take public tax dollars out of the public school system they're meant to fund, and invest them in private enterprise: I am unaware of any other scheme that misappropriates my tax dollars like this. But above and beyond anything mentioned above, school vouchers will set up Texas' children for failure. Gov. Abbott himself admitted that if a school voucher program is implemented, Texas public schools will lose money. The state already woefully underfunds the public school system to the point that we're a national punch line. My son's teacher is a brilliant, talented and kind woman who connects with him at a deeply personal level: there's no reason why she should have to print her lesson plans at home because the school ran through their copy budget. In Texas, all children have a right to a quality public education - HB 3 will strip them of this right by investing public tax dollars into private education. There is no situation in which the vast majority of Texas families should be shoved to the side to cater to a few wealthy ones. Please vote against this bill and actually invest in Texas' school kids: it is your responsibility to do so.

John Mckiernan-Gonzalez

self - educator

Austin, TX

My name is John Mckiernan-Gonzalez, I am a faculty member at Texas State University, but I am here as a private citizen, a public university graduate, a parent, a scholarship kid, a beneficiary of public schools.

Right now, public school funding is high drama, a showdown at the gates of everyone's local middle school. Will Tim Dunn's 6 million dollars campaign donation get Governor Abbott to spend all his political capital on giving 2.6 billion dollars a year to unaccountable private schools? Will the news of Jeff Yass' 12-million-dollar donation to Abbott's campaign chest convince enough rural representatives to give up on their Article IX constitutional mandate "to make suitable provisions for the support and maintenance of a system of Public Free Schools." Will they vote against often the largest and most predictable employer and institution in their rural districts? Will they vote to send rural money to private schools in high income zip codes in Austin, Dallas, Houston, and San Antonio? Will Jeff Yass' company take 3% off each voucher or ESA transaction to process the movement of public funds to private schools?

Too much drama, and deeply disrespectful to the work you do as representatives.

So, this is my no-drama suggestion. Let HB3 laps and devote the 4.4 billion dollars that 370,000 private school students might use to raise the basic allotment, adjust COLA adjustment to address housing costs, and make back the 2.6 billion dollar hole in the special education our system faces.

My back of the napkin calculations is 260,000 private school students * 10,000.00 = 2.6 billion dollars to private schools. That is 2.6 billion dollars of public funds that gets us to the current status quo. 2.6 billion public dollars in search of zero better public-school outcomes.

Now, if the numbers are correct that close to 70% of students who receive vouchers are already attending private, that leaves 30% who might be pushing to get into private schools. That is 250,000 divided by 70% = 371,428 students who could potentially attend private schools with a 10,000-dollar voucher. Or, 121,000 students – that is 1.2 billion dollars, or a total 3.7 billion dollars. But the 121,000 students leaving Texas Public Schools will leave at a minimum (basic allotment at 6,000) 750-million-dollar allotment hole, and a whole lot of chaos for districts already struggling to keep schools going and children educated.

Let us let you eliminate all this drama. Find other ways to keep our historically large surplus in publicly accountable, democratically run public schools.

Thank you for your time.

John Mckiernan-Gonzalez

Holly JACKSON

Seelf

LAGO VISTA, TX

I am OPPOSED to any bill taking money from public education to fund private education. If you do anything, you need to increase the basic allotment by at least $1,300! As a later in life Republican that has been a huge Abbott fan, I am NOT happy nor do I agree with redirecting funds for private education. We were sold a scam with the lottery years ago - if all those dollars went into education as they made us believe, Texas would have first class public schools for all.

Jitka Snoblova

Self

Austin, TX

No to HB 3

Finances should not be taken away from public schools. I believe that well funded public education is the key to a successful, stable society.

Angela Macias

Myself

Dallas, TX

No to school vouchers. Fully fund our schools. We are the richest state but one of the poorest funded school systems.

Wendy Graves
Parent, Educator
Richards, TX

I agree parents should have choice, but as a tax payer, I should not pay for their choice. Do the right thing by tax payers!

Bobby Shelton
self
Haltom City, TX

I appose school vouchers. It is illegal and not constitutional with our state law.

Brona Hudson
Self
Allen, TX

Vouchers are not going to work an will undermine public education. Vote no to vouchers.

Jennifer Young
Self
Wylie, TX

I do not want this voucher system. Please vote no to HB3 menachem marasow

Chabad of Round Rock
round rock, TX

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Lou Ann Rockwell-Huseth

Self

Weatherford, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House of Representatives,

I am writing to express my deep concern and strong opposition to House Bill 3. This legislation threatens to undermine the very foundation of our public education system, with far-reaching consequences for our students, communities, and higher education institutions.

Impact on Students and Communities

House Bill 3 proposes the creation of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs), diverting substantial funds from public schools to private institutions. This shift could significantly reduce public school enrollment, leading to diminished resources and support for the majority of our students. Such a reduction not only affects educational quality but also weakens the communal bonds that our public schools foster. ?

Consequences for Higher Education

A decline in public school quality may result in fewer students being adequately prepared for higher education. This potential decrease in university-ready graduates poses a threat to the future of our state's workforce and economic stability.

Influence of Wealthy Individuals

It is deeply troubling to observe that House Bill 3 appears to be heavily influenced by a select group of wealthy West Texas billionaires, notably Tim Dunn and brothers Farris and Dan Wilks. These individuals have funneled immense resources to politicians, steering Texas toward their vision of Christian nationalism. Such outsized influence raises serious concerns about the integrity of our democratic processes and the true beneficiaries of this legislation. ?

Call to Action

I urge you to consider the long-term implications of House Bill 3 on our public education system and the communities it serves. Our legislators should stand firm in their commitment to represent the interests of their constituents, not the agendas of a powerful few. Please oppose House Bill 3 and work towards solutions that genuinely benefit all Texans.

Katrina Gabrielson

Self

Kingwood, TX

Public schools are woefully underfunded. I've been teaching since 1995 and can speak from experience that they have always been underfunded, but now, with inflation on the rise and wages not meeting that inflation rise, teachers will no longer be able to fill in the gaps where the state fails to support them. There has not been one school year that I have not funded my own classroom so I could put an alphabet on my wall, organize my classroom, set up stations for small group learning...the list does not end. We need to make sure that our established schools get the funding they need before throwing money at a program that will barely affect 2% of the students in our state. It is an irresponsible use of money. Education shapes our future; your bill will put disadvantaged students at an even bigger disadvantage.

Teresa Gargotta Smith

Myself and my grandchildren retired healthcare administrator

Houston, TX

Taxpayers funds belong in public schools. People who choose to homeschool or send their children to private or parochial schools are free to do so, but not on the taxpayer dime. Vouchers will primarily benefit parents who already send kids to private schools and can afford to do so. Robbing the poor to give handouts to the affluent is morally reprehensible. Stop vouchers. This is just a method to keep those at the bottom of the socioeconomic scale down

Brad Owen, Dr.
Burkburnett ISD
Burkburnett, TX

While we oppose ESAs, should this Bill move forward, we want guardrails that follow the original intent of this Bill from the 88th session. ESAs should not be available to parents of kids who have already made their choice to attend private school. ESAs should only be available to parents of kids who are actually choosing to move their kids from a public school to a private school. ESAs should also be prioritized for students in failing public schools, areas of high crime or violence, and for students coming from the lowest socio-economic backgrounds. Special Education students must also be a priority and if there is additional money to flow to the private schools for SpEd students, then those schools should have to provide IDEA services.

Also, any parent receiving an ESA for their student to attend a private school should not seek to have the local public school provide for SpEd testing. The private school who is receiving state funds for the student can contract with an outside source for that testing. Don't pull public kids and then force public schools to handle the SpEd referrals for the private schools.

This Bill is actually a $2 Billion Bill this biennium, because it is costing $1 Billion for just school year 2026-2027. And let's don't kid anyone, this Bill price tag will double by next biennium and won't be because of success, it will be because there are already 330,000 kids in private school. Those parents will want this money and that will cost $3.3 Billion alone.

Again, we oppose any ESA. Parents already have choice in this state. And this will boil down to school choice on the part of the private school, versus parent choice. Also, 158 out of 254 counties don't even have private school options. So this isn't even available for over half the state geographically. We don't need another entitlement program that will further widen the gap between the "haves" and the "have nots." This will be a major step backwards when it comes to segregation of several student groups. This is not good.

Lisa Kuhl
Self homemaker/teacher
Willis, TX

I am for the education savings account. I would like to ask that you consider the middle class and those in that category when deciding who is applicable to apply. We had to make a critical decision to pull our child from public school last year. There were many many safety concerns as well as academic concerns and after a teacher's aid showed pornography to my child we knew that it was time to get him out of the public school system. We did not know how in the world we were going to pay for private school, but we have somehow managed to put him in this year. We have seen a complete turnaround in our son. He was always one of the top students academically, but he is thriving, socially, and emotionally. He feels safe in this environment and he is eager and excited to learn. We are confident in the curriculum that is provided, and we are also thankful that our son can live out his faith without being persecuted or exposed to indoctrination of sexual material that he should not be exposed to in the public school. The public school application that my son was receiving was for the most part on a computer with no interaction with the lessons provided. We are never going back to the public school system. If we are not able to afford private school in the following years, we will be going to an online option. I would love to be able to use the tax dollars for my son/daily allotment per student for my child to be able to go to private school and continue his education. I am a former teacher, and I also had two older children go through the public school system. With my last child, things have changed drastically, and it is not the right fit for him at all.

Gonzalo Sanchez
Self
Austin, TX

Do not give the money to private schools you idiots- you are against America if you do it .

Emily New
self
San Antonio, TX

Vouchers will ultimately undermine public education in Texas. They will pull funding from already underfunded public schools. Texans already have a plethora of choices- local public schools, public magnet schools, in-district school choice, charter schools, private schools, and homeschooling.

I choose to homeschool my child, but I want to see fully-funded public schools that provide high-quality education as a communal good. That benefits all of us. Further, I do not want to see public tax dollars spent on homeschooling, making the Texas government think it needs to dictate any more specifics about what and how homeschoolers learn.

I urge lawmakers to vote against any education savings account program or voucher system.

Jasmine Masand
Self - Corporate Planning Manager & Mom
Frisco, TX

I am a proud product of Texas Public Schools, from Kindergarten through college (University of Texas at Austin). As a mother now, I send both of my children to public schools and this is a major reason for my husband and I to move to Frisco (great public schools). I'm concerned that HB3 will take away much-needed public school funds to support the wealthy families who choose to send their children to private schools. My husband and I can afford private schools, but we chose public school for our kids for several reasons. I currently have great choices of where to send my children and I chose FISD. With the passing of this bill I'm concerned that the reduction of funding to our public schools will lower the quality of my district, reducing my options for my children. Additionally, another reason why my family utilizes public schools is that the education does not include religious teachings that our family does not follow. Please do not pass HB3, it will be detrimental to our great Texas public schools and your millions of constituents who choose to utilize them.

Sydnee Mwakutuya
Self, social worker
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose HB3. As a social worker, I must speak against all legislation that will harm low income and marginalized communities. This bill will decrease funding toward public education and further increase the barriers and gaps that are seen in Texas public schools.

Armando Flores
Self
Hutto, TX

This could cost a billion dollars to implement with the cost only increasing in coming years. We can not afford this expense. This will harm our public schools. Private schools have the power to select their students which will lead to segregation in our education system. This would be a massive step backwards.

Sharon Mineo

Self, Admin

Austin, TX

I absolutely do not support my tax dollars/public funds going to private schools, and a majority of Texans agree with me: A recent poll found that 65% of 1,275 potential 2026 voters — including K-12 parents, Democrats, Independents, Republicans, urban residents and rural residents — totally oppose school vouchers. Private schools will be free to turn down any student for any reason, including being non-white, non-Christian, working class, lower performing, and special needs (and to be clear, I do not support vouchers even if you require private schools to take all applicants); and the average working or middle class parent still won't be able to afford private school with the vouchers, so the only people who will benefit will be upper class parents who would be sending their kids to private school regardless of the voucher program, and the companies that provide the vouchers. If the State of Texas has one billion dollars to invest in education, it should be going to our underfunded public schools and be used to attract and retain teachers, period. If the premise of the voucher program is that public schools are so bad that students need to go to private school, it's your own fault for devaluing public education. That one billion dollars could help solve the problem if funneled to public schools. Our children deserve a free, quality education. Everything about this bill is antithetical to that premise. Vote no on HB 3.

Amy Trevino

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I want our public tax dollars to stay in our public schools. Parents can currently choose to send their children to private school but THEY need to pay that tuition. Vouchers were a huge failure in Arizona. 158 Texas counties have NO private school. Private schools can choose who they accept. This amounts to a giveaway to wealthy parents who are already paying private school tuition. This is putting wealthy donors wishes above our Texas kids. Fully fund and improve our PUBLIC schools!!!

Jennifer Rioja

N/A

Corpus Christi, TX

Public funding is for public schools!!

Jennifer Harrell
Texas State Teachers' Association
Pflugerville, TX

Honorable Members of the Texas House of Representatives,

My name is Jennifer Harrell. I am a dedicated public school educator with 23 years of experience in Texas, a mother of two bilingual children thriving in a Dual Language program, and a representative of the Texas State Teachers Association.

I urge you to consider the impact of school vouchers on Texas' 1 million English Learners—24% of our public school students. While vouchers promise choice, they instead create barriers for these students and their families.

Public Schools Provide Guaranteed Support

Texas public schools must provide certified ESL teachers and specialized programs like Dual Language instruction. As Commissioner Mike Morath stated on February 25, 2025, Texas is the best state for English Learners, and we continue to improve. In my district, Dual Language students outperform their monolingual peers.

Private schools, however, are not required to offer ESL support, hire bilingual-certified teachers, or track language development. Without these resources, English Learners risk falling behind. Vouchers don't expand opportunity—they create obstacles. Instead of diverting funds, we must invest in public schools to ensure all students receive the support they need.

Limited Access & Hidden Costs

Unlike public schools, private schools can deny admission based on entrance exams, interviews, or English proficiency. Even with a voucher, many English Learner families—often from low-income backgrounds—cannot afford tuition, books, uniforms, or transportation. If a choice isn't financially accessible, it isn't truly a choice.

Transportation Barriers & Lack of Accountability

Most private schools don't provide transportation, leaving working families without a way to get their children to school. Additionally, private schools accepting vouchers are not required to track English Learner progress, report student outcomes, or ensure equitable access. How can we ensure taxpayer dollars are truly serving these students?

Risk of Increased Inequities

Vouchers will drain resources from the very schools that serve the highest number of English Learners, deepening inequities. Over time, this will create a two-tiered system—one for those who can afford private tuition and another for those left behind in underfunded public schools.

A Texas-Sized Commitment to All Students

Texas values opportunity—but opportunity must be real, not theoretical. To ensure every child receives a quality education, we must fully fund bilingual programs, recruit ESL-certified teachers, and strengthen our public schools.

Our public schools are the only ones legally required to serve every child in Texas. As Republican Rep. John Raney stated, "Using taxpayer dollars to fund an entitlement program is not conservative, and it's bad public policy." Let's invest in the schools that serve all Texas children—not undermine them.

Katrina Yang

Self

Cypress, TX

As a constituent of District 130, I would like to voice my opinion that school choice will not lead to more opportunity for ALL children and will greatly hurt public education. As a public school teacher and parent, I will not argue that there are things in public Ed that need to change. However, public education in the state of Texas has not been provided the proper funding needed to maximize potential. For example, if you have a car that gets 20 miles per gallon and a 17 gallon tank, and I tell you that you need to travel 320-340 miles without refueling. It seems like no problem, but what I failed to mention is you can only fill your tank 3/4 of the way. Can you get 320 miles? No. Are you a failure as a driver? No, you were simply given a task that is not obtainable with your guidelines and goal. In the same manner, this is what you have done to public school and educators. The demands on teachers and schools increase constantly, but funding has not changed. The reason public schools have not been able to reach their maximum potential is on you, law makers, not educators. We work tirelessly to give kids all that we can with what we have. If you say schools have failed, it is because you have failed our schools and kids. Instead of taking money from public education to meet the needs of all students, give us the resources to serve all students.

On another note, many of the people I know that have left public schools for private schools is because of the emphasis on the STAAR test. Guess what? That's on you as well. Teachers do not need a high stakes test to know how to teach. If public tax money leaves public schools, then STAAR does too. That or you tell private schools accepting educational savings accounts they must give the same testing for accountability. That is how you serve all students.

I implore you to stop saying this bill will give low income families choice. The largest private school in my area that is often used as an example for school choice is $18,000 for elementary and up to $23,000 for high school. It is not fiscally possible for a family living pay check to paycheck to contribute the difference in tuition even with scholarships.

In addition, as a teacher and spouse of a teacher please look at the numbers for teacher retirement. The head of TRS testified that the teacher retirement system will become unstable if we lose 1% of teachers actively contributing. Let me repeat that, 1%. Please know, that while many republican teachers are not actively speaking out against you on this because they agree with other Republican policies, if you threaten the livelihood of retired teachers and those currently in the profession, we will not stay quiet. Dr. Oliverson, as my representative that has been involved in public school board elections and vocalizes support for public education, this is your chance to prove you mean what you say. Vote no on HB3.

Lise Bessant

Voter and Tax Payer

Fort Worth, TX

This will weaken our school system, and my property value

Tyler Espino

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 as it will take public tax payer money from communities and students that are in need.

This is an elitist power grab and must be stop. We the people will not stand for it.

Noah Finney-DeWitte

self

austin, TX

I am opposed to the HB 3 Bill

Corrie Howell

self

Austin, TX

As a constituent in Travis County, I strongly oppose the school voucher bill. Vouchers divert critical funding away from public schools, redirecting taxpayer dollars to private institutions with little to no transparency or accountability.

While HB3 claims to support low-income families, its provisions will ultimately leave many underserved students behind. Public funds should be invested in strengthening our public schools, not subsidizing private education.

I urge you to vote against this bill and prioritize equitable, well-funded public education for all.

Marcy McDonough

Self

Coppell, TX

I do not support HB 3 because it will syphon money away from public schools, and I fully support the concept of unifying the country with a common understanding of history and science. We must fully fund public schools to better ensure an educated society that includes all children.

STACY Binckley

Self

Cypress, TX

No to Public School Vouchers!!!
Absolutely no.

Skylr McCormick-Isom

Self, Optometric Technician

Austin, TX

Children whose families cannot afford private school should have access to the same quality of education as wealthy families. There is absolutely no reason to take money out of my wallet and give it to private schools and wealthy families who can already afford quality education. Especially when public school is already under-funded and teachers are underpaid. How do you expect teachers at public schools to support and teach children when they aren't being compensated, and when the schools themselves aren't being funded? Please, support quality education for all. Do not pass this bill.

Anne Ormsby

Self

Houston, TX

Texas leaders who claim to be pro-life, and yet want to screw over children once they are born are not pro-life. This bill is an attempt to dissolve the line between church and state, in a state that already deeply underfunds education and healthcare for children. The people that lose in this bill are parents and children, and our leaders want to make it seem that is to offer more choices for children and parents; however, this will further lead to the decline of education in this state. It is absolutely shameful this has gotten so far.

Brandy Gray

Self, Speech Therapist

Georgetown, TX

I do not support HB 3. It will not provide choice to all. It will take funds away from our already underfunded public schools. Let's fully fund public schools and see what happens. Let's make public education in Texas the best!

Leigh Ann Kasberg
Self/ School Counselor
Cypress, TX

School vouchers take funds away from public schools and divert them to private entities. These private schools are not required to follow many of the rules, TEKS, or state testing that public schools must comply with. Also, the bill provides more money to private school students than public school. All students should have equal funding.

Miguel Saldana
Parent and tax payer
Houston, TX

If you can spare 2 minutes, please send your public comment.

Today, a public hearing at the Texas Capitol is happening on the school voucher bill (HB 3). Please take 2 minutes to send your comment to our legislators!

Copy and paste this into the comments and SELECT HB3 as the bill.

Esteemed Committee Members,
We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1. Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
2. HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
3. Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
4. We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas with the exception of only a few Texans. Please reject this bill.

Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Blair Lundborg
Self
Waco, TX

Vouchers will hurt public education and will have harmful effects for decades. Please don't do this to our children.

Mary Beth Brady
Self
Austin, TX

I'm against this bill. I do not support school vouchers. This act is yet another way to hurt our already underfunded private schools and give money to the wealthy and hurting the children and families in our community who need help the most. I will support elected officials who represent and act based on what their constituents want. For those acting in the interests of lobbyists, billionaires, and self, you will not have my vote going forward.

Maria Izaguirre
La Joya SPED Dept.
Mission, TX

I oppose HB3

Laritza Botello
Self/ Speech Language Pathologist Assistant
Victoria, TX

I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability

Scott Klinge, Mr.
Ingram Elementary School
Kerrville, TX

Parents already have school choice. This bill is to provide for the parents that already send their students to private schools. Meanwhile, you will take money away from the public system. Texas already ranks in the bottom 10 in per-student public education funding. Lawmakers should focus on improving the funding disparities in our current system before implementing a new, private system. If a voucher is passed, our district will lose $532,915, meaning we would have to cut nine teachers, raising the student teacher ratio by almost 6%. How is this good for any student? There is nowhere else for our students to "choose" to go that has space for them anyway. This is such a monumentally bad idea. Vote no. Please

Michele Henning
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I highly disagree that public funds be used for people who choose to send their children to a private school should not be awarded public funds unless the door swings both ways and underprivileged children are allowed to attend with the private school paying a full scholarship for these students. There must be an equal distribution on all parts. Public funds are for the public education. If privileged students and families want funds have them attend a public school. Why is this even a matter that you don't understand????!!!!

Esther Uribe, MLS
Self/school-librarian
Houston, TX

I urge you to vote "NO" on HB 3. As a public school educator, I know the harm it will cause to our already underfunded schools. Vouchers defund public schools, harm student learning, and discriminate against vulnerable kids. Vouchers subsidize private school tuition for the wealthy; 70% of voucher recipients nationally are already in private schools. The voucher will not provide enough financial assistance for most economically disadvantaged public school students to afford the private school tuition. It is like robbing the rich to feed the poor.

The best analogy I can think of is public safety. The police department is funded using tax dollars. If a private citizen wants to hire a security guard, they would need to fund it themselves. Allowing a private citizen to use public tax dollars to pay for a private security detail would take public dollars away from the police force, causing more stress on the already underfunded police departments to the detriment of public safety. Most reasonable people understand this. Public education is just as important, if not more so, than public safety. By fully funding public education, we could completely end the school-to-prison pipeline, saving the state money in the long run.

Investing in the education of our children is the right thing to do. It may sound cliché to say "the children are our future," but it is the absolute truth. Without public education, we would have no doctors, lawyers, bankers, judges, legislators, professors, or any other professions. Teachers are the most undervalued, overworked, over-regulated profession. We have degrees in education, and yet people who have no expertise are writing laws to tell us what and how to teach. There is a shortage of certified teachers willing to teach because of how poorly we are paid and treated. This has brought many unqualified, uncertified teachers into the classroom to the detriment of students. It is counter-intuitive. I would not want unqualified, untrained "associate doctors" to perform medical procedures or prescribe treatment. I also do not want unqualified, untrained "associate teachers" to be responsible for my child's core education. This is what underfunding public education is causing, and a voucher program will only make it worse.

Vouchers come in way over budget. Arizona's voucher scheme costs 1400% higher than advocates promised. Vouchers have caused the largest academic declines ever recorded, surpassing learning loss from Hurricane Katrina and the COVID-19 pandemic. Many voucher-funded schools discriminate against LGBTQ+ students or those with special needs. The Voucher Program Proposed in HB 3 will put teacher retirement funding at risk, and will likely cause tax increases in the future that could be avoided.

The only people who stand to benefit are those who can already afford private tuition. I do NOT want my tax dollars to subsidize private tuition for the rich at the expense of the economically disadvantaged. Fund our schools.

Emma Hahn
Self-mother of four
Pearland, TX

I DO NOT WANT SCHOOL VOUCHERS. Please do not pass any bill in favor of defunding our public school system.

Taylor Burge
Self, small business owner
Lockhart, TX

I oppose these vouchers. If 2% of our students in my district use vouchers, that will pull kids from all different campuses away from our schools. But because they'll come from different schools, our district can't simply reduce teachers. Our districts maintenance needs would remain the same - they'd still need the same amount of teachers because, for example, Ms Smith's 3rd grade class loss one of 20 students, she'll need to stay. But our district will still need to pay her without the voucher child's funding. Also, if this voucher passes, please please cap the income of recipients to under 100k income. Lastly, please invest more in our schools. Parents should be viewed as PARTNERS in their schools, not customers. Parents should be invited to be involved and participate. That is how we create inclusive schools that serve all of our children.

Lauren Baker
Brenham
Brenham, TX

Please! For the sake of my children and all students in Texas - DO NOT DO THIS! We need MORE funding in our schools, NOT LESS!

Mary Zimmerman
Self / public school parent
Austin, TX

Please do not pass HB 3 out of Committee. Focus on making our schools whole instead.

April Ogboenyiya
Self
Dallas, TX

I don't want public education funds to be allocated for usage for private education. School vouchers programs that have been implemented in other states have been unsuccessful at truly achieving school choice. Those programs have only managed to deplete their education budgets with no return on their investment. Why would we want to repeat the same mistake. We should be focusing on property funding public education. Our public schools are severely underfunded which of course negatively impacts academic gains. If any student/family receives voucher funds then they should only be allowed to use those funds at schools that require the same accountability standards as public schools (attendance, standardized tests, special education services, etc.) And there should never be a formula that would give voucher program students more per pupil payment than public school students receive.

Maricela Bustillos Rodriguez
Self
Lewisville, TX

As both a parent and a special education teacher at a Title I campus in Lewisville ISD (LISD), I strongly oppose HB 3 by Rep. Buckley and its education savings account (ESA) program. LISD's One Ask is clear: fully fund public schools and reject vouchers. This bill does the opposite by diverting taxpayer dollars from public schools—where over 92% of Texas students are educated—to private institutions that are not held to the same standards of accountability, transparency, or student access.

At my Title I school, our students rely on the resources and support provided by public education. Many come from economically disadvantaged backgrounds and require specialized services, intervention programs, and individualized support. ESA programs do not guarantee these protections. Private schools can deny enrollment, refuse accommodations for students with disabilities, and lack oversight in how funds are used. Families may believe they are getting more opportunities, only to find that their child's needs are not met—or worse, that they are pushed out without recourse.

Furthermore, public schools in Texas are already struggling with chronic underfunding, rising costs, and unfunded mandates. Instead of funneling money into private schools that serve a select few, our legislature should prioritize funding for public schools, including teacher retention, special education services, mental health support, and classroom resources.

I urge lawmakers to listen to the voices of educators, parents, and districts like LISD. Reject HB 3 and fully fund our public schools—because all students deserve high-quality education, not just those who can afford.

Melanie Loughmiller
Self
Paris, TX

Please support public education! Our small communities need these services!

Lauren Shelton
Self, public school teacher
Brenham, TX

I oppose HB 3 and the establishment of state-controlled education savings account program. It will siphon taxpayer funds from an already beleaguered public school system.

Kayla Alix
Self
Seabrook, TX

My children benefitted from Public Education. They are all thriving in successful careers. As a product of public education, I achieved many accomplishments, and mentor students currently in P.E. I come from generations of educators. They have instilled so many positive attributes, therefore, I am and will advocate for ALL students in Texas to experience the same opportunities I and my children through Public Education.

Sarah Hansen
Self/University Professor
Cedar Creek, TX

Stop using students as cash cows to chip away at one of the untouchable pillars of our society: education. Your investment now is defunding the very future of the state and national economy for centuries to come.

Anne-Marie Alward
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the bill. I do not want school vouchers

Susan Wilson
Self
Austin, TX

I am against robbing public schools by passing this school voucher bill. I have been an admissions coordinator at three different public schools in Texas and they all had waiting lists at full price. Private schools give very little in financial aid and always pass over a student requiring that aid for one who will pay full tuition. This bill just gives a discount to families who are already going to private schools. Private schools routinely screen out students who have special needs, may be low-performing, or who have behavioral issues. Public schools are required to serve any and all children, regardless of need, available resources, or family belief systems. Texas already underserved public schools and this is another mortal blow. I adamantly oppose this bill.

Danielle Shoaf
Self
Cypress, TX

I do not support HB 3!

We should prioritize funding public schools that the majority of Texans will attend, instead of a small minority that will benefit from education savings.

It is frustrating to read so many comments from your community not supporting this bill and our legislators still supporting it. Very disappointed in our representatives.

Please listen to your constituents.

Shelly Elizalde, Director of Data, Assessment, and Accountability

Self

Portland, TX

As a Texas educator and administrator of 26 yrs, lifelong Texan, and descendent of a long line of educators, I whole-heartedly disagree with this bill. I believe in public education and the power it holds in our Texas society. We need to fix what is wrong instead of diverting funds elsewhere. Public education is essential to our state's success and survival not only for students but also for the way its jobs support communities all across the state. In many smaller communities, the school district is the largest employer! Private schools do not educate all children. They pick and choose who to admit. Public schools have had to figure out how to reach every child because we take them all (happily I might add!). Our teachers must become skilled in differentiating instruction for all levels in one class. More so now with no increase in funding. In addition, we figure out how to get all students to graduate despite barriers such as lack of attendance, language barriers, disability, and home-situation. Private schools don't deal with these issues because many times students with challenges would never be admitted. We also prepare students for real-world industry careers through CTE courses while still preparing them for mandated state testing on EOC's that are required for graduation. These things are also not required of private schools. Tack on public districts trying to navigate the most complicated accountability system to ever exist. We are publicly graded on all of these things while educating EVERY student. Private schools could/would never!! Please do not destroy our public school districts by passing this bill! I am a conservative republican and for smaller government. This bill does the exact opposite. Many like-minded educators are vehemently opposed to this bill as I am!

Gael Alward

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose the bill. I do not want school vouchers.

Jenny Crown

Self

Flower Mound, TX

It makes no sense to me for the state to give more money to a child attending private school than a child attending public school. This seems fiscally irresponsible especially since private schools are not regulated nor do they have to accept any child that applies. Vouchers have failed in other states that have implemented them, therefore, why would Texas go down this failed path and further hurt our state's education system?

Jana Collins

Self

Austin, TX

I am a lifelong Texan, a product of public education as were my parents and children. Vouchers in every single state where they have been implemented have destroyed public education. This scam has been perpetrated by Greg Abbott and his billionaire donors. No to vouchers!

Craig Campbell

Retired self

Austin, TX

The biggest advantage of private schools is their smaller size. We should fund public schools to a level where they can have smaller schools. Public high schools have had to grow to 4-5,000 students because of the economics of scale. We should set size standards for schools, so that the environment can be managed by educators and students. Very large schools are not conducive to learning, development, and mental health. Alienation of young people is more likely in large schools. A smaller school has more opportunity to participate in sports, band, and other activities, which help them establish their identity and agency.

I went to a small high school of 400-500. I could participate in football, basketball, track, and baseball even though I was a mediocre athlete. It helped me develop identity and agency. I think this was primarily because of school size. We should study the importance of school size.

Cathlin Shahriary
Self
Flower Mound, TX

HB 3 as it is currently written will negatively effect education in our state. Providing 10k in ESAs to people who seek private education while only providing 6.1k per student in public schools as the basic allotment shows a clear lack of equity for the students in our state. While the people who want this bill to pass would have you believe that public schools receive 15k per student, that is a false statement. The 15k figure provided includes special ed programming, covid funds which have not been renewed, repayment of bonds, and teacher incentive programs that many districts don't participate in. The basic allotment to is all we currently guarantee per student.

Many people would have you believe that the ESAs would allow low income students the chance to attend private school. The students I serve at my school in Lewisville, TX would offer you a different perspective. Most of my students have parents that work 1-3 jobs just to make enough to cover their basic living. The 10k voucher will maybe cover half the cost for them to attend Liberty Christian (a private school in our area). Those students still wouldn't be able to attend with the ESA. Not to mention that when implemented in Arizona, it didn't take long for the private schools to then raise their rates.

Let's also look at accountability. If you're going to provide public funds for private schools, then they should be held to the same accountability standards as our public schools through programming to meet student needs (special education and for our English learners) and requiring state assessments. There's no clear language in the bill to show what happens to a student who uses a voucher to go to private school but then gets kicked out and has to go to public school. Does the private school get to keep the money? Should it follow the child to public school? Will the money be metted out to private schools based on attendance just like it is to public schools? Same for the homeschooling voucher. There has to be accountability or we are just sending those private schools and parents a blank check.

Parents already have plenty of choice in our state on where their child can go to school. In our district, parents can transfer to any school for programming reasons (we offer Spanish immersion at one campus, 2 way and 1 way dual language at others, several STEM academies, and so much more). If they don't like the public school options there are plenty of charter schools like Founders Classical Academy (just down the road) or North Texas Collegiate (right next to my campus). The parents also wouldn't use the ESAs to attend any of these schools as they are public charter schools.

Public funds should stay with public education. They should help the students who need them the most.

Rebecca Krauter
Self - Teacher
Round Rock, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a teacher and a parent, I implore you to put funding back into public education and work once more towards making education for all Texans a priority.

Jacqueline Markham
Self
Round Rock, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Erin Holder

Self, Educational Researcher

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose House Bill 3, which would divert public tax dollars to private schools through education savings accounts. Public funds should support public schools, which serve all students, not private institutions that can pick and choose whom they admit.

As an educational researcher in the K-12 school space, I regularly speak with teachers and students who are already struggling with underfunded classrooms, teacher shortages, and limited resources. HB 3 threatens to further weaken public schools, particularly in rural and low-income areas where school choice programs do not offer real alternatives. Instead of funneling taxpayer money into private institutions with little oversight, we should invest in strengthening public education—raising teacher pay, improving resources, and addressing systemic challenges.

Public education is a cornerstone of Texas communities. I urge you to reject HB 3 and prioritize policies that benefit all Texas students, not just a select few.

Phyllis Glenn, Dr.

Self and children of Texas

Garland, TX

Funding for Texas schools is already at a sharply lower level than needed. With no increases in years and increasing costs, children, especially those in poverty, are suffering. These same children who will be in the workforce very soon deserve the same level and quality of education as those from rich and wealthy families; however, these children will not have equal access if taxpayers pay for private school tuition. We are getting perilously close to being “separate and unequal” since the wealthy can and do pay for their children’s private education PLUS would have taxpayer money in addition to what they can pay.

The reason the USA has been a leader in the world is because we have striven to educate our young — every child. While children in poverty will get one level of service, the rich are given not only what their parents pay for but also a larger share of taxpayer dollars than the child living in poverty.

I strongly disagree with this unfair distribution of funds. The fact

Dani Brandimarte

Myself

Austin, TX

No to hb3

Janelle Harre

Self

Keller, TX

I do not support the school voucher / education savings account program. The focus should be fully funding public schools for the increase in inflation not providing a tax break for private education which is a family choice to make.

Julie Scoggins

Self

Prosper, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you.

Jennifer Bales

Self

North Richland Hills, TX

I have been homeschooling for 18 years. Texas Homeschool Coalition does not speak for me, nor for many of my homeschooling friends. Out of approximately 750,000 homeschooling families in Texas, they only have around 100,000 member families. They do not speak for all homeschoolers in Texas! I oppose HB3 because I am a fiscal conservative who does not want another government program funded by my tax dollars. The public schools are largely a disaster, but they serve a necessary purpose in our free society. So I urge the governor and our elected representatives to fix the public school problems in our state BEFORE spending state funds to create ESAs. What are you doing to improve our public schools? And why hasn't the concept of ESA programs been on the ballot for the voters to decide? "School choice" has various definitions for various people, and all previous ballot questions regarding "school choice" did not accurately represent the formation, intention, nor implementation of an ESA program. I urge Texas legislators to focus on improving our public schools and not support ESAs until that has been done. Thank you.

Gabriel Barrera, Mr.

Self Student

Houston, TX

My name is Gabriel Barrera, and I live in 77084. I ask that you vote no to HB3, HB2, or any voucher/ESA bill and instead prioritize fully funding public schools and increasing the basic allotment to catch up with inflation, and support strong teacher and staff pay raises. Tax dollars should support all students, not just a select few. Thank you for your time.

Allison Martinez, Dr

Self

Bryan, TX

Hello. I have been an educator for 13 years. I have worked in the following grades: prek, kindergarten and 1st grade. During my time as an educator I have gotten my PhD from Texas A&M University. I chose to teach in BISD because I wanted to give back to my community where I grew up. The voucher program would hurt the school district I teach in and the students I serve. We are already severely underfunded since we are still operating on the budget from 2019. A lot of the money comes from my pocket in order to provide my students with the necessary tools needed to teach them each day. This should not be the case but it is a reality for many teachers. Most teachers really can't afford to do this but do so anyways because they are so dedicated to their students and the future of our society. Please strong consider this voucher program. Think about the students, teachers, principals and school districts it will affect.

Liz Stringer

Self - parent

Austin, TX

Please don't pass this bill. Thank you.

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Jack Steiner

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing in to voice my opposition to the proposed bill. Our public schools are operated by some of the hardest working Texans I know, supporting countless other Texans in their education. The proposed bill and the damage it would do to the funding of our public schools would be tantamount to theft from these hard workers, all in an attempt to put more money in the hands of already wealthy private schools.

Laurie Moore

self

Austin, TX

Please support HB 3 - We have choice for the wealthy, we need choice for all. This bill, however, needs to be simplified. The $ should follow the child with no strings. I have volunteered for many years in Leander ISD. I have seen the quality of education in our elementary schools deteriorate. I have seen the injection of the woke culture. I have seen many many parents pull their kids from our neighborhood school. I have seen many great teachers leave. I have seen disruptive students coddled so that an entire class loses learning so that one can misbehave. Competition is the only way to nudge the public schools back to their mission of teaching children.

Marcia Rayne, Ms

Self - public school substitute teacher

Kaufman, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Nick Schurk

self

Austin, TX

As a parent of a young child with special needs, I beg you not to sell out the future of disabled children. School vouchers benefit private schools that can and do discriminate against students with special needs. Show some spine and do what's best for Texas Children, not big money interests.

Lenelda Pennington

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Please vote No

Perry Bentley

Self/ Vice president Insurance ¹

Prosper, TX

Funding of vouchers for private schools.i am vehemently opposed to the use of tax dollars to fund this ridiculous bill. Funding our public schools and put your stupid ego aside Governor. If this passes you will never receive my vote again.

Liz Budnek

Self

Cypress, TX

Public funds in private schools do not help solve problems in education.

Call vouchers by any name you wish, you are still using public money a private business.

I wouldn't ask the public library to fund my barnes and noble habit.

Under funding Texas schools and telling educators to do more with even less isn't helping our students.

Don't forget there are real students with real lives that need a good education to become a good Texas resident in the future. ALL students deserve a chance to become a productive adult.

The students that live a county with no private schools (158 of them) should NOT pay taxes for vouchers, when only 6% of kids go to private school.

Use the money to keep and attract teachers, Admin and programs that help the 94% of kids that benefit from our school system.

Keri Stonecipher

Self - Homeschooling Mom

Katy, TX

I am a homeschooling mom and I am AGAINST this bill.

Felipe Mondragon

Self / Consultant

Richmond, TX

I am writing to express my concerns about House Bill 3 and its impact on public schools across Texas. While I support efforts to improve school safety, I am concerned that this bill places significant financial and operational burdens on school districts without providing the necessary resources to implement its mandates effectively.

Many districts, particularly smaller and rural ones, already struggle with funding shortages. Requiring them to meet increased security measures without adequate financial support forces them to make difficult trade-offs—potentially at the expense of critical educational programs and student services.

Furthermore, increasing police presence and surveillance in schools raises concerns about student well-being, particularly for marginalized communities. Safety measures should be balanced with investments in mental health resources, counseling, and community-based support systems that address the root causes of violence rather than just reacting to it.

I urge you to consider these concerns and work toward solutions that prioritize both safety and the long-term success of Texas students. Please ensure that any mandates placed on school districts come with the necessary funding and flexibility to meet local needs effectively.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

Aaliyah BalOgun

Self

Houston, TX

I want my representative to vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy.
Thank you.

Rebecca Kasal

Self - office work/accounting

Fort Worth, TX

While the premise of a voucher sounds solid it doesn't help those who are stuck in a poor performing school. It essentially is a way for those who can afford private education to get monetary benefits. I believe those who are poor to middle class will still suffer in this educational system. Who will drive these students (who need it the most) to the better schools? Who will pay for the additional costs of going to a better school) Any efforts to pass a school voucher does not really address the fact that there are under performing schools and teachers. Why not address the fact that there needs to be better pay for teachers as they are essentially responsible for the future of so many students. Attracting quality teachers and giving them proper resources to teach would be a better outcome.

I say this as a student of private Catholic schools as well as a parent who could afford to send my children to private schools. Sure vouchers would have helped my bottom line but we managed. There are too many that will still fall through the cracks. The school vouchers program is just another example of handing out free money to parents who don't need to have a voucher to attend a better school. Sure some will benefit but more will be left behind. Education needs to be overhauled but not this way. And education begins way before kindergarten. Some parents will be neglectful but the majority of parents want their children to do better than they did. They just don't have the resources that parents who can do more have available to them. Perhaps I am simplifying my response but I would rather pay school taxes to help society rather than just money grabbing. School vouchers in my view is just a fraudulent way for politicians to help out their donors rather than the actual intended purpose of building an educated society.

Robin McGrew, Civilian

Moms Demand Action

New Braunfels, TX

NO VOUCHERS. MY SISTER IS A TEACHER AND DOES NOT WANT THEM.

Nancy Krebbs

Self, a retired public school teacher

Lubbock, TX

Read the Texas Constitution. It states that Texas will provide public education, not give public money to religious schools.

It is not right for rich men to siphon money away from public schools to line their own pockets.

Cory Ryan

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote no on ESAs. I don't want my tax dollars paying for private education vendors.

Iris Zamora

Self

Mission, TX

I am vehemently against this bill. I am a resident of Texas, a public school employee, and a mother of a child that attends public school. As a parent, we already have school choice. We do not need a bill that is going to create a private savings account program or voucher system. This bill will take away vital funds from public schools many parts in Texas or rural areas. They do not even have access to private schools. How is that equitable? I have spent my life in public schools and working at them. The benefits of the community are immense and many public schools provide vital services to children that are absolutely necessary. Hindering the ability of the school to be able to provide those services is unfair. Many private schools already have tuition assistance programs for families that truly needed. There is a strong correlation between the donors of Governor Greg Abbott, and even members of his family with ties to private schools. Instead of trying to give the wealthy a hand out they need to be looking at how they can better our state. They spend millions on statewide mandated testing when we should be spending and investing money in our kids. we do not need vouchers.

Michelle Sulak, Mrs

Self

Woodway, TX

Please DO NOT allow this to happen! School taxes are for public schools which the majority of students attended

Public schools are funded by the state private school are not!! Please don't hurt the majority of to students to benefit and pad the pockets of the minority private school attendees. The 10,000.00 voucher will not allow anyone other than the rich to attend private school. This bill is no more than a bill to help out the governor's friends! Private schools have zero accountability, but yet they would get 10,000 per student but public school only get 6500 per student. I think something is really wrong with our system when anyone thinks this is ok!

Allison Hardman

Self

Houston, TX

School vouchers will only reduce funding for public schools. Vouchers take public money for private use at private schools. If someone wants to send their child to private schools then they need to pay for it. Public funds stay with public schools. Fund our public schools to be the best in the nation and not at the bottom. Make parents wants to send their children to public schools, not private. Stop the steal of public funds for private use!

Tyler Miloy
Texas and Texans
Austin, TX

Our shared public education experience is the glue that bind together our country. Attempts to defund public education, either directly or indirectly through subsidizing private schools, rips apart the very fabric of the nation. But that's common sense . How does this proposed legislation benefit Texas and Texans? The vast majority of Texans, clearly, regardless of their party affiliation are opposed to the state subsidizing private for profit schools at the expense of public education. If legislation is not wanted by the majority of Texans, and does zero to benefit Texas or Texans, then responsible legislators should not even be considering it. Remember, voting constituents will have the final say in this matter. Representatives are replaceable for a reason

Patricia Warley
Self
Angleton, TX

I am against this bill. I feel our tax dollars need to go to Public schools. Its just welfare for the rich and takes away from our public schools. I believe a majority of Texans, from both parties are in agreement.

Carrie Ives
Self
Richardson, TX

Vouchers are not a good return on investment.
Studies have shown they go to people already in private schools.
Those schools are not held to the same standards as public schools which is unfair.
The dollar amount is higher than we spend on public schools.
Rural kids don't have the option of private school.
We have seen abuses in charter schools already where they falsified records about what classes the kids received.
Public schools have a lot of local control with the locally elected school board.
This looks like just one more way to steal from the poor and give to the rich

Junior Ezeonu
Self
Grand Prairie, TX

Dear Representative,

As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want an Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) Program. I pay my public tax dollars and, therefore, want my money to Fund Public Schools in Texas. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children and all the educators, and staff, deserve to have the funding. To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

- I do NOT want vouchers/ESAs.
- I support an Increase of the Basic Allotment.
- I support Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflation of over 20%.

Again, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools (not private schools) in the State of Texas.

Sincerely,

Junior Ezeonu

Carolyn Bischoff

Self

Onalaska, TX

I live in rural Livingston, Texas! School vouchers will not be good for Polk County! There are two small religious price schools. What Polk County and all Public Schools need to be fully funded! If the state can provide $10,000 voucher then give that amount for each student to every district in Texas. Also I have worked as a Special Education Paraprofessional for elementary school aged students with physical disabilities and Autism. They will not be accepted at the private schools because they don't have to be. DO NOT let HB 3 pass!

Sarah Nielsen, Mrs.

Self / Housewife

Humble, TX

To simply put, as a homeschooling family we do NOT support this bill and feel it is not representative of our views.

Erin Owens

Self, academic librarian

Huntsville, TX

Vouchers will not be a functional tool for helping most Texas children. Many rural areas have no private schools. Many families require bus service to get their children to school, and most private schools do not provide bussing. Private schools are not required to accept students with physical, cognitive, or psychological special needs, and they are not required to retain students whose performance doesn't meet their standards. Private schools are not accountable for meeting minimum educational standards. And, on the bottom line of cost, almost all private schools cost significantly more than the voucher amount. All this program will do is refund money to wealthy families who would use private schools anyway. Parents already have school choice -- vouchers just redirect our public tax dollars away from the schools that serve most children. Plus other states like Arizona have proven that state costs for voucher programs balloon unsustainable, while academic outcomes are not significantly better. Please vote NO to vouchers for Texas.

Summer Stotts

Self

Round Rock, TX

please vote no on ESAs. I don't want my tax dollars paying for private education vendors.

Brandy Gonzales

FWISD

Fort Worth, TX

Let the citizens of Texas vote rather than representatives who have never stepped foot in a classroom.

Bracha Silverstone

Self - Math Instructor

Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Margaret Dean
Self/Retired
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. It gives money to high-income families and takes desperately needed funds away from the public school system. I don't want my tax dollars spent on private schools! I want it applied to the public education system!! Texas is ranked 28th overall in public education. We need to increase our standing. Not fall further behind. That is what will happen if HB 3 is passed.

Sarah Nielsen, Mrs.
Self - Housewife
Humble, TX

To simply put, as a homeschooling family we do not support this bill it represents our views.

Grant Benatar
Self
Keller, TX

158 Counties in the state of Texas do not have Private Schools. This legislation does not support the majority of students in Texas. Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a taxpayer and supporter of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Miguel Chirinos, Mr.
Self teacher
The Colony, TX

We do not want or need vouchers. Been a republicans all my life and defended our country to prevent other governments from indoctrinating. Now we want to act like our governemnt is not doing exactly what we are against? This is abosolutely a scam and those who vote for it along party lines are complicit.

Gary Grisaffe
Self
Austin, TX

I volunteer at our elementary school as a member of the CAC. I talk to our principal and teachers often. This voucher program is going to hurt our schools by taking funds from them. Please do not enact it.

Mache Milhauser

Self

Frisco, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 3, which proposes an education savings account (ESA) program. While expanding educational choices is a worthy goal, this bill threatens the strength of our public education system and poses significant risks to Texas students, teachers, and taxpayers.

Public School Funding at Risk

Public schools depend on state funding based on student enrollment. Diverting funds to ESAs will reduce resources for teachers, classrooms, and extracurriculars, disproportionately impacting rural and lower-income communities where private school options are scarce.

Limited Access & Equity Concerns

Private schools can select their students and are not required to accept all applicants. This means ESAs will likely benefit families already able to afford private education, further widening the gap between wealthy and low-income students.

Lack of Public Support

Polling shows 65% of Texas voters oppose voucher programs, including 95% of Democrats, 72% of Independents, and 42% of Republicans. HB 3 does not reflect the will of the people and could negatively impact public school funding statewide.

Threat to Teacher Retirement System (TRS)

Public school funding reductions could lead to job losses, shrinking the pool of TRS contributors. This puts the long-term stability of teacher pensions at risk.

No Accountability for Taxpayer Funds

Public schools meet strict accountability standards to ensure quality education for all. ESA-funded private schools, however, are not subject to these regulations, potentially leading to misuse of taxpayer dollars without transparency.

Conclusion

HB 3 undermines public education by diverting funds to private schools with little oversight. I urge you to oppose this bill and instead focus on strengthening Texas public schools, which serve all students, not just a select few.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Kasye Palmer

Self

Richardson, TX

I strongly oppose this legislation. Parents already have school choice. They should not be using public tax dollars to fund their own choice to attend a private school. Private schools get to pick and choose the students that they accept. This bill does not guarantee that a student with special needs can attend the private schools they desire. Public schools have the responsibility of educating all students. Instead of a "school choice" bill you should be guaranteeing a $1300 daily student allotment raise based on enrollment, not attendance. You have the responsibility of providing a robust school system to the public. The defunding over the last many years has been devastating to the public schools. They aren't failing, they are starving! The people deserve properly funded schools. Raise the daily allotment! Raise teacher pay for all, not the crap TIA. Raise all staff pay, our paraprofessionals do such important work and barely make a living wage. Please drop this legislation and properly fund the public schools!

Stephanie Glasgow

Self, Homemaker/Disabled

Texas City, TX

I vehemently oppose this program. This will just harm our public school system even further. And what will happen to families that live in rural areas that can't access private schools? Not to mention, that private schools are unaffordable for the majority of families, and this money won't help the affordability, especially if private schools just raise their tuition. And not to mention, private schools aren't even required to take children and can deny enrollment on any factors they choose. All this does is help the wealthy that can already afford private schools. And as a homeschooling mom, I don't want the state to start putting restrictions on how I homeschool my children. Vote No against the vouchers and ensure that public schools will not lose because of this measure.

Lee Stewart

Self

Austin, TX

NO on vouchers. Instead, I support STRONG PUBLIC education. We must Keep our schools strong.

Kristen Lowrie

Self - substitute teacher

Austin, TX

Public funds need to go towards public schools. Using $1 billion dollars to fund 100,000 students (or less with admin fees) that mostly already attend private schools vs. having it go towards the 5.5 million kids that attend Texas public schools is just plain immoral. You are taking public dollars that would benefit many and giving them to a few, many of whom are already well-off. Additionally, the conversation could be potentially different if Texas public schools were flush with money, but that is not the case. Texas school districts are struggling both in teacher retention and making their dollars go far enough in such an inflationary economy. Funding for Texas schools is abysmally low compared to other states, ranking us 41st in per pupil funding. As the ultimate stewards of the Texas constitution that mandates a fully funded public educational, you should be ashamed by that data point. New funds haven't been invested in the per pupil allotment since 2019 and with inflation, schools purchasing power over the past 6 years has drastically decreased. Even with the proposed education increases coming up this session, the state is falling woefully short of adequately funding public schools, let alone giving districts the ability to raise teacher pay long term to be more in line with the actual demands of the job. Before we go and start spending public education dollars outside of public education we need to really focus on FULLY FUNDING public schools. Not just dangling a small carrot of possible funds in order to get a voucher bill passed. All of this time spent debating vouchers could be much better spent fixing our public school funding formulas and having the state pitch in their fair share of state funds for public education. (And not relying on large tax revenues and then withholding state funds and allocated them elsewhere - sneaky sneaky).

Carrie Pritchett

Self

Pearland, TX

Please oppose school vouchers. I am a proud product of the state education system, and any money syphoned from that public system will be disastrous. Please do your job. Follow your constitutional duty to provide public education without diverting funds, and work for the greatest good of your citizenry. Oppose the vouchers.

Ian Lurie

Self

DALLAS, TX

Thank you for your support!

Angel Fuentes

NA

Houston, TX

1. Disability Discrimination: The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) mandates that educational programs provide reasonable accommodations to ensure that individuals with disabilities have equal access to opportunities. This includes those recovering from substance abuse disorders, who must be given the same chances to succeed as other students without disabilities. However, the effectiveness of these accommodations often depends on the program's faith measures to understand and implement what is genuinely needed to support each family's unique situation.

2. Homelessness: Under the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act, children and youth experiencing homelessness are granted specific rights to stabilize their educational experience, such as remaining in their school of origin. These protections are designed to provide a fair opportunity for homeless students to meet academic standards. Collaborations with local shelters and social services are essential but highlight a potential concern: if these associations are merely identifying and categorizing students without providing meaningful, tailored support, it might not suffice to level the playing field. The quality and direct impact of the support services determine whether these efforts are genuinely transformative or just superficial.

3. Financial Hardship: Educational programs that offer scholarships or sliding scale fees provide critical assistance to students facing economic barriers. However, imposing conditions like mandatory participation in rehab programs can inadvertently exclude those who need help most or might not see relevance in such programs to their educational pursuits. This approach can be seen as discriminatory if not aligned with the student's individual needs and circumstances.

4. Accreditation and Institutional Integrity: Accreditation ensures educational institutions meet certain standards, but the suspension of such can prevent schools from receiving funds, impacting students reliant on those institutions. While necessary for maintaining quality, the process and criteria for suspending and reinstating accreditation must be transparent and fair.

5. Economic Class Concerns: If resources from educational support programs are primarily funneled to the middle class, this can perpetuate economic disparities. It's crucial to design these programs to lift those at the lower end of the socioeconomic spectrum, not just circulate resources among those who are already relatively well-off. The intent should be to broaden access and opportunity genuinely, reaching students who would otherwise remain at a disadvantage.

To truly make a difference, educational support programs must be designed and implemented with a deep understanding of the barriers that different groups face. This requires going beyond mere identification and assistance on paper to providing impactful and customized support, thus upholding the claim of freedom of religion.

Sarah Lonsdale Bledsoe

Self

Houston, TX

I am a Texas mom and social worker. Texas children deserve access to quality, local public education. Vouchers significantly disenfranchise students in lower income and/or rural areas, as well as students with special needs. Vouchers do not increase access as many families cannot afford the remaining tuition or coordinate reliable transportation for their children. Quality public education is a right, not a privilege. Please vote no on HB3 and direct public funding to public schools.

Purvi Baron

Self

Sugar Land, TX

STOP HB3. It's bad for kids, teachers, school and education in Texas.

Gina Blas, Mrs.

Self

Denton, TX

Against school vouchers

Eileen Lee
Self/Public Librarian
Spring, TX

The Texas Legislature has a constitutional duty “to make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools.” The Texas Constitution is equally clear that public funding is not to support religious schools or the teaching of any particular faith.

Vote against school vouchers!

Jacqueline Austin, Mrs
None
San Antonio, TX

As a public educator I strongly oppose giving public funds to private unaccountable schools. This will harm the majority of our communities not to mention educators. This is not what your constituents want. Stop allowing a few billionaires to impose their will on the rest of us.

Zenna Duke
Self
Kyle, TX

I oppose Texas House Bill 3 on school vouchers because it diverts critical public funds away from public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas students. Instead of strengthening our education system, this bill prioritizes private institutions that lack transparency, accountability, and equitable access for all students. Public dollars should remain in public schools, ensuring every child—regardless of background or zip code—receives a high-quality education. Texas should focus on improving teacher pay, reducing classroom sizes, and increasing resources for struggling schools rather than subsidizing private education at taxpayers’ expense.

I also oppose HB 3 because it prioritizes the interests of wealthy donors over Texas students. Governor Greg Abbott has received millions in campaign donations from billionaire-backed groups pushing for school vouchers, effectively allowing outside interests to shape Texas education policy. These donors stand to benefit from the privatization of education, while public schools—especially those in rural and low-income communities—are left underfunded. Instead of catering to billionaires, our lawmakers should focus on fully funding public schools and ensuring every Texas child has access to a strong, well-resourced education.

Angelica Valdez, Teacher Education
Spring, TX

Vouchers can undermine public education by diverting funds to private institutions, which may lack accountability and inclusivity. This creates inequality, as private schools can selectively admit students, leaving disadvantaged communities with fewer resources and opportunities in public schools.

Kristine Gentry, Dr
Self, business owner
Missouri City, TX

No school vouchers!

Jennifer Aguilar
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Keep public funding in public school! My 3 children are thriving in public school and we love our neighborhood schools! Vouchers are for the rich that don’t need financial help. It’s a scam. Please vote no.

Jennifer White

Self

Leander, TX

I am the parent of two students in Texas public schools and am OPPOSED to the establishment of an ESA program. My tax dollars should be funding the public education system that our Texas Constitution requires. The public school system goes above and beyond to educate and care for over 5.5 million Texas children and it is sadly doing so right now without the support of those mandated to maintain it. As a parent, if I want to send one of my children to a charter or a private school, I already have that choice. For my other child who receives special education services, however, I would not have that choice and vouchers/ESAs would not help. Private schools are allowed to choose who they admit, and I'm comfortable estimating that the majority of them do not have the capability to serve students like mine. The Legislature is going to take money away from the public schools that can serve BOTH of my children (which then prevents the public schools from fully operating) in order to give it to private schools that can not only pick and choose who they accept but do not have the public oversight/accountability that is required from our public schools. If so many people in Texas want ESAs, why has this not been allowed to appear on a ballot?

It is time for our Legislature to fund our public schools. Not only that, it is time for our Legislature to respect our educators and support them instead of allowing the hostile, inaccurate, and never-ending negative political narratives to bring them down. My children deserve better from this state, and so do everyone else's. Our public schools serve 5.5 million children who are the future of this state. Uplift them, properly fund them and their educators, and watch them thrive instead of rooting for them to fail to fulfill a political checklist that does not serve the majority."

T Kistler

Self/Substitute Teacher

Mckinney, TX

Save our public schools!! Education should be free and available to everyone...AND it should include the many facets of our history...the good and the bad from which our country learns and grows. This bill is the first step toward our US history becoming whitewashed/absent of ALL nations and races represented here. NO to vouchers!!!!

Nathan Roub

self

Northlake, TX

Against the bill as it is written. The data is clear from other states that ESAs help mostly just families that are already able to afford private school, it reallocates funds from public schools that are already under funded, and families who live under the poverty line cannot afford most private school tuition even with a $10,000 ESA, since tuition alone is typically $25,000, not to mention meal plans, uniforms, books, etc. The cost for ESAs will balloon over the next few years to a point it will not be feasible for our state to afford. And lastly, there is no accountability required of private schools, like there is for public schools, if we are using tax dollars we need to monitor for accountability and have the same measures for either public or private institutions to ensure our tax dollars are working.

Sarah McQueen

Self - Social Worker

Cedar Park, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a social worker who has worked in Title I schools across Central Texas, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future, in accordance with the Texas Constitution. Thank you.

Crystal Zamarron
Deeds Not Words
San Antonio, TX

School vouchers divert much-needed funding away from public schools, which serve all students, including those with disabilities, low-income families, and rural communities. These programs undermine the promise of equitable education and leave our public schools struggling to meet the needs of their students. Texas public schools are already underfunded, and voucher programs would only make this problem worse. Instead of taking resources away from our schools, we should be investing in them—supporting our teachers, reducing class sizes, and ensuring every child has access to a quality education. Texas public schools are already underfunded, and voucher programs would only make this problem worse. Instead of taking resources away from our schools, we should be investing in them—supporting our teachers, reducing class sizes, and ensuring every child has access to a quality education. I urge you to prioritize the needs of the majority of Texas students and reject HB 3 and any legislation that promotes school vouchers. Our public schools are the backbone of our communities, and they deserve your full support.

Jen Aguilar
Self
Fort Worth, TX

If you have a minute ?? A public hearing at the Texas Capitol is happening on the school voucher bill (HB 3). Use the link below to ensure your opposition is on record.

Here's what I said:

“Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a teacher whose entire family is the product of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future

Donald Goldstein
Mesorah High School for Girls of Dallas
Dallas, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Ashley Aarons
Self
Austin, TX

I'm going on the record with a big fat no. It doesn't matter what I type as most of you have decided to align with your party over the future of 5.5 Texas students who will learn about the day their education was sold to the highest bidder. A state with the 8th largest economy in the world can do better than the bottom 10 states for education. The fact that you even are considering subsidies for private entities is a sad day for Texans. At least our representatives prior to 2019 tried to do the bare minimum by keeping up with inflation. Y'all can't even vote with what the people you represent want as you have Governor to please and your hand out for some money from YASS. We have school choice now - I can move, I can rent, I can drive, I can transfer, I can apply for financial aid to any school out there and please tell me how I can't currently decide where I want my child educated?

Sarah Davis, Mrs.

self

Austin, TX

Please vote against this bill. It will destroy the public education in Texas. Parents already have the choice of where to send their children to school. Private schools are not required to admit all students that apply. Fund the current public school system instead to pay teachers a higher wage and provide more resources for the children of Texas. This bill does NOT serve the majority of the children in Texas. The program being discussed has NOT worked in other states.

Christina Sasam

Self

Pflugerville, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Lyn Meyer

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose this voucher program. Fully Fund public schools first.

Nicole Taylor

Homeschoolers

Spring, TX

We are a homeschooling family and we oppose this bill.

Margarita Mintzer

Self

Austin, TX

Subject: Request for Increased Funding and Opposition to Vouchers/ESA

Dear Education committee

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the use of vouchers and Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) as a means of funding education. These programs divert crucial resources away from public schools, undermining their ability to serve all students equitably.

I respectfully request the following changes to improve the funding structure for education:

1. Increase the Basic Allotment to $7,500: The current funding allocation is insufficient to meet the needs of students and educators. Raising the basic allotment to $7,500 would better support our schools and allow for more equitable access to quality education.
2. Determine Funding by Enrollment, Not Attendance: Funding should be based on student enrollment rather than attendance. This would provide more consistent and predictable funding for schools, allowing them to plan and allocate resources effectively, even in times of fluctuating attendance.
3. Tie Funding to Inflation: Education funding should be adjusted annually based on inflation rates. This would ensure that the value of the funding keeps pace with the rising costs of education, maintaining its purchasing power over time.
4. Ensure Funding for All Current and Future Mandates: All current and future state or federal mandates should be fully funded to avoid placing additional burdens on schools. This would ensure that schools can comply with legal requirements without sacrificing other essential services.

I hope you will consider these requests as part of ongoing efforts to improve the education system. Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,

Margarita Mintzer

Kimberly McCann

Self investigator

Cedar Park, TX

School vouchers does not provide school choice. It only siphons funds from public schools which are already under funded. Private schools are not required to provide accommodations to disabled students, wheelchair ramps for example, and are not required to accept all students. The vouchers come no where near enough to pay for most private schools. Rural areas with no private schools will not receive any benefit. If you are so confident this is what Texas wants, why not put it on a ballot and let the people decide? Please vote against school vouchers.

Rosemary Cooke, Ms

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose HB3

Sara Davis
self attorney
Austin, TX

This bill would devastate public education across the state but rural areas would be more seriously affected, as there are fewer nonpublic options in rural areas. Even in urban areas with many different private school choices, public money should be spent on public education - open to all, subject to standard requirements, and nonreligious.

Mary Len Stanton
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Subject: Request for Increased Funding and Opposition to Vouchers/ESA

Dear Education committee,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the use of vouchers and Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) as a means of funding education. These programs divert crucial resources away from public schools, undermining their ability to serve all students equitably.

I respectfully request the following changes to improve the funding structure for education:

1. Increase the Basic Allotment to $7,500: The current funding allocation is insufficient to meet the needs of students and educators. Raising the basic allotment to $7,500 would better support our schools and allow for more equitable access to quality education.
2. Determine Funding by Enrollment, Not Attendance: Funding should be based on student enrollment rather than attendance. This would provide more consistent and predictable funding for schools, allowing them to plan and allocate resources effectively, even in times of fluctuating attendance.
3. Tie Funding to Inflation: Education funding should be adjusted annually based on inflation rates. This would ensure that the value of the funding keeps pace with the rising costs of education, maintaining its purchasing power over time.
4. Ensure Funding for All Current and Future Mandates: All current and future state or federal mandates should be fully funded to avoid placing additional burdens on schools. This would ensure that schools can comply with legal requirements without sacrificing other essential services.

I hope you will consider these requests as part of ongoing efforts to improve the education system. Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely, Mary Len Stanton

Anthony Decapio
Self
Georgetown, TX

No vouchers, support public schools. Tell governor hot wheels to lay off!

Nicole Calandra
Self
Leander, TX

Please please please consider ALL children - the ones with learning differences, the ones without transportation, the rural ones with only one option, the siblings of children with special needs, the economically disadvantaged, etc. ALL kids deserve an education. ALL. When you make decisions that hurt public education, you cut off vital services to our most vulnerable children. Please please please consider these children as much as your wealthy donors. Please.

Alvin McLoughlin

Self

Carrollton, TX

As a constituent, I am OPPOSED to Bill HB3 by Buckley

School vouchers have many disadvantages, including:

Undermining public schools

Vouchers take funding from public schools, which serve most students, and give it to private schools. This can hurt public schools that are already struggling.

Discrimination

Vouchers can discriminate against students with disabilities, and can exacerbate racial segregation. Private schools can also discriminate in admissions, discipline, and employment.

Lack of accountability

Private schools are largely unaccountable to taxpayers. They can pick and choose who to serve and how they serve.

No evidence of academic benefit

There's no reliable evidence that vouchers improve student success. In fact, some programs have shown to have a negative effect.

Undermining democracy

Vouchers can erode democracy by giving tax dollars to private schools that are far removed from the electorate.

Diverting attention from reforms

Vouchers can divert attention from needed reforms, such as smaller class sizes.

Creating corruption opportunities

Private schools with little accountability could lead to corruption.

Hayley Heider

Self

Richardson, TX

As a Texas mom who has 2 public school children, a spouse who is a public high school teacher and coach, and a family that can afford private school if we wanted to send our kids there, I WHOLEHEARTEDLY OPPOSE THIS BILL. Public money needs to stay in public schools and they are extremely underfunded as it currently stands. Our kids safety, security and futures are at risk. Very few people would be able to afford private school even if they receive a voucher. Private school tuitions will go up and public schools will suffer. Providing better education for our most vulnerable - those who cannot afford private even with a voucher, as well as those who won't get admitted to private - only benefits the entire community and the state. A more educated state is a safer state. Please say NO to the ESAs!

Anne Howell, Mrs

Self

DALLAS, TX

NO TO HB3

Andrea Rader

Self

Arlington, TX

Vote against this bill.

Connie Wharton

Self

Post, TX

I am adamantly opposed to this bill. As a mother and grandmother I believe public education is a foundation of this country. A voucher system that favors wealthy families is unfair. As parents who could have chosen private education but chose public education, I am appalled that this is even being considered. This bill along with other actions resulting from the November election are prompts me to switch party affiliation. I never thought I'd see this day.

Rachel Robinson

Self

Temple, TX

Please vote against HB3 in order to best support Texas public school children, teachers and families.

Michael Stotts

Self

Georgetown, TX

Please vote no on ESAs. I don't want my tax dollars paying for private education vendors.

Ellen McLoughlin

Self

Carrollton, TX

As a constituent, I am OPPOSED to Bill HB3 by Buckley

School vouchers have many disadvantages, including:

Undermining public schools

Vouchers take funding from public schools, which serve most students, and give it to private schools. This can hurt public schools that are already struggling.

Discrimination

Vouchers can discriminate against students with disabilities, and can exacerbate racial segregation. Private schools can also discriminate in admissions, discipline, and employment.

Lack of accountability

Private schools are largely unaccountable to taxpayers. They can pick and choose who to serve and how they serve.

No evidence of academic benefit

There's no reliable evidence that vouchers improve student success. In fact, some programs have shown to have a negative effect.

Undermining democracy

Vouchers can erode democracy by giving tax dollars to private schools that are far removed from the electorate.

Diverting attention from reforms

Vouchers can divert attention from needed reforms, such as smaller class sizes.

Creating corruption opportunities

Private schools with little accountability could lead to corruption.

Jean Stayton

Self

Allen, TX

No vouchers

Greer Olenick

Self/I am a parent

Austin, TX

As a voter and the parent of two students in public schools I implore you to vote no to HB 3 and take action to fully fund our public school and special education programs. School vouchers are going to further the achievement gap in the state of Texas and leave countless children in the dust by pulling precious dollars away from their schools. This voucher system is going to ensure that vast swaths of Texas schools will not only fail to thrive, they will be stripped of any chance of helping Texas kids achieve their full potential. Politicians and billionaires stripping generations of their shot for success is the American Nightmare and HB 3 will make it a reality.

Carla Griesbach

Self

Austin, TX

I am AGAINST the voucher program. Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Mindy McClure

Self/Retired

Colleyville, TX

Voting Republican completely opposed to all forms of vouchers

Jason Williamson

Self

Carrizo Springs, TX

As a father of 6 in rural south Texas, and a mental health professional, I am opposed to all education savings account and voucher programs. This money should instead be used to add to and promote mental health in our public schools. This is much more important in today's day and age than school choice or vouchers.

Courtney Duncan

Self

Georgetown, TX

Let me be clear, we have school choice, stop misleading the public. What we do not have is a raise in school funding since 2019. Schools are having to let go of staff just to come close to the deficits they have. If you support HB 3 you support the firing of teachers librarians, and other staff members. Let's give the schools the proper funding and allow them to support students, remember you have the money, just give it to public schools not the rich.

Kelley Nance

Self

Mckinney, TX

As a parent and an educator in Texas, I fully understand the implications of this bill and how it will rob public school children of the standard of educational opportunities that they deserve and will only serve to make the rich richer. The people of Texas do not want the destruction of public schools. Your constituents do not want the destruction of public schools. The lack of priority given to education in this state is an embarrassment, and our public schools will soon be, too, as our class sizes increase to levels that are impossible to effectively teach, programs and staffing are cut, and teachers are placed with even more of the burden to sacrifice for the needs of their students. We are well aware that Republicans don't care about public school children, but maybe you will wish you did when we vote you out of office.

Gary Neagles

Self/Hotel Laundry

Abilene, TX

I am for HB3 by Buckley. I am for parents having school choice! I am for any measure that empowers parents to protect their children from WOKE, LEFTIST, SEXUAL INDOCTRINATION from certain mentally unstable teachers & school board members that seem to think they can do a better job than our founding fathers did by the Spirit of wisdom, providence, and precepts found in Bible, the Declaration of Independence, Constitution, and Bill of Rights.

Kathy Ramirez
Self
Fort Worth, TX

It is important to know public schools will need all the funding they can get. Ny law, we are to find it. As D O ed is dismantled , funds are needed to service students and teacher.

Caitlin Marcellus-Vincent
self
Spring, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3. I grew up in Texas and attended public school here. I want future generations of kids to benefit from the well deserved financial support for public schools just like I did. As it is, public schools are often underfunded. Passing HB 3 will only worsen this issue. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy.

kaci neves
self, teacher
Dallas, TX

Hi, my name is Kaci Neves, and I have a disabled child who will soon attend public school. For this reason, I have a special stake in HB3.

The proposed Education Savings Account under HB3 is severely flawed. It advertises itself as a school of choice program, an opportunity for lower and middle-class families to choose the school and therefore curriculum they think is best. While this sounds great superficially, the proposed plan has the following major limitations:

- HB3 will divert 1 BILLION DOLLARS of public funds to private schools.
- HB3 allows ESA program eligibility requirements to extend to families with household incomes of up to $156,000. This cap is far too high, as most families in this income bracket can afford to send their children to private school without public assistance.
- HB3 puts rural students who do not have reasonable access to private schools (perhaps the closest private school is over an hour away) at a distinct disadvantage.
- HB3 does not consider that private schools are not required to accept disabled students, let alone provide classroom accommodations and modifications to disabled populations.

Nikki Harper, Mrs.
Parent of students in Northwest ISD
Fort Worth, TX

Currently everything around us has increased in price..EVERYTHING. Does this funding being proposed give the local school districts the proper funding given the current economic environment we're living in? My kids go to Northwest ISD and they offer some amazing opportunities for our students. Opportunities that are setting these students up for success right out of high school. Let's fund our public schools and get the school districts that are not on the same path as our district back on track. It seems most taxpayers are not on board with this savings account program. Now that the details are out it should be put on the ballot for us to vote on. Supporting 'school choice' and school vouchers are 2 different things. Most will not be able to bridge the cost gap for private schools. Meaning this will end up only benefitting those already paying for their child to attend a private school. Please increase the funding for the public schools. Why is there a difference in the proposed funding depending on if the child is attending public school or going to private school? The funding should be equal no matter what choice is made. The priority funding should be put on the public schools that welcome any and all students...not private schools that limit and pick who they allow in. Fund our public schools so that these districts can continue to do great things for our students!

Barbara Stevens, Mrs.

Self/Retired

Highland Village, TX

I have never, ever minded paying taxes for quality public education, even though our own children graduated long ago. I have, unfortunately, watched the Governor and legislature of the State of Texas slowly starve public education by withholding funding and I find that to be, at minimum, a high moral crime. Now you are telling us that we will be forcibly made to pay for private school education while watching public schools dry up and blow away. Unconscionable!

These monies will be chiefly allotted to people whose children are already in private school. If that's a decision they have made for their children and they have paid for the privilege, then let them continue to pay their own way. I'm sure many of you are opposed to the government paying off student loan debt. Then, pray tell, what difference do you see in the two scenarios? Further, if, as I keep hearing, it's what the people want, why not let the people vote on it?

Last, as a grandmother of two high-functioning autistic grandchildren, I can factually tell you that private schools rarely accept children with disabilities. My grandchildren can easily match or surpass most children academically, but do require special accommodations at times. You are doing all these children a disservice. You are, in essence, telling these children they don't matter, that they're not worth the trouble. And, of course, there's the not so insignificant matter of Title I students. They will be left out altogether. If their parents had the money to send them to private school and the transportation available, I imagine some would be in private school, but such is not the case. By the time vouchers make it down to them, there'll be little, if anything, they can do with said vouchers.

May I suggest that if you need to turn hearts of stone into hearts of flesh, you volunteer for a Kids Eat Free program this summer. Stand out in the summer sun as my then 10-year-old grandson and I did two summers in a row and get to know some of the Title I students. Get to know their names, their hearts, their dreams. And then ask yourself why they should be punished because their parents aren't wealthy. On one of my worst days personally (my last day serving Kids Eat Free) two children gave me cards they had made for me, one of which said, "You are loved." I will always consider that a gift from God that I made a heart connection with these children.

I am asking that you not abandon the children of Texas for the sake of private school owners or wealthy donors. At the very least, please let the people of Texas vote on the matter.

Meg Cone

Tax payer and voter

Brenham, TX

Please consider how many Texans - including parents who support private and home school education are against this bill. It is a slippery slope putting public funding into private institutions. Please protect our freedoms and reject this bill. Please support our children, our schools, our teachers, and our retired teachers,

Tiffany Perry

Self

Round Rock, TX

Please vote NO on HB 3. The bill will take money away from Texas public schools and is merely a welfare program for the rich that can already afford to pay for private schools. This is a deeply personal issue for me with 2 kids in the public education system in Round Rock ISD. Public education is the backbone for our society. Not only is it essential for our community, it's also essential for businesses to have a highly educated workforce. Globalization and AI pose challenges for our workforce which is all the more reason we need to double down on education so that we can have an educated workforce that will make us succeed and continue to lead innovation which is what has made America such a strong country.

Corey Troxell

Parent of Public School child.

Burleson, TX

Please don't move for vouchers in Texas this will move money from public schools and I do not support my taxes going to private institutions that I don't give my money to.

Jennifer Donato

Pleasanton ISD

Poteet, TX

School districts are trying to pay teachers, and are still in a deficit. A districts budget is 80-95% payroll.

Shakira Summers

self

Lancaster, TX

Hello, I am an educator and a mother. I work for the Dallas Independent School District, and my kids are products of this district as well. I am against school vouchers. There are so many families who cannot afford to go to a $20,000 private school even with a $10,000 voucher. Our special education students would not get the services they need to get the education they need. One of the services I speak of is transportation, public schools provide that for students in special education. I myself could not afford to send my last two kids to private school. Public education has helped so many students thrive and be successful. I don't understand why the governor wants to change a system that has helped so many families. The voucher system would take away so many resources from kids who need the resources, why would we want to affect our future? Those who could not attend schools that are not public schools will have to sit in crowded classrooms, because school funds would drop tremendously. Which would also cause educators to lose their jobs. Please, I ask that the committee oppose this voucher bill. Thank you for your time.

Heather Walley-Jimenez

Self/Mother

Austin, TX

I have two children in the AISD public school system, one of whom receives special services. This bill will hurt our family. Please invest in our public schools and not into private school vouchers.

Juanita Mckee

Self

Canyon Lake, TX

Absolutely opposed. 5th generation Texas, educated in public schools and universities. Several family members were/are public school teachers whose devotion and skills are amazing. Vouchers will only help those that can already afford private education.

Kyndal Hendricks

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote no on ESAs. I don't want my tax dollars paying for private education vendors.

Renee Lindstedt
Self
Round Rock, TX

I vehemently oppose HB3. These vouchers stand to disproportionately benefit families who are already financially stable, while stripping essential resources from our underfunded public schools. Public School families should not be at the mercy of those who can't empathize with those who are not as privileged as they are. We should not be at the mercy of those don't understand what it's like to have resources at their fingertips, only to be ripped away for the sole purpose of robbing others who need it the most. Our educators are shaping some of the brightest minds to protect and ensure a future that will thrive for EVERYONE. It is essential to prioritize equitable access to quality education for ALL students.

I would hope that you, a leader, will do the right thing to ensure the best possible outcome for ALL of your constituents. Don't take away from those who need it the most. This is not just about policy; it's about justice and equity. I implore you to consider the long-term consequences of this legislation and to reject the establishment of this unjust voucher system that threatens the future of so many children. Let's advocate for a system that uplifts everyone rather than one that deepens existing divides.

Matthew Armer
Self/ Inside Sales
Cuero, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,
We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Claudia Matievic
Self - Director of Operations
Spring, TX

Vehemently disagree with school vouchers, as are the majority of your constituents.

Brenda balsam, ms
Self, LPC
houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Cecil Mattson, Mr.

Self; attorney

Leander, TX

I am writing to express strong opposition to any sort of school voucher program. Our Texas public schools are essential to keeping our children safe and our future workforce educated. Private schools have less oversight and less accountability. Vouchers would be devastating to our public schools while funneling money towards unaccountable private schools that work for profit, not for the betterment of our state.

Elizabeth Hunt

Self

Taylor, TX

I am against HB 3. Support Public education.

Nanette Bulla

Self

Round Rock, TX

I oppose school vouchers. Texas public schools need State support, not private schools.

Haley Campbell

Self - mother, PM

Austin, TX

I am a mother and a Texan and I am strongly opposed to school vouchers. School vouchers and a "savings program" seem great on the surface, but in practice they are disastrous for Texas children and families. School vouchers funnel money away from public schools that serve ALL children, into private and charter schools that are beholden to less regulations and that can pick and choose which kids to admit and educate. This leaves children with learning differences and disabilities, poor children and rural children out in the cold. It deprives families of educational opportunities. Ultimately this bill will only help deepen social and wealth divides within Texas and will limit the ability of ALL Texas children to learn, grow, and ultimately contribute to our state's prosperity.

Jennifer McKnight

Self

Glenn Heights, TX

Please vote no for the voucher program. It will only hurt our teachers and children.

Shmuel Ceitlin, Rabbi

Self

Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Deborah Jones
Self
Round Rock, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education (the rich) while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. Vouchers will not improve academic outcomes for kids. HB3 is not a school choice bill. It just funds private schools that should not receive public education money. I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children's future. Passing this will only make the rich richer, and will further disadvantage everyone else.

Gary Williams
Self/Teacher
McKinney, TX

Public school teachers have always prioritized the outcome over the income, but what is happening now with the push for school vouchers using public taxpayer dollars makes me so sad. Our public schools are STRUGGLING right now and the lack of support from our state government will have long lasting consequences for the State of Texas.

These kids deserve better. Our teachers deserve better. Texas needs to do better! Support our public schools!

Derek Argueta
self, software engineer
Austin, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

I came from a low-income family that greatly benefitted from Klein ISD in Harris County, with my siblings I proceeding to pursue careers in medicine, law, and engineering. The public school system is not perfect but is an invaluable resource and I believe is where our investments need to be made, not diverted from for the sake of rolling over to corporate interests.

Thank you!

Missy DeMoss
Self
Trophy Club, TX

I am politically conservative and vote republican but I do not feel that our tax dollars should go to private education. I strongly oppose. Working for a public school I know the struggles and challenges we face with strong policies and restrictions on purchasing resources. I hope you please consider the taking this to a ballot or voting and voting against it.

Debra Vaello
Self/Retired Texas public school teacher
Cypress, TX

I am a retired Texas public school teacher who taught in the Katy ISD. I live in the Cy-Fair ISD and my children attended school in CFISD. My daughter is currently a Special Education teacher in the Klein ISD, where my granddaughter is a student. I believe that Texas public schools should be fully funded. Taxpayer money should not be given to private schools, especially without accountability. I am witnessing severe budget cuts in all of these schools districts. I believe the ESA accounts are unconstitutional because our Texas constitution mandates the funding of public free schools.

THE TEXAS CONSTITUTION

ARTICLE 7. EDUCATION

THE PUBLIC FREE SCHOOLS

Sec. 1. SUPPORT AND MAINTENANCE OF SYSTEM OF PUBLIC FREE SCHOOLS. A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools.

Annette Patterson
self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill and I'm against school vouchers.

Debbie Green
Self
Houston, TX

Voucher

David Landrum
Self
Round Rock, TX

I am against this bill!

Alisha Bendler
Self
Frisco, TX

After reading of the impact of school vouchers in other states, I am confident that this is not in the best interest in our great state. I am sure our representatives have received much of the negative feedback from their constituents and will vote accordingly. Please vote against this bill.

Dana Cast
Self, engineer
Pflugerville, TX

Hello, my name is Dana and I am a constituent in zip code 78660. I am in opposition to HB3. I am deeply concerned that the school voucher amount is $4,000 more than the per-student allotment for public school students. Our public schools are ranked 44th across the country and our districts are already not getting the funding needed to support the enrolled students. States that have passed voucher programs have found them highly unsuccessful. I'm also deeply concerned that Greg Abbott and the pro-voucher movement have accepted millions of dollars in campaign donations from Jeff Yass, Tim Dunn, and Farris Wilks. These donations stink of corruption, and I applaud Representative James Talarico for asking Yass to explain his donations.

Additionally, the average cost of private education for disabled Texas students is nearly twice the SB 2 voucher amount. Only 67 private schools in Texas even offer special education programs-and 82% of them are concentrated in major cities like Dallas and Houston. While the bill claims to prioritize low-income families, with a threshold 5 times the poverty line and double the state's median income, the bill is out of touch and does not serve our low-income families. The bill also does not account for restrictions the private institutions put on our families and are open to discriminate at their will. With funding for less than 2% of Texas students, it's clear this bill isn't about providing families with choice, but providing a tax payer funded coupon for the few. Thank you.

Holly Hays
Retired teachers
Katy, TX

As a retired teacher who taught in Texas public schools for 29 years, I am asking you to fully fund public schools and vote no to vouchers in Texas. Public schools are the lifeline of education to millions of students in Texas. Let's keep Texas public schools strong.

Jesse Rizo, Mr
Self
Batesville, TX

I am from Batesville and I oppose the voucher program. We do not have any private schools and our district has not seen an increase in the average daily attendance since 2019. Passing this bill will be detrimental to the community. Our school board passed a resolution against the voucher last night during our board meeting.

Laura Harper
Self- Neurodiagnostic Technologist
College Station, TX

The contents of this bill have been voted against over and over again. We will continue to advocate for our schools and our children despite the political gymnastics tried to get this pushed through.

Alissa Odum
Self
Trophy Club, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Tami Newmiller
Self
Denton, TX

Please do not vote for vouchers. Save public education by funding public schools.

Aziza Kendrick

Self

Stafford, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution

Sophie Renker

Self: public school teacher and parent

San Antonio, TX

I am a public school middle school teacher who has taught full time for 18 years in Texas/13 years in Northside ISD the 4th largest school district in Texas. I am a parent of two children who attend public school in Northside ISD.

1. It is WRONG and not Christ-like for you to treat public school children like second class citizens to children who have parents who can afford private school tuition without a voucher.
2. If you are going to use tax payer funds to provide a voucher for private school students to use, it should be the exact same amount that the State of Texas is giving to each public school student. A private school should NOT receive a higher amount than a public school student. It is NOT fair.
3. The message HB3/you are sending me as a Texas parent of elementary aged children whose only option is public school is that my children don't deserve as good of an education as a child whose parents can afford private school tuition.
4. If my children who attend public school deserve the same access to education as a private school student than give every child in the state of Texas $10,000 to use at the school of their choice INCLUDING AT A PUBLIC SCHOOL.
5. The MAJORITY of students in Texas only have public school as their only option for school. Do not steal funding/take away funding from public schools/school districts and give it to wealthy families who can already afford the cost of private school.
6. Keep public funds in public schools. Hire more teachers and assistant teachers to teach inside classrooms to make class size smaller especially in elementary schools which will provide higher academic learning outcomes and skill mastery when there are more adult teachers inside classrooms teaching students/less students sitting in a classroom.
7. If you give 1 billion dollars to private school families you are taking away 1 billion dollars from public school families. Public schools are already under funded compared to public schools in other states. Texas teachers are underpaid for the actual amount of work they complete in one week. Teachers are already working unpaid overtime to teach Texas students. Give MORE funding to the public schools and public school districts.

Claire Hicks

Self- Development

Fort Worth, TX

It is an illusion to promote education savings accounts (ESAs) as a pathway for increased student achievement; making education a market-driven business that is not accountable to taxpayers only harms our students and the potential of a city-wide skilled workforce. Companies will not want to invest in a city that does not meet state college and career readiness standards through a strong public education landscape. Voting yes for ESAs by taking funds from public education is voting to dismantle our communities by decreasing resources that are available to families.

Christina LaPoint

Self/ environmental engineer

San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3 and as a constituent of Texas, as well as a parent of a child who attends private school, I ask Texas leaders to vote NO on this bill and not move forward with school vouchers. The parents who can afford to send their child to private school do not need a voucher to do this, the money should be spent in public schools and put back into the future leaders of America. Vote NO on HB 3

Chuck Lee, MAJ

Self

Coppell, TX

This is a brazen attempt to further enrich the already wealthy in Texas at the expense of the poor and middle-class Texans. There is nothing wrong with public schools when the schools are adequately funded and staffed. Shame on you for this thinly-veiled attempt and theft and grift.

Torrie Justus, Dr.

self/Administrator of Clinical Engineering Services

Dickinson, TX

Don't give my tax dollars for public schools to families who can already afford private education. Taking my tax dollars from underfunded public schools puts the majority of Texas children at risk of losing local schools. I believe in the public education system. It serves everyone. Rich people can buy their way into a school.

DO NOT VOTE for the voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution. UPHOLD THE TEXAS CONSTITUTION and do the job you were elected to do.

Shelly Lance

Self

Austin, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Aharon Shmuel Wealcatch

Self, Teacher

Dallas, TX

I am a teacher in a Texas private school. Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Thank you.

Kendra Sterner

Self

League City, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private/religious education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, whose entire family is a product of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher (Educational Savings Account) program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Debbie May

Self/retired

Plano, TX

Please fully fund public education in Texas and increase teacher pay before even considering this program. Texas has amazing resources yet we rank in the bottom 10 of the states for education. The children of Texas deserve a great public school education.

Barbara Palmer

My grandson

El Paso, TX

Passing this bill only hurts the majority of students in Texas. The wealthy don't need breaks or cuts or aid of any kind in order to keep their children in private schools. And all this does is hurt public schools more than ever. If you want better education in this state, try funding the schools that truly need it and stop trying to ruin public education.

Haley Strahan, Mrs

Self: consultant

Lumberton, TX

I strongly object to the establishment of education savings account programs. As a private school graduate who sends my children to public school, I feel that public schools should be fully funded and supported, and private schools should receive no tax dollars. The privatization of so much of our public services is already having disastrous effects in so many sectors. Educating our nations children is a public good, not yet another opportunity for a cash grab.

Sonya Aleman, Dr.

Self

San Antonio, TX

NO vouchers. Stop defunding public schools!

Lisa Dennison

Self, science communicator

DALLAS, TX

I strongly oppose HB3. Public dollars belong in public schools. Many areas of the state have no private options, and private schools do not have to accept all students. This boils down to a handout for families that can already afford private school at the expense of public school children. Please use all available funds to better support our public school system.

Rebecca Duron

Self, Student, School Social Worker

Houston, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose Texas House Bill 3 (HB 3) introduced in 2025, which seeks to expand school vouchers in the state. As a concerned citizen and advocate for quality education for all Texas students, I believe this bill will harm public schools and undermine the core values of equity, fairness, and opportunity in our education system.

Expanding school vouchers would divert much-needed funding away from public schools that serve the vast majority of Texas children. Public schools are the cornerstone of our education system, legally required to accept all students, regardless of background, abilities, or socioeconomic status. By funneling taxpayer dollars to private schools, HB 3 would severely weaken the resources and programs available to students in public schools, especially those who rely on them for a quality education. This move would disproportionately impact students in low-income and underserved communities, who are already facing significant challenges and disparities.

Instead, I recommend increasing funding per student, as research shows this approach has a proven impact on academic performance. A 2023 study from Rice University's Kinder Institute for Urban Research found that increased funding directly improves student outcomes, including academic achievement, behavior, and future employment (source: Rice University Study: <https://kinder.rice.edu/urbanedge/when-it-comes-education-outcomes- we-get-what-we-pay>).

Hispanic, Black, and other marginalized students face disproportionate financial barriers due to systemic racism and historical inequities in education. Increasing per-student funding would help bridge this gap, offering these students greater opportunities for success. A 2021 study from Rutgers University calculated the cost of bringing the average test scores of the poorest 20% of students in each state up to the national average. The study found that in Texas, $12,682 per student annually is needed to close this performance gap (source: Shanker Institute Study: <https://www.shankerinstitute.org/sites/default/files/The%20Real%20Shame%20of%20the%20Nation.pdf>).

While the gap in funding is substantial, it is not insurmountable. By prioritizing alternative legislation that invests directly in public schools, we can ensure all students receive the quality education they deserve.

Susan Graham, Ms
Self - retired attorney
Austin, TX

I object to this bill because it will siphon off tax dollars for public education to pay for private school tuition. We need to provide more funding for public education and not less. A good free public education system is a foundational requirement for a successful democracy. Everyone must receive this educational foundation in order to understand how our government works and participate effectively in the government. There is so much false and distorted information in the public domain nowadays it is more important than ever that students receive correct information in school. Standards must be developed and maintained to ensure students continue to receive a solid, consistent educational foundation.

As a taxpayer, I do not want to support educational programs that do not have to meet any accepted standards.

Raizy Muller
self, teacher coach
Dallas, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Jackie Welch
Self
Conroe, TX

School vouchers are not what is good for the general public. Even with the vouchers most people living in what you say are under performing schools will still not be able to afford private school, transportation and all of the things. They will leave public school and go somewhere (or not) and those places do not have the same TEKS. When they end up returning to the now underfunded public school, they will fail the test that you tie funding to. All of school funding is tied to things that the government is getting kick backs on. Public money should not fund private schools. If you are so sure this is what the people what then let's vote on it. Fund public schools. Pay teachers and staff a livable wage for the job they do. We see through the money. You are distroying the school systems.

John Martinez
Self, father
Fort Worth, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

corbin gutierrez
self
spring, TX
nope

Eileen Faz
Self
San Antonio, TX

“Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.”

Abbigail Davis
Self Bay City, TX

House Bill 2 fr funding for Public Schools

Please support our Public Schools and the people who elected you and fully fund our schools. Texas has over 5 million students that are receiving the same amount that was given to educate them in 2019. We all know inflation has increased the cost of everything, from food to electricity to fuel costs, as well as safety costs. The state implemented increased safety requirements without giving any funding to go along with it, so that is coming from the same amount that was previously provided. Due to raised prices and no increased funding, schools have been forced to cut their staff leaving teachers without adequate planning time, increased class sizes, and lower support staff. Most educators have also not received a raise in years and are bringing home less than they did three or four years ago. The insurance that they are "provided " keeps increasing every year. Educators are paying over $1000 a month for insurance that does not cover anything until you meet the ridiculous deductible- it does not provide a copay or anything for medication until then either. Educators put in hours of their personal time and personal money to make sure that their students get the best education they can, they deserve to be fairly compensated for it and deserve your respect. Texas' over five million students deserve to have funding increased to give them the best education possible. Please listen to the people who have elected you and expect you to do what is best and right for ALL.

Angela Harper, Director Operations
Self
Highland Village, TX

School vouchers are a national security risk. Vast majority of Texans are educated in the public schools. We need smart citizens to be competitive and achieve more than competitive countries and siphoning money away from schools will be good only for a few, but it will take most of us to ensure we have best military, best private sector, best public sector employees, best intelligence and much more. Do not threaten the future of our country for a small number of people that want this now

Francisco Laborde
Self
Austin, TX

The education savings account program uses my tax dollars to subsidize a private industry that does not have to follow the same quality standards as public industry. Texas parents already have the opportunity to send their children to private institutions, and they will have to make a personal decision of whether their money is spent wisely by the school. If parents are allowed to spend my tax dollars to send their children to a private institution, then the institution should be forced to achieve the same high standards as public schools: teachers should be certified, transportation should be provided, students with disabilities should be accommodated. Otherwise the government is allowing parents to waste my tax dollars in sub-par education.

Additionally, tying public school funding to this bill has kept funding levels at 2019 levels, even through some of the highest inflation seen in recent years. Schools have had to make cuts that directly affect children. These children will be the workforce of Texas in 10 years. If these children are not properly educated, then Texan companies will be at a disadvantage when hiring employees, Texan students will be at a disadvantage against other students when applying to colleges, Texas will be affected economically because of these poor decisions.

Fund public schools, and stop subsidizing private parties.

Laura Dale
Self
Houston, TX

I support HB 3. Please support it!

Carlisle Sloan
Self
Austin, TX

I am against public education vouchers

Leland Murphy
Self, Assistant Complex Coordinator
Austin, TX

Hello Committee,
My name is Leland Dale Murphy, and I'm a longtime Texan and proud product of Texas public schools. And I'm here to voice my strong opposition to HB 3.
Frankly, it is appalling that this committee is once again considering attempts to defund and dismantle our public schools. The public is watching, and - in addition to being bad policy- this is not popular.
But let me back up a little bit, I grew up in a small town called Kennedale, nestled between Dallas and Fort Worth. We didn't have much there. Kennedale ISD was severely underfunded and under-resourced. My classmates and I had to work extra hard just to have the potential to go to college, trade school, and pursue other paths post our K-12 education. I can only imagine the additional barriers we would have all faced if our school district had even less funding.

I am only here because of my K-12 PUBLIC education that lifted me up. I had teachers who cared DEEPLY, staff who were dedicated to educating all children—not just those who could afford private schools .
This voucher scheme would devastate school districts like the one I came from and countless others across Texas, especially in rural areas which some of you represent *at least in theory anyway.
Why are we taking money from public schools—which serve everyone—to give to private institutions that serve only a select few? Just because wealthy donors and lobbyists want to dismantle public education doesn't mean it's too late for you to do the right thing.
Our public schools belong to all of us—including yall. By gutting them with this voucher scheme, you are tearing apart the foundation that has built up generations of Texans.
I urge all of you to Vote NO on HB 3.
Thank you

Loyda Poy
Self
Helotes, TX

As a taxpayer, voting against HB 3. Abbot only wants to hurt public education to help out his rich donors get richer at the expense of our dedicated school districts personnel and students. No to HB3

Jaimie Smith
Texas registered voter
Fort Worth, TX

Please vote "NO" to vouchers. Vouchers will be devastating to public education. This Bill sounds elitest to me. Say "NO" to vouchers.

Jacklyn Svatek

Self

Flower Mound, TX

Texas should be putting children in our state over the private interest of out-of-state billionaires. Fund the teachers, schools, lunches, and communities that keep our state great!

Kindall Fredricks, RN

Self

Corps, TX

We should not be siphoning money from public schools so that we can give already wealthy families a discount. This will destroy our public schools, which are already under pressure and shortages. This is exactly why out-of-state and out of touch billionaires like Jeffrey Yass should not be allowed to donate millions of dollars to political campaigns. Nobody in Texas wants this! So much for caring about CHILDREN. This is outrageous.

Ashley Speaker

Self

Alvarado, TX

Our children are the future of our nation and our communities. The only way we have a well balanced, educated and intelligent society going forward is by supporting and fully funding PUBLIC schools across the state! HB3 calls for defunding of our public schools and gifting resources to a tiny number of private institutions made up of primarily wealthy families! PLEASE HEAR TEACHERS, STUDENTS, PARENTS AND COMMUNITY MEMBERS when we say we DO NOT want a school voucher system! Plenty of states have already tried and show massive failures, available for us to avoid making those same mistakes! Voucher systems fund BUDDIES of Texas lawmakers and out of state VENDORS. Do not SELL OUT our Texas families! Please, God, hear us and REPRESENT US AS YOU WERE ELECTED TO DO!

Kristin Bingham, Mrs.

Self

Lubbock, TX

As a life long Texan and registered republican, please hear me say I absolutely do not support school vouchers/education savings accounts. Our public schools are valuable investment in our future and should be treated as such. Fund our schools, trust teachers, and let students be kids.

Tonja Lopez self - Texas Parent
austin, TX

Honored Members of the Committee,

My name is Tonja Lopez, and I am an educator, a parent of two Texas schoolchildren, and a faculty member at The University of Texas. I hold a degree in Education and Human Development and have worked as a teacher for over a decade. As both an educator and the daughter of a former Texas teacher and guidance counselor, I have seen firsthand the challenges our public schools face—both in the past and today.

I am strongly opposed to HB 3, the voucher scheme, which would divert public funds away from Texas public schools to subsidize private education for wealthier families. Our public schools are already underfunded, and rather than further starving them, we should be investing in the students and educators who rely on them.

Rural communities, in particular, have little to no access to private schools, and even where options exist, they often lack transportation, cafeterias, special education services, and teachers who meet the same rigorous standards as those in public schools. Texans across the political spectrum have repeatedly rejected similar voucher schemes because they recognize the harm they do to our communities.

Instead of diverting funds, I urge you to increase per-student funding by at least $1,300 to help our schools recover from years of legislative neglect. Our students and teachers deserve better.

Thank you for your time, and I trust you will make the right decision for Texas schools.

Sincerely,
Tonja Lopez

Georgia Driskill
Self, Business Owner
Aledo, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program that will only help those who own or run private schools. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Audrea Hiatt
Self
Pflugerville, TX

This only benefits the wealthy.

Amanda Baxley
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Please do not pass this bill. We do have school choice. This bill will take much needed funds away from my child's school district that is already struggling and has had let teachers go and cut programs. My kids are currently in 11th and 8th grade. I volunteer weekly at both schools and have seen the effects this has had on teacher and administrators who are struggling with funding. Fund our public schools NOT private schools. Not every child can get into a private school. We tried to enroll my son in private school when he was in Kindergarten and we were denied. Both of my children have dyslexia. Being denied by that private school was the best thing that could have happened. We live in a great school district. They have had amazing teachers help them learn the tools they need to be successful with their dyslexia. Now these programs are in jeopardy because of budget cuts. Please listen to the parents. Let every Texan vote if we want this or not, not just a few who stand to gain so much.

Gail Fuqua
Self/retired
Fredericksburg, TX

Please do not pass this bill. It is a voucher program under another name. It will only benefit families that are already paying for private tuition. It will not improve the Texas education system. Work toward improving teacher pay to improve teacher quality. It starts with the teachers.

Katie Beth Harry
Self
Houston, TX

Fully funded public education offers more choice than vouchers and more socioeconomic equity.

Rusty Phares
Self/teacher
Amarillo, TX

Ruining public schools for a voucher system that will benefit a very, very small group of wealthy people is not what's best for business. We should not be talking about funding private schools in any way, especially when public schools are not fully funded. There are no provisions for regulating what private schools do, but they would receive public money. Public schools have all the regulations the state has to offer, but would receive less money to ensure they are met. The majority of Texans do not want this to pass, and neither do I! The majority of school age kids in my part of the state do not have access to private schools, nor do they have the ability pay for it even if you gave them the money because of the "additional costs" that come with attending a private school. They also don't have any guarantees that they will be accepted to these institutions. No Vouchers means No Vouchers! Please listen to what the majority of people want and not what these private donors and greedy politicians who are looking put for their own personal wealth ahead of the kids needs want and vote NO! Vouchers are bad for education. Thank You

Brittany Armer
Self-teacher
Cuero, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Hunter Waldie
Self - Chemical Distribution
Rowlett, TX

I oppose school vouchers, taxpayer money should stay in the public school system.

Cynthia Riley

Self

Austin, TX

Please preserve our proud tradition of public education for all. Vouchers will financially imperil our public schools by diverting funds. They will not support legally compliant and important services for kids with special needs. They will not allow merit-based thriving. They will further divide our society. We will have more distance between the haves and the have nots. And more silo-ed groups self-selecting to have the kids hear and learn only what their homogeneous world is willing to let in.

Kindal Baker, Mrs.

Self

Dripping Springs, TX

As a working Texas tax payer, I say no to vouchers. I want all taxed resources already going to public schools to stay as it is and I'd like to see the state improve funding to public schools.

It is simple. Texas needs to improve school funding and benefit the majority of Texans. Texas needs to strengthen its majority through public school education and programs. Strengthen our future generations. Texas can only be great if we invest in the most Texans.

Also, stop giving tax breaks to corporations that would be impacted the least if taxed. Make sure they understand that you care about Texans and the future of Texas.

No to school vouchers and no to diverting funds away from public schools.

Do the job you have been elected by the majority to do.

No to vouchers and "school choice."

Christopher Betancourt

Self

SANGER, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Elizabeth Foley

Self

The Woodlands, TX

I'm a fellow Texan and parent to 2 public school students. I do NOT want HB 3 approved and do NOT want my tax dollars going to private schools. Vote no on HB 3 and instead fully fund public schools.

Rachel Fowler

Self - VP, Risk for a mortgage company

Cedar Park, TX

I oppose school vouchers to fund private schools. Well funded public education is critical for our children. Providing school vouchers will not be sufficient for low to moderate income families to afford private school tuition for their children. This is essentially welfare for the rich who already have the means to pay tuition to the private school of their choosing. This plan does not make sense and will hurt our children and their opportunities for a solid education.

Sharon Yancey

Sharon Yancey

Austin, TX

Public education should be improved before considering a private voucher program. Every child should be able to attend their neighborhood school, mingle with children from different backgrounds, and learn about cultural differences freely and without an indoctrinal philosophy attached to their education. Private schools can increase tuition at any time, thereby pricing out students and creating a social class system. We don't need or want that in Texas. We want every child to access the same excellent education opportunities in their neighborhood. Magnet schools have addressed specialized learning opportunities for years and should be expanded before sending taxpayer money into the bank accounts of for-profit schools. I am opposed to vouchers for Texas children and in favor of improving public schools.

Kelsie Wagner

Self

Cisco, TX

SB2/HB3 grows government, weakens local schools, and wastes taxpayer money with zero accountability. It strips rural schools of funding, and violates the Texas Constitution's duty to public education. This isn't school choice this is economic segregation. Say NO to SB2 & HB3!

Isaura Bowne

RN/self

Nevada, TX

I do not support this bill.

Jolynda McGrath, Mrs

Self

Montgomery, TX

Vouchers have ruined every state they have been implemented in! Why will none of you grow a back bone and stand up against Abbott!

Kathi Thomas

myself

Austin, TX

I misspoke in my earlier communication- I was thinking about charter schools that can access low-cost loans for building schools. HOWEVER, listening to the hearing this morning, I've got a lot of concerns.

First of all, I'm willing to bet dollar to a doughnut that those Catholic Schools with tuition under $10,000 will indeed raise their tuition to $10,000, so they get the full amount from the state. The students who are already enrolled but don't get the vouchers, will be told it's $10,000, but they will just "scholarship" them that extra amount, so that they're still paying the same amount as before. That will allow the Catholic Schools to reap as much as possible from the taxpayer dollars.

We saw that very thing happen with the feds gave a $10,000 tax credit for adoptions. Overwhelmingly, agencies raised their fees. It was a big deal 24 years ago when we adopted.

The expert woman in the white blouse is dancing around the question. I know for a fact that a divorced friend of mine was not allowed to enroll her children into Regents School. They didn't give her the option to sign on to "respect" the schools values- they flat out told her she wouldn't fit in with their families. They told friends of mine who were a two moms family the very same thing. Again, nothing about "respecting" their values, just "you won't fit in with our families."

They DO discriminate!

Molly Crow

Self

Friendswood, TX

Please listen to Texans! I strongly hope you will stop pushing ESA/vouchers, they will not give all parents a choice as the Governor continuously claims. When only 1% of students will benefit, how is that all? What about the students who live in a zip code with no other option than their public school? What about these students who will not be accepted into their local private school because of their 504 accommodations? What about the students who cannot access transportation to any other school besides our local public school? As a registered Republican, I STRONGLY oppose ESA/voucher programs, especially in the way they are being presented. The funds, are intended for our public schools, which you are constitutionally obligated to fund. Our schools are severely underfunded, in fact when looking at inflation they are receiving less per student than they were before, it is beyond past time to increase the basic student allotment! In addition, the mandates and strings attached to the additional funding should be required if you move forward with the voucher scam. The majority of Texans are against vouchers!! The money you are caving to and the voices you are listening to are not your constituents or supporters, it is the donors who quite literally have no interest in Texas students except for lining their own pockets. Texans deserve better!!! Our public schools are the heartbeat of our communities and you are slowly killing them by refusing to fully fund them. Say no to ESA/vouchers!!!!!!

Francesca Romans

Self - Paralegal

Leander, TX

I am the parent of two students in Texas public schools and am OPPOSED to the establishment of an ESA program. My tax dollars should be funding the public education system that our Texas Constitution requires. The public school system goes above and beyond to educate and care for over 5.5 million Texas children and it is sadly doing so right now without the support of those mandated to maintain it. As a parent, if I want to send one of my children to a charter or a private school, I already have that choice. For my other child who receives special education services, however, I would not have that choice and vouchers/ESAs would not help. Private schools are allowed to choose who they admit, and I'm comfortable estimating that the majority of them do not have the capability to serve students like mine. The Legislature is going to take money away from the public schools that can serve BOTH of my children (which then prevents the public schools from fully operating) in order to give it to private schools that can not only pick and choose who they accept but do not have the public oversight/accountability that is required from our public schools. If so many people in Texas want ESAs, why has this not been allowed to appear on a ballot?

It is time for our Legislature to fund our public schools. Not only that, it is time for our Legislature to respect our educators and support them instead of allowing the hostile, inaccurate, and never-ending negative political narratives to bring them down. My children deserve better from this state, and so do everyone else's. Our public schools serve 5.5 million children who are the future of this state. Uplift them, properly fund them and their educators, and watch them thrive instead of rooting for them to fail to fulfill a political checklist that does not serve the majority.

Lauren Michaels

Self

Arlington, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Bethany Click

Self

Abilene, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3 and Governor Abbott's push for Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) in Texas. This bill is not about improving education—it's about diverting taxpayer money away from public schools to fund private institutions that have little to no accountability to Texas families.

Governor Abbott claims that the state spends $15,503 per public school student, yet he proposes giving only $10,000 per ESA recipient. Where is the rest of that money going? If public schools are supposedly so expensive, why isn't the solution to increase their funding rather than take money away? The math doesn't add up.

Abbott argues that ESAs will allow low-income families to afford private school, but this is misleading. The average private school tuition in Texas is over $10,000 per year, and many schools charge much more. That means families will still have to pay out of pocket for tuition, uniforms, transportation, and other fees. This program doesn't create real choice—it only benefits families who can already afford private school while leaving the majority of Texas children behind.

Additionally, other states with ESA programs have seen failure:

- In Arizona, over 75% of ESA recipients were already in private school before getting taxpayer money.
- In Florida, ESA funds have been misused on luxury items, showing how easy it is to abuse these programs.

Texas should learn from these mistakes, not repeat them.

And let's talk about the politics behind this bill. I have learned that Governor Abbott recently accepted $12 million from a private entity to push for school vouchers. If this bill were truly about helping Texas families, why does it take private donations and partisan fear-mongering to get it passed? Abbott's social media is filled with posts attacking Democrats rather than explaining how this program will genuinely help families. That alone is a red flag.

The people most in favor of this bill don't have young children in school—but those of us with multiple young kids do. We know the consequences of shifting public funds to private schools: larger class sizes, fewer resources, underpaid teachers, and struggling rural schools with no private options at all.

Texas already underfunds its public schools—why are we making it worse? Instead of handing taxpayer dollars to unregulated private schools, we should fully fund and improve the schools that serve 5.5 million Texas children.

I urge lawmakers to reject House Bill 3 and stand up for public education, accountability, and real school funding reform. Texas children deserve better than a shady, rushed voucher scheme that benefits the few at the expense of the many.

Laura Liles

Self-Nurse

Richland Hls, TX

We all know what this is. Republicans are not fooling anyone. Stop exploiting people for your power grab. It's evil

Monica Hurtado Viera

Self

San Antonio, TX

There is no way I will ever support this bill. IT'S welfare for the wealthy. I WANT MY TAXPAYER DOLLARS TO FUND PUBLIC SCHOOLS. This is coming from the mother of both public and private school students.

Adriana Owens, Ms

Self

Corpus Christi, TX

This bill or proposal will not benefit anyone. It will actually do more harm

Sommer Phillips
Self, Mental Health Therapist
Lubbock, TX

I strongly disagree with this bill's approach to school funding and teacher compensation. It does not adequately address the root causes of educational inequality and may disproportionately impact underfunded districts, particularly rural communities. Our rural districts will suffer under this bill if approved. Additionally, it fails to consider the unique needs of students requiring special services.

Jill Cox
Self
Frisco, TX

Public funding is essential to schools. Education is a right, and private school is a CHOICE that those with the means to do so, may choose. Texas public schools educate nearly 11% of students in the United States. Private school enrollment in Texas represents about 5.6% of the total school-age population. Increasing the investment in public schools not only boosts economy and local programs such as art and STEM, but you invest in the community based on your constituents. Private school is a choice for those with the means, and a voucher program would HARM public schools, the programs it offers, and its community. Fund public schools.

Andrea Gutierrez
Self/stay at home mom
Boerne, TX

For the last 18 years, I have been advocating for my higher needs child and their siblings. In those 18 years, we have utilized a variety of private education as well as public education. Private education was not able nor willing to meet the needs of a child with higher needs. They did not have the resources necessary nor the teaching staff available to offer the support necessary for that child success. Quite honestly, the private schools that I have seen in the San Antonio area, including those pricey $30,000 a year private schools, require the parents to pay for private tutoring for their child to have success. The teachers do not have to, nor are, they required to aid the children and grasping concepts.

When voucher systems all we are talking about is subsidizing schools choosing the student students they want. We talk about a affluent families getting their private schools subsidized at the expense of public schools. And when those public schools are losing those much needed hard earned dollars, the students that will not have choice, will be dealt a significant blow and their ability to be educated. A family sending their child to a school that cost $10-$20,000 a year does not need a voucher to help pay for their child's schooling. But the family that's child is in speech therapy, OT, social groups, special education classrooms... they need the funds their school have always received. And removing those funds remove opportunities for children of all needs to have the educational support they need for success. It creates a greater divide between the haves and the have nots. It will create a greater barrier for higher needs children to receive the training and education needed to become gainfully employed and add to the revenue of the Texas economy.

And a bill that was pushed by a 12 million donation to our governor should not overrule the needs of the children of Texas. The needs of the major majority of children in Texas. Not the minority of children that will go to those private schools, regardless of this bill and vouchers.

Sara Akers
Collaborative Arts of Plano Immediate Past President, Founder (retired) of North Texas Performing Arts (formerly Plano Children's Theatre)
Plano, TX

As a voting Republican and Plano resident, I encourage you to vote no to school vouchers. They are not in the general public's best interest. Stand up to Abbot! Vote NO!

natalie sutton
Self
Waxahachie, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Karina Perez Cantu
Self
Pflugerville, TX

Hello, my name is Karinna Cantu, a former public school social worker, a mother of two children in public school, a public school graduate, and a constituent in zip and I am a constituent in 78660. I am exercising my right to voice my opposition to HB3. I am deeply concerned that our state government has given up on our state funded education. I am a proud Texan and only want the best for my state. It is embarrassing that our legislators believe that our state cannot be great again. I want to point out the voucher amount is $4,000 more than the per-student allotment for public school students. Again, saying the private sector is better than what our great state minimum expectation to take care of our children in all schools. Additionally, the average cost of private education for disabled Texas students is nearly twice the HB 3 voucher amount. Only 67 private schools in Texas even offer special education programs-and 82% of them are concentrated in major cities like Dallas and Houston. While the bill claims to prioritize low-income families, with a threshold 5 times the poverty line and double the state's median income, the bill is out of touch and does not serve our low-income families. With funding for less than 2% of Texas students, it's clear this bill isn't about providing families with choice, but providing a tax payer funded coupon for the few. Thank you.

Nichole Sharp
Self/Public Education
Fort Worth, TX

(HB 3)“Vouchers”will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a Texas Teacher whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Jennifer Yorek

Self

76205 (Denton, TX), TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools, especially rural schools that already struggle with scarce resources. As a native Texan, I urge you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution. Education should be for everyone.

Mandy Wright

self

Fort Worth, TX

As a lifelong Texan and a Texas public school parent for 16 years, I believe funding educational savings accounts is not the best overall use of our tax dollars. Money dedicated to HB 3 does take money that could be dedicated to the public school fund. Each representative that I have spoken with stated they weren't sure how these would be funded in the future.

Without a future plan for funding ESA's, the money would likely be pulled from public school funding in the future.

I have seen firsthand the predicament that the LACK of funding to our schools has placed my kid's public education at risk. Our high school counselors have been reduced to half of the amount they were 7 years ago when we started at the high school level. We have crowded classes with as many as 35-40 kids in a class. We do not have educational offerings that suit all levels of learning. We have the same enrollment that we did 7 years ago.

Our teachers work tirelessly to continue to provide the best education at their own expense because the last legislature failed to pass public education funding. The time in FOUR special sessions was spent on an ESA bill that eventually did not pass. Our schools are endlessly testing our students to maintain accountability to the state requirements. And doing so on limited funding. This takes vital classroom educational time from our students which places more pressure on our teachers to succeed.

ESA's would provide a $10,000 baseline to each student for a private education without the same accountability that the public schools face for a baseline of $6,500 per student. I spoke to two representatives who each had the same response that most kids receive $15,000/student in public schools, with a baseline of $6,500. However, neither could name more than one designation that would add additional money per student. The only designation that they named that students received additional funding for was special education. Of the 1,900 kids at our high school, there are not enough designated special education students to qualify the statement that "most students are funded at the $15,000 level."

The disastrous outcome of ESA's in other states should serve as a warning to Texas. How can you justify this spending on this small amount of students with proven fails throughout other states? These ESAs will not improve education for our rural students who do not have access to private education.

In a state where we are the 8th largest economy of the world, our public school spending ranks 40th in per pupil spending in the US. Businesses are coming to Texas because of the economy, but it is not funding the growth in our classrooms.

Please do the right thing and vote against educational savings accounts that benefit a small number of students at a higher rate than the majority of Texas students.

Carissa Olsen

Self, Self-Employed

Dallas, TX

AGAINST. Proposed voucher stipends of $10K are not enough for everyday Texans to opt into this "choice." On the other hand, wealthy Texans who can already afford private school are going to get a free $10,000 discount at the expense of our public schools which desperately need the funds. Private schools also do not have to follow any rules and can deny any student for any reason. School vouchers will only transfer taxpayer dollars from the poor to the wealthy, at the expense of our public schools which are investing in education for every Texan.

Kim Purselley
Self Teacher
Eustace, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Jeffrey Essigj
Self
Paradise, TX

Vote no to HB3

Shelby Briner
Self/ stay at home mom
Kingwood, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Abby Burnham
Self, Public School Educator
Austin, TX

Dear Representatives,

My name is Abby Burnham and I'm both a parent and teacher in the Texas Public Schools system. Every single lawmaker in Texas should be appalled about the systemic under funding of public education.

We need and demand better:

- A minimum $1,300 increase to the basic allotment—because anything less keeps districts in crisis.
- Basic allotment needs to be based of ENROLLMENT, not attendance.
- A transportation funding increase that reflects actual costs—because the last adjustment was made when gas was $1.00 and bus drivers made $6.50/hour. Today, districts pay drivers $24/hour minimum, and we all know gas prices are not a dollar.
- An increase in special education funding—because our kids deserve the services and supports they are legally entitled to.
- Higher teacher pay—because we cannot retain educators when they're underpaid and overworked.
- Reimbursement for special education evaluations—because districts shouldn't have to fight for what they're required by law to provide.
- Full funding for Dual Language programs—because our multilingual students deserve access to a high-quality education.
- A complete revamp of recapture—because Austin ISD is paying over $900 million annually while unable to afford to educate its own students.

You were elected to lead and to serve the citizens of Texas. Not the small percentage of rich donors pushing extreme agendas. Please do your jobs and fully fund our public schools and show Texans where your priorities and morals are held. Vote No on HB3.

Sincerely,

Abby Burnham

Yair Griver
Self - Computers
San Antonio, TX

School choice is needed so that parents can provide the appropriate education for their children.

Mary Comerford
Self
Elgin, TX

Do not use Texas funds from ALL Texas property owners to benefit children of specific Texans. All available education funding should go to public schools for public education. People already have the choice to educate their children in private schools. It is not the responsibility of all Texans to pay for it. Education funds should only be allocated to to improve education in all public schools for all children in Texas. The Texas Constitution mandates funding for public education. It does not prohibit additional funding to benefit all Texas children.

Andrew Forsythe, Mr
self (retired)
Spicewood, TX

The public school system in Texas needs all the help it can get. Please do not further damage it.

Linda Litzinger
Self - Public Policy Director
Austin, TX

Thank you for this opportunity to provide input. I oppose this bill because it underfunds public schools. Also, the ESA doesn't cover the true special needs of students with disabilities. For example, students who have no use of their hands or who are blind who are in regular education don't need an evening tutor, they need to hire a scribe to dictate to, so that the parent can have a moment to cook, etc. You can't dictate math and science to a machine. Also, students who need a paraprofessional at school, but aren't given one, must have the day's lesson read to them at home. If you still intend to pass this bill, please allow for a category that funds a way for the special student to produce daily homework, remain in regular education and go to college. When you don't have use of your body to perform physical labor, it is necessary to keep up with regular education and go to college. Thank you.

Elizabeth Houser
Self
Round Rock, TX

Please vote NO to the esa. Our public schools are amazing but need to be fully funded to stay that way. The ESA scam provides for the few while hurting the majority of Texans. We already have school choice and people who want to send their children to private school already do so and don't need funds meant for Public Schools! Stop defunding public education-why be at the bottom when we can be at the top?! Plus Private schools can choose which students they want and they do not have to provide any extra support for students who have dyslexia, speech problems, autism, etc. Stop messing with our Public Education system! Vote No to HB 3 by Buckley.

Kimberly Watson
Self
Cedar Park, TX

NO to VOUCHERS
Please provide funding to PUBLIC SCHOOLS Each student should receive a minimum of $1300 Basic Allotment.

Andy MacLaren
Self financial advisor
Austin, TX

I am not opposed to an education savings account program, but rather oppose the underfunding of Texas school districts and by using our public taxpayer dollars to fund private school tuition. Those of us who are fortunate enough to afford private school tuition should not prevent the ability of those less fortunate to be able to have their child educated in a public school. Thank you,
Andy MacLaren

Ryan Grippin self - Marketing executive
Seguin, TX

As a Texas taxpayer without children in the public school system, I am deeply concerned about the fairness and long-term impact of HB3, particularly regarding Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) and school vouchers.

While parents with children in school would gain the ability to direct public tax dollars to private institutions, taxpayers without school-age children—who still fund the education system—would have no say in where their contributions go. This creates an imbalance where certain taxpayers get to “vote” on which schools receive funding while others do not. If my tax dollars continue to support public education, I should have the same influence over how those funds are used as parents who opt into voucher programs.

Public schools are accountable to taxpayers and state oversight, but private schools receiving voucher funds are not held to the same standards. If public money follows students into private institutions, taxpayers deserve transparency and accountability on how those funds are spent. Without it, HB3 risks diverting resources from the public education system while creating a system that benefits a select few rather than all Texas families.

Texans deserve an education system that is fair, effective, and accountable to all taxpayers—not just those with children currently in school. HB3 raises serious concerns about fairness in funding allocation and the long-term consequences for Texas schools. I urge the legislature to consider how this bill affects all taxpayers, not just those who stand to benefit from ESAs and vouchers.

Dominique Williams
Self
Corsicana, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Kristin Jenkins
Self
Southlake, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3, which proposes the use of public funds for private school vouchers. This bill threatens to divert much-needed resources away from our public schools, undermining the quality of education for the majority of Texas students.

Public schools are the backbone of our education system, serving diverse communities and providing equal opportunities for all children. Diverting funds to private schools through vouchers will only exacerbate existing inequalities and leave our public schools struggling to meet the needs of their students.

I urge you to consider the long-term impact of this bill on our public education system and to prioritize the needs of all Texas students by rejecting HB 3.

Thomas Olshanski

Self

San Angelo, TX

Vouchers only benefit families who can already afford private education, while redirecting critical resources away from underfunded public schools. Furthermore, they fail to account for counties without private education options or areas where private schools are insufficient to meet the needs of the student population. I strongly encourage you to vote against the implementation of a voucher program. Instead, please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of our children and the future, as outlined in the Texas constitution.

LaDawn Davis

Self/teacher

Lubbock, TX

This bill is absolutely ridiculous. There are so many areas in our state that do not have access to private schools. You are taking money away from those rural areas. You have held public school money hostage and pretend like you are doing us a favor. All of this is ridiculous. People that send their kids to private schools do have a choice and they have made it. The children that actually need funding are not going to be able to afford private schools anyway. You have a shortage of teachers because of the way we are treated and paid. Pay your teachers and fund your schools!!! If you think it's such a good bill put it out for us to vote on it. You know it won't pass so therefore you are doing it underhanded and lying about it. I refuse to vote for anyone that supports this.

Carolyn Shirley

self

Lexington, TX

My name is Carolyn Shirley. I am 76 yr old and I live in Lee County. I oppose HB 3. Parents already have lots of Choice in the Public School System in Texas. I have chosen to stay informed, vote, meet with my children and grandchildren's teachers and principals, volunteer in the classroom, and in one case chose an excellent Houston Magnet School for my daughter in 1978. I had a good education in Texas City Schools and in 1963, limited integration came and I got my first black friend and special needs friend, both of whom enriched my perspective and my world. I believe by supplementing private education with taxpayer dollars we encourage and enable parents to splinter their children off in schools segregated by religion, class, and ethnicity. We must fully fund public schools and not hold our schools hostage to private school voucher money.

Catherine Ludeman-Hall

Self

Austin, TX

As a multi-generational, Native Texan (and member of the DRT), I am the beneficiary of public schools, as are both of my parents, and their parents, going back at least 5 generations (that I am able to retrace the education access). My mother and her family are from LaSalle County, where private schools are not an option. Our family still there equally has limited education access. Rather than focused on school vouchers that will benefit few, wouldn't it be better if we focused on ensuring Texas as the best public schools in the nation, accessible to everyone, from those in the rural corners to the urban hubs. Educating our residents is really what will make Texas great. Continuing to starve our schools makes us an embarrassment on the national stage.

Alexis Sangsvang
Daggett Elementary PTA / Parent
Fort Worth, TX

I understand that the intention behind school vouchers is to provide families with more educational choices. However, I am concerned that this policy disproportionately benefits wealthier families and diverts critical funding from public schools, which serve the majority of students. Public schools are a vital cornerstone of our community, and they should be adequately funded to ensure that every child, regardless of their background, receives a quality education. I love being a part of my public-school PTA, I love supporting all our children. I see firsthand everyday I'm at the school the impact our community has. I also have a stepson who has an IEP and I have fought hard to get him where he's at now. What about those children?

I respectfully ask that you reconsider your stance on this issue and prioritize initiatives that support and strengthen our public education system. Investing in schools and ensuring all students have access to quality education should be the main focus, rather than shifting resources to private institutions.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I hope that you all take into account the responses of your constituents who value and rely on public education.

Reagan Stinson, Ms.
self
North Richland Hills, TX

NO ONE WANTS THESE VOUCHERS. AS THE DAUGHTER OF A PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER, AS A FORMER PUBLIC SCHOOL STUDENT AND AS A FRIEND OF MANY PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS. I CANNOT IN GOOD FAITH SUPPORT THESE BILLS THAT STRIP AWAY CRITICAL FUNDS FROM STRUGGLING SCHOOL DISTRICTS. IT IS TO NO FAULT OF THIER OWN THEY ARE STRUGGLING. IT IS THE FAULT OF THE TEXAS REPUBLICAN PARTY WITH GREG ABBOTT AT THE HELM WHO IS TO BLAME. HIS CONTINUOUS LIES AND POLICIES AND BUDGET ADJUSMENTS HAVE STIPPED CRITICAL FUNDING FROM PUBLIC SCHOOLS, THEIR TEACHERS AND SUPPORT STAFF. GREG ABBOTT IS FAILING TEXAS SCHOOL CHILDREN. HE IS FAILING TEXAS TEACHERS AND HE IS FAILING THE FUTURE OF TEXAS BY STRIPPING FUNDING THAT WOULD OTHERWISE ALLOW FOR THE TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM THRIVE WITH OVERWHELMING SUCCESS.

THERE HAS BEEN SO MUCH PUBLIC OUTCRY ABOUT THESE VOUCHERS ALREADY, AND THERE WILL CONTINUE TO BE PUBLIC BACKLASH UNTIL Y'ALL SHUT UP ABOUT IT, DROP THESE DUMB EXTREAMLY UNPOPULAR VOUCHER PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENTS BECAUSE IT IS A WASTE OF OUR TAX DOLLARS. PUT THIS ISSUE TO A VOTE SO THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS CAN HAVE A SAY IN WHAT HAPPENS TO OUR CHILDREN, OUR COMMUNITIES AND OUR FUTURE.

Jenny Quinn
Self
Dallas, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike. Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Gloria Rodriguez
Self
Arlington, TX

We need the money to keep educating the students in regular public school with real teachers who have degrees in education.

Emily McGee, Rev

self - Pastor

Arlington, TX

I am a Pastor, a mother of three boys in public school, a Texas public school graduate, and a strong supporter of public education. I absolutely oppose school vouchers/ESAs in Texas, a policy that will harm our already struggling public education system. My son has autism, and we have sought out several different education options for him because as a parent, I already have school choice. We are currently proudly part of Mansfield ISD, where my son is receiving multiple services to help not only his academic success but also his social-emotional learning and his ability to be a good citizen.

In the public education system, my son has access to a diagnostician, speech therapy, occupational therapy, music therapy, and an Individual Education Plan to make sure he has the accommodations he needs. I don't know of a private school that offers the same breadth and depth of services that my son gets at his local public school. In fact, none of the general education private schools in our area would even accept my son as a student because of his extra needs.

Beyond our own family, public education is a common good for all Texans. Public education is enshrined in our state constitution, and our legislature should be looking to uphold that document - not get around it, or drain funding from it, or break it apart. Defunding public schools through vouchers is a moral failure, abandoning our responsibility to ensure every child—regardless of zip code or income—has access to quality education. It betrays the very values we claim to uphold as Texans: fairness, opportunity, & commitment to the common good.

I don't want my public tax dollars supporting private schools, which often lack oversight, accountability, and the same testing requirements as public schools.

Instead, fund our public schools appropriately, and watch how our entire communities will be built up. Increase the student allotment, and watch how our children will soar.

Texas is at a crossroads. We can continue neglecting public education, or we can commit to properly funding our schools. Public education is the foundation of our democracy, economy, & communities. We must stop political games and invest in Texas' future. I implore you, as lawmakers, leaders, & fellow Texans, to do what is right and oppose ESAs.

Lori McMorris

Self

Austin, TX

No vouchers. Please support public schools. Public schools are underfunded and Austin ISD has to give away way too much in recapture. Fix recapture, fund public schools, vote no on vouchers for the rich.

Laura Saenz

Self - parent

Austin, TX

I have two disabled sons and this bill will be horribly detrimental to their educations. They wouldn't be accepted to local private schools and will be abandoned in schools that are being stripped of their funding. Special ed programs in the district already lack funding, trained educators, and resources, this won't improve if you remove students from districts already in need of support. Disability is a natural part of life, and our kids shouldn't be treated like an afterthought in the public school System. Let's put our money and efforts into providing an amazing education for ALL kids.

Kristin Gartman

Self

Houston, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a specialist working with blind and visually impaired students, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. My students as well as other special education children will never benefit from the voucher program. Public education doesn't discriminate based on the students needs and the costs associated. The voucher program will allow the for profit schools to cherry pick the students they want by changing their admission criteria to weed out students who require extra services to benefit from the education process leaving some of the most vulnerable of our children in a defunct public education system. Low income families as well could be a casualty of the voucher program. Proponents say that it will benefit low income families and allow their children to attend private schools; however, private schools have no restrictions on raising the cost so that low income families still can't afford private school even with a voucher. Public education has always been a promise to the future that we will provide them with an education no matter the circumstances. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Rachel Jordan-Shuss

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose HB 3, the largest and most expensive school voucher scheme ever proposed in Texas. This bill takes taxpayer dollars meant for public schools and redirects them to private schools that lack transparency, accountability, and equal access for all students.

Public tax dollars should support public schools, which serve every child, regardless of ability, income, or background. Texas lawmakers have not increased the basic per-student funding allotment for public schools since 2019, despite rising costs, inflation, and a record budget surplus. If there is money in the budget for education, our priority should be fully funding public schools first—ensuring teacher raises, better resources for students, and improvements to school infrastructure—before sending tax dollars to private institutions that are not accountable to the public.

Furthermore, HB 3 does not even prioritize the students who need the most support. It allows families already in private schools—including those making over $200,000 per year—to receive taxpayer-funded vouchers. Wealthy families will get a discount on private school tuition while public schools lose funding, harming the vast majority of Texas students.

This bill also fails students with disabilities. While HB 3 offers larger voucher amounts for special education students, private schools are not required to accept them or provide the necessary services. Public schools are legally required to serve all children, yet HB 3 shifts funding away from them to schools that are not obligated to meet these needs.

Texas public schools educate more than 5.4 million students—far more than private institutions ever will. If we truly care about education, we should be investing in strong, well-funded public schools that serve everyone, rather than subsidizing private schools that can pick and choose their students.

HB 3 is bad for Texas families, bad for students, and bad for our public schools. I urge legislators to reject this costly and irresponsible voucher scheme and instead invest in fully funding public schools, raising teacher pay, and ensuring that every Texas child has access to a high-quality education.

Megan Huseman

Self

Wylie, TX

I do not support HB 3.

Kathleen Lyon

Self

Frisco, TX

I am a parent of several elementary aged kids. I oppose diverting any funds from public school.

Nicolas Alvarado

Houston families

Houston, TX

The proposed bill presents serious concerns for education funding, equity, and community cohesion. It would strain already limited resources for both rural and urban schools by enabling student departures without addressing the fixed costs these institutions must maintain regardless of enrollment numbers.

The exemption of charter schools from standardized testing requirements like the STAAR exam creates an uneven playing field. When different institutions operate under different accountability standards, we cannot make fair comparisons or ensure consistent quality across all educational options.

This bill essentially provides a subsidy that fragments our educational community. Rather than bringing parents together across income levels to work toward better schools for all children, it enables withdrawal from the shared project of public education.

Most troublingly, data from neighboring states like Louisiana demonstrates that similar charter school initiatives have not delivered improved educational outcomes. On average, charter schools perform worse than their public counterparts despite operating with different rules and standards.

I urge you to vote against this bill. Our focus should be on strengthening public education through evidence-based improvements that benefit all students rather than diverting resources to alternatives without proven success. We need solutions that unite our communities in supporting education rather than fracturing them.????????????????

Molly Frisinger

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote against the school voucher bill. Public schools are the backbone of our democracy. This bill would take desperately needed money away from our public schools. Every student deserves a strong public education. I was a public school student, and I'm proud to send my son to public schools as well. Please don't pass this bill which would harm public education.

Amy Kulik

Self

Austin, TX

This bill will severely damage our public school system and hurt the families who must rely on it. Please vote against this bill.

Amy Martindale

Self

Mesquite, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, a product of public education, and a public educator, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Leanne Jackson

Self

Plano, TX

This bill will ruin public education.

Carolyn Fyke, Mrs.

Self/Retired

Houston, TX

As a native Texan and like the generations of my relatives before me, who are products of many years of public education, I oppose the school voucher bill (HB 3).

Vouchers will only benefit families who are already sending their children to private schools, making them richer! In many cases, the “voucher” would not even cover most of the private school tuition! These vouchers are taking funds away from desperately already underfunded public schools!

In addition, many smaller towns and communities in Texas have no private schools, so what are these children supposed to do?

I urge you to vote NO against the establishment of a voucher system and fund public education for ALL children.

Thank you,
Carolyn Fyke

Sarah Vega

N/A

Fort Stockton, TX

Say no to vouchers!!!

Victoria Reyes

Self, public school teacher

El Paso, TX

I am against school vouchers and want to keep the money in public schools. We need more funding for those who can't afford the “choices” that have been given.

Beth O'Connor

self

Pflugerville, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Linda Autrey
Self Retired
Somerville, TX

Dear Chairman Buckley,
I'm not happy about the state raising ISD appraisal valuations to raise more funds locally through property tax because the state doesn't want to pay its fair share to our ISD's. It use to when our children in Texas ISD's were majority White.

For over a decade the Texas legislature has been paying less per student to our majority minority ISD's while us property owners pay more. How's that working out? BTW, I vote in the constitutional amendment elections and I am a home owner. I know how it isn't working out. If the system was working I wouldn't have to vote every two years for these exemptions on my property taxes.

Now, there is a scheme to take our property taxes for our ISD's and give it to wealthy, White, Christian, students whose parents already pay to send their children to private, religious, school. You are taking from the poor and giving to the rich!

While you are busy today, I just want to take a moment to catch you up on the news. President Trump is buying a Tesla tomorrow from the richest man in the world because he feels sorry for Elon's business losses. Canada has retaliated with tariffs on energy that will cost American citizens in three states an additional $100 per month to stay warm.

Pick a side.
Thank you for your time.

Juliann Johnson
Self
Georgetown, TX

I vote against this. Public schools are already underfunded and people already have the choice to go to private school. We should consider all children and households and let education be as good as it can be.

Robin Phillips
Self
Houston, TX

Time and again, Texans have broadly opposed vouchers or ESAs, as we acknowledge the best system for everyone is well-funded public education system that preserves school choice for parents on an individual level. This time around the only difference is external political funding that has emboldened our Governor. Don't let three very wealthy men—one of whom isn't even a Texan—decide what's best for our state. Vouchers will primarily benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately and deliberately underfunded public schools. Please vote against the establishment of any voucher program. As other states' experience with such program have shown, these programs quickly become unaffordable without demonstrable benefit to the quality of education. Moreover, private institutions are appropriately wary of state standards being applied to them, along with monitoring, if they accept state subsidization. Instead of these accounts that the majority of Texans do not want, please focus your efforts on funding public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas Constitution. Let's get Texas back to being a leader in education for all Texans.

Hector Reyes
self
Muleshoe, TX

My wife is a teacher. She needs and deserves a pay raise. ESA will not help Texans. They will not bring Texans together. Money needs to stay in public schools. They are safe and provide excellent services for SPED students. The private schools do not need money. Private schools do not take the STAAR and they score lower than public school kids. They don't have regulations like all TEXANS

Amber Lindholm

Self

Austin, TX

I do not support school vouchers. I support funding our public schools for all to be successful.

Lisa Bell

Self

Murphy, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while taking funds from already underfunded public schools.

It will also devastate small communities who count on schools to provide meals, jobs, and social interaction and activities as well as rural communities that don't have private schools to choose. We voted for you and are counting on you to do the right thing.

You can't in good conscience, vote to remove funds from our already underfunded schools, allowing those who can already afford private schools to receive a tuition break. You must all vote against a voucher program. You must fund public education for our children.

Kevin Palmer

Self (Marketing professional)

Canyon Lake, TX

Argument Against the HB3 Texas School Voucher Bill

The HB3 Texas school voucher bill, promoted by Governor Greg Abbott, threatens public education while disproportionately benefiting the wealthy. Proponents claim it expands “school choice” by funding private school tuition with taxpayer dollars. However, evidence from other states shows vouchers fail to improve outcomes, primarily serve as discounts for affluent families, and disadvantage lower-income and middle-class students. Instead of increasing opportunity, HB3 would deepen inequality and divert essential funding from public schools.

Failure of Vouchers in Other States

Arizona: Ballooning Costs, No Benefits

Arizona’s voucher program led to $300 million in budget overruns, with 80% of recipients never having attended public school—a direct subsidy for wealthier families.

Florida: Academic Decline and Fraud

A 2020 study found students who switched to private voucher schools performed worse on standardized tests. Additionally, Florida’s program has suffered from fraud and unregulated spending.

Indiana: No Student Gains

Indiana’s voucher students scored lower in math compared to public school peers. Over 60% of vouchers went to families above the state’s median income.

Wisconsin: Increased Segregation

Vouchers fueled racial and economic segregation, with wealthier families moving to private schools, leaving lower-income students in struggling public institutions.

HB3: A Handout to the Wealthy

1. Private Schools Are Still Too Expensive

The average private school tuition in Texas ranges from $10,000 to $30,000+ annually. HB3’s $8,000 voucher doesn’t cover the cost, leaving lower-income families unable to afford the remaining tuition.

2. Rural Families Get No Benefit

With few private schools in rural Texas, families in these areas would see no real choices—just weaker public schools due to funding losses.

3. Special Needs Students Are Left Behind

Private schools aren’t required to accommodate disabilities as public schools are. Vouchers could leave special needs students without crucial services.

The Harm to Public Schools

1. Less Funding, Larger Classes

Public schools lose money for every student who takes a voucher, leading to program cuts, layoffs, and overcrowding. Fixed costs remain, but budgets shrink.

2. Lower Teacher Salaries

Texas already ranks 42nd in teacher pay. HB3 would make retention harder by reducing public school funding.

School vouchers have failed in other states and will fail Texas. HB3 would shift resources away from public schools, benefiting only families who can already afford private education. Instead of dismantling public schools, Texas should invest in them—ensuring every child, regardless of income, has access to a quality education. Lawmakers should reject HB3 and prioritize public schools.

Carolyn Bott
Self / Teacher
Round Rock, TX

I oppose this bill and I am AGAINST school vouchers.

ASHLEY ALANIZ
Self - Senior Demand Planner
Conroe, TX

I have lived in Texas my entire life and attended public school before going to Texas A&M. I strongly oppose the HB 3 bill. I know first hand how much our public schools are already suffering and this would only make matters worse. I do not have children but would like for my tax dollars to go to public schools and not private school or any other private organizations.

Lashelle Scott
Na
Houston, TX

I grew up in the public education system. I'm in Harris county, Houston home of the largest school district HISD. Most of the parents cannot afford a private school education. Instead of always investing in private schools let's invest in public: education is the gateway for kids future, let's make sure they continue to have that opportunity. Invest in public education.

Rena Donus
Self
Austin, TX

As a taxpayer, I stand against this bill and ask that my representatives vote against it. This will end or destroy public education in Texas, denying quality education to so many as vouchers will segment our school choices and hurt our most vulnerable populations. Please say NO!

Jennifer Lanter
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am against school vouchers. I do not believe this program is in the best interest of students and public education education.

claudia alvarez
Self
San Antonio, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. It will also negatively impact rural communities that do not have access to private schools. I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Elizabeth Vargas
Mothers everywhere
Pflugerville, TX

I am vehemently OPPOSED to HB3. It is the rich stealing my tax dollars. I also am protesting the fact that I have been only sent to voicemail when I have called Ms Rebecca Bell-Metereaus office three times. I am going to show up at her office as soon as I am able. Her office works for ME and I demand to be heard. Please please we can not let this bill pass. I have four kids and this voucher will be enough to change my mind plus public school teachers are more educated and if rather send my kids there out of principal. Thank you for your time.

Lauren Baulch, Md

Self

Austin, TX

This hasn't worked in other states why do you feel like it's going to work here? How are you going to fund our public schools with the lost money going to private school.

Moshe Segelman

Self

Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Tedra Ulmer

Self/retired

Brady, TX

There is no sane argument for crippling public education in the state of Texas. Half of the state is made up of small towns supporting their schools financially and in other ways. These schools are the glue holding their respective communities together. I see no reason my tax dollars should go to private schools or homeschooling. They can continue on as they always have. This entire endeavor is a giant dog and pony show to enrich further the cronies of our governor and other public officials. As the old saying goes, "If it smells like horse hockey and attracts flies—it is." This smells like an entire barnyard. Stop the lies and fund public education.

Alicia Birdwell

Self — proofreader and Texas mom of 3 public school students

Allen, TX

I am NOT in favor of education savings accounts. I am shocked at how Texas is treating its public schools. My children deserve more. Please do not vote yes. Fully fund all our kids.

Daniel Schmidt, Prof.

Self - Cybersecurity

Austin, TX

I am submitting this comment in opposition to Texas House Bill 3 (HB3) because it represents an irresponsible approach to education funding that will harm, not help, the majority of students in this state.

HB3 proposes to take public tax dollars—money that should be used to strengthen public schools, increase teacher pay, and provide students with the resources they need—and instead funnel it into private schools that have no obligation to serve every child. That’s not education reform. That’s robbing Peter to pay Paul, except Paul runs a private school that can pick and choose who gets in, and Peter is left standing in an overcrowded classroom wondering why his district can’t afford updated textbooks.

This bill does not create choice—it creates winners and losers. And we already know who the losers will be. Public school students, particularly those in rural areas, those with disabilities, and those in communities where schools are already underfunded. They will be the ones left behind when resources are pulled away in the name of "choice," a word that in this case really means “opportunity for some, decline for everyone else.”

There is no long-term benefit here. Studies of similar programs in other states have shown no significant academic improvement for students who leave public schools using vouchers. In many cases, their test scores decline. What does improve is the bottom line for private schools that receive public money without being subject to the same oversight as public institutions.

Public education isn’t supposed to be a competition—it’s supposed to be a guarantee. It’s supposed to be the one place where every child, regardless of background or circumstance, gets a fair shot. HB3 undermines that guarantee by shifting taxpayer dollars away from the very system designed to serve all students. If lawmakers are serious about improving education in Texas, they should focus on funding the schools that serve 90% of Texas students, not diverting resources to a private system that lacks accountability and leaves too many families without real options.

For these reasons, I strongly urge legislators to reject HB3 and commit to policies that invest in public education rather than undermine it.

Kathy Weishuhn

Self

Pflugerville, TX

I freely, clearly and adamantly oppose the passage any legislation whether it be called a savings account program or a private school voucher program.

Dalia Wolf

Self

CEDAR PARK, TX

Texas families deserve strong, well-funded public schools — not a system that diverts our tax dollars to private schools with no accountability. Vouchers hurt our kids, our teachers, and our communities. Public dollars should stay in public schools!

Katie Ornelas

Self

Austin, TX

My name is Katie Ornelas and I am a native Texan who has taught in the Austin area public schools for twelve years and have two amazing daughters in the Austin ISD schools. So I am coming to you today as a product of Texas public schools, a teacher of public schools, and a parent in our public schools.

I am opposed to House Bill 3. Public Schools are immensely foundational in our communities. Public schools are where some of your first (and maybe lifelong) friends are made. Where you learn to read, which I believe is the gateway to all learning. Public school is where your horizons are expanded, where ALL learners are accepted, and where our communities come together for plays, sporting events, and Friday night lights.

But sadly, many of our public schools are already struggling to balance a budget, keep class sizes at a reasonable level, and retain teachers. It is a fact that our public schools need more funding not less.

The proposed voucher system is one where only certain people will benefit not the whole community. Even with vouchers in place, some families still can not afford to send their children to private schools even if there is one close to where they live.

Private schools can also reject students based on a variety of factors. This does not benefit all students.

If the draw of vouchers is smaller class sizes, then instead fund public schools to have smaller class sizes. If the draw of vouchers is to provide more school choice, then invest in more magnet schools. If parents think their local public school is not adequately supporting their student, then I encourage a deeper look. Texas ranks as one of the lowest states in our country in educational funding. A history of low funding has created long wait lists for testing children with suspected learning differences, has given teachers raises but not always to keep up with inflation, and have raised class size limits to levels even seasoned teachers struggle to maintain. These problems will only get worse if funding is taken away from our communities. Instead, I beg Texas to support our public schools and support educators so they can do the job they love.

Our schools are amazing places of learning, exploration, the arts, and friendship. If the public schools receive more funding, not less, many of the struggles that currently face our schools would ease. Instead of pushing schools to the breaking point, invest in them and our future.

Vouchers are not for all but will affect all our communities negatively.

Please vote in opposition to this bill and support local teachers and schools. Thank you for your time today and serving Texas.

Erin Lopez

Self

Bridgeport, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. Schools like the small rural one that my children attend will be affected. As a native Texan, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Lynn Williams

Public school

Canton, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Abigail Henson
Self, student midwife
HOUSTON, TX

I'm a mother of 3 and use HISD public schools. I DO NOT support school vouchers, as these will only gut our school system, which is currently underfunded. Most Texans do not support school vouchers, and we need our elected representatives to properly stand for us.

Candace Cano
Self/self employed
Mesquite, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future.

Mario Barrera
self
San Antonio, TX

Good afternoon, members of the House Committee on Public Education. My name is Mario Barrera, and I am submitting the following comments with respect to HB 3, relating to the establishment of an education savings account program.

I am currently a practicing attorney with a large international firm. I am based in San Antonio but I also work in the firm's Austin office. As such, I am a member of both the Greater San Antonio Chamber of Commerce and the Austin Chamber of Commerce, where I am active in both Chambers' Education committees. And last year, I served as the Chair of the Greater San Antonio Chamber of Commerce where supporting public education and improving local workforce development initiatives were my top priorities.

As a proud graduate of Texas public schools, I have long supported our public school system because of its constitutional commitment to providing open and equal access to every Texas child, regardless of their geographic location, socio-economic status and physical/mental abilities. Our public education system is critical to ensuring that we prepare and train our state's future leaders. I could go on as to why my support for public school education puts me directly at odds with our state's efforts to create an education savings account program but I suspect the votes are already there for the creation of this alternative education system and as an attorney and loyal Texan, I have always respected our democratic system.

That said, I strongly urge this Committee to re-examine the current proposed mechanism for setting up ESAs as well as the amount of money committed to that process. In its current form, HB 3 allows participating parents to receive 85% of the estimated statewide average amount of state and local funding per student in average daily attendance for the applicable school year. Not only should the 85% figure be reduced to a maximum of 50%, but the calculation of the "statewide average amount of state and local funding" will be seriously impacted by property wealthy, recapture and poor school districts. Given that the State has refused to increase the basic allotment amount since 2019, the better calculation should be a maximum of 50% of the current basic allotment and specifically exclude any stipend or weighted amounts added, such as those for those students who qualify for free and reduced lunch or those ESL and/or special education students. Finally, the amount slated for the creation of this education savings account program should be greatly reduced to no more than $200 Million Dollars, with specific educational attainment metrics added to ensure that these taxpayer funds are being expended correctly.

Make no doubt that creating an educational savings account program will directly impact our state's public school system but if our state leaders are bound and determined to create such a system, it should start out as a smaller and less costly pilot program to test the proposed initiatives.

Kimberli Martinez, Dr.

Self

Rowlett, TX

This bill endangered and harms our public school system. This bill only impacts the economically advantage students. This bill does not protect the everyday student it also does not legislate the curriculum being taught at the private school level it does not mandate that they must take students with lesser grades with disability with different learning needs. Private schools currently have the ability to refuse admission to whoever they want. Furthermore the rural areas do not even have access to private schools. So this leaves out a large population in Texas and our school taxes are for all students not just for hundred thousand students or a handful of students. Even if there were enough private schools to go around this does not even come close to covering the tuition which leaves the remainder of the tuition in the pocketbook of those who can afford it. I strongly encourage you to oppose this bill.

Anthony Cacciatore

self

PFLUGERVILLE, TX

I want to express my appreciation for your help in passing SB10 and Prop 9 in 2023. I am a Vietnam Veteran of 11 years that also worked in the medical field for 25 years and then a proud for 19 years. Many of my retired colleagues are struggling with inflation in this country. I am very concerned that HB 3 will take away from TRS contribution rates. So please support to maintain this progress by fully funding contribution rates and to provide an enhancement to offset recent and future inflation. Thank you for your support. Sincerely, Anthony Cacciatore

Kevin Wright
Teacher
Buffalo Gap, TX

As an educator dedicated to the success and well-being of my students at Abilene ISD I am writing to express my deep concerns regarding the proposed expansion of school vouchers in Texas. While I understand the intent behind providing families with educational choices, I believe that the implementation of school vouchers may have unintended consequences, particularly for students in low-income communities like the one I serve.

I come to this issue not just as a teacher, but also as someone who has personally benefited from public education. I am a product of Title 1 schools, and I grew up with a single mother who had me when she was just 15 years old. My experiences growing up in a low-income household gave me a firsthand understanding of the challenges that many of our students face today. It was the support of public schools, with dedicated teachers and resources, that gave me the opportunity to succeed and ultimately become an educator myself.

First and foremost, I am concerned that school vouchers could disproportionately benefit wealthier families who already have access to a wide range of educational opportunities. Low-income families, who would need the most support, may not have the resources or flexibility to navigate the private school system, leaving them with limited or no viable alternatives to their current public schools. This could deepen the educational divide between different socioeconomic groups, ultimately hindering efforts to close achievement gaps.

Moreover, diverting public funds to private schools through vouchers risks undermining the quality of education in our public schools. As a teacher in a low-income area, I have witnessed firsthand how essential funding is for the resources, staff, and programs that keep our students on track. The loss of funding to private institutions could weaken public schools, which serve as a lifeline for many students who do not have the means to attend private schools.

Another significant concern is the lack of accountability in private schools compared to public schools. Public schools are required to meet state curriculum standards and participate in standardized assessments, ensuring that students receive a consistent and quality education. However, private schools that receive voucher funds are often not subject to the same rigorous standards, which could result in a disparity in educational quality for students who rely on these programs.

Finally, I am worried that the expansion of school vouchers could exacerbate existing issues of segregation in our schools. With fewer regulations on private schools, there is a real risk that vouchers could lead to increased segregation along socioeconomic and racial lines, leaving disadvantaged students with fewer opportunities for quality education.

I believe that instead of expanding school vouchers, our focus should be on investing in public education—improving the resources, infrastructure, and support systems that are already in place

Vickie Austin
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am a retired Texas teacher, I ask you to please oppose school vouchers and ESA's.
Vouchers will drain funding from all public schools. Taxpayers should not have to pay for private school tuition with no oversight or strings attached. I say keep public funds PUBLIC!
Many rural areas have no private schools to choose from at all! How is that choice?
Taxpayers dollars should be spent on improving public education for all Texas children, not just those whose families can afford to pay the tuition balance once they use their vouchers.
Without a proposal for accountability and transparency with vouchers, taxpayers will not know if their hard earned tax dollars are being spent efficiently and effectively.
Vouchers are risky for students, risky for families, risky for rural Texans, risky for students with special needs, and finally risky for the state education budgets!
Thank you for the work you do for our state.
Vickie Austin

Toni Haines

HB3

Leander, TX

? NO to VOUCHERS! We

Ask for funding to PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

We Ask for $1300 Basic Allotment per child.

Val McElroy

Self/retired PUBLIC school teacher

Tool, TX

As a retired teacher of Texas Public schools, I urge you to vote NO on HB3. Public money belongs in public schools.

Melinda Huff

self/retired attorney

Boerne, TX

I am very much AGAINST this bill because of the devastating harm it will cause our public schools. If people want to put their children in a private school, they can certainly do that without me, as a taxpayer, having to subsidize it. This bill will disproportionately negatively impact lower income children and further the disparity in per pupil expenditures. Please vote NO to this bill. I sent my child to public school and this bill will result in a huge funding loss to my public school district!

Nisha Rocap

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose the use of public funds for private school tuition. I am a parent of two students in the Austin ISD public school system, and am actively engaged in PTAs of the schools as well as a number of booster organizations supporting school activities. Diverting funds from public schools to partially offset a private school tuition amounts to a subsidy for the wealthy leaving the rest, especially those in rural areas, with less. Strong Public schools are the foundation of our neighborhoods and communities. Those wishing not to participate in public schools have a choice. Just like their taxpayer dollars are used to pay for roads they may not drive on, the public funds to pay for strong public schools should be increased, not stripped for the enrichment of private institutions.

Virginia Shelton

Public education

Haltom City, TX

I oppose school vouchers. Public education is foundational to democracy. Our public education has not been properly funded for years. Gregg Abbotts attempt to force vouchers by starving the public school system is immoral and honestly disgusting, The people of Texas do not want this. Abbott wants this passed because his loyalty has been purchased by rich out donors. Our representatives represent Texas not rich out of state donors. Please defeat the voucher bill and properly support public education.

Leather McCall

Self - Public School Elementary Assistant Principal

PORT LAVACA, TX

While proponents argue that school vouchers promote choice & competition, I want to highlight several reasons why this could ultimately harm the educational system that so many rely on.

1. Undermining Public Schools: Our public schools are the backbone of our community. They provide stability and inclusivity, ensuring that all students, regardless of background, receive a quality education. School vouchers divert critical funds from public schools, leaving them underfunded. With fewer resources, public schools will struggle to maintain essential programs, increase class sizes, and retain qualified teachers. This reduces the quality of education for all students, particularly those who are most vulnerable.

2. Increased Segregation & Inequality: School vouchers risk exacerbating segregation by allowing wealthier families to choose private schools that may not be accessible to lower-income families. Private schools are not always required to serve students with disabilities, English language learners, or students from diverse backgrounds, which could lead to more segregated educational environments. This undermines the principle of equity in education, leaving marginalized students in overburdened public schools with fewer resources.

3. Lack of Accountability: Unlike public schools, private schools that accept voucher students are often not subject to the same oversight and accountability. Public schools are required to meet state and federal standards, ensuring all students receive a fair education. Private schools, however, are not bound by the same rules, meaning there is no guarantee they will provide an education that meets the needs of all students. This lack of accountability puts students at risk, as private institutions may not be equipped to support those with diverse academic or developmental needs.

4. Erosion of Community Cohesion: Public schools play a central role in fostering community connections, bringing together families, local organizations, and students from all walks of life. If vouchers lead to a significant portion of students leaving for private schools, it could weaken these community ties. Public schools with fewer resources and students will find it harder to offer extracurricular activities, maintain facilities, and support a vibrant school culture, which in turn harms the overall sense of unity in our community.

5. Lack of Evidence for Success: Despite the claims that school vouchers improve educational outcomes, the evidence supporting this is limited. Research shows that many students using vouchers do not experience significant academic improvements, and some even show worse results. Instead of diverting funds away from public schools with uncertain results, we should focus on investing in and strengthening the schools that serve our community.

I urge you to reconsider this proposal and instead focus on supporting and improving our public schools. Our children deserve an education system that works for everyone.

donna pound Pound

Self, Board Certified Behavior Analyst

Fort Worth, TX

I have been working in education for 16 years. Our schools are suffering due to funding being withheld for political agendas. Our kids and teachers are suffering while getting suboptimal educations. Please Vote no to school choice/voucher system. The children of Texas should not be turned into a commodity. Invest in all students. Our booming economy needs a well educated workforce that starts in our public schools. It is a conflict of interest when outside doners can buy our governor by paying him a huge donation.

Please vote no and focus your attention into funding the public school system before it fails due to lack of funding!

Julia Gutierrez

Self

Lubbock, TX

I do not support the school voucher program. This bill will further defund our already woefully funded public schools and give yet another leg up to students who don't need it. Political greed should not be funded on the backs of children!

Melissa Knight, Ms.

Self

Austin, TX

NO to HB 3. We must fund and protect public education for ALL Texans. ALL of our children deserve access to education. These funds must be directed to public education, not taken away. Our children's future depends on quality public education today and always. NO to HB 3

Jennifer Erickson

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Texans need public education fully funded and supported. Public money should not be diverted from our public schools where all students are served. Rather than wasting public dollars on vouchers/savings accounts please fully fund public education and change from ADA to annual enrollment calculations like most other states. If Texas wants to stay strong, we must invest in public education.

Casey Lynne

Self/self employed

Austin, TX

I, and every other parent I know in this state are vehemently OPPOSED to HB3. We see through this nonsense and know that it is nothing more than a way to defund public schools and leave Texas kids even further behind than they already are. The rich don't need their kids' private education subsidized. Everyday hardworking average and low income families NEED robustly funded public schools to provide their kids with the education and support they need to thrive. Stop embarrassing us and stand up for what is right. VOTE NO ON HB3.

Kaylea Haas

Self

Huntsville, TX

I heavily oppose this House Bill. The consequences of this passing will be enormous to those in marginalized communities such as foster children, children in impoverished homes, and families who cannot homeschool or privatize their education because of jobs or funding. This will also impact teachers who have worked incredibly hard in their profession to teach children in title 1 schools or any other public school. I know teachers who have taught for 25 years who think this would severely cut already nonexistent budgets for public education, which should be equitable to all children regardless of the school they attend. Funding already heavily funded schools such as private institutions would be a disservice to our future generations.

Alexandra Martin

Self - public school parent and nonprofit executive in the Education sector

Benbrook, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3, which seeks to use public funds for private school vouchers. This bill threatens to divert critical resources away from our public schools, undermining the quality of education for the vast majority of Texas students.

Texas already offers school choice through public, charter, private, and homeschooling options. However, vouchers do not cover the full cost of most private schools, making them inaccessible to many low-income families. The additional expenses—including tuition gaps, meal plans (as private schools do not offer free/reduced lunch), transportation, and after-school care—place an overwhelming financial burden on families who rely on public education for these essential services. Rather than expanding school vouchers that primarily benefit a select few, we should focus on investing in our public schools to address existing challenges and ensure quality education for all students.

I urge you to consider the long-term consequences of this bill and to stand in support of public education by rejecting HB 3. Let's strengthen our public schools instead of stripping them of more funding.

Susan Morrison, Mrs.

Self and neighbors

Austin, TX

I'm against this School Voucher scam to rip off taxpayers by giving public funds to private schools. Public schools were established in our Texas Constitution and this legislation is unconstitutional. The sticker price is too expensive and I will vote against all Republicans who vote for it.

Elizabeth LeSavage

self public school teacher in Ingram ISD

Kerrville, TX

As a 24 year teacher in public education, please vote NO to vouchers. Students that I have had that move in from our local private schools are incredibly behind in academics. It is frustrating the public education is held to such a high standard of teaching the TEKS and private schools are not. I am all for revamping public education to meet more of today's needs. Focus on how we can improve public education for ALL. I have not heard much talk about how we can improve how education is handled in Texas, much less in the U.S. Vouchers are NOT the way to go. $10,000 would hardly cover private schools where I live and certainly not in the larger cities of Texas. I am barely middle class and a voucher would not be usable for me because I have no extra funds to add. Public education is a right and should be improved to meet today's industry needs. Please vote NO- be regards

Terry Moreno

Self

AUSTIN, TX

NOT IN FAVOR OF SCHOOL VOUCHERS

Lauri Wiss, Taxpayer

Self, retired

Commerce, TX

Dear Representative,

I am a taxpayer. This hearing raises more questions than answers.
There has been a priority theoretically for special education students.

I am opposed to the 85% figure because the cost of per student expenses in public schools includes revenues from federal and local revenues along with Title 1, 504, IDEA, ESSA monies. Bond money is also available to public school districts and is included in cost per student.

The cost per student in a private school should not be based on a public school's cost. This would be a massive giveaway to private schools from public school funding. The state constitution prohibits using oil money for private schools.

Using block grant money from the federal Government to fund private school tuition rather than it all going to public school education would be illegal and immoral.

I am against piggybacking non disabled children with a family whose disabled child was the reason for admission. Those children would be taken out of order.

Just what percentage of the enrollment is needed to be considered for a special needs private school to receive state money?

What happens if there aren't enough special needs children who can progress in the school because a private school can't or won't teach what the child needs?

Does that mean most other incomes become eligible in the second year but can't afford??

Now, let us see if this bill meets the ability for special needs and low income children's academic needs can to be met in a private school setting.

An IEP must be done to determine if a child is academically disabled.

This costs approximately $1000-$2500 in the real world. It is indefensible to use public funds for assessments for entry to a private school. There is a shortage of professionals who are under contracts with the school district for IEPs. If there is money, it should be used for more IEPs for public school students.

How will state money be given if the child hasn't been determined to be academically disabled?

This can only be possible if an assessment can be afforded by the parent. Therefore, this is not a low to middle income program.

Additionally, private schools specializing in special needs education require the parent to go through a loan program to ensure that fees can be paid PRIOR to acceptance.

What happens if the family doesn't qualify for a loan for amounts over the school tuition?

What happens if the child cannot stay in the program and needs to go back to public school?

So, the admission is only possible if a person qualifies for a loan.

The child is determined to be academically disabled. S/he applied and did qualify for a loan. Now, there is a requirement by the school to pay everything in two payments. The State sends the money.

Six weeks later the family is told the child is not a good fit, regardless of the reason. The loan must be repaid even if the child is not a good fit for the school.

The parent is on the hook for the tuition!

Lauri Wiss

Kristin Castano, Mrs.

Self

Austin, TX

I absolutely do NOT approve of or support school vouchers. I oppose this bill, both as an educator and a parent.

RoseAnne Franco, Ms

Self, Director

Austin, TX

My name is RoseAnne Franco and I reside in Austin

I am a parent of a child in public school, I am a PRODUCT of public schools and I'm a PROUD SISTER of a public school teacher and Coach in the Dallas Independent School District.

I'm here to strongly oppose HB 3

I am a child of immigrants. I'm a child of a single working mother, due to divorce. My brother and I were raised in the Love Field neighborhood in Dallas – a very working class area of the city.

I attended Maple Lawn Elementary (just about 2 miles from Love Field Airport), Spence Academy, and the Talented and Gifted Magnet - ALL PUBLIC SCHOOLS funded by TAXPAYERS

I was accepted at the University of Texas at Austin – just a mile up the road from us.

And then I was accepted to Georgetown University in Washington, DC where I completed my Master's degree in Foreign Service. All thanks to a stellar public education I received here in Texas.

I have a 11 year old daughter – she attends Kealing Magnet School, just on the other side of I-35. She's one of at least 300 kids that are bused daily to Kealing by choice from their local neighborhood; my husband and I firmly believe in public education.

But I don't know if she's getting as good of an education as I did 35 years ago –

they have a math teacher who left in the Fall for a better paying position in California and just got replaced over the last month; the kids were left with a substitute teacher and videos for months. Our public schools need more money, not less.

Chair and distinguished representatives, we are talking about our CHILDREN, the FUTURE of this state. And the fact that this bill would forego funding that could be spent on them in public schools and allocate it towards a select few students and private schools.

And the fact that CHILDREN in RURAL COUNTIES would be hurt the most as most private schools where these vouchers could be used are actually in the cities.

So I strongly urge you to vote against HB 3 and in favor of our children. THANK YOU

Teresa Martinez

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose education savings account programs and encourage you not to pass this bill out of committee or vote favorably for any bill that provides this type of program in Texas. Fund public schools instead!

Shonda Snyder

Self, Preschool Operations Specialist

Conroe, TX

I as a parent of children in a Texas school district where the schools are busting at the seams, the teachers are underpaid & have no say so in their classrooms, I vote NO for school vouchers. Abbott needs to fully fund public schools, so they can have the funds and tools necessary to do the job they love and signed up for. There are more children who would benefit from fully funded public school education than just a few rich kids whose parents get assistance from the government and tax payers to pay for their kids private school tuition. If we have to pay school taxes, then we should get to say where the money goes. Abbott holding public school funding hostage until his ridiculous HB3 bill is passed is completely absurd! All of the parents I've spoken to regarding this bill, all agree - NO VOUCHERS!! NO VOUCHERS! NO VOUCHERS!! FUND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS!! PUBLIC SCHOOLS BENEFIT MORE CHILDREN, NO VOUCHERS!!

Jamie Lewis
Self
SAN Antonio, TX

I disagree with the entire effort to support "SchoolChoice" . My preference would be more investment, SMART investment in our public schools and an equal education that affected every student. Just say no to this effort, please

Sheer Nisman
self
Austin, TX

I am writing this comment to express my position as a parent. I attended Texas public schools as a child, and now my children do as well. I am a firm believer in the value of a strong public school system. This is the most important thing we can do as a society to improve the future for our children, our communities, our state, and our country. Our money should be going toward improving public schools to make them the best places to learn, to teach, and to grow. I am strongly opposed to the use of my tax dollars for private schooling. Private schools are available for parents who wish to seek out that option for their children, but I do not want to pay for it. The money from our communities should go back into educating our communities in a fair way, and that is done through public school. It is the most ethical and appropriate way to educate our future leaders. Please do not allow this bill to pass. This will only hurt public schools, teachers, students, and our strength as a community. Instead of hurting public schools, we can strengthen them. The best way to do this is by increasing the basic student allotment. Imagine how much better our public schools would be if they received the funding they needed to provide the best education to our children! I know this can happen, and it must happen.

Joseph Lunstrum
Self/ insurance
San Antonio, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 3rd generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Samantha Hernandez
Texas freedom network, unemployed
El Paso, TX

I oppose this bill. Higher income parents don't need a hand out to keep their money, public schools should have every chance to thrive and taking that funding will affect the future generations of Texans. If we don't have a level playing field for all Texas students, public educated students will be poised to seek lower wage jobs in effect hurting the advancements made in this country. Keep public schools funded, the wages we make as Texas residents should only fund public schools. Increase their funds to attract and keep teachers and give them proper resources to educate.

Chris Mott
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the adoption of vouchers for private schools.

Meghan Doman

Self

Austin, TX

The people of Texas have shown multiple times that we do not support school vouchers. This bill does not help every day Texans and only further diverts funding from our underfunded public schools. I am more than happy for my tax dollars to support access to education for all students regardless of their income and background what I am not okay with is diverting funding from public schools that can support accessible education, increasing teacher pay and educational resources so that the wealth gap in this state is further exacerbated by pushing funding into private and charter schools with already wealthy donors and high tuition. I urge this session and our representatives to vote in the best interest of ALL Texans not just a few rich donors or because Greg Abbott didn't get his way.

Lorena Waits

Self-nurse

Willow Park, TX

Do not pass this please. I look forward to sending my child to a public school and cannot afford anymore cuts to public school funding. I would also like my property taxes to decrease and not increase more. A private school education is a choice and a taxpayer should not have to fund it.

Candace Smith

Self

Richkond, TX

I am not in support of any school voucher program. You are wasting our time and doing our great state a disservice spending time on bills like this instead of listening to teachers and creating real policy based off of actual day-to-day classroom experiences.

We could be addressing the failings of no child left behind, standardized testing, teacher reporting workload, student/teacher ratios, or any number of directly actionable items that would effect real and immediate change on the quality of our children's education.

Get your priorities straight.

Benjamin Catterton

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill firmly and I will fund the opponents of any member of the house legislature that support it. This school voucher scam will defund public schools and funnel tax payer dollars to the wealthiest in our great state. This bill is anti-education and anti-family.

Michele Warren

self

Nevada, TX

Please vote to SAVE public education!

Katharin Brinegar

Self - Administrative coordinator

Benbrook, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a parent whose entire family is the product of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Lisa Kammaz
Self
Mansfield, TX

PLEASE sign and share voting today or tomorrow!!!! We need to protect our public schools and the children!

URGENT! ACT NOW THEN SHARE THIS POST!

Easy way to give comments without making a trip to Austin. This takes 2 minutes!!

Voucher bill being heard now!

Click and send:

<https://comments.house.texas.gov/home?c=c400>

Example you can copy and paste below!

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Mel Middleton myself, my students, and my 5 nephews
Spring, TX

It is unacceptable that the voucher will be for significantly more money than the per-pupil allotment for public schools. My nephews (and students) shouldn't be worth $3500 more at a private school. I will only support vouchers if they are for the same dollar amount as per pupil allotment (currently $6160).

Antonio Young
Self
Nacogdoches, TX

The mistake of a possible voucher program cannot be under stated. This program would increase the education gap by making it more difficult for rural, middle and low-income families. Teachers in public schools should have better incentive and income to stay at their schools with all the proper resources to do the jobs well. Additionally, those with developmental difficulties will be even further left behind. A voucher program seems to be a way to benefit the minority and not those who really should be receiving the assistance.

Esther Marsden
Self
Austin, TX

I STRONGLY oppose vouchers for Texas schools. This takes much needed funding away from already under funded public schools and funnels it towards private schools and families who already have access to additional education resources. The money spent per student in Texas public schools is already insufficient to meet students needs. I OPPOSE this bill

George Frey
self
Houston, TX

I oppose HB3 because public pay for private vouchers is unAmerican and abuse of government funds.

Julie Chandler
Personal interest
Mineola, TX

Texas public schools need to be fully funded, and taxpayer money should NOT be spent to subsidize private schools for only some of Texas's children. HB 3 would take money away from public education and fund programs with no oversight as to what is being taught. This may seem like a good idea to some who want their children taught Christian values in school, but what is to keep an unfit organization from taking the tax dollars of Texans and using it to push an agenda that is unregulated? It is the duty of the government of the state of Texas to make sure that public money is used to improve the education of its citizen and not just those who want a private education paid for by the state. It is also not the job of legislators to decide which companies will get contracts to open private charter schools to profit from the state on the backs of the citizens of Texas. Please listen to your constituents and vote NO on a school voucher program in Texas.

Stacy Archer
Self - public school teacher
Hickory Creek, TX

I strongly disagree with HB3. I am in my 13th year as a public school teacher. It is extremely disheartening to work tirelessly to educate ALL children and to feel such a huge lack of support from the leaders of our state. It is also so sad to want to vote republican but have to do otherwise because our republican candidates are not representing ALL people and are only focused on pushing specific agendas that help the wealthy. I am a dedicated Christian who believes strongly in the public school system. I am not scared of it nor do I think we have to provide funding as a state to help people "get out of" public education. That's not the government's job. The government should be pouring money, resources, time, support and energy INTO helping support their public schools. Instead we settle for being one of the lowest ranked states year after year. Our government sees that & decides to punish us?! Instead of come along side us and empower us?? You want to know a good way to further decline the quality of our public schools? Show your public schools teachers, admin, leaders that you do not believe in them and that what they do is not worth your money. That's what is loudly being shown to us as Texas public school educators. Worse than that, you have used OUR public school money as bait. A pawn to help your voucher system pass. You have held onto money that schools have NEEDED the past several years out of selfishness and a complete lack of love for the people of your state that you have vowed to lead well. Instead you are choosing to help a tiny demographic of people pay a little less to go to their school of choice. Again, I am strongly against HB 3. I hope you are listening to ALL of your Texas citizens, not just the ones that agree with you and personally would benefit from this bill.

Nicole Peffley
Self Educator
Houston, TX

This bill is just a subsidy for students already going to private school. Students can't attend private schools for only $10,000. They are way more expensive than that. The average household STILL won't be able to send their kids to private school be sude of this. This bill caters to the rich who don't need this $10,000.

Olivia Havens, Ms

Self, student

Austin, TX

Do not fall for this voucher scam. It will not help impoverished or low income students get access to private schools. It will only make it easier for those who can already afford it and take away valuable resources from our public schools. I am sick of living in a state that does not value our public schools and takes advantage of the poor and uneducated. Slowly draining our public schools of necessary funding only to sow distrust in public education is one of the most sinister ploys our government has tried. All children should be entitled to a free, well funded, high quality education. Put money into our public schools, not voucher scams.

Diana West

Self-stay at home mom

Little Elm, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Catherine L Moore, Ms

Self

Carrollton, TX

Education Savings accounts are not good for Texas. They will further undermine a public school system already massively under supported and over regulated at the state level. They will benefit very few students, if any, and millions of other students will suffer because of them. Public school is the cornerstone of a well educated public, which is the only path to a strong republic. Texas students deserve highly qualified teachers, allowed to exercise their expertise in each unique classroom. They deserve to be released from the expensive and harmful STAAR testing. They deserve safe schools to learn in. They do not deserve to have money taken from them, the many, to serve the few, and line the pockets of those private citizens who serve to profit from literally stealing education from children.

Emily Kaszczuk

Self/parent

Leander, TX

I am writing with a comment regarding the average cost of private schools in Texas which was stated to be $9,400. How was this figure determined? I am looking at the current issue of Community Impact sent to my home in Leander. This issue contains an article about private schools in Cedar Park, Far Northwest Austin, Leander, and Liberty Hill. Over twenty private schools are listed and none offer annual tuition below $12,000 per year. One school reports that their annual tuition is $25,000. These costs are much higher than the suggested ESA allowance. As a parent, if I do not wish to choose private schools for that reason, may I instead request that an additional $10,000 be allocated to the school of my choice?

Is the goal of this bill to subsidize private school tuition for students already attending or is the goal to increase the ability of students who currently attend public school to access private school? If the goal is to make the choice of private school attainable for more Texas families, the bill should address the following barriers to attending private schools.

1. Will the bill mandate that the private schools accept any/all students who have been selected to receive the voucher?
2. Will the bill mandate that the private schools waive the remainder of the fee for families who cannot afford all the costs beyond the ESA value?
3. Will the bill mandate that the private schools retain admitted students for the duration of their educational career?
4. Will the bill mandate that all IEP/504 needs are met by the private schools?
5. Will the bill mandate that the private schools be accountable to the state in terms of how the ESA funds are spent?
6. Will the bill mandate that the private schools be accountable to the state in terms of student achievement or outcomes?
7. Will the bill mandate that a private schools be physically accessible for every student? This is includes the private schools existing at a reasonable distance from the child's home and that transportation be provided so that students are able to get to said school building.

If private schools are not going to be mandated to meet the above criteria, the bill fails to make private school a realistic, achievable choice for parents. Instead, the bill makes the choice of attending private school a theoretical one that will not work in practice for most families. Instead the bill will subsidize private school tuition/fees for parents who have already made the choice for their children to attend private schools.

Katrinka Hansen, TSgt

Self

San Antonio, TX

Voucher bill. Don't use taxpayer money for vouchers.

Kira Rodriguez

Self/self

College station, TX

The proposed voucher program in Texas is marketed as “school choice,” but the reality is that it will strip funding from already underfunded public schools, widen inequities, and benefit private institutions with little to no accountability. While using public funds for private or homeschooling may sound appealing, the long-term consequences for public education—and the vast majority of students who rely on it—are devastating.

Public schools are funded through state and local taxes, with money allocated based on enrollment. When a student leaves a public school for a private one using a state-funded voucher, the money follows the student, but the school’s costs remain. Teacher salaries, facility maintenance, transportation, and special education services do not decrease when students leave. Schools are forced to operate with fewer resources while still being expected to provide the same quality of education. Texas public schools are already underfunded. Instead of improving them, this program drains even more money away. Teachers are overworked, class sizes are growing, and intervention services are stretched thin. Rather than addressing these issues, lawmakers are prioritizing a program that benefits private institutions at the expense of public education.

Public schools must meet strict state and federal accountability standards. They are required to provide special education services, follow nondiscrimination policies, and be transparent with their finances. Private schools, however, do not have the same obligations. They can reject students with disabilities, behavioral challenges, or those who do not align with their ideological beliefs. Vouchers would allow public funds to support schools that are not required to serve all students. If public money is being used for education, it should come with the same accountability as public schools. But under the voucher system, tax dollars can be funneled into private institutions that do not have to disclose how funds are spent, meet state curriculum standards, or employ certified teachers. This is not school choice—it’s taxpayer-funded discrimination. Voucher programs harm rural and low-income communities the most. Many Texas students do not have private schools nearby, meaning these families will not benefit. Rural families depend on public education, and when funding is taken away, their schools are left with even fewer resources. Wealthier, urban families are the ones who stand to gain. The amount provided by vouchers often does not cover full private school tuition. Many families will find that they still cannot afford private education, yet their local public school will have fewer resources due to lost funding. This will only widen the gap between privileged and disadvantaged students. The long-term goal of voucher programs is clear: to dismantle public education. Vouchers are not about choice. They’re diverting public money into private hands, eroding public schools, and deepening inequities

Deanna farris

Kennedale ISD

fort worth, TX

Parents should be able to make a choice, but they should also be able to be held accountable for homeschools along with the charter schools. Also, they should have the money divided into the number of students at each location.

Suzy Lofton Bullis, Dr.

Self

Round Rock, TX

I OPPOSE HB 3. I am absolutely appalled at the thought of the legislature misappropriating my tax dollars in order to fund private interests. Public schools are grossly underfunded and any and all funds that can be directed to public education should. The basic allotment should be raised at least $1,300. If Texas wants to be the leader for something, it should be public education. If my representative votes in favor of this, you can rest assured that there will be t-shirts, billboards, bumper stickers, and a massive online campaign to ensure that her constituents know that she supported this wildly unpopular donor-funded scheme. Put Texans FIRST.

Holly Rodriguez, Mrs

Self

San Antonio, TX

The voucher program will not only benefit families who can already afford private school but will also hurt the families who cannot afford private school by defunding public schools. As a child I benefited from Texas public schools and as a mother my children have gotten so much more out of their local public schools than the private schools. Passing HB 3 would effectively bankrupt the educational experience in Texas, making us fall behind in comparison to neighboring states and resulting in a workforce that cannot meet the needs of the evolving Texas economy.

Robin Ratcliff

Self

AUSTIN, TX

I have two little boys in public school in Austin. They're in third grade -- which means, they have 9 years to go in Texas public school. I really hope the house votes against the ESA plan. It will not help us afford private school and will just undermine our public school. Please -- my kids' educational future is depending on you to vote no on this. And their teachers -- a lot of hardworking, passionate and well-educated people who have dedicated their lives to helping our young people -- are asking you to support them and our schools.

Ashley Riseman

Self

Buda, TX

As a product of the Texas public education system as well as a parent of a student in our school system, I vehemently oppose any voucher program for Texas schools. This is clearly a move to eliminate lower income area schools and opportunities. As well as being a grab for Christian Nationalist to control the curriculum taught to students. In spite of our current Administrations assurances this is not a Christian country. We were founded on the separation of church and state and the right to freedom from religious persecution. This is a push to create a labor force our lower income children. It is disgusting and history will show it as such. No to school vouchers. No to religious indoctrination of our children. No to the furthering of the fascist takeover of our democracy.

Laura Lavey
Self - Marketing
Dallas, TX

My name is Laura Lavey and I am the parent of three girls in RISD in Dallas. We specifically moved to this area because of the excellent public schools. We love our neighborhood which has a strong community of parents who are invested in the school, and love being able to walk our kids to school and know other children in the area.

Although we make a decent six-figure income we cannot afford private schools (that can accommodate Jewish students) in the Dallas metro area. In addition, private schools are over $30k per student, inconvenient for two full-time working parents, and difficult to get into. We enjoy living in the same neighborhood as our school and private schools have kids from all over the city.

I am not in support HB3 "School Choice" vouchers and urge you to vote no for it. Parents already have a choice where they can send their children.

In public schools there are fundamental programs and operational costs that need funding the schools per student and school vouchers undermine the public school system and will; bankrupt it. RISD is already in a 14.8 million dollar deficit. The budgeted amount is less than it costs to educate a child in public school. You should focus on improving public education and fully funding your schools. Renovate and update schools, make smaller class sizes, offer more extracurricular programs, increase AP and IB schools, improve your special ed and programs for kids with ADHD and autism, and lastly invest in universal Pre-K. Private schools already benefit from funding from wealthy benefactors, alumni, and the religious institutions associated with them. Public schools do not.

The school voucher program will disproportionately affect lower-income families and kids with disabilities. Education is instrumental in raising these children out of poverty and children with learning differences are often left behind by private schools. More than half of Texas counties, or 158 out of 254, do not have private schools, and rural communities in particular would be at a disadvantage. Additionally, If the Department of Education is going to be defunded then that will affect Title 1 schools

This voucher program removes money from public schools and puts it into private schools. It only benefits wealthy and predominantly white Christian students, who are already sending their kids to private school. Additionally, there is no plan to make these schools accountable if public money is going to go into them. Similar programs have already been implemented in other states and it has not improved education. Instead, the private schools raised their tuition.

I ask you to put Texas families first by NOT supporting HB3. Together, we can ensure our students receive the best public education by funding and improving our schools.

Thank you.
Laura Lavey

Stephen Fischer
self
Galveston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

I respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 I support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you for remembering you work for the people and not for private schools.

Kindly,
Stephen L Fischer

Sherry Johnson

I am representing myself. I am a retired teacher.

Cedar Park, TX

I am opposed to HB 3. The amount being given per student is more for private schools than it is for public schools, and this does not seem right. I do not want my tax dollars to go to support those going to private schools as they are not held to the same standards as public schools. Private schools do not have to accept all students and can ask them to leave at any time. I feel that the intention of the voucher system will be not actually be accomplished with this bill. The gap between what a private school costs and what middle- or low-income students can afford will be too much. It will definitely take money away from public schools and districts will be forced to raise the tax base which will increase my taxes. They will also have to cut positions and programs in order to operate. Those benefitting from this bill will be the more affluent who are already sending their children to private schools as they will get a $10,000 discount in what they are paying. Private schools will continue to raise their tuition and then the amount given would not come near the cost for most middle- and low-income students to attend. I would rather have these funds put into making public schools better. This school choice bill will have severe implications for Texas teachers and schools.

Melinda Marder

Self/ retired teacher

Mabank, TX

I strongly oppose this bill.

Elizabeth Manning, Dr

Self

Dripping Springs, TX

I am not for any program that takes money away from public school funding.

Martha Albright

Self / Homemaker

Fort Worth, TX

I do not support school vouchers. Do not defund our public schools! My children go to private school and it is ludicrous for us to receive a kickback. Do not harm rural schools. "School choice" is a scam!

Alisha Weskamp

Self

Austin, TX

Our State doesn't need a voucher system. Most people couldn't afford to send their kids to private schools with the vouchers. Keep our money in public schools where it belongs, with the kids who need it.

Margaret Marie Welch

Self

TOMBALL, TX

I homeschool and I oppose HB-3. I already have school choice which I exercise as I have chosen to homeschool for the past 13+ years. I feel that a voucher system is not needed and would harm public schools.

Meggie Hunter
Self
Shallowater, TX

Vouchers are detrimental to the Texas education system because they divert public funds away from already underfunded public schools, exacerbating inequities and reducing resources for the vast majority of students. Instead of improving education for all, vouchers primarily benefit private schools that lack accountability and can selectively admit students, often leaving behind those with special needs or from low-income backgrounds. This weakens the public education system, which serves as the backbone of Texas communities, and prioritizes private interests over the common good.

Daniel Robinson
Self
Richmond, TX

Texas House Bill 3 is being sold as a way to improve education, but in reality, it's a direct threat to our public school funding. This bill shifts financial responsibility onto local districts without providing the necessary state support, leaving schools struggling to cover basic needs.

For parents, this means fewer resources for students—larger class sizes, outdated materials, and cuts to essential programs. For teachers, it means stagnant wages and heavier workloads, driving more of them out of the profession. And for taxpayers, it means higher property taxes to make up for the funding shortfall.

Instead of pushing unfunded mandates, our legislators should be fully funding public education and ensuring every Texas student has access to quality learning opportunities. Our kids deserve better.

Jacqueline Serrano
Self
Spring, TX

School vouchers will help the people that do not need the help, leaving the ones that do, helpless. The public system is in CRITICAL need of funding You KNOW we don't want it, WHY keep pushing it, wasting time, effort, money, man power and other resorces?? Take that money and FUND the PUBLIC SCHOOLS!!! NO VOUCHERS, NO SCHOOL CHOICE!!!

Catherine Chaumont
Self, dentist
Fort Worth, TX

As a parent of children who have attended private and public schools in Fort Worth ISD and as a daughter of a former Texas teacher, I am strongly against HB 3. I oppose any and all voucher bills which will strip money from our neighborhood schools and will funnel that money to unaccountable private and religious schools. Our schools are struggling to hire certified teachers and we are already 44th in the nation for education. If the majority of Texans have access to and will be in public schools, our tax dollars should support the readily available and accessible schools that serve the majority of our population. Our past and current educators who have poured themselves into their students and schools deserve to receive full TRS benefits and this bill does not address concerns over decreased contributions that would likely occur if implemented. There are very few children who would benefit from this bill. It is our duty to serve the majority of Texans, not the privileged few who would be able to access private schools for their education. We know that wealthy families will largely be the ones who benefit the most from this bill as they have the means to make up the cost between the value of the voucher and actual cost of tuition and other charges at private schools. As a person of faith, I implore our representatives to focus on what will best serve the least of these and HB 3 does not do that. Thank you for your time.

Janette Groves
Self retired
Spring, TX

I do NOT support this, as school choice is already available, and taxpayer funds should not be directed to private education. Our public schools need more funding.

Amy Geppert self, office manager
Austin, TX

I am against this bill. It will negatively impact our public school's funding and could lead to financial instability for school districts and reduce resources for them to use towards education of our students. This will certainly not attract quality teachers because districts are not able to pay competitively. I am also very concerned about children that need special resources and how they would not be supported properly at a private school. Please reject this voucher system and invest in our current schools! Thank you.

Emily Wilkinson, Dr.
self
LUBBOCK, TX

Vouchers will damage public education in Texas and hurt our citizens by creating an environment where educational disparities will widen. Students who are in need of special education services will have less resources available to them as private schools can turn students away at will, while public schools strive to serve all students. Vouchers are expensive and will take away much needed funding from our already neglected public schools. As more and more mandates are put on public schools, they have not been provided with an increase in funding to address these mandates. The state has already set them up for failure and this will continue to get worse as additional funding is pulled away from public schools. Public schools are accountable for how they spend tax payer money, however a private school is not. I do not want my taxes to go towards a school with no accountability to the public. It should only be spent on those public schools who have an obligation to serve their public. Vouchers should NOT be passed in Texas.

Charles Barrow
Self
Cypress, TX
No vouchers

Tiera Hall
Self, project manager
Fort Worth, TX

My name is Tiera Hall, a resident of Fort Worth, Texas. As a child that grew up in the public school system, I feel that my life has been enriched by the education and experiences I received. Not to give the illusion of perfection; there were teachers that were ineffectual and staff that were unsupportive, but the majority were there to praise and encourage students to their own successes. As an adult I served in the PTA as a volunteer, PTA president and went on school trips, including twice to our great state capitol. I am disappointed and enraged that this voucher movement is putting money before students and privilege before the education of the least of these. It is my opinion that the range and quality of the curriculum has been, and will continue to, fall if this bill passes. Public schools have already been undermined to reflect the current Governor's donors, greed and personal views and has stripped the schools from much needed funds. My concerns are in no way partisan and in fact are based on my experiences and thoughtful consideration I denounce the implementation of school vouchers and implore you to imagine the repercussions of your actions for generations to come.

Cathy Ewert
self, educator
Rorchelle, TX

I am against using tax payer dollars to fund an educational savings account program for "school choice". Parents can and do take their children to private schools if they are accepted, to charter schools, to home school and they may also apply to transfer to a different school district if they believe a neighboring district will better educate their child.

We have far too many "homeschoolers" in McCulloch County who are more "homed" than "home schooled". With no checks and balances that are consistent with the public school system, this saving account program is not equitable. In Texas, testing is such a huge issue, if tax dollars are funding a child to go a different route, shouldn't they have to show the same progress?

In our little county we have three Independent School Districts. Brady is a small 3A school and Lohn and Rochelle are 1A schools. We have students that transfer around a bit to find their fit and some students find the school where they are comfortable and their engagement increases dramatically. At this time out of district transfers are only accepted if the child is not a behavior problem. As our sand plant industry has subsided, our student population has dropped over the past ten years. The voucher program would not do anything to help this situation. Small schools that are located in small towns across the state stand to be hurt by this bill. At the small school level, there is no extra money to go around. Economies of scale are a real thing at this level, I have noticed that Rochelle has a much harder time paying for everything with the state allotment than Brady. But even 15 kids will hurt Brady noticeably.

I am afraid that this bill will do more than harm public schools, it will also harm the communities they are located in. Have you noticed how activities in small towns are based around the school? High School football for example. Imagine how the Voucher system can hurt that. Right now, Texas is one of the few states where the public schools are the best in the state in Football. What will happen once there is a way to fund Charter or Private schools to play football with no checks and balances on what they may actually be teaching the students?

Thank you for your time, Cathy Ewert

Villalon Alyssa
Mom's everywhere
Austin, TX

I do not support this bill

Elizabeth L Bosquez
Self
Cypress, TX

I oppose school vouchers. Fully fund our public schools. Maintain a separation between church and state. Vouchers have not worked, they do not improve education, and they are not what Texans want for our children. Rural counties often do not even have private school options so this is clearly not going to improve education outcomes for everyone. Put this to the ballot and let Texans vote.

Nicole C
Self
Conroe, TX

I oppose this bill, as a homeschooling mom of 5. Please respect the right to let us educate our own children.

Carole Somers-Clark
Self
Dallas, TX

Please vote to protect funding for public education. Do not fund vouchers that fail to support all of us.

Ashley McKibbin
self/operations manager
Bayou Vista, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House of Representatives,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the public school voucher bill currently under consideration. The stories I am hearing from family and friends that are teachers are astounding. Positions being cut due to funding issues are causing public schools to lose really great teachers because of the lack of resources. My children attend public schools because we can't afford the private schools available. With the voucher program, we still will not be able to afford these private schools, so our kids will still be in public school with fewer resources and aids.

While proponents claim that vouchers expand school choice, the reality is that they divert critical taxpayer dollars away from our already underfunded public schools—schools that serve the vast majority of Texas children.

Public funds should be used to support public education, not subsidize private schools that are not held to the same accountability standards. Unlike public schools, private institutions can selectively admit students, discriminate based on income or ability, and operate without the transparency required of taxpayer-funded entities. The voucher program would ultimately widen educational disparities, benefiting wealthier families while leaving behind students in rural and low-income communities who have no access to private schooling options.

Texas public schools are the backbone of our communities, providing education, meals, special services, and support for all children, regardless of their background or challenges. Instead of siphoning funds away, we should be investing in teacher salaries, infrastructure, and classroom resources to ensure every child receives a quality education.

I urge you to stand with Texas families, teachers, and students by voting against this harmful bill. Protect our public schools—our children's future depends on it.

Sincerely,
Ashley McKibbin

Mary Hoover
Self
Austin, TX

Do not vote for this, it will destroy public schools.

Jaimee Straley
self
Richardson, TX

This bill is bad for Texans and it's bad for Texas. Public education is the price we pay to have a functioning society and a strong middle class. I have seen the information coming out of the governor's office about this bill, but it is not consistent with the history of vouchers in other states, nor is it consistent with the facts of the bill. The reality is that vouchers will weaken public schools, where the majority of Texas children are educated. If history tells us anything, which it usually does (we should try learning from it), vouchers will do one or both of the following - allow families who can already afford to send their kids to public school to have additional funds, or increase the price of private schools.

Giving MORE state dollars to send to private institutions per child than to public schools is just wrong. Public schools are already underfunded. We're already losing public schools and programs at public schools due to recapture and holding funds hostage for this bill. Public funds should go to public schools ONLY. Period.

I don't disagree that public schools aren't serving all kids and it would be great to expand services to help with that. With the funds that are being held, recapture dollars, and the funds that will be used for this bill. There has been a lot of research on how to increase outcomes in public education. Implementing some of these ideas is much more likely to help kids across the board and create a critically thinking, educated populace than implementing this bill. That's the outcome we all want, is it not? A better educated populace, better at thinking critically?

This is the most unpopular bill across the board I have seen in my years here. I have spoken to home schoolers, people who send their kids to private schools, people who wish they could send their kids to private schools, people who need more services from public schools, democrats, republicans-people from across the board, and have not run into one real life person who supports this bill. If this is something that the Texas government feels Texans want so much, then let us vote on it. Because right now, honestly, it definitely seems much more like something being pushed by external forces...

Kirsten Hetherly
Self Marketing Specialist
Arlington, TX

The voucher system will do irreparable harm to public schools across the state. It pulls money from public schools to provide a discount for families with children already enrolled in private school. It will not incentivize families to move their children to private schools as most private schools cost over twice the amount of the voucher being discussed. And rural areas that do not have private schools will be left with severely underfunded districts. I'm deeply disturbed that this program is being pushed in our state by a billionaire in Pennsylvania. Why are we allowing the coastal "elite" to influence policy in our state?

Jessica Karlinski
self, accountant
Plano, TX

As the mother of two public school educated kids, I implore you to vote against vouchers and properly fund public schools instead. Vouchers are simply tax breaks for the rich and will not improve public education in Texas. The people of Texas don't want vouchers and this would be made abundantly clear if the legislature was willing to put the issue to vote. Out of state millionaire donors should not decide how Texas children are educated. Thank you for your time.

Mervyn Barrow
Self
Cypress, TX
No vouchers

Jeff Scherer

Self

Austin, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
 - 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
 - 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
 - 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
- Thank you

Claudia Garate, LCSW

Self

Austin, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a social worker who has worked in Title I schools across Central Texas, I have seen firsthand the impact of underfunded schools on students, families, and communities. For the future of all Texas children, I urge everyone to vote against the creation of a voucher program and to fund our public schools. Thank you.

JoAnn Quintanilla

Self

Austin, TX

Public funds should be used to fund public schools, NOT private schools. Vouchers are a subsidy for wealthy families who already attend private school. THATS it. Texas has 5.5 million public school students, and that money should be used to fully fund THEIR schools. This is non partisan, the majority of small, Republican leaning rural communities don't have a private school option. They need their public schools fully funded! I submit this on behalf of my Kealing Middle School child and all students of AISD

Christopher Cruz

self/healthcare worker

Houston, TX

The cost of private school education should be borne by those wanting their children to have it and not the taxpayers of this state. It's their choice to forgo publicly-available options, and it should not be the choice of an extremely small few to strip away resources from those options. Period. These vouchers make no sense, and it's shameful that elected officials even attempt to bring such bills in front of the people for consideration.

Melissa Pecorino

Self

Austin, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

I respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 for these reasons:

1. Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
2. HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
3. Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
4. I support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you for remembering that you work for the people and not for private schools.

Amy Pooley, Texas Mom and Attorney

Self

Austin, TX

As a parent of three children in Texas public schools, I have serious concerns about the school voucher program shifting funds away from our public schools and over to private schools that aren't even held to the same standards. These vouchers will serve as a nice discount for families with children already in private schools, i.e., those who can afford to send their kids there. Private school tuition would still be expensive and out-of-reach for many Texas families even with these vouchers. The country's largest voucher programs in Florida and Arizona have had poor results both financially and academically, including massive state budget and spending issues.

For the 6 years I've had kids in public schools, we've endured constant budget shortfalls locally due to school funding issues. The recapture system of school funding already takes exorbitant amounts of money away from our schools in Austin, leaving us with chronic budget issues. I'm greatly disturbed at how much of my "Austin ISD" tax payment leaves our area entirely, even as the district is constantly needing to make cuts. Funding is insufficient to pay teachers what they deserve, making it hard to attract and retain the talent needed to instruct our next generations. Texas is already one of the worst-funded states in the country when it comes to education. This is embarrassing, and our kids and teachers deserve better. The proposed voucher program will only serve to exacerbate all of this by taking more money away from our public schools.

If public schools are so broken that you think families need an alternate choice, then it is incumbent upon you - the Texas legislature, Greg Abbott, TEA - to focus on FIXING those problems by providing appropriate funding, at least $1500 additional per student vs. the inadequate $220. It is a moral and practical responsibility of the state of Texas to provide a quality public education to all our students that will prepare them for the future.

Heather Garcia

Self

Buda, TX

Please vote against school vouchers. It is a way to take funding from public schools and subsidize private schools that do not follow the same testing requirements. My tax dollars shouldn't be given to wealthy families who can afford to send their kids to private schools. It's a way to funnel money from wealthy families away from underfunded public schools, without giving middle class families a way to send their kids to these private institutions. Stop taking our tax dollars away and start making the wealthy pay their way. The middle class cannot continue to subsidize wealth, especially at the expense of our own kids' futures.

Dr. Chad Gee, Superintendent

Kennedale ISD

Kennedale, TX, TX

As the Superintendent of Kennedale ISD, I strongly oppose HB 3 due to its lack of accountability and transparency in how taxpayer dollars would be used and its harmful impact on public school funding. Proponents claim that Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) do not divert money away from public education, but this is simply not true. HB 3 redirects $1 billion in taxpayer funds that could and should be invested in Texas public schools, where over 5 million students are educated. Public education in Texas is already underfunded, and this significant loss of funding will directly affect the resources available to our students. These diverted funds could be used to support teacher and staff salaries, student intervention programs, special education services, mental health resources, early literacy initiatives, and college and career readiness programs. Instead, HB 3 proposes to shift those dollars to private education providers that do not serve all students and are not subject to the same accountability standards as public schools.

Furthermore, Texas public schools serve every child, regardless of their economic status, learning needs, or geographic location. When public schools lose funding due to policies like HB 3, it exacerbates inequities and disproportionately harms students. Rather than diverting essential resources, Texas leaders should focus on fully funding our public schools and making targeted investments that have a direct impact on student success. Ensuring that every child has access to a high-quality, well-resourced public education should be the state's top priority, not subsidizing the education of a select few.

Texas public schools must meet rigorous academic, financial, and operational accountability standards, ensuring that funds are spent effectively and that students are receiving a high-quality education. HB 3 circumvents these safeguards by funneling taxpayer dollars to private institutions that are not subject to the same level of oversight. Public schools are required to administer standardized assessments, report student achievement data, comply with state curriculum requirements, and undergo financial audits. Private schools and other ESA-approved entities, however, are not held to these same standards. Without proper accountability, taxpayer dollars could be spent on low-quality or unregulated educational services that do not guarantee student success.

Moreover, HB 3 creates the potential for misuse and fraud. Other states with ESA-style programs have encountered cases where funds were used for personal expenses, unapproved services, and even fraudulent vendors due to weak oversight. Texas should not risk taxpayer dollars on a system that lacks financial controls and academic accountability.

If the goal is to improve education for Texas students, we must ensure that all schools receiving public funds meet the same high standards. Thank you for your consideration of these concerns from our community.

Sara Comer

Self

McKinney, TX

This is an absolute detriment to students that are the ones that are actually in need. I work in a title one school, where we are constantly getting new students due to behavior concerns who were kicked out of their previous private school or charter school. This will continue to be the norm and we will not be able to get the students of what they need and have safety for us as the teachers if students keep getting kicked out of private education in charter schools because they are unequipped and to make room for other students. Public schools are turning into the schools for students who are unwanted that includes students with disabilities and students with disciplinary issues.

Jessica Brown
self Pipe Creek, TX

I do not support this as a rural Texan living in an area without a private school. Taxpayer funds are not meant to fund private schools and this would be a misuse of government funding. Education funds should go to public schools that benefit all Texans. Thank you.

Cherriza Kellogg
Self
Conroe, TX

I homeschool my children and I oppose this bill.

Melanie Curl
Self
KELLER, TX

I oppose HB3, known as "school vouchers". This will only end up benefiting those that can already afford private school, and will hurt Texas public schools.

Anna Pittala
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB 3. I fully support public schools and my school taxes to be only be used for public schools.

Patricia Farris
Self
Fort Worth, TX

Texas don't want a voucher system. They want a quality education for EVERY Texas student.

Elizabeth Gowens
Self
Lubbock, TX

I do not support the voucher implementation both for the public education side as well as the private sector. This is devastating for the public teachers as with less funding for them- due to lower head counts etc) in an already debt consumed system, schools will close and teachers will lose their jobs. The teachers that are left will take on more students in an already stressed situation. Fine arts is also a subject that is first to be cut in these deficits which is a tragedy- studies show that those in music and fine arts achieve higher academic scores. Lastly, these private schools accepting $10k vouchers for students may sound great but will there be restrictions on those schools raising their prices for tuition? Also, now that the government has given state funds to this private school, does this give them authority to restrict or determine what is taught in those schools? Something to highly consider because a lot of the parents sending their kids to private Christian schools do not want the government pushing their control on their children. The state of Texas has been holding hostage the funding that has already been designated for public schools for years which is another injustice to our students and teaching staff. The teachers all need raises and this is keeping that from happening. Injustice in itself.

Star Gonzales
Self Flatonina, TX

This school voucher program is a scam and will hurt all of our Texas public schools. Certain districts are already sending emails about budget cuts. Every Texan child deserves a good education, not just the ones that can afford private schools. If Greg Abbott wants to be a leader for all Texans then he will not go through with this horrible voucher scam!

Brandon King
Self
Waxahachie, TX

I vote no!

Pamela Painter
Self
Cedar Park, TX

I do not agree with the voucher system. I think that we should keep money going to the public schools and making that system better for all children.

Jazmyn Gonzalez, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX

I am in complete opposition and do not support this bill nor do I wish it to pass

Sarah wathen
Self
New Braunfels, TX

Please do not vote for vouchers. Public schools deserve and need all the funding they can get.
A very concerned Citizen

Melina Rios
Self
San Antonio, TX

As a middle class family, we can not afford private school even with two valued careers as a nurse and a fire fighter. We will rely on public school for our three young children's education. If the funding for public schools decrease and the teachers are short staffed due to pay or the schools are not supplied with the equipment they need how are the future children going to be growing up. I will worry that my child won't get a good education by a public school system that my property taxes help pay for. I should've have to pay into private school vouchers if I am not even using that service. Even if we got let's say $30,000 by the time all three kids are school is that even going to be enough? Probably not because with that comes more expenses of fees, uniforms, gas to drive the children to a private school not near us vs a public school in my neighborhood. This is not valuable to the middle class who already suffers so much just paying bills and providing food for our family with grocery bills so high now due to inflation. Teachers already don't get paid what they deserve and if private schools pay more I don't blame them for leaving the public school system. What does that say about our state? Unless your wealthy your kid won't get a solid foundation of education vs the children of the rich. How do you expect our economy to succeed when only the wealthy can afford their children to have a great education and excel in life. The economy will really suffer with more children not graduating highschool or even attending college. With this being said if we have more unemployment due to not being able to get a qualified job due to affording a great education we then will have to pay even more taxes to help provide more resources for the community that we can not even afford.

Donald Stotts
Myself
Austin, TX

I do not support the use of my tax dollar to fund or support enrollment and participation in private schools. This will certainly destroy our public school system despite any and all rhetoric to the contrary!

Neeti Prasad

Self

Dallas, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Maria Schmidt, Ms.

Self - parent

Austin, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to Texas House Bill 3 (HB3) due to its long-term consequences for public education funding, equity, and accountability. While the bill is framed as a means of expanding educational choice, it ultimately diverts public tax dollars away from public schools and directs them into a system that lacks the same oversight and obligations to serve all students.

Public education is a foundational promise—a commitment that every child, regardless of socioeconomic background or geographic location, has access to a quality education. HB3 undermines that promise by reallocating funds intended for public schools to private institutions that are not held to the same transparency, accountability, or non-discrimination standards. Unlike public schools, private institutions receiving voucher funds are not required to serve all students, including those with disabilities, special needs, or behavioral challenges.

Further, existing research on similar voucher programs in other states has not shown consistent improvements in student outcomes. In fact, studies have found that students who leave public schools for private schools through voucher programs often experience declines in academic achievement. Meanwhile, public schools—particularly those in lower-income and rural communities—are left with reduced resources, larger class sizes, and fewer specialized programs as funding is siphoned away. This creates an uneven system where students who remain in public schools bear the burden of lost funding, while private schools that receive public dollars are not required to meet the same academic and financial accountability standards.

If the goal is to improve educational opportunities for Texas students, the focus should be on strengthening public schools rather than redirecting funds to private institutions with selective admissions. Increased investments in teacher salaries, classroom resources, and equitable school funding would do far more to improve educational outcomes than a voucher program that primarily benefits a small number of families while weakening the broader public education system.

HB3 does not expand meaningful choice for all Texas families—it creates an inequitable system that leaves many students behind. For these reasons, I strongly urge lawmakers to reject HB3 and instead focus on policies that strengthen and support public education for every child in Texas.

Amber Rodriguez

Self

San Antonio, TX

As a public education teacher, it saddens me to think this bill actually has a chance. We do not want nor need this bill to pass. Public School are already so underfunded and this will be detrimental to an already struggling education department. Our schools need more funding not less. Passing this bill will not provide any changes for special education students nor struggling families, this will only benefit the rich. This should not pass. We Texans are against HB3.

Charlyn Hohenstein

Self

Cypress, TX

As a homeschooler, which qualifies as a private school in the state of Texas, I strongly oppose this bill.

Joel Ausanka

Self

San Marcos, TX

I have lived in Texas my whole life and the value that public schools have brought myself and my family are immeasurable. My mother, brother, and two cousins are all educators. A school in Austin is named after my late uncle Gordon. Education runs deep in my family and is the greatest single good that this state does for its citizens. I refuse to be silent while billionaires try to rob the education my children deserve from them, an education that I PAY FOR with my property taxes. No private school voucher scam is worth sacrificing the futures of millions of our precious children. I am not surprised anymore, the Texas Republican Party long ago abandoned the families and children of Texas. The callousness of this bill is, however, something truly astounding. The notion that this theft will benefit our children is a lie. It is despicable to rob us and tell us you're "investing" - I urge anyone, Republican or Democrat, with a shred of a conscience to vote no on this bill and never try this again.

Brian Bloss

Self, teacher

Grapevine, TX

Brian Bloss

Against

In addition to the testimony I have already filed on this, I am even more opposed to the legislation now that we have a total cost estimate from now until 2030. $13.295 billion dollars being aimed in this way will not lead to better outcomes for public schools. In fact, based on the government's own reports say that "savings" come in the form of students leaving public schools. Listening to part of today's hearings it seems like the primary benefactor is the Catholic Church. My question is if the Catholic Church has chosen to engage in charity through their schools, why does the government need to subsidize them? Why does any religion deserve to have a subsidy of state funds for education? I know there are those who claim that we will see increased test scores in public schools but if there are fewer teachers (which we now know is expected since we will see a reduction in students and per student funding is what hires staff) I challenge this notion.

Again, I am not sure how an entitlement program of this scope benefits the people of Texas. It certainly doesn't benefit our teachers. Moreover, in today's hearings we also heard the start of discussions from representatives of the Catholic schools saying they want to make sure that not too many strings are attached because that would erode from the notion of private parochial schools. Please do not let this bill pass out of committee.

Marilyn Chladil

Myself

Austin, TX

Dear Education committee

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the use of vouchers and Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) as a means of funding education. These programs divert crucial resources away from public schools, undermining their ability to serve all students equitably.

I respectfully request the following changes to improve the funding structure for education:

1. Increase the Basic Allotment to $7,500: The current funding allocation is insufficient to meet the needs of students and educators. Raising the basic allotment to $7,500 would better support our schools and allow for more equitable access to quality education.
2. Determine Funding by Enrollment, Not Attendance: Funding should be based on student enrollment rather than attendance. This would provide more consistent and predictable funding for schools, allowing them to plan and allocate resources effectively, even in times of fluctuating attendance.
3. Tie Funding to Inflation: Education funding should be adjusted annually based on inflation rates. This would ensure that the value of the funding keeps pace with the rising costs of education, maintaining its purchasing power over time.
4. Ensure Funding for All Current and Future Mandates: All current and future state or federal mandates should be fully funded to avoid placing additional burdens on schools. This would ensure that schools can comply with legal requirements without sacrificing other essential services.

I hope you will consider these requests as part of ongoing efforts to improve the education system. Thank you for your attention to this important matter

Sarah Weeks

PTA

Fort Worth, TX

Please vote NO on public school vouchers. They dilute essential support for public schools, whose funding is guaranteed by the Texas Constitution that you swore an oath to support and defend. There are more than 5,000,000 children in public schools. At most, vouchers will only benefit about 10% of the Texas school children. We all know that "parent choice" is a false flag to hide the real agenda of privatization and support of private religious schools, which are the only ones where Gov. Abbott took his campaign. The concern about uncertified teachers in public schools is magnified in home schooling. The past practice of underfunding (no increase since 2019) is consistent with handicapping public schools. The proposed increased support of $210 per student is insulting and a mockery. That is clearly inadequate when the proposed diversion to private schools is $10,000 per student.

Thank you for taking the steps necessary to effect the improved education for the State's public school children that you claim, esp. when the federal government threatens to withdraw its support.

Liz Guzman

Self - HR and Payroll Manager

Buda, TX

I work in a public charter school at the district level and work closely with our budget. Charter schools already get a fraction of what public school gets and this bill will only hinder our young generation. Our teachers already pay for so much for their classroom and for their job to provide the BEST for our scholars. Working directly with a title 1 school would only make it harder for our economically disadvantaged scholars to get the best FREE education as possible. A huge population of our families cannot afford private schools (even with the voucher). I pray that you open your eyes and realize that our KIDS need us and by taking this money away from them and into the pockets of the rich is an abomination. This is not for our families this is clearly for the big pocket supporters and it makes me sad that as a proud republican I have to fight for this.

I Martinez

Self and I am an IT Professional

Houston, TX

Texas House Bill 3 is bad for public education because it takes resources away from public schools, especially in low-income areas. It pushes for things like school vouchers, which can make funding even more unequal and hurt the students who rely on public schools the most. This bill is welfare for the wealthy!

Catherine Lutes

Self

Benbrook, TX

I am firmly opposed to the voucher system for Texas schools. More money needs to be put into the schools that exist now. What will happen to a student that uses a voucher to go to a private school, and when arriving at the school they are told that there are no buses serving that school at all. How would they be able to get to and from the school. If the money that would be used for a voucher system could be paid to teachers to help them get what they need for their classroom; it would be money well spent.

I do not think that the voucher system would help anyone. I ask you to please keep this all in mind when voting.

Kristen Brock, Ms.

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote NO on vouchers. As a parent, a taxpayer and, most of all, a Proud Texan, I despise this bill! Our public schools are the civic glue of society. No to vouchers!

Idolina Maldonado

Self

Austin, TX

Dear Education committee

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the use of vouchers and Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) as a means of funding education. These programs divert crucial resources away from public schools, undermining their ability to serve all students equitably.

I respectfully request the following changes to improve the funding structure for education:

1. Increase the Basic Allotment to $7,500: The current funding allocation is insufficient to meet the needs of students and educators. Raising the basic allotment to $7,500 would better support our schools and allow for more equitable access to quality education.
2. Determine Funding by Enrollment, Not Attendance: Funding should be based on student enrollment rather than attendance. This would provide more consistent and predictable funding for schools, allowing them to plan and allocate resources effectively, even in times of fluctuating attendance.
3. Tie Funding to Inflation: Education funding should be adjusted annually based on inflation rates. This would ensure that the value of the funding keeps pace with the rising costs of education, maintaining its purchasing power over time.
4. Ensure Funding for All Current and Future Mandates: All current and future state or federal mandates should be fully funded to avoid placing additional burdens on schools. This would ensure that schools can comply with legal requirements without sacrificing other essential services.

I hope you will consider these requests as part of ongoing efforts to improve the education system. Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,

Idolina Maldonado

Peggy Sue

Self

Harlingen, TX

Do your job- vote no to voucher scam

Nicole Chambers

Self

Sherman, TX

As a homeschool parent, I value freedom from government strings and regulations in private education, and am against the expansion of government in the name of "parental empowerment." I would like to ask that you please join a large constituency of homeschoolers in opposing "school choice" legislation.

Melissa Johnson

self

Benbrook, TX

Please oppose HB3 as it will damage my son's public school education by reducing funding and deplete funding for our struggling school system. This is unethical and unacceptable.

Kristi Fryer
Self
East Bernard, TX

As a republican living and raising a family in rural Texas, I am strongly against vouchers! Please do more to fund and bake our PUBLIC schools great for the future of Texas. Less standardized testing and more common sense need to return to the classroom.
VOTE NO TO VOUCHERS

Christina Ozuna, Mrs.
Self, Director of Community Impact, Preston Hollow Presbyterian Church
Dallas, TX

As a proud multi generational Texan who attended both private and public schools and who plans to send her son to a private school. I urge this committee to reconsider yielding to the pressure of the governor and his donors. Vouchers are not what our state needs to better our education for all students. Every state that has adopted similar programs has lost money and resources and not seen any positive impact.

The facts are there. Texans do not want this. If anything let us vote for or against it in a general election. Having no choice as a tax payer when the governor is selling choice is insulting.

Patricia Melgar-Cook
Self
Buda, TX

Please respect the Texas constitution and follow the proper process & channels to make any changes as desired by the populace of the state.

daryl wall
Self
Lake Jackson, TX

It's common knowledge that vouchers will only help those who can already afford private school. Public schools will suffer even worse with the passage of this bill.

Melisandra Huerta
Self. Realtor.
Lewisville, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a Texan whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution. Our school are already underfunded, taking away more funds will impact our children in a negative way. Not to mention our special needs children whom may not be accepted into private schools or the private schools may not have programs or teachers to support their learning. I have an autistic 4 year old and the special education program and his teachers have helped him excel so much. We are depriving our children of their free education by allowing the vouchers. Every child is entitled to quality education and by supporting the voucher system you are going against it

Martha Egli
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the bill. I do not want school vouchers.

Nancy Jo Lambert

Self

Frisco, TX

As a both a public school educator of 20 years and a parent of two children in public schools, I do NOT support ESAs in ANY form in the state of Texas. Our legislators have a state constitutional requirement to fund public education and ESAs do NOT help public education. This is a mechanism to, over time, defund public schools in Texas and help to cripple school districts and schools. We already have school choice in this state. ESAs are unconstitutional and unnecessary, but are being funded by people who want to see public education suffer in our state.

Please listen to the majority of Texans and do not pass this legislation. It will only serve to further allow additional money in future legislative sessions to be used for private school education with precious tax payer money that should be going to public schools and the millions of students in public schools all over our great state.

Evelyn Tutt

Self- seamstress

Fort Worth, TX

My tax dollars should not support a religious organization! If I wish to support a particular religion, I'll do that with my private dollars. Public money should support public schools! I have 3 children in public school and they will be staying there!

James Owens

Self

Houston, TX

We do not support this. Public schools are the great equalizer. This will further fracture our state and drive up crime rates. If you defund public schools and subsidize private schools the only people who benefit are families who could afford private schools in the first place. If you defund public education the vast majority of families will suffer the consequences of an inadequate education system. This includes increase in crime and delinquency. This voucher scam only covers $10k meanwhile the average private school tuition is $20k. This forces families to choose between an underfunded public school system or an over subsidized religious school system. Families will still have to pay for private school. This is going to divide our state and the repercussions will be felt for generations to come. This does not benefit the majority of Texas families, it only benefits a wealthy minority. Fund public education. it's just common sense. We do not want this voucher scam.

Geri King, Mrs

Self

Dorchester, TX

I am a retired Texas teacher and School Counselor for 33 years.

I also have 6 grandchildren that attend public school. I have many young teacher friends that tell me the problems with public school funding.....there's never enough.

Please don't send public school funds to private schools. Public schools need their funding to provide exemplary teaching and learning.

Thank you!

Laura Marques

Self

Leander, TX

I am a parent of children with disabilities receiving special education services in Leander ISD. I am opposed to this bill because it does not provide meaningful choice to families like mine. The only private schools within a reasonable distance from our home do not provide equivalent supports for my children, who are both gifted and disabled. Schools one hour from my home that advertise serving children with disabilities charge tuition in excess of the voucher amount and have additional fees for resource or gifted supports if it is even available. Ultimately, this bill will lead to discrimination against children with disabilities because we are often denied admission to or asked to leave private school. If the state truly wants families to have options, fully fund special education and public schools to relieve the funding crisis.

Sapurah Lashari
Self - HR Manager
Sugar Land, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a native Texan, 5th generation, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Virginia Wells
Texas public school parent
Austin, TX

I oppose you diverting public funds to private schools, no matter what you call it. I am a Texas voter and I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates, not divert funds to unaccountable private and religious schools. I know that virtually every other state that has created a voucher system with the limited guardrails you are proposing has seen a decimation of their public school systems and increasing burden to their state budgets. We don't want any of that here in Texas. Please fund our public schools and don't pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Christina Charles
self
Leander, TX

Do not pass House Bill 3. I am a 5th generation Texan and the grand-daughter and niece of West Texas public school teachers. This bill will greatly affect rural school districts, kids with disabilities and retaining the best teachers. Rural schools do not have alternative private or charter schools. Most economic and social life depends on well funded public schools in those areas. My parents received an excellent public education in the heart of West Texas. This is taking away from the hard working people that pull the oil out of the ground that made this state wealthy. Every cent taken away from public schools is a divestment in the future of this state and country. Release the current funds to public schools to keep good teachers and support kids with disabilities. Majority of Texans DO NOT WANT VOUCHERS! Keep all the funds in public schools.

Rachel Hallila
Self
Cypress, TX

We are a homeschool family and oppose HB 3. It will only harm our public schools and communities.

Kathryn Estrada
Self teacher
Palestine, TX

As a teacher with over 14 years experience and a parent, I do not support vouchers in our schools. This money needs to go to our public schools since it is public funds. I do not know anyone in my community that supports this bill. Our public town hall did not have genuine responses that would answer how this would benefit our community.

Anjli Mehta
Self
Austin, TX

I am against vouchers/ESAs that only offer support to 25,000 kids out of 5+ million Texas kids. These funds should be used to fund public schools and staff. Rural communities depend on their public schools.

Erica Grandin
Self - Marketing Professional
Frisco, TX

I urge all representatives to vote No for HB 3 and keep our state funding with our public schools. As voters, we will remember which representatives fought for our children in the Texas public school education system and we will support those who VOTE NO on HB 3 and say NO to vouchers.

Amberly Marston
Self - Human Resources
Austin, TX

This bill is not only in the least interest of our children, but is fundamentally against the Texas Constitution. As lawmakers I'll remind you your duty as elected officials to protect the Texas Constitution.

Fully fund our public schools and use this money to give to public schools. Do not be fooled by the trick of Abbott and his biggest donors who primaryed out some of your colleagues to make sure they had the votes for this. Elected officials who vote for HB 3 will face not being re-elected as non-partisans agree this bill is not in the best interest of Texas children nor teachers. We already have school choice. Homeschoolers don't want the government involved in their schooling. Rural districts will suffer the most. Again, this bill is wholly against the Texas Constitution. Vote NO now and we don't want to waste any more time on the bill. Buck off Buckley

Thomas Davies, Mr.

Self

Allen, TX

My name is Tom Davies, and I am here today as a concerned citizen to strongly oppose HB3 and the proposed school voucher program. This legislation threatens the future of public education in Texas by diverting essential funds away from our public schools, deepening inequities and undermining the very foundation of our education system.

Public schools are the cornerstone of our communities educating over five million students, serving as a lifeline for families across the state providing not only academics but also critical services such as special education, meal programs and extra-curricular activities. Instead of strengthening this system, HB3 and the voucher program will siphon taxpayer dollars into private institutions that are not held to the same accountability standards, leaving our public schools with fewer resourced and greater challenges.

Diverting public funds harms students who need it most. School vouchers disproportionately benefit wealthier families who can more readily afford private school tuition, while low-income and rural students are left behind. Rural communities, in particular, lack access to private school options, meaning vouchers will do nothing for them while still draining funds from their local schools. Remember Edgewood? This creates an unjust system where public dollars serve private interests rather than the needs of all students.

Unlike public schools, private institutions receiving voucher funds are not required to accept all students, follow standardized curriculum guidelines or meet the same academic and financial transparency standards. Taxpayers deserve to know how their money is spent. Yet, HB3 fails to ensure oversight or equitable access for students with disabilities, English language [ESL] learners, and other vulnerable populations.

Strengthening public education must be our priority. If we are serious about improving education in Texas, the solution is not to defund public schools but to invest in them. We should be increasing teacher pay, reducing class size, expanding early childhood education, and ensuring that every child -- regardless of Zip Code -- has access to a high-quality education. Texas deserves to have the best public education in the country, not thirty-eighth out fifty states according to World Population Review.

I urge you to reject HB3 and the school voucher program. Our public schools are the heart of Texas communities, and they need your support -- not policies that weaken them. Let's commit to funding and improving the schools that serve the vast majority of Texas students.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Tom Davies

kinzie75025@yahoo.com

Kathryn Pole

family

Denton, TX

This bill and others that shift public funds to private education would be a disaster for Texas, Texan children, and families. I oppose public funds going to private schools. Parents who choose these schools can pay for them as they always have done. Public funds should be used to fully support public schools.

amanda Brocato

self, public relations, parent

Austin, TX

I oppose the bill. I am against school vouchers

Archangela DeSilva

Self/attorney

Houston, TX

I am opposed to vouchers because they are a form of welfare for people who can already afford to send their children to private school. If you really want to improve the education system in Texas, fund the schools, increase teacher pay, provide children with free breakfast and lunch and show some respect for an educated populace. Vouchers offer no value to rural Texans and only serve to support people who have already made a choice not to take advantage of a public education system. In addition, by taking funds away from public schools, this bill will harm the future economy because the state of Texas will not be able to offer businesses a well-educated workforce. Do your job and represent ALL the people of the State of Texas.

Michele Petty

Self

San Antonio, TX

Public money for public schools. No Texas welfare for rich private schools. Dont you dare pull funds away from our public schools!!!

Elena Minsker

Self

Dripping Springs, TX

but if I can give just a small rec for words:

Oppose any legislation that pulls funds from already underfunded public schools. Public schools are vital to our communities and historically underfunded in Texas.

Logan Clark, Esq.

Self, attorney

Austin, TX

We don't need school vouchers. We need funding for our public schools. We need to be leading the nation in education. We have the tax money to do it. One argument I've heard for school vouchers is because they can't receive services in our public schools. This argument fails if we actually fund our public schools, give teachers the resources to teach. There is also no evidence that education will improve with school vouchers. There is not a state in this union that has implemented school vouchers and seen their education system improve. They have all seen a harm caused by the voucher programs they have implemented. Please do not pass school vouchers and instead, fund our public schools and support our teachers.

Tiffany Atwood

self - homeschool parent / tutor

Fort Worth, TX

I urge the House to vote NO to the education savings account program. This in effect turns private schools into public schools, in the sense that any government funds issued to private schools would be inviting and requiring government oversight. We want LESS government - not more. 1. This is NOT about school choice - we already have school choice in Texas. 2. This money is not about tax dollars "following the child" as originally touted by the GOP - this bill in essence creates a third lane of education spending (out of the surplus) that taxpayers at some point will be on the hook for. NO. Who benefits from this bill? VENDORS. This is a horrible use of the "surplus". What happens when the surplus is depleted? Taxpayers will have to replenish - NO. This is a terrible bill - it will only assist a small group of families, it benefits vendors primarily, creates an unnecessary tax burden potentially, and isn't really about choice at all. Plus it's one more program our government would need to monitor and oversee. This is NOT a good bill for Texas - Conservatives should absolutely be opposed to this bill for the reasons stated above.

Alyss Larkin

Self

Keller, TX

NO to school vouchers. We have had cuts to our public elementary school that include losing our full time librarian and losing year long co-curr classes such as art. Our public schools NEED the funds.

Tracy Walton

Self educator

Fulshear, TX

I strongly urge you to oppose school vouchers in Texas. Taxpayer dollars should support public schools, which educate the vast majority of Texas students. Diverting funds to private institutions weakens our education system, reduces classroom resources, and puts teacher retirement funds at risk.

Vouchers do not provide real choices for most families. Private schools can reject students, including those with disabilities, and are not held to the same transparency and accountability standards as public schools. This leaves many students—especially those relying on special education services—without the support they need.

Arizona's school voucher program serves as a warning. Initially projected to cost $65 million, it ballooned to over $900 million, draining public school funds and straining the state budget. Despite promises to help low-income families, over 75% of voucher recipients were already in private schools or homeschooling, meaning taxpayer dollars primarily subsidized those who never intended to use public education. Meanwhile, voucher students saw no significant academic improvement, and rural communities suffered funding losses with no real benefit. Even some Republican lawmakers in Arizona have reconsidered their support as costs spiral out of control.

Texas cannot afford to repeat these mistakes. Public schools are the backbone of our communities, ensuring every child has access to a quality education. I urge you to protect Texas public schools by voting against school vouchers.

Lizan Mellinger

Self. Retired teacher

Lubbock, TX

Public tax dollars should only be used on public school funding. We keep being told that Texas is funding its schools but that's not the case. You are not paying teachers enough, and you are not giving districts enough money to keep older schools updated. We have a huge surplus of money that should go to education. We rank so far down on the list. Why is this even something that is up for discussion. FUND OUR SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS. Quit playing games with the future of our children. They deserve the best education. And not just kids of wealthy people. ALL students deserve a high quality education. And quit making teachers jump through hoops to get extra money. TIA isn't a fair system to show growth. Students are tired of testing. They're all sick of it. Just give the teachers a decent wage.

Sarah Bolton
Self
Granbury, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

I have two special needs sons who both benefit from our local ISD's special education department. Both of our sons have Autism. I could write a novel on the difficulties we have faced over the years and how heart wrenching this journey is at times. In our area there only exists one private school/alternative school that accepts children with Autism or other special needs. This bill is not beneficial to already underfunded rural areas, where most special needs children in these areas are already struggling just to get basic IEP needs met. A majority of the time if needs are not met for these special needs children it is due to understaffing, underfunding and lack of specialists working in the school district. We have many more hurdles to jump through for my two sons than families who have neurotypical children. We are blessed to have stability and the means to go outside of Granbury for doctors and specialists/Psychiatrists. But that's not a reality for many families in communities like ours. A large number of families here who have special needs children rely solely on the ISD for therapies, interventions, educational diagnosis etc. due to costs and lack of resources locally. Please, keep the special needs families of Texas in mind when deciding your vote for this. We need more funding for Special Education in Texas, not more ways for these children to fall through the cracks, especially the ones located in rural areas.

Allison Fitzpatrick
self mother
Cypress, TX

No vouchers! Keep public education public and FULLY FUNDED.

Anita Stetson
Self
Kingwood, TX

Our public schools are severely underfunded. By diverting more funds to private schools and charters under the guise of "choice" is disservice to the future of Texas. Find out public schools and allow educators in Texas to teach our children so that ALL children are able to succeed.

Michele Salinas
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am strongly against vouchers. Vouchers will take away funding from public schools. In addition, public schools would still need to be in compliance with TEA regulations. This would not be the case for private schools. Public schools would still need to adhere to testing requirements and school ratings. In addition, vouchers will reduce funds needed for special education in which so many students with special needs will be deprived. Private schools would not have to test their students. Private schools would not accept all students i.e. special needs, at-risk, and difficult students whereas public schools would. Therefore, vouchers are not fair and equal for all students. Please vote "NO" for vouchers.

Jeana Allen

Self Texas Public School Teacher

Joshua, TX

As a dedicated public school teacher and strong supporter of Texas public schools, I am deeply troubled by the growing disregard for our public education system. I am writing to express my concerns regarding House Bill 3 and to advocate for fairness in the allocation of state funding.

Texas students deserve strong, well-funded public schools, and it is only fair that any school receiving taxpayer dollars be held to the same standards. If the state is going to pass vouchers and direct public funds to private schools, those institutions must be subject to the same rules as public schools—including transparency requirements, accountability measures, enrollment practices, and STAAR testing. Anything less creates an uneven playing field and undermines the integrity of our education system.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, and they deserve support, not policies that divert resources while holding them to higher standards than their privately funded counterparts. I urge you to ensure that all schools receiving state funding operate under the same expectations, reinforcing fairness and accountability in Texas education.

Widad Kinard, Dr.

Self

Denton, TX

Texas students need strong public schools—not vouchers or Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) that drain resources and lack accountability. Public dollars belong in public schools, where they serve all students and strengthen our communities.

Over 90% of Texas students rely on public schools for quality education, special services, and skilled teachers. Diverting funds to private programs hurts the students who need support the most, especially in rural and underserved areas. Vouchers and ESAs also lack transparency, allowing taxpayer money to flow to unregulated and unproven programs.

The solution is clear: fully fund public schools. Invest in smaller class sizes, teacher retention, and strong academic programs—not privatization schemes that leave students behind.

I urge you to reject vouchers and ESAs and stand up for Texas public schools. Our students' futures depend on it.

Sincerely,

Widad Kinard, Ph.D.

Blake Barington

Self - Communications Specialist

Dripping Springs, TX

I am STRONGLY OPPOSED to HB 3. This bill will not help educational outcomes in the State of Texas, and prioritizing 1% of Texas children will not help our communities and state thrive. It will, however, cause more districts to close campuses, layoff staff and cut programs. What you all are doing is absolutely heartbreaking and you should be ashamed of yourselves. Put this on the ballot for TEXANS to vote on if you want it so much. You should also publicly state what you each are getting from this bill because you definitely aren't fighting for students and teachers. My rep hasn't even stepped in one of our schools since she's been in office, yet she seems knowledgeable to vote against our district for this bill. We're an A rated and thriving school district, so I'm interested to know what she's getting from this bill. As a sixth generation Texan and the child of two public school teachers who both put more than 30 years of service to this state, I will continue to fight this until you start doing your job and following the Texas Constitution.

Jodi Strickland

Self

Uvalde, TX

Much to the dismay of political culture and identity, I ask you to truly consider the harm and negative consequences that passing this bill will do to our Texas public education system. Please think of the child before the dollar.

Gail B Rogers, Dr

Self

Houston, TX

HB3 is a scam that will subsidize children already attending private schools and subtract funds from public schools. I am requesting that you vote AGAINST vouchers and FOR fully funded, high quality, public education. Texas children have a right to this education and the opportunity to learn and thrive at their zoned school. We should be investing in their future rather than denying their intellectual growth and development.

Melinda Barron, Miss

Self

Ingleside, TX

This is not what is best for the students of Texas. All students should be funded equally. I do not support HB3.

Tracy Porter

Self, retired

Allen, TX

I am adamantly against using public tax money to fund private education. Stop trying to fool people by calling this "school choice." Many school districts already offer the option to parents to move their child to an alternate school if space is available. Fully fund schools and give teachers and educators the raises they deserve.

Anita Stoll

self

Austin, TX

As a concerned constituent and parent, I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 3 and any legislation that would introduce school vouchers or education savings accounts in Texas. I believe such programs would divert vital public funds from our already underfunded public schools, undermining the foundation of our education system and harming our children.

Kristen Luciano

Self, Project Manager

Houston, TX

I am both a Texas public school graduate and a current public school employee. I strongly oppose the school choice bill.

We've seen how similar programs in other states have failed—diverting public funds to private schools with little to no oversight, leaving students behind, and ultimately weakening public education. Texas cannot afford to make the same mistake.

Every day, I witness the incredible work happening in our public schools. Teachers, staff, and administrators go above and beyond to ensure students receive a quality education, often with limited resources. Instead of taking money away from public schools, we should be investing in them—giving educators the support they need and ensuring every child has access to a strong, well-funded education system.

School choice isn't about choice for all—it's about choices for a few at the expense of the many. Our public schools serve every student, regardless of background, income, or ability. That's something worth protecting.

I urge our representatives to reject this bill and stand with Texas public schools, their students, and the hardworking educators who make them thrive.

Samantha Butler

Self

Tyler, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 and the establishment of educational savings account. These esa's will not help all of Texas. The priority of the Texas legislature should be to fully fund public education. ESA's will not help rural Texas. They will not help families that can't afford to difference between the voucher amount and the amount of tuition. Similar bills have been rejected the last several years and still nothing has been done to improve public school funding. Just like my tax dollars shouldn't go toward a country club if tax payers don't want to go to public parks, our tax dollars should not fund private schools. The majority of Texas does not want ESA's or vouchers. I will not vote for any candidate who supports these measures that will hurt the students of Texas.

Charlotte Hopper

Self

McKinney, TX

I do not support this bill.

Cody Sheffield

Self, children, grandchildren

Longview, TX

I am a parent and educator. ESAs and vouchers will collapse public education thus taking meaningful resources from Texas children.

Jenny Peterson

Self, Exhibitions Curator

The Woodlands, TX

I live in The Woodlands, Texas, and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations. We have seen this happen in other states already. Just look to our neighbor up north, Oklahoma.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of ALL Texas students.

Thank you.

Laura Storm
self
CEDAR PARK, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students. I am the proud daughter of two Texas public school teachers and the proud granddaughter of another.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Laura Storm

Brianne Blevins
Self
Round Rock, TX

Vote no on the vouchers. This creates further disparity, lacks inclusion for students and is NOT WANTED BY THE PEOPLE WHO HAVE CHILDREN IN SCHOOLS.

Michelle Chappell
self
Venus, TX

Dear Representative,

I am a taxpayer in the State of Texas, so I want it to be documented that I do NOT support vouchers nor an education savings accounts (ESAs) program. In fact, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools in Texas. We have had inflation of over 20% since 2019, the last time funding was provided for Public Schools in Texas. I want it to be documented that I support the following:

an Increase of the Basic Allotment, and

Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflated amount of over 20%.

Representative, we must support our Public Schools with the proper Funding necessary.
Sincerely,

Corinne Fiagome
self; consultant
Mansfield, TX

Dear Representative Buckley,

As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want a tax-funded Education Savings Accounts (ESA) Program with public tax dollars going to private schools instead of public schools. I want my education earmarked tax dollars to fund public schools. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children, their educators, and other school and district staff deserve to have the public funding they need to learn, teach, and pursue TEKS without fear of losing funding to private schools that are not held to the same standards or expectations.

To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

- * I do NOT want state tax-funded private school vouchers/ESAs.
- * I support an increase to the basic allotment.
- * I support focusing education-earmarked tax dollars on funding public schools in Texas, including covering inflation.

Sincerely,
Corinne Fiagome

Widad Kinard, Dr.
Self
Denton, TX

Texas students need strong public schools—not vouchers or Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) that drain resources and lack accountability. Public dollars belong in public schools, where they serve all students and strengthen our communities.

Over 90% of Texas students rely on public schools for quality education, special services, and skilled teachers. Diverting funds to private programs hurts the students who need support the most, especially in rural and underserved areas. Vouchers and ESAs also lack transparency, allowing taxpayer money to flow to unregulated and unproven programs.

The solution is clear: fully fund public schools. Invest in smaller class sizes, teacher retention, and strong academic programs—not privatization schemes that leave students behind.

I urge you to reject vouchers and ESAs and stand up for Texas public schools. Our students' futures depend on it.

Sincerely,
Widad Kinard, Ph.D.

Emily Hart
Self
Abilene, TX

I am NOT in favor of vouchers. Our public schools need more funding not less. If I want my kids to go to private schools, I should pay for it. All should have access to a good and free education.

Sara Smith, Mrs.
Self
Mineral wells, TX

This bill, if passed, I feel will not do much for those that live in rural areas like my family. There are no charter schools available in my area and only one small private school. There aren't other options of school to send my daughter too besides the local ISD. This bill would take much needed funding away from the only option for schooling my daughter has unless my family relocates to a higher populated area where other schooling options are available. Homing school isn't something my daughter would benefit from because she needs the structure and social aspect that not home schooling options lack in my opinion. Please don't punished the children living in rural areas by passing a bill that would destroy the pubic schools that they rely on.

Alexander Rolf
Self
Corpus christi, TX

Districts are already working with minimal funding. This will cause districts to not be able to function. Most families even with the voucher will not be able to afford private institutions. All you are doing is providing a subsidy to families that can probably already afford the private schooling.

Jenifer Olson
Self
San Antonio, TX

I oppose HB3 and do not want you to vote for vouchers. Please fund our public schools.

Alex Ciunciusky
Self
Southlake, TX

I want to choose my kids education. Public education is failing our kids

Phyllis Hanvey
Self , RN Ret.
Georgetown, TX

We are unequivocally opposed to school vouchers, sending public school money to private schools. Hard earned Texas tax dollars belong to public schools, not private schools, which will cripple our states public schools.

Linda Gelfand
Self, underwriter
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill because it provides funding to a minority of families at the expense of those who cannot afford or do not have the opportunity to have their children in private schools. Public schools are already severely underfunded, and any additional K-12 education funds should go to public schools. Private schools are comparatively unregulated and are not subject to the same testing and standards required of public schools. Neighborhood public schools accept all students, but private schools can deny admission or educational services to any student, including students with disabilities, among others. Use of tax dollars should come with standards and not allow cherry picking of the easiest students to teach. Doing so would leave only the most challenging students in public schools, at a reduction of funding for the public schools (as the daily census would fall if students moved into private schools).

Emma Luckemeyer
Self, teacher
New Braunfels, TX

I have served as a public school teacher for the last 13 years here in Texas, ever since I graduated from college. I truly feel that it is my calling to serve my students and their families. The attack on public schools in recent days in order to fund ESAs has been atrocious and uncalled for. Good things are happening every day in public school; teachers, principals, and school districts are putting in the hard work to educate tomorrow's leaders, despite the state failing to uphold its duty set forth in the Texas Constitution. I urge you to not pass HB3 (which takes public funds away from public schools) and instead fully fund Texas public schools. The 5.5 million public school students in Texas depends on it.

Tiffany Orosco

Self

Friendswood, TX

The majority of Texans do not support school vouchers. Please actually represent the views of your constituents rather than the governor's agenda by voting no. Public schools are the heart of communities, especially rural communities. Vouchers take money from the public schools that are already underfunded. Having had children in private and public schools, I know that private schools will just raise tuition to maintain exclusivity. Vouchers are a discount for those who can already afford to send their kids to public school. Please vote no and let Abbott know you represent your constituents and not his outside special interests looking to profit from vouchers.

Pamela Burns

Self

Lewisville, TX

I oppose this bill and ask that you do not vote for it. It will harm our public education system and students.

Shawnnie Taylor, Mrs.

Retired teachers

Schertz, TX

Please don't fund vouchers!

Kelley Michalski

Self

Flower Mound, TX

Vouchers are only helping kids who have money. The state should be looking out for ALL students should be the priority of our state. This bill will not allow special needs students to have the same access as their peers as private schools will only take the students with mild disabilities if at all. How is this fair??? Do you not care about special needs??? Put vouchers to the people for a vote. You all should be listening to your constituents not money from billionaires.

Marianne Reat, Ms.

Self, retired attorney

Austin, TX

I oppose education savings accounts, which in reality are vouchers that can be used to defray the cost of a private school education. I think the State of Texas instead should adequately fund its public schools, to fulfill the mandate of the Texas Constitution that requires the Legislature "to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools" because education is "essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people." (Texas Constitution, Art. 7, § 1 (1876).)

In recent years the Legislature has woefully underfunded public education, and school districts are struggling to operate with huge deficits as a result. If money is taken away from the public school system to help people pay for private education, that will weaken and destroy the public school system for lack of funding. Public schools are the backbone of many small communities in Texas. Public schools serve everyone, while private schools are able to select their students and reject those they cannot or will not educate, such as students with disabilities. That will leave public schools serving the students that are hardest to educate, and with less money to do it.

Based on what I've read about the experience of school vouchers in other states, most of the people who use them are people whose children already attend private schools. Certainly parents can choose to send their children to private schools if they wish. I have done that myself. The taxpayers of Texas should not subsidize private schools, but should dedicate more funding to public schools to bring the level of public school funding up to at least the national average and elevate the quality of public education in Texas. I urge the committee to reject HB 3.

Barb Schmidt Schmidt
Coppell ISD
Coppell, TX

I am totally opposed to the ESA program. We need to increase our per student funding and enable our public schools to thrive. Vouchers will only further diminish our public schools. Please LISTEN to the people of Texas! Thank you.

Tammy Owens
Self
Mt Enterprise, TX

As a conservative Texas voter, parent and grandparent, I strongly oppose the use of public tax dollars to fund homeschool and private school programs through ESAs. This is a misuse of taxpayer funds and the least fiscally responsible use of taxpayer funds. The Legislature would be better served putting in the work to fix the issues facing public schools after years of underfunding and poor policy. Parents in Texas have always had a choice. If they wish to have a choice free of taxpayer oversight and accountability, they should select an option that is not funded by the taxpayer.

Eddie Hernandez
Self
Little Elm, TX

Rick get richer and poor get poorer.

Jo Tampas
Self, retired
Round Rock, TX

This is not the right thing to do for Texas schools or to improve the v education of Texas students. We need kids to grow up to love Texas and be well educated, well behaved and wanting to contribute to Texas success. This bill will kill student's good will. They are already suffering under-funded schools.

Samiyyah Middleton
Self
Arlington, TX

Dear Representative,
As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want an Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) Program. I pay my public tax dollars and, therefore, want my money to Fund Public Schools in Texas. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children and all the educators, and staff, deserve to have the funding. To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

?
?
?

I do NOT want vouchers/ESAs.
I support an Increase of the Basic Allotment.
I support Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflation of over 20%.
Again, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools (not private schools) in the State of Texas.

Sincerely,
Samiyyah Middleton

Kristy Wynn

Self. Mother

Dripping Springs, TX

Please. NO VOUCHERS

Nicole Schrank

Self - Public School Teacher

Corpus Christi, TX

As a public school educator, I am concerned for the future of my school district if school vouchers are passed. We have already been operating in a deficit for the past several years and to lose more funding would lead to less teachers, bigger classroom sizes, and less funding for necessary resources to provide rigorous and appropriate skills. As a parent, to know that my three children (two of whom are special education) would potentially face hardships in school due to lower funding and resources is upsetting. Charter schools and private schools are out of the question due to the distance and the fact they are not adequately set up to care for my autistic children. While incredibly smart and brilliant, they do require some support, and charter and private schools are not required to provide that and could reject my children on that premise. As a taxpayer, I am appalled that something that is not even being voted on by the constituents is being used with our tax money to pay for private school and charter school tuition when they are not held to the same standard as public schools. I do not support my tax dollars going to families to fund their private school, homeschool, or charter school tuitions when there is zero transparency required for their curriculum and standards. Enough with the gaslighting. It is obvious that the majority of Texans do not support school vouchers or this 'education savings account program'. If it something that is believed to be so supported, I say put it to a vote with the constituents of Texas! It is our tax payer money, it is our children being effected. It is only fair that something of this scale be decided on by the public and not by those that are lining the pockets of politicians.

Damon MCall, Dr.

Citizen

Lubbock, TX

Find public education appropriately! Hold private schools receiving state funding to the same standards. Lets be equal if we are getting vouchers

Shanda Beach

Self

Grapevine, TX

As a public school teacher, this will make my job more challenging due to less resources. As a taxpayer, I do not want my tax dollars going to private schools. They are for public use only. As an alumnus of St. Agnes Academy in Houston, my parents chose and paid for my education. We had a choice. Keep public money in the public schools. Vote no on HB 3.

Robin Smith
Self - Retired
Dallas, TX

All of my children and now my grandchildren are attending public school in Richardson. I regularly attend volunteer meetings and for years have learned about the lack of funding that our schools must struggle with year over year. I know it's been 5 years + since the district has received a per pupil increase. They have however incurred increased costs for property insurance, utilities, safety officer requirements and more. Our public schools and teachers need to have a significant increase to manage general cost of living increases. They DO NOT need to have funds redirected to a voucher system that sends my tax dollars to private schools. I pay taxes to support our public resources that are used and shared by all. My taxes should not be subsidizing families who in many cases are already sending their children to private schools. Private schools have none of the requirements of public schools. They can refuse admission, they do not have to offer transportation, special ed services, disability services, safety officer requirements and on and on. Many rural districts do not even have accessible private schools nearby and will be sharing resources that could be going to improve their local schools. Other states have implemented voucher programs and have found they drain state resources while not measureably improving outcomes. We need the tax dollars that have been withheld by the state to be completely allocated to our public schools and this voucher scam that is being pushed by a few billionaires needs to be nixed. You need to listen to the people of TX who overwhelmingly do not want this. Thank you.

Leah Ferguson
Leander ISD/Mason Elementary and Cedar Park High School
Cedar Park, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and as a mother of 3 children I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools. Our youngest is on the Autism spectrum and has ADHD. He receives incredible support at our public school and has grown so much and is thriving because of these much needed supports.

ESAs (vouchers) directly hurt students with disabilities who receive Special Education services in Public Schools in the State of Texas. Diverting $1 Billion of my PUBLIC taxpayer money to private schools who do not even acknowledge IDEA, do not follow IEPs and only provide services when they are negotiated, compromised and then charged back to parents at exorbitant rates well above typical tuition rates it is theft of services and money to the most vulnerable population in Texas.

14% of the 5.4 million public school students in Texas receive special education services. That's 760,000 students at a minimum. These ESAs are completely inaccessible to at least 90% of our disabled students, and that is before they have a chance at any lottery or know if a private school will accept, serve, or retain them. There's no accountability. Not of services, not of the $1 Billion of public taxpayer money this legislature wants to pour into private schools and not of impact or outcomes of our disabled students.

Even if we say ALL of the ESAs go to disabled kids receiving special education services, that still leaves a minimum of 700,000 students receiving special education services in underfunded understaffed Public Schools that this state put in this situation. This causes direct harm to these students with disabilities, the most vulnerable individuals in society, and it's at the hands of those who are supposed to represent us.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice (and students), and have the courage to do the right thing: say No to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Please hear our voices, we the taxpayers do not want this. Thank you for your time and honest evaluation of this bill.

Sincerely,
Leah Ferguson

Leslie Berryman
Self, Retired
Forney, TX

I am opposed to the voucher scam! This is a coupon for the wealthy, who don't need it. The voucher scam is a massive transfer of wealth from the bottom to the top.

Debra Foster

Self. Occupational therapist
Stephenville, TX

No vouchers. Texans want public money in public schools. I'm an occupational therapist who has worked with the disabled.
-Private schools are not required to accept poor or disabled students.
-Private, religious, and home schools are not accountable to the state.
-Studies of similar programs found that voucher money largely goes to students ALREADY in private schools.
NO VOUCHERS. Quit trying to cram this down our throats Gov. Abbott. We do NOT want them!

Brandt Oliver

Self/My Children/healthcare administrator
Leander, TX

Public education is the foundation of a thriving society. A thriving society brings wealth to all. If you want to starve the wealth that Texas has created, than passing vouchers and taking away from public education will be the quickest way to do it. United we stand, divided we fall.

Robert Kandra

Self
Port Aransas, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any use of taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers through an education savings account plan. Public funds should be dedicated first and foremost to strengthening our public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas students and are essential to our communities.
Diverting public money to private schools through vouchers undermines public education by reducing much-needed resources for teachers, students, and programs. Our public schools already face challenges such as teacher shortages, outdated facilities, and insufficient funding. Rather than allocating taxpayer dollars to private institutions that are not held to the same accountability and transparency standards, we should be investing in our public education system to ensure every child in Texas has access to a high-quality education, regardless of their ZIP code or financial background.
I urge you to prioritize funding for our public schools and reject any proposals that would use taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers, also known as education savings accounts. Texas students deserve a strong, well-funded public education system that supports their success.

Cesar Galaviz

Self Beeville, TX

Taking from public funding so the family that already affords for private school can be given 10,000 for a car (It is coupon for the wealthy!) is unconstitutional.

Alison Clover

Self
Brenham, TX

Say no to school vouchers! Fund our public schools! As a mother of a future teacher and public school students worry about OUR public schools NOT private!

Gena Lazcano

Self, mother
Whitehouse, TX

I am the daughter of two public school teachers and I have 3 boys in public school. I strongly oppose vouchers and wish for public schools to get more funding and definitely not less. Let private schools operate privately and let's focus on public schools please.

Ram Santhanam

Self

Cedar Park, TX

Please focus on funding public education and not private enterprise with our hard earned money.

Karen Urquia

self-3rd grade teacher

Fort Worth, TX

I am a 3rd grade teacher in the Northwest ISD school district. I have been a parent in the district for 9 years and a teacher in the district for almost 3. The main focus of this bill is "school choice" and I'm here to say that I made a "choice" for my children and myself when we moved. We sold our home to leave a district/school that we were unhappy with and chose to transfer into Northwest ISD. We have loved our schools and do not regret our "choice" to move and change districts. In my short 2+ years of teaching in the district I have seen massive changes to our student population, our district spending/funding and the overall climate in our schools. Teachers are exhausted, students are exhausted, students are no longer thriving all because of cuts to our programs and increasing class sizes. Our district is currently facing a 6 million dollar deficit for the 2025 school year and without state funding we are losing precious resources to support our students and our teachers. Special Education programs are limiting the number of students they will accept in specialized units, and placing these students into general education classes where they are causing massive disruptions and impeding the learning of my children and my students. I am sad to report that our SPED program will receive further cuts as well as dyslexia, ESL programs, library access, and even our highest achievers, gifted and talented. What is the end goal here? Even if I were to pull my own children to send them to private school I would need to come up with an additional $20,000/year minimum to support their education. I am a teacher....my salary is $61,000/year, it is not feasible. So the ones that will benefit from this bill will not be your average family with average students, it will be for your wealthy families who are already spending the money on a private education. The promise of "school choice" has failed to show any truth. I am disappointed in my elected officials, I voted you in with the promises of supporting my Texas public school educated students and children. Take the funding and either match the public school funding to that of these "vouchers" or drop them and fully fund public schools in Texas. Your constituents have an expectation of you to fulfill your campaign promises. Sincerely a conservative, Republican, Texan teacher

Lynn Parrish, Mrs

Self Teacher

San Augustine, TX

As a parent and grandparent of public school students and as a taxpayer, I ask that you please vote no on HB 2. It offers no benefit to the majority of students across this great state. Spending 1 billion taxpayer dollars on an experiment that is currently not doing well in other states where ESAs have passed is a very expensive gamble. The fact that 80,000,000 of those dollars will be taken off the top to administer the program and pay placement agencies is outrageous. Not one dollar of that money is improving education. There is additional money to be taken from the billion to advertise the program - more money that does not reach children. If the goal is to make choice more affordable for all students in Texas, there has to be a more cost efficient and equitable way to make it happen than this bill, which bloats government and wastes money. The fact that the bill offers the possibility of "choice" to fewer than 2% of students in Texas makes the bill even more disingenuous.

Chad Watt, Mr

Self

Dallas, TX

Vouchers are not needed in texas. It's a cynical scam to cause further harm to Texas public schools. Stop this bull. Stop this bill.

Cheryl Lowber

Self, theatre director

The Colony, TX

This bill will GUT public education. It will take money from already underfunded public schools and funnel it toward private schools that do not have the same requirements put upon them as public schools do. Children and their families will suffer if this bill passes. Teachers will suffer if this bill passes. The only people who will benefit are people who can already afford to send their children to private school. Why not take that money and make our public schools better? Private schools WILL be raising their tuition, which will negate any leg up families think they might be getting from this bill. It only rewards people who have money already and will further push down those families whose socioeconomic status is already at the lower end of the spectrum. Please, please do NOT pass this bill!

Julie Gross

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to urge you to vote NO on HB 3 and on any legislation that goes against protecting Texas public schools. School vouchers divert much-needed funding away from public schools, which serve ALL students, including those with disabilities, low-income families, and rural communities. These programs undermine the promise of equitable education and leave our public schools struggling to meet the needs of their students.

As a concerned citizen, I believe strongly in the importance of protecting and strengthening our public schools. Texas public schools are already underfunded, and voucher programs would only make this problem worse. Instead of taking resources away from our schools, we should be investing in them—supporting our teachers, reducing class sizes, and ensuring every child has access to a quality education.

I urge you to prioritize the needs of the majority of Texas students and reject any legislation that promotes school vouchers. Our public schools are the backbone of our communities, and they deserve your full support.

Joa Muns

Self

Plano, TX

Vote NO to Vouchers!!

Jessica Deleon-Zahn

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any use of taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers through an education savings account plan. Public funds should be dedicated first and foremost to strengthening our public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas students and are essential to our communities.

Diverting public money to private schools through vouchers undermines public education by reducing much-needed resources for teachers, students, and programs. Our public schools already face challenges such as teacher shortages, outdated facilities, and insufficient funding. Rather than allocating taxpayer dollars to private institutions that are not held to the same accountability and transparency standards, we should be investing in our public education system to ensure every child in Texas has access to a high-quality education, regardless of their ZIP code or financial background.

I urge you to prioritize funding for our public schools and reject any proposals that would use taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers, also known as education savings accounts. Texas students deserve a strong, well-funded public education system that supports their success.

Sarah Patterson

Self, university staff member

Waco, TX

I was raised in Texas public schools and in a family full of Texas public schoolteachers. I do not support this bill and neither should any representative who cares about the future of our great state and the wellbeing and upbringing of our next generation. I do not support using tax dollars to enable Texas citizens to use funds that should be for the public good of education to invest in private K-12 education. Tax dollars earmarked for education should all go to funding public education. In fact, the argument should not be, “What if we fund private K-12 education?” but rather, “What if we actually properly funded and supported K-12 public education?” And then fund public education properly! Give teachers and school districts the support they need. Listen to educators! This is not what they want, and this is not what the experts recommend. This will not have the positive impact you are hoping. It will become a great stain in the Lone Star State’s history. We will lose educators. We will see our students struggle. We will see greater disparity between students of various economic classes and geographic areas. We will see this most considerably have a negative impact on schools in rural areas, much like the small West Texas town I grew up in. We will see this, overtime, have a negative impact on our public universities, which are exceptional in our nation, and on other industries and services that are critical to our communities. I am asking you to oppose HB 3 because Texans are begging you. My social media (full of conservative West Texans, mind you) is full of posts declaring this is bad. The people disagree with HB 3. The people want and deserve better. You work for us. You represent us. Not the ultra rich and corporations who fund your campaigns, and not the Governor. You work for the people of Texas. So vote accordingly to make sure all Texans have access to a well-funded, high-quality K-12 public education. Invest our tax dollars in public education. Vote no to HB 3. Listen to the people of Texas. Work for the people of Texas.

Nancy Routzon

Self - Project Manager

Watauga, TX

As a longtime public educator and citizen of Texas, I submit that this “savings account system” is tantamount to theft of the tax dollars of Texas citizens. That “parental choice” already exists; I know, I homeschooled my own children. Additionally, I challenge the proponents of this bill to put forth a quorum of examples that it works; I dare say you can’t find one. Instead, you find example after example of hard-earned tax dollars lining the pockets of millionaires and billionaires, none of whom have any business dictating anything regarding public education.

Governor Abbott needs to get his cronies off his payroll, and hand education back where it belongs: in the hands of the experts, the teachers.

I vote a resounding, hearty, angry, and highly offended NO to this voucher system.

Rona Hollyer

Self, retired teacher

Katy, TX

Texas kids deserve fully funded public schools—not a voucher scheme that benefits private schools with no accountability! Vote no to HB3!

Diane Laing

Self

McKinney, TX

Vote NO for vouchers!!!!!!!!!!!!

I don’t want my tax dollars supporting private and/or religious schools. I paid for my child to attend a private high school. Everyone else can do the same.

Fully fund public schools!!!!!!

Laura Davila

Self

Austin, TX

I, along with a majority of Texans, reject a voucher system that would drain public education funding and devastate rural areas without access to private education. Additionally, there have been multiple examples in other states, such as Arizona, where a voucher system effectively bankrupt the state beyond education, requiring the diversion of critical water infrastructure funds. Let's not be as short-sighted as our friends in the South west and instead let's stand up for public education to help uplift every Texan. Our teachers, students and communities deserve better. With many public school educators in my family, including my mother who has served the state for nearly 30 years, and as a hopeful mother of a future Texan, this matter hits very close to home for me. I know the every day work our teachers in public schools put in, despite always shrinking budgets. Our teachers dedicate so much extra time and love to help raise and nurture the future of ALL Texans. The overwhelming majority of Texans agree: SAY NO TO VOUCHERS.

Esther Brodrick

Self

Plano, TX

I do not support this bill and plead with Texas lawmakers to vote no on defunding public schools. Allow parents to make their choice for their kids' education. This means private schools will be covered by private funds. Public schools will be covered by public funds.

Kathryn Beaver, Ms.

Self

Cleburne, TX

ESAs will significantly harm Texas students. This bill will divert much needed funding from public schools and be used as a taxpayer-funded benefit for the wealthy to subsidize their private school tuition. The best way to ensure students in our state receive high quality, rigorous education is to vote no on this measure. Public funds should stay in public schools.

Chase Owen

Self / teacher

Caldwell, TX

This legislation does a major disservice to students in the public education system. We do not need our tax dollars going to fund private education. Our tax dollars should be going to public education only. If you fund public schools, pay public school teachers an equitable amount and stop this voucher nonsense, public schools will thrive. School choice already exists. People who can afford it, already choose where their students go. Let's put our tax dollars on the students and families who need it most!

Cheryl Ursin

Self

Houston, TX

I support public schools and oppose HB3.

Juanita Sanchez, Ms.

Self

San Antonio, TX

Vouchers divert public funds to private schools, reducing the resources available for public education. This weakens public schools, which serve the majority of students, particularly those from low-income and marginalized communities. Voucher programs also lack accountability, as private schools are not held to the same academic and non-discrimination standards as public institutions. Ultimately, vouchers contribute to educational inequality by prioritizing individual choice over the collective improvement of the public education system.

Andrew Weesner

Myself

Hurst, TX

I am a public educator and fully support public education. An educational savings plan will not help the student I teach, it will only take needed funds away and reroute them to put money back into the pockets of those who are already able to afford private education. My students will still be in my classroom with less than they need.

Heather Robins

Self

Spring, TX

I oppose HB3!

Rosalie Johnson

Self

Port Aransas, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any use of taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers through an education savings account plan. Public funds should be dedicated first and foremost to strengthening our public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas students and are essential to our communities.

Diverting public money to private schools through vouchers undermines public education by reducing much-needed resources for teachers, students, and programs. Our public schools already face challenges such as teacher shortages, outdated facilities, and insufficient funding. Rather than allocating taxpayer dollars to private institutions that are not held to the same accountability and transparency standards, we should be investing in our public education system to ensure every child in Texas has access to a high-quality education, regardless of their ZIP code or financial background.

I urge you to prioritize funding for our public schools and reject any proposals that would use taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers, also known as education savings accounts. Texas students deserve a strong, well-funded public education system that supports their success.

(Feel free to share the above info. Comments must be submitted before hearing ends on Monday afternoon.)

Isaiah Robertson

Self

Bryan, TX

Although the surface seems reasonable, a voucher system without income caps, is a welfare system for the rich. There needs to be proof that you cannot afford private school, your public school is failing and accreditation and non discrimination just like federal financial aid.

C. VanMichael Farmer, Mr.

Self/ Entrepreneur

Austin, TX

Subject: Opposing [Texas House Bill #3] – No to School Vouchers

Dear Committee Members,

I'm writing to strongly oppose [Texas House Bill #3] on school vouchers. This bill would take money away from our public schools and give it to private schools that don't have to follow the same rules or serve all students. That's not fair, and it's not right for Texas kids.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities. They welcome every child, no matter their background, income, or abilities. Instead of pulling funding away, we should be investing more in public schools—paying teachers fairly, reducing class sizes, and giving students the resources they need to succeed.

Vouchers don't guarantee better education. In fact, they often leave families with fewer protections and fewer real choices, especially in rural areas where private schools aren't even an option. Taxpayer money should stay in public schools, where it benefits all students, not just a select few.

Please stand with Texas families and vote NO on this bill. Our kids deserve strong, well-funded public schools—not a system that drains resources and deepens inequities.

Sincerely,

C. VanMichael Farmer

Rebecca Cagle, Mrs.

Self/Teacher

Abilene, TX

Please, no vouchers!

Patricia Bisbee

Self - Public School Teacher

Cedar Park, TX

Funding public schools that support all students in Texas should be our priority, and this is what the majority of Texas residents want. Vote no on vouchers. Fully fund our schools. Increase the minimum per student allotment to $1300.

Brian Haralson

Myself

Levelland, TX

I believe school choice/vouchers is an outstanding piece of legislation! I fully support families being allowed to use funds in order to educate their children as they choose.

I respect the idea of a free public education. However, I have seen public education failing, most strongly in academics. I have met educators in the public school who, unfortunately, had no business calling themselves an educator. Public schools seem to cater only to the athletic or academically lifted (20%), while neglecting the remainder of the students (80%).

My dealings with private schools, especially church based Christian schools, has been vastly different. These schools provide the individual attention to each and every student. Their parents are a welcomed member of the process (in public schools, the aforementioned "educators" seemed to think of parents as a necessary evil).

If I had school aged children, they would be in a Christian based private school, with or without vouchers!

Dionna Garrett

Self

Mineral Wells, TX

My highly educated family members with doctorates and multiple degrees attended our rural public ISD. Future success is not based on where you attend school. My local rural ISD receives roughly $6000 per student. The voucher school choice program is promising $10,000 per student. Why hasn't the State of Texas increased the actual amount per student since 2011? Why did the budget committee members act like they did not know this or understand the swap money etc? This is very concerning since our school taxes are double what our other taxing entities collect. When parents speak of their choice for their tax dollars to follow their children how about we all make a choice and say where we want our tax dollars to go? Let us vote on it! Please revamp what we already have instead of allowing the richest man in Pennsylvania to determine where OUR TEXAS tax dollars should go. Support Public schools where there are rules and regulations instead of private schools with school choice vouchers.

Regina Miron

self

Nevada, TX

Hello, my name is ___Regina Miron___ and I am a constituent in zip code 75173____. I am calling to ask my representative to vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not be divvied up to private schools. Thank you.

LaVerne Dysart

Self, retired and an ardent service volunteer

San Antonio, TX

Public dollars should not be taken from Public Education.

Public Education is at the heart of our society. We cannot allow our investment in Public Education to erode.

Diverting funds from our Public Schools is wrong and is not in the best interest of the children in our state.

George McKee

Self

Cedar Park, TX

All dollars collected for Education should be directed to "public education" (NOT. private aka "charter")..

We need more teachers and we must be able to pay them a competitive salary and as money goes to charters this cannot be accomplished. The public should not be supporting anyone going to "charter schools" ..it is their choice and if they want to pay extra to go to a Charter school, they should pay the full price that they charge. Public education has a disadvantage when "funds" are taken from the education budget that should be going to public education NOT Charter schools!

Victoria Pearson

Self

Austin, TX

As the parent of a child with special needs, I believe in our public schools. We need to empower them and provide them with the resources they need, not ceaselessly strip them of their funding. The Education Savings Account will only benefit those who can already afford to send their children to private schools, and will harm those of us who rely on public schools for the education of our children. Please, please, please stop wasting taxpayer dollars and time with these voucher bills.

Suzann Benatar

Self

Keller, TX

Enough is enough. It's imperative that our public schools get the funding they need and deserve. Public schools deserve more than private schools per child due to the way private schools are setup. As an upper middle income household we will not be able to afford to send our children to private school even with a voucher/savings account. So how is vouchers suppose to be good for my family and for so many other families who attend public schools? Increase the allotment for public school students to meet today's costs due to inflation and release the $20 billion + dollars that have been held captive by Abbott for the past two years. Enough is Enough.

My district Keller ISD is supposedly going to be splitting without a vote by the community because of the shortfall in school funding. Is this right? Do you support this decision the school board is making regardless of the outcome on this bill and not letting the community have a say? Enough is Enough. Do the right thing for the public school community in the state and precincts you were voted to represent.

Troye Smith

Self, Health Coach

Sherman, TX

I am against this bill and ask my Representative(s) to vote against it. This will do nothing but hurt education for the majority of students while helping only a few.

Frances Rogers

Self, retired

Bedford, TX

Children are THE FUTURE. There have been public schools in America since 1635. It is my understanding that the voucher system would allow residents to use public school funds to purchase vouchers for private schools. If people want to send their children to private schools, that is their choice, BUT it is a terrible idea to fund their choice with funds paid in good faith by Texas taxpayers to fund PUBLIC SCHOOLS. We as Texans first and foremost owe it to the children of our state to use OUR tax money to fund the best possible public schools. PERIOD.

Whitney Weesner

Self

Hurst, TX

The voucher program is awful and will hurt our public school systems. Please do not pass this bill-it will hurt so many children's education and it does not level the playing field. All it does is widen the gap between rich families and families struggling to put food on the table.

Tehya Cantu

Self

Austin, TX

This bill funnels even more money away from our already struggling public education system. I do not support this bill, nor any that takes resources away from funding public education.

Olga Jankowski

Self

Houston, TX

As a parent of three kids who attended Catholic schools from kindergarten through high school and as a Catholic school teacher of 20 years, I know that Catholic schools do an excellent job educating our students. However, the state government should be supporting our public schools, not taking away from them. Please vote NO on HB3! Keep Texas public schools strong!

Ryan McKelvy-Gonzales

self - teacher

Dallas, TX

This voucher bill will lead to drastic cuts to public schools, vouchers are an unfair transfer of wealth to parents already sending their students to private schools. In states that have vouchers 3/4 of students who take vouchers are already in private schools, these are subsidies for the wealthy at taxpayer expense.

1/4 of students who take vouchers will transfer from public schools to private/charter schools, but studies show huge academic decline, because the elite academies can deny anyone or deny to take vouchers. If they cover the tuition or not. Also it's the struggling or sub-prime schools that will take anyone and everyone. They will take vouchers because they care mostly about getting the money not the students.

There is also strong language for allowing schools to deny a student for religious reasons or because they don't fit with their educational standards. This could allow a school to exclude almost anyone for any reason from a divorced family, single parents, lgbtq parents, or any other personal beliefs that might counter the "standards of the school." Public schools don't have that option and must accept everyone no matter what.

School choice is about giving schools choice not parents. Many districts like Dallas ISD already offer school choice through TAG, Magnet, P-TECH, and non-home school transfer options.

Vouchers are bankrupting Arizona and Florida, while offering worse educational outcomes. Vouchers also take away state funding from districts, so they have to get more from local revenue and raise property taxes to make up the difference. Public schools are hurting for funding because our allotment hasn't increased since 2019. Due to inflation we are now receiving what amounts to a $1300 cut per student. Districts all across the state are talking school shutdowns, increasing class sizes, increasing case loads for special education teachers, and less paraprofessionals that provide essential services to our state's children.

Please vote this down and pass instead an increase in allotment for at least $1300 per student and the Educator's Bill of Rights. Both of these actions will lead to better educational outcomes for all Texas children. Especially those that need it most.

Stephenie Wood, Mrs.

Self

Wylie, TX

We as Texans already voted against this! The Texas House listened to their constituents and lost their jobs. Abbott is bullying the people who listen to their constituents people of Texas.

This bill is detrimental to our children who are our future! I have dedicated my life to helping ALL students from various backgrounds. With my vast experience in education (35+ years at all levels) this bill does is NOT good for ALL! It is only for those that can already afford private schools.

It is outrageous that school funding has been held hostage for this bill. It is unconstitutional that public schools have not been fully funded since prior to 2019! We all know the increase cost involved during this time.

I BOLDY ask the Texas House of Representatives to vote against this bill and Gov Abbott!

Fight for our public schools and our children! Fight against Gov Abbott wishes to pass this bill! Fight for the voters whom you represent that do not want this.

I ask each of you to look at the call logs and see that Texas overwhelmingly do not want this.

Remember you are the House of Representatives and you represent the voters who put you in office and NOT the Governor or those who are funding this bill.

Respectfully I ask and pray that you listen to the people of Texas. VOTE AGAINST THIS BILL

THANK YOU FOR YOUR SERVICE AND THANK YOU FOR YOUR TIME.

Alexis Hare

Self

Austin, TX

As a parent of a Texas public school, educated student, I highly and strenuously object to any voucher program that uses public funds for private religious education.

Public schools must be fully funded for the good of all students. Vouchers should only be considered or discussed once public schools are fully funded.

Amanda Ammerman, Mrs

Self

Austin, TX

My name is Amanda Ammerman and I am a constituent and taxpayer in Austin, Texas. I am also a mother of two young children who will be entering into the public school system within the next few years. I strongly oppose HB 3 and the creation of education savings accounts (ESAs) for private school vouchers. ESAs will divert crucial funding away from public schools, force rural communities to pay into a system they likely cannot access, and fails to protect the rights of students with disabilities. ESAs promote the creation of pop-up schools and vendors who do not provide transparency or accountability for what students are learning. Public funds belong in public schools. Texas ranks 46th in per-student spending in public schools. It is time for the State of Texas to invest and support our public schools, our teachers and our students. I strongly urge you to reject this bill.

Bridget Thomas, Mrs.

Self/teacher

Conroe, TX

I am deeply disappointed by the push for school voucher programs that divert desperately needed funds from our already underfunded public schools. This policy disproportionately harms our neediest students—those who rely on public education as their only pathway to opportunity. Instead of investing in better resources and smaller class sizes, you are funneling taxpayer dollars into private institutions that can pick and choose their students, leaving the most vulnerable behind.

Public schools serve every child, regardless of income, ability, or background. By stripping them of essential funding, you are actively widening the gap between wealthy and disadvantaged students. This is not about "school choice"—it's about privilege and profits. And let's be honest: many politicians and their donors stand to financially benefit from these policies, profiting off the dismantling of our public education system.

Education should be about lifting up all students, not padding the pockets of the privileged. If you truly cared about our children's futures, you would work to fix and fund public schools, not abandon them. This betrayal of our kids—especially those in low-income and rural areas—is a disgrace.

Do better. Our children deserve it.

Donna Brewton

My privilege of voting

Mountain Home, TX

House Members,

Please do not throw our public school students under the bus b/c of Abbotts very misguided leadership. Don't be bullied. You will be supported in doing the right thing by your school children & their parents.

Wendy Graves

Retired Educator

Richards, TX

No to vouchers! Just NO!

Ryan Meyer

Self

Dallas, TX

I am a proud graduate of Texas public schools, which gave both my sister and I the education we needed to succeed and pull ourselves up by our bootstraps into the middle class. Our public schools exposed me to the wider world, taught me the skills I needed to succeed in college and law school, and helped me develop into an active and informed member of our society. I absolutely oppose any effort to weaken our great public schools, which have pulled generations of Texans out of poverty and made the Texas miracle possible.

Adrienne Chevalier

Texas Public School

Schertz, TX

Say NO to Vouchers! Fully fund public schools! Stop holding our teachers & students hostage!

Katrina Holihan

Na

Frisco, TX

I support well funded public education. I do not support tax dollars going to families that choose to send their kids to expensive private schools. We are already seeing cuts being made to valuable programs in our district and it will just get worse with vouchers. Privatizing serves very few in the community. Tax dollars should be used to fund schools accessible by all. I will not vote for anyone that supports taking funding away from our schools

Haroon Monis

NISD Teacher

San Antonio, TX

Whatever name you resurrect this bill with time after time will never change the fact that Vouchers are a scam. I'm a public school teacher, and I want money invested into public schools where students thrive and learn to become productive citizens of our society. Vote NO on HB 3! Public dollars belong in public schools!

Rebecca Jones

Self - retired college educator

McAllen, TX

Please vote NO to vouchers.

Please vote YES to fund Texas public schools and teacher retirement plans adequately.

Jeffrey Dravis

Self

Houston, TX

I am firmly opposed to this bill. The Constitution clearly defines the separation of church and state. I firmly believe in public education and want all of my tax dollars devoted to its support and actual improvement. Christian nationalists (aka American Taliban?) are not the majority and have no right to force our tax dollars to support private (aka "christian") education in this state.

Anne Marie Barrera, Mrs.

Self teacher

Houston, TX

My name is Anne Marie Barrera, and I live in zip code 77084. Thank you for serving on the public education committee. I ask that you vote no to HB3, SB2, or any voucher/ESA bill and instead prioritize fully funding public schools first by enrollment rather than attendance, increase the basic allotment by $1300 to catch up with inflation, and support strong teacher and staff pay raises. This bill allows people making above $160,000 to apply such that the richest families may benefit. Our tax dollars should support all students, not just a select few. Please prioritize strong public schools for all Texas children.

Thank you for your time.

Bethany Watts

self- school librarian

Plano, TX

I am writing to urge you to oppose any school voucher plan that would divert taxpayer dollars from public schools to private institutions. As a dedicated public school employee, I witness firsthand the challenges our schools face due to ongoing budget cuts, increasing class sizes, and even school closures. The approval of a school voucher system would only exacerbate these issues, further weakening the foundation of our public education system and harming the vast majority of Texas children who rely on it.

Public schools serve all students, regardless of their background, ability, or financial means. They are the bedrock of our democracy, providing equal opportunities for children to learn, grow, and succeed. By contrast, private schools have the ability to pick and choose their students, often excluding those with disabilities, behavioral challenges, or lower academic performance. Funding private institutions with public dollars effectively creates an inequitable system where taxpayer money benefits a select few rather than the vast majority of Texas students.

Furthermore, there is no conclusive evidence that school vouchers improve academic outcomes. In fact, research from states that have implemented voucher programs has shown mixed or even negative results, with many students performing worse in private schools than their public school counterparts. If Texas truly values education, we must focus on strengthening our public schools rather than diverting funds to private entities that are not held to the same standards of accountability and transparency.

Public school funding in Texas is already stretched thin. Approving a voucher system would take desperately needed resources away from schools that are already struggling to provide essential services, pay competitive salaries to teachers, and maintain safe and effective learning environments. Instead of funding private schools, we should be investing in initiatives that enhance public education—such as reducing class sizes, increasing teacher pay, updating curriculum and technology, and expanding mental health services for students.

I understand the appeal of school choice, but true choice exists within a well-funded public education system where all children—regardless of their socioeconomic status—have access to quality learning environments. School vouchers would undermine this principle and hurt the very students who need support the most.

As your constituent, I strongly urge you to vote against any voucher plan and instead advocate for policies that strengthen and support our public schools. Texas children deserve better than a system that diverts funds from public education in favor of private interests.

I am writing to urge you to oppose any school voucher plan that would divert taxpayer dollars from public schools to private institutions. As a dedicated public school employee, I witness firsthand the challenges our schools face due to ongoing budget cuts, increasing class sizes,

Carl Hooper
Self - Band Director
Abilene, TX

Respectfully, please do what is right for ALL students. Vote NO to vouchers. There is no way that the voucher plan benefits all students. Tax dollars that are allocated for public education should not be withheld from public education and funneled directly into private schools via vouchers. It cannot be "school choice" when only a select few would be able to receive and use them. Also, "school choice" only seems to be in the hands of the schools in which the vouchers are wished to be used. When a school can turn down special needs students, special education students, those that even might have behavioral problems, and even perhaps turn down students due to gender, race, or financial income, the real power of "school choice" is held by those schools that would be accepting vouchers. Furthermore, private schools are located in urban areas. Private schools are rare in rural areas. Over half of the Texas counties do not have private schools, therefore, does the majority really benefit from "school choice"? I'm concerned that this bill will harm public education even further than what has already been done. I am also concerned that the bill elevates private schools above public schools in the way that they are unequally funded. As far as morality goes, it seems that this bill takes money from the poor and would benefit the already wealthy. I question whether this bill is in line with the Texas Constitution. Please, listen to your constituents. Please do what is best for ALL Texas students and vote no for this bill! Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Carl Hooper

Irma Juarez
Self
Red Oak, TX

I am a school counselor in a public school, in a rural district in Texas and I am against HB3. Public funds belong in public schools and should not be diverted to private schools. It does not matter that they are currently coming from the "general fund," as that is still taxpayer money. Just like SB2, this is also a terrible bill that does a disservice to the millions of students and hundreds of thousands of teachers in the public school system. It will continue to contribute to the deficit in funding our public-school districts have been facing for many years. Today it is $1 billion but over the next few years, where will that money come from? We will not always have a surplus of funds. In fact, that surplus belongs to taxpayers, and our public schools. Parents have a choice on where to enroll students, public, charter, online, private, or homeschool, it is up to them. There are zero private schools in the rural city I work in; this does not benefit a single one of my students or their families. Greg Abbott has been the governor of Texas for 10 years, and under his watch, and his appointees, he has undermined Public Schools by allowing unqualified people with no experiences in classrooms to head the TEA, placed mandates on districts without the funding to support these requirements, and withheld public funding from schools due to not passing vouchers in the last session. All of these things culminated together, plus inflation, cause budget shortfalls across districts which leads districts being short staffed, public schools to close, increased number of students per class, the cutting of special programs and extracurriculars, and a high level of stress among educators and students. HB3 will not solve these issues. HB3 will make these problems worse over time. Our students have fantastic teachers, who love students, who teach the curriculum set forth by the state, despite a student's ability, special needs, or family background. This is not about "school choice," but about the profiting of private companies who are already lobbying in Austin to get the $50 million up for grabs if this bill passes. Anything related to education in Texas should be about fully funding our public schools so that we may have those smaller class sizes, provide all of the special education/504 services in the best environment for our students with an appropriate number of staff members. It is about fully funding our public schools so we can provide fine arts, sports, expand our CTE programs and Dual credit programs for students. We have been doing so much with less and less. It is time we do more, with more. No to HB3 and fully fund our public schools.

Laura Atlas

Self

Austin, TX

I would like to express my strong opposition to HB3. As a former teacher and parent of children who graduated from public schools in Austin, I believe that HB3 will defund public education, establishing a two tier system that would allow wealthy, urban/suburban families to get money to pay for private schools that they can already afford while poor/middle income families and rural families would still not have access even with the voucher payments. The United States stands out in the world because of our public education system and defunding it through the voucher system would have detrimental impacts for poor, middle income, and rural kids in Texas. I implore you to NOT send HB3 out of committee.

Kimberley Mendez

Self/librarian

Pflugerville, TX

HB 3 is a disservice for all of our children in Texas. Public money should not support private schools which don't have the same regulations as public schools. There is and always should be a separation of church and state! Families already have school choice- they can go anywhere they want: public schools, charter schools, home school, or private. Most public schools also allow in-district transfers as well as out of district transfers. That right there is a lot of choice! Public education is not even properly funded and hasn't been for the past 20 years! Texas needs to do right for the 95% of students who attend public schools and not cater to the 5% who can already afford private school tuition. What happens to the money when the private school kicks out the student in September or October? Does the private school get to keep the $10,000 for the year even though the child only stayed for 1 month? That child will return to the public school that cannot kick him out but now, without the funds that should follow him. In order for a private school to receive that money- the student needs to attend for 8 months out of the 9 month school year. Something needs to be done so public schools are not left out in the cold, like we have been for the past 10+ years.

Also, fully fund public education and give ALL people in education a proper raise of $10,000; don't limit it to rural or urban areas. It costs more to live in urban areas in the first place.

Britt Spears

Self/Ex Teacher principal

Lubbock, TX

I support public tax dollars going to public schools not private schools.

Keep Dunn/Wilkes out of state government!!!!

Follow the money!!!

Kristy Smith, Mrs.

Self, writer

Fulshear, TX

I fervently disprove of the voucher program. I am 100% in support of fully-funded public education. The vouchers will not help those who actually need the help and they will end up hurting students who need the support, as well as forcing tax-payers to pay more and get less in the process. The voucher bill DOES NOT have my support. Thank you.

Abigail Forster, Miss

Self

Houston, TX

Reallocating the tax dollars currently going to the public school system, while an interesting idea, would be highly damaging in the long run. Public school systems already struggle with the lack of funds, and giving the money to the student/the student's family gives those students the opportunity to not go to school and use the money in the wrong way. In addition, most people who choose private school or tuition schools can afford the tuition without help, and removing those funds from public school means that people who can't afford expensive private school tuitions will be forced into a less funded, and likely failing school system.

Della Richhart

Self

Spring, TX

Dear Committee Members, I am writing to voice my concern over the creation of education savings accounts. I am a parent and I am also an educator. I have 18 years of service in public schools with the majority of that time serving students who receive special education services. I am deeply disappointed that our representatives have not seen fit to support our public schools with the funds and respect that they deserve. Instead, we see representatives turning a blind eye to the needs of the majority of Texas children as they lean on creating another level of government bureaucracy instead of working collaboratively to fix the problems in the existing system. Please consider the damage ESAs will do to our public schools and truly listen to what your constituents are telling you. Our public system should be your first priority not a second system that picks and chooses which Texas children are worth the effort.

Thank you.

Sarah Hawthorne

Self

Austin, TX

Opposed strongly as a mother of children in Austin ISD. Get your stuff together!

Jacy Roach

Self

Mineral Wells, TX

Vouchers are not what Texas kids need. They need funded public education. Vouchers are not working well in the states that have already adopted them. Why would we think they would help our Texas kids? Texas has great public schools. Give us adequate funding and let us help kids.

Mark Palma

Self

Kerens, TX

I am for school choice.

Karol Rainwater

Self

Dougherty, TX

Please vote against any bill supporting vouchers. I live in a rural area without a private school close. Also vouchers would take away money from public schools which are very unfunded.

Gabriella Nissen

self

Houston, TX

I support public schools and oppose HB3.

Michelle Affek

Self

rowlett, TX

The Texas HB3 bill presents significant concerns for the future of public education in the state. Firstly, the bill reduces funding for critical educational programs, which threatens to limit access to quality education, especially for vulnerable and underserved students. By cutting funds for essential services like special education and after-school programs, HB3 exacerbates existing inequalities and fails to invest in the long-term success of Texas' students.

Secondly, HB3 undermines local control of education by centralizing decision-making at the state level, effectively removing the ability of local school districts, educators, and parents to have a say in the direction of their schools. This top-down approach disregards the unique needs of individual communities, making it harder to address specific challenges and provide tailored solutions.

Finally, HB3 prioritizes standardized testing over the overall well-being of students, shifting the focus away from developing critical thinking, creativity, and emotional intelligence. The bill creates a high-pressure environment for students and educators, further exacerbating issues like teacher burnout and mental health challenges. By emphasizing test scores over a well-rounded education, HB3 fails to address the core issues of the Texas education system, such as underfunding, overcrowded classrooms, and a lack of support for teachers.

Oske Buckley

Self, Administrative

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill because every child deserves the right to a quality public education that is fair and empowering, regardless of background. Our public schools must be fully funded and equipped to help all students succeed. Public funding should directly support public education, not be diverted to exclusive program serving only select groups. With this bill, students with disabilities risk losing critical protections provided under state and federal laws when utilizing voucher programs to attend private schools. Please oppose this bill and uphold quality public education for all.

Susan Holland

Self, retired teacher

Austin, TX

Vouchers will create a new entitlement in the state, and will be an increasingly expensive budget item no matter what comes to the Texas boom and bust economy. We fund public education as a benefit to the state and the communities of the state, not as an entitlement to individual families.

David Hepler

Self

Katy, TX

I am absolutely opposed to collecting tax dollars from the public for education and channeling those tax dollars into the pockets of unaccountable private citizens (in the case of homeschooling) or private corporations (as in the case of private schools).

If parents are given the choice to choose to homeschool or send their children to private schools and collect public education tax dollars for doing so, taxpayers who are no longer sending their children to school should be afforded the option to opt out of paying tax dollars into the public education system.

Toni Valle

Self teacher

Houston, TX

I am a houston Texas resident and university professor. I do not support school vouchers. Texas tax money should support public schools only.

Yvonne Aguirre

N/A

HOUSTON, TX

I support public schools and oppose HB3

Matt Forster

self land steward

Houston, TX

I think it's outrageous that the state continues to push this anti-education agenda. Do not use my tax money to subsidize private schools and charter schools! After continually underfunding our public education system, the fix is not to hand over the reins of education to for-profit organizations that are solely motivated by the opportunity to skim more money away from our kids. I've heard this non-stop whine about "giving parents control" for decades. This is why we have school boards. It didn't make sense in the '80s and it doesn't make sense now. It's very clear that the politicians behind this are solely driven by the millions of dollars that are pouring into their pockets from rich donors. And if rich donors are willing to spend that much money to buy the governor and push this agenda, you know it's bad for the people of Texas.

If the people in leadership cared more about the communities they serve than the money they can make in office, we'd be far better off.

Ramiro Flores, Mr.

Self

Round Rock, TX

I believe funding public schools is essential. Fund the schools at the proper level first before any taxpayer dollars are sent to private schools. Vouchers do not give individuals the choice that is being claimed. Private schools don't have to accept everyone so they can be selective of who they register to their schools. They don't have to provide the same services as public schools. Their students don't have to take the state standardized tests. Most don't require certified teachers. All vouchers will do is subsidize families who can already afford to send their children to private schools. The less affluent families will still not be able to afford private schools even with vouchers. If vouchers are provided to private schools require them to comply with the same rules that apply to public schools. Then you can claim that vouchers give choice.

James Barber

Self - Education

San Antonio, TX

I am a Texas voter and taxpayer, I do not support using public school funds to supplement private school education. This bill will destroy public schools, the backbone of the Texas economy. I do not consent to what is clearly a scam to open opportunities for poorly regulated privatized schools. A shameful cash grab at the expense of our children's future. There is intense scrutiny of public schools, but charter and homeschool families will have the opportunity to spend the hard earned tax dollars of Texans with impunity. What will become of the Texas labor market when it is known that Texas students are taught whatever ludicrous nonsense their parents religion or some corporations private school seems necessary for their indoctrination. Texas education will become a laughing s I question why anyone would seek to destroy the public school system. These forces represent billionaires trying to pry the right to a free public education from our future, and steal the tax dollars of Texans in the process. And what of the Teacher Retirement System, TRS. The vouchers scam will gut its funding, putting in jeopardy the retirements and futures of thousands of professionals who dedicated their lives to the public service of education. Consider a favorite teacher from your life, could you look them in the eye tell them you plan to rob them of their retirement to satiate a corrupt cadre of billionaires? Shame. This is still a democracy, and these are public funds, they do not belong to the members of the house. You are the stewards of this money and what you are considering here is shameful, anti-democratic, and clearly NOT what your Texas constituents want. Stand up to greed, stand up for kids, do the right thing and defeat this bill.

Karin Hall
Self
Belton, TX

I am for and in support of HB 3.

Joel McGregor
Self Denton County Precinct Chair 4217
Northlake, TX

Vote no! This is not real school choice. This is government control of private and home school. Evil!

Kristi Odom
Self - Educator
Spring, TX

Please put education savings account program on the ballot and let the people vote. Do not hide behind the veil stating that Republicans were voted in, therefore the majority of people want HB 3. That is simply not true. Our Texas Constitution states that your duty is to ensure public education is funded and successful. HB 3 will hurt public education and Texans know this to be true. A perfect solution would be to allow those that want an education savings account for their children, to be able to utilize their property tax to do so. Then politicians cannot hold taxpayer money hostage, as is being done in this situation. You are an elected politician that should care what the majority of your people want, and that is not vouchers or an educational savings account.

Sarah Watkins
Self
Allen, TX

I do not support ESA's. I do not support the allocation of my tax dollars to private schools. There is little evidence to indicate that voucher /school choice programs improve student achievement. There is evidence that these programs increase segregation.

Leslie Schrof
Self
Houston, TX

I am firmly against the school voucher programs. All Texas students deserve an education that prepares them to succeed, not just students at exclusive private schools. The Texas state constitution says our Legislature is responsible for funding our neighborhood public schools for students, not subsidizing tuition for wealthy families at exclusive private and religious schools that pick and choose who will enroll.

As a concerned Texan, I ask you to vote down any voucher scheme that diverts tax dollars from neighborhood public schools. Public dollars should stay in public schools.

Gwen Parish

self, high school math teacher

Earth, TX

Please consider this bill carefully before you vote. It does not help as many students as people would like the taxpayers to believe. Over 150 of the 254 counties in Texas do not have private school options. This includes Lamb County where I live, as well as most of the other rural counties west of I-35. Personal income in these counties does not allow families the luxury of driving their children back and forth to private schools. In addition, some of the private schools that exist do not offer high school courses.

Furthermore, it is completely inequitable to fund private schools at a higher rate per student than public schools will receive. Private schools cost more, but public schools provide many more services, such as special education, transportation, and free or reduced-price breakfast and lunch for low-income students, than private schools do. In the 35 years I've been teaching, I've seen the public school accountability system continue to raise the standards for success, and I've seen teachers and students rise to the challenge every time.

Private schools must be held to the same accountability standards as public schools if they are going to receive state funding. Safeguards to ensure that students in private schools receive an education comparable to a public school education must exist, and requiring private schools to meet the same accountability standards as public schools is a good beginning.

Brandon Hall

Self

Belton, TX

I am in support FOR HB3. This bill is necessary to allow parents the ability through ESAs to find the schooling of the parents choice.

Again, I am FOR and in support of this bill

Brandon Hall

R Whisenhunt

Self-paraprofessional

PARIS, TX

PLEASE, please, don't do this to Texas public schools! It's not working anywhere else, so why put us in this position? Please consider the amount of children enrolled in public schools as opposed to private ones, nothing about this is fair or just.

Yamini Nat, Dr

Self

Sugar land, TX

This bill will siphon funds from public schools to give to parents who are making a choice to go to private school. I am strongly against this bill

Carol John, Ms.

Self

Carrollton, TX

As a supporter of Texas public schools, I am writing to express my opinion on House Bill 3.

Texas students deserve strong, well-funded public schools. I'm asking that you ensure all schools that receive state funding are held to the same transparency requirements, accountability standards, and enrollment practices as public schools.

Thank you for your time and commitment to Texas public schools.

Kim Saunders
Self
Grapevine, TX

Keep public funds in public schools. No to vouchers

Mary Hutka
Self retired educator
Austin, TX

This is a voucher bill. I taught 31 years before I retired, my husband is a retired school administrator, and both my daughter and her husband are middle school teachers. My grandson attends a public elementary school. My family has a passion for education. In fact my great uncle and my great aunts started the first public schools in the Panhandle of Texas. Public education educates our children to be good citizens and our future leaders. Vouchers to help rich buddies of the governor run for profit schools is the worst thing that could happen to the state of Texas. Education for the wealthy only? Elitist! Racist! Narcissistic! Vouchers would create a permanent uneducated poverty class. Texas would sink.

Elsie Colwell
Self Retired
Houston, TX

Public schools should be Fully Funded before any discussion of vouchers is attempted. Teachers haven't received raises for years and schools need infrastructure and equipment improvements. Public schools also have to meet standards that private schools do not, in addition to educating special needs students. Public schools need to be fully funded for areas of the state where private schools are unavailable. Please do not abandon public school education. The majority of Texans are not in favor of any type of voucher program, so please do not fail to truly represent the majority of your constituents.

Erin Bickham
Self- Former Teacher
Corp Christi, TX

For the sake of millions of students in Texas, I strongly oppose HB3. This type of bill has been largely unsuccessful in other states and has added weight to an already strained public school system. More students would benefit from well funded public schools and supported teachers. The choice should be to make public schools better not continue to insult well meaning teachers for the sake of billionaire donors.

Sarah Wells
Self
Beaumont, TX

Every student deserves public education. Our communities deserve publicly educated kids. Our children's education should not be for profit.

Deanna Seigler
Self
Denton, TX

Put this to a vote by the people. We do NOT want this. Fund the schools you have!

Charles Farmer
self
Austin, TX

Against HB 3. It doesn't matter how you dress it up: you can put lipstick on the pig, but it won't change the smell of the sty

Christi LaMarca
Self
McKinney, TX
VOTE NO

Salazar Azania
Self
Pearland, TX

We the people have zero interest in establishing the education savings account program. Fully fund public schools. Our citizens and the future of our country deserves it. Our legacy as a country depends on it.

Pearla Romero
Self
San Antonio, TX

I do not want my tax dollars going towards vouchers. If parents want to send their children to a religious school, that's on their dime. If parents want to send their children to a school with specific curriculum/philosophy, that's on their dime. Parents already have some flexibility within the public school system that is enough and fair. To take away money from public schools for private schools is not fair and it's theft of my tax dollars. Taxes are for public institutions, not private.

Lucero Escalera
Self
Brownsville, TX

I oppose Education Savings Accounts under HB 3. Vouchers take critical funding away from public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas students, and divert taxpayer money to private schools that lack accountability and do not have to serve all students.

Instead of funding private education with public dollars, we should focus on fully funding our public schools, supporting teachers, and ensuring all students—regardless of zip code or income—have access to a high-quality education. Please prioritize strengthening our public schools, not undermining them with voucher schemes.

cameron kuehne
Self
Austin, TX

I am against public school vouchers. This will undermine the public school system and ultimately fail the common child in Texas. We can't let this pass for the future of public schools. If you vote yes you hate children.

Erica Bryant
Self
Spring, TX

I live in The Woodlands, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Amy Gamblin
Public Schools
Pampa, TX

As a school employee, in a small town in the Texas Panhandle, with 14 years as a teacher, I would like to plea for all to reconsider the school vouchers. As it stands, public school is WAY under funded, teacher are WAY underpaid, and passing the vouchers is a way to wreck public education! My town has 2 options for "private schools". One of which is a Christian school and the other offers core subjects as a part time (they do not go all day or 5 days a week. We already have many parents pulling students for "home schooling". However, in all experiences that I have been apart of, all these students come back to public school being way behind their age and grade level peers. This will not make Texas students better! This will be taking educational opportunities away from the MAJORITY of Texas students whom attend public school. Shame on our Governor for pushing for something so detrimental to the children of our state!

Stephany Lopez
Self
Brownsville, TX Against

Pamela Laflin, ms
Positive Advocates for Voter Engagement
Houston, TX

I am opposed to vouchers or ESAs in any form. It is most important that the 5.5 million public school student receive a comprehensive, well-rounded education - important for the economic health of Texas, as well the general health of the population. Data from studies of vouchers show that drain funds from public schools, fail low-performing students, and decrease the interaction of all populations of students together. Please fully fund public schools, support choice within the public school system, and make sure the majority of Texas students (which are those in the public school system) thrive in their school environment.

Ben Wright, School Board Trustee
Sunnyvale ISD
Sunnyvale, TX

Just opposed to the voucher program. Trying to save our public schools and vouchers take public school funding and my three kids are left to suffer. Please consider public schools first!

Sheree Felan
Self - Customer Success Manager
Richland Hills, TX

I implore you to vote against HB3. Fully funding our public schools is the only way to establish a foundation for making improvements, and reallocating our tax dollars away from public schools is negligent and dangerous. We are counting on you to be brave and do what's best for ALL kids.

Whitney Thomas
Self
Round Rock, TX

I am writing to the committee as a resident of Williamson County and as a former public school teacher. Vouchers take away money from our already underfunded public schools. Please help support public school teachers who are tirelessly working hard to teach our future leaders. Please help support our children who desperately need these funds to have a chance at being a productive citizen in our community. I ask that you do not pass this bill and support our public schools.

Julie Juul, Retired teacher

Self

Arlington, TX

This bill benefits only the few families who would like to embellish the tuition of their children to private a school. The majority of Texas kids will not benefit, and as a result, the education of too many Texas children will suffer. In the end, the state of Texas suffers because our population will be less educated. Who does that benefit?

Please consider the long term implications of this bill and vote no to vouchers.

Rachel Murphree

self, HR professional

Cedar Park, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students. Increase the basic allotment, fully fund public schools, and base funding on enrollment versus attendance.

Thank you.

Kristina Santos

Yourself

Austin, TX

Pass

Marisa Barnett

restaurant manager / self

Austin, TX

I am AGAINST a school voucher program. A VAST majority of Texans on both sides of the aisle are, as well. When will the people who represent all of us listen?

Monica Williams

Self

Cedar park, TX

Vote NO

Jennifer Simons

Self

Houston, TX

I am a voter, a parent of special needs foster and adoptive children, a former educator, and a high net worth individual with multiple properties subject to property taxes. And I beg representatives to oppose HB 3. Our public schools and children need more support, not less. Most private schools are not equipped to serve our children, and those that can are far more expensive than any voucher will support. We do not want Texas to become New Orleans where only the wealthy can access decent education. The stability of our society depends on our children getting a good quality public education. We already don't have enough teachers, supplies, or technology—please do not cut off the life blood of our democracy.

Melissa Rankin, RN

Self

Houston, TX

SB2/HB3 weakens local schools, and wastes taxpayer money without any accountability. It strips rural schools of funding, could send tax dollars to religious or controversial private schools, and violates the Texas Constitution's duty to public education. NO to SB2 & HB3!

Michelle Sandoval

Self

PFLUGERVILLE, TX

We are a middle class family. My husband and I both work. Even if we were given $10,000 per year, we could still not afford private school for our child. I beg if you, think of all the children that are in the same predicament we are! Leave the school vouchers alone and give money to the public schools so PTO doesn't have to do fundraising for the children.

Susan Catlett, Ph.D, BCBA-D, LBA, Dr.

Self

Houston, TX

I have been in special education for 33 years. If you support this bill, then special education children will continue to receive less and less support and fewer teachers. We are already struggling to find qualified staff.

barbara raley

self office clerk

Carrollton, TX

We need to support our Public School not defund them. This bill along with HB2 costs will escalate far beyond original estimates, creating massive funding gaps that disproportionately harm public schools as it has clearly done in other states. #HB2 / #HB3 sets the stage for similar expansion in Texas, risks following the same trajectory, jeopardizing the state's long-term education budget and straining financial resources. VOTE NO

S. E. Williams, Ms.

Self/Retired

Stafford, TX

I oppose HB 3! Public opposition to vouchers is growing. According to the Quorum Report, a recent survey shows that roughly two-thirds of voters oppose "a private school voucher program that takes tax dollars away from local public schools to subsidize a student's private school education.

Alison Monnich

Special Education Teacher AHISD

San Antonio, TX

I am a special education teacher at Alamo Heights high school in San Antonio, Texas. Please say no to vouchers as they will harm the state of our public education.

Angela Hawkins

Self

Allen, TX

Say no to vouchers! Fund public schools! We do not want an education savings account. STOP holding funding hostage to push an agenda we don't want!

Shonda Dogan

Self

Arlington, TX

Dear Representative,

As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want an Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) Program. I pay my public tax dollars and, therefore, want my money to Fund Public Schools in Texas. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children and all the educators, and staff, deserve to have the funding. To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

? I do NOT want vouchers/ESAs.

? I support an Increase of the Basic Allotment.

? I support Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflation of over 20%.

Again, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools (not private schools) in the State of Texas.

Sincerely

Suzanne Richmond

Self

Bedford, TX

Please vote no for HB 3.

Brendan Roth

self

Fort Worth, TX

Dear Representatives,

As a Texan who benefited from public education, and who is a public school educator, I am strongly opposed to the "School Vouchers" proposed. Legislation impacting local education should truthfully reflect the core mission of the Texas Education Code to "ensure all children have access to a quality education that enables them to achieve their potential and participate fully in the social, economic, and educational opportunities of the state and nation." School vouchers undermine this mission.

Even with an extra $10,000, many families will still be unable to afford private school. For families struggling to meet basic needs, this amount will not make private school a viable option. In states where school voucher systems have been implemented, private school tuition has often increased. $10,000 is insufficient for working-class families. Furthermore, private schools are not required to provide transportation. This poses significant challenges for working parents, particularly in rural areas of Texas some of which lack private schools entirely.

In this nation, every child has the right to a fair and sufficient education. The rule of law must therefore ensure every child has fair and sufficient access. A move in favor of the voucher system, empowering private institutions with the ability to discriminate in their admissions, undermines this right. Private schools can choose who to admit, meaning children with learning disabilities, behavioral challenges, or those who don't fit the school's culture may be turned away. Public schools, however, are required to accept all students and are committed to supporting them.

Additionally, private schools are not mandated to provide special education services. When they do, students must be sent to public schools for evaluation and accommodations, using public school resources. Under the voucher system, public funds would be diverted to children from wealthier families, who often already have access to private schooling. It is well-documented that in states with voucher systems, over 75% of funds go to families already enrolled in private schools, indicating that the program primarily benefits the wealthy.

Moreover, private schools are not required to administer state tests like STAAR, raising questions about accountability. Without certified teachers, we cannot be certain these schools provide quality education. As constituents and parents on various ends of the political spectrum would agree, children do not go to school to be indoctrinated. Quality education does not impose specific religious doctrine or dogma. Dedicated public educators acknowledge that the role of public education is to nurture and enrich young minds to think critically and independently.

School vouchers would only serve to harm economically disadvantaged and working class children and deepen social divides. If you truly care about Texans, support Public School.

Autumn Chim

Self

Austin, TX

My name is Autumn Chim. I am a resident of Austin, Texas; I am a stay-at-home mother of twin toddlers and a former cardiac surgery physician assistant. I respectfully oppose HB 3, which diverts essential funding from our under-resourced public schools into Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) that fund private school tuition, homeschooling, and other educational expenses.

HB 3 would shift state funds from public schools (where over 90% of Texas students learn) to private institutions. Our schools depend on per-pupil funding, and every student who leaves the public system means fewer resources for teacher salaries, supplies, special education, and support services. With Texas ranking 43rd in per-student funding nationwide, further cuts could worsen challenges, particularly in rural areas with few alternatives.

Evidence from other states is concerning. In Indiana, Louisiana, and Ohio, voucher and ESA programs have been linked to significant declines in reading and math scores. A 2019 study in Florida found that many ESA participants were already in private schools, meaning the program largely benefits those who can already afford such options. In Arizona, similar programs have been associated with financial fraud and mismanagement due to weak oversight, risking our children's academic progress.

Public schools are held to strict accountability standards, including adherence to state curriculum, standardized testing, and financial transparency. Under HB 3, private schools receiving ESA funds would not be required to meet these standards. They could reject students based on special needs or behavioral issues and are not mandated to report performance data, leaving parents and policymakers without essential information about educational quality.

Moreover, while HB 3 is promoted as a means to empower low-income families, most private schools in Texas charge tuition that far exceeds the value of an ESA. Coupled with the urban concentration of many private schools, this policy may widen the educational divide, leaving low-income and rural students with even fewer opportunities.

The Texas Constitution mandates that the Legislature "establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools." Diverting funds to private institutions without robust accountability undermines this commitment. I urge you to reject HB 3 and instead invest in strengthening our public schools — ensuring every Texas child, regardless of background, has access to a high-quality education.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Allyse Pixton

Self

Austin, TX

I am against HB 3 - I am against school vouchers. It would be a mistake to take funds from public schools who serve all (the poor, the children with special needs, children from unstable homes), and give it to children in private school- who do not have to admit everyone or meet all the state requirements that public schools have to meet. Historically, vouchers have gone to children already attending private school, therefore subsidizing their tuition. Many families live in counties that don't have a private school so this wouldn't even be an option for them. Children who switch to private schools from public schools often decline academically. Voucher programs in other states are very costly and the cost just keeps increasing- would the high cost come from taking more money from public schools or should we expect more taxes? It seems the this house bill 3 is being pushed by our governor who has been underfunding our public schools and taking unprecedented amounts of money from an out of state billionaire who wants this bill passed. Why? It is shameful to allow greed and personal political gain come before those who are most needy and deserving- our public school children. Please vote NO on school vouchers- as we have done in the past- and stop bringing this bill up. We do not want it.

Diana Firley
Self
Garland, TX

My name is Diana Firley, and I strongly oppose HB 3 by Representative Buckley. This bill undermines public education and will have lasting consequences for students, teachers, and the future of our state.

By driving more teachers out of the profession, HB 3 will not only harm classroom learning but also weaken the Teacher Retirement System, affecting those who have dedicated their lives to educating our children. If there is money available for school savings accounts, then there is money to properly fund our public schools so they can reach their full potential. Holding education funding hostage to push through legislation is a direct attack on the thousands of students who rely on public schools. It demonstrates a blatant disregard for the backbone of our education system and the educators who serve our communities.

I am a mother of four, and I believe parents should have the right to choose the best education for their children. My older children have attended private school—that was my personal choice and financial responsibility. Taxpayers should not be forced to fund my decision. My younger children, who have special needs, rely on public schools because they offer the specialized services they require. With the current administration working to dismantle the Department of Education, federal funding for these critical services is at risk. If vouchers pass, students like mine—who depend on public education—may lose essential resources. And given the governor’s willingness to manipulate school funding, my children, like many others, could still be shortchanged by an already underfunded system.

I urge legislators to reject HB 3 and instead focus on fully funding public schools, supporting teachers, and ensuring that every student—regardless of their needs—has access to a high-quality education. Public schools are the foundation of our state’s future, and it is our duty to invest in them, not undermine them. Thank you.

Patricia Gouldy
Self
Arlington, TX

Now is the time to make your voice heard on

“I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.”

Stop the madness and support our local school districts, public schools need your help!!

Naomi Haught
Self
The Woodlands, TX

Please do not take away money from our already underfunded public schools so your rich donors get a private school tuition break.

David Hillin
Self
Abilene, TX

I believe my tax dollars belong in and for our public schools. It will be a tragedy to take money from our already underfunded public schools. My son deserves better. Our kids deserve better.

Ivana Brata

self

Allen, TX

I strongly oppose the "Education Savings Account" voucher scheme. No matter how enticing you package it, it still diverts public funds away from public schools, undermining the education of 90% of Texas students. It gives the false impression of school choice while placing the real decision-making power in the hands of private schools, not parents.

Our Plano ISD alone could lose up to $19.6 million under this bill, devastating our community. Public funds should support public schools, not be funneled into unregulated private institutions. This bill diverts $1 billion to benefit just 1% of Texas students, while public schools struggle with overcrowding, underpaid teachers, and outdated facilities. Instead of funding private tuition, these resources should go toward improving education, teacher salaries, and infrastructure.

The teachers in Plano ISD are among the best—dedicated professionals who view their work as a calling. Yet, over the past 3–4 years, our elementary school has lost an alarming number of excellent educators. Competitive pay raises are essential because great teachers shape the future of our children. In addition to teacher shortages, class sizes have swelled to the brink, making it increasingly difficult for educators to provide the attention each student deserves. Compounding the challenge, there has been a noticeable rise in student aggression, leaving many teachers struggling to manage classrooms effectively. To set both students and teachers up for success, we must provide better training, smaller class sizes, and the resources they need. Investing in teachers is investing in our children's future.

We have also watched valuable programs disappear in our school, including Accelerated Reader (AR)—a program that inspires a love of reading by rewarding students for tracking their progress. Its removal was devastating for many young readers, including my daughter. These cuts hurt students, and we must prioritize keeping meaningful programs in our schools.

Public schools are in crisis, yet Texas ranks among the lowest in per-student funding despite being the second-richest state. Redirecting public funds to private schools will only worsen this crisis. Out-of-state billionaires shouldn't dictate Texas education. Keep public dollars in public schools.

Dana Harp

Self- Public School Teacher

Sulphur Springs, TX

Done

SB2/HB3 grows government, weakens public schools, and gives taxpayer money with zero accountability to private schools and entities. It robs all public schools of funding, and sends our tax dollars to religious or controversial private schools which violates the Texas Constitution's duty to public education and the separation of church and state. Say NO to SB2 & HB3!!

Yvette Benavides

Self

San Antonio, TX

This bill should not be passed. My tax money should not be utilized to fund private schools. This bill is wrong and does not protect those who need it most. Separation of church and state must continue. This bill is wrong. Do the right thing, keep our tax dollars with public school.

Jacqui Dunleavy

Self

Austin, TX

Vouchers will defund our neighborhood schools. Even the smallest voucher program being proposed would result in millions of dollars drained from our schools. I want all Texas children to have a shot at a fair education, but public school going children won't get that chance if funds are being divested to private schools. It won't be fair for Texas children, the majority of them go to a public school.

Mary Lobb, Mrs.

Self

Irving, TX

Please do not pass HB3 or any legislation that contains vouchers, ESAs or subsidies for private education. The people of Texas do not want this, only legislators do. It is not what is best for children or for school districts. If it were put to a vote, it would not pass. Represent the people and vote this down.

Patricia Edelmann

Concerned citizen- self/ educator

Austin, TX

I ask you to prioritize fully funding public schools and oppose HB3, SB2 and any voucher / ESA bill. As a property owner, citizen and educator of Texas, I strongly believe public dollars should stay in public schools. I have taught at private schools most of my career and know first hand that they are adequately funded with tuition and endowments. The voucher program is truly just a tax break for parents already affording private schools. Our public schools in Texas are embarrassingly underfunded and exist to support all the children of the great state of Texas. Please do right by our children and families and fully fund the public schools and do not take from a system that is already under resourced. To educate our future leaders we must have teachers who are empowered and supported by the community. This voucher campaign to hurts our teachers and community schools not merely by taking much needed funds but also by sending them a message that they do not matter. Let's work together to lift up our community schools. Thank you.

Mellany Lamb

Self

Flower Mound, TX

School Choice as written attaches government conditions, grows government by creating another taxpayer funded entitlement. An entitlement that only serves 100K students out of 5.5 million that attend public schools. At a price tag of a $1B. The math doesn't math.

Please go back to the drawing board and create a bill that provides and supports parental rights over their child(ren)'s educational choice that best fits their personal needs via a TAX EXEMPTION. A tax exemption never touches the government coffers, therefore, providing accountability, too.

Thank you.

Emily Doherty

Self

San Antonio, TX

I am a 3rd generation graduate of public schools who has children currently attending public school. I have no plans to change where they attend. I chose public school because it was affordable and quality education. Teachers, admin and staff at public schools care so much about their students, truly like they are their own children. I oppose HB3 and oppose school vouchers. HB3 will NOT give more students the " choice" to go to "better" schools. HB3 will strip resources from our already underfunded public schools and harm those who need the public education system the most. In addition, the rural areas of our state rely on public schools as the best and sometimes only option for education.

I would only support hb3 if it was amended to include giving all students the option to have their voucher go to any education facility, public, charter, private or home. Increasing the allotment for public school students would allow our public schools to continue to provide quality education and pay teachers what they deserve.

Vote NO to HB3. Give public schools the funding they deserve!

Vanessa Valenzuela

Self

Seguin, TX

This bill is awful. This is not a fair bill that takes all families into consideration. We need something better that would actually focus on helping everyone not just a select few.

Christina Wolf

Self - self employed Lab Technical Consultant

Frisco, TX

My husband and I are strongly opposed to this bill. This is not school choice. Our public schools are good overall and need support. Private school is VERY expensive. We qualify under the 500% poverty line and there is absolutely no way we can afford to send our children to school for one year, let alone a full education. Private schools in the Dallas area range from $25k-$42k per year. Giving us $10k does not open up any choice us. But that $10k can be given to any income and since many already afford private school, it will likely go to these individuals and give taxpayer money to the wealthy. The vouchers are not only bad but government officials have basically been "bought" by outside billionaires like Jeff Yass. I've heard that "our schools are failing our kids" but never heard this by a parent with a kid in public school or any teachers, this is all just a mystery talking point. I've also heard that this bill will encourage public schools to do better to retain students. This is nonsensical. Giving money to private schools does not help fix public schools. Private schools don't have to offer special Ed, get to pick who they take, have waiting lists already, are allowed to discriminate, don't have the same standards for teachers or students, don't provide transportation, don't provide reduced and free lunches, have non-refundable thousand dollar application fees. Additionally, numerous counties in Texas do not even have private schools. This is not a "choice" for many families. Also, private schools don't seem strapped for cash. Prestonwood Christian Academy is hosting a gala and the highest sponsorship tier is $100,000 for 2 tables of seats. There are 4 of these Premier sponsorships available. When you look at the full seating chart, they are pulling in 1 million dollars from sponsors just on seating for this one night gala. This is not who needs funding. They already provide scholarships to those who need and want it Please listen to the teachers, the parents, and the general public. No taxpayer money should be given to private schools. Zero. And if you do, there should be extremely strict income rules for eligibility, transportation provided, testing standards, and teacher certification requirements.

We vote in all of our local elections, presidential year or not, and we will vote against anyone and everyone who supports vouchers in any form.

Craig Johnson, Dr.

Self

AUSTIN, TX

I want to express that I am vehemently opposed to the passage of HB 3. I am fully in support of fully funded public educational at the highest level for ALL students of Texas.

This bill is attempting to take $1 billion from Texas taxpayers and give it to wealthy families who are already sending their kids to private schools. This will come at the expense of public school education, especially in rural and remote counties (more than 150 Texas counties don't have a private school to send your kid too, even if you could afford the difference between what the voucher pays and what tuition costs!).

I cannot understand how any representative with integrity and a genuine care for Texans could possibly consider this. I urge you to vote against this bill which only the supports the wealthiest in Texas. I pray that you will each be guided by a conscience that is guided by the care for all Texans.

Dr Craig Hella Johnson

Jennifer Kimball
Self/Homemaker
Sunnyvale, TX

School vouchers are not what's best for students. Please do not vote for or pass school vouchers. School choice already exists. There is nothing conservative or republican about this! Public education is the foundation of our society. Taxpayer money should not be able to be used for people's choice to send their children to private or charter schools. Properly and sufficiently fund public schools! Support public ed! It's the right thing to do. I don't know anyone who supports vouchers. I'm the product of private schools and have nothing against them. My parents chose to send me to a private school and were able to do so. They would have never expected their fellow taxpayers to fund their choice. I'm the proud wife of a Texas public ed superintendent and am a former public elementary school secretary, and both of our children attended Texas public schools and had a great experience. Please support public schools and our Texas children!!! It's what's best for students, teachers, and all of Texas!

Kay Hopper, Ms.
Self Retired from early childhood education
Richardson, TX

I am strongly opposed to school vouchers for private schools. That funding needs to be applied to improving the public schools so all children across the state will receive improved educational benefits. Teachers and support personnel need to be paid a living wage. And supported to meet the needs of all students. Vouchers distract from improving the quality of education to supporting those who want to make money off the educational system. Additionally, the dollar amount suggested per student for the voucher will not cover the annual tuition for most private schools even if there is one in that community, particularly in rural areas of the state. Additionally, private schools can accept or reject any student. Public school needs to focus on and pay to educate all the children in Texas.

Michele W Missner, None
Self retired
Austin, TX

I am against school vouchers. I worked in public education for over 20 years. I've seen dedicated teachers work long hours, pay for school supplies for their pupils, and more. Public education has been the backbone of this country, educating immigrants from many countries, helping to make our country a melting pot. Governor Greg Abbott is supported by west Texas billionaires. Abbott can use some of this money for vouchers. I do not want my tax money going to vouchers. We need to fully support public education economically. This is a fairly wealthy state and we can afford to pay public teachers salaries comparable to the best financially supported schools. Instead we are near the lower third. We need to make sure the teachers retirement pension is fully funded, that breakfast and lunch are provided for children in need. We should be proud of our public education, not ashamed of it. Thank you.

Diana Riha
Retired teacher
Canyon, TX

The people of Texas are speaking loudly and clearly. We do not want our public tax dollars allotted for the support of public schools to be given away to private schools. Public education is FREE to students as the law requires. Vouchers will steal monies that should be used for the benefit of all. Many areas in our state do not even have private schools, so vouchers are not consistent in what they offer. It is absolutely immoral to take money away from the majority of students and give it away to the privileged few. Every representative has sworn to represent the people who elected him or her. Pay attention to what is being blasted to you. If you choose your own selfish motives to support the vouchers you know are wrong and not supported, that is the cowardly way. You are not for the people. Please do what is right.

Rebecca Howard

Self / Texas public school children

Dallas, TX

I am a product of the Texas public school system, a public school mom, and our PTA president and I'm reaching out to implore you to vote NO on HB3 - the school voucher bill. There are a lot of sound bytes about this bill that sound good, but the devil is in the details.

HB 3 would divert crucial public education funds to private schools, which lack the same accountability and transparency as public schools. This will inevitably weaken our already underfunded public education system.

Taxpayer dollars should be invested in strengthening public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas students, rather than funding private institutions that may discriminate or lack adequate oversight.

Representative Buckley spoke at the Texas PTA Rally Day caucus, and said that public schools don't have resources to meet the needs of special needs students and that did not go over well to the audience of parents, teachers and students. Public schools are REQUIRED to meet the needs of ANY student that enrolls. It's part of what makes public school the great equalizer! And it's part of what keeps us accountable to the tax dollars we receive!

One of my fellow PTA moms and I met last week with our school's principal and teachers at their faculty meeting to talk with them about their thoughts and concerns about the potential of the bill passing. First, all our arts teachers are worried they'll no longer have employment, as many smaller districts are already cutting those programs as a result of underfunding. Second, several teachers shared experiences of special needs children being pulled out of their classrooms in favor of private school, only to return the following year because the school didn't provide the resources their child required.

Please please please vote AGAINST this bill, and fully fund our public school. The families that will most be helped by private schools vouchers can already afford to be there. Every child, regardless of zip code and property tax value of their parents' home, deserves to have a quality education, right in their neighborhood.

Think of all the rural areas without alternatives to public school! We live in a large district, but my son's cousins don't. My husband's entire side of the family lives in a town of under 30,000 where there are limited options. They shouldn't have to travel 30-60 minutes away from home for other options. That's not fair on the working parents or they children they're responsible for raising. They should be able to attend a fully funded school in their neighborhood.

Please vote NO to HB3. Don't be afraid to vote against the party line on an issue that should not even be partisan. This is an issue of equity and of valuing children and their futures.

Thank you.

Barry Newton

Self

Lubbock, TX

Vouchers are NOT what Texans want. If another option is needed then Governor Abbott should resign as he is the one in charge of education in Texas. This is a failure waiting to happen for all of us. Please stop the madness of vouchers and give Texans what they really want. Property tax relief, money to the public schools and give teachers the raise they so desperately need and deserve.

Joseph Wilson

Self

Grand Prairie, TX

I strongly, strongly oppose. I want MY tax dollars to go to public schools to strengthen them so they can hire better teachers and upgrade schools with better books and technology. I'm truly dumbfounded that Texas isn't doing more for PUBLIC schools already.

Kaitlyn Howeth

Self/Teacher, Mom, & Homeschool Educator

Sanger, TX

I am a certified teacher in the state of Texas and have taught in public & private schools from early childhood through adult education. I am also currently homeschooling my child. I am thankful for the opportunity to make informed decisions about my child's education in Texas, and I exercise this freedom as a homeschool parent. However, I am against the proposed Education Savings Account program that would remove funding from Texas public schools. Our public schools need this funding. These accounts will only benefit the wealthy and privileged by giving them a discount on expensive schooling they were already paying for. Our public schools need these funds. I am asking all representatives to oppose this bill.

Avery Cox

Self- interior designer

Austin, TX

We already have school choice in Texas and this is a scheme to gut the public school system. Texans don't support this. We support anything that makes our public school systems better. I do not want my money going to support private schools who don't play by the same rules. Its BS.

Kay Simpson

Self

Stanton, TX

Please, please do not pass the voucher account program favoring private schools and degrading public education. Not everyone can attend private schools. You are destroying public education in favor of a few and rich supporters. If you consider your reelection, you will do well to remember who elected you.

Anita Churchill

Self

Abilene, TX

I do not personally know one person who supports these vouchers. I have been a public education teacher for 23 years and know first hand how underfunded our schools are. The students that I taught in my title 1 school would not be able to use this voucher as private school costs more than the voucher allows. These students' parents couldn't even afford to buy school supplies. Please do right by all Texas children.

David Chalker

Self - Realtor

Frisco, TX

SB2/HB3 grows government, weakens local schools, and wastes taxpayer money with zero accountability. It strips rural schools of funding and violates the constitution's duty to public education. Say NO to SB2 & HB3!

Mary Webber

Self retired teacher

Wimberley, TX

My working life was spent serving the children and families of Texas as a public school teacher. I know what is at stake here. So do you. Let your conscience be your guide as you vote. You are standing on the precipice of a decision that will allow our public school system to continue or not. My hope is that you do the morally correct action and vote against giving tax payers dollars to private entities. You know the right thing to do. Do it.

Gwendolyn Wittenbrook

Self

Plano, TX

I am a Texan who does not support education savings accounts. Support the public schools with public dollars

Sierra Smith

Self - Teacher

San Antonio, TX

Hello, my name is Sierra Star Smith and I am an educator in San Antonio, TX. I have dedicated the last three years of my life to early childhood education and I feel that it is my duty to tell you today that I am against Greg Abbott's School Voucher Program. As an educator who is employed by a Title 1 public school, the community we serve has an array of diversity and inclusion that WILL go underserved if this bill is passed. Children with high needs will be swept to the side and families will suffer from the lack of resources they are unable to access. My heart aches to think of the hard work and countless hours the educators around me have provided to these children just in order for them to be heard & advocated for. The School Voucher Program will only prove to bring pain, confusion, and regret as the high rising numbers of teachers leaving will continue to go up as well as the number of children who will go underserved. Please, we can't leave these children behind. These children need us now more than ever. Our country needs teachers now more than ever. Make the right choice for our community but most importantly, make the right choice for the children. This isn't a matter up for debate. This is for the children. HB 3 is not for the children and will not receive my vote by any means. We will continue to stand, we will continue to fight, and our voice will be heard. Thank you for your time.

Mary Tsadi
Self-teacher
Frisco, TX

I have been a public high school teacher in Texas for the past 18 years, and I am extremely discouraged and angry about HB3.

For too long the leaders at the state level have done nothing to help public schools. It is unbelievable that there has not been a per-student allotment increase in state funding since 2019, considering the amount of inflation that has occurred in the last several years and yet it is our reality.

In addition to lack of funding and ongoing vilification of our profession for political gain, we now face another attack on public education by our state leaders. Instead of adequately funding public schools, the state wants to provide money to those making a choice to not send their students to public school.

I have several issues with the new bill.

First, there have been several states that have moved to this voucher system, and are now having issues with funding the program. The costs have ballooned out of control. And in these same states (such as Arizona & Oklahoma) it has been found as many as 70% of students benefiting from these vouchers were already attending private school, and could afford the cost without the voucher. It does not seem fiscally responsible as a state to fund a program that will cause our state to eventually not be able to afford our expenses.

Next, 158 out of 254 counties in our state do NOT have a private school option. So, how is this bill really promoting school choice when it's only available to the population in less than 40% of the counties in our state? Further, the Governor and those who support his dubious mission of "choice" intentionally the fact that those who DO have access to private schools will find they don't offer programs for those with learning differences, behavioral needs, significant academic needs or really any thing that doesn't photograph nicely for their brochures. While public schools are legally required to provide all needed supports for all children in their districts. We can't pick and choose. We serve them all.

Based on the State's own actuarial report, the school voucher program is putting our Teacher Retirement System funds in danger. As teachers, we are already saddled with low salaries and terrible (yet expensive) insurance. I have never understood why teachers cannot have the same ERS insurance benefits that other government employees are provided. And now, with this bill, our retirement is in danger. If you want to know why GOOD teachers are leaving the profession in Texas, it is because the state continually acts in ways to devalue teachers.

All around in our state, public school districts are having conversations about hard choices for next year -- whether to close schools, increase classroom student numbers, and reduce staff. Yet, the leaders in our state do NOTHING to help any of these situations. Instead, they want to pass vouchers that will only harm public education and refuse to fully fund our public schools. Please fund PUBLIC schools.

Gail Wright
Self
New Caney, TX

As a Texas resident 77357, I object to HB3. Public money should be spent in public schools. If vouchers are passed it will hasten the fall of quality public education, which I fear is the goal of Governor Abbott. Please vote against this bill. Texas doesn't need vouchers. It is unfair to rural Texans who do not have a private school in many counties. This bill supports urban and suburban schools at the expense of rural Texans.

Nicol Corbin Bush

Self, physician

Frisco, TX

Please don't turn us into Oklahoma with a horrible school system because of defunding public schools. How much business revenue has Oklahoma lost because no businesses want to move where schools are terrible? Is this really what Texans want? I moved to Frisco because of its excellent schools, and will certainly work to vote out anyone who actively chooses to harm our schools and teachers. Vote NO to Vouchers!!!

Claire Buck

Self/entrepreneur

Austin, TX

In opposition. HB 3 weakens Texas schools by prioritizing taxpayer-funded privatization over real investment in public education.

Shalane Heath

Self - Dental Hygienist

Wylie, TX

I am a mom of two kids who will be attending public school. I oppose HB 3. Tax payer money should be used for public schools, not private school vouchers without any accountability.

Gerald Sledge

Public Education Teacher

FORT WORTH, TX

"I stand firmly against school vouchers because every child deserves access to a strong, well-funded public education — no matter their zip code or family income. Vouchers drain critical resources from public schools and give them to private institutions that do not serve all students or meet the same accountability standards. Our public schools are the heart of our communities, and we must invest in them, not undermine them. Say NO to vouchers — and YES to great public schools for every child."

Gladys Garcia

Self; School based speech language pathologist

Victoria, TX

I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability.

Kathryn Lewis

Self

Mckinney, TX

I am against ESAs and HB3.

Crystal Carbone

Self

Pearland, TX

I am opposed to HB3.

I am a conservative voter who believes in free market values and competition, except when it comes to children. Students should not be treated like widgets in a free market where there are built in winners and losers. Isn't this exactly what many are arguing that we are trying to prevent!?!?

Are there problems in public education? Yes! Many legislative actions have handcuffed and handicapped public education in many ways. I wish we would spend more time and effort talking about that and problem solving around that instead of creating a new branch of government where the wealthy education is subsidized with our tax dollars (which is what has happened in every other state that has implemented this initiative).

Angela Powell

Self

Weatherford, TX

I believe that tax dollars should only be used for public education. Private schools and home schooling are choices for parents but tax dollars are for public schools only.

Vicki Reppert Altounian

self retired

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 and DO NOT want you to vote for vouchers. This will cause so much harm. Our students deserve better. Please fund our public schools!

Haley Hunter

Self- Public School Teacher

Wylie, TX

TX HB 3 is an unnecessary and harmful proposal. Texas already offers extensive school choice options without diverting public funds to private institutions. Public school choice exists through open enrollment policies, allowing students to transfer between districts when capacity allows. Texas also has many charter school systems statewide and magnet schools that focus on special programs giving families public options that align with their children's needs. For those seeking alternatives outside of the public system, homeschooling is always an option for families.

Diverting public funds to private schools through taxpayer-funded vouchers, as proposed in HB 3, undermines public education by reducing critical resources available to the vast majority of Texas students. Public schools, especially those in rural and low-income areas, rely on consistent funding to maintain teacher salaries, student programs, and essential services. A voucher system would primarily benefit wealthier families who can already afford private school tuition, while many rural students—who have no access to private schools—would be left with fewer resources and declining educational quality. Given the current state of education this proposed bill is increasing the uncertainty that many educators are feeling and on the campus/ district I serve, we are seeing teachers leaving to the private sector. This is a major loss for our profession and students.

Private schools do not have the same accountability and transparency requirements as public schools. They are not mandated to meet the needs of all students the way we do in public schools. Taxpayer dollars should support schools that serve all students equitably, not institutions that pick and choose whom they educate. If you are going to pass this bill without the consent of the governed, I urge you to at least add an amendment that mandates all schools take the same end of year assessment to determine state funding to institutions.

Leah Dossey

Self

Conroe, TX

As a mother of two, proud Texan, and supporter of Greg Abbott, I have to speak up and oppose this bill. This bill is not the solution to creating a legacy of well educated Texans and future leaders. Every child in this state deserves the best public education possible. Each citizen of this state deserves to have their tax dollars going ONLY to public schools. We need to invest in rural public education, teachers, facilities, and creating a well educated state. This bill does not accomplish this and is NOT in the best interest of Texas students, Texas teachers, and Texas' future. God bless Texas. God bless Texas public education.

Halston McCalla

Self

Midland, TX

This is not fair to our public school kids and teachers. This is not ok. You are taking money from Texas taxpayers and giving it to private organizations. They need to be rated just like public schools if they're taking public dollars. Giving the MAP test is not rating the school like you do for public schools. Why are private schools getting tax payer money and also skirting the rules? Public education should not be privatized. You are lining pockets of rich people. Stop this madness.

Chelsea Speir

Self-Recruiter

Magnolia, TX

I want it on the record, every record applicable, that I do not support HB 3.

Grace Thompson, Miss

Self

Beaumont, TX

No vouchers! Funding for public schools!!

Lisa Bonilla
3916 Rocky Shore Ln
Pflugerville, TX

To the Honorable Members of the Texas House Committee,

I write to you today not just as a constituent, but as a dedicated educator who has devoted over 20 years of my life to the students of Texas. I have spent my career in the classroom, in our schools, and in our communities, working to provide every child—regardless of zip code, socioeconomic status, or background—with the quality public education they deserve. I am writing in strong opposition to HB 3, which seeks to establish an education savings account (ESA) program that will siphon desperately needed public dollars from our public schools and funnel them into private institutions that operate without accountability or oversight.

This bill is nothing more than a backdoor voucher scheme that threatens to undermine the very foundation of public education in Texas. Instead of addressing the real challenges facing our public schools—chronic underfunding, teacher shortages, overcrowded classrooms, and lack of mental health resources—HB 3 chooses to prioritize private interests over public good.

Let me be clear: our public schools are the bedrock of our democracy. They serve ALL children, not just the privileged few. They welcome students with disabilities, English language learners, and those from low-income families—students that many private institutions are not required to admit or accommodate. Diverting taxpayer dollars to private schools, which are not held to the same standards of accountability as public schools, is not just fiscally irresponsible—it is morally indefensible.

Furthermore, let's not pretend that this bill expands choice. Real choice in education comes from strengthening the schools that serve the vast majority of Texas children. It comes from ensuring that teachers are paid a living wage, that classrooms are equipped with the resources they need, and that every child has access to a quality education regardless of their family's income. This bill does none of that. Instead, it exacerbates inequities by creating a system where public tax dollars fund private school tuition for those who can already afford it while leaving our most vulnerable students behind.

Public money should be invested in public schools—full stop. Texas teachers and students deserve more than an experiment in privatization. We deserve a legislature that stands up for the millions of children who walk through the doors of our public schools every day. I urge this committee to reject HB 3 and commit to policies that strengthen, rather than dismantle, our public education system.

Our kids are watching. Our teachers are watching. And come election time, so will the voters.

Respectfully,
Lisa Bonilla
Pflugerville

Sari Gilinsky
Self
Spring, TX

As a parent of a Texas public school student (CISD) I cannot oppose this bill enough. Our public schools need more funding to improve, not less. Everyone knows that this voucher and “education savings plan” idea is not for the benefit of students, teachers, or families. Education is necessary for a functioning society and this bill, among other education initiatives from the Texas government, is not in the service of improving the quality of education or the accessibility to residents. Do the right thing and vote for a better Texas and a better future for our children.

Donald Lovering, M.D.
self, Retired
Austin, TX

I am opposed to this bill. I do not think you should divert money from taxpayers to go to private schools at the expense of public education. And it will damage public education. Rather we need to keep that money funding high quality public education for all of our children.

Lori Ammann
Self
Farmers Branch, TX

Our tax dollars should be used to fully fund public schools, not to subsidize private schools which do not have to follow the same rules as our underfunded public schools.

Matt Thompson, Mr
Self
Beaumont, TX

Vote NO to vouchers. Fund public schools!

Allison Lanza, Rev
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I believe vouchers will hurt our schools and our students across the state. I was educated wonderfully by Texas public schools and am watching my kindergartener thrive today in a Texas public school. He loves to learn and loves going every day. I want this to continue for every child.

A voucher won't be available to every child, won't help families (like mine as a solo parent) who still could not afford a private school, won't help kids in rural communities where other educational opportunities don't exist, won't help kids with special needs or different learning abilities who don't have to be accepted by private or charter schools-but it will hurt students and schools and teachers across our state. It has been rejected by Texas many times. School choice already exists in Texas with many amazing public, private and charter schools. This bill doesn't provide choice, it limits it.

As a pastor I believe that there is no such thing as other people's kids. All kids are ours and all kids are God's and it is up to us to ensure all of them-not just the wealthy or gifted or urban-all of them-have access to wonderful education to help them thrive and to grow into the people they are called to be.

Vote no on HB3 to help all our Texas kids

Tony Canterino
Self/ Mayor Pro Tem Harker Heights, TX
Harker Heights, TX

I am in FAVOR of HB3 as presented by Chairman Buckley.

In the State of Texas, which is a very conservative state, I truly believe that adopting school choice for education is the natural progression of things. HB3 is a good bill and i am in favor of it passing.

Roy Hammock
Self
Houston, TX

I am against a voucher program. Allowing vouchers will impact funding available for public schools and allow private schools to pick and choose who can attend their schools. A strong public school system is important to adequately educate society and provide all students and opportunity to gain the knowledge needed to attend college and work towards a successful career and thus contribute more to society than a product of an ill equipped education system.

Natalie Boyd self / bookseller
Katy, TX

I am a proud product of the Texas public education system, and both my children received valuable educations in the Texas public education system. The proposals to create school vouchers (regardless of the names used) would strip away all the ability our public schools have to enrich lives and create productive members of our communities. These vouchers would create an even larger chasm between the wealthy elite and the lower- and middle-class. Our economy DEPENDS on all of these classes in order to thrive, and it will be destroyed if you eliminate the ability for children to receive a decent education in this state simply because their families cannot afford to pay for private schools. I beg you to vote AGAINST school vouchers and an education savings account program. Your constituents DO NOT want this. Please listen.

Michelle Lorio
self
El Paso, TX

Hello, I am public school teacher in Fabens, Texas. I vehemently oppose vouchers and ESAs. The cost of vouchers accelerates quickly. The current senate bill proposes to spend more than $11 billion on vouchers through 2030, yet public schools are not adequately funded. The fact that there would be an increase in employees to run the program while thousands of teachers are losing their jobs is appalling. Please oppose vouchers and ESAs and fund public schools properly.

Shay Easterwood

Self

Abernathy, TX

Teacher Friends -- here's what I submitted! It comes out to 2959 out of your allotted 3000 characters.??

I have been a public high school teacher in Texas for the past 21 years, and I am extremely discouraged and angry about HB3.

For too long, the leaders at the state level have done nothing to help public schools. It is insane to me that there has not been a per-student allotment increase in state funding since 2019, considering the amount of inflation that has occurred in the last several years.

And now, another attack on public education by our state leaders. Instead of adequately funding public schools, the state wants to provide money to those making a choice to not send their students to public school, at the expense of our public education system.

I have several issues with the new bill.

First, I am extremely uncomfortable with the number of billionaires that are supporting this bill and contributing money to our governor to get the bill passed, even some who do not live in our state. Some of these billionaires own companies that could potentially serve as administrators of the voucher funding. This is a huge conflict of interest, and should be investigated.

Next, there have been several states that have moved to this voucher system, and are now having issues with funding the program. The costs have ballooned out of control. And in these same states (such as Arizona), it has been found as many as 70% of students benefiting from these vouchers were already attending private school, and could afford the cost without the voucher. It does not seem fiscally responsible as a state to fund a program that will cause our state to eventually not be able to afford our expenses.

Next, 158 out of 254 counties in our state do NOT have a private school option. So, how is this bill really promoting school choice when it's only available to the population in less than 40% of the counties in our state?

Based on the State's own actuarial report, the school voucher program is putting our Teacher Retirement System funds in danger. As teachers, we are already saddled with low salaries and terrible (yet expensive) insurance. I have never understood why teachers cannot have the same ERS insurance benefits that other government employees are provided. And now, with this bill, our retirement is in danger. If you want to know why GOOD teachers are leaving the profession in Texas, it is because the state continually acts in ways to devalue teachers.

All around in our state, public school districts are having conversations about hard choices for next year -- whether to close schools, increase classroom student numbers, and reduce staff. Yet, the leaders in our state do NOTHING to help any of these situations. Instead, they want to pass vouchers that will only harm public education, and refuse to fully fund our public schools. Just look at our low student funding numbers in comparison to most other states. It is embarrassing to be teaching in

Chris Perkins

self

Houston, TX

Key Arguments Against Texas HB3 School Vouchers

Hurts Rural Counties Without Private Schools

158 Texas counties lack private schools, meaning families in these areas will not benefit from vouchers.

Private businesses will emerge to take taxpayer dollars while providing subpar education. When negative reviews and poor test scores surface, these operators will likely shut down, rebrand, and relocate—leaving students behind.

Private schools are not required to hire certified teachers—while good institutions do, this loophole allows bad actors to exploit the system.

Local Impact: Rural schools with smaller student populations will lose funding, while voucher money funnels to urban and suburban private schools instead.

Private School Tuition Will Likely Increase

When public money floods private schools, tuition historically rises—this has been seen in other states with voucher programs.

Local Impact: Private school education will become even more expensive, making it inaccessible even for families using vouchers.

Further Defunding of Public Schools

Texas already underfunds public education, and vouchers will drain even more resources.

Local Impact: Expect larger class sizes, fewer programs, and lower-quality education for the vast majority of Texas students.

Texas Public School Rankings Are Declining

Texas has dropped in national education rankings over the last decade due to consistent underfunding. Without increased investment, this trend will continue.

Local Impact: A lower-ranked education system makes Texas students less competitive and hurts our state's workforce and economy. Texans deserve better.

School Funding Has Not Been Adjusted for Inflation Since 2019

Schools are operating with less purchasing power each year while costs rise.

Local Impact: Lower teacher pay, outdated resources, and worsening school conditions all hurt student success.

Bottom Line: HB3 Weakens Texas Public Education

1. Action Needed: Demand full public school funding before considering vouchers. 2. Support local representatives who fight for public education, not private interests. 3. Hold policymakers accountable for rural education equity. Votes are public record—we know you opposed vouchers last session. Yet here we are again, wasting Texans' time and money on Greg Abbott's billionaire-driven agenda.

Texans deserve strong public schools, not a broken voucher scheme.

Jennifer Franz

self

Grapevine, TX

Please do not create a voucher program! We already don't fund public schools enough as it is, and vouchers will only help wealthy families who already send their kids to private school anyway. We need a strong public education system in this state to raise children that can keep us in this world. I don't want my property taxes raised to send rich kids to private or religious schools. People who want a religious education can pay for it themselves.

Amy Sidebottom

Self

Keller, TX

Parents already have the right to choose which school is best for their child. Whether it's public school or charter school/private school of their choice. Abbott needs to keep his hands off our taxpayer money and release the funds to public education. He is quickly sending Texas public schools down the drain to meet his agenda on vouchers and Texans deserve better.

Lauren Swilling
Self / digital marketing
Wimberley, TX

I am AGAINST HB3.
Public dollars should stay with public schools that educate all children, not just a select few.
Rural communities will suffer most. Many have no private schools, yet their tax dollars would be diverted away from public education.
Texas schools are already underfunded. Instead of defunding them further, lawmakers should fully fund our public schools.

Megan Wilson
Self
Grand Prairie, TX

Strongly opposed.

Kodi Crane
Self public educator
Caddo Mills, TX

No vouchers. Vouchers are not good for Texas students.

Susan Blair
Self
Ft. Worth, TX

Please do not approve this voucher program. Please do not allocate this money to benefit wealthy families and further damage public schools.

Dinali Fernando, Dr.

Self

Austin, TX

My comments are against HB 2. As a reminder, Article 7 of the Texas Constitution states: "Sec. 1. A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools." As a parent of a student in elementary school in a public school in Central Texas, the ability to choose whether to send my child to public school or to private school is not, in my opinion, the emergency issue that legislators pushing for school vouchers in Texas maintain it to be. There are many more issues where I would like to have the "right to choose" as a parent (e.g., the freedom for my child to read any book they are curious about, the educational freedom where the curriculum nurtures the questioning minds of students, etc.) and having the choice to send my child to private school is not on that list. The central issue facing public schools in Texas is that the State does not fully fund public schools. Some legislators have chosen to hide behind the "complicated education funding formulae". Why is that? Why do those of you who are pushing schools vouchers on us, at the expense of public education, not talk about how the basic allotment has not gone up? Why do you not refer to the fact that it is local property taxes that pay for the majority of a school district's funding, with state funding being a much smaller percentage of the total funding? Why do you not refer to how large (in terms of student numbers), property rich schools districts -- many of those that have large proportions of at-risk and special needs children who should ideally be funded at a higher level but are not -- are recapture districts that, even though their property taxes have gone up, they are not allowed to use most of those dollars to address their budget deficits? Why does the legislature make it hard for school districts to use specific terminology in tax rate-related elections to explain to their constituents that the proposition on the ballot is meant to allow the district to access certain funding pots from the state and are not technically tax rate increases? So much can be done to simplify the state's education funding formula, to increase the basic student allotment as school districts have requested, and to fully fund existing basic and special education programs in public schools. Where there is a will there is a way. The will that we who voted you in want you to exercise is one that benefits the Texas population at large, not billionaires who choose to dictate policy in the state in a manner that only suits them. Remember, we are watching carefully. Vote with your conscience. Vote for what the general public of Texas needs and what children of today and the Texas of tomorrow deserve. Do not use tax payer dollars to subsidize the wealthy. Vote against school vouchers.

Stormy Jackson

Self

Andrews, TX

Please do not let this bill pass. I am a high school teacher and coach, and think this would be a disservice to students.

Carly Murray

Grandview Hills Elementary School in Leander ISD

Leander, TX

Approving vouchers in any way prohibits access to quality public education. You have to — you are required to — consider the needs and rights of the many instead of the selfish wants of the rich few. Our children and our state deserve better than how this will limit the future. We cannot have a thriving, healthy economy if only a fraction of our children have access to quality education. You have to do better for our kids—we owe our all of children a quality education, regardless of how their parents vote or what income bracket they fall into. We know that a major contributor to this agenda is an out-of-state billionaire with specific ideology counter to quality public education. You cannot let interests like that prevail over Texas children. You have to do right by our children.

Erika Salazar, Ms.

Self

Wichita Falls, TX

I'm writing to express my strong opposition to the school voucher scam, SB 2, and ask to vote against it.

I am a parent of a student that attends school at Wichita Falls ISD. WFISD stands to lose as much as $5,271,758 under SB 2, which would be a devastating loss for our community.

Public funds should stay in our public schools, not be divvied up to unaccountable private schools.

Thank you for your time and please vote against SB2.

Sarah Ganske, Dr.

Self

Austin, TX

I am a pediatric audiologist, hopeful future mother, and Texan, and I believe that our public schools should be fully funded. Tax payer money should not be given to private schools, especially without accountability. 1st- as a pediatric audiologist I know many of my patients with hearing loss who utilize hearing aids and spoken language to communicate rely on the support services provided by the public school system. Private schools are not required to accept my patients as students and are not required to provide them the support services they need to succeed in the classroom. Therefore my patients have NO "choice" but the public schools. 2nd- I'm also hopeful to be a mother someday soon and know that even as a part of the middle class and with a voucher, private school tuition would still be out of our budget. The average cost of private school in our area is approx. $24000 a year. A voucher for $11000 would still leave me with a large tuition bill that we couldn't afford. Where is my "choice" for my future children? 3rd- And lastly as a Texan it is my duty to advocate for the children of our state who are unable to advocate for themselves. Taking funding from our public school system and rerouting it into the private school system will affect the resources available and quality of the education our children in the public schools receive. The only people who benefit from this school voucher bill are the individuals/families already sending their children to private school. These families currently have a choice to send their children to public school should they want to. ALL children should have the right to a good education and taking funding out of our public schools takes that right away from a majority of the children in our state. A good education is difficult to provide if the public school system doesn't have adequate funding. I strongly encourage you to think about the best interests of ALL of the children in our state, not only the ones already attending private school. Thank you.

Maria Deloso

Self associate marketing manager

Addison, TX

Voucher bills were first proposed in Texas in the 1950s as a reaction to Brown v. Board of Education as a means to avoid racial integration—and they've been rejected time and time again. We must stand together and make our voices heard! Billionaires that donated millions to our governor to push vouchers shouldn't have the final say in decisions that impact our schools and communities. Our voices matter. Our votes matter. Let's make sure our representatives hear us loud and clear! Keep public money in public schools. Fully fund our schools! Texas is the second richest state, yet we rank 46th in the nation in per-student expenditures. Our kids deserve better!

Edmond Lorts II, Mr.

Self

Austin, TX

Dear Members of the Public Education Committee,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the use of taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers. As a Texas taxpayer, I believe public funds should be used to support our public schools, not diverted to private institutions that lack transparency and accountability.

Private schools are not required to meet the same academic and financial accountability standards as public schools. They can selectively admit students, often leaving behind those with disabilities, language barriers, or behavioral challenges—students our public schools serve every day. Vouchers do not provide real "school choice" for all families; they subsidize private education for those who can already afford it, while leaving rural and low-income communities with fewer resources for their local public schools.

As Representative James Talarico has pointed out, Texas has underfunded its public schools for years. Instead of draining money from our public education system, we should be increasing teacher pay, reducing classroom sizes, and ensuring every child has access to a quality public education. I urge you to reject any effort to implement a voucher system in Texas.

Sincerely,

Edmond Robert Lorts II

2604 Theresa Blanchard LN Austin, TX 78748

Carrie Cummings

Pearland ISD

Pearland, TX

I am a product of an outstanding public school system, growing up in Round Rock ISD. I am now a veteran teacher, having taught in Conroe ISD and Pearland ISD. My children have amassed an amazing public school education and gone on to competitive universities and been OVER-prepared. I have taught in public school without a pay raise from the state in years, despite ridiculous inflation and normal cost of living increases. Despite my history with amazing public schools, I don't mind the idea of school choice - but that money should not come into fruition by taking fund away from the public schools. We have the best opportunity to do the most good for the most kids. There's no arguing that. How the governor and his followers have already given up on the efficacy of public schools while denying us resources that would increase access to success for more school age children is the antithesis of what an elected official who is entrusted with the entire state's educational system should be promoting. Very disappointing.

Wilner Jeudy, Dr

Self, Physician

Houston, TX

I am in OPPOSITION to the passing of HB3. I am strongly opposed to the sabotage of our public school system. Public funds CANNOT be funneled to religious schools in any form.

Carl Kalbfleisch
True Texas Project TTP@Home Denison Leader
Denison, TX

I am opposed to HB3 for the following reasons:

First - GOP voters voted on Proposition 11 states: "Texas parents and guardians should have the right to select schools, whether public or private, for their children, and the funding should follow the student."

HR3 is opposed to Proposition 11. The money doesn't follow the child. It is not available for all Texas children.

Second- The 2024 Republican Party of Texas Platform states on Page 15, "Parents' Rights — Plank 84. School Choice: We support further empowering all Texas families to choose from public, private, charter, or homeschool options for their children's education and funding which shall follow the student with no strings attached. We oppose regulations on homeschooling or the curriculum of private or religious schools and believe a constitutional amendment should be adopted accordingly. In lieu of funding, citizens may use property tax exemptions."

HB3 does not align with the GOP plank. The money doesn't follow the child.

The GOP asked voters essentially do you want "school choice" by using specific terms for what is meant by school choice. Now the Governor and the legislature are changing the definition and passing it off as "school choice".

In the famous words of Obi Wan Kenobi, "this is not the school choice we are looking for".

The bill also suggests to use new money, possibly even from the "surplus" rather than the funds following the student. That new money would go to private institutions which is possibly a violation of the Texas constitution.

I would ask that this committee require the HR3 to be modified so that it aligns with Proposition 11 and HR3. If you are unable to do that then you must vote NO because this bill is not what the people of Texas have asked for.

Thomas Trangmoe
Self
Waco, TX

Hello. I am a Texas resident. I believe that the proposed funding structure in this bill is a partisan-motivated mess that does not provide any actual benefit to the kids it impacts, especially those in the public school system, that need the funding in question most desperately. I am writing for the purpose of expressing a strong dissent to this bill. Please, vote no.

Laura Sparrow, Dr.

Self

Georgetown, TX

I have two children in private school, and I completely oppose vouchers. Education is a public good, not a private commodity. I have so much respect for the educators who work in private schools, and I appreciate that parents want options for their kids. However, the legislation being considered in the Texas legislature will not give parents school choice, it will give private schools money that is allocated for public schools. There are currently 5.4 million students enrolled in public schools in Texas. Were every student to have an equal chance at a voucher, an individual student's chance of obtaining one is approximately 1.85%. Because Texas funds schools on a per student allotment basis, districts and individual schools will lose money, and the vast majority of students have no real shot at being awarded a voucher. Districts across the state are facing budget deficits due to the state passing unfunded mandates and systematically underfunding our public school systems. Leander ISD, the school district where I live, has an AA+ bond rating from Fitch and received "A-Superior Achievement" rating from the Texas School Financial Integrity Rating System of Texas (FIRST). Despite its responsible financial management, Leander ISD is facing a $34M budget deficit. The district will be forced to enact staff and teacher layoffs and cut student programs to address the budget deficit. Liberty Hill ISD, which is in the county where I reside, is also facing a severe budget shortage and will be moving to a hybrid 4-day a week schedule to address the deficit. These are high achieving, highly ranked districts that serve tens of thousands of students. It's unconscionable that our politicians are considering siphoning more money away from our public schools at a time when public schools are already struggling. I am asking that our representatives vote no on HB 3 and vote to fully fund public schools by increasing the public allotment by $1500.

Jennifer Bean

Self

Pearland, TX

We do NOT want this! Look on Facebook and you'll find thousands of Texas teachers, administrators, parents, grandparents, etc who do NOT want this. Please listen to the people for once and do not pass this!

Zuriel Morales
Self, & American Federation of Teachers
San Antonio, TX

Opposition to HB3

Dear Texas Representatives,

I write to strongly oppose HB3, the voucher bill that would divert public tax dollars to private schools at the expense of Texas public school students, teachers, and taxpayers.

Public dollars belong in public schools. The Texas Constitution mandates a free, high-quality public education system, yet instead of increasing the basic allotment by at least $1,386 to keep up with inflation and rising costs, this bill proposes to fund private institutions with no public oversight. If we truly care about Texas children, we must fully fund our existing schools, not funnel money into private institutions that can refuse students based on ability, race, or socioeconomic status.

This is not about “parent choice”, it is school choice for private schools, which can deny enrollment to any student. Public schools educate every child, regardless of disability, income, or background, and are held to higher legal, financial, and accountability standards. If private schools are not required to meet these same standards, why should they receive public tax dollars?

HB3 will harm the Teacher Retirement System by diverting funds from the very schools that keep TRS solvent. Texas teachers already receive some of the lowest salaries in the country and lack Social Security benefits. How can we justify weakening their retirement security for a program that overwhelmingly benefits wealthy families who already afford private tuition?

The facts are clear: A majority of your constituents oppose this bill. Vouchers do not benefit students; they primarily fund low-performing private schools with little regulation. This is welfare for the rich, not a solution for struggling students.

If you truly care about Texas children, as you have stated before, prioritize the children we already have in public schools, regardless of their abilities, race, or economic status. Strengthen our schools instead of subsidizing unaccountable private institutions.

I urge you to vote NO on HB3 and instead invest in fully funding Texas public schools.

Marvin Hobbs
Self Retired Life Insurance Underwriter
Driftwood, TX

I oppose the school voucher bill and ask that this bill be defeated. I fully support public schools and have attended public schools for most of my education except for my last 2 years of college. Please do not pass school vouchers.

Amy Hill
Self Senior Claims Manager
Arlington, TX

I strongly oppose school choice and school vouchers for private schools. This will not benefit all children in the state of Texas. I expect my taxes to fund public schools, not a voucher program that provides money for a select few. Our children and public school teachers deserve better. Fund our public schools instead of withholding funding!

michael kuykendall
self
Austin, TX

The data is clear, states that have adopted vouchers have gone into debt; districts will lose millions, a majority of Texans don't want vouchers. This bill was not written to support public education or citizens of Texas. Vouchers are wrong for Texas.

Jerilyn Cleere

Self. Student/Substitute

Bryan, TX

You never think your child will need special education—until they do. Maybe it's ADHD, Autism, Dyslexia, a learning disability, medical fragility, or mental health challenges that qualify them for an IEP. When that happens, public schools are there.

Public schools serve everyone. For students who don't need accommodations, they still offer qualified teachers, transportation, libraries, and a hot lunch. There are gifted programs, career and technical education, college prep tracks, band, football, art—so much more than people realize.

Private schools, on the other hand, don't have to accommodate anyone they don't want to. There's no legal obligation to provide an individualized education plan. No committee working together to help your child succeed. Maybe they'll tweak a few things—if they feel like it—but they can also just tell your child to leave. That's if they even accept your child in the first place.

So when we talk about education savings accounts, I have questions:

Will they cover tuition, uniforms, food, transportation?

Will each private school be expected to create its own career tech programs?

What happens to the kids who don't fit their mold?

I come at this with a unique perspective. I attended a small private school from 1st through 5th grade, and public school from 6th through 12th. In that private school, I sat in a cubicle for 90% of the day, filling out worksheets. The worksheets used cartoon characters to portray different races going to entirely different schools. Our science books taught that the Loch Ness Monster was real—and there were no experiments, no hands-on learning. We didn't have teachers, just “supervisors.” One of mine hit me on the back of the head because she thought I wasn't working.

I was in first grade.

Public school was a different world. I did science experiments, explored diverse viewpoints, made art, joined choir, and eventually graduated and went to Texas A&M.

Not every private school is like the one I attended—mine was cheap. Worksheets are cheap. Education savings accounts might cover cheap private schools. But they won't cover most of the “good” ones. And even if they could... would those schools accept your child?

Better hope they don't have a learning difference.

Chay Runnels Chay Runnels

Myself- professor

Nacogdoches, TX

As a parent in Nacogdoches Texas, I believe this program will hurt rural schools such as ours. The superintendents in East Texas do not support this bill and neither do I. I do not want my tax dollars supporting private schools. These schools do not serve all Texans. I urge you to vote No on this bill and preserve public schools in Texas.

Tommy Simmons

Self

Abernathy, TX

All sides of government should stay out of education. No to government run vouchers.

Laurie Venuto

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers. Texas public school kids have brought home countless titles, championships and accolades for this state. Texas should be investing in and supporting them instead of holding them down by starving their schools of desperately needed funding. Public money belongs in public schools. Passing this voucher bill will make Texas less competitive on every level and will forever be remembered as your worst mistake!

Jordan Hunter

Self

Mansfield, TX

I strongly oppose HB3. Our kids deserve adequately funded PUBLIC schools. Diverting funds to the private sector for school vouchers grossly widens the wealth gap more than it already is - disenfranchising the working class to benefit the rich. Keep public school funding out of private schools. Oppose HB3.

Shelley Harrington

Self

Spring, TX

This is a terrible bill. Not only is it a bad idea to establish ESAs it's not even a CONSERVATIVE issue! This does not reduce government spending. This does not give ALL parents a choice of schools, as so claimed. And this is a bad bill. We need to be able to come to the table as Texans and talk about REAL solutions for our children's future and this is NOT it. Most Texans do not want this. We want better ideas and fully funded PUBLIC education. Please listen to us!

Ashley Narup, Mrs.

Self, teacher

Leander, TX

Fund public education by at least an increase of $1300. The public school students of Texas deserve more. They are the future and the backbone of our state. Wonderful things are being done in our public schools that are allowing students to learn, explore, and find companionship with friends. It is also a place where they get food and other basic needs which in some cases includes clothing and shoes. Vouchers take money and resources from the vast majority of students and families in our state. Fund PUBLIC education!!!

Brad Harris

Self

Garland, TX

None of these "school choice" bills should even ne up for consideration. We already have school choice in Texas. What should be done is increasing the state funding to public schools that has been frozen for years. The Texas Constitution requires the state government to adequately fund public schools.

Kari Fay, MD

Unified women's Health

San Marcos, TX

This bill would be a giant detriment to education in Texas. As a Texas physician, I am a giant advocate for the public school system. A voucher system would only further take away much needed funding for public schools that accept ALL of our Texas children. Please vote no.

John Grom
Self-project manager
College Station, TX

Oppose School Choice Programs

School-choice voucher programs divert critical funding away from public schools and direct it toward private institutions that often lack the same level of accountability and oversight. Vouchers can deepen educational inequities by removing resources from already underfunded public schools, which serve the majority of students—including those from marginalized and low-income communities. Moreover, private and charter schools receiving voucher funds may have admissions requirements or policies that effectively exclude or discourage certain student populations, such as students with disabilities or language barriers. This selective enrollment undermines the principle of equitable access to education for all.

Additionally, voucher programs frequently fail to demonstrate consistent gains in academic performance or broader educational outcomes. Instead, their expansion can lead to a patchwork system of schools governed by differing standards. By weakening the shared investment in strong public schools—which are open to everyone and accountable to the public—voucher programs risk creating a two-tiered system where students' educational opportunities depend on their financial means or geography. Preserving and improving public education, which is essential to a healthy democracy, requires robust and equitable funding for public schools rather than diverting it through voucher initiatives.

Tana Howard
Self-Public Education Teacher and Mom
Ackerly, TX

As a Mother, Tax Payer and Public School Educator I am pleading on behalf of the more than 5.5 million students please do not allow this bill to pass. Not everyone can make up the difference that “choosing” the school your child wants to attend after it is passed. As soon as this is passed tuition per kid will not be the allotment the State will give. It will drive tuition up and the average Texan along with under privilege will also not be able to afford. Some teachers will see Private school jobs offering more money but how long will the school stay opened? They will use this to pad their pockets until the school closes and then walk away and leave students underscoring and without the education to attend Colleges and Universities. This is not for every Texan student this is for a select few. How will this affect Special Needs students? Most of these Private schools don't accept these students. How will they be served? Please please put this to a vote by the people. Better yet look at these responses. Weigh them. How many for and how many against? You were all elected into office by the people now I pleas listen to the people. The ones who are in the trenches daily, educating our babies and making it work even when we don't have the budget to do so. Why? Because we are putting kids first like we always do and will continue to do. Now it is your turn.
Thank you for your time.

Patricia Herbelin, Mrs.
Self / retired and former homeschooling parent
Lorena, TX

I am a member of THSC and I DO NOT stand with them regarding HB 3 (or this current iteration of “school choice”). This bill is a government funded education regulation expansion that creates a DUALY funded taxpayer-funded takeover of private education alongside public education. Neither education option is served well by the current iteration of "school choice" legislation as proposed in the 89th Legislative Session. I homeschooled both of our daughters from 2002 to 2014 but chose to do so even though we were paying property taxes. Yes, I had that choice just like we do now. This bill is not about school choice, it is about breaking up private schools and shorting public schools to make Texas students into the "global" citizens that Gov. Abbott is strong-arming our representatives to accomplish. This bill empowers vendors, not parents. Please, let's do better, Texas.

Jennifer Link veterinarians
frisco, TX

I oppose vouchers for private schools. We must fund public schools and not give taxpayer money to families who already have their kids in private schools. This is welfare for the rich. Most rural counties don't even have a private school. I own a small business and we all benefit from public education, we should be increasing funds for public schools, increasing teacher pay!! And testing less!! I am a native Texan and this is catering to billionaires that support White Christian nationalism.

Acheson Suzanne
Self
Lubbock, TX

I, and every other tax payer, parent, and public educator I know vehemently oppose HB 3 and ESAs. Our state should support the masses in public education and not spend public money towards the very very few in private education. Our representatives are ignoring the desires of their constituents. Use the $1 billion to bolster public education. Increase the allotment. Increase educator salaries. That's how you support education and improve the system! No to HB3 and ESAs. Listen to the people, please!!

Sylvia Searfoss
Self retired RN
El Paso, TX

HB3 is regarding a voucher system not an education savings account program! As a Texas taxpayer, I DO NOT support vouchers for private schools. I demand that ALL of the taxes I pay go to our public schools. Vote NO on HB3.

Melisa Finfer
Self
North Richland Hills, TX
Let Texans vote!

Fernando Diaz
Self - Engineer
Humble, TX

I do not support public funds going to unaccountable private schools.

Ann Shetler
Self / Registered Dietitian
Pearland, TX

Public dollars belong in public schools. As someone who grew up in a rural community and part of a religious minority, it was helpful for me to interact with the other kids in my community at our public schools. There is no better place to teach the importance of listening to one another with respect and finding ways to work together even with strongly held differences in beliefs and approaches towards life. Public funds should not go to unregulated and unaccountable private schools. Public funds should not be used to promote or teach religious beliefs as doctrine.

I urge you to vote against HB 3.
We don't want vouchers in Texas!

Leigh Everett
Self
Trophy Club, TX

We do not want school vouchers

Coleman Sulak

Self

Waco, TX

As a Texan, I do not support HB 3. I value, as a Texan should, the educational support of all students in our great state; not separating our students by their ability to pay for a charter school. Even when many counties in our state do not have charter schools, making access for "all students" in their school "choice" inequitable.

Laquita Sellers

self

Blanco, TX

Please do not support this bill. Private schools are not held to the standards and requirements of public schools. If and when they are, then, and only then, should they be funded with tax payer dollars. Until then, why is this even being considered. Do not lie; it is not actually providing choice. It is another way to increase the divide and make the rich richer by decreasing what they are paying to send their children to private schools. This is wrong. Fund public schools with public money and stop holding public schools "hostage" with no increase in funding until Abbott gets his way.

Public money for public schools. Do not support ESA.

Ellen Lee

Self

Dallas, TX

I am troubled by the Governor's push for and the Legislature's acquiescence to a plan to use tax payer funds to pay for private school tuition. My concern is two-fold. First, the basic allotment of per-student funding has not been increased since 2019, despite inflation of about 20% in the past 5 years. In the last legislative session, Governor Abbott essentially held public education funding hostage to his push for vouchers, even though Texas had a $32 billion dollar surplus in state funding. Texas ranks in the bottom 10 states for per student funding, and in the bottom half for average teacher salaries. You are failing Texas public school children when you fail to properly fund public schools. Furthermore, the claim has been made that ESA funds are intended to provide school choice to students in underperforming public schools. In the last legislative session, the proposed amount was $10,000. That amount is both greater than the current basic allotment amount and notably less than the average private school tuition. It is a slap in the face of public education to give more tax payer dollars to a voucher program than you're even willing to give to public education. And it's an empty promise to an urban family--what good does a $10,000 voucher do when private school tuition in urban areas often costs $12,000-$30,000 per year? Recapture districts already remit as much as 60% or more of their tax dollars to the state with virtually no transparency or assurance that these funds are being spent on education. In the past, Governor Abbott has vowed to withhold public education funding until an ESA bill has passed. The more honorable position is solve the public education issue first--properly fund per student funding and competitive teacher pay, keeping up with inflation, and set high standards for first-rate teacher training and high-quality resources to ensure our students master the fundamentals of reading and writing, math, science and social studies foundational knowledge. If Texas did the work to provide high quality public education, vouchers wouldn't be necessary.

Joseph Leonard

Self/retired teacher

San Marcos, TX

Please vote against this!! Public dollars belong in public schools!! Keep TRS strong, as this bill would harm its solvency!!

Nicole Scott

Self

Spring, TX

The majority of the constituents in this state do not support this bill. Fund public schools with tax payer money, not private schools. Vouchers do not allow parent choice, the private schools make the decision who they accept. And they will still choose those that can afford to their tuition and vouchers will not change that. Vouchers will only be a discount given to more wealthy families. Put it on the ballot for all Texans to vote on instead.

Angela McGee

Self

Lamesa, TX

As a teacher in a rural area, I strongly oppose HB 3 and vote NO.

Brenda Bond

Myself

Spicewood, TX

Please vote NO to educational savings account accounts or vouchers in Texas. We want our public schools funded. Turning your back on public schools is terrible for our society. This is not how Texans should operate. Every child should get a good education at their local public school. We do not want this bill in Texas.

Dana Stiles

Self

Austin, TX

As a Texas public school teacher for the past 20 years, I have watched my students' eyes light up when they had an "aha" moment. Whether it be through an experiment, class discussion, or tutoring session, I have strived to provide my students a hands on experience in math. I have also watched my own money pay for more and more classroom supplies and my plate get so full that I hardly have time to eat lunch due to districts having insufficient funding to keep up with inflation. I will continue to fight for ALL Texas children, as 100% of them are our future. Education is one of the few things that can never be taken away from someone. Yet this bill is trying to lessen access to good public education in the state of Texas by privatizing our tax dollars and defunding our public schools. It is astounding that the representatives of our great state of Texas are satisfied with ranking in the 60th percentile for education in the country. PLEASE vote for our future and vote NO for HB 3.

Virgie Pedroza

Self

Lamesa, TX

I'm a Texan. I care about our K-12 public education system being well-funded for all students. I do not support HB 3, the education savings account bill, and I ask for all representatives to oppose this bill.

KatKherine Noll, Ms.

Self--Private School Facilities Director

Dallas, TX

I oppose vouchers and urge increased and adequate funding of our public schools.

Marchelle Bell

Self

VAN ALSTYNE, TX

I am against HB 3 as written. In the Bill, on page 28, it discusses tracking and assessments, which Homeschool Families are vehemently against. Earlier in the Bill it also states that "Every Parent" that Participates in this Program WILL be subject to these assessment standards.

These sections alone, go against Plank 84 in the Republican Party of Texas Priorities that were voted on by our States Delegates.

If we do not make amendments to this Bill to uphold "NO STRINGS ATTACHED" then we will be going against our own State Conventions Elected Priorities.

Leslie Griffin
Self
Port Aransas, TX

NO VOUCHERS! We all know this is not good for education. As a taxpayer, I do not want my taxpayer money to be supporting a private business. If one type of private business receives taxpayer dollars, why shouldn't others?

Natalie Kelly
AISD PTA
Austin, TX

My name is Natalie Kelly, and I am a constituent in zip code 78735. I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 3 and urge you to vote no. Instead of diverting resources to privatized schools with little to no public accountability, we must fully fund public education.

Texas already provides meaningful school choice. What we need are the necessary resources to ensure our public schools can fulfill their mandate—to deliver a high-quality education to every child with accountability and due process. Voucher programs like this have failed in other states, and there is no evidence that they achieve the outcomes proponents claim. If HB 3 moves forward, it will likely harm more families than it helps.

Please prioritize Texas students by investing in our public schools. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Natalie Kelly

Sophia Castillo, Ms.
Self/Teacher
Houston, TX

SB2/HB3 grows government, weakens local schools, and wastes taxpayer money with zero accountability. It strips rural schools of funding, could send tax dollars to religious or controversial private schools, and violates the Texas Constitution's duty to public education. Say NO to SB2 & HB3!

Christina Harris
Self
Dallas, TX

I do not support school vouchers as it takes away from the focus desperately needed for our public schools and public school teachers.

Tashia Mossman
Self, fintech product operations
Leander, TX

Vote NO to an education savings account program. Please FUND our PUBLIC SCHOOLS by approving a $1300 Basic Allotment per student.

Christina Raecher

Self

Celina, TX

I'm very disappointed that representatives that I voted for are not considering what we are asking for in terms of school vouchers. It is very clear that the majority of people do not want them, yet we keep dismissing why so many people are against the vouchers. The school vouchers are a scam and will destroy educational opportunities for all. I worry about the fairness of this bill for all students. Five years ago we watched as so many attacked and blamed our police officers for not being fair and just to all minorities. This was heartbreaking to watch as my husband was a police officer during this time. It was comforting to know that despite all the protests taking place, there were still people who cared about our police force and believed in them. We recognized that some officers were crooked, but the population that were bad was very small. There is always going to be bad apples. It is unavoidable. Now, people are turning on teachers as if we are the enemy. The same is true with teachers. Some teachers have stepped out of line and made poor decisions, but the majority of teachers are great people who just want the best for all of our kids. Our hands have been tied due to so many things such as withholding funds and forcing us to teach to a test that is not developmentally appropriate. A test that private school teachers do not have to administer. We can't keep holding teachers to these unrealistic expectations. Teachers need support, so they can help guide our students to a successful path. We are about to lose the good teachers that are left. Nobody wants to be pointed at as the villain, especially when we are the complete opposite of a villain. Teachers are professionals, and they should be treated as such. Our children of Texas need the good teachers to stay. I beg you to please reconsider what is truly the best for our public schools. Vouchers will only hurt the schools and students that attend. We have to be the voice for our children. Please consider how this bill is going to serve the children you represent because I promise you there are many who will not be able to obtain vouchers due to all of the other factors that must be considered. Please be the one who will actually care about what happens to these children. I am leaving the teaching field soon as I can't watch what is happening to these sweet babies and it is time to start taking care of me as well, so I am not saying this out of desperation of how it will affect my job. I am just genuinely worried about the children who will be dealing with the aftermath of what our government is currently handing them. Please do the right thing for the children of Texas not just the selected few who can benefit from school vouchers. We all know that this is not something that all of our kids will benefit from. If you want to fund private schools, find a way that will not require public schools to be begging for additional money to run smoothly. Thank you for thinking about our children!

GARY HOGAN

Retired

Fort Worth, TX

The State of Texas has caused havoc with public education and undo stress on nearly every ISD in the State of Texas by keeping the funding for public schools at the same rate since 2019 . STOP VOUCHERS for private and charter schools until the state first properly funds and supports our Public Schools. Wonder why they are lower performing is due to Gov Abbott holding back proper funding to support Teachers and budgets needed for ISD s programs to improve education in Texas STOP VOUCHERS until y'all fund properly our Public Schools . Hey can the State of Texas operate at the same budget as 2019 ???? . RIGHT

Kristina Fuentes

Self

Hutto, TX

As a registered nurse in the community and parent of children attending public school I strongly oppose school vouchers. Invest in public education. Children and teachers in Texas deserve better. I want my tax dollars invested in public education not a savings account program.

Karen Williams, Mrs.

Self

Mansfield, TX

Dear Representative,

I am a parent and a taxpayer in the State of Texas. I do NOT agree with vouchers or an education savings account program. I am an advocate for Public Education; in fact, my child is receiving an excellent Public Education that is robust and rigorous. It is inconceivable and irresponsible that the State of Texas has neglected its fiduciary duties and responsibilities to our children and educators since 2019. Since then, the cost of living has increased, and inflation is over 20%. Representative, you took a promised oath to the people of Texas.

I am advocating for the following:

- an increase of the Basic Allotment and
- Funding for Public Schools in Texas, including the inflated amount of over 20%.

Again, Representative, I want you and your colleagues to know that our children and the staff deserve to be treated fairly, and with dignity and respect by Funding Public Schools in Texas.

Sincerely,

Karen L Williams

Bailey Vizurraga

Self

San Antonio, TX

I am a constituent and I disagree with HB 3 and believe these funds should stay within the public school system to help improve public education which is available to all students and is meant to provide a strong foundation and support students regardless of financial status.

Marla Akin

self

Austin, TX

As a taxpayer for whom the lion's share of my property taxes go to support public schools, I find vouchers to be taxation without representation. School vouchers will drain money away from public education, and those who will be hurt will be the rural and poorer schoolchildren. The economically secure can already afford to send their kids to private schools -- vouchers to help them are unnecessary. At the same time, they will gut public education for the less privileged. This sets in motion a domino effect on life outcomes. Further, absolutely no safeguards are in place in Texas to assure the credentialing of private school faculty or the effectiveness of their curriculum. In most places, school are a neighborhood hub, a social community as much as an educational one, in which students learn to get along with all kinds of other people. School vouchers and private education will further divide our communities along economic and ideological lines. If there is enough money to administer and grant vouchers, there is enough money to invest in PUBLIC EDUCATION. By all rights, not one penny of my tax money should support the education of a student in an institution that promotes a philosophical, religious or social construct I do not support.

Jennifer Darrouzet self, data scientist
Austin, TX

I attended Texas public school and public schools educate the children of my household and my neighbors. It is reprehensible that our so-called leaders have withheld desperately-needed funding from our neighborhood schools in order to force taxpayers to fund private schools. Private schools will not offer the range of services that our public schools do, to all the populations that our public schools serve now. They will not be truly accountable to tax payers; they can decide that boys deserve math and girls deserve cosmetology studies. And we clearly see that vouchers will not make private education available to low-income households; they will only subsidize the households who already pay for private tuition. Because of all these reasons, the 4 voters in my household will vote against anyone who seeks to remove funds from public schools and put those funds toward private schools. If someone wants to send their children to private schools, it is a free country and they can enroll their children in private schools with their own funds or with scholarships. Meanwhile, we will continue to support our neighborhood schools and the amazing, dedicated educators who show up day-in & day-out to develop the future of Texas.

Naomi Hurst
Self
Garland, TX

Please support this bill. The public schools simply do not meet the needs of many students and all families should have the choice as to where to send their children. Thank you.

Bradley Brown
Self, Engineer
Fort worth, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House Public Education Committee,

My name is Brad Brown, and I am a parent of two children in Fort Worth, Texas. I am writing to express my strong support for Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) as proposed in HB3 and SB2.

For the past nine years, I have committed a significant portion of my income—between 15% and 30% before taxes—to enroll my children in a private school in Texas. This investment exceeds what I spend on housing, transportation, or food. The exceptional experience my children have received at this school has made it worthwhile. The school has collaborated with us to address special needs, providing tailored interventions for my son and assisting my daughter with new study techniques when she struggled with sixth-grade math. These personalized approaches have been invaluable to their growth and success.

Every parent and child embarks on a unique educational journey. I am deeply grateful for the positive experience my family has had, and I believe the universal school choice bills under consideration will enable more children to benefit from similar opportunities.

My own upbringing illustrates the transformative power of school choice. I grew up in a mobile home, with my father working in landscaping and my mother staying home to care for my brothers and me. Despite financial hardships, my parents sacrificed to send us to a private school in our hometown. Over time, my mother took a job at the school to help cover tuition, and we were fortunate to receive scholarships that bridged the remaining gap. Today, I'm a college graduate with degrees in engineering—a testament to the opportunities school choice and my parents' sacrifice afforded me.

ESAs offer a lifeline to the most disadvantaged families. Parents are willing to make extraordinary efforts to secure a quality education for their children, and schools and communities often contribute to cover the difference between the ESA amount and full tuition costs. The value of school choice lies not in asserting the superiority of private or public schools, but in recognizing that individual students thrive in environments suited to their needs. For me, a private school was the better fit, and it enabled me to excel.

School choice acknowledges that students are not defined by average district test scores. Some require alternative learning styles, additional support, or a different social setting. Others may be falling through the cracks in the current system and need expanded options to succeed. HB3 and SB2 provide these opportunities, and I strongly urge each member of the Texas House and Senate to support these bills.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Brad Brown

Robert Hughes self - Web Designer
San Angelo, TX

The overwhelming majority of Texans are against school vouchers in any form and yet the Executive Branch of our state government chooses to ignore the people that they represent yet again in favor of pushing the policy agendas of wealthy donors. Texas already has "School Choice." Texas does not want vouchers that will wreak havoc on our education system like it has in most other states that have them. Vouchers are nothing but a subsidy for privatized education and privileged students who already attend private schools that have no obligation to regulate admissions or tuition prices. Voting in favor of HB 3 is a vote to defund public education and leave millions of Texas students behind.

Laura DuPont
self, engineer
League City, TX

HB3 is a voucher scam that will drain millions from our public schools, hurting children and our future workforce. Other states that have implemented voucher programs are now millions of dollars in the red - and their public education systems are worse than when they started. In all of the states where vouchers are used, over 85% of the people using vouchers were already attending private schools. This is not school choice. This is welfare for the wealthy.

Texas children deserve fully funded public schools - as is stated in the Texas constitution - not a voucher scam that benefits private schools with zero accountability.

Texas already allows parents to choose homeschooling, charter schools, and private schools - without diverting taxpayer funds away from public education. Children in public schools can access multiple education opportunities through district open enrollment, magnet programs, STEM and CTE programs, innovative learning academies, and charter schools. Investing in these public schools, that serve the vast majority of school-aged Texans, should be the focus of our state legislature.

The real issue we are facing is that Texas ranks 43rd in per-student funding and 35th in teacher pay, yet you all continue to push vouchers that will strip resources from already underfunded schools, especially in rural areas where private school options are largely non-existent.

For decades, a bipartisan coalition has rejected voucher scams - as do the majority of voters in Texas. Now billionaires including Tim Dunn, Farris Wilks, and Jeff Yass throw millions at our governor, Lt. governor, representatives and senators and expect voters to roll over and accept this nonsense. They lie about public schools and the success of the millions of children who attend public schools because they want vouchers, which serve only their personal interests.

The basic allotment has not increased since 2019 - this is a travesty. Governor Abbott has actually held new funding hostage in order to try and pass vouchers. This is equally insulting. The result is that countless districts are cutting programs and closing schools trying to deal with budget shortfalls. This will only get worse under a voucher program. The state needs to fully fund public education before it starts funding an entirely new education stream that pours public tax dollars into private schools with zero accountability.

Please don't give in to the billionaires and Gov. Abbott's demands. Please vote NO on HB3 and defeat this voucher scam. It's time for the State of Texas to deeply invest in public schools, Texas children, and Texas teachers.

Tanya Good
Self/customer service rep
Converse, TX

As a grandmother of a special needs granddaughter, I do not support school vouchers. Private schools are not required to take her, or provide any special equipment she may need. All children deserve the best education possible.

Susan Valenteen
Texas Families and Texas Public Education
Watauga, TX

WILL NOT BENEFIT LOW INCOME STUDENTS AND FAMILIES. This bill states the fund would be 85% of what the State already pays per Student which is approximately $6900.00. So how would any family or student benefit from less spent per student this Bill proclaims. We already have one of the lowest educational rankings on the Country. This proposal would not raise our ranking, and may even lower it. KILL THE BILL!!!

Robert Leeper
Self
Austin, TX

No vouchers for private schools. This defunds public education.

Cheryl Locklear, Retired educator

Self

Corinth, TX

This bill does NOT support public education and is a disservice to Texas children. WHAT are you thinking? This will be the demise of public schools and the education of of all of our students. This bill serves a minority group, those with wealth, and needs to be stopped!

Allison Lanza, Rev

Self

Fort Worth, TX

As a pastor and a parent I urge you to vote no on HB 3. It will hurt our public schools, home schools and religious private schools. Texas already has school choice. This bill actually decreases choice by taking money away from public schools, limiting what home school parents can teach and putting public restrictions on religious private schools. It limits opportunities for our Texas students with special needs who do not have to be accepted by private or charter schools. It hurts students in rural communities where public school is not only the primary if only education option for students but a primary employer as well. Other states that have tried this have seen students education suffer. Across the board, Texas does not want this. This bill has been rejected by Texas already. This bill is not conservative. This bill is being pushed by people outside our state. This bill is bad for our kids and our communities.

Thank you

Caroline Porter

Self, architect

Austin, TX

This bill does not provide educational freedom. It provides tax payer dollars to a select few who are accepted into, not even all those who would choose, private school for their children. This bill would take away desperately needed funding from public schools, hurting both rural communities who don't have access to many private schools, and urban communities who are already battling funding shortages. If taxpayer money is used for this, then private schools must be held to the same public scrutiny that private schools are. I urge every Representative to vote no!

Don Hurst

Self

Garland, TX

Please support this bill and give all parents the ability to choose for their child/ren the school that is the best for them. Thank you!

Cye Stoner
self - Software Engineer
Austin, TX

I am writing as a father who cares about the quality of Texas's public and private schools.
I am strongly opposed to the redistribution of public tax funds to private education institutions.

As an Austin resident, a significant portion of the funds we contribute to the state education funds are already redistributed towards the rural communities that need them. While I wish that we could keep more of our funds for our own schools, I generally support this program since it guarantees that every child in Texas can benefit from the immense wealth that our state as a whole produces.

I am deeply concerned about the implication for public education, and our economic future, if we allow funds earmarked for public schools to instead be used for private institutions.

Proponents will argue that this bill would improve education by increasing competition, but that assumes that private and public institutions can compete on equal terms. I feel that due to the obligations faced by public education that this will not be the case. Private schools are not required to provide an education to every student in the same ways that public schools are. It will be very easy for them to appear to outperform public institutions simply by expelling students who would jeopardize their performance metrics. Public schools are incapable of doing the same.

To be clear, I believe that this is absolutely the right of a private school, and I support their decision to accept/reject any student that they wish.

Sarah Recio, Mrs.
Dixie Elementary School PTA
TYLER, TX

Public education is important to us! We need funding and it would help us!

pamela Davis Wagner
Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority
Lancaster, TX

Public Education Savings Account Program

Calli Keener
Self
Waxahachie, TX

As a former educator, Christian and parent of 4 public school Texans. I am against HB 3.

Parents who are wealthy enough to benefit from these vouchers (ESAs) already can choose whichever approach to educating their kids they prefer.

It is selfish to undercut the quality of the public education offered to all by taking from its funding—indeed antithetical to the caring, generous, servant-mindedness of putting others first that I once believed were hallmarks of conservatism.

Public education is enshrined in our state Constitution and is for the common good.

We really don't do much in this country together for the best interests of not only the kids—whose public education would be diminished by these ESAs—but for the best for us all.

When our citizens all get a solid education, we can all work better together to responsibly shape our state and country.

And if all public funds intended for public education are distributed to public education, so that it is well-funded, it then can look at innovative ways to best meet the needs of the kids on the margins, for whom public school in its anemic state (brought on by years of unfunded mandates, outsized focused on testing, and refusals to direct surpluses toward public education) has not seemed the best fit.

Additionally, public funding to church schools opens up unnecessary opportunities for the state to impose its will upon the church, an concern equal to concerns about the church having undue influence on the state for early Americans (Baptists) who stood up for religious liberty in our nation's formation. Religious liberty is protected when lines between church and state are clear and unblurred.

School choice already exists. At least half the kids in my kids' church youth group are homeschooled or attend private schools without these voucher/ESAs.

This legislation takes funds from the kids who have no choice in their education, to give it to families already privileged enough to choose to educate their kids however they believe is best for their kids.

This bill "fixes" an issue that doesn't exist. It's unnecessary, damaging to our most vulnerable kids, and should not be passed. Texas doesn't want it. Listen to the people and stop this voucher nonsense—for the common good and for our kids.

Texas kids deserve our best. School voucher/ESAs are the opposite of that.

Respectfully, please do not make them a reality because some rich guys in West Texas spent a lot of money to get what they want. Listen to the people now, or you will hear us at the voting booth.

Anna Lundy
Self
Spring, TX

I am writing to express my firm opposition to House Bill 3. The implementation of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) and vouchers violates fundamental principles outlined in our constitution and specifically undermines the integrity of public education.

To bring school funding back to 2019 levels, we need to increase the basic student allotment by over $1,000. This adjustment is essential for ensuring that our schools can provide the quality education that every child deserves. By prioritizing education funding in our state budget, and increasing the basic student allotment based on inflation, we are not only making a wise investment in our future but also ensuring that children have the opportunity to thrive and reach their full potential.

Serenity Coats

Self

Leander, TX

I oppose HB 3 for a variety of reasons. Vouchers divert public funds from public schools to private schools, which can lead to budget cuts, teacher layoffs, and school closures. Vouchers may not provide adequate support for students with disabilities or special needs. There's no evidence that vouchers actually improve students' academic performance. Vouchers will not ensure that all of Texas children have access to a quality education. Since the state cannot mandate the price of private education, only students from a certain socioeconomic background would benefit from these vouchers. Texas should value all their constituents and in order to do that we should fund public education.

Catherine Stroud, Retired teacher

Self

Gainesville, TX

As a retired teacher who taught 32 years in public schools I am not in favor of HB2 or HB3. Actually the people in our area have many choices where to go to school. These particular bills don't represent my idea of school choice. If a parent is not pleased with the public school he can get funds for a private or to homeschool. The parents who already pay school taxes would get money for the schooling they chose with no strings attached. That was my vision of school choice and vouchers. In my humble opinion we are putting way too emphasis on the wrong thing. We don't need more money nor more bureaucracy in the school business. . I would like to go back to standardized testing at the beginning of the year and then towards the end of the year instead of the Staar which is expensive and involves constant testing. Thank you for serving and tackling education which is very difficult and confusing. I know you want the best as do I for Texas students. Thanks so much for listening to a retired classroom teacher.

David Wolf, Mr.

Self/Registered Nurse

Frisco, TX

I'm writing to urge the Representatives to vote no on HB 3. I fear that this bill gives the illusion of school choice without it actually being a financial option for many Texans due to the high cost of private schools, especially in areas where the public schools are underperforming. The answer to improve public education is to invest in public education, where it is truly open to the public. Private schools get to "choose" who they admit: they are going to be less willing to take on special needs students that cost more compared to a student without special needs. If you want to give a tax break to parents who have the funds to send their kids to private schools, that would be a better option than giving the illusion of school choice when for many Texans, they either can't afford it, or they don't have any accredited private schools near where they live. Thank you for your consideration!

Quynh Trine

Self

Austin, TX

Say NO to ESAs and YES to Funding Public Education

Hello,

I live in Austin Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Quynh Trine

David Vizurraga

Self

San Antonio, TX

Do not pass

Mary Moore, Dr.

Self

Liberty Hill, TX

SB2/HB3 grows government, weakens local schools, and wastes taxpayer money with zero accountability. It strips rural schools of funding, could send tax dollars to religious or controversial private schools, and violates the Texas Constitution's duty to public education. Say NO to SB2 & HB3!

Misty Whited

Self

Austin, TX

My name is Misty and I am a 5th generation Texan, a proud parent of a middle and high school student in Austin ISD, and a former public school student from Del Valle ISD. I am here today to express my strong opposition to school vouchers and to share why I believe they would be harmful to our public education system and ultimately, to our children.

I was raised in a blue-collar family and relied on public education from K-12, followed by earning a college degree at a Texas public university. Thanks to the public education system, I was able to achieve economic mobility for myself and my family of four. Public education gave me the tools to succeed, and I believe it is the foundation of opportunity for all children, regardless of their background or financial means.

As a middle-class family with a good living, this voucher bill would not allow me to send my children to a private school. Private schools in my community cost anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000 per student per year — far beyond what most middle-class families can afford, even with a voucher. School vouchers are a scam that primarily benefit the wealthy and will siphon critical funding from our public schools, leaving the majority of children, especially those in low-income communities, with fewer resources and opportunities.

Additionally, my son has a learning disability, and I believe a voucher system cannot guarantee that he would be accepted into a private school or, more importantly, that the private school would provide the necessary supports and accommodations he needs to thrive. Public schools are required by law to provide individualized services for children with disabilities, something that private schools are not always equipped or required to do. This is a critical concern for families like mine, who rely on the public school system to ensure our children have the resources and support they need to succeed.

Texas has a responsibility to ensure that all children, regardless of their zip code or ability, have access to a quality education. Instead of diverting funds away from public schools, we should be focusing on strengthening them so every child has the opportunity to succeed. I urge you to reject this harmful proposal and support policies that invest in our public education system — the system that serves the majority of Texas children and has helped generations of families, like mine, build a better life.

Thank you for your time and consideration

Casey Pugh

Self/Self employed

Ransom Canyon, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3. It will drain funding the public schools desperately need. This will force schools to cut extracurricular activities. It will make public schools student to teacher ratio even bigger. It will hurt rural families that have no option for private schools. It will hurt families that relay on special education programs. Furthermore, it will raise property taxes. As a Texas citizen and a parent of three schools aged kids, that are all in rural public schools, I am urging you to please vote AGAINST HB 3. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Monica Lasky

Self

Cedar Park, TX

I beleive in public education for ALL. Vouchers mean for some.

What makes our state and USA different from other countries in America. Its the public education. We have access to after school programs that other countries just dream about, we have services for gifted, no gifted, and in need students. Third world countries don't have these privileges, and the divude between rich and poor is enormous. We dont want that for Texas.

Please provide for public education.

Please provide for a larger student allotment at least 1,300.per child.

Please dont sell yourself to billionaires. We need you.

Traci Woodard
Self- Public School Teacher
Paradise, TX

Please do not allow this to pass. Our children deserve better. This will absolutely be detrimental to public schools, teachers, students, and our future

Melissa Brooks
Self
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to any school voucher programs in Texas. As a concerned constituent in Austin, I believe public tax dollars should be used to strengthen our public schools, not divert funds to private institutions that lack accountability and exclude many students.

Public schools are the foundation of our education system, serving the vast majority of Texas children. School vouchers would siphon much-needed funding from these schools, leading to larger class sizes, fewer resources, and diminished opportunities—especially for students in lower-income and underserved communities. Instead of expanding choices, vouchers primarily benefit families who can already afford private tuition while leaving our most vulnerable students behind.

Additionally, private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same standards as public schools. They are not required to follow state curriculum guidelines, provide special education services, or accept all students. This lack of oversight means taxpayer dollars could fund schools that discriminate in admissions, teach biased curricula, or fail to meet basic educational standards. Meanwhile, our public schools remain underfunded and expected to serve every student, regardless of background or ability.

Rather than taking resources away from public education, I urge you to focus on solutions that actually strengthen our schools—such as increased funding for teacher salaries, mental health services, and classroom resources. Our public school students and educators deserve better than a system that undermines them.

Please stand with Texas families and vote against any efforts to implement school vouchers. I look forward to your response on this critical issue.

Sincerely,
Melissa

Brooke Anderson, School Based Therapist
Self
Austin, TX

I am a proud parent of two daughters in Austin ISD, I am also a proud, dedicated public school employee. Public schools are the backbone of our democracy and state. This bill robs our public schools the funds they so desperately need to make sure all students have equal access to education. Private schools don't have to serve all students. Private schools get to pick and choose who they educate. When I think about the amazing number of students who would be rejected by many private schools but my children get to learn next to and learn with, I am filled with pride for our public schools. These students might have learning differences or difficulties that a private school would see as "too challenging" or "too expensive" but a public school is always willing to educate them, and not only does that benefit that child, but all the other children that get to learn from them and with them. Our tax dollars need to stay in our public schools. We will bleed them dry for some parents to essentially get a discount for their private school. But the most important reason to vote against this bill is the MAJORITY of Texans are not in support of this bill. The majority of Texans want you to fund public education. The majority of Texans do not want this voucher scam that was created by billionaires who don't have Texan children in mind. I encourage you before you vote on this bill walk into ANY public school in this state and see the amazing things going on each and every day. Texans are proud of their public schools- and you should be too! I urge you to vote no on this bill and instead spend your time wisely passing a new school budget. And again, the MAJORITY of Texans do not want this. Bipartisan support doesn't always happen in this state, but for this bill we all say NO. Thank you for listening and supporting students in Texas public schools.

Ardis Saunders
self
San Antonio, TX

Please don't defund our public schools. Teachers are already having to deal with program and budget cuts, especially when it comes to arts programs.

Karen Kaufmann
Self
Judson, TX

I oppose the use of vouchers to fund private schools. Monies should be committed to Public Schools where all students are accepted and educated. Don't hide behind the school choice rhetoric. Vouchers that give tax payer monies to private schools is a bad idea and no one wants this except Abbott and his mega donors. Please do the right thing for Texas students and oppose vouchers. Thank you.

Rebecca Pederson
Self
Dallas, TX

The establishment of this saving account program does not improve education in Texas. Public Schools have been starved of funding for years. The Texas Constitution states that "all children in Texas have the right to quality public education." This legislation does nothing to improve education for All children. If experience from other states is used, it mainly assists those who already have children in private schools and puts the state budget in serious trouble. It especially does nothing for the students who live in areas that provide no private education. Private schools are a business, not a public good and should receive no public funds. Putting $10,000 per student into public schools would make a significant difference. It would allow for the proper deployment of resources that could help All children. The future of Texas deserves a properly funded quality Public Education. HB3 should be defeated and proper legislation to support Public Education should be passed.

Tiffany Esteban
Self, adjuster
Leander, TX

ESAs will systematically starve the already underfunded public education system. Listening to Buckley at Texas PTA rally I heard the arguments of providing better educational opportunities for special education students. I along with the crowds of other special education families present showed up loud and proud seeking repairs and public funds for public schools. The reality is when my son struggled in public education we had few other options to consider in town and zero of those few options would consider my son. Those who said his academics weren't a considering stated his attendance in private therapies and his support needs would be too large a burden on their resources. It was a blessing in disguise because that left me to navigate the procedural safeguards and build a better relationship with my school district.

What we need is legislation to fund schools. Proper funding allows public schools to better serve all students. Ultimately this also increases student relationships in their own neighborhoods.

Texas needs to focus on strengthening the public school system not directing funds away from them crippling them further.

Lori Musquiz, Mrs.

Self - educator

Corpus Christi, TX

I have been an educator for 25 years. I oppose school vouchers. Governor Abbott continues to lie and mislead Texans into thinking vouchers are a positive school choice. These bills will take funding away from needed children like those in special education, the 504 program, free/reduced lunches, and neighborhood children who want and deserve a good public school education. Rural areas of Texas would not benefit because the resources are limited. Public schools are not required to abide by individualized educational plans nor even admit students with such disabilities. Public schools are also not required to provide transportation to students. Low-income families will not be able to take their children across town to private schools so once again the rich win. The wealthy are the only ones who will benefit from school vouchers. I propose Governor Abbott put this on the next ballot and allow Texans to vote. Of course he will not because he knows he will lose instead he is twisting the arms of representatives and senators to vote on his side. I'm disgusted with the Governor's actions and lies. Educators oppose vouchers! A vote of no against school vouchers is a vote of yes for Texas children and our future. Give teachers what they are deserving of and help children succeed!!

Jeff Wheat

Self, Educator

Cumby, TX

I am writing to express my extreme displeasure with using public money to support private schools. Our governor has been pushing this for several years. The majority of students would not be able to benefit from this as there are so many counties without private or charter schools. This would also effectively take money from rural districts which are already struggling to keep up with inflation and increasing enrollments. Governor Abbott has been holding teacher pay raises hostage for too long. Please do not support this bullying attempt that he is engaged in to support his big-money donors.

Rebecca Perkins

Self, teacher

Houston, TX

I am writing to you today as both a parent of a special needs child and an educator at a Title 1 school, to speak from my heart in opposition to the proposed school vouchers in Texas. My son, Sam, is 9 years old and has been diagnosed with dyslexia, autism, speech delay, and ADD. As both a parent and a teacher, I see every day how essential specialized support is for children like him.

As we know, public schools are legally required to provide services like Individualized Education Plans (IEPs) and speech therapy—services that my son Sam, relies on to succeed. Without them, he would struggle to keep up and participate with his peers. Vouchers would greatly redirect public funds to private schools, many of which lack the resources or legal obligation to provide the support that children with disabilities, like my son, need. This would leave my son without the help he depends on, making it even harder for him to reach his full potential.

What breaks my heart even more is the current lawsuit in Texas to remove 504 protections for students with disabilities. These protections ensure that students like my son, receive accommodations like extra time on tests, which allow them to participate in school on an equal footing. Without these protections, it would be nearly impossible for my son, and students like him to access the help they need.

Special education has already been grossly underfunded for years, and if vouchers continue to drain funds from public schools, the support Sam and children like him rely on will only continue to shrink.

As both a teacher and a parent, I know how crucial it is to have a system that guarantees every child can get the support they need to succeed. Private schools accepting vouchers are not required to provide the same level of support, and many simply don't have the expertise to work with children who need accommodations.

For Sam, this means fewer choices, fewer opportunities, and a future at risk.

The voucher system isn't just a policy for my son—it's a policy that threatens the future of so many vulnerable children who depend on public schools to provide them with the services they need. I ask you, as a parent, and as an educator, to consider the lasting impact this could have on children like Sam, who deserve the chance to thrive.

Melissa Thrash

Self

Leander, TX

Hi, I'm 25 year veteran educator who has spent that entire time in public schools. I emphatically oppose HB 3. There has been a lot of information shared that suggests school choice is what Texans want. I'm wondering what Texans were polled for that conclusion. Is it the wealthy, already sending their child to private school Texans? I could see how they would benefit and desire that. The vast majority of students in Texas will NOT benefit from this bill. Public schools will suffer, as we are already EXTREMELY underfunded as it is. Just ask any superintendent of any public school system how far behind funding has remained for years. The funds that are going to assist the already more affluent families could be better spent on the students that need it most, public school children all across the state. I'm wondering how many that support this bill also supported the former President's bill to cancel student loan debt? How is this bill any different? We're going to take tax dollars and pay for someone else's student tuition to private school. Or fund someone who elects to homeschool their child. Private schools are not held to the same standards to support ALL students in their pursuit of an education. They can say yes or no to any student. We in public schools do not have that luxury. We have to educate them all, no matter their disability, their demographic or financial status. If the concern is about state testing and accountability then spend some time and energy to research that. The last several sessions various bills have been passed for education that didn't come with an increase in funding. How is it that a district is supposed to keep kids safe by hiring marshals and safety individuals without an increase in funding to pay those individuals? Ask any public school teacher their thoughts. Ask them how hard the job has become due to the lack of funding and increased responsibilities. Ask any former teacher who has left the profession because of the pressures around the job why they left. This bill could drive more teachers out than are coming in. A small change in that, can cause the TRS, which a large number of us are relying on for our main retirement income, to be compromised. I've spent my entire adult life as an educator. A decline in TRS could have a detrimental effect as both my spouse and I have dedicated our lives to education. The lack of equalizing funding the last several years is causing districts to make very difficult decisions to surplus staff members. Some of those folks are being forced to look at things like how to take care of their families and selves if there is not a job for them. I hope you will strongly consider opposing this bill and fighting for ALL Texas age school children and their amazing teachers. Thank you, may God guide your heart.

Karen Verschoor

Self, retired teacher

San Antonio, TX

As a former school teacher, I am very concerned about this. I wish to go on the record as vehemently opposed. Private schools are not required to follow the same rigorous standards as public schools. The voucher system will reduce public school funding by millions of dollars. Public schools will have to increase class size and reduce programs to help students get an education. If you were to put this up as a public referendum I'm sure it would be defeated.

Sarah Holloway

Self

Mckinney, TX

If you didn't hear from the parents at PTA Rally Day or Palestine's town hall, the majority of Texas does not want to spend millions of taxpayer dollars on around 100,000 of students. My son and daughter wouldn't be accepted at 99% of private schools or charters because they are either on an IEP or 504 plan. I cannot believe you had the audacity to say they would have more of a chance. Also, if you follow through on this ludicrous and anti-conservative plan, make it equal. Both private schools AND public schools should be funded by ENROLLMENT. Nothing about vouchers can be part of the fiscally-conservative plan. This is a sham. It is welfare for the wealthy. The fact that you had to raise the poverty level so high says everything. This is unacceptable. FULLY FUND PUBLIC SCHOOLS. I am a 20-year veteran secondary teacher and we are drowning with the legislature's failed programs. Don't sink the ship and instead of repairing it, open an escape hatch for the wealthy. If you want this because you don't want kids to take the STAAR test, then the answer is simple. If the test is bad for some it's bad for all. If I were indoctrinating my students, it would be to bring a charged Chromebook every day. Do better. Stop vilifying public educators who are doing everything in our power to have an educated society.

Jamie Smethie

Self

Cedar park, TX

I do not support school vouchers as it would take money away from public schools. The basic allotment needs to be raised by a minimum of $1300

Betty Jo Sargent

Self and retired

Canyon Lake, TX

School vouchers are a terrible idea. Public schools rely on taxpayer funding to provide quality education to all students. When Public schools rely on taxpayer funding to provide quality education to all students. Voucher programs divert these funds to private schools, public schools are left with fewer resources to support teachers, students, and essential programs. The result? Larger class sizes, outdated materials, school closures, and reduced support for students who need it most. As a resident of Texas I urge you to vote for our public schools, teachers and students to vote NO to vouchers. Vouchers are a terrible idea for Texas.

Mandy Kajs

Self/teacher

Crowell, TX

As a public educator, I do not fully understand giving more money to private school parents than public school children is fair to any tax payer. It seems to me that you are essentially telling children that if they do not attend private schools, they are not as valued.

I, also as a tax payer and educator, do not feel that my tax money should be given to people that are making a choice to send their children to a school that is not supervised or assessed to the same degree as a public school.

You also make public educators feel as though we are not good enough. For those of us that went to college to obtain an education degree, it is a slap in the face to say I am not good at my job as a public school teacher who passed required state certification tests. I have known of several people that could not pass their certification tests, so they went and taught at a private school that did not require state certifications.

If a parent chooses to send their child to a private school, they should know they are making the choice to pay as they always have.

Private schools are not going to take on the extra burden of special needs children or behavior issues that public schools cannot turn away, so of course private schools will be more "appealing" than public schools for some families.

The majority of students in Texas do not have access to private schools due to none being in their area. How is this bill helping any student in a rural area? How is helping in low income areas where private schools cost more than what is trying to be "allotted" to families?

In closing, I would think the state and their residents would want to get schools to where they were when most of us were growing up, certified teachers that went to college to teach and learn the craft they wanted to spend their career perfecting. Maybe if we put more into getting people to go to college to get their degree in education, as I did, we could make public schools flourish as they did in the past. There are so many ways to make this bill work for ALL students and educators, not just a few that can already afford a high priced education at a discounted cost.

Nelly Paulina Ramírez

self

Austin, TX

Educational savings accounts are giveaways for the rich. It is an entitlement program for the most entitled. Giving Texas taxpayer money to unaccountable private schools in an effort to line the pockets of the donors that represent the GOP. Stop this nonsense and FUND PUBLIC SCHOOLS which the majority of Texas's children go to school. If rich people want more tax breaks, they should move into smaller houses and buy less stuff.

Debra Scarbrough

Self

Ft Worth, TX

Please don't pass school vouchers. You will be hurting the students that need a public education. Not all students will be accepted to private schools because they won't make the criteria. If they have discipline problems, private schools will take their money and then kick them out.

Jennifer Hammock

Self

Houston, TX

All students in Texas deserve our very best. This includes students with an Individualized Education Plan. Vouchers will only functionally help a small portion of students while hurting a greater portion of not only students but teachers, aides, speech language pathologists, occupational therapists, physical therapists, adaptive PE teachers, etc. The loss of jobs would be damaging to the state. The loss of access would be damaging to our students. That is not worth the monetary incentives driving this scenario. VOTE No!

Lauren Flores

Self

Tomball, TX

I am not okay with public funds going to private school vouchers or savings accounts. We need to fund Texas Public Schools properly and build up our Texas Public school system.

Mackenzie Viviano

Self

Aubrey, TX

ESAs and other voucher programs have been proven ineffective by many other states who have tried before us. Please research what happened in Arizona. Texas already has school choice and it should not be the public tax dollars funding private educations. It's fine for parents to want a private school education, but I don't want to pay for it. I want my money to support ALL students, regardless of the SES, race, gender, IEP/504 status, etc. We all benefit from an educated society and continuing to divert or withhold funding from public school will further widen the gap, not fill it.

Corey Baron

self, software developer

Sugar Land, TX

I do not support this! It will hurt public schools, impact hard working teachers who work at these schools and worst of all, negatively affect a majority of Texas kids who attend those schools. Private schools are inherently privately funded, have no accountability for the state funds' use and there is no reason the government should be funding them. This is not the way to improve education in our state, and will end up making things worse. We can do better. We have a responsibility to do better.

Cynthia Grubb

Self

Dallas, TX

After reviewing numerous information regarding school choice bills, it is my strong opinion that HB 3 is a horrible bill. School Choice is a Trojan Horse and it will destroy private schools and homeschools. When the money follows the child then the state can mandate government curriculum. This action will do nothing to better educate students. This will make every school a government school and removes the choice of parents to get away from the inappropriate curriculum that they prefer their children to not be exposed to. Parents who support School Choice assume that the process will be simple. They select a school that they want their child to go to and the child can immediately can go to that school. In reality, NOT all students will be able to have the vouchers because there aren't enough allocated for every student- that in and of itself is discriminatory. If a parent is lucky enough to get a voucher, they still have to fill out an application and then wait to be accepted. What happens when that student is not accepted?

Will they seek legal recourse? Will the taxpayers be held liable if a parent sues the school and the state? This idea is a disaster waiting to happen and it is my opinion that this bill will not lift up the education of the students.

Linda Bain

Self travel agent

Needville, TX

No to school vouchers

Maria Rodriguez, Teacher

Self/Public Educator

Falfurrias, TX

Private school vouchers have been a topic of debate, and while they aim to provide families with more educational choices, there are several negative impacts associated with their implementation. Vouchers may not cover the full cost of private school tuition, limiting access for low-income families. This can perpetuate socioeconomic disparities, as wealthier families can afford to supplement the difference. This will reduce funds for public schools. When funds are allocated to vouchers, it can lead to decreased funding for public schools, which may struggle to maintain quality education and resources for remaining students. This will impact the accountability system. Private schools receiving voucher funds may not be subject to the same accountability measures as public schools, leading to concerns about educational standards and transparency. These vouchers can contribute to increased segregation by allowing families to select schools based on specific preferences, which may correlate with race or income, thus undermining diversity. The quality of education in private schools can vary significantly, and parents may not always have the information needed to make informed choices about school qualities. This will impact teacher salaries tremendously! With a shift of funds to private schools, public schools may face budget cuts, which can lead to layoffs, reduced salaries, and lower morale among teachers. The biggest concern is the neglect of our Special needs students! Private schools may not be required to accommodate special needs students to the same extent as public schools, potentially limiting educational opportunities for Special Needs Students!

Public schools often serve as community hubs, and the diversion of students to private schools can weaken community ties and reduce engagement in public education. These factors highlight the complexities and potential downsides of implementing private school voucher programs, raising important questions about equity, quality, and the overall impact on the educational landscape.

Jonathan Vanderlaan

self / software engineer

Melissa, TX

As someone with two children attending and a spouse working in public schools, the idea that you would take a quarter of the proposed increase in school funding out of public schools is devastating. You pat yourself on the back for a meager $220 per student increase that doesn't even scratch the surface of need in Texas. This bill and the policies behind it will be the death of public schools in Texas, putting us even further behind while the elite get paid to go to private schools. I sure didn't vote for any of you supporting this bill, and yet you are still supposed to represent me and my family by fully funding the schools for which you control the budget, not providing tax dollars to individuals who want to pay less to attend private institutions they view as ideologically consistent with their personal beliefs.

Larry Miller
Retired teacher
AUSTIN, TX

I moved to Austin in 2024 from Wisconsin. There as a teacher and school board member I saw the damage done to our children because of vouchers. Resources for all children, public and private, are depleted putting U.S. education in a race to the bottom. Today, there are almost 400 private, mostly religious schools throughout Wisconsin, annually receiving roughly half a billion dollars in taxpayer money.

In the 1990s, Wisconsin (along with Ohio and Indiana) was in the forefront of a handful of states finding ways to use public dollars to support private schools. The programs go by various innocuous, democratic-sounding names — “Educational Savings Accounts,” “Education Freedom Accounts,” “Invest in Kids,” “Opportunity Scholarships,” “Empowerment Scholarships.” Some programs include homeschooling.

The people of Wisconsin never voted in favor of public tax dollars going to private religious schools. In fact, throughout the country, any time vouchers have been put to a popular vote (such as statewide referendums in Michigan, Utah, and California), they have been soundly defeated.

Looking over the more than three decades of Wisconsin’s voucher program, the strategy has been clear: gain a foothold and advance whenever possible toward the goal of universal vouchers — i.e., public tax dollars paying students’ tuition at private schools, with few if any strings attached.

Wisconsin voucher legislation allows private voucher schools to evade regulations that public schools must adhere to. Here are just a few of the important legal differences between public and private schools in Wisconsin:

- Public schools are prohibited from discriminating against students on the basis of sex, pregnancy, marital or parental status, or sexual orientation. Private voucher schools are allowed to circumvent these anti-discrimination measures. (The only restrictions are that voucher schools must adhere to federal anti-discrimination guidelines based on race, color, or national origin.)
- Public schools must honor constitutional rights of free speech and association, and due process when a student is suspended or expelled. Private voucher schools do not.
- Public schools must follow Wisconsin’s open meetings and record laws. Private voucher schools do not.
- Public schools are controlled by publicly elected school boards. Private voucher schools are not.
- Wisconsin school board meetings are open to the public. Private school board meetings are not.
- Public Schools must adhere to all special education regulations. Not so for private voucher schools.

Please vote NO for the sake of our children.

Judith Stowe
Self
Tioga, TX

I implore you to halt this school voucher bill! This bill will cause serious harm to public education in Texas and deprive students who do not attend private schools with inferior educational opportunities.

Jennifer Cooper
Self -teacher and parent
Leander, TX

Mr.Buckley,
I am a public school teacher of 21 years. I've worked in a multitude of settings with ages 5-18 in my career. I am a parent of a 4 year old and 14 year old. I appreciate your perspective coming from a household of teachers. However, I beg you to try and see many of "our" perspectives as well. "Our" meaning the majority of public school teachers. Currently, Texas school districts are making cuts to their many programs due to budget shortfalls due to the lack of funds given to the schools. Many students are losing access to programs that help them grow and thrive in school. I have had to field many concerns from students and their parents about their services being taken away due to these cuts. If vouchers pass, that means even more cuts to programs that benefit students. I work in a portable that wont heat past 65 and cool past 74. I teach with gloves and with sweat. I teach with fear and worry. Fear of school shootings, and worry of losing my job. I've spent 20 years building my career. I've taken countless trainings, obtained several certifications, presented at state conferences, and sit on the state committee for GT. I do this because I love my job, and I'm invested in our future. These kids are our future. The majority of Texas children attend public schools. We teach with limited materials, rough conditions, strict curriculum mandates, and societal pressures and misunderstanding. But we show up and teach and constantly perfect our craft in order to give these kids the education they deserve. That is what the majority of public school teachers look like, do, and feel. Can you imagine if the state invested in public schools? We could provide more choice to students through innovative avenues and measures. If the choice is based on religious access, then I think we need to remember who we serve as a "public" entity. Please don't take funds away from schools who are already struggling to keep their staff and programs. My own children will suffer as will so many others. And for what? For a portion of the population who want support paying for a religious education? We actually let the students study their passions and practice their own religions freely. Public education embraces all and commits to doing all they can to meet their needs. However, with less funding, those passionate educators will leave and the majority of students will suffer as a result. Please look at be research where vouchers have passed and have been in play. Please try and see another perspective. Thank you for your time.

Christine Hansanuwat
Self
Leander, TX

Stop what you're doing right now and get your comments into public record now AGAINST HB3! It doesn't take long. It's for the kids!

NO to VOUCHERS!
Properly fund PUBLIC SCHOOLS
Make $1300 the Basic Allotment per child

Amanda Hollis
Self
DALLAS, TX

Out of state billionaires do NOT get the opportunity take over Texas, our Beloved Texas. Abbott is deliberately ignoring and betraying the majority of the entire state population who DO NOT WANT VOUCHERS. They are a proven scam. Welfare for the wealthy at the detriment to every day Texans. The historical grit and termination of The Lone Star State will continue to reject this profit over people mindset by the corrupt governor, who wouldn't even be able to navigate the Governor's Mansion or the state capitol without the very DEI programs he's cut from underneath those who need it. The AUDACITY to close the very educational and equity doors behind you that were opened for you. SHAME! Texas' motto is "Friendship", but we no longer deserve that recognition when this despicable leadership is determined to feed their own self interests above loving their neighbors. In this season of Lent they continue to reject, starve, dehydrate, strip, impoverish, and deport the same Jesus they claim to follow. Jesus weeps. Repent. "Sell all that you own and give it to the poor, for it is harder for a rich man to get into heaven than for a camel to fit through the eye of a needle." $12 million can help a lot of poor folks. Repent.

Lisa Cauley

self

El Paso, TX

I am a disabled special education teacher, who lost my ability to work from a workplace accident . Because the pain and stresses of being disabled were extreme, I developed epilepsy approximately 8 years into being unable to work. I spent a year shortly after developing epilepsy not leaving my home after around two in the afternoon because I developed epileptic auras around that time daily. I couldn't drive because the few times I left the house feeling that way, I had a seizure. I am the mother to two children, who at the time did not drive. All of the medications doctors prescribed did not work, and I had lost all hope of ever living even a slightly normal life again. I have 17 years sober, and this was in 2019, so you can imagine that considering marijuana for this condition had been a difficult decision. I did try the traditional route with available smokeable THC, but it just didn't really help. I also tried CBD tinctures, but with limited success. I had an online "friend" at the time, Colt DeMorris, who I noticed worked with El Paso's branch of NORMAL. I got in touch with him to ask what would work, the doctor's didn't know, and he informed me that a high dose THC/CBD tincture had worked best. I got my medical license and purchased the tincture. THE VERY NEXT DAY I HAD NO AURAS, I was seizure and aura free for the first time in well over a year. It has been 5 years since, and I remain able to drive, help my children with things, and just generally participate in life. I also have chronic pain, and CPTSD with severe dissociation. The marijuana has helped these conditions tremendously as well. I know the political rhetoric around this issue is intense, as well as is the pressure from those who just won't listen to patients, to make it completely illegal. This would be a mistake of epic proportions. It is not just me that benefits from marijuana as medicine. I know several people who use it for illnesses such as depression, my daughter being one, and it is a life saver for them. Many of these individuals do not qualify for the med card, so they buy from local dispensaries that sell all over the state. Moreover, there are so many individuals that use these stores as places where solutions to problems that traditional medications have failed to help, can be discussed openly and without judgement. There are communities who rely on these stores as well as so many individuals, many veterans. If these places have to shutter simply because some lawmakers feel like they have egg on their face, we will be moving backwards back into the criminalized version of reality that we have been so fortunate to escape. TAX THESE PLACES. MAKE MONEY OFF OF THEM. There is an opportunity for our state to move into even more profitability here. Forgive me, but I feel to lose this opportunity simply because someone feels foolish is just absurd. Those of us that use them are adults. We deserve to retain our access.

Charity Pihlaja

self, writing consultant

Lubbock, TX

Evidence from other states show school voucher programs primarily benefit the wealthy. There is not enough money on the table to provide low-income families with tuition, uniforms, two meals a day, transportation, and special education support as needed. Even with access to vouchers, these families will not be able to make use of them. The Texas legislature is insulting hard working public school teachers by holding a state surplus hostage for fear of Abbott if the House votes in a way that supports the majority of their constituents instead of one person. I oppose school vouchers and support better-funded public schools.

Adrienne Goldsberry

self, college instructor

Austin, TX

I oppose Educational Savings Accounts and support public money being used for public education. We should be using our funds to improve public schools so that they can be the best in the country - not taking away funds from public schools. Thank you for your consideration.

Karin Tong

Self/public school librarian

Houston, TX

Please support and fund PUBLIC SCHOOLS! Vouchers are NOT the answer to improving our failing education system. Our students and educators deserve school districts that are better funded and supported by our state.

Hilary Haines

Self, physical therapist

Houston, TX

Vote "No" to HB3. Private schools can deny a student for any reason, a public school can't. And vouchers are used by rich folks who already have their kids in private schools. I don't want my tax dollars to fund a wealthy child's private education while my nieces and nephews in public school have higher student to teacher ratios and less resources.

Kevin Kosch

self, educator

Buda, TX

I am against school vouchers and am for fully funding and supporting public schools in Texas. There are over 150 counties in the state where you cannot even send your child to a private school. Distributing taxpayers dollars to help those who already have their children in private schools will only harm the less fortunate and less able in our state. The state already ranks among the worst in education and making it harder for children, especially rural children, to have access to a robustly supported public school system is only going to make the disparity more pronounced.

Sonia Chin

self, teacher

Addison, TX

It is vital to the future of our state that children receive high quality education. Voucher programs implemented in other states have not yielded educational outcomes better than public school education. Instead, they serve to siphon crucial tax dollars away from public education which serves the most families. Private education has its place - I have taught for many years in the private high school setting - but I do not want my tax dollars going towards subsidizing private education.

Tobie Riley

Self/Educator

Lubbock, TX

This bill is not within the best interest of families, students, or educators. There are statistics showing that states with school voucher systems in place have negative education results, and that these vouchers primarily help students who were never in public schools in the first place. It is the firm belief of myself and those around me that funding works better than competition in improving our public schools. This legislature will serve to harm our public schools, our public school students, and the ability of educators to do their best job.

Linda Griffin

self, retired Texas public school CTE teacher

Midland, TX

As a retired Texas public school teacher I am opposed to school vouchers. I have worked in both public and private schools and can verify that private schools are lax in the standards required of public schools. Also, charter schools were implemented in Texas to give parents a choice for their kids and it is now proven that the many students going to charter schools don't do as well as students going to public schools on state tests. Plus, I do not want my tax dollars going to fund a religious school that does not teach what I believe to be correct doctrine. Why should Texas taxpayers pay for students to attend Muslim, Chinese, Hindu or any other religious school. Since there are many different beliefs within the "Christian" faith, I do not want my tax dollars going to some questionable "Christian" school. I say NO to vouchers.

Tracy Hanes

Self

Victoria, TX

My name is Tracy Hanes, and I am submitting testimony AGAINST HB3. As a Texas parent, constitutional grassroots education activist, and Texas State Delegate in District 18, I take seriously my duty to defend educational freedom, parental rights, and local control. Texans expect their representatives to uphold conservative principles, not expand government control over education. This is not just a policy debate—it's about our children, our education system, and preserving liberty. HB3 is a direct threat to parental rights and true school choice.

HB3 Violates the Republican Party Platform

At the Republican Party of Texas Convention, thousands of grassroots delegates stood to defend Texas' sovereignty and parental rights in education.

On Page 15 of the 2024 Republican Party Platform, Plank 84 states:

“We support further empowering all Texas families to choose from public, private, charter, or homeschool options for their children's education and funding which shall follow the student with no strings attached.”

Texans reject education funding that comes with government-imposed strings. Yet, despite a Republican-majority legislature, HB3 contradicts these principles.

HB3 Expands Government—Not Freedom

Government-Run Healthcare was promised to lower costs, but it led to higher costs, fewer choices, and more bureaucracy.

Government-Regulated School “Choice” will do the same—more control, more regulations, less freedom.

Governor Abbott admitted vouchers come with testing, accountability measures, and government oversight. That is not educational freedom—it is state control over private education.

HB3 Forces Data Collection & Testing Mandates

HB3 imposes government mandates on private schools and homeschools:

Mandatory MAP Testing (4x a Year) – A massive data collection system tied to Common Core math, which Texans rejected.

Student Data Tracking – Schools accepting vouchers must comply with state oversight and curriculum control.

What Should Be Done Instead?

Dismantle the Texas Education Agency (TEA).

Eliminate Property Taxes.

Offer Property Tax Exemptions for Education Costs.

Final Plea to Legislators

Do not pass HB3. Protect Texas families and their right to educate without government interference.

For Liberty,

Tracy and Troy Hanes

Victoria, Texas

Jane Wolf

Self

Midland, TX

“I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program.

As required by the state constitution, the legislature should fund PUBLIC education .- and fund it ADEQUATELY. 5.5 million young Texans are in our public schools. We need them to be well educated and career, college or military service ready!

Lyndsie Schur
Self/teacher
Meridian, TX

To whom it concerns,

It is imperative that lawmakers think of all students and teachers when making this decision. Parents have had the choice of where they send their kids to school since the beginning of time. Sure it might mean that they pick up and move to another town, neighborhood, etc, but that is still their choice. Making a decision of this nature is not doing what is best for all students; it is doing what is best for the wealthy that can already afford it. Being a teacher of 9 years, all of that time being in Title I schools, I can't help but see the faces of the students who will receive the short end of the stick from lawmakers. My ESL students, my 504 students, my special education students, even my general education students are ones that will be hurt by this. Another point I would like to mention is that just because a student goes to a Title I school does not mean that a student doesn't have the opportunity to have a successful life. Many of my students have become successful doctors, lawyers, teachers, mechanics, welders, etc. If you truly believe that money is the issue for students receiving a high quality education, release the funds to the public schools and allow us teachers to do our jobs in the best way we know how!

Thank you for your time,
A teacher who loves all of my students the same

Eric Vormelker
Self
Austin, TX

This is a scam. Despite what one of the committee members' phone answerers insisted, this has been passed in other states and all that happens is that private schools increase their tuition the amount of the vouchers leaving parents no better off, but the private schools richer. It cannot make up for what even middle class people would need to send their children to private schools. And making the private schools richer is, in effect, state supported religion. Naming it something different from vouchers doesn't change what it is. This needs to end now. The state, both urban, suburban, and rural have rejected this multiple times for years. Stop taking bribes from billionaires to ram it through. Education is the cornerstone of our civil society and our democracy. It needs to be fully funded, not stolen from and destroyed.

Tim Porch
Parent
Leander, TX

I support School choice, kids should have more options for learning.
Please support this bill

Elizabeth Vann
Self
Porter, TX

I cannot wait for these to go in effect we live in Montgomery County and in a poor district. You have two small children that attend public schools, the education lacks, and they are not taught what they need to learn at their grade due to overcrowding overworked teachers and frankly some that just do not care our baby girl has been bullied several times since she has started pre-K and is now in second grades our little boy who is now in pre-K is doing OK for the better share this is a far cry from where my older kids grew up and got a better education due to be an in a better district (Pearland) i'm glad we have put these bills up for vote and hope they pass. I believe all kids could get a fair and good education and not a crappy one due to the district being poor overcrowded and Teacher that just don't care we tend to put our two little ones into private Christian schools

Kenisha Deloach

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Dear Representative,

I am a taxpayer in the State of Texas, so I want it to be documented that I do NOT support vouchers nor an education savings accounts (ESAs) program. In fact, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools in Texas. We have had inflation of over 20% since 2019, the last time funding was provided for Public Schools in Texas. I want it to be documented that I support the following:

- an Increase of the Basic Allotment, and
- Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflated amount of over 20%.

Representative, we must support our Public Schools with the proper Funding necessary.

Sincerely,

Kenisha Deloach

Nichole York

Self - Occupational Therapist

Celina, TX

I ask that you vote NO to HB 3.

Public tax dollars are intended for public schools. Your education savings account program (vouchers) will hurt our public schools and children across our state. There will not be options for children with special needs. There will not be options for low income families who cannot cover the additional costs. There will not be options for those living in rural areas.

Fully fund our public schools then all Texas children will be able to receive quality education.

Public tax dollars for public education.

Jill Fogle

self- retired

DENTON, TX

I am a retired public school teacher and would like to voice my opposition to the voucher bill. Money given for vouchers will take away from the public schools and will be given to charter and private schools that have no accountability. Many students will not have access or transportation to these schools, and the public schools they do attend will suffer from lack of funds.

Maria Olivieri

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers. Looking at Arizona as an example, 75% of vouchers went to families with children already enrolled in private school and the program took $300,000 away from every public school in the state. I oppose my tax money being spent to subsidize a very few children to attend private schools they would most likely already be attending. This is an egregious use of public money and it serves no one's interest in the state of Texas who care about educating the children in our state

Dialith Urista-Goss

Self

Little Elm, TX

Teachers deserve a raise but what is shameful is that politicians keep holding teacher pay as ransom in order to push their agenda. Teachers and school districts do not need anyone telling them what to teach. They do a fine job of it already and fear mongering by saying schools teach CRT is shameful. As a former U.S. History teacher I can tell you that teachers have zero time for that as it is hard enough to get all mandated TEKS taught in the allotted time. I and no other teacher I have ever met has tried to indoctrinate children, frankly teachers could care less about doing so. They just want to do their job while earning a fair wage and go home at the end of the day. Stealing money from public schools for “school choice” is disgraceful. What politicians should be doing is working hard to ensure our public schools and staff are fully supported. I remember a time when Texas public schools were highly ranked nationally and now we are near the bottom. Frankly, what has changed is the overwhelming greed of self serving Texas officials. Shame! Shame! Do better!!!

Jerleigh Thompson

Self

Arlington, TX

School vouchers is a terrible idea! This is a grift and you should be ashamed of entertaining the idea

Abbey Raymond

Self

Kyle, TX

My name is Abbey Raymond, and I am a concerned teacher, parent, and resident of Kyle, Texas. I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 2, particularly its provisions regarding education vouchers, and to urge you to vote against this bill.

As an educator and parent, I believe that the foundation of a strong, prosperous Texas lies in the strength and accessibility of its public education system. I am deeply concerned that House Bill 2's proposal to divert public funds into private school vouchers will undermine our public schools and harm the very students who need the most support.

The Negative Impact on Public Education

Texas' public schools serve the vast majority of students in our state, including those from low-income families, special needs students, and English language learners. Public schools are not just educational institutions—they are community hubs that provide essential services, including free meals, mental health support, and extracurricular programs. These services are vital for the well-being and development of Texas' future workforce.

By redirecting taxpayer dollars to private schools through education vouchers, House Bill 2 threatens to siphon critical funding away from public schools, further exacerbating existing disparities in educational resources. This bill undermines the principle of equal access to quality education for all Texas students, regardless of their zip code.

Lack of Accountability and Oversight

Private schools that would benefit from voucher programs are not subject to the same oversight and accountability standards as public schools. Unlike public schools, which are required to adhere to state and federal standards, private institutions may not provide the same level of transparency or ensure that all students are receiving a high-quality education. This lack of oversight makes it difficult to guarantee that public funds are being used effectively to benefit all students.

Impact on Vulnerable Students

Education vouchers disproportionately impact vulnerable students who rely on public schools for necessary services. Private schools are not required to provide special education services, accommodations for students with disabilities, or the same protections under the law. These gaps in service provision would harm Texas students who already face significant barriers to education.

Furthermore, private schools may choose not to accept students from certain backgrounds, further contributing to educational segregation and creating a two-tier system of education that leaves behind the most marginalized students in our communities.

Financial Burden on Taxpayers

House Bill 2, by diverting public funds to private schools, would place a heavy financial burden on taxpayers. Public schools would face budget cuts, resulting in larger class sizes, fewer resources, and a reduction in essential services that support students.

I strongly encourage you to vote against passing this house bill.

Ronald Jones

Self / Musician & teacher

Addison, TX

I am a proud alumnus of Dallas and Richardson TX Public Schools. I do not want my tax dollars to subsidize private schools. I do not want vouchers or "school choice" legislation. I support public schools, including more money for teachers, facilities and security. Thank you.

Kameran Fairchild

Self

De Leon, TX

I'm a Texan. I care about our K-12 public education system being well-funded for ALL students. I do NOT support HB 3, the education savings account bill, and I ask for all representatives to oppose this bill.

Leslye Roberts, Mrs

Self

Abilene, TX

I opposed an education savings account program. The proposed program provides taxpayer funds to private schools and homeschool families with out any accountability on how the funds are spent. School choice does not provide families choice because private schools are allowed to deny enrollment for any unexplained reason. Public funds should be invested in public schools, not private schools.

Liz Rivera

Self, Parent of a public school student

Leander, TX

I would like to say NO to vouchers. Please provide funding to PUBLIC SCHOOLS and provide $1300 Basic Allotment per child.

Ruei Tuo

Self

Katy, TX

I am against the bill. Our tax dollars should be used to fund public education, not to subsidize rich people's kids' private education.

Kari Lavelle

Self

Austin, TX

School vouchers would be disastrous for student, educators in Texas. It would benefit public schools and it would not be beneficial for private schools. Instead we need to provide more resources and pay teachers more.

KATHY Rose

Self

Scurry, TX

No to school vouchers....public dollars should go to public schools. No to funding wealthy private schools. Your going to drive up property taxes.

Tabitha Rice, Mrs.

Self

North Richland Hills, TX

Dear House Members,

I strongly oppose this bill because we, as Texans, already have the freedom of school choice. We already have the God give right to choose how to educate our children.

We have chosen to educate our children ourselves at home because we believe this is solely our responsibility given to us by God to train our children up. This bill will take away the freedom that we have to do just that. The goal of this bill is to eventually regulate all homeschoolers and private schools and that should not be so. We already have a public school system that is over regulated by the government available to all students. The proposed intent of this bill is to rectify the wrong of the current school system and this is not what is going to happen. We should not be passing bills based on hypothetical outcomes that put more at risk than what little good may come from it.

I also submit to you that we should not be passing bills to take more money away from us, the citizens, to fund private schooling. This is not something we, as homeschoolers want. The choice not to use the public school system to educate our children is ours and the responsibility is ours alone and must be a sacrifice to do so if need be. We cannot expect others to pay for our choices.

I understand the need to help families make the choice that my husband and I have made but this is NOT the bill to do that.

The future of our ability to educate our children as parents is in danger and I am asking you, no, I am pleading with you to reject this bill. Strings and regulations and more government control is what is in the future of this bill and that is not what our founding fathers desired when they risked their lives to start in a new world. They wanted freedom from government control of their personal lives and that is what you are voting on today: To increase government control of taxes, education, values, beliefs, our children and families and essentially our future or to decrease the government overreach into our homes. We need less government control so our freedom to be the parents of the children we bore and love is not snatched away from us or from generations to come.

Please do not reverse what so many have given their lives to protect; autonomy and true freedom.

Jennifer Wolf

Self/ Homemaker and Homeschooling Parent

Fate, TX

I am opposed to school choice and school vouchers. We already have the freedom to send our children to public school, private school, charter school, or homeschool. These vouchers will open up government oversight in places it does not belong. Private schools and homeschoolers do not want to lose our freedom from government regulations. Also, these funds would be better spent strengthening what is broken in public school. Increase teacher pay, and ensure there is enough funding to help the children in need of IEP and 504 plans.

Ultimately these vouchers will lead to less freedom and simply lining the pockets of the approved curriculum vendors who lobbied for this.

Please vote no!

Estella Smith

self

Keller, TX

These funds should be going to public schools. Public schools have many resources for students, including special education resources that schools are held by. Funding should stay with public schools. If parents want a private school education or homeschool option....this option has always been there for years. They can pay for that which their own personal resources. Additionally, have y'all considered what happens when funding for a child goes to a private school and either parents can't foot the difference or students end up leaving back to their own "local" campus. That funding per child does not follow them to public schools, thus creating a bigger issue than what we are currently having. Public schools are in disarray and as representatives of this great state, you should be supporting public schools. Texas has lost so much ranking for their public education. The State should be focused on revamping and improving Texas schools, making all public Texas schools "great" again. This will only hurt our public schools and resources that could so widely be used. This funding shouldn't pay for private schools, home schools, specialized educational services, therapy or other supports; we already provide a lot of resources in the current system. Funnel that money back into public schools who already provide so much for families.

Carly Herrera

Self

Mansfield, TX

I, in no way, believe this bill has the best interest of ALL students in the state of Texas. This will take valuable resources from the underfunded schools and will only give to the rich. Education, and EQUAL education for ALL should be the only goal of this state. Lets become #1 in education by ensuring that all public schools give every student the opportunity to become great, not just a break for those who can already afford it. Let's pay our teachers their worth. It can only benefit the state if we grow strong well educated students!

Amy Lindsey

Self-teacher

Houston, TX

I am against this bill. Vouchers undermine public education and our most vulnerable students.

Sarah Olivares

Self, secretary

Dallas, TX

Districts are already cutting costs, programs, and positions in response to being defunded by vouchers. By vilifying public schools, you will be robbing millions of Texas children of the instruction and programs that make education meaningful. Public education MAKES well-rounded and successful Texans. Please say no to vouchers!

Patricia Walnick, Ms.

self

Dallas, TX

I oppose HB 3 because I think it will leave the most vulnerable children in our state out. Private schools will not be required to accept certain students, which will certainly leave some children behind. The bill also does not impose any admission or enrollment requirements on the private schools that choose to participate in the program, meaning they would face no state pressure to adjust their costs, ensure more racial and ethnic diversity, or accept students from different faith traditions.

Then there are the students that live in rural districts. I feel they will be left behind with few options.

HB 3 would continue to leave low-income children behind. I donate to help teachers in low-income schools obtain the supplies they need and I came to realize the great need for basic supplies, yet a Teacher's priority is often to ask for snack foods. The children come from homes where there is not enough food and therefore they are too hungry to be able to concentrate in school. If you don't have enough money to feed your children, how will you manage the blockades keeping you from sending your child to private school? The Voucher is unlikely to be enough, and even if there was a private school that would economically work, how would a struggling family even get the child to the school or pay for the extras private schools would demand?

Let's make Public Schools better, making it desirable and inclusive to every child's situation.

Jennifer Bohannon

Self

Boerne, TX

I do not want school vouchers in Texas

Brandi M. Ford

Self

The Woodlands, TX

As a resident of Texas and a person of faith, I oppose a private school voucher program that takes tax dollars away from local public schools to subsidize a student's private school education.

Texas is the eighth largest economy and needs to continue its investment in public schools to better educate and prepare our up and coming workforce and electorate. Our state's economy will be safeguarded through public education and our residents benefit from its strength, so they can be the best they can be as a workforce and electorate and reinvest in their families, neighborhoods, and communities.

Public dollars need to be directed to and invested in our public schools.

Thank you for your consideration.

Shelley Nathan

Self

Austin, TX

I respectfully request that you consider all aspects of a voucher program that is before you. Specifically, how is this going to continue to be funded in years when we have a lower than normal amount of state income tax to spend? I also ask you to consider that even a $10,000 to $12,000 voucher amount is not ever going to be enough to pay the yearly tuition amount for any private school in this state. Consequently, vouchers will only be utilized by those who have a very high income, not your majority of families that live paycheck to paycheck. How will you continue to fund our very important public schools/districts, many of which are running on a deficit? Vouchers are a terrible idea for our children of this state and will further the inequality of state education. It will further the them versus us mindset when in reality we should be taking care of all children that attend public schools and provide the districts, and ultimately the teachers with the materials and staff that is required to provide a great education. Just because vouchers are a popular idea in other Republican states doesn't make it right for Texas. Our children deserve only the best that we can provide for them. It is clear that those children left in public schools will not get the opportunities they deserve and children from wealthy families will. What kind of oversight will you have over these private school? That is every Texan's tax dollars you want to give away. Will you have the proper staff for oversight? Please vote NO on school vouchers. Thank you for your time.

Alicia Marusik
Self, Teacher
McKinney, TX

I have been a public high school teacher in Texas for the past 21 years, and I am extremely discouraged and angry about HB3.

For too long, the leaders at the state level have done nothing to help public schools. It is insane to me that there has not been a per-student allotment increase in state funding since 2019, considering the amount of inflation that has occurred in the last several years.

And now, another attack on public education by our state leaders. Instead of adequately funding public schools, the state wants to provide money to those making a choice to not send their students to public school, at the expense of our public education system.

I have several issues with the new bill.

First, I am extremely uncomfortable with the number of billionaires that are supporting this bill and contributing money to our governor to get the bill passed, even some who do not live in our state. Some of these billionaires own companies that could potentially serve as administrators of the voucher funding. This is a huge conflict of interest, and should be investigated.

Next, there have been several states that have moved to this voucher system, and are now having issues with funding the program. The costs have ballooned out of control. And in these same states (such as Arizona), it has been found as many as 70% of students benefiting from these vouchers were already attending private school, and could afford the cost without the voucher. It does not seem fiscally responsible as a state to fund a program that will cause our state to eventually not be able to afford our expenses.

Next, 158 out of 254 counties in our state do NOT have a private school option. So, how is this bill really promoting school choice when it's only available to the population in less than 40% of the counties in our state?

Based on the State's own actuarial report, the school voucher program is putting our Teacher Retirement System funds in danger. As teachers, we are already saddled with low salaries and terrible (yet expensive) insurance. I have never understood why teachers cannot have the same ERS insurance benefits that other government employees are provided. And now, with this bill, our retirement is in danger. If you want to know why GOOD teachers are leaving the profession in Texas, it is because the state continually acts in ways to devalue teachers.

All around in our state, public school districts are having conversations about hard choices for next year -- whether to close schools, increase classroom student numbers, and reduce staff. Yet, the leaders in our state do NOTHING to help any of these situations. Instead, they want to pass vouchers that will only harm public education, and refuse to fully fund our public schools. Just look at our low student funding numbers in comparison to most other states. It is embarrassing to be teaching in a state that values our public schools and teachers so little.

Jimmy Donohoe
Self/Mechanic Parent of 3 public school children
Arlington, TX

Our state's leadership has underfunded public education for far too long. It is time to prioritize Texas children and provide them with the quality education they deserve. I urge you to fulfill your responsibility to our students, teachers, and communities by fully funding our public schools—without conditions, without delay.

Sheila Legan
Self
Dallas, TX

I oppose school vouchers and ESAS. Please vote No!

Jose Soltren
Self - flight instructor
Cedar Park, TX

Against HB 3. No good for public schools. Shame on you.

Sheelpi Kalam
Self - Accountant
Allen, TX

I do not support the establishment of education savings accounts. I believe in strengthening public education and this program will do the opposite. There is no evidence that the savings accounts will help Texas students who do not live near private schools or are not able to afford transportation. Thus it is only school choice for the privileged few who can already afford private schools. Instead of sending my taxpayer dollars to them we should be using to support our public schools. I firmly stand against this bill.

Maria Caceres
Self Realtor
Richardson, TX

I support ESA program!

Angela Hernandez
Self
San Antonio, TX

I write to you to object to the school voucher program. I believe this will not be beneficial to our state. We have a lot of small town rural areas with little or no access to private schools and in these towns the schools are probably already struggling somewhat with funding. Also, most private schools cost way more than the vouchers will provide and majority of people, will not even be able to pay the remaining amount. I, myself, have not wanted to send my kids to private school and do not wish to send them in the future. I do not think it's fair to take funding from public school education to help the wealthy send their kids to private school when they would already be sending them and can afford it anyhow.

Maria Donohoe

Self- Educational Diagnostician/Educator and Parent of 2 Public School Children

Arlington, TX

I am writing to express my deep concern regarding the continued underfunding of Texas public schools. Texas has long lagged behind most other states in school funding, and today, we remain in the bottom five. Since 2019, our public schools have lost $10 billion in funding—equating to $1,300 less per child—due to inflation and unfunded state mandates. Meanwhile, not a single dollar has been added to the basic allotment to keep up with rising costs.

Despite the state's record-breaking financial surplus, school funding has been held hostage in an attempt to push through an unpopular private school voucher scheme. Texas taxpayers have contributed to an overflowing Rainy Day Fund, projected to exceed $25 billion, and a budget surplus of $22 billion. These funds belong to the people of Texas, and they are meant to support our public school children—not to be used as leverage for policies that divert money away from public education.

The consequences of this chronic underfunding are dire. Currently, 60% of Texas school districts are operating in deficit, forcing school closures, teacher layoffs, and the elimination of critical programs. If the Legislature does not act now, the situation will only worsen.

I urge you to take immediate action by:

Allocating at least $10 billion in new funding to public schools this year to restore funding lost since 2019. A $15 billion investment would provide an additional $1,340 per student for two years, ensuring funding levels return to where they should be. Implementing an automatic funding increase every two years to keep pace with inflation and prevent further funding shortfalls. Rejecting private school vouchers and ensuring that public funds remain in public schools, where they serve all Texas children. Placing a moratorium on the A-F accountability system and halting sanctions against underfunded schools and districts until a fair and effective system can be established.

Guaranteeing that all Texas public schools remain safe, inclusive, and supportive environments for every child, regardless of background or legal status.

Our state's leadership has underfunded public education for far too long. It is time to prioritize Texas children and provide them with the quality education they deserve. I urge you to fulfill your responsibility to our students, teachers, and communities by fully funding our public schools—without conditions, without delay.

Mike Johnson

Self

North Richland Hills, TX

I appeal to you as a fellow conservative to vote against HB3. 1. These ESA bills will increase the budget by billions. You can look to other states like Arizona where this has already happened. Public schools are screaming for help and these bills will take money that could be used to support public schools and give it to private schools and ESA popup schools. 2. ESA bills will provide money sent to private schools and homeschools. Money from the government always comes with strings attached. I do not want the government to have more power over private schools and homeschools. These types of schools are successful precisely because they keep the government out of their schools. Why would we want to open the door to government intervention? 3. The best way to help schools is to keep the government out as much as possible. We should be looking for ways to get the government out of public schools. I believe returning to local control is the best way to do this. Parents have more power in local communities. Federal and State control of schools leaves them little control and frustrated. Thank you for considering my thoughts on this subject.

Mike Johnson

Jane Jones, Ms.

Self -- retired

Rockwall, TX

Please vote NO on school vouchers. Vouchers are simply welfare for families whose children already attend private schools. Vouchers have caused financial shortfalls in states that are currently using them. Vouchers are of no benefit to rural school districts. Public funds should not be spent on private schools that are not held accountable to Texas school standards. Use the money instead to improve Texas public schools to benefit the majority of Texas students.

Michelle DeLeon
Self, Parent and Educator
Alvin, TX

Good morning,

My name is Michelle DeLeon, and I am both a parent and an educator with nearly 20 years of experience in Texas public schools. I am here today to strongly oppose the establishment of an Education Savings Account (ESA) program in Texas.

Public education is the foundation of our communities, serving more than 5.4 million students across the state. However, instead of strengthening our public schools, ESAs would divert critical taxpayer dollars to private and unregulated education providers—schools that are not required to follow the same academic standards, fiscal accountability, or nondiscrimination policies as public schools.

As a parent, I want my child—and all Texas children—to have access to a high-quality education, regardless of their background, income level, or where they live. ESAs do not guarantee choice for families; they guarantee choice for private schools, which can decide whom they admit. Many private schools do not provide the specialized services that students with disabilities, English language learners, and those from disadvantaged backgrounds rely on in public schools. ESAs would leave many of these students with fewer resources as funding is siphoned away from the public system.

As an educator, I have seen firsthand how underfunding affects our public schools. Texas already ranks near the bottom in per-student funding, and schools are struggling to retain teachers, provide adequate classroom resources, and support student mental health. Instead of addressing these challenges, ESAs would take much-needed funding away from public schools, deepening inequities and leaving the majority of students with fewer opportunities.

Texas parents do have choices—charter schools, magnet programs, and open enrollment options exist within the public system. However, those choices should not come at the expense of the vast majority of students who rely on their neighborhood public schools. Public dollars should remain in public schools, where they serve all students, not just a select few.

I urge this committee to reject the establishment of an ESA program and instead focus on policies that strengthen our public education system for all Texas children. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Michelle DeLeon
Alvin, Texas

Sarah Griffis
Self
Austin, TX

I am a product of the Texas public school system. Vouchers take away necessary funding for public schools.

I strongly urge representatives to vote no to establishing a education savings account.

Mary Jessen, Mrs Leadership Richardson
Richardson, TX

I oppose this bill for our future grandchildren.

Andrew Naudin

Self

Leander, TX

This effort is in stark contrast to the actual desires of the people of this state. To assert that parents have rights while choosing to ignore the majority sentiment on the proper funding of public education is hypocrisy at its finest. The data indicates that this direction has not been successful in other states. Our system is already lagging behind most of the nation and our educators deserve better. Our students deserve better education opportunities than any other state. Texas should be leading the nation with our financial commitment to our children. The long term benefits are clear, except you continue to make believe that they don't. Proper school choice is possible when we properly support our public schools. We the people reject your assertion that this is the better option.

Shannon Petersen

Self

Katy, TX

I am the mother of a child with Angelman Syndrome. I have contacted many of you through social media and written my own representative many times, although he refuses to respond to anything I send related to ESAs. I appreciate Representative Hinojosa and Representative Leo-Wilson for responding to my Facebook messages. Please vote no to HB3. Unfortunately, the concept of ESAs are so bad that the whole piece of legislation needs to be revised or thrown out. My daughter was a recipient of the special education grant that uses a system similar to what ESAs will be. This system is blatant taxpayer theft and did very little to benefit my family. We wanted help to pay for my daughter's therapies since they are very costly. Unfortunately, all of the therapists were 40 or more minutes away from where I live in Katy, TX, a large suburb west of Houston. As a working mom, this made it impossible for our family to use this grant for therapy. Because we had to spend the money or lose it within a short timeframe, we wound up buying an adaptive bike and toys for my son and daughter. Now, just about 3 years later, the adaptive bike sits in our backyard rusting. My daughter never took to it and there was no way to return it. Most of the toys have been donated other than the extra large lego set my son still uses to build forts. I ask you and especially those who consider themselves conservative, is that a fiscally responsible use of taxpayer dollars? I would argue that it absolutely isn't and it bothers me that this is what that grant was for us. I am sure the vendors and vendor system ClassWallet also appreciate the profits they are earning from these grants. How would a homeschool ESA be different? ESAs drain the budget of so many other states that have adopted them. Spending $1 billion additional taxpayer dollars on these is not fiscally conservative. Limiting parents to vendor options is not freedom. Creating more bureaucracy is not limiting government. As a conservative myself, I am disappointed to see the Republican Party supporting such legislation.

Marketing this as helping children like my daughter is the biggest myth of them all. Near us, we have approximately 2 private schools that might accept my daughter. Both range from 40-50k a year and have unusual schedules that make it impossible for this working mom to accommodate. The ESAs proposed barely put a dent in that cost. How is that "school choice"? This also further demonstrates how grossly underfunded public schools have been when it comes to special education for those with more significant disabilities. I am hoping that some of our Texas representatives will stand up to ESAs despite Greg Abbott's threats. Texans don't cower in the face of threats, they say "Come and take it!". Will that be any of you? For the sake of my daughter, I will fight these and advocate for her just like I have been for the past 10 years of her life. Thank you for your time and your service to our beloved State of Texas.

Sheila McCray

Self/ Retired Public School Teacher

Odessa, TX

The same money should be given where you want improvement....a former public education teacher of AP history, economy, and government.

Lauren Duncan
Parent of Leander ISD students
Cedar Park, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas. I am a parent of 2 elementary age boys at Westside Elementary and a preschool boy that will start kinder in Fall 2025. I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Lauren Duncan

Francisco Trevino
Self
Falfurrias, TX

Living in a rural committee in which the district employs the majority of the people who live here, will impact our town, residence and students. Sending students out of town daily to a private school will destroy our small town of less than 5,000 people.

Deanne Vance, Mrs.
Self/Retired educator
Wimberley, TX

Hon. Buckley: As a grandparent of two girls who are thriving in public school, becoming informed and patriotic citizens of the great state of Texas, I respectfully ask that the voucher scam being pushed through the legislature be defeated until a vote is put before all registered voters in the state. Why?

1. I voted against voucher proposal in the Republican primary because of my in depth research into the voucher programs in other states. Public schools are the life and breath of rural and mid sized districts. All voters in districts in Texas should have had the right to vote on this voucher system backed by billionaires who have a vested interest in administering the voucher program and building private schools already in the works on the promise of this legislation passing.

2. As a Christian conservative, I oppose any legislation that attempts to establish ONE religion in public schools. Yes, that's right. I trust in the intention of my forefathers who rightly decided that government and religion should be separate. Pouring state funds into parochial schools should never happen.

Please stand up for public schools and instead of approving vouchers, raise teacher pay and per pupil spending out of the basement into the top 10 states. It's truly embarrassing that Texas does so poorly in these areas when Texas is one of the largest economies globally, don't you think? And it's miraculous that our public schools do turn out so many successful students who are contributing to our country despite the lack of support we Republicans have given public education for the past decade. Surely we can and should do better! No vouchers unless the whole voting public has a say!

Suzanne Andreola
Public School Teachers
Hurst, TX

Dear Public Education Committee Members,

As a retired elementary school teacher with the Arlington ISD for 29 years and being a member of a family of public educators since the 1970s, I am aware of the advantages of public education. Vouchers will strip the schools of much needed funds to function properly. It is the State's responsibility to educate ALL children. If parents want private education for their children, they can pay for it. I do not want my taxpayer dollars going to private or parochial schools. Tax dollars should NOT be used to give preference to a family's religion, race, or social standing. By underwriting private schools, the state is promoting more class distinctions. Education is best with Diversity, Equity and Inclusion.

Susan Martinez, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

Robust public schools are the backbone of rural Texas, employing many of its citizens and allowing folks to congregate on Friday nights for the local football game. It is the only educational resource resource for many poor and disadvantaged Texas children and their only place for free breakfast and lunch.

Even with a voucher system in place, poor Texas families and some middle class families, will still be unable to pay for private school tuition. In my experience as a parent, my children thrived in public schools here in Austin. My son was fortunate enough to attend the prestigious magnet public schools- LASA. Public education is the backbone of America. Please say no to HB 3. Thank you.

Juan Gonzalez
Self
Austin, TX

Dear Representatives,

My name is Juan Gonzalez and I'm a constituent living in zip code 78759.

I'm writing to ask you to take a principled stand against the dangerous school voucher scam, HB 3. I am married to a dedicated elementary public school teacher that has worked in Central Texas schools for 28 years. I am scared of how HB will affect her students, fellow teachers, and our own children's school district. I am even more terrified that after 28 years of service this HB 3 voucher scam will drain the state's teacher retirement system. What should my wife do if she is counting on her pension to sustain her when she retires?

Please know that I appreciate your leadership on this issue and your understanding that Texas families need more resources for our public schools, not an unaccountable voucher scheme for private schools.

I will continue to watch this legislation closely and implore you to maintain your principled stand against the voucher scam.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Juan Gonzalez

Robert Leal
Self
Harlingen, TX

Do not support vouchers. It is a scam.

Ann Teich
Self
Austin, TX

Dear Members of the House Public Education Committee,

I am a retired public school educator (34 years) and a former school board member. I attended and graduated from Texas public schools 1958-1970. I am also a grandparent to four grandchildren who are in or will be in public schools in Texas.

I have experienced and seen the benefits of public schools: a rigorous core curriculum, a rich arts and physical health curriculum, and a student body that is diverse. As a teacher I worked with educators who were committed to creating critical thinkers and involved citizens.

All across Texas independent school districts are having to cut programs that remediate and enrich and staff who assist classroom teachers, in particular librarians and parent support specialists. Austin ISD, the school district in which I live, is facing an enormous budget deficit and may have to cut parent support specialists who are critical in helping families navigate the education system and support their children's learning. Librarians, critical to the teaching of reading and digital literacy, may also potentially be cut.

I urge you to increase the basic student allotment to $1,300. Texas public schools need this funding to support the education of millions of Texas students.

I urge you to vote against vouchers. Giving public funds to private schools violates the spirit of the US and Texas Constitutions.

Vouchers do not improve the academic outcomes of students. Numerous studies have shown that. Nebraska and Illinois have repealed their voucher programs because they didn't improve academic outcomes. A recent survey of 1,275 likely midterm Texas voters conducted by Unified for Texas shows that there is bipartisan opposition to vouchers.

Please do the right thing by Texas students. Increase the basic allotment to $1,300 and vote against vouchers.

Sincerely,

Ann Hardeman Teich

512-797-7724

hardemanprima@gmail.com

Sonja Stapleton

Self

Conroe, TX

I am opposed to HB3. As a special education educator for 18 years, this undermines funding needed in the public education system. Our state already HAS the choice for private or homeschooling students based on the parents who choose to do so. You are wanting more control in order to regulate state testing which is ALREADY useless in our education system. Funding is needed so our public education system can actually TEACH our students. I have already spent thousands of dollars of my own personal money to purchase classroom materials for my students because YOU will not give us the funding needed! I struggle as a single parent to make ends meet because you've taken away our raises, put more paperwork on our loads and make us teach to a standardized test instead of differentiated as our students need for learning! This is an outrage that as a conservative republican I am not being represented by my state representative whom I voted for!

Larissa Rivas-Leal

Self

Harlingen, TX

Vouchers will hurt TEXAS students and only help the wealthy. Schools already struggle. PLEASE do not support Vouchers. Students with disabilities do not get a choice.

Jenna Rohde
Self / accountant
Cedar Park, TX

Hello,

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Jenna Rohde

Alicia Dooley
self (digital media, parent)
Austin, TX

As a parent of two children in Texas public schools, and another starting soon, I have serious concerns about the school voucher program shifting funds away from our public schools and over to private schools that aren't even held to the same standards. These vouchers will serve as a nice discount for families with children already in private schools, i.e., those who can afford to send their kids there. Private school tuition would still be expensive and out-of-reach for many Texas families even with these vouchers. The country's largest voucher programs in Florida and Arizona have had poor results both financially and academically, including massive state budget and spending issues.

For the 13 years I've had kids in public schools, we've endured constant budget shortfalls locally due to school funding issues. The recapture system of school funding already takes exorbitant amounts of money away from our schools in Austin, leaving us with chronic budget issues. I'm greatly disturbed at how much of my "Austin ISD" tax payment leaves our area entirely, even as the district is constantly needing to make cuts. Funding is insufficient to pay teachers what they deserve, making it hard to attract and retain the talent needed to instruct our next generations. Texas is already one of the worst-funded states in the country when it comes to education. This is embarrassing, and our kids and teachers deserve better. The proposed voucher program will only serve to exacerbate all of this by taking more money away from our public schools.

If public schools are so broken that you think families need an alternate choice, then it is incumbent upon you - the Texas legislature, Greg Abbott, TEA - to focus on FIXING those problems by providing appropriate funding, at least $1300 additional per student vs. the inadequate $220. It is a moral and practical responsibility of the state of Texas to provide a quality public education to all our students that will prepare them for the future.

Alicia Villanueva

Self / Elementary School Receptionist and Mother to Two Children

Cedar Park, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

I work at an elementary school and see every day how much public education is utilized, relied on, and needed in a meaningful way. Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Alicia Villanueva

Victoria Field, Mrs.

Self

Cedar Park, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools.

ESAs (vouchers) directly hurt students with disabilities who receive Special Education services in Public Schools in the State of Texas. Diverting $1 Billion of my PUBLIC taxpayer money to private schools who do not even acknowledge IDEA, do not follow IEPs and only provide services when they are negotiated, compromised and then charged back to parents at exorbitant rates well above typical tuition rates it is theft of services and money to the most vulnerable population in Texas.

14% of the 5.4 million public school students in Texas receive special education services. That's 760,000 students at a minimum. These ESAs are completely inaccessible to at least 90% of our disabled students, and that is before they have a chance at any lottery or know if a private school will accept, serve, or retain them. There's no accountability. Not of services, not of the $1 Billion of public taxpayer money this legislature wants to pour into private schools and not of impact or outcomes of our disabled students.

Even if we say ALL of the ESAs go to disabled kids receiving special education services, that still leaves a minimum of 700,000 students receiving special education services in underfunded understaffed Public Schools that this state put in this situation. This causes direct harm to these students with disabilities, the most vulnerable individuals in society, and it's at the hands of those who are supposed to represent us.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice (and students), and have the courage to do the right thing: say No to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Victoria Field

Emily Vandenberg

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1. Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
2. HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
3. Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
4. We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Karin Wasyliw

Self

San Antonio, TX

Please do not vote on the HB3 voucher program. Look at what it has done to Arizona and other states. This is not good for Texans.

Kim Gonzalez

self, public school teacher

Austin, TX

Dear Representatives,

My name is Kim Gonzalez and I'm a constituent living in zip code 78759.

I'm writing to ask for your principled stand against the dangerous school voucher scam, HB 3. I have been a dedicated elementary public school teacher working in Central Texas schools for 28 years. I am scared of how HB 3 will affect my students, fellow teachers, and school district. I am even more terrified that after 28 years of service this HB 3 voucher scam will drain the state's teacher retirement system. What do I do if I am counting on my pension to sustain me when I retire?

Please know that I appreciate your leadership on this issue and your understanding that Texas families need more resources for our public schools, not an unaccountable voucher scheme for private schools.

I will continue to watch this legislation closely and implore you to maintain your principled stand against the voucher scam.

Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Kim Gonzalez

Caraway Elementary

2nd Grade Teacher

512-468-6528

Nancy Dunn
Self, retired
Houston, TX

Abbott and Republicans are trying to take $1 billion from Texas taxpayers and give it to wealthy families who are already sending their kids to private schools. This will come at the expense of public school education, especially in rural and remote counties (more than 150 Texas counties don't have a private school to send your kid too, even if you could afford the difference between what the voucher pays and what tuition costs!).

It's bad for the Texas taxpayer, bad for public educators, and bad for the kids in our public school classrooms.

Kelly Griswold
self, parent
Austin, TX

I oppose you diverting public funds to private schools, no matter what you call it. I am a Texas voter and I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates, not divert funds to unaccountable private and religious schools. I know that virtually every other state that has created a voucher system with the limited guardrails you are proposing has seen a decimation of their public school systems and increasing burden to their state budgets. We don't want any of that here in Texas. Please fund our public schools and don't pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Cara Hamlin
Self
Round Rock, TX

As a parent and an educator, I am adamantly opposed to vouchers. The vouchers do not benefit the Title One students I work with, instead they take more money from schools and teachers that are understaffed, underserved, and doing the best they can with the minimal they're given. The last two years, I have taught as a volunteer at my children's elementary school as GT Pullout Services were reduced to classroom only as our district was forced to make cuts for very much needed and desired programs. That's just a small example of how more and more is heaped on the public education teacher, with no resources, bigger classes, less support. This bill does not support ALL Texans. It is not in the best interests of ALL students. It benefits the wealthy and the upper middle class. It provides no accountability and excludes rural students and is not in the best interest of Special Needs students as private schools do not have to admit them or have necessary programs to support their learning. Please support public education for ALL students and vote down this harmful bill that will only harm students' and schools more. You are called to serve ALL Texans. Please do that by voting against this bill.

Meghan Barreras
Self- stay at home mother
Spring, TX

As a homeschool parent, I am STRONGLY AGAINST this bill. I want to be able to teach my children with a curriculum of my choice without the state overreaching. I believe this bill will cause taxes to increase when I'm already paying unnecessary ISD taxes. Texans have the choice between public school/private school/homeschool. Please let us continue to have the freedoms to educate our children as we like. I sat NAY.

Stormy Mitchell
Self, Registered Nurse
Conroe, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers. As a parent of two public school students, a product of Texas public schools, and a Registered Nurse (MSN) working in Texas, I see firsthand how important well-funded public schools are for our communities. Vouchers take money away from public schools—the very schools that educate the majority of Texas children—and redirect it to private institutions, often benefiting wealthy families while leaving working-class families behind.

This is not about "school choice." It's about draining resources from schools that serve all children, regardless of income, ability, or background. Public schools are already underfunded, struggling to pay teachers what they deserve, and facing budget cuts that impact everything from classroom supplies to special education programs. Vouchers make that worse.

We have seen this fail in other states. It does not improve education; it just weakens public schools. Texas students deserve better. Every child deserves a quality education, and that starts with fully funding our public schools—not diverting tax dollars to private interests. My kids, and all Texas kids, deserve strong, well-funded schools. Not this. Not vouchers.

Jose Figueroa
Self
Brownsville, TX

I am in strong opposition to HB3 and to any attempt to push school vouchers in Texas. HB3 takes money away from public schools that serve all kids and gives it to private schools that can pick and choose who they accept—without the same oversight or accountability. That is not school choice; that is just tearing apart public education.

If we truly wish to improve Texas education, we should be putting money into better teacher pay, smaller class sizes, and stronger public schools, not draining tax dollars into a system that will not work for every student. Vouchers will not "fix" education—they'll only leave more kids behind.

HB3 is bad for Texas students, bad for Texas schools, and bad for Texas taxpayers. Lawmakers need to reject this bill and instead take action to improve our public schools for everyone.

Catherine Perez
Self/Teacher
Houston, TX

I served as a public school teacher in Houston ISD for 18 years. I am now a private school teacher; however my kindergarten son is in Houston ISD. I have seen firsthand now, both as a public school teacher and as a private school teacher, that school vouchers will not work. The children who attended my Title 1 school over the years, who could likely apply for these school vouchers, would not have any additional resources to attend a private or charter school. They would also have no transportation. I also have witnessed firsthand how private schools operate their admissions process, and I am certain that nearly all of the Title 1 students I taught would not be eligible if there were space available. We need to fully fund public schools. We need to give public schools even more money than they already have(!), so considering a bill where public school money is reallocated toward vouchers is ridiculous.

Amy Willcox
self
SAN ANTONIO, TX

I am adamantly opposed to HB 3. I am a proud Alamo Heights ISD public school parent/ supporter and I oppose HB3 or any other use of taxpayer dollars for private schools. Public schools are underfunded and teachers are underpaid, making it hard to attract and retain talented people. Voucher programs in other states have ballooned in costs, and have primarily benefitted families that already sent their kids to private schools. Fund and support Texas schools, Texas teachers, and ALL Texas kids. I am a Republican primary voter, and my representative's (Marc LaHood) vote on vouchers will determine my vote next election cycle.

Katie Spillar

self, Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist

Leander, TX

Please vote NO to HB 3. I have a son who is gifted and dyslexic and is accommodated for both in his public school. We have been very pleased with these services. If you properly fund public schools they can continue to reach many children with many different learning needs. If we moved to a private school that could nurture his giftedness I am certain they would be unable to meet his dyslexia needs, and vice versa. We love our public school and want to stay, but I fear if we lose any more funding the quality of education will go down. I've seen it happen in Oklahoma and have heard its happening in other places like Indiana. I really haven't read about any good outcomes of the voucher program in any of the states that have already initiated it. As a licensed therapist who serves vulnerable and neurodivergent children, I also do NOT believe this voucher program will actually provide more choice for the families. In Austin there are five private schools that I found that serve children in special education. They are probably all full, and they could not possibly serve that many more children. So, I really do think this will end up only serving the wealthier children, thus eventually pulling more funds from our public schools, and as an advocate for our more vulnerable children, I just can't feel ok about this. If our public schools are properly funded, they can serve the variety of needs that our students have. Please consider the more long term implications of this bill, and vote No. Thank you so much for your time.

Jamie Pulte

Self

Lindsay, TX

I have been a public school teacher for 17 years now, we already struggle every year to meet the needs of our students in our classroom due to budget shortfalls. We should be investing more into our public schools, public school teachers and students. Teachers invest more of their own money to make sure their students get a better and more engaged education, if you would focus more on putting funds into public education and teacher salaries, then maybe the teacher retention rate would increase. It's sad that our own state cares more about other issues and not the issues with our public school education system.

Cinthia Esparza

Mother/Self

Cypress, TX

I DO NOT support HB3 for the school voucher system. My family and I live in a suburb outside of Houston where private education can go up to 30K. The average family with more than one kid won't be able to afford to send them all to private school. The quality of the education received will be questionable at best. Please keep our taxpayer dollars to better fund our public schools.

Dale Thomas

Texas Tax Payer

Jacksboro, TX

Voucher will break Texas Tax Payers as it has in other states. No accountability with voucher funds going to private schools. The long run will eventually have a negative impact on the TRS Fund.

Hillary Rodriguez

Self

Houston, TX

I am the proud mother of twelve year old profoundly gifted son. My son also has ADHD and being twice exceptional is not easy. This year he is attending a GT magnet school within the district that has a robotics team. This robotics program is funded by donors through the Clear Creek education foundation. My child thrives in a public school, one where they accept him just as he is.

Public funds belong in public schools. We should invest more in public schools, not give a small percentage of people money for schools they can either afford or already get assistance affording.

As a disability advocate, this legislation would do nothing to protect the most vulnerable.

And while there are bills on the floor increasing school funding, it's not enough!

Purvi Baron

Self

Sugar Land, TX

I'm voting NO for Texas school voucher bill (HB3). Please do not do this. Follow the proof that this will bankrupt our public school systems, it's bad for students and education in Texas, and they are already suffering. I love my public schools in Sugar Land. DO NOT PASS THIS BILL.

Mandy Hardy

Self

Van, TX

Please do not pass voucher programs for Texas

Joseph Hughes, Mr

Self educator

Fort worth, TX

I do not support this bill. Do not take funding away from public schools in order to fund the voucher programs.

Sudia Paloma McCaleb McCaleb

Western Institute for Social Research (WISR) Center for Critical Environmental and Global Literacy (CCEGL)

berkeley, TX

i AM AND EDUCATOR..i WAS THWE DIRECTOR OF A REACHER EDUCATION PROGRAM FOR 20 YEARS IN SAN FRANCISOC.I WORK ONLY IN PIUBLOIC SCHOOLS..TO DEFUND PUBLIC EDUCATION WOULD BE CRIMINAL

Peggy Cuevas, PhD

Self

Austin, TX

I began teaching in 1968 and retired in 2015. Public schools have suffered from lack of sufficient funding which will only be exacerbated by school vouchers. Taxpayer dollars should not be given to individual families.

Daniel Ward
Self
CANTON, TX

I am against HB 3 as well as any school choice legislation that redistributes tax dollars. Why would the Tx government extend the failed system of financing schools through taxes. The responsibility for the education of the children of Texas is that of the parents of those children. I urge you to vote against this bill.

Donna Beto
Self-Retired Teacher (Lifetime Member of TSTA)
Bryan, TX

I am making one last plea for you to vote "NO" to HB 3-School Vouchers. Furthermore, please don't disguise school vouchers as savings accounts for families. Let's imagine that a family wants to purchase a better car with money in their savings account. The car costs $20,000, but the family only has $10,000 in savings. They're out of luck and can't afford the car. Vouchers still won't help low-income families or disadvantaged students who want to enroll in private schools. Vouchers only benefit families who can already afford private school tuition.

Vote "NO" to HB 3
Respectfully,
Mrs. Donna Beto
Retired Teacher

Emily Hoppel
Self
The Woodlands, TX

I'm asking my representative (Toth) to vote no on HB3. My family wants fully funded education not welfare for the wealthy.

Brianna Relyea
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I deeply oppose HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy. Thank you.

Elizabeth Hardage
Self, IT analyst
Richardson, TX

In order to keep Texas a place where people and businesses can flourish, we need a strong and fully funded public school system, not a patchwork of unregulated charter schools, unsupervised home schooling, and underfunded public schools. Our children in rural and economically challenged areas, and those children whose physical and mental differences require extra attention that private schools may not be willing or able to provide, need and deserve a good education every bit as much as those with great grades or wealthy parents. All Texas children should have equal opportunities to learn, grow and thrive, not just those who can get into and pay for private schooling.

Nazli Blackwell
Self- Speech-Language Pathologist
Austin, TX

Public education in Texas could be outstanding if we fund them appropriately. Taking public tax dollars away from Texas education will have huge consequences. I want to live in a state that supports ALL of its citizens rather than a chosen few. We need schools that are properly funded rather than creating programs that take funds away from a child's right to a free & appropriate public education. I have served as a speech- language pathologist for a decade and I can tell you that the children of Texas need as much support as possible. Please do not pass this Bill and take away from every child's right to succeed.

Jennifer Lee, Mrs.
Self occupational therapist
Irving, TX

Let me remind you that the Texas constitution calls for public education. You have no business taking my taxpayer dollars to fund private school education. If a parent chooses to send their child to private school, they are not entitled to public dollars to fund it. Further, when researching the people promoting school vouchers, it is quite apparent that it is the donor class. Texans do not want vouchers, they want Republicans to stop starving our schools and treat our teachers with the respect they deserve. Our children should not pay for 30 years of Republican incompetence and malice.

Susan Schweikert
Self
Dallas, TX

I oppose vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

Kenn Spook
Self
Allen, TX

I and my family are opposed to hb 3 "school choice" bill. After studying and reading the bill, it does little to offer school choice to Texas children.

The bill only targets a very small number, of the overall children attending public education. Every other state that has some type of school choice does so by qualifying most if not all children in their state. Sadly this TX House bill does not.

We ask that you oppose this and all bills until it equally qualifies every resident, not just a small select few families.

Sandi Hebley
Self
Dallas, TX

These vouchers will NOT enable middle income families to take their children to private schools! There is not enough to cover all the tuition; the schools do not provide transportation; the schools do not have to accept every student who wants to come; the schools do not have to provide services for kids with disabilities and do not have to meet the same requirements as public schools. We NEED good, fully-funded public schools, not voucher scams!

Erin Burns
Self
Lubbock, TX

Hi, I would like to respectfully submit the following: this bill will take $1 billion from Texas taxpayers and give it to wealthy families who are already sending their kids to private schools. This will come at the expense of public school education, especially in rural and remote counties (more than 150 Texas counties don't have a private school to send your kid too, even if you could afford the difference between what the voucher pays and what tuition costs!).

It's bad for the Texas taxpayer, bad for public educators, and bad for the kids in our public school classrooms.

I hope that all legislators this year can grasp that. We already underpay our overworked teachers, and this money is not going to be spent better if it can't even reach those smaller rural communities. A bill for school vouchers is not going to fix this problem. Funding the schools we have absolutely would. I'm disappointed that the Texas Legislature even brings this for a vote, because it's obvious to anyone who's paying attention that this is another cash grab from the poor to give to the rich. I would urge all of the legislators to vote no on this bill, as it will hurt the most vulnerable of Texans.

Mary Finley
Self/ retired
Austin, TX

Dear Texas Legislator,

As a proud Texan, I value the role public schools play in shaping our future. I oppose private school subsidies, also known as vouchers or education savings accounts. I believe private school subsidies are wasteful, deceitful, inefficient, and unfair.

Public school dollars should go only to public schools. Public schools in Texas are underfunded by billions of dollars every year.

Private schools pick and choose which students to admit. Vouchers force taxpayers to subsidize private schools' preferences. And without elected boards or state oversight, vouchers give away tax dollars with no financial or academic accountability.

Public schools educate more than 90 percent of Texas students, serving all the students in their boundaries. They build the workforce that powers the Texas economy. We can't afford to underwrite a few special choices at the expense of our collective future.

We elect legislators to represent the interests of their communities. Responding to their communities, Texas legislators have rejected private school subsidies time after time.

In the face of increasing pressure from special interests, I pledge that I will stand with my legislators in opposing vouchers. When they vote against private school subsidies, I will make sure all their constituents know they did the right thing.

Sincerely,
Mary Finley

Jennifer Combs
Self
Houston, TX

This bill is not good for the majority of the state, this will directly take funding away from public schools and most rural schools and low economic families will not have access. Private schools will immediately raise rates and this policy gives the private schools the choice not their constituents, private schools don't have to accept students on 504 plans or students of color. Passing this bill is a sell out to the billionaires funding your campaigns and against the millions of Texans who will be voting in 2026. If you want to lose votes next election, vote yes for this bill.

TANYA scheepstra
SELF RN
TEMPLE, TX

I do not support "school choice".

Chelsea McCaffrey
Self
Austin, TX

As a parent, educator, and tax payer, I urge you to vote NO on school vouchers. This program will not help Texas students that have a financial need, but will serve to provide savings to already wealthy families and their children.

David McAbee Me
May, TX

No thank you. The people of Texas don't want this so please stop trying to shove it down our throats. This is a scam that will benefit the rich while hurting average Texans.

Debi Evans

Self

Austin, TX

I am against this bill. Public education for all is where I want my tax dollars to be spent.

Denise Avery

Self

Lubbock, TX

This bill will take tax payers money away from their local public schools and put it towards private schools who don't need the money. It's not choice when vouchers take funding away from public schools, giving it to private when rural communities have ONE choice for their children. The only people who will benefit are wealthy communities in the urban areas. This bill is simply irrational and ignorant, considering it doesn't benefit the blue collar community in any way. It only benefits the wealthy. The house wants to blame public education for failing students, when in truth, are the ones who are keeping billions from going into the system to benefit low to middle class students. The house is failing the students, not the teachers. It's truly sad when our "representatives" are so out of touch with their constituents that they believe this is even an option in our great state of Texas.

Valerie Ward

Self

CANTON, TX

I oppose this HB3 and for the sake of our future Texans, I encourage all legislators to oppose this harmful bill. We need our already intentionally overfunded under-performing schools to be evaluated for higher accountability for currently spent taxpayer dollars. Instituting another government program that will ultimately fail as all others have is not the answer.

HB 3 proposed by Buckley will be diverted to private schools, which is misuse of taxpayer money. Taxpayer money should have transparency and accountability. Education is not to be dictated and standardized by the government. It is the right of the parents to freely educate and it should be kept separate. Additionally, there is no transparency for who the vendors truly are behind this scheme.

This is the least conservative proposal in recent years. If you read the comments on social media, voters do not want their dollars spent this way. They know that it is lining the pockets of the already rich and won't benefit anyone else. I urge you to vote against all forms of school choice.

Jennifer Appel

Self, Accountant

The Colony, TX

This school voucher idea would strip the public school system of the funds they need to educate EVERY child needing a public education in the State of Texas. Many rural constituents cannot rely on a voucher system which would strip the funding from the only school in their entire district. We have all relied on the public school system to provide education and safety for all children in our state. You would not only be putting children at risk of never receiving a basic education, but this voucher system will cause massive layoffs. Again, in rural areas sometimes the largest employer can be the public school system - not just teachers but administrators, librarians, coaches, operational staff, IT support, bus drivers, crossing guards, SROs, etc. This voucher system will crush small towns all across the state. These are the people who are looking to you for support and you are turning your backs on them. This system is flawed and will only give the affluent any benefit. You are ignoring the middle, working class and rural communities. This bill should not pass.

Kevin Walsh, Dr.

Year

Madison, TX

Fight the voucher scam.

Jennifer Easley

Self

San Antonio, TX

Committee Members - Thank you for your continued support of public education for Texas students. I opposed diverting public dollars away from public schools. I believe any recipient of public funds should be held to the same state standards for assessments, accountability, and parental rights. I urge you to prioritize full funding for our public schools and pause consideration of ESA legislation. I appreciate your time and consideration.

Laura Nutt

self

Floydada, TX

I want to say that we already have school choice. People can choose to go to Private Schools or be Homeschooled NOW. It is wrong to use tax dollars to help someone go to private school that is not required total anyone who wants to go there or have mandatory Staar tests. This is wrong on so many levels. If you want to ruin public schools, this is the way to do it. I am not against anyone going to private school, but they should not get government money. Public schools already are underfunded and have mandatory testing, why should private schools not be regulated? Not right on any level!

Kendall Cox

Self

Collinsville, TX

Save our public schools!

William Henderson, Mr

Self

Orange, TX

Support our public school systems. Not voucher payments

Stewart Gaitan, Mr.

Self - Texas Public School Educator

Houston, TX

I do not think it wise to establish ESA's. I strongly oppose! I have ten years of teaching in the Houston area and I know most certainly that this is going to take money away from our already deeply underfunded schools. We need to increase spending per child in public schools, hire more teachers, hire more support staff, increase salaries, build more schools, and upgrade our technology/courses offered. The amount in the voucher program would not be enough to help a student from a poorer family attend a private school, this would only benefit those families with children in private schools already but just further defund our public schools. I want to live in a city/state/country where ALL students are literate. If we continue to not prioritize education, we will keep falling behind the rest of the world. We should be pushing for world-class education for ALL, not just those in private school. No on HB 3!

Heather Mobley

Self/ Homeschool mom

PINEHURST, TX

Please pay attention to what people want. They do. Not. Want. This . Bill. We do not want government telling us what is acceptable and not, especially since they are the ones that ruined the public school system to begin with. There are ways to actually help and this bill is not it.

Adelaide Olguin

Self

Farmers Branch, TX

YES on vouchers. My children are finishing their Bachelors degrees with their high school diplomas. I'm a woman small business owner, and I have paid for all three of my kids education personally. I am taxed personally, for my business, and for my property — yet none of the funding goes to my kids' educations. I'm being taxed for other children to have a lesser outcome than I would ever want for my own children. Florida ranked #1 in education for a reason. Their Step Up program prioritizes student's learning. Arizona has a role over program each year that can be applied to state colleges if not used fully during K-12. Texas students deserve to be prioritized and reach the highest learning outcomes in the USA.

Edner Fry

CCNE

Eules, TX

No to HB3/vouchers for texas. We already have school choice which is our FREEDOM to choose for our children.

Andrea BOSTON

Self Educator

KEMPNER, TX

Don't defund my school.

Janet Chafin

myself

Houston, TX

I am adamantly opposed to education vouchers for rich people to send their children to private schools. The voucher programs reduce funding for public schools and teachers in public schools and is a regressive education system that will harm the less affluent families and their children's education. NO VOUCHERS!!! And increase per student spending in public education and increase teacher pay which is WAY deficient and below "market" compared to the majority of other states.

Mary Cortez

Self

Grape, TX

One of the IC's in our district had this posted on her Facebook! She said they vote tomorrow! I need to look more into it though. Anyways- I'll be emailing some people tonight

Dear Representatives,

I am writing to urge you to vote NO on HB3 and reject any efforts to divert public funds to private vendors through school vouchers. HB3 is not about helping students—it is a vendor bill that prioritizes profits over education. This is government overreach and irresponsible spending that hurts students, taxpayers, and our local communities.

Our district is already struggling due to inadequate funding. We see the effects firsthand—larger class sizes, fewer resources, and overworked teachers. Instead of addressing these urgent needs, HB3 would siphon money away from public schools, violating the Texas Constitution's guarantee of a free and efficient public education.

Public dollars belong in public schools. Texas taxpayers should not be forced to fund private and unaccountable education programs while our neighborhood schools continue to suffer. I urge you to stand with our students, teachers, and communities—vote NO on HB3 and say NO to vouchers.

Thank you for your time and your commitment to Texas children.

Sincerely,

Mary Cortez

Megan Carlton

Self

Dallas, TX

I have been a TX public school teacher for over 20 years. The voucher bill is designed to decimate public schools. Abbott and the Republicans are trying to take $1 billion from Texas taxpayers and give it to wealthy families who are already sending their kids to private schools. This will come at the expense of public school education, especially in rural and remote counties (more than 150 Texas counties don't have a private school to send your kid too, even if you could afford the difference between what the voucher pays and what tuition costs!).

It's bad for the Texas taxpayer, bad for public educators, and bad for the kids in our public school classrooms.

Luis Valenzuela

Self

Seguin, TX

As a product of the Texas public school system who otherwise might not have had a clear chance to access higher education, I am vehemently opposed to this bill because it will do nothing but weaken our public schools. Texas students, teachers and staff deserve to have better public schools.

David Verell

Self, Professional Engineer

Leander, TX

I vehemently disapprove of this bill, as it's aims are not to empower the education of all students of Texas, rather it will be used for selective purposes as noted, specifically for those attempting to attend private school and those attempting to home school. While these are both choices that a parent can make for their child, it is not acceptable, and should be considered illegal to have earmarked close to $1B in taxpayer monies that were to be used for the enrichment of the public school programs here in this state, and now call them a "surplus".

Please Vote No on HB3.

Janice Wallace

Self, Retired

Georgetown, TX

I am opposed to HB 3, or any bill that would establish a program for the distribution of public dollars for the funding of private K-12 schools, through vouchers, education savings accounts or other titles. TX could do much to improve public schools using the funds that certain parties would like to divert to the benefit of private vendors of schooling and education services, as well as for the benefit of a limited number of private individuals, particularly as the student beneficiaries will be selected by the schools. Such a practice could easily present opportunities for discrimination on multiple factors, including race, religion or disability.

This program will not benefit low-income families as most private school tuitions and expenses exceed the amount available per student. In addition there is not uniform availability of private school options across all areas of Texas.

This bill as currently written is vague regarding administration of the program. It identifies a type of entity to be created for administrative purposes, "Certified Educational Assistance Organizations" which is defined simply as an organization certified as one to support the administration of the program. Such 'certification' is based on the organization's ability to assist the comptroller in administering the program in whole or in part. Criteria or experience in fulfilling such a role are not specified in the language of the bill, nor is it clear that such administering entities (certified educational assistance organizations) cannot have a fiduciary relationship to program providers of educational services.

I believe the purpose of public funds should be equitable benefit to members of the public. I believe this bill would provide select members of the public with benefits not accessible to all and therefore is in conflict with the Texas Constitution, and the intent of state governance.

Teresa Martini

Self

Dallas, TX

I am a Texas resident with two kids currently attending public schools in Richardson ISD. I am writing today to ask you to vote NO on any "school choice" bills. The public schools have not had a funding increase since 2019. Serving the 5.5 million kids in public schools in Texas should be the number 1 priority of the Texas Legislature.

ESA/Voucher programs in other states have overwhelmingly served as a coupon program for families already in private schools, averaging 75-90% of kids already enrolled in private schools. Research continues to show no significant, measurable achievement differences in these programs when compared to public schools but does show the exorbitant increase in funding that they require. They will grow the government and are funded almost exclusively by wealthy investors outside of the state of Texas who stand to make significant money from the program.

Did you know the Richardson ISD is underfunded by $12 million for special education, $6 million for transportation, and $5 million for security? This is along with closing 3 elementary schools this year. That is only one district in Texas. This is not sustainable.

Current budget proposals from both the House and Senate are disrespectfully low. A 1-2% increase in funding per year is ridiculous given the high inflation numbers that everyone is aware of. School districts have had to cut programs, close schools, and use their savings accounts just to be able to pay teachers. Add in the significant underfunding in special education and the basically unfunded security mandates, and it's amazing that they are doing as good of a job as they are. Two years ago the Texas legislature proposed a basic allotment of $500 per student. This year it's only $220. Why is it less? Could it be that there isn't enough funding for both educational systems?

Public schools in Texas have been ignored for far too long. If you want a strong economy and want businesses to move here, your public schools should be a top priority. You must vote NO on ESAs/Vouchers and vote YES on increasing the basic allotment, switching to funding based on enrollment, not attendance, and vote YES on increased special education funding.

Show your constituents that you are not for sale and that you actually do love your local public schools by fighting for the funding they need and deserve and saying no to vouchers and ESAs.

Thank you.

JL Sterling, Ms

Self

Houston, TX

I do not want my tax dollars to support voucher programs for schools

INGRID RAMOS

Self

Killeen, TX

Fund public schools and vote no for HB3. Vouchers which are being marketed as education savings accounts are not useful to those of us that want to keep our kids in public schools. We are not interested in private schools or having choices. We have already chosen public schools as the choice for our kids. Now we are asking you to properly fund them so teachers have a higher salary, proper supplies, and enough supporting staff like bus drivers and aids. We are not interested in more private schools popping out of nowhere to take advantage of this vouchers nor private schools increasing tuition to supersede the value of the vouchers and making it near impossible for regular folks to attend. We are also concerned with special education students since private schools are not required to accommodate this demographic. If a SPED student wanted to attend a private school with vouchers the school doesn't have to accommodate them. This starts to feel like the choice is already made for them. Texans want the funding to remain with their public schools period.

It is bad enough that the Department of Education is being dismantled and no one will be overseeing the states to be sure that things are getting done.

Hannah Massie

Self - Teacher

Plano, TX

Dear Representatives,

As an educator with multiple degrees and experience across various Texas districts, I am strongly opposed to the "School Vouchers." The Texas Education Code's goal is to "ensure all children have access to a quality education that enables them to achieve their potential and participate fully in the social, economic, and educational opportunities of the state and nation." School vouchers undermine this mission.

Firstly, even with an extra $10,000, many families will still be unable to afford private school. For families struggling to meet basic needs, this amount won't make private school a viable option. In states where school voucher systems have been implemented, private school tuition has often increased, meaning $10,000 won't even help middle-class families.

Assuming $10,000 is sufficient, private schools are not required to provide transportation. For working parents, this poses a significant challenge. In rural Texas, many areas lack private schools entirely, making transportation even more of an issue.

Additionally, private schools can choose who to admit, meaning children with learning disabilities, behavioral challenges, or those who don't fit the school's culture may be turned away. Public schools, however, are required to accept all students and are committed to supporting them. Under the voucher system, public funds would be diverted to children from wealthier families, who often already have access to private schooling.

Private schools are also not mandated to provide special education services. When they do, students must be sent to public schools for evaluation and accommodations, using public school resources. Moreover, private schools are not required to administer state tests like STAAR, raising questions about accountability. Without certified teachers, how can we be certain these schools provide quality education?

It's also well-documented that in states with voucher systems, over 75% of funds go to families already enrolled in private schools, indicating that the program primarily benefits the wealthy.

We acknowledge the flaws in our education system, but these issues are not the result of public schools or teachers. Those of us in the public education system are dedicated to every student, regardless of their background. The solution is not school vouchers, which would only deepen economic and racial divides. If you truly care about all Texans, you will vote to improve public education and unlock opportunities for all children.

Sincerely,

Hannah Massie

Ileana Gonzalez

Self, public school teacher

Austin, TX

Here's the revised message:

Dear Honorable Members of the Texas Legislature,

As a dedicated public school teacher, a concerned mom, and a proud aunt, I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3 (HB3). This legislation threatens the very foundation of our public education system and undermines the progress we've made in providing high-quality education to all Texas students.

As a teacher, I've seen firsthand the impact of inadequate funding on our schools. HB3's proposed voucher system and privatization of public education will only exacerbate the existing inequalities in our system. It will divert essential funds away from our already underfunded public schools, leaving our most vulnerable students behind.

As a mom, I'm deeply concerned about the potential consequences of HB3 on our community. The proposed legislation will lead to increased segregation, decreased access to quality education, and a widening of the achievement gap. Our children deserve better. They deserve a well-funded, equitable, and inclusive public education system that prepares them for success in the 21st century.

As an aunt, I've witnessed the transformative power of public education in my niece's life. She attended a 6A high school with a renowned athletics program, which not only helped her develop essential life skills but also provided her with a sense of belonging and purpose. However, I'm deeply concerned that HB3's proposed funding cuts will lead to a decline in enrollment in our public high schools, putting 6A schools at risk of reclassification to 5A and 5A schools at risk of reclassification to 4A. This would have devastating consequences for our students, particularly those who rely on athletics as a means to access higher education and scholarships. University athletic scouts predominantly visit and recruit from 6A schools, providing our students with life-changing opportunities. If we compromise the quality and competitiveness of our 6A schools, we risk denying our students the chance to succeed at the next level.

I urge you to reject HB3 and instead focus on strengthening our public education system. We need to prioritize increased funding, reduced class sizes, and improved teacher support to ensure that every Texas student receives a high-quality education.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Anil Prabhakar

Self - Engineer

Cedar Park, TX

I'm a Texan taxpayer that supports our public schools and strongly opposes giving taxpayer money away to private schools through school vouchers (AKA education savings accounts). Instead of diverting taxpayer money to private schools, legislators should focus on fully funding public schools, which are laying-off teachers and cutting programs for students. Also legislators should focus on supporting teachers and school staff by giving all of them a significant pay raise. I would like to reiterate that I strongly oppose HB 3 and believe that taxpayer money should be used for public schools only.

Sarah Johnson
Self, State Employee
Leander, TX

I am deeply concerned by the state's own admissions and findings that school vouchers mean less money for public schools and could put TRS at risk. Both are unacceptable. I am the product of public schools and my mom was a public school teacher for 20 years. My grandfather was a public school teacher. Education is the single most important means by which a person can improve their circumstances and pull themselves and their family out of poverty. Study after study on states with voucher programs all show the same result: the majority of vouchers are used by parents already sending their kids to private schools. This does not benefit rural communities, it benefits the wealthy.

The quality of one's education should not be determined by their zip code. Tax payer money should not fund private schools at the expense of public schools.

If private schools get public money, then they should be subject to the same oversight and requirements. Period. Their teachers should be held to the same certification requirements and qualifications, the schools should be subject to the same special education, ADA accommodations, and testing requirements. To give tax payer money without the same level of oversight is to invite fraud and abuse.

Please do not sacrifice rural and small suburban schools to give handouts to families already paying private tuition. Do not risk the retirement of our teachers who've dedicated decades to educating Texas kids. Texans DO NOT WANT THIS. How many town halls have ended in the parents booing their representatives, tired of their lies? Put vouchers on the ballot and let Texans decide directly.

Bradley Porter
Self
Stephenville, TX

As a school district employee and a person of faith, I feel that every student should have the same access to education. I feel that all tax dollars should remain in the public school system. I oppose vouchers, ESA, and or any other thing that diverts fund from public school to private schools.

Sandra Londa
self
WIMBERLEY, TX

I am opposed to HB3 because of its diverting tax-payer money to private schools and further hampering public schools to do their jobs of providing quality education to Texas children. Due to the siphoning off of money for public education for so many years, including diverting "capture" money to the Rainy Day fund, our public schools have suffered. There already exists school choice in the state of Texas. People can ask for a transfer to another school district or opt to place their children in private school or home school them. Additionally, taking public money and using it for tuition at religious violates our separation of church and state that we hold sacred in this country. I urge you to vote against this bill.

Nan Baker, Reverend Self—Ordained clergy
Dallas, TX

Democracy exists on the foundation of an educated electorate. Our investment must be in universal public education. Siphoning resources and students away to unevenly qualified schools that are not available to everyone splinters our society and undermines democracy.

Kim Knisley
Self
Sunnyvale, TX

It is very unfortunate that Texas lawmakers are not listening to their constituents. It has been noted loud and clear how Texans oppose vouchers. You are elected to represent what Texans want, not what you yourselves want. When did I get a vote on this? Never! Public education has been suffering as a result of politician's schemes to hold back money, and now use it as blackmail to give teacher raises, etc. The private school children are already there. The lower socioeconomic children do not have good private/charter schools near them, for the most part. I hate to vote republicans out of office next election, but you aren't listening. You're acting as dictators. Same with women's rights! Where is my opportunity to vote? Wake up!

Elizabeth Diebold
Self/retired
Argyle, TX

We strongly denounce vouchers as an assault on public education. Public schools educate all children, unlike private schools that pick and choose their students. All a Texas children deserve quality public schools. Children are our future. Let educate them all well and pay our educators well for the import work they do.

Bridget Brame
self
Georgetown, TX

My family and friends would like for the legislature to HOLD OFF passing HB3 until Texas can pass a Constitutional Amendment to protect private schools, including home schools, from any regulation or infringement from our state or federal government. This is necessary before we mingle any taxpayer money with private education. There are two such resolutions filed in the House, HJR 52 (Vasut) and HJR 136 (Richardson). Thank you.

Eugene Marck, Mr
Self-Retired
San Antonio, TX

I am opposed to HB3. Our first priority should be to support the public schools. I do not understand how the proposed voucher is for $10,000 when the State does not even support public schools with that much money.

Kay Nettle
self
Manor, TX

I strongly urge you to vote against House Bill 3. We need this funding for our public schools. The state should not be providing funds for people who choose to home-school or attend a private school.

Floyd Trefny
Trefny Ranch
West Point, TX

I do not support HP 3 as I believe it will harm rural schools in my district.

Nicole Smith
Texas PTA
San Antonio, TX

Against HB3. Keep public dollars in public schools!

Addison Brownhill

Self

Tyler, TX

I graduated from Montgomery ISD, With their help I managed to graduate in 2022 with significant help and currently in college and working full time at a bank in their IT department. I'm successful, is because I had access to vital classes and school sponsored internships. I wouldn't be where I am today without that. Taking away my home districts funding will take away kids futures. They saved me from a lifetime of poverty and loss, let them continue to save and educate others.

Paul Walnick

Self/ Retired

Dallas, TX

I oppose HB3 as it deceives the public in thinking all children will be able to take advantage of the purported savings. It slants to private schools and more privileged children to take advantage of the savings. Please voted "No".

James Reed

Self

Grand Prairie, TX

Dear Representative,

As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want an Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) Program. I pay my public tax dollars and, therefore, want my money to Fund Public Schools in Texas. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children and all the educators, and staff, deserve to have the funding. To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

- I do NOT want vouchers/ESAs.
- I support an Increase of the Basic Allotment.
- I support Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflation of over 20%.

Again, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools (not private schools) in the State of Texas.

Sincerely,

James Reed

Eva Guzman

Self

San Antonio, TX

Vote No to Vouchers. Fully fund public education!

SHERRY MIRELES, Principal

N/A

Helotes, TX

Do not make the mistake of funding vouchers. Public schools are doing incredible work every single day, for ALL kids & this is a fact. Just come visit my school, 14100 Vance Jackson SA, TX Ed Rawlinson middle! Follow on socials @NISDRawlinson X, Instagram - we do an incredible job of offering high quality education by exceptional educators & I work tirelessly with my community, my district, & my staff to educate the whole child! In addition to high quality instruction we recognize the significance of supporting the social & emotional aspects of education as well. Giving public dollars to private schools is literally stealing from our children, our families & those who have served the public school community for decades. Call me anytime, I'm happy to show you around, you wouldn't believe how absolutely amazing public school is!!

Katherine Melara

Myself/homeschool parent/horticultural sales

Magnolia, TX

Dear sir or madam, I am writing in opposition to HB3, school choice and voucher program. I am a homeschool parent who schools 3 children at home and this bill will not help our family. We will still have to pay into this program. Why not instead adjust our property taxes and allow us to manage our own funds. The same regarding families that choose to pursue private institutions, allow them to keep their school taxes and they can distribute their money to the school of their choosing. As Texans, we already have the freedom to choose whether we send our children to public, private, or homeschool. This bill will tighten the restrictions on homeschooling and forces families to use approved curriculum that lobbyists have purchased at the cost of financial support to those government officials pushing this legislation. Texans do not want vouchers, we want to keep our tax dollars and our liberties. This program is not sustainable based on school taxes alone and tax rates will increase to cover the cost of $10k per student. There are hundreds of thousands of students within this state and no way to accommodate that amount financially to every student. Again, I oppose HB3, and ask that this bill be stopped.

Janice Murphy

self

Denton, TX

I am against this voucher bill. Public Dollars belong in public schools and tax dollars should NOT be used for private schools.

Elizabeth Lemaster

Self

San antonio, TX

Please do not allow school voucher bill to pass. My special needs children will not be accepted anywhere but public schools and cannot be served elsewhere. Improve funding to public schools/teachers. My tax dollars do not go to fund children going to private schools. My childless neighbors don't get a "school credit" and neither should people going to school of choice other than public.

John Strodtman, Mr.

Self

SAN ANTONIO, TX

The creation of an education savings account will defund public education and further disadvantage rural school districts where school choice options do not exist. Private education facilities have the option of rejecting students that they may not have the ability to service. Children with learning disabilities or physical disabilities that require specialized services may not have to be offered at private schools so some families will not have the option of being able to take advantage of the education savings account. The savings account sets aside more money per child than what is currently paid per public school student over a course of an academic year. This bill is not a good or fair option for most Texas families. It actually creates a funding disparity where as families that can already afford to send their children to a private school of their choice receive a coupon courtesy of Texas tax payers and many other families who may investigate option will find that the private schools are to expensive even with the education savings account. Texas needs more public education funding, not a handout to private institutions. Texas children deserve good schools in their neighborhoods. If these education savings vouchers are passed and handed out, this will give the incentive for private institutions to raise their tuition rates by $6000-$10000 to take advantage of the education fund. This is not a solution to Texas education, it's a gift!

Theresa Miner, Mrs.
Education/Retired Teacher
Houston, TX

I am writing to express my personal feelings and opinions regarding HB 3. I feel it is discriminating as it takes funding from public schools, funding the State of Texas is obligated by law to provide to ALL students living in the state, and essentially gives it to those who are more than able to pay for their children's education. Public Education is faltering at this time as a result of the failure to provide adequate funding. There is a teacher shortage as well as a supply shortage of materials and programs necessary to adequately prepare our students, the students who are going to be leading our country, for the future. Many students enrolled in public schools are very capable of competing academically with private school students but are being denied that opportunity, which is, again, discrimination. The funding ratio of dollars spent per private school student vs public school student is dispicable. This is compounded by the misguided information that parents using vouchers will be able to afford to send their students to private schools when the reality is the voucher will not cover the full tuition nor will it cover books, uniforms, athletics activities, field trips, etc. Please do right by Texans by both voting against this bill and returning the money to the public schools where it belongs.

Sincerely,
Theresa O. Miner

Mark McKnight
self
Austin, TX

Please vote No for HB 3. It's a voucher program. I like our public schools here. Our kids went to the public schools in Round Rock ISD. We felt the public schools treated our kids great and really helped them. Our son is Autistic. He got a lot of accommodations he needed especially at McNeil High School which is public. We don't want to fund private Christian schools with our tax money.

Taylor Jacobs, Mrs.
Dealey Montessori PTA
Dallas, TX

This bill cannot go forward without accountability and reporting guidelines regarding its efficacy. Distributing an unequal stipend per child in Texas is equivalent to discrimination and segregation. This bill violates the very conservative guidelines outlined in the GOP mission statements. Please consider the irreparable harm that is to come with this bill passing without specific, measurable, guidelines and equality.

Montie Shelton, Mrs.
self/retired teacher
Huntsville, TX

School choice sounds wonderful, but where state money goes, strings are always attached and prices go up exponentially. Look what "student loans" did to college tuition! I oppose this bill until there is a constitutional amendment protecting private schools and home schools from state interference.

Barbara Baruch, Mrs
self, retired attorney
San Antonio, TX

My name is Barbara Baruch. I live in San Antonio. I'm representing myself and my family. We oppose HB3. I am also representing 5.4 million Texas students who deserve a well-funded public education which you are not presently providing. Counting Washington D.C, Texas is 43rd out of 51 in the nation for per pupil spending on public school education. This bill hurts public schools.

Our school districts all face deficits, and many districts are closing schools. Our home is zoned to Northside Independent School District in San Antonio. Our school district recently passed a budget nearly $96 million in the hole. San Antonio-area schools could lose more than $100 million and Northside ISD alone stands to lose $41 million under SB 2. No fiscal note for HB3 has been published. It's impossible to guess how much our districts will be harmed by HB 3. But I can tell you that this legislature is not doing right by public education. Since 2023, 4 local school districts closed more than two dozen campuses in central San Antonio, most of them on the South Side and West Side. North East ISD eliminated 3 more schools this year to help close its deficit. You all represent districts in similar situations. Mr. Chairman Killeen ISD has a $17 million deficit in the general and the school nutrition fund. Rep. Allen, Alief ISD is currently staring down a $6.2 million deficit, I could go on and on. If your name wasn't mentioned it isn't because your school districts don't have deficits—it's because you limited my time.

You each have a constitutional duty not to use school money for religious purposes, and a constitutional responsibility to provide publicly financed education for the children of Texas. There is no constitutional requirement to educate Texas children any which way a parent chooses-- including online education, nor for taxpayers to fund private schools.

HB 3 will subsidize wealthy families who have no need of this subsidy. Because nothing guarantees that private schools will accept 1) any students who is less affluent, or 2) any student with a disability, you may be contributing little or no money to poor or disabled students' education. Finally, there is no requirement that recipients of ESL's attending private schools be educated as well as those who attend public school. Apparently, that is not your concern for your constituents. You all know how to fix education in Texas and it's not by creating ESLs.

Gay Burgess
self
Canyon Lake, TX

We do not need to pull money away from public schools. We need to support the schools and teachers we have, which for some reason the Texas governor seems to be Ok holding everybody hostage so he can cater to special interests and people who have supported his campaign. I do not want my tax dollars used to support schools that will not benefit all students - only the ones with money. This seems to be something that will hurt rural communities and children who need special education. Promising teachers a better salary only when this type of legislation is shoved thru is galling. Make good on the promise to support the local school needs instead of layering more requirements to run schools with no funding.

Mary Carvallo
Self
AUSTIN, TX

This proposal is a scam. Please vote against this. Funds should be directed towards public education and not private school. Vote no to the voucher system!

Sarah McCown, Mrs.
Self- Dyslexia Therapist
Roanoke, TX

My school district has already cut over 100 positions with 25% coming from special services. People are losing their jobs and kids will get less attention from teachers next year. ESA'a will be detrimental to public education. Public tax dollars belong in public schools.

Joseph Ammouri

Self

Frisco, TX

I am against vouchers. Please fund quality public education instead.

Teresa Ringness

Self

Austin, TX

Texans DO NOT support a school voucher system created, implemented or funded! Out Texas Public Schools need to be fully supported with our tax payer funds. What happened to the plan as promised to use the State Lottery funds for Texas public education?! Texas needs to fix our 73% underfunded school districts (14% critically). Our teachers, who play an incredibly important part of Texas' children's growth, deserve much better pay. Also, each student shouldn't adequately supported. Please stop this madness of school vouchers and fund Texas PUBLIC EDUCATION!

Kevin Washburn, Professor

Self

College Station, TX

Please vote NO on this! This will only aid those in the upper to upper middle class.

Jennifer Wang, Ms.

Texas PTA member and local PTSA officer, parent, self.

Dallas, TX

Public school funding has been held hostage for multiple legislative sessions while vouchers for private schools have been fast tracked and forced upon Taxpayers. Texas provides among the LOWEST funding per-student of all 50 states—at a little more than $6,000 per public school student. But special interests want taxpayers to fund $10,000 per student in private school vouchers.

Private schools do not have to accept students with learning or other disabilities. Private schools do not have to administer the STAAR exam on which all public schools are graded. Private schools would get voucher money regardless of a student's attendance record. Meanwhile, public schools' funding is not based on enrollment, but on actual attendance.

STOP this wasteful subsidy for the wealthy and actually FUND public schools.

Logan DeCleene

Self

Austin, TX

I have worked in education for the last 10 years. I have seen first hand the most vulnerable of children left behind or worse, kicked to the curb because they deemed too difficult to work with. Taking money out of the school districts, who are mandated to work with ALL children, and putting money into private schools who can pick and choose the students they serve puts all children at a disadvantage. Please fix the system that is already in place to best serve all Texas children instead of giving what will essentially be a tax break to a select few families who likely can afford private schooling anyways.

Donald CARLSON

Myself

Fort Worth, TX

Please vote no on this bill. I am a private school teacher, but I recognize the need for vibrant public education and appreciate the heroic efforts of my colleagues in public education.

Rebecca Buckley McIlwain

self, Project Manager, parent, grandparent

Houston, TX

I am a certified public school teacher, was educated in the public school system, and come from a long line of teachers reaching back 3 generations in Texas. I oppose HB3 and am appalled by the attack on our public schools in this way. I support more, not less money to be invested in the children of Texas. I support more, not less support for the devoted public school teachers, staff, and administrators of the public school districts across this state. I support more, not fewer options for parents with children who have special needs -- choices that PUBLIC not PRIVATE schools offer. Please oppose HB3. Thank you.

Ashley Sells

self

San Antonio, TX

This bill will take $1 billion from Texas taxpayers and give it to wealthy families who are already sending their kids to private schools. This will come at the expense of public school education, especially in rural and remote counties (more than 150 Texas counties don't have a private school available, even if a family could afford the difference between what the voucher pays and what tuition costs). HB3 is bad for the Texas taxpayer, bad for public educators, and bad for the kids in our public school classrooms who need additional funding, not less funding. I am strongly against school vouchers and for fully funded, high quality, public education.

Katy Stout, Mrs

Self- attorney

San Antonio, TX

Please do not pass this legislation and bankrupt our public schools. While I've sent my kids to public school, I've done so knowing that they'll receive a better education from more qualified teachers and more access to diversity. I understand as a small business owner the importance of having a community of people who have good jobs and can afford my services. Please continue to support public schools.

Bryan Davidaon

Self

Ponder, TX

As a resident living in rural Texas and not in the proximity of a private school, as a resident that cannot afford private school (even with the vouchers), please do not pass HB 3. These funds belong to the already underfunded public schools, and will surely destroy our public education system.

Abby Gostein

self, cantor

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill because it provides funding to a minority of families at the expense of those who cannot afford or do not have the opportunity to have their children in private schools. Public schools are already severely underfunded, and any additional K-12 education funds should go to public schools. Private schools are comparatively unregulated and are not subject to the same testing and standards required of public schools. Neighborhood public schools accept all students, but private schools can deny admission or educational services to any student, including students with disabilities, among others. Use of tax dollars should come with standards and not allow cherry picking of the easiest students to teach. Doing so would leave only the most challenging students in public schools, at a reduction of funding for the public schools (as the daily census would fall if students moved into private schools).

Hung Nguyen

Self - Software Engineer

Austin, TX

I am against the establishment of the education savings account program, which will take money out of the budget of public schools to go to the subsidizing of students attending private schools. Private schools will be entitled to more money per student than is currently set for public schools, and in turn, private schools won't be held to same standards of evaluation and accountability, won't be obligated to provide education to disabled and special needs students, and won't be obligated to provide transportation options to the school. In the mean time, as shown with similar programs in other states like Arizona and Florida, it has been shown that that majority of the families who take advantage of these programs are those who already can afford to send their kids to private schools, and also has to potential to blow up their state budgets without a participant cap on the program, potentially encroaching on the state's other budgetary needs.

I am grateful to be a product of the public school education in Texas, as the son of an immigrant family with significant economic disadvantages. It allowed me to receive a valuable education and exposure to resources and community I would not have otherwise had if such a program were in effect and my school had considerably less funding and members of the community from all walks of life. It was an important stepping stone needed to allow me and my siblings to achieve upward mobility and establish careers as successful engineers. I want that opportunity to continue to be available to all students in Texas.

Kathleen Dryer

School Librarian EA

Pflugerville, TX

I believe the children are the future, fund public schools, and let them lead the way!

Do not support the voucher system in Texas. Vouchers are essentially just a coupon for people that can already afford private school. And vouchers will take funding from the already underfunded public schools.

I have been a public school teacher in Texas for over 20 years and now work as a librarian EA in Pflugerville ISD. I have seen firsthand how the students are affected by my district operating at a 7.9 million deficit.

Vote no on school vouchers in Texas! Listen to teachers, parents, and support Texas children by fully funding public schools.

Allison Craig, Dr.
Self, college faculty
Fort Worth, TX

I am extremely opposed to HB3 as currently written and to implementing educational savings accounts in our Texas school system. Other states' experience has shown that voucher programs take money out of public schools without significantly impacting most families' options in terms of obtaining quality education for their children. In fact, vouchers will provide my family with FEWER options for choosing the education we seek for our children: we have been sending them to neighborhood elementary and middle schools that are smaller, walkable, and diverse. Those schools are likely to be closed by the school district due to the budget restrictions Texas has imposed on public schools over the past six years since the allotment has risen; if vouchers are implemented, that will be the last straw for my kids' schools, and they will close. Our family's CHOICE to move to an urban neighborhood with schools our kids can walk to is being undermined by politicians claiming to be working in the interest of giving my family more choices. HB3's current language is particularly upsetting to me as a public school parent. It gives more money per pupil to private schools than to public schools. Under HB3 (and SB 2), a $1 billion fund would be created to pay families $10,000 a year per student in public dollars to fund their children's tuition at an accredited private school and other expenses such as textbooks, transportation, and therapy. The bill would provide $11,500 per student for children with disabilities (HB 3 professes that its formula could provide more than $11,500). By contrast. The school funding bill, HB 2, adds $220 to the current $6160, a few thousand short of the voucher proposals. I'm aware of the arguments that public schools get money from local property taxes in addition to the $6160--that doesn't change the fact that a state with a huge discretionary fund is choosing to give funds to private schooling families that it is withholding from public school families. Additionally, according to the TX Tribune, "The bills do not impose any admission or enrollment requirements on the private schools that choose to participate in the program, meaning they would face no state pressure to adjust their costs, ensure more racial and ethnic diversity, or accept students from different faith traditions." As a professor who works with disabled students who have struggled to access an equal education, I'm appalled that HB3 allows private schools to discriminate in admission against disabled students while taking money away from public schools that serve those students according to ADA and IEP requirements.

Jeffrey Smith, Dr.
Self
Georgetown, TX

I am writing to state my strong OPPOSITION to any proposals for school vouchers. At this point, it has become clear that vouchers would only benefit people who already have their children in private schools (which is most often aligned with financial capability). School vouchers can in no way help middle- to low-income students who would not be able to provide the additional funding to attend a private school. But larger than this concern is the concern that there is little to no accountability for private schools. Texas is already ranked 41st in the nation this year, and we are set to go lower if we continue this assault on public education. Instead of providing tax funded vouchers, what needs to happen is that we need to raise the $6100 per student to $10,000 per student in the upcoming budget in order to strengthen our public education. I am also a religious leader, and I am also extremely concerned about the version of Christianity being touted by much of our legislation, which means that I also vehemently oppose the use of public schools for religious education. Whose perspective on Christianity will be used? Will there be religious education for Muslim or Hindu or Buddhist students? What about students whose family claims no religion? And I do not speak in a vacuum. The things we are considering will only serve to further weaken public education, do away with critical thinking and problem solving, and set us back nationally and globally. Thank you for considering my perspective on this.

JOANNE FISCHER
self homemaker
Plano, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS!!! Will undermine and cast public schools into chaos. Many schools may close instead of being improved leading to overcrowding and long lists of those who wish to be enrolled. Meanwhile, other schools will be 'forgotten' and languish because they are seen as undesirable. Everyone is excited about the money and, even though they may be able to pay--or would have sacrificed in the past to pay--the government is seen as the cash enabler once again. Chaos and confusion are inevitable, not only for students and parents, but for teachers and admin. What IS needed is a return to basics in learning, not throwing money in, basically, a relocation scheme.

Cynthia Jimenez

Self

INGLESIDE, TX

I am a Texas School Counselor and oppose any education savings account or voucher program in Texas. The $1 billion in funding for this program could instead be used to fund mental and behavioral health programs in public schools. I am 1 counselor to 480 students on my caseload. Please vote No to HB 3.

Calli Farmer

Self

Carrollton, TX

As a former public school teacher and mother to 3 elementary students, I find it so terribly concerning that we have not increased the flexible spending from the state in 6 years. The duty of the state to provide for a free public education for all must be the priority before ever considering using public funds for private, unaccountable, selective schools. To say that public schools don't serve every student we'll while also chronically underfunding public schools is a self-fulfilling prophecy. Why not fully fund public schools to decide if the students are better served before just blaming a system you broke?

Additionally, each state with a similar ESA program has been unsuccessful. There's more economic disparity, worse academic results, and an ever-growing tax burden on the tax payers. The data does not support improvement rather a discount for wealthy families already paying for private school.

Finally, you do not have the public support for vouchers. Electing pro-voucher representatives is not the same as public support unless you assume that other issues weren't a factor. I have heard from just as many republicans and democrats that they don't want vouchers. Private schools don't want students with vouchers. Homeschoolers don't want the oversight from vouchers. To prioritize support for 100,000 students over 5.5 million is not democracy, it's just the good ol' boy network. Please support the 98% over the 2%!

Quyen Nguyen

Self

Plano, TX

I think this bill will exponentially harm our children who are already and will be in public schools. Especially with it hard already for teachers and staff to help our kids, this bill does nothing to fix this but to increase the money taken away. This bill cannot pass if this is supposed to only support more demands of the rich.

Ann Jensen
Self, retired
San Marcos, TX

I am opposed to HB 3 and all other bills that funnel public education dollars to private schools.

I began my teaching career as an elementary school in Leander, Texas. I loved my students, but I made very little money and worked very long hours. In fact, I earned less money as a teacher than I made working as a secretary before I began teaching. Quite a few of my students had learning disabilities or emotional problems or both, and for the most part I was left to deal with these kids on my own. By the end of my third year of teaching, I felt overwhelmed and demoralized, so I left public school teaching and entered the private sector.

Texas public education is still chronically underfunded, and education savings accounts threaten to reduce public school funding further. I worry that, as more capable kids are siphoned off into private schools, public school teachers will be left to support an even greater number of challenges than I had to deal with.

*Private schools that accept vouchers should be required to also accept students with disabilities and provide the same level of support required of public schools.

In addition to that concern, please consider that *qualifying income limits are too high in the current legislation, thus funneling my tax dollars to parents who can already afford private school.

Any voucher legislation under consideration should hold private schools that accept vouchers to the same standards of accountability and transparency as public schools. Private schools should be required report and make publicly available their students' achievement, with the same testing requirements as for public schools.

How can we know whether voucher investments are worthwhile if private schools don't have to follow the same financial and academic reporting requirements as public schools?

Voucher legislation should *require TEA to conduct regular audits of private schools that accept vouchers to ensure that they use the funds appropriately and comply with laws and regulations. Texas taxpayers should be able to see how any funding provided under voucher legislation is spent, including the total dollars that go to each private school and how those funds are used.

As a parent, I understand the desire to support parental choice, but as a taxpayer, if we must have vouchers, I believe it is incumbent upon the Texas legislature to create responsible legislation that puts my tax dollars to the best use in support of our students.

Respectfully,

Ann Jensen

Miguel Vega
Self Teacher
El Paso, TX

Many special education students would get left in public schools that already are severely underfunded and understaffed. Vouchers that would be offered to special education students wouldn't come close to covering the high tuition charged by the few private schools that accept students with special needs.

Kecia Cate

Self

Dallas, TX

Vouchers will not improve public education. Parents already have school choice. It is unjust that Texas has money to improve our current school system, but Greg Abbott refuses to release funds. Our school system is currently operating on a budget that hasn't had an increase since 2016. I am a public educator and currently am in charge of ESL, instructional coach and kindergarten team lead. All of this due to lack of funding. No vouchers! Give public education funding to allow us to do our job.

Scott Pulte

Self

Lindsay, TX

Please vote against this!

Robin Manning

Self, retired public school teacher

Kyle, TX

The law does not allow me to use public taxpayer monies to buy my private park - we have public parks. If I want my own park I have to use my own money. I can't use public taxpayer monies to pay for my private security- we have publicly paid police. If I want private security I have to use my own money to pay for it. Schools are no different. Our Texas constitution requires a system of free public education (albeit a very underfunded one). Nowhere does it say anything about using my taxes to help wealthy parents continue to send their children to private schools. They are welcome to use their own money to do that, but while our public schools are underfunded I heartily object to spending my tax dollars on private schools.

Candace Flanary

Myself

Deer Park, TX

I am a retired teacher who was named teacher of the year for Region IV. I know whereof I speak, and I am completely and utterly against vouchers. It is wrong to do this to the Texas public school children, and it needs to be voted against wholeheartedly. I taught for 30 years. The budgets of education in Texas is strained enough as it is without adding this to make it even worse. Stop this effort to destroy public education. Do your job responsibly and vote against this effort.

Anna Cordova

Self

Mckinney, TX

As a Texas public school teacher for 37 years I oppose any voucher or education fund that uses taxpayer money for private schools, home schools, for profit online schools. There is no accountability for these organizations. We cannot guarantee the taxpayer money will actually educate our children in private schools. Most students that have received home school education and came to my class had skills that were significantly below math and reading grade levels.

Tammy Davis, Mrs.

Self

Center, TX

Say NO to vouchers. It is not good for public schools. It is unfair. As a special education teacher in a small rural school I see no benefit to my kids in this bill. I am totally against Vouchers. PLEASE vote NO!!!!

Melinda James, Ms.

Self - Property Manager

Lindsay, TX

Public education already does not receive sufficient funding- please do not pass this bill.

Catherine mcfadden

Self/ retired

Liberty Hill, TX

VOTE NO!!!!

Felicia Miyakawa

Self, unemployed

Round Rock, TX

Taxpayer money should stay with public schools. ESAs will only benefit wealthy families who can already afford to send their kids to private schools. Rural districts will be especially hard hit. I am opposed to this bill and all bills that propose ESAs or vouchers.

Mary Schwab

Richardson Retired School Personnel

Granbury, TX

I oppose vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

Devona Carpenter

Self

Austin, TX

I disagree with vouchers they will destroy our public schools and only help people already using private schools also we should keep churches and state separate like our constitution states do not fund Christian schools

Abeer Monem

Self

Rosenberg, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers because rich kids have enough and don't need a handout at the expense of the rest of our kids since they won't be able to afford private school costs above the voucher value.

Shella Pruitt

Community Voices/Self

Houston, TX

I have been in education for 28+ years. Public education has provided the best councilmen, educators, state and local representatives, mayors, judges, as well as presidents. Public school funding should not be pulled away. Vouchers are fine for the families who prefer them. I am a proud recipient of public education and I am raising a very smart young man in public education. Public education is very versatile and well rounded. Classes are taught that helps prepare our youth for the future. Certified teachers are working extremely hard for their students to make sure they are successful in their careers and that they are ready for the future. For those who want to take their children to schools that accept vouchers, good for them. However, funding for this should not and cannot be cut from public education. Teachers have worked hard for years and years with inadequate pay. Let's continue to work together and do what we must to keep funding for our public schools.

Karen Sebastian
Self
San Antonio, TX

HB 3 will devastate public education and will only benefit the wealthy. Vouchers do not cover the entire cost of a private school and will not benefit the middle class or low income families. They are not required to follow IEP's or 504 plans. They can also pick and choose the students they admit. They can remove students from their school at anytime. This will be the downfall of public education.

Harriettgoodfriend48@gmail.com Goodfriend
self
Dallas, TX

I'm concerned that lower income children will be left out of a better education. If more money is going to go to vouchers, how will the lower income public schools survive? I don't believe private schools will be required to accept all children that apply. They don't do that now. In my area, schools get approximately $9870 in state funds per child. Private schools cost over $30,000 per year. Where will the other $20,000 come from? Lower income families simply cannot afford this. In fact, neither can lower middle income families. I do not think school vouchers is in the best interest of children. Please do not pass this bill.

Brian Davis
Self - Account Management
Dallas, TX

I'm a life-long Texas resident and am fully against the funding of an education savings account program or any voucher program that removes resources from Texas Public education and transmits it to other resources.

It is a fiscal transmission of funds that erodes the quality of our society and education. Vouchers will not enable more access to schools for Texas families, public schools and will suffer and be choked by the lack of funding being deferred, all to the benefit of socio-economic Texans that already have the means to pay for private schooling.

Voucher programs historically have been run poorly to go over budget while driving the largest academic declines surpassing COVID. Education and children are our future, and diverting funding to an education saving account program or voucher will only further set back Texas and the lead it has in education. It would be unfortunate to fall back in educational progress by weakening the public education system through a fiscal diversion of funds.

More than 70% Texans who want vouchers can already afford the luxury it assist, meanwhile it hurts every other child who cannot already afford private education. Vouchers are not an investment in our children's future, it is a robbery of the public funds and support needed.

Karen Munroe
Self
San Antonio, TX

Please do not vote in favor of school vouchers for Texas students.

Kandy Faris
HISD
Whitney, TX

I ask my house Rep. to vote no! I oppose any voucher program, including a tuition tax credit, education savings account, or any other such program that would direct public funds to private, home, or for-profit virtual schools.

Marta Ortiz
Self
Brownsville, TX

Public school is what lifted me out of my impoverished neighborhood. I went on to graduate from UT and Texas State. I currently serve as a PK teacher and work everyday to make my babies fall in love with education. I want them to succeed one day too, even if they start at a Title 1 school. I'm a Christian, mother of 3, and my campus' Teacher of the Year. When I'm making financial decisions, I question how much longer I'll afford to teach. Please reconsider and increase funding for public schools. You'll be helping lift up the communities who need public schools the most. You'll also bless the educators who love giving their all, and deserve a dignified pay for our labor. God bless each one of you.

Kristi Thibaut
SBISD parent
Houston, TX

I am opposed to HB 3. As a parent of a child in Spring Branch ISD, our school district stands to lose 10 to 13 million dollars in state funding when fully implemented. Vouchers are just a drain on an already underfunded education system. Having received no new funding since 2019 and ever increasing inflation, SBISD had to cut 35 million from its budget. As a result, we closed 3 schools, ended strategic partnerships with charter schools, eliminated over 300 positions including librarians, and increased student/teacher staffing ratios. Furthermore, our school district receives over 47 million dollars in federal funds which if frozen or eliminated, would be catastrophic for our district. There is no credible link between a voucher and gains in student achievement. The lack of transparency, oversight and accountability often leads to waste, fraud and abuse. In Arizona, the voucher program started with an initial investment of 65 million dollars which has now escalated to over 429 million dollars. Vouchers have led to a 1.4 billion dollar budget shortfall in Arizona. And more importantly parents most likely to apply for a voucher are the ones already sending their kids to private schools. Vouchers will decimate public school funding in Texas. Its a scam. Nothing more than welfare for the wealthy.

Dianna Simons
Self
Austin, TX

I do not approve of public funds going to private schools. That money needs to be used to fully fund public schools. The basic allotment has not been increased since 2019 and schools are struggling to keep their schools going because of this. Teachers also need a pay increase without it being tied to vouchers. Do the right thing for ALL students in the state of Texas. That is your responsibility according to the state constitution.

Rachael Woodside
Self, schoolPsychologist
Frisco, TX

I moved to this state to have choices and options both public and private. Having more options keeps systems competitive and diverse. I did not move to Texas to subsidize private education. I send my son to public school out of choice, I work in public schools because of choice. I DO NOT WANT TO SUBSIDIZE PRIVATE EDUCATION. No one has considered the challenges, including that private schools will have to honor special education laws. This is one of the the worst ideas ever postulated and considered. I would consider moving again, out of this state, if this passed.

Amanda Cantu
Self, Educator
Austin, TX

Vote NO to HB 3. HB 3 is BAD for Texas students, public schools, and tax payer dollars. Vote NO to school vouchers. Please, listen to and represent your constituents faithfully. Public schools need your support now more than ever. Please, do the right thing.

Issis Vela-Fox

Self

San Antonio, TX

This bill does not benefit all our Texas students - only few. It seems like our states continues to make adjustments that benefit few and hurt the majority of our students. If families choose an alternative to public education, then they are responsible for that choice. Their choices should not burden others.

There are so many nuances to this bill it is difficult to cover all. Vote NO! Do not support this piece of legislation. It is detrimental to the future of education in our state. It hurts the majority of the people you represent it hurts the future of Texas.

Melanie Trevino, Mrs.

Self

San Antonio, TX

My name is Melanie Trevino, and I am a parent of two current middle school children in public school.

Our school, Driscoll Middle School in San Antonio has been a staple in our community for many years. The NEISD School Board recently voted to close our school this year along with 2 others in the district due to no funding and low enrollment. Our community is saddened by this decision. Our children are being forced out of our community to attend other middle schools in the district. This is extremely heartbreaking for children in this age group.

HB 3 will only make matters worse. Public school funding needs to be a priority in the state of Texas. If our public schools had been properly funded none of these schools would be closing. I adamantly oppose HB 3. Public tax dollars should not be utilized towards private institutions.

Christa Schmidt

Self teacher

Addison, TX

I am a public school teacher in Carrollton-Farmers Branch ISD and my school was just selected, amongst 3 others, for consolidation. My school is an A rated school, amongst the best schools in the state, but because school districts are absolutely bleeding out, it must now close. Hundreds of students will now be pushed into neighboring campuses to increase already large class sizes and rezoning will affect the entire district affecting thousands of students. This has not just affected Carrollton-Farmers Branch. Schools have closed in Lewisville, Plano, Coppell, and Fort Worth. Public schools are absolutely bleeding out and it is unfathomable to me that we are even considering using public funds to give families a $10,000 coupon to attend private schools, when public schools literally are unable to survive. Public schools accept ALL students and provide law required special ed services that private schools are not required to. Not only should this bill absolutely not pass, funding should be raised for public schools to adjust for inflation that has occurred since 2019. Use our budget surplus and fund public schools.

Elizabeth Murray

Self

Houston, TX

This will hurt our communities. I work for a private school and there is no guarantee children will be accepted in those private schools they apply to or that the voucher will be enough to cover the costs. We are draining money from our public school system to provide welfare for the wealthy. Students protected under ADA, rural communities with limited private school choice, and low socioeconomic families will be hurt the most by vouchers.

Justine Dyess

Self

Howe, TX

I am adamantly against HB3.

No "school choice", vouchers etc.

Fully fund public schools.

Separation of church and State.

No new property taxes.

Mireille Perret

Self

Houston, TX

Please do not divert money for public schools to private schools. Please don't pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Erin Dieter

Self

League City, TX

I am adamantly opposed to any bill pertaining to vouchers. Our system is failing because it has not been adequately funded for years. Our per student allotment needs to be increased to match inflation. Our schools need to be funded on student enrollment not student attendance. A school should not be punished because a parent does not bring their child to school. Texas has the ability to fully fund our schools in a way that could provide amazing programs that promote all students but instead Abbott has refused to fund our schools so he can say they are failing and push vouchers. As an elected official it's your job to vote how your constituents want and how to best support our schools. All elected officials voting for vouchers in exchange for PAC money should be ashamed of themselves and should know we will NOT be reelecting you.

Jessica Trier

Self, Stay at home mom

San Antonio, TX

As a mom, I urge you to oppose HB 3 and prioritize adequate funding for public school children!

*Studies show voucher programs do not equate to improved academic outcomes

*HB 3 is NOT a parent choice bill – This bill funds private school selectivity with public money. Texas families already have school choice.

*Public money demands public accountability—any school or entity receiving taxpayer dollars must meet the same standards, mandates, testing, and accountability requirements as public schools.

*Let Texans decide! Vouchers would use public dollars for private education, and Texans deserve a voice in this decision. Urge lawmakers to put the measure on a statewide ballot and let the people vote!

Renee Kilpatrick

Self

austin, TX

Please consider funding "vouchers" via some other budgetary category. Our public schools are the backbones of our communities. Ask Greg Abbott to throw a little more of our state profit into the pot do it for the kids.

Cheryl KASAL

817-9801198

Bedford, TX

Please, please do not approve a voucher system for Texas Public schools. Our students rank very low compared to other states. We need every dime put into our schools.

It is unconscionable that Governor Abbott has withheld money approved for our schools as a bargaining chip for school vouchers. Our teachers are vastly underpaid and it is time we elevate this profession, i.e. paying them what they are worth. Should this pass I can promise there will be very strong movement to vote Governor Abbott out as governor.

Mary Wolf

Self

Muldoon, TX

If you make the choice to send your student to a private school, you should pay for it...it's the choice you made. Tax payer dollars are for the common good.

Ricky Sutton
Self
Waxahachie, TX

I do not want the expansion of funding private education at all! No school vouchers for Texas.

Allison Vanderwoude
Highland Park Education Foundation
Dallas, TX

This would be incredibly BAD for public schools and is not something Texans want. Please don't take away our dollars for private education.

Mercedes Bristol, Mrs.
Texas Grandparents Raising Grandchildren
San Antonio, TX

I am in favor of Texas Public Schools and want to advocate for better state funding for public schools to ensure that teachers have the resources they need, and that students get the education they deserve. I sent my child to a charter school because he has a 504 and I thought that the Charter school would be a better fit for him. It took me 5 weeks to get the school to get him services. I had asked them to keep my child off the computers because he was not respecting them and they did not. When he did go into inappropriate websites they were upset and asked me to withdraw him or they were going to expel him. I did not want that to happen and took him back to the public school. I found out that many charter schools accept the children, but then around October of the school year they expel the children with challenges. I would love to know how many (stats) children are in the same situation.

Lori Kleinfeld
"Self" Dietitian
Plano, TX

I am against HB3, the voucher scheme. I am a strong proponent of Public Schools. I am a proud product of public schools as are my sons who went to Texas public schools and Universities and are doing extremely well! One son said "Plano Schools prepared me well!" I believe taxpayer money should go to funding public schools, as public schools are accountable to the taxpayers. Private schools are not. Also giving money to private schools is a waste. Those who go to private schools will go there anyway. Others who think they want to go, may not be admitted, as school choice is mostly for the private schools to choose which students they want, not the other way around! (not to mention the voucher may not cover it all, so basically for the rich) Giving money to the voucher program will drain money from our public schools, which sorely needs more funding! Public schools offer wonderful programs to all, from the learning disabled to the gifted! We cannot say that about all private schools! Public schools need money for continuous quality improvement and to pay teachers so we will attract the best and the brightest. Don't our kids deserve that? I want a great future for my grandchildren and all Texas children! The kind I had and my kids had! Support public schools! If we have the money for vouchers, then give that money to Public Schools who are accountable to the taxpayers and not in it for a profit! Thank you!!

Thomas Saenz
Self
Cedar Park, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.
Thomas Saenz

Martin Metcalf, Mr
Self
Houston, TX

I am a retired public school teacher. The public school system is absolutely incredible and is capable of developing the best young minds of our children. I am convinced public schools are the cornerstone of society and must be fully funded. I disagree with anything which takes away from funding. If public schools close down due to vouchers, this would be a disaster. Please do not allow vouchers to be established - HB 3 must not pass.

Gaer Ferrinson
self - disabled
Stephenville, TX

I'm very concerned that the School Vouchers and Education Savings Account Programs will strip away fund from already struggling public schools, especially in rural communities. These are public tax funds already earmarked for use in public schools - hence the word PUBLIC. These two schemes boil down to rich people - who can already afford to send their kids to schools of their choosing or move in order to accomplish the same - stealing public money from middle and lower class families. It's also concerning how urgent these bills are to the Governor. Far too many Texans have no idea how school vouchers and education savings account program works, and the Governor wants to keep it that way. Our rural public schools, children, and families deserve far better than this! FUND PUBLIC SCHOOLS. That is a great way to allow choice in education.

Sarah Gray
Self
Austin, TX

Let it be known I am absolutely and completely against vouchers and HB 3. No vouchers, no HB 3. Not now, not ever. HB 3 would divert critical public funds to private institutions with limited accountability. Vouchers are just schemes that burden taxpayers while benefiting only a select few, leaving most students — particularly those who live in rural areas and small towns — behind. That's unacceptable. Fund public schools first! No to HB 3.

Melissa Silerio

Self

Grand Prairie, TX

Subject: Opposition to the Establishment of an Education Savings Account Program
Dear Honorable Members of the Texas State House,
I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed legislation relating to the establishment of an education savings account (ESA) program in Texas. As a Texas Public School Educator, I believe that such a program would significantly harm our public education system and ultimately fail to provide equitable educational opportunities for all Texas children. My concerns regarding the establishment of an ESA program include, but are not limited to, the following:
Diversion of Public Funds: ESAs divert vital public tax dollars away from our already underfunded public schools. This will inevitably lead to further cuts in resources, teacher shortages, and a decline in the quality of education available to the vast majority of Texas students.
Lack of Accountability and Transparency: Unlike public schools, private schools and other educational providers receiving ESA funds are not subject to the same level of accountability and transparency. This lack of oversight raises serious concerns about the proper use of taxpayer money and the quality of education being provided.
Increased Segregation and Inequality: ESAs have the potential to exacerbate existing inequalities by allowing affluent families to use public funds to subsidize private school tuition, while leaving working class families in urban and rural areas of our state with increasingly underfunded public schools. This will lead to further segregation and a widening achievement gap.
Undermining Public Education: Public education is a fundamental pillar of our democracy, providing a common ground for children of all backgrounds to learn and grow together. ESAs undermine this vital institution by creating a parallel system that siphons away resources and students. Texas public schools have proven time and again that we are up to the challenge of educating all students, let's properly fund our schools not leave them behind.
Lack of guaranteed standardized testing: Public schools are required to administer standardized testing, ensuring a level of accountability for the students and the schools. Private schools accepting ESA funds may not be required to do the same, making it difficult to measure student progress.
I urge you to consider the detrimental impact that an ESA program would have on our public education system and the children of Texas. Instead of diverting public funds to private entities, I believe we should focus on strengthening our public schools by increasing funding, supporting teachers, and ensuring that all students have access to a high-quality education.
Thank you for your time and consideration of this important matter.
Sincerely, Melissa Silerio, Public School Educator 5851 Sunny Meadow Ln. Grand Prairie, Tx 75052 melbella654@gmail.com

Kelly Johnson

Self, Non-Profit Program Director

Houston, TX

I oppose HB3. The reality is this bill will end up primarily serving families who are already paying to send their kids to private schools and who already likely have significant resources to do so. This bill will not prioritize students with disabilities and low-income families to be able to accessibly transition into private schools despite the effort to address this. Several friends with children have recently left the state of Texas specifically because we are not investing in expanding public education and instead we are focusing on expanding private school access. Families are seeking better public education not better access to private education.

Hermelinda Zamarripa

Self

Austin, TX

The voucher program will destroy public education. Our public schools need financial support. We would be doing well if a huge chunk of our tax dollars were not diverted to the state. Our schools need that money to keep schools open, provide upgrades, hire and pay quality teachers and support staff for special need students. The voucher program would rob us of this and merely serve to reimburse families who are already sending their children to private schools. This is not what our forefathers considered when they insisted PUBLIC education for all. Please vote the voucher program down.

Dorothy Romero

Self

Colleyville, TX

No to vouchers/esa. Private schools will not accept most of the low-income kids eligible. They will not pass "interviews" and "admissions". So public school funding is negatively affected, thereby negatively affecting millions of children. Please consider all the kids...not only the most privileged or most advanced. Keep public funds in public schools.

Elizabeth Weaver

Self, Librarian

Carrollton, TX

We all acknowledge that vouchers are not a sufficient solution to address the needs of MOST of our special education students in Texas. Linda McMahon's plan to dissolve the Department of Education, the agency that provides the majority of special education funding, along with the state's refusal to address its $1.7 billion annual funding gap for SPED as well as its ongoing lawsuit seeking to declare 504 plans unconstitutional, leave our most vulnerable students in a precarious situation. How will you ensure that Texas effectively meets the needs of these children? And to be clear, vouchers for private schools that do not currently exist are not the answer. I strongly oppose vouchers and do not believe in defunding our public schools. A large number of Texans feel the same. It is the first time that I, home-schooling parents, and traditional Republicans who do not wish to see the growth of spending and bureaucracy have ever been on the same side of an issue. That says a lot.

Jennifer Torrez-Mayfield

Self

Austin, TX

As a product of a public school system I value the diversity in backgrounds, cultural, and nationalities they offer. As an Army child I learned my appreciation of cultures through my father's duty stations as a child. Taking money away from public schools takes away this opportunity and gives it to unregulated educational institutions. I want our children taught by teachers certified and college educated. Private schools don't have to abide by any certifications or minimum educational standards. Many families will not be able afford private education even with a voucher. There are few rules or legislation that can protect children from bullying or harassment at private schools. Public tax dollars so stay with public institutions and away from for profit businesses.

Ashley Murray

self

Cedar Park, TX

Hello,

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Ashley Murray

Heather DeWitt

Self

Providnce Vlg, TX

As a public school teacher & parent, I strongly oppose school vouchers. Public schools need to be fully funded before school vouchers or ESAs are even discussed. The basic student allotment has not seen an increase since 2019. This allotment needs to be increased by $1500 in order to make up for inflation. School vouchers will take away funding from our public schools. Those that will benefit from using ESAs are already enrolled in private schools. Private schools will not provide transportation, lack certified teachers, lack a viable & guaranteed curriculum and have little to no accountability. Where as public schools are asked to do so much more with less funding. I would like my comment to be part of public record as opposition to this bill. Thank you!

jane gibson, mrs
self, attorney
Taylor, TX

Thirty years ago I went to an Ivy League college after graduating from my rural, public high school in Central Texas. There were students in college who refused to speak to me because I didn't get there through a fancy prep school. Did we not all get into the same college? Which of us would you want to be your college kid?

Both my children went to the same, public rural school that I did. My daughter, also at an Ivy League school, is working on a PhD in a computer and engineering field. My son is happily working on a BA at Texas State.

So, what is the point of siphoning money away from good public schools? Some otherwise-good schools are already cutting hours and staff because they don't have adequate funding. The funding is in the Capitol but it is not reaching the schools.

Would vouchers actually enable any student to escape a "bad" public school in favor of a "good" private school? And wouldn't more students be better served by improving a "bad" public school rather than draining its resources and encouraging its students to abandon it? For example, Austin has many excellent private schools with a wide range of tuition. Saint Stephen's charges $39,700 for a year of high school. Saint Michael's charges $29,885 for a year of high school. And Hyde Park charges $23,191 for 12th Grade. Those rates approximate annual salaries. How big would a voucher have to be to give a prospective student any meaningful chance at any one of those schools, not just for one year but for his or her academic career?

Analogy: I want to play golf. I don't want to play at the municipal course. Even though your taxes pay for the municipal course, I want you to pay for a private course for me. Seem fair?

Cherlyn Jacko
Self
DeSoto, TX

I am AGAINST school vouchers. It will NOT benefit Texas school children. No, No and AGAIN NO TO SCHOOL Vouchers. No!

Stacey Tanner
Self
Perryton, TX

Mr. Buckley:

I would like to encourage you to vote No for all school vouchers. Why in the world would we think it is okay to place a higher value on private school children than public school children? Why won't you simply properly fund public schools? Yet here we are because Gregg Abbott is throwing a temper tantrum because his BIG money donors from out of state want to control the education of our own children in the state of Texas. The voucher system is an outright scam with it's sole purpose to put money in the pockets of the wealthy donors. Just like all the money going to Pearson over these stupid tests. If you are so all fired up about paying for private schools, then they need to abide by the exact same rules as public schools. Please vote No on all voucher bills. The voters of Texas want this. You can no longer say that this is what Texans wanted. This was put through on a republican issue and therefore did not represent the "whole" Texas population. This is an embarrassment that our legislators would rather be puppets for the wealthy instead of standing for and representing all citizens of Texas. Shame of you for authoring such a horrendous bill.

Sincerely,
Stacey Tanner

Cindy Knackstedt
Self/Future for my Grandchildren
New Ulm, TX

I strongly oppose any public funding for vouchers, education savings plans, or any financial support for private/home schools. Fully fund public schools without strings attached or hoops, like TIA. Many areas in Texas do not have the option for a private school!

Melinda Cox
Self
San Antonio, TX

Inflation in the United States has increased by 23.45% since 2019, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This means that the prices of goods and services are 1.23 times higher today than they were in 2019.

With that written .. as an advocate and now a school board trustee .. I am not sure $220 is going to help!! I am sure we won't agree on the $1300 .. maybe somewhere in the middle .. I completely get and understand the $6100-$10,000 but $220 does nothing to help me do my job and put forth a balanced budget .. yep part of our deficit is a small stipend and I know there is a teacher pay raise bill but for example insurance went up 90 percent .. we are closing 3 schools:: we are working with state mandates .. did you know 80 percent of our San Antonio workforce comes out of a public school .. all public schools want is an even playing field .. you have public school kids working at the Capitol ..I know I was there recently with my Smart Drinks bring Club students

Amy Gregory
Self
Crawford, TX

I strongly oppose the establishment of an Education Savings Account (ESA) program in Texas. Diverting public funds to private and home schools undermines our public education system, which serves the vast majority of Texas students. Instead of funding unregulated private institutions, we should invest in public schools to improve teacher pay(not the Teacher Incentive Allotment), reduce class sizes, and provide more resources for students. ESAs also lack accountability, meaning taxpayer dollars could be used without proper oversight or guarantees of educational quality. Texas students deserve strong, well-funded public schools—not a voucher system that weakens them.

Stacy Penney
Self/Realtor
Mansfield, TX

I am opposed to school choice for many reasons. I pay for private school for a reason, to keep the Govt out. The writing is on the wall for the rules and regulations that will come if this is passed. What is the main purpose of all of this anyway, when only approx 100,000 out of 5-6M kids will receive it anyway? Let's just work on making public schools better!

Holly Krause
Self
Humble, TX

I am a third generation Texas public school teacher married to a third generation public school teacher with children in public schools. Parents already have the choice to send their kids to public school and this bill takes public money from our public schools. Out state benefits from a well educated society, most of which will attend public schools. Public schools are held accountable to state standard and required to educate every child that comes to them and to accommodate every child that comes to them. Private schools set their own standards and pick and choose who can attend and can remove students at any time they want. Additionally, many in our state do not even have a private school near them, especially those in rural areas so this is not an option and their schools will have less money to support their children. While I hope this bill dies if the committee moves it forward I implore them to consider the following:

- lower the lottery priority qualifications for low income families to 185% to match the qualifications for free and reduced lunch
- additional funding for special education students, especially ones in rural districts that would likely have to travel significant distances to find a private school they may attend
- reduce the allotment by $4000 to match the per student allotment in public schools

Judith Snape
Self
Round Rock, TX

Taxpayer monies are best spent on public education which needs improvement and best serves all Texas children and the public good.

Liz Ortiz
Self—retired teacher/principal
Pasadena, TX

Vote NO on school vouchers. Our public Ed teachers need our support. This bill does not show support.

Daisy Lopez
Self Roma, TX

Favor

Dena Smith
Self
Nacogdoches, TX

I have taught for 31 years in the Texas public education system at the same rural, socioeconomically disadvantaged district in east Texas. I have advocated to stop “ School Choice” for many years by meeting on the steps of the Capitol and voicing my concerns along side with Travis Clardy. Those elected to back this bill in 2024 were endorsed by Governor Abbott and his billionaire friends to make sure this bill finally passes. As a “Teacher of the Year” declared by SFASU and a member of education who gives their best for their students- this CHOICE is not about the parents or students. They already have choices in place. They are able to choose another district (like mine) and transfer with no fees. They can choose to homeschool or attend private or charter schools. They have choices. So why are you pushing this agenda? Why do you want to undermine public education and divert resources and income from my children that will never qualify for the ‘vouchers’ or ‘choice’ you continue to represent as a positive for families? Those that stand behind this bill fail to publicly acknowledge that the options are limited to those who actually qualify for enrollment in this choice. It won’t be my student with disabilities, the middle of the road achieving academic student or the family that lacks the funds to pay the difference in tuition costs. No. It will find its way to attracting the the wealthy, high achieving students and soon after with the highest athletic talent as well. This is segregation of the wealthy vs low income. There is no evidence of any improved performance because School Choice/vouchers have no accountability or oversight. There is no curriculum or testing for the small percentage of students that may be accepted. How can you support this program and the billions of dollars with no accountability to the tax payers? Sadly and most importantly- you don’t consider my experience, my love, my dedication or my passion I have for my children over 31 years of service with little funding and no raise. I am a small part of an enormous community of wonderful educators you have failed to help and acknowledge. You actually have punished us, our students and districts with the $400 million(paid to vendors over just a few years)for the STAAR test that you, Governor Abbott and TEA purchased to set public education up to fail. How can students or educators be expected to Master a test that is three years above grade levels? You approved this to set public expectations of public education as a failure while spending millions of taxpayer dollars to do so. We that educate know. We that educate deserve better. And Texas parents deserve the truth. Stop funding money for agendas. Put our money where it belongs. Our classrooms. Our teachers. We all have a powerhouse of a vote. If this passes, I doubt any of these current representatives will be in power to see it through. Fund money correctly for public education- not sit on it as a pawn!

Madeleine Haskins

self

San Antonio, TX

I am a constituent, taxpayer and I oppose this bill. The House should not pass this bill as it funds 'school choice' for wealthy families (wealthy families already have school choice). Families making over $200k in TX don't need a government handout! The budget surplus should be used to support the hardworking families of Texas by making groceries and childcare more affordable -- to support the nuclear family. This bill does not do that. HB 3 bill should NOT be passed as it would negatively impact your constituents, particularly those in the rural counties (about 56% of the ENTIRE state). These rural Republican counties do not have the luxury of a private school nearby. You would use their tax money to support families making over $200k to go to a private school. A significant majority of die-hard Republican voters, the people who voted to keep you employed fall into this rural county territory. I urge the House to be honest with themselves and consider who would really benefit from this because it's not their constituents.

Darci Burchers

Self/teacher

Kerrville, TX

SB2/HB3 grows government, weakens local schools, and wastes taxpayer money with zero accountability. It strips rural schools of funding, could send tax dollars to religious or controversial private schools, and violates the Texas Constitution's duty to public education. Say NO to SB2 & HB3!

Thank you.

Natasha Willet, Mrs

Public Education

CEDAR PARK, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools.

ESAs (vouchers) directly hurt students with disabilities who receive Special Education services in Public Schools in the State of Texas. Diverting $1 Billion of my PUBLIC taxpayer money to private schools who do not even acknowledge IDEA, do not follow IEPs and only provide services when they are negotiated, compromised and then charged back to parents at exorbitant rates well above typical tuition rates it is theft of services and money to the most vulnerable population in Texas.

14% of the 5.4 million public school students in Texas receive special education services. That's 760,000 students at a minimum. These ESAs are completely inaccessible to at least 90% of our disabled students, and that is before they have a chance at any lottery or know if a private school will accept, serve, or retain them. There's no accountability. Not of services, not of the $1 Billion of public taxpayer money this legislature wants to pour into private schools and not of impact or outcomes of our disabled students.

Even if we say ALL of the ESAs go to disabled kids receiving special education services, that still leaves a minimum of 700,000 students receiving special education services in underfunded understaffed Public Schools that this state put in this situation. This causes direct harm to these students with disabilities, the most vulnerable individuals in society, and it's at the hands of those who are supposed to represent us.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice (and students), and have the courage to do the right thing: say No to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Natasha Millar-Willet

Natalie Scheuller

Self, mother and former public school teacher

San Antonio, TX

Texas public schools have not received additional funding since 2019 and the funding has not even been adjusted for inflation. Our state public schools and teachers are the 10% lowest paid in the United States. Yet this bill would pull from that meager funding and use it to subsidize private school tuition. Private schools can deny any student they want and the vast majority do not serve students with special needs. Additionally, there are no private schools in many rural Texas school districts, yet these districts will also have their funding cut. The education savings amount is not enough to fund many private schools' full tuition, therefore it will only be useful to families who can afford to pay more beyond the allotted amount. In short, this bill is going to help a few elite, wealthy students who are already attending private schools, and will fail over 5 million public school children. Education is the great equalizer and a huge driver of economic growth. Why shortchange Texas's future performance and economy all for the benefit of wealthy donors who support this discounted private school tuition? Every other state that has implemented school vouchers or "educational savings accounts" has failed and seen their public funding needs greatly increase as a result. Our already short-staffed public schools will have a true crisis in operations with less funding. How will we attract good teachers to work in these conditions? My children's school has already experienced increased teacher turnover and teachers leaving mid year multiple times in 2024. Please vote no on HB 3 and instead allocate more funding from our generous budget surplus to support the 5 million public school children of Texas—our state's future. This is absolutely the issue I care most about as a mother of four boys, former public school teacher, and Air Force Spouse.

Sara Burk

Self

DRIFTWOOD, TX

Hello! My name is Sara, and I am a farmer in Hays County. I care greatly about our public school system. I am writing to ask the Texas House committee to reject HB 3. Please do not advance this bill. I believe that quality, equitable, and free public school education is a cornerstone of our democracy. Additionally, my faith in Jesus compels me to advocate for the poor and the oppressed. Vouchers do not serve the poor. Rather, they are a gift for the wealthy. They drain resources from our already underfunded public school system. Please do not pass a voucher program in Texas.

Heather Hopper

goodyoga

PLANO, TX

This bill hurts our most vulnerable students, and Texas public education in general. The vast majority of Texans have spoken out that they do not want vouchers. Vouchers will hurt our great state, not make it better.

Lorilee Bland

Self

Eules, TX

I am a retired public school teacher. No one thinks vouchers are a good idea or what is best for our students. Please support public education and the children, parents, and educators. No to Vouchers.

Meg Nester

Self

Burkburnett, TX

I would rather not have my tax dollars spent on tuition for private schooling. I believe lower income students are at a disadvantage with this Bill. Thank you for your time.

Sonya Jones
Self/teacher
Denison, TX

Passing this bill will completely destroy an already crippled system. All students deserve the right to the best possible education. Taking more money away from public education will have lasting impacts on our entire state. Big picture/long term this will negatively impact every aspect of our state and economy. Please stop killing public education and start being a part of the solution to make it better and stronger.

Beth Edwards, Ms
Self- early childhood educator
Haslet, TX

Please vote no to both SB2 and HB3. Public school funding is intended for public schools not private schools. Rural Families, special needs children and low income children will receive a lower quality education as a result. Public education is an asset to society and strong economy.

Emily Chapman
St. Mark's United Methodist Church
Houston, TX

This bill will be damaging to public schools, particularly the low income schools my church partners with. These vouchers would not help a single one of those children attend a private school in Houston- they barely put a dent in that high tuition while continuing to starve their neighborhood school. There are dozens of counties in Texas that do not even have a private school option. This is a scam and so many reasonable Texans can see that clearly. NO TO VOUCHERS.

Rachel Sheehy
Carrollton
Carrollton, TX

To think that politicians think they know better than all their constituents is absurd. Please listen to the parents and do NOT put this bill in place. This will do much more damage than any of you wish to acknowledge. More students will benefit from properly funding public schools (which Texas remains in the bottom 10 of the nation!) than giving discounts for the rich/privileged.

Texans already have choice. Fund public schools, not private.

Monica Bryant
Self
Canadian, TX

Texans do not want vouchers, we want the legislature to abide by the Constitution and fully fund public schools in Texas.

Lacee Sharee Westlund
Self
Granbury, TX

SB2 & HB3 grows government, weakens local schools, and wastes taxpayer money with zero accountability. It strips rural schools of funding, could send tax dollars to religious or controversial private schools, and violates the Texas Constitution's duty to public education. Say NO to SB2 & HB3!

Michael Neaves
Self. Retired Electrical Engineer
Austin, TX

Diverting public money from public education to vouchers weakens our communities, which reduces the feeling of safety and the actual safety of every rural community and every urban community.

Mary Piehl

Self/Retired Teacher/Grandparent

Tomball, TX

Vote NO for this unfair proposition that has dubious motives from politicians and will invariably destroy public schools (which have already been economically “starved” for at least a decade). Please do not allow personal gain to interfere with a decent education for ALL of our children in Texas!

Candace Volz

self

AUSTIN, TX

I oppose school vouchers because I believe in the separation between church and state that our US Constitution provides. I believe that school vouchers will take much-needed funds from public schools. Our government should NOT be funding religious schools. And yes, I support religious schools- we sent our children to one in middle and high school. But we paid for that- did not expect the state to do so. And that school provides scholarships for those who cannot pay the tuition. Separation of Church and State- a bedrock principal of our country . . .

Raemi Thompson

Westbrook ISD

Big Spring, TX

Please reconsider diverting much needed funds away from public schools into education savings accounts. Public schools are full of hard working teachers going above and beyond every day to meet all of the needs of all of the students. There simply isn't enough of us to go around. If public schools cannot find certified educators, what makes you think opening more for profit schools will be able to find certified teachers? Instead of diluting the teacher pool even further and creating an even deeper divide between the have and have nots, please give public schools the resources they need to recruit and train certified teachers in every classroom. There was once a time when teaching jobs were hard to find and once you were hired, you stayed and made a career where you could also raise a family and plan for retirement. Let's make the teaching profession that desirable again! Fully fund public schools!

Tiffany Moorman

Self

Austin, TX

I fully oppose school vouchers, education savings accounts, private school subsidies, whatever it is they are being called this time. Public schools will only continue to suffer under this system and the rich, private schools will continue to deny students who aren't within their ideal student image. These vouchers do a disservice to the over 5 million children currently enrolled in public schools in the state of Texas. Texas is already ranked in the lower half of public schools in the country due to our current Robin Hood Laws and this voucher program will only benefit the wealthy while our public school students suffer even more. No state that has ever implemented this type of bill can show any evidence that this was successful and did not hurt middle or lower class students.

Brian Bloss, Mr

Self, teacher

Grapevine, TX

Brian Bloss

Self, Public School Teacher

Opposed

To the honorable members of the Public Education Committee,

I am a public school teacher and a conservative opposed to HB3. Before explaining my opposition, I want to thank the committee for splitting HB3 from HB2. However, I urge you to consider: How does HB3 improve our current situation?

Instead of allocating $1 billion for a new entitlement program, which will grow exponentially, HB3 undermines the ability of public schools to function, particularly in the face of an ongoing teacher shortage. I teach for Northwest ISD in Education Region 11, where 60% of districts are already in deficit. Estimates suggest my district could lose over $12 million in funding next biennium, leading to up to 206 staff positions being cut. Already, we're cutting 106 staff and raising secondary student-to-teacher ratios from 167:1 to 180:1. I currently teach 203 students, and this trend will only lead to fewer opportunities for meaningful relationships between students and teachers. I ask, how does HB3 make things better for students?

Moreover, the head of TRS has warned that even a 1% reduction in staff contributing to TRS could lead to insolvency. Governor Abbott has claimed HB3 won't affect TRS, but with fewer students in public schools, why would schools retain staff? How does this encourage new teachers when they face the risk of a compromised pension system? It doesn't, as HB3 doesn't require schools accepting ESAs to contribute to TRS.

Public schools also serve as a key factor for economic development and help maintain property values, which many teachers and Texans rely on for retirement. We're already seeing major districts closing schools due to budget deficits caused by Governor Abbott's decision to tie ESAs with public education funding last session. How does siphoning funds from public schools address the loss of this economic engine?

As a lifelong conservative, I must express concern that this bill creates a new entitlement without accountability. Governor Abbott has claimed this bill is vital to protect children from radical indoctrination like Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI). For years public schools have been demonized and no proof of radical indoctrination has surfaced because public schools have been overseen by Republicans for 30 years!

Yet, HB3 lacks any measures to shield students from such influence, and many elite private schools embrace DEI, as a core value in their selection of staff and what is taught. If protecting children from DEI is so vital, how can conservatives support funding for private schools with DEI as a core value if they fear DEI is indoctrination? For the sake of the future of public schools, please listen to the people and do not let this bill pass.

Judy Kelley

Self

Colleyville, TX

I am against vouchers in all forms. We need to fund PUBLIC education. Taxpayer money should fund public schools. There has been no increase in the state allotment since 2016. Teachers need to make a living wage and Independent School districts need the money to support education.

Laura McBride

Self, retired teacher and Pet sitting business owner

Burleson, TX

I am opposed to HB 3. I do not want my tax dollars put into an education savings account for the wealthiest of parents to use on private school tuition for their children. Our tax dollars should be used to benefit the public not private businesses like private schools. I am a retired public school teacher and know we have outstanding public schools. That money could be better spent improving the public schools we have in place. I realize there is a bill for public school funding (HB2), but know funds earmarked for vouchers would also be beneficial for our public schools and teachers which have been denied funds for several years. HB 3 could lead to larger student/teacher ratios and ultimately bankrupt our public schools.

Joan Trimble
Self/registered nurse
San Antonio, TX

Vouchers by any other name are still vouchers. Just look at AZ and LA among others. Their result are dismal. It's a lose-lose for the students and the taxpayers. The impact in my district in Bexar County for the NISD will lead to >41million, >700 teachers and the remaining teachers will have >7% increase in the student-teachers ratio. Book losses will be in excess of 900K. The majority of regular Texans are opposed to voucher programs. They want fully funded public schools that are responsive to student and parent needs. A handful of rich bullies should not be able to drive this agenda. Vote no to voucher programs and fund our public schools.

Sam Bowman
Self, educator
San Antonio, TX

I oppose HB 3 and the establishment of an education savings account

james jones
self
irving, TX

Really have not seen how vouchers can even be legal as the concept violates Article 7 of the TX State Constitution. Republicans claim the people voted in favor of voucher concepts yet those dumb questions on on the republican party primary ballot. So no democrat nor any Independent Texas voters - and there are a lot of us who favor neither party based on their current statements of charter. Even the gov stated yes it would rob money from public schools to fund vouchers after saying it would not and from what my research indicates the robbery will occur thereby hurting public schools whihc will adversely impact property values and taxes - lot of reallly uninformed people supporting vouchers.

The LAW OF UNINTENDED CONSEQUENCES will reach out and significantly impact those who truly support vouchers because they will not see what could happen and then their loss of property values will hit them in their pocket books.

I truly believe if the State of Texas would get off the testing train and truly work to assess student achievements with real teaching that the depth of where Texas schools rank now would be overcome.

Having lived and gone to school in those bottom few states, I really do not want my Texas Schools down there. My wife & I even home-schooled our children in one state we lived because the public schools were so far down the rabbit hole for performance.

When we moved to another state the school was so happy we did home-school because other students from that former state were routinely placed back a grade there.

Cindy Fountain

TX UU Justice Ministry/Member

Cleburne, TX

As a lifelong Texan, public school graduate, and member of a faith community who believes in the strength of our public schools when they are well funded and well supported as the Texas Constitution requires, I strongly oppose HB 3!

It gives more money per pupil to private schools than to public schools.

It will create even greater disparities in access to education across Texas. In addition to the previous bullet point, many rural communities do not have private schools available and cannot sustain private schools.

Private schools can accept or reject students. Public schools serve all students.

$1 billion is the proposed funding for vouchers/ESAs. There are about 5.5 million Texas public school students and about 325,000 private school students. Therefore, and not ever mentioned in public forums to tout this, only around 100,000 students, both public and private, can attempt to take advantage if it. The percentages vary (the Senate version and House version differ in this regard), but there is a reasonable expectation that 20% of this funding would go to affluent families and families whose children already attend private schools. That leaves about 80,000 public school students who cannot afford private schools who might be able to take advantage of the ESA/Voucher policy.

Please grant the respect and support that public school students, teachers and families deserve by putting to rest unwanted and unneeded vouchers in Texas.

Thank you,
Cindy Fountain

Susan Moffat
Self, Retired Editor
Austin, TX

As a Texas parent and taxpayer, I strongly oppose any school voucher program for Texas. Studies in states that have already adopted voucher programs show escalating costs, fraud, waste, little accountability, and the overall erosion funding for public schools. Effectively, these programs function as a discount for wealthy families with students already enrolled in private schools, rather than providing any serious support for families in need.

But knowing that many of you have already made up your minds to support a voucher program, I urge you to adopt the following safeguards to protect the rights of all Texas taxpayers and families under a voucher program.

1. Make all vouchers income-based and limit them to families with incomes of no more than 200% of the federal poverty level. Texas taxpayers should not be asked to provide a tuition discount for wealthy families already enrolled in private schools. HB 3's current proposal would allow some families making up to 500 percent of the poverty level or approximately $156,000 per year to access vouchers. This is simply too high.
2. Require STAAR or current state accountability tests for all voucher recipients; if not, then allow traditional public schools to use the equivalent "national test" proposed for private schools to ensure an apples-to-apples comparison for accountability purposes. Private schools accepting public money should meet the same accountability requirements as public schools.
3. Require private schools to accept any student with a state voucher. Texas public schools are required to accept all students. Again, private schools accepting public money should meet the same requirement.
4. Prohibit the use of public funds for vouchers for religious schools to ensure a constitutional separation of church and state. If public funds are used for private religious schools, allow voucher students to opt out of any religious curriculum.
5. Restore full funding for the traditional Texas public schools that educate over 5.5 million Texas students. Since 2019, Texas schools have lost $10 billion in funding, or roughly $1,300 per student, due to inflation, resulting in serious program cuts and school closings. It is unconscionable to even consider a one billion dollar voucher program until these critical funding needs are met for all Texas students. At the very least, please provide an additional $1,300 per pupil to bring resources back to pre-2019 levels.

Thank you for your consideration and your service to our state.

Susan Moffat
Texas taxpayer and parent

Jenny Bates
self, pastor
Denton, TX

I oppose this bill, I do not think it will be beneficial to Texans. I think Texas should focus on strengthening public education.

LaDena Drake
Self-
Burleson, TX

Please do NOT pass this bill. ESA program will not help children who are in low performing schools, rural areas or low socioeconomic students.

Chris Kovacs
Self
New Braunfels, TX

As a veteran Texas public school teacher for 25 years it is disheartening to see how public education funding has been held hostage to pass through a bill that is unpopular among most Texans and is nothing but welfare for the wealthy. While many who support this disliked voucher bill will tout the teacher raises that may come with the new funding, I would ask if you've done your research to see how this will negatively affect the Teacher Retirement System. Are teachers supposed to thank you for a few thousand dollar raise when you're putting our retirement in jeopardy? If you really think you are doing what's best for education in Texas why not put it to a popular vote with clear and concise wording rather than some obscure word salad that leaves people scratching their heads. It is also my understanding that the voucher price tag will only increase as the years pass and will continue to pull funds from public education, thus leaving public school districts with less and less money to work with. The voucher scam has proven ineffective in most states it has been implemented in. It's also odd that you would willingly divert public money to private schools while not holding them to the same standards as public schools. If you think rationally, reasonably and fairly you can only come to one conclusion... this bill is wrong for Texas, or you just don't care about what Texans really want.

Sarah Potter
Self
Justin, TX

If passed, this will end the same as every other state that has it: most vouchers will go to wealthier urban families that already have kids in private school. How will this help any kid in Comanche Country where there isn't a private school? This takes money away from rural, agricultural families to send urban ones to ritzy academies that cost at least 20k per year. Private schools generally don't take special needs children, or kids with behavior or attendance issues. Public schools have to take them all. Many American giants such as Neil Armstrong, Buzz Aldrin and General MacArthur attending public schools. Even Greg Abbott attended Duncanville High School. Fund our public schools, not this ponzi scheme to line the pockets of those that are already wealthy. As a conservative Republican, I ask that you vote no.

Teresa Stockton
Self
Cypress, TX

There are items this bill that to me as. Parent don't make sense.

1. Special needs children will receive more tax payer money to leave and go to a private school - but public schools must do the eval in 45 days. AND private schools wouldn't be required to take those students anyway??? So does the public school even get paid for that time now? Because you've taken that money away from the district.

And if you're looking at total costs per student and 15- 12K. But the state only pays 6100. We chose to live in a high taxed area for the better schools. That was the CHOICE my family made... and youre proposing handing out double the amount of state level funds to kids who want to go somewhere else. Where does that money come from???

Private schools won't have the same testing requirements or regulations. If that's the case vouchers for those students should be even less- because public schools are paying for STAAR and all of the testing requirements you've tied to public school education funding - so that "portion" should be removed entirely from private school fund distribution or they also need to be required to pay for those services.

The $300 ish raise per student in public education is not enough. Inflation was at 8% in 2022 alone. $300 is insulting - especially when paired against what you're proposing to give to private schools - with no strings attached.

This bill needs to be better... your district has some of the largest and best public school districts in the Houston area. I wish you would support them more.

Michelle Orth

Forney

Forney, TX

We don't need vouchers, no one wants vouchers but the rich. Abbott is misleading people about why he wants them, WE ALREADY HAVE SCHOOL CHOICE. He has debts he needs to pay so he's sacrificing our public education funds to pay off his bills. WE DONT WANT VOUCHERS!!!!

Tiffany Williford

Self

Kountze, TX

Please do not vote for vouchers. There is no real benefit to public schools with this "deal." Private schools truly will be the only schools benefiting from this. The majority of lower income families will not be able to cover the projected increases in private school tuition with the vouchers, much less be able to provide transportation for students to attend since most lower income families have working parents. Put the money back in public education! Make public education great again. Make learning accessible for all! When all students learn, all of Texas will benefit.

Alicia Smith

Self

Fairfield, TX

I am against HB3. I want you to vote NO in this committee on HB 3.

This is a bad bill for public education. It is especially bad for rural ISDs where public schools are the cornerstone of our community. Think about the 5,000 Texas children that will not have options for choice other than their rural school. There are more students in public schools than there are private options. There is nothing conservative about giving taxpayer money to private entities. Conservatives are for smaller government but this bill will be growing the government with employees to administer the bill with the third party administrators making the big bucks off the taxpayers money.

After a couple of years the money set aside will be gone leaving the taxpayers to keep it going through higher taxes. Fund Public Schools Vote NO on HB 3

Thank you for your consideration of my wants.

Heather Oliver

Self, Physical Therapist.

Leander, TX

Vote NO to HB 3. Protect our public schools by voting no. The voucher system diverts money away from public schools and does not guarantee quality education at private schools; there is no reliable evidence that vouchers improve student success. Private schools are not held accountable to the public control over how public tax dollars are spent, which can lead to corruption. Transportation is not provided and they do not cover the full cost of tuition, which will exclude students from low-income backgrounds. Private schools do not have to accept all students, which will exacerbate inequalities between different student populations, including children with disabilities. Protect our students and ensure that every child has access to quality education.

Jana White

Self

De Leon, TX

Texans do NOT want this! Listen to your constituents! This will absolutely destroy public education. Please keep in mind you are voting/deciding for an overwhelming number of rural school districts who will sink with this funding scheme. Remember who votes for you and do what is best for ALL Texas students. The voucher system is not it! And, teachers/ school district employees still deserve a raise. Even if this does not pass. Tying teacher pay to school vouchers is heartless. Teachers are one of the most underpaid careers in Texas. The state will lose thousands of dedicated and experienced teachers if a compromise is not reached in this.

Rick Warren
Self
Burleson, TX

Please vote NO to vouchers. Allie the voters to decide this issue.

Robert James
Self, rancher
New ulm, TX

Hey!
I strongly oppose any public funding for vouchers, education savings plans, or any financial support for private/home schools. Fully fund public schools without strings attached or hoops, like TIA.

Emily Cohan
Self
San marcos, TX

Protect PUBLIC education. No school vouchers. I do not condone my tax dollars going towards any religious institution- with school vouchers, I have no guarantee that my taxes will not go into funding religious private schools. This is a violation of my constitutional rights.

Mary Wilson
Self
GRAND PRAIRIE, TX

Strongly against

Amanda Molina
Self/ teacher
Fort Worth, TX

I am a mother of two three year olds and have taught high school for over 17 years. I implore you to listen to the vast majority of Texas that is strongly opposed to allow tax dollars to be used for private education. Every state that has passed similar bill with whatever name they have called it is now facing budget deficits and a reality that their intentions of creating an opportunity for more middle and lower class families to access private education did not go as planned. They note that most of their recipients were already attending private schools and prices for said schools rose after such bills passed. It is appalling to think that it is proposed to give 'education spending money' more per student than what is actually allotted to public schools. What will happen when students who leave public schools for private return to public after taking the $ with them? I've been in this game long enough to tell you that this is facts, not hypothetical. When a student tells me that they are transferring to a private or charter school, 9 times out of 10, it doesn't take long for them to return back to school because they find that the school was not what they thought it would be. Please vote for our young generation against 'school choice' which is just a fancy way of calling school vouchers.

Christin Evans

Self

Austin, TX

Dear Texas House Members,

I urge you to oppose any effort to divert public funds from Texas public schools, whether through school vouchers, education savings accounts (ESAs), or any similar program. These programs, no matter the name, strip funding from the 5.4 million students—nearly 90% of Texas children—who rely on public schools.

Our public schools are already underfunded by at least $4,000 per student compared to the national average, ranking 43rd in per-student funding nationwide. Texas is also facing a severe teacher shortage due to low salaries and inadequate resources, making it harder to retain high-quality educators.

Vouchers and ESAs take taxpayer dollars meant for public schools and redirect them to private institutions that lack oversight, can reject students, and are not accountable to the public. Instead of undercutting public education, Texas should be fully funding schools, increasing teacher pay, and ensuring every child—regardless of income or location—has access to a strong public education.

Please stand with Texas families, students, and educators by rejecting vouchers, ESAs, and any program that weakens our public schools. Our kids deserve better.

Thank you,
Christin Evans
Austin, Texas

Carolyn Windley

Self

Miami, TX

End Robin Hood, if you want to help schools. We have school choice. Its time for complete education reform but vouchers and ESA's aren't where we start. We have voted on this and it is a no from everyone, every time we vote. Governor please listen to what we are telling you.

Claire Peterson Myself teacher
San Antonio, TX

Vouchers are wildly unpopular and will defund public schools. Do not pass this bill.

Alyssa Van Zandt

Self

De Leon, TX

Parents already have school choice. If they want their student to go to private school, they are welcome to find one and pay for it. On the other hand, public school serves SO MANY MORE students! Students that even if this bill passes, they would have no access to private education. Students who even with a voucher, don't live close enough to a private school. Students who even with a voucher, wouldn't make it in private school due to lack of parental involvement and transportation to school and extracurriculars. Students who even with a voucher, parents couldn't afford to send them to a private school. Students who even with a voucher, would be thrown out of private school due to low grades and behavior issues. These are the students I work with EVERY day! These students come to school after being up all night babysitting siblings, or going to work with mom because they don't trust dad, staying up all night because they have no bed to sleep in, or staying up all night because they are not safe! The only way these students can break the generation curse is public education. They depend on the transportation, meals, and overall safe place! Taking funding from these students, is setting them up for failure in the future. Taking away any type of funding is a SLAP IN THE FACE to these kids depending on the public education system to save them! I am all for parents choosing where to send their kids, but if they choose private school, they should be held financially responsible for that decision, and not further hurt public education. Teachers are already overworked and underpaid, please do not add another stressor on public schools. STAND WITH US and we fill the gaps for PUBLIC SCHOOL STUDENTS who don't deserve some left over money, but deserve to be the CENTER of our future focus!!!!

Denise Warren

Retired teachers

Burleson, TX

As a retired Texas teacher, I vehemently oppose school vouchers. The majority of families who will benefit are wealthy Texans who already have students in private schools. Public schools will suffer as a result of lost funds. Please, let the people of Texas vote on this. I do not believe the polls are fair and accurate.

Andra Villegas

Self

N Richlnd Hls, TX

No to Vouchers!

No to Educational Savings plans!

Stand up to Abbott!

Stand up for the children of Texas!

Stand up for what's right!

KrisTia Kristia

Self

Flower Mound, TX

There has been no evidence to suggest that voucher programs are successful for students. School choice exists now in the public school system. The purpose of taxes is to fund public functions. Private schools are just that...private. This is an issue that is being driven by out of state forces. The citizens of Texas do not want this. Please do not allow this to come to a vote!

Kayla Wells
Self
Lubbock, TX

I am a parent of three public school children in Lubbock, Texas and strongly oppose house bill 3. One of the many problems I see with this bill is it doesn't provide equal financial opportunity for all students. How our my children that attend public school worth less than a child who chooses to attend private school? The funding should be the same. I also believe we do already have school choice in Texas. You can transfer to another school, attend private school or move to a new district. If those opportunities aren't available already to you where you live this bill will not change that. Yes, a small portion might be able to use the money to attend private school but almost all low income families could still not afford it. Private school can refuse to accept them, not provide for their IEP or 504 plan, they would also be responsible for athletic expenses, travel arrangements and could be kicked out at any moment if they didn't meet their standards. How is that fair to not hold them to any accountability when public schools are exhausted trying to keep up with all the hoops you demand they jump through. Maybe we should get rid of standardized testing all together and just let teachers teach. That's only fair if that's what you are going to let the private schools do. You are taking money for the poor and underprivileged children and giving it back to wealthy families who can already afford private school, tutors and anything else for their child's education. I believe if we funded Texas schools properly and we all poured into them we could see a huge change. Texas public dollars belong in Texas public schools!

Tapley Gary
Self
Valera, TX

It is ridiculous that you have not adequately funded public schools for decades, but you suddenly have enough to create grants to rich parents. Shame on you for neglecting your constitutional requirement to provide education for all public students.

Marianne Laguna
Self/ Retired
Austin, TX

I am against school vouchers. They only benefit the wealthy and children with no learning challenges. Private schools should not benefit from public funds, especially since they are not held to the same standards. School vouchers only weaken the public school system, which has been proven in other states. NO TO SCHOOL VOUCHERS.

Lori Bauml

Self / retired teacher / grandparent

San Antonio, TX

How are you going to ensure that vouchers are not going to go to families that are already enrolled in private school? Please address the statistic that there are only 25,000 unfilled seats in Texas private schools. And please compare the current bill to Oklahoma's situation with the overwhelming majority of school vouchers going to families that could already afford private school tuition. How are you going to prevent that situation in Texas?

How are you going to ensure that there isn't any fraud? What if a student is awarded an ESA, enrolls in a private school, pays their tuition, and then withdraws from the private school a couple months later? Will the private school be required to return the full ESA amount back to the state? How will the state track this and hold them accountable? What if a private school student funded with an ESA has chronic absenteeism? Will the private school be required to return a portion of the ESA back to the state for every day that the student is absent? It is unfair that public school funding is based on attendance but ESS payments won't be based on attendance. If private school ESA funding won't be penalized for absenteeism then public school funding shouldn't be penalized for absenteeism.

What additional costs (in time, effort, money) are private schools going to incur if they accept ESA funds for tuition payments? Labor and time is needed to process paperwork. How intensive will the paperwork and accounting be for private school administrative staff? Will private schools be required to provide the state with evidence that ESA funded students have made academic progress and are regularly attending school? If a private school expels or asks an ESA funded student to unenroll because for whatever reason the school ends up not being a good fit will the private school be required to provide evidence for dismissing the student? Will the private school be required to return the ESA money to the state?

Here's an idea if you are determined to pass a voucher/ESA bill in Texas: Lower the income limit to 600% of the poverty line and then earmark 50% of ESA funds to go to families that make under 200% of the poverty line, 30% of ESA funds earmarked to go to families 200-400% of the poverty line, and 20% of ESAs earmarked to go to families 400-600% of the poverty line. Any unused funds in each income category should be returned to public school funds each year to boost funding for things like universal school lunch, universal Pre-k, and special education.

Angie Nobles

Self

Georgetown, TX

Please do not support vouchers!

State government has a constitutional responsibility to adequately fund public schools. Let's start doing that ! 5.5 million children are depending on it !

Grace Garrigan

Self

Nacogdoches, TX

Vote No for HB 3. This bill will only hurt our public schools and most of our state's children. And for what? To give the wealthy a discount on private school?

Paula Collins

Self

Angleton, TX

No to vouchers. Keep my tax dollars going to public schools. Fully Funding our public schools is the only institution entitled to our tax money intended for education!

Elizabeth Hanks

Self, Attorney

Houston, TX

I am a Texas resident, born and raised in Missouri City and currently living in the Houston Heights. My husband and I both received an excellent public education in Texas from kindergarten to college (UT and A&M) and hate what the Texas GOP has done to gut our public schools. Our two daughters attend private schools because we have lost so much trust in the public education system in HISD under the control of our state agencies. This bill could actually benefit our family, but we are completely and totally opposed to its passage. Please vote no on vouchers to stop the further decay of our Texas public schools. Thank you.

Mary Jo Peters

Self

Hondo, TX

As a taxpayer, mother and former public school teacher, I respectfully ask you that you do NOT support anything that resembles school vouchers. It will harm public schools, particularly small rural districts who struggle financially even in the best of times. The Texas constitution requires adequate school for all students. That right should not depend on funding of private schools who do not follow the same standards and accountability requirements that oppress public schools. The ruse that vouchers provide parents with school choice is a misnomer. Parents have input in public schools if willing to engage. There are better ways to make sure that all students have opportunities.

Educated workers (and voters) are vital to the success of Texas. Let's not sacrifice public education for the benefit of a few.

Respectfully,

Heather Gann

Self

Nacogdoches, TX

This is an anti public school bill. Completely against. Will vote against you if you vote for it.

Bernadette Flores

The other students that are not part of the 100,000

San Antonio, TX

This voucher scam is nothing but a Wealth Check. The fact that the Senate passed it is deplorable. Only 100,000 students will benefit. Abbott needs to release the funds he has been holding since 2023. It's bad enough this government doesn't protect our students from gun violence. Do the right thing

Roger Martin

self - retired

AUSTIN, TX

As the country becomes more and more polarized and divided, one thing that can bring us together with a common purpose is a good public education.

Public money must go to public schools. Private schools are there for people who want it and can afford it. Do not rob from the poor to give to the rich!

Lindsay Savage
Self and procurement manager
Houston, TX

The voucher program takes away necessary funds from public schools to aid private institutions. Texas has some of the best public schools and deserves the funding to grow bigger and better. These children are our future and deserve a proper education. Could you imagine being in school or having a child in school and hearing that funds would be moved to a private school. How would you feel? Families can choose to go the private route if needed, but my tax dollars should not support it. Look at states like Indiana where the voucher program was implemented and failed with their test scores significantly dropping. The long term impacts will be devastating. This is no more than welfare for the wealthy.

Jill Daly, Mrs.
Self/ Talent Acquisition Manager
Trophy Club, TX

My children have gone to both public schools and private schools throughout their education, and I am a former public educator. I am concerned that this bill will only serve students whose parents are already able to pay for private school funding while destabilizing our much needed public schools throughout Texas. As it stands, this bill will provide a $10k voucher to parents of a student attending private school while our district is only covered at about $6800 per pupil. We need to appropriately fund our public schools, particularly with rising inflationary costs, before even considering expenditures to support private schools.

Not only can private schools choose who they do and don't admit, they are not required to meet the Texas state standards as public schools are. Additionally, I am concerned that special needs students in the private school setting will not receive the much needed resources in order to succeed and become thriving, productive members of society.

I understand and respect the desire to ensure that all children receive a top tier education, but vouchers are not the answer. If you are looking for an example of school choice within the public school system, I encourage you to look at Northwest ISD's successful school choice programs at the high school level.

Lucas James, Mr
Self - engineer
New ulm, TX

I strongly oppose any public funding for vouchers, education savings plans, or any financial support for private/home schools. Fully fund public schools without strings attached or hoops, like TIA.

April Prevost

Self - Home Maker, Public School PTA Board Member, Volunteer Tutor/Educational Program Coordinator

Fort Worth, TX

As a mother of two public school students and an active school volunteer, I would like to ask that HB 3 be rejected by the Texas House. For too many years funding has been withheld from Texas public schools, and our students and teachers have suffered because of this. The state is starving our schools and then blaming the schools when they fail. This bill only stands to worsen the problem and punish the children of this state.

If the state has the funds available for this bill, those funds should go to public schools to provide for their needs. Public school children have a wide range of educational needs that cannot be met with the resources they have available. Hiring more teachers would allow for smaller class sizes and more focused instruction for the children who need it. Providing school lunches allows for children to focus on their education rather than hunger. School counselors, diagnosticians, speech therapists, and special needs educators all serve to support the needs of the millions of students in our public school system and have been rationed because of the lack of funds available. Schools have been forced to close and cut off access for many students within their community.

Many public school children are not likely to be able to attend private schools for a variety of reasons and will not benefit from this bill. They may not be close enough to a private school. They may need transportation (bus) that is not available for private schools. They may have special needs that are not provided by private schools. They may need a secular option that is not available. Most likely, the funds provided would not be enough to allow them to attend a private school. It is also possible, that private schools may reject students for a number of reasons.

Yes, every student should have the opportunity to choose the school they attend, but their local public school should be a viable option. There is value in children attending a neighborhood school and rising through that school system with their neighborhood friends. There is value in a school that represents a community as a whole and not just the wealthiest, most privileged families. There is value in providing a quality education to EVERY student so that they can participate and enrich society with their contributions.

Please vote NO on this bill. Create a bill that supports our public schools and ALL students in the state of Texas. Please fund our public schools!

Morgan Summer

Self teacher

Montgomery, TX

Vouchers for the rich plain and simple. Texans are telling you no and you refuse to listen. Funding public schools!

Cara Cooke

MY Grandkids and ALL KIDS of TEXAS

NECHES, TX

As a public school educator of 35 years, I am praying that you will STOP and THINK CLEARLY about what this bill would do to public education. The funds you would set aside for an education savings account would be better utilized helping PUBLIC EDUCATION be all it could be with the right resources and 21st Century Vision. This savings account will only affect a very small minority of students, if any, according to your matrix to determine recipients. The $10,000 will not fully fund attending a private school and most parents cannot afford the rest needed. The private schools are NOT going to accept special education students because it is too much trouble. The children of TEXAS are going to suffer if this passes. The STATE of TEXAS will suffer for years to come because if we do not find a way to make our public education work for ALL our future citizens they will not be prepared to be productive. I am a product of public education from a poor family and BECAUSE I was given the opportunity to excel in school with the nurturing of amazing educators, I have been very successful and make a tremendous difference in my community and state. Where would I be without that opportunity? Where will millions of children just like me be if you limit those who have the right to an excellent education? Please do what is right and don't let power and money guide you in this very important decision. God Bless You and God Bless TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS!

Michael Jackson
Self/Conf. Manager
League City, TX

I oppose HB 3.1. Public money is for public schools....Not for private schools. This is a SCAM!

Kim Grantham
Self, homemaker
Cedar Park, TX

Please vote no for HB 3. Texas needs to focus on our public education system.

Van Diep
NEISD
San Antonio, TX

Not Acceptable. Should not take a way from public school funds.

Kimberly Forster
Self
Houston, TX

The only thing school vouchers will do is degrade the education system in place and allow the rich more privilege while the poor loses their chance at a level playing field to climb out of their situation. Public Schools already struggle with funding and my kids have already lost important resources - I can't imagine how much worse it will get in this scenario.

The purpose of including PUBLIC school as part of our taxes is to support education within our communities. If people choose something outside of that public school - that is their own choice on how they spend their money. If they can already afford private school then they don't need the tax dollars toward their private school that may not even be part of the community paying taxes toward the education.

Public schools offer opportunities for communities to come together through decades in sports, arts, agriculture, and much more. The system allows for appropriate competition all the way to a state level - something our communities can be PROUD of together.

Please do NOT defund our public schools. This will have a tremendously negative impact on our schools, our kids, AND our communities.

Christie Sampson
Public schools
Hurst, TX

As a retired public school teacher of 26 years I'm asking you to PLEASE vote "NO!" to the school voucher bill. It will destroy public education.

Leslie Luhn
Self/teacher
Franklin, TX

I want to go on record to be listed as voice opposing vouchers. As a teacher, I can't see how it will help all of my students. I feel this bill only will benefit a select few. Money needs to be put in place for curriculum and teacher support.

Mary Pugh
Self/ educator
Dallas, TX

Vote no on HB3.

The priority of the Texas Legislature should be to fully fund public education. Education Savings Accounts take money from public schools. As a tax payer I do not want my tax dollars going to institutions with no accountability in teaching or in learning. Most Texans do not want ESAs. Texas rejected the national push of the Common Core and now it is time to reject the national push of vouchers. We must fully fund the school system we have.

Sandra Hancock
Self
Waco, TX

It is incumbent upon Texas legislators to provide education to ensure we have an educated citizenry. The proposed bill would in truth provide funding to families to offset private schools. Private schools will hike their tuition to ensure they remain selective, pricing them out of reach for most. Taxpayer money should go to improve PUBLIC schools. There are millions of students who deserve a quality education.

Please say NO to ESAs. Fully fund public schools and refuse to give my money to private institutions.

Esvanhnelly Podany

Self

Cedar Park, TX

1. Funding Diversion from Public Schools

- ESAs/vouchers redirect taxpayer money from public schools, which serve the majority of students, to private institutions.
- Public schools already face funding shortages, and diverting funds exacerbates inequities.

2. Lack of Accountability & Oversight

- Private schools receiving vouchers do not have to follow the same academic and financial transparency standards as public schools.
- There is no guarantee that taxpayer money will be spent effectively.

3. Potential for Discrimination

- Private schools can deny admission based on religion, disabilities, academic performance, or other factors, unlike public schools, which must accept all students.
- This creates an exclusionary system that disadvantages marginalized students.

4. No Proven Academic Benefits

- Research on voucher programs in other states shows mixed or negative results in student achievement.
- Public school students often perform better than those using vouchers to attend private schools.

5. Rural Communities Suffer Most

- Many rural areas lack private school options, meaning vouchers offer little to no benefit while still draining local public school funds.
- Public schools are often the only viable option for rural families.

6. Higher Costs for Families

- Vouchers rarely cover the full cost of private school tuition, leaving lower-income families unable to afford the difference.
- Wealthier families benefit the most since they can already afford private schools.

7. Violation of Church-State Separation

- Public funds often end up supporting religious schools, raising constitutional concerns about government entanglement with religion.

Valerie Diep, Mrs.

Self - Public School Teacher

San Antonio, TX

No do not support program.

Becky Fralix

Self

Spring, TX

I VOTE NO! Vouchers divert funding from public schools, which serve most students, to private schools.

Discrimination: Vouchers can discriminate against students with disabilities and exacerbate racial segregation.

Subtracting from public accountability: Private schools are less accountable to taxpayers than public schools.

Failing to meet student needs: Vouchers can fail to meet the needs of students with disabilities and special needs.

Not improving student performance: There is no reliable evidence that vouchers improve student success, and some programs have shown negative effects.

Eroding democracy: Vouchers can erode democracy by giving private schools that are not accountable to the public control over how public tax dollars are spent.

Creating corruption: Private schools with little or no accountability could lead to corruption.

Diverting attention from needed reforms: Vouchers can divert attention from needed reforms, such as smaller class sizes.

Reducing fair access: Vouchers can reduce fair access to educational opportunity.

Dan Schmit

Self

San Antonio, TX

This bill is a scam that funnels funding intended for the public good and instead creates a path to weaken our overall education standing in this state. The common good will be replaced by profiteering by ideological

Leca Addison

Self Retired Teacher & parent of public schools

Seagraves, TX

I DO NOT support the education savings account program. My tax dollars are for public schools, they are not to be used for private schools in any form or fashion. Period! Full stop!

Fabian Jacko

Self

DeSoto, TX

School vouchers will destroy our public schools. I am against school vouchers. Vote No.

Hans Lawshe

Self

Spring, TX

Texas House Bill 3 (HB3), the school voucher bill, poses significant risks to public education by diverting critical funding away from public schools and allocating it to private institutions. This would undermine the goal of ensuring all students, regardless of their background or location, have access to a diverse and quality education. By funneling taxpayer dollars into private schools that are not held to the same accountability standards as public institutions, HB3 could exacerbate educational inequality and weaken the resources available to Texas public school students. Investing in public schools directly, rather than promoting vouchers, is a more effective way to improve educational outcomes for all Texas children.

Darlene Piwonka

Self

Austin, TX

No to vouchers! No to privatized education funded by public schools! Public schools are the only entity obligated to provide a free and appropriate public education. Private schools are under no obligation to provide Special Ed- resources and supports that are vital to my child's opportunity to access the curriculum. Keep public schools funded!

Regina Reed
Self - Self Employeed
McKinney, TX

This letter outlines our grave concerns regarding the implementation and expansion of voucher programs in the state of Texas. While voucher programs offer the masked potential to increased parental choice, there are dramatic and significant issues that warrant careful consideration. Taking the following researched based elements into account, I implore you NOT to pass the voucher bill. Private school vouchers:

- do not save taxpayers money. Fewer students does not decrease operating costs for school districts, and M&O. It does decrease the amount of money the public schools have available in their budget. This is why vouchers often result in multi-million dollar deficits and tax increases.
- undermine public schools by diverting resources from public school systems. Public school systems educate ALL students.
- do not improve academic achievement. In most states it has led to declines in academic achievement.
- not lead to improvements in public schools. With fewer resources this further stresses our schools and makes it harder to implement improvements needed.
- do not offer a real choice. Private schools choose which students are allowed to attend their schools. They can accept vouchers but still reject students with vouchers. They do NOT accept all students.
- do not serve or support students with special needs or learning differences. They are not required to follow a student IEP.
- not serve low-income students because of the cost and fees of their school. School fees are often higher than the amount of the voucher.
- often fund poor quality schools. Because of the lack of accountability and oversight private schools that use vouchers often do not have teachers with credentials and they lack proper facilities and teach questionable curriculum.
- do not provide accountability to taxpayers. Most programs do not measure success, student achievement, or to see if they are meeting the minimum educational standards.
- do not provide students with the same rights and protections they would have otherwise had in public schools, such as IDEA, Title VI, Title IX, and the Every Student Succeeds Act. Students who attend private schools are also stripped of their First Amendment, due process, and other statutory rights guaranteed to them in public schools.
- the fundamental principle of religious freedom because they pay for religious education with taxpayer funds. They also threaten the autonomy of religious schools by opening them up to government audits, control, and interference.

Please do not destroy the public education system in the state of Texas. Make a decision that will be best for all kids, not a select few! Voucher programs do NOT help all kids! In Texas, 62% of our counties don't even have a private school option. Please do the right thing for ALL KIDS!

Sincerely,
Regina Reed
Educator for 35 Years
Daughter and Granddaughter of Teachers, Principals, Assistant Superintendents
Mother of 3 and Grandmother of 4

Sara Thompson
Self
Del Valle, TX

As an educator in Texas who has worked hard for ever student I have had for the past 21 years, I am appalled at the measly increase in funding for our public schools which teach over 5 million students. Why will private schools receive $10,000 per student without all of the stipulations we have to go though in public school? How does sending 100,000 students to private schools help our other 5 million? How will you ensure that TRS will be fully funded when I have been forced to pay in a percentage of my salary for decades? The last couple of years have been so difficult in schools that many have left the profession. We are all covering much more than one job because we have lost staff because of funding issues. Increase the basic allotment for ALL students in Texas. Schools are not for making money-we are educating the future of Texas. Every student should have access to a premier public education in Texas with uncrowded classrooms, counselors and librarians at every school, and a safe place to explore learning. If our state wants cutting edge businesses here, we need to have educated citizens for these future jobs. Thank you.

Nancy Lawrence

Self

Plano, TX

I vote "no."

Nicole Shaheed

NEISD Community Advocates

San Antonio, TX

Our public schools are closing and can barely scrape by on the meager money they receive from the state. PLEASE fully fund our public schools, so that all students in Texas have access to a free and appropriate public education. We need at least $1300 more per student per year.

Lindsey mcmullen

Self

Grapevine, TX

This is the worst thing that we can do for public schools. We need to pour more funding into the schools not take it away to fund private schools. What happened to supporting teachers? Every turn we are hurting them and in turn our students. I moved to our home so we can go to the public schools. Now we are sending them to the dumpsters. Please rethink this bill. It is not the way to fix this huge problem of education. Let's be better! Let's lead the country in n something besides the worst schools.

Cassandra Speer

Self

Abernathy, TX

I am a public school teacher and a mother to three kids who are also in public school. We live in a small town. I am concerned about the lack of funding that is allotted for public schools. I work every day with kids in our community. Kids who are smart, kind, empathetic, and deserving of the opportunity to learn. Teaching is a hard profession, but it is so very worth it. I work with amazing fellow educators who often spend their own money to buy things for their students. The majority of Texas children will receive their education through public schools. The amount that is given to schools per child is vastly below what is needed to give them each the education they deserve, while also keeping them safe. I value private schools and homeschool education as well. But I am concerned that public education funds have become a pawn in a political game. You and your fellow politicians have a great opportunity to make the right decision for the next generation. Please consider doing what you can to support public education. A quote that I have up in my classroom is "A small act can have a ripple effect. That's how we change the world." Please choose to do the right thing, even if it is hard and not popular with your colleagues. Thank you for your time.

Anita Sigler

self

Manor, TX

"Our school district has been careful with funds, but with no increase in the Basic Allotment in 6 years and other pressures like inflation and increased needs, we have had to let teachers and other vital staff go, increase class sizes, and discontinue programs that are beneficial to our students. I am angry about this; it will affect my child's school experience. I demand that Gov Abbott stop playing games with my child's future and FULLY FUND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS. I also demand that you VOTE NO ON THE VOUCHER SCAM so that our limited money and resources can be put to the best use for our students- and we have full accountability and transparency of that money. This issue matters to me and I vote. Thank you."

Judy Moldenhauer
Self/Kindergarten Teacher
Boerne, TX

I oppose HB 3

Writing my state reps to oppose the voucher bill being brought to the Texas public education committee tomorrow:

As a supporter of Texas public schools, I am writing to express my opinion on House Bill 3.

Texas students deserve strong, well-funded public schools. I'm asking that you ensure all schools that receive state funding are held to the same transparency requirements, accountability standards, and enrollment practices as public schools. Please do not support vouchers for Texas schools.

As a life long Texan I attended public elementary, middle school and high school (And even a public Texas university). Public schools are such a force for good that allows all students to excel.

Texas public school teachers are constantly asked to do more with less. But at some point, you can't pour from an empty cup.

Thank you for your time and commitment to Texas public schools.

Noel Monjure, Retired
Self - retired taxpayerp
Cypress, TX

Dear Representatives: Judging by your collective educational achievements against a legislative requirement of zero, I feel certain you understand the importance of making sure that every Texas child receives the necessary education to function, grow, and succeed in the world of today. No one can be left behind for any reason. I was fortunate to receive an excellent education all the way through graduate school. The last achievement was an Executive MBA at the University of Houston. I used my education for a successful career of 53 years in upstream oil & gas. I had lots of help along the way and I am aware that my efforts at every step of the educational ladder were assisted by parents, alumni, city & state resources and teachers. I do have notable honors from my education but firmly believe that all education must be fully funded and firmly provided especially in the earliest years. Fully funded public schools make this an absolute necessity for the children of hard-working Texans across the state. Private schools and religious schools may exist because parents want to isolate their children for many reasons. These reasons should've transparent before Texas taxpayer funds are directed away from public schools. Some reason such as disabilities or learning handicaps are obvious. Separation for other reasons seem to be just on the other side of separation and prejudice. You may say that these reasons are a citizens prerogative. This is a choice made possible by living in the United States of today. However, I am convinced that we must expose our children to the real world of human variety that will greet them when they enter the real world. I am grateful for the many opportunity to succeed that my own education provided me I am also grateful for parents who both fought in World War 2 and married in 1944 He was an airman in the USAAF 8th Air Force and she was in the RAAF at Croydon airbase during the war. I am eternally grateful for my family in Great Britain. The experience of internationalism made it easier to travel for work in the oil industry as well as tourism. I know there are many in the oil & gas world who appreciate those benefits. Education makes it possible for our brains and intelligence to grow and expand and adapt to change. The poorest of the poor in rural Texas may just need the opportunity for a head start before developing into a researcher or a doctor or a soldier that changes the world. We must do everything possible to make that happen Wealthy schools and parents don't really need as much help to give their children the enabling support to teach their potential. They have nice buildings with heat & A/C and plenty of food and clothing. I understand that some may need some assistance but this is not comparable to the need nor the breadth of responsibility demanded by the vast majority of Texas. children. The proposed education savings account cannot move forward until the net result is every child equal.

Jennifer Montelongo Cruz

Self, student

Weatherford, TX

As a college student working in their second university degree who received their K-12 education from a poorly funded public school, this bill raises numerous concerns for kids from low-income families such as myself. My family could barely afford to send me to receive a FREE education much less to receive a private education where the cultural norm includes buying expensive school uniforms and tuition is arguably the same if not higher than a years worth of university tuition. Personally, I would like to raise children in the future but this along with all the other expenses associated with raising a child, turns me away from having any children at all, and I know others who feel the same way. Along with that statement, children who receive/seek higher education are also more educated on sexual education, tend to be above the poverty line, and are less likely to commit crimes. All of which are situations where people are encouraged to seek assistance from taxpayer dollars such as SNAP, WIC, TANF, unemployment, and prisons. If instead, we focused on prioritizing education for all, we could stop the need for government assistance by simply educating the public so that they can make better educated choices to stop them from making decisions that are more likely to put them below the poverty line. This bill alone would not "Keep Texas Beautiful," as the majority of the state is already considered low-income and those who are would not be able to keep their heads above water, and soon this state would resemble a third world country. However, the minority white collar folk would benefit greatly from the increased tax payer dollars as many of them are already donors to these schools which I'm sure they would receive a hefty stipend for being long time supporters. This would also increase the economic disparity between social classes but God forbid the poor actually receive a piece of the pie.

Susan RANDOING, Dr

Susan D. Randoing, Psy.D.

Richardson, TX

I am opposed

Paulette Harrison

self - retired educator (teacher, counselor, administrator)

Mesquite, TX

I ask that you reject HB3 because:

Public tax-payer monies will in many instances be used to support parochial schools which constitutes a violation of the First Amendment of The Constitution of the United States of America.

It was/is public education that has and will continue to make America the great and wonderful country it is. HB3 will, in every instance, divert/take much needed monies from these very same public schools.

Brett Gallagher

Self, CRNA

Lubbock, TX

I am firmly against using any State money to provide opportunities for children to be sent to private or home schools. Most are religious in nature and church and state should be separate entities. They don't have to meet any specific guidelines and the quality of education is extremely varied. Extra money should be spent finding solutions to make the Texas public school system better.

Caroline Cruz

Self

Austin, TX

Property owners in Texas are all required by state law to pay property taxes, which are not fixed, in order to fund public schools regardless if you have children that attend or not. Private school is a choice for people who can afford this option, and we should not be taking away money from those who do not have the option of private school. This seems like common sense if you are going to have zero reformation to the property tax system. Children in public school should not lose resources in order to benefit a group of people opting out. Not to mention, Texas public schools already rank below the National average so doing with less will only exacerbate this issue. Let's use logic here and not permit those with more resources and options to take away from those with less. We cannot support this and must instead choose to support fully funded, high quality public education.

Lisa Vienneau

Self

Austin, TX

I am fully against school vouchers which is masquerading as choice. The only people who will benefit from vouchers are wealthy families and the private schools. It will not serve a majority of Texans. Fund public schools so everyone has access to an education in their own communities. You are strangling the public education system in Texas and it's a bad look. Do the right thing and fund our public education system instead of giving welfare to folks who can already afford to go wherever they choose. Thank you

Elizma Cowle

Self

Frisco, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy. Thank you.

Crystal Riff

Hondo ISD

Hondo, TX

focus on FULLY funding public schools instead of wasting time, money and energy on vouchers. Our rural communities and kiddos deserve better now and in the future

Stephanie LeBlanc, Mrs.

Self

Pearland, TX

My family moved to Pearland, Texas over ten years ago for the amazing school district and community. Our schools need more funding not less. The parent groups work hard to fill in budgeting gaps to ensure we can offer our children the best education opportunities. If you can currently afford to have one or more of your children in a private school, that is as much as college tuition, you don't need a voucher. The voucher plan is an attempt to defund public schools, eliminate community, and make quality education only for the wealthy. These are not American values. Vote NO to vouchers!

Rachel McGuire

Self, Director of Customer Onboarding and Education

Plano, TX

I am a parent of a public school student (8th grade) in Plano ISD. We chose to move to Plano specifically because of the great public schools, as did most of my friends who live here. Since covid especially, I've witnessed up close this administration's relentless campaign to gut public schools in hopes of passing a voucher bill (after multiple failed attempts, because NO ONE WANTS THIS), and I really wish Governor Abbott would spend some time in public school classrooms, so he could SEE the amazing work our teachers and staff are doing despite lack of support from his administration, and to honestly imagine what our public schools could be if the state would simply invest in them with even a fraction of the energy Abbott has for vouchers. If HB3 passes, my family and I would strongly consider moving (with our tax dollars) out of the state, because the trajectory for places that don't fund public education is not a positive one.

This voucher bill is a total scam, and little more than welfare for the wealthy. This bill is not in any way about doing what's right by Texas students, it's about Greg Abbott making his billionaire donors happy. Greg Abbott can cherry-pick sob stories all he wants, the data is clear: taking money away from public schools in order to fund vouchers results in poorer outcomes for the vast majority of students, schools, communities, and state budgets. Greg Abbott: stop trying to make vouchers happen!! Texans do not want this.

Julia Mazurek

self, Pre-K-12 School Principal

Bandera, TX

I am writing to you as a dedicated school administrator serving in a small rural school district in Texas. I urge you to oppose any proposed legislation that would introduce school vouchers and instead focus on fully funding our public schools. As someone who works daily to ensure our students receive the quality education they deserve, I believe school vouchers would have devastating consequences for our rural communities and our state as a whole.

Our rural school district, like many others across Texas, faces unique challenges. We operate with limited resources yet strive to provide a robust educational experience for every student. Introducing school vouchers would siphon much-needed funds away from public schools and direct them toward private institutions that are not held to the same accountability standards. This diversion of funds would be detrimental to students in rural communities, where public schools often serve as the heart of the community and provide critical resources beyond academics, such as meals, counseling, and extracurricular activities.

Rural schools already face staffing challenges, limited access to specialized programs, and resource constraints. Diverting public funds to private institutions will only exacerbate these issues, leaving our students with fewer opportunities to succeed. The proposed voucher system would ultimately benefit families in urban areas with greater access to private institutions while leaving rural families with fewer educational options. For the vast majority of our students, public education is not only their best choice — it is their only choice.

Instead of pursuing school voucher programs, I urge you to prioritize fully funding public education to ensure that all Texas students, regardless of their zip code, have access to high-quality instruction, safe facilities, and necessary resources. Investing in smaller class sizes, increased teacher pay, enhanced mental health services, and improved technology access would make a significant and meaningful impact on student outcomes. Our students deserve better than a system that undermines their educational opportunities by diverting funds away from public schools.

Public education is the cornerstone of our democracy and the foundation of opportunity for all Texas children. As legislators, you have the power to strengthen that foundation by supporting policies that invest in public schools rather than dismantle them.

I urge you to reject any proposed voucher programs and instead commit to fully funding Texas public education. Our students, families, and communities are counting on your leadership to ensure that every child has the opportunity to thrive.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Krista Diaz, Mrs.

Self; Stay At Home Mom

Austin, TX

Our two children have only attended public school. The oldest was diagnosed with Dyslexia two years post Covid and if it wasn't for the resources in public school we believe she would not be thriving like she does today. We are beyond grateful for the TX teachers they have who are equipped to advocate for my young children in the classroom NOW rather than passing the buck as the get older. It's because of the resources given. Our children need it more than ever because the consequences coming out of Covid are still prevalent. We need to take care of TEXAS public schools before any private entities.

Pamela Cummings

self

Lamesa, TX

This is a terrible bill for the majority of children in Texas. It is being presented to parents as an automatic entry into private schools. This is simply not true. Private schools still get to decide who are allowed in, and the probability of a student who struggles academically, has diagnosed learning disabilities or social/emotional/behavioral disabilities, or has discipline referrals is almost 0. Instead, fund public schools properly and give incentives to get into education so that certified teachers can be hired. Please do the right thing for the majority of Texas children not what helps out the few who can afford private education anyway.

Christopher Lundblade

self, Software Engineer

San Antonio, TX

I was born and raised in San Antonio and happened to receive my K-8th grade education in a Christian private school in town before transferring to Theodore Roosevelt High School for 9th-12th; so I'm able to speak, albeit anecdotally, to the relative merits of both.

In private school I learned a highly biased version of American History from a textbook that framed historic mistreatment of Native Americans as somewhat of a good thing, since many of them ended up converting to Christianity and I was also instructed quite incorrectly that several deist founding fathers of the US were in fact Christians and was subjected to many political screeds from many instructors at an impressionable age. The same school also failed to instruct me regarding the particulars of the theory of evolution (I get that they didn't want to teach me that it's true, but they didn't even accurately convey what it says), and I had teachers who insisted based on paper-thin logic that Climate Change and Global Warming were hoaxes.

By contrast, in public school, I had many wonderful teachers who both respected the religious beliefs of myself and my classmates and challenged me to think in new ways and consider new possibilities without subjecting me to incessant political rants. But most of all they strove to provide us with a great education based on solid information. I was able to take classes in Electrical Engineering, Computer Science, Environmental Science, and many other subjects that would never have been available to me at my former school that I still recall fondly to this day.

My experience tells me this: the public is not well served by appropriating public funds for education at institutions like the one I spent my early years in. Such institutions can get away with teaching fake science (many other countries outstrip the US in Science education), fake history and failing to accommodate students with special needs. As a policy, the effects will be as follows: 1. Public Schools will lose funding, 2. a few working families might be able to send a child to a private school, but the price of those schools will increase with the influx of public money, and 3. Texans who are rich enough to send their kids to private schools, will enjoy a discount on something they were already buying. Respectfully, I don't think helping rich people out is an appropriate legislative priority. Texas public schools receive funding based on attendance, and each student lost to private schools will equate to a loss of funding for public schools; that is a loss of funding for educating the overwhelming majority of Texan children and the children of primarily working class parents.

The average Texan is not well-served by de-funding education for the children of average Texans and a subsidizing dubious educations for the children of a select few well-to-do Texans. Such a policy would be bad for our economy and our society and is antithetical to the idea of public education.

Rachel Lerner-Morse

Self

San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3. Vouchers/Educational Savings Accounts will harm our Public Schools that our Governor has done his best to destroy. The people of TX do not want vouchers and if the Governor truly cared what the people wanted he would fund our Public Schools. If a parent wants to send their child to private or parochial school that is certainly their option but not with our tax dollars. Rural communities whose schools depend on the States funding are going to be hurt by this bill as will all those children who are on a 504 or IEP that private schools are not required to take. Governor Abbott does not care about the education of the children in TX, he cares about the donors to his campaign like Jeff Yass from Pennsylvania. Vouchers will not help anyone but those people who already send their children to private schools. It's time for all of you to stand up for our children and vote against vouchers and for Greg Abbott to fully and immediately fund public school education before anymore school districts are forced to close schools. Our district just approved closing 2 Elementary & 1 middle school, my daughter's middle school. The games that Greg Abbott is playing with our Public Schools is hurting all of us. Vote no to vouchers.

Lauren Woodmansee

Self, Product Director and Parent

Roanoke, TX

As a parent of a child with an IEP, I feel it is essential to share my deep concerns about the potential impact of diverting taxpayer money to Education Savings Accounts. My child, like many others, depends on the resources, accommodations, and support that public schools provide, and I believe strongly that our public education system should support all children—regardless of their abilities or challenges.

I am proud to say that my local district, Northwest ISD, works hard to meet the needs of students with disabilities with what they have. Our schools need more funding, not less. Public tax dollars should remain within the public school system, where they can be accounted for and used transparently to serve all students. Northwest ISD's Board of Trustees has already made it clear that they oppose diverting public funds to private entities, and as a parent, I stand behind that position.

I am concerned about the long-term consequences of school-choice programs. We need to think about the sustainability of our education funding, and I fear that diverting money to private schools will eventually put public schools—and the children who rely on them—in jeopardy. When I met with Sen. Tan Parker's educational policy analyst at the PTA Rally Day in February, he made it clear the educational savings accounts are a pilot program. A test and see what happens. Vote now for the Governor's agenda and if it's not popular, we can reverse it down the road. I implore you to not gamble with the future of Texas children in this way. The effects of underfunded public schools will be far-reaching and will outlast your time in office. By the time we go back and try and correct these decisions, it will be too late for the kids who didn't get the support they needed in their critical years.

Public schools educate over 90% of students in Texas, including children like mine who require specialized services and support. Right now, we have a serious funding gap when it comes to providing services for students with disabilities under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). But rather than addressing that gap, there is a push to take funding away from public schools to support private schools—something I strongly oppose. I was there in the audience when Rep. Buckley tried to tell the PTA caucus that public schools just don't work for everyone. That sometimes parents of special needs kids need different options. He was missing the point. Lack of support for kids with disabilities is not a feature of public education. This is a direct result of underfunding schools and skimping on teacher salaries. Of not giving them the resources they need to help those kids with special needs.

Instead of focusing on draining resources from public schools, we need to invest in strengthening those schools for every child. My child, and ALL children, deserve the best education we can provide, and that means more funding for public schools, not less.

Deborah Rubinson

Self/nurse; talent management consultant

Fort Worth, TX

Thank you for the opportunity to comment.

I was born in Texas and my husband was raised in Texas and attended public schools in Fort Worth. We both received our undergraduate degrees from Texas Christian University. We raised our three children in Fort Worth who all attended public schools and all graduated from colleges in Texas, as did their spouses. We have 11 grandchildren, 9 of which are school age, and several of which may leave Texas due to the quality of public education.

I care about children- all children! I served as a pediatric nurse in Texas for over 30 years caring for critically ill children and their families. My husband cares about children-all children. He is a teacher and coach in the FWISD. He keeps his office stocked with snacks and drinks for students in need, often provides clothes and shoes, and has helped find donors for needed school supplies and equipment.

Texas public schools need to be fully funded. For Texas to be in the bottom 10 states of per-student spending is not acceptable. The use of tax payer funded vouchers for private schools will siphon public dollars from public schools, and without the accountability and transparency required of public schools and with an open door for discrimination. We need the Texas Legislature to support all Texas students and public school teachers. We need to do the right thing for our students, their teachers, and our families. We need to do the right thing for Texas and give Texas a better future with an educated and skilled workforce.

James Aldrich

Self

Georgetown, TX

Private schools do not have to show how money is spent, they are nor required to have the same curriculum as public schools. Parents that want to send students to a private school need to pay it out of pocket. Choosing other than a public school is their own choice. Those who elect private schools most generally have the resources to take that direction.

Tina Rodgers

Self

Breckenridge, TX

I am against using taxpayer dollars to fund private schools. Texas public schools need to be fully funded. Public education is our hope and it is slipping away right in front of our eyes. The people have already spoken. Texans do not want this! You're not fulfilling your role as a public servant and a servant leader if you vote in favor of this bill. It is simply not right. Education reform? Yes. This? No.

Missy Bender
Texas School Coalition
Austin, TX

Chairman Buckley, Vice Chairman Bernal and committee members,

Thank you for the opportunity to submit comments today. The Texas School Coalition represents school districts that contribute to recapture, and we appreciate your service and your dedication to the public education system in Texas. We look forward to working with this committee on a wide range of issues during this session. However, we must respectfully express our opposition to House Bill 3.

Our primary concern with House Bill 3 is that it would allocate taxpayer dollars to private and home schools that do not have the same level of transparency and accountability that our public schools are required to uphold. Unlike traditional public schools, these private institutions would not be subject to key protections such as open meetings, publicly available financial records, or oversight by locally elected boards of trustees. More importantly, these private schools would not be held to the same academic standards and accountability measures as our public school districts.

By diverting public funds to private schools without these essential safeguards, we believe House Bill 3 puts over a billion dollars in taxpayer funds at significant risk. Texans deserve to know how their hard-earned tax dollars are being spent and, equally important, how effectively these dollars are contributing to the education and well-being of our students. Public schools are held to these standards because they are governed by locally elected trustees who are directly accountable to voters. If voters are dissatisfied with how taxpayer resources are being used, they have the power to vote trustees out of office.

Unfortunately, House Bill 3 would remove that recourse for taxpayers whose dollars are allocated to private schools. These private institutions would not have the same accountability measures in place, leaving taxpayers without the ability to hold these schools responsible for how funds are used.

We urge the committee to consider the importance of transparency and accountability in the use of taxpayer money. Public education should remain accountable to the public it serves. We respectfully ask you to support legislation that ensures all schools receiving taxpayer funding are held to the same high standards of accountability.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Missy Bender
Executive Director
Texas School Coalition

Magdalena Jungman
Self
Pearland, TX

Vote NO to school vouchers! Support our public education and all students!

Katherine Fletcher
Self - Project Manager
Houston, TX

Thank you for your service to Texas and attention to this very important issue for the future of our state. I urge you to oppose HB 3 and any use of public money to fund private education.

My mom, myself, and my children are all products of Texas public schools and we thrived and prospered with the benefit of public education. I oppose using our state tax dollars and public coffers to subsidize private education. Our children are our future, and we need every Texas child to be able to get a high quality public education. Shifting money into private schools, takes away money from our hardworking public school teachers and administrators who serve ALL Texans.

Private schools reject many applicants, are not affordable for many students even with vouchers, and are not equally distributed for rural students and students in many lower income areas. Our state will thrive economically if we ensure ALL our students are able to benefit and learn in public schools.

Gina Monson
Self
Denison, TX

This bill must not be passed. Passage will come at the expense of public school education, especially in rural and remote counties, many of which don't have private school availability. Even if private schools were available in all locations, most parents would not be able to afford the difference between the tuition costs and the voucher payment amounts. Public schools will be forced to reduce staff because of the decreased funding. This bill is bad for the Texas taxpayers, public educators, and for the kids in our public school classrooms.

Patricia Ellis
Self
Austin, TX

I am against school vouchers as I strongly feel that they will weaken Texas' already weak public schools. Texas public education is at the bottom of the barrow when compared to other states. We need to invest in public schools and increase the amount spent per student. We need to pay out teachers and assistant teachers more (again Texas ranks low for teacher pay.). It is not a fair argument to say that private schools do a better job because you are comparing apples to oranges. Private schools can and do choose what students attend their school. Private schools do not have to accommodate students with physical and/or learning disabilities. Private schools do not have to transport students. I don't think it is at all fair to fund private schools with school vouchers when public schools are not adequately funded. In addition, private schools do not even exist in many of Texas' rural communities so there is absolutely no benefit of school vouchers for those communities (and there are many of those considering how large Texas is.). Furthermore, I own my own home and have for many years. My children attended public schools and they are all doing well and employed in good jobs. I understand and agree to my obligation to pay taxes to support public schools. I do not want my tax dollars to pay for someone's child to attend a private school, especially if that school is a religious school as religious schools have no business receiving public tax dollars. Thank you, Patricia Ellis

Carolyn Shannon
Self
Austin, TX

I urge you not to pass this bill. Our public schools are broken but this will do nothing to fix them. This measure will harm our schools, our children, and our communities. Vote no!

Jami Watts

Self

Hondo, TX

As an educator with more than 20 years of experience and a parent of a private school student and a public school student, I ask that you commit fully to funding public education. Vouchers will divert much-needed funding away from the rural students who have no access to private school options. This smacks of wealthy politicians offering financial aid to wealthy families, and that's not a good look. Funding public education is the largest single investment you can make in the future of this state. If you love Texas, educate its children. No vouchers.

Donna Hale, Dr

Self

Pampa, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3, which would implement school education savings accounts (ESAs), commonly known as school vouchers, in Texas. While proponents argue that such programs expand educational opportunities, the reality is that voucher programs have failed in other states and would be particularly harmful to rural schools in Texas.

Research from states like Arizona, Indiana, and Wisconsin has shown that school voucher programs do not improve student outcomes. A study of Indiana's voucher program, for example, found that students who transferred from public to private schools using vouchers actually experienced declines in math achievement. Similarly, in Louisiana, students using vouchers to attend private schools performed significantly worse in reading and math than their public school peers. These programs have not delivered on the promise of improved education quality but have instead diverted taxpayer dollars away from public schools with little accountability.

In Texas, school vouchers would disproportionately harm rural communities. Unlike urban areas, where families may have multiple schooling options, many rural communities have only one public school district. When funding is siphoned away through ESAs, rural schools—which already struggle with limited resources—are left with even fewer funds to serve the majority of students. Public schools are the backbone of rural Texas, providing not only education but also community services, extracurricular programs, and workforce development. Weakening these schools would devastate small-town economies and the future of rural Texas children.

Additionally, private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. They are not required to provide services for students with disabilities, follow the same curriculum standards, or administer state assessments. This lack of oversight means taxpayer dollars could be funding schools that do not meet Texas's educational standards, while public schools are held to rigorous accountability measures.

Instead of diverting public funds to private institutions, I urge you to focus on strengthening our existing public school system by increasing funding for teacher salaries, improving school infrastructure, and expanding programs that directly support student success. Investing in our public schools ensures that every child, regardless of their ZIP code, has access to a high-quality education.

I respectfully request that you oppose HB 3 and any efforts to implement a school voucher system in Texas. Public funds should remain in public schools, where they serve all students equitably. Thank you for your time and for your commitment to Texas students and communities.

Nancy Pontius

Self receptionist

Aubrey, TX

I oppose HB3 as it stands. There are strings attached to this money for parents.

Johanna Waters

Self

Austin, TX

Public education is a critical right of children in our state. Vouchers and charter schools seek to defund the public institutions that serve the vast majority of students in this state. We are falling behind in education leading to economic loss for our state. Vouchers, charters, and the general defunding of public K-12 education does nothing but guarantee failure for our next generation of Texans. If you give even the slightest shit about the children of our state you would allocate MORE funds to public education not less. To do anything else is to state clearly that you do not have the public interest in mind and instead are excited to take money from the vultures that run charter and private education options. It has been proven in research across the board that access to education impacts public health, economics, and general public welfare. Access especially to girls, to poor children, to children whose parents did not get the chance to access education themselves gives children the access to opportunities to better themselves, their families, and our communities. I do not have children myself and yet I am so invested in public education as a right because we are not wholly separate beings. To improve the lives of our neighbors is to improve our own lives, we are a community and an ecosystem of people. I want to be able to see my neighbors thrive as they grow and work with them to make Texas the greatest place to live it can be. It starts with education and literacy.

Jose Flores

Self

Elgin, TX

I received an excellent education and graduated from Texas public schools. I have two sisters in laws and a niece who now teach in Texas public schools. They and their students have suffered from lack of proper funding of public schools for the last few years. Please do not further erode Texas schools with public school vouchers by using public dollars for private education which will be a further drain on our public schools.

Katie Maxwell

Self

Abilene, TX

I strongly oppose education savings accounts. School vouchers do not belong in Texas.

Dayle Aldrich

self

Georgetown, TX

We OPPOSE Vouchers!

Our Public Schools have been neglected for 5 years - DO NOT send Public dollars to Private Schools.

Kelly Ausley-Flores

Self

Elgin, TX

I received an excellent education and graduated from Texas public schools. I have two sisters/aunts and a niece/cousin who now teach in Texas public schools. They and their students have suffered from lack of proper funding of public schools for the last few years. Please do not further erode Texas schools with public school vouchers by using public dollars for private education which will be a further drain on our public schools.

Daron White

Self

Wimberley, TX

This would ruin public education and favor only the wealthy. Education is not and should not be a for profit business. It is the obligation of the state and community to educate ALL of its citizens regardless of income, race, gender, or religion. This bill, if passed, would undermine communities that depend heavily on funding for public education. Funds would be diverted to private and unregulated institutions thereby harming public schools and students. Do not pass this bill.

Laura Smith

Self

Plano, TX

I retired from teaching school in Plano ISD several years ago. I am also a native born Texan who attended public schools and received an excellent education. It saddens me to see how our governor, lieutenant governor, and many of our state legislators have pushed to divert public tax dollars to support vouchers and private schools. First, I pay taxes to the state, and my tax dollars should go to the responsibilities of the state government, including the education of 5.5 million public school students. I do not want my taxes to go to private schools. There are a number of reasons why I do not want my tax dollars to go to private schools. Private schools have no accountability or transparency while teaching religion in the process. They are not held to the same standards as public schools. Vouchers also violate the constitutionally protected public trust of universal education for all children as well as religious liberty. Vouchers undermine the public school financial system. I am also concerned for students who live in rural areas. These students should have the same educational opportunities as students who live in cities and urban areas. Lastly, what about those students with physical and learning differences? Our tax dollars need to support all the students in Texas through the public school system.

Nina Johnson

Self

Leander, TX

I urge you to vote no on House Bill 3. My two teenagers are the product of an excellent education by the Leander Independent School District. We are particularly happy with the band program at their school. It's helped them grow into responsible, caring, dedicated people. It's helped them develop leadership skills. I don't know where we'd be without the band program. My son was admitted to several top tier colleges this year. This is because he's had an excellent education. We support public education. We support LISD teachers. Please put funding toward public school; not private vouchers. Thank you for considering my comments.

Sylvia MacLean

Self, Sales

Blanco, TX

I live in a rural county. Vouchers will kill the local, public schools. It will only help parents that can already afford to send their kids to private schools.

Vote no on this bill. It is bad for all of us

Thank you

Laura Coomber

Self

Dallas, TX

I am against HB 3. Public schools need to be strengthened so ALL Texas students can excel. With that billion dollars our government should be working to create public school programs and experiences.

The measure is obviously unpopular with voters, especially those in rural areas that don't have access to private schools. Private schools aren't required to provide accommodation for disabled students. Poor families that might want to access the program in most cases wouldn't get enough to actually cover all private tuition costs if they even got accepted. Higher income families already have plenty of options and don't need to be sucking money out of the public school budget.

Obviously rich benefactors are encouraging Texas politicians to make moves that don't benefit the constituents they pledged to support. I won't vote for anyone who supports this bill.

Kristen Hood, Dr.

Self

San Antonio, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to the proposed education savings account program in Texas. The establishment of an educational savings program will divert essential funding away from our public schools, which serve the majority of Texas students. Public schools are already facing financial challenges, and siphoning resources to fund private education undermines the quality of education for all students, particularly those in underserved communities. Additionally, vouchers do not guarantee improved educational outcomes and can exacerbate existing inequalities by allowing only certain families to benefit. It is crucial that we invest in strengthening our public education system rather than diverting funds to private institutions. I am wholly opposed to this bill passing. Please listen to your constituents and do not pass this bill.

Sara Farmer

Self, Writer and SAHM

Austin, TX

In my early 20s, I was in favor of vouchers. I went to Catholic school until 8th grade and I saw what a struggle it was for my parents' to afford it at times.

Now that I am in my 40s and have three children attending school in RRISD, I can't believe I was ever in favor of the vouchers. The students, teachers, staff, and families do so much to keep the schools safe, friendly, and fun when possible. Their education has been excellent and the staff and teachers have worked so hard to help my two kids with special needs access a free and appropriate public education (FAPE), and have supported and encouraged all three kids.

The public schools teach the vast majority of Texas students. They receive no tuition money. They don't receive enough funding as it is and don't deserve to lose any of it to private schools. I know they struggle at times as well, but they are not the only option for those families, as public school is for others.

Every child deserves a good education. Teachers shouldn't have to pay for supplies for their students, especially when they don't make even close to enough for the job they do. They are shaping the next generation while not making enough money and worrying about getting shot. They are heroes. We adults are all where we are, thanks to teachers.

I have never seen as much passion for teaching and education as I have in my children's schools. They deserve that. In voting against HB3, you are voting for the public schools, which are our foundation and our future.

Kerstin Hellwege

Self

Roanoke, TX

I am a retired Texas Public school teacher. I am also a Texas taxpayer, and I profusely, condone education vouchers. I do not wish my tax dollars to go towards education, vouchers of any kind. Governor is very wrong in assuming that school vouchers will improve the education level in Texas my tax dollars need to go towards public schools only.

Priya Kothari
Self, Parent, Leander ISD
Austin, TX

I live in Austin, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Priya Kothari

Jennifer Spisak
Self - public school teacher
Katy, TX

Subject: Opposition to Texas House Bill 3 – School Vouchers Harm

I am writing to express my strong opposition to Texas House Bill 3 regarding school vouchers. While proponents claim that vouchers offer more educational opportunities, they ultimately harm Texas children and our public education system. Here are five key reasons why:

1. Diverts Public Funds from Public Schools – Vouchers take taxpayer money away from public schools, which serve the vast majority of Texas students. Instead of improving struggling schools, this bill would weaken them further by reducing funding.
2. Lack of Accountability for Private Schools – Unlike public schools, private schools receiving vouchers are not held to the same academic standards, teacher certification requirements, or financial transparency, making it difficult to ensure quality education.
3. Exacerbates Educational Inequality – Vouchers primarily benefit wealthier families who can already afford private school tuition, while low-income students are often left with insufficient funds to cover tuition and other costs. This worsens existing disparities rather than addressing them.
4. Fails to Guarantee Better Educational Outcomes – Studies from states with voucher programs show mixed to negative results in student achievement. Public schools have more oversight, support systems, and experienced educators dedicated to student success.
5. Undermines Rural Schools – In rural areas, where private school options are limited or nonexistent, vouchers provide no real choice. Instead, they drain resources from the only available educational institutions—public schools that serve entire communities.

Texas should focus on strengthening public education, increasing teacher pay, and ensuring all children have access to high-quality schools rather than diverting funds to private institutions with little oversight. I urge you to vote against HB 3 and invest in solutions that truly benefit Texas students.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Jennifer Spisak
Public school teacher
Houston, TX

Denise Bennett
self/public educator
Fort Worth, TX

Say NO to vouchers! Public tax payers money belongs to public education. No voucher. No voucher. Please & thank you!

Francisco Perez
Self
San Antonio, TX

Public funds should go to public education!!! No to vouchers!!!

Mary Piehl
Self/ Retired Teacher /Grandparent
Tomball, TX

This bill will be detrimental to public education, and it does not fulfill TX constitutional requirements. This movement certainly reeks of questionable motives for many politicians who are pushing it through. Educators (who truly know the difficulties inherent to teachers and students) want what's best for all Texas children. The prospect of vouchers/ESAs was brought to the voters and it failed. If this is truly a sincere effort to help Texas children, let the voters decide, once and for all!

Aimee Johnson
Self/Public school teacher
Athens, TX

I'm asking that you fully fund public schools. Please work to improve public education instead of giving public tax dollars to private schools/homeschools.

* if public dollars go to private schools they should be held to the same accountability standards as public school. Testing standards, teaching SPED students, requiring certified teachers(or working toward certification).

Allison Watkins
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am very much opposed to this bill. This bill would drain nearly $30 million dollars from my already underfunded ISD. My stepdaughter has an IEP and would not be able to get the services she needs at a private or charter school. Her school has been a huge support for her and she has advanced greatly because of this environment. I am concerned she will have few opportunities to access education and a meaningful career in the future.

Michele Hercules

Myself

Salado, TX

Chairperson and esteemed members of the committee,

I am here today to express my strong support for Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) and their positive impact on families, students, and the future of education.

ESAs provide parents with the flexibility and freedom to choose the best educational path for their children, whether that be private school, homeschooling, specialized tutoring, or other educational resources. Every child learns differently, and ESAs empower families to tailor their education to fit individual needs, ensuring that no student is left behind due to a one-size-fits-all system.

In states where ESAs have been implemented, we have seen firsthand how they help students access better opportunities, especially those from low-income families or children with special needs. Parents are able to invest in high-quality curriculum, adaptive learning technologies, or targeted support that directly addresses their child's academic challenges. This leads to better educational outcomes and fosters a culture of accountability where schools must meet the needs of families to earn their trust and funding.

Moreover, ESAs promote competition, which drives innovation in education. Schools and education providers are incentivized to improve their services, leading to higher standards and better student achievement. At a time when many traditional public schools struggle with overcrowding, underfunding, or rigid curricula, ESAs offer a solution that benefits students without taking away opportunities from others.

Opponents of ESAs argue that they divert money from public schools, but the reality is that these accounts ensure funding follows the student, not the system. Public education should not be about protecting institutions—it should be about ensuring every child receives the education that best suits their needs. When families have more options, all schools are encouraged to improve, creating a rising tide that lifts all students.

I urge this committee to support ESAs as a means of expanding educational opportunity, empowering families, and fostering a system where every child can thrive. Education is not just about access—it is about quality, and ESAs ensure that parents, who know their children best, can make informed decisions about their future.

Thank you!

Kendall Widner

Self

Austin, TX

Fully fund public schools without exception. Vote no to ESAs. I am a public school special education teacher and beyond me not getting a livable wage as a highly qualified professional, my students deserve fully funded public schools and access to an equitable education as mandated by federal law.

Sarah Gibson

Public education

Lubbock, TX

Vouchers are not supported by Texas PEOPLE. We voted against it and it is being ignored.

Neva Williams

Self

Austin, TX

If I chose to send my child to a private school, I can afford to do so. However, I am definitely against HB3 because it will keep a fully funded, high quality education out of the reach of the majority of Texas children. All children deserve a quality education and HB3 will hurt the future of these children and hurt the future of Texas.

Wendy Ripley

Self, homemaker

Round Rock, TX

I am a mother to three children currently in the Round Rock ISD school system. My children have also previously attended Leander ISD schools. My husband and I are graduates from Texas public schools. I have seen first hand how vitally important public schools are for Texas children. I have seen evidence from other states that leads me to believe that the creation of education savings accounts will disproportionately divert important funds away from public schools and therefore hurt all Texas students, but especially the most vulnerable children in our state. In Florida and Arizona, we have seen that these programs place an even greater strain on public school funding, leading to cuts in school maintenance and staffing. In Arizona, this program has ballooned the state budget, which has led to an unstable budget deficit and creating uncertainty for the state. In Iowa, two-thirds of scholarship recipients were already attending private schools, which makes me concerned that these programs are unfair and ineffective in actually giving low income families any school choice. Texas schools are already struggling with under funding. Texas ranks towards the bottom in per pupil spending by state. Inflation and the cost of living has increased significantly since Covid, meanwhile Texas schools haven't received an increase in state funding since 2019. This program will leave our public schools with fewer resources. If Texas goes down this path, it risks falling behind the rest of the country. A strong public education system benefits not just students but entire communities - well funded schools raise property values, attract top talent, and encourage businesses to invest in our state. The states with the best student outcomes are those that prioritize funding for public schools over private ones. Investing in public education is essential for economic growth, workforce development, and the overall success of Texas. While I understand that school choice is important to some, it should not come at the expense of the quality education our public schools provide to all students, regardless of background. I thank you for your time and consideration.

Stacey Chase

Self

Spring, TX

Public money should go to public schools. Our public schools have been starved of funding for too long. Our teachers, students, and communities deserve better. There is plenty of evidence of other states passing ESA's / vouchers that show no improvement, and even decreases, in student outcomes while incurring significant overruns. There is absolutely no good reason to pass these until your intention is to destroy public schools with the intent to steal public money and shift it to a few in the private school business.

Emily Johnston

Self -CPA

Grapevine, TX

I am opposed to this legislation. It will divert much needed funds from public schools and will only benefit those who already can afford private school. School choice already exists. Parents can choose public, private or homeschool.

This legislation will not help families who truly need a different path to education. We need to be investing in public schools to make them better.

Linus Watt

Self

Dallas, TX

As a student at one of many amazing Texas public schools, I ask you to have the courage to vote for the future of 5.5 million Texan students and not the self absorbed interests of a few outsider billionaires.

Alexandra Falco

Self

Austin, TX

This is a waste of taxpayer money. It's a gift to funnel money to the hands of the wealthy. It does not help the general public and it does not better public education. I urge you to reject this bill.

Liza Serna

None

Austin, TX

I'm oppose cutting public school funds

Megan Howard

Self/Human Resources

New Braunfels, TX

Please do not vote for school vouchers to go into effect. They are more harmful than good for the children in Texas. Those that need special accommodations, special education, or simply fall below the poverty line WILL NOT thrive under vouchers.

Carol Cooper

Self

Garland, TX

No no no no. No public money for private education. No matter what you may innocent name you call it

Angela McCall

Self

Dallas, TX

The voucher system is the antithesis of what we are as Texans. HB3 not only is blatantly re-segregating our children, but it is a direct attack on our public schools. Not all of us are "private school" people. My children went to school in Snyder, TX, and then in Allen, TX--the public schools, where they got a great launch to being responsible adults. Please hear us. This does not represent a strong state with high ideals and opportunities for all.

Robin McNeill

Self

Lubbock, TX

As a retired school administrator in Texas, I am not for vouchers at all. The only thing this plan does is take much needed money from public education. I could list all the reasons why this is not a good plan for anyone, but I'm certain you have heard them all, even if you choose to ignore them.

The bottom line is, y'all will do whatever you want despite what the majority of voters want. The ballot option was worded in such a way to get votes from people who don't even have kids in school.

As someone who has devoted my life to serving students and their families, I am saddened by the current government in Texas. Parents already have a choice. The ones with means can already send their kids to private schools. What about small districts that don't have that option? I graduated from a rural district with 19 in my class. Private school wasn't an option. In no way does this provide for all kids. But it's not supposed to. It's supposed to help out the Tim Dunn's of the state—they obviously don't have enough money yet, and this is a clever albeit crooked way to line their pockets a bit more.

It's been made crystal clear that poor families and families with special needs do not matter to the state of Texas. This whole process has been manipulated to ensure that y'all get your way and you will, no doubt.

I would encourage you and any other politician in the state to come spend one day on a public school campus. That is beneath you, it seems. The only good news I can hope for as an educator is that all the constituents who are negatively affected by this farce vote each of you out the next time you're up for re-election. I still don't understand what anyone hopes to gain in improving Texas education by this method—at least where the success of all children is concerned. I get that the current private school students will get a coupon. It will be interesting to see what happens when private schools increase their tuition as well.

This administration is an embarrassment to every public school educator in the state. So no, I'm not interested in your definition of school choice. I am, however, interested in the people's choice to vote you and any other current politician out, so that our students can have a fighting chance. With this regime, neither students nor public educators have a snowball's chance and the future of Texas' workforce is bleak.

It's terrifying to any current public educator what is about to happen with your vouchers. But one thing I can take some solace in is that there is no tougher group of people than public school teachers and administrators. We roll with every ridiculous, undeserved punch that gets thrown at us. I hope y'all can do the same when the next election comes up for each of you.

Sarah Deller

self

Longview, TX

I strongly oppose education savings accounts ("vouchers") in any form. In order to protect what our founding fathers fought so hard to ensure we MUST provide a FREE and public education to ALL. I have worked in private, charter, and public schools so I have a perspective from all. For my children I CHOOSE to send them to a public school. I CHOOSE a school where we do not reside in the attendance zone. I CHOOSE to pay a transfer fee so my children can go to the school I CHOOSE. I have made this choice for 7 years. Parents in Texas have a choice, we have always had a choice. Introducing vouchers is not going to positively impact parent's choice, but it will hurt our local community schools. ISDs across the state are preparing to cut programs critical to the growth and well-being of our children. We MUST fight to keep our local public schools funded and say a strong and decisive NO to vouchers in any form. Please protect the most vulnerable in Texas, our children with vote AGAINST HB3.

Karen Bagley

Self Mentoring Teacher for First Year Teachers

Galveston, TX

Please do not betray the children of the state of Texas by supporting this bill. Children of poverty, as well as all those children who depend on public education in order to learn needed concepts and achieve their dreams, will suffer irreparably if this bill passes. Please be brave and support our children.

Justin Neth
Self
Richardson, TX

Strongly opposed to education savings account programs. Vote no on HB 3 please.

Kelly George
Self
Austin, TX

As a mom of three children in Dripping Springs ISD, I am appalled this is still being considered when it is blatantly obvious it is not what Texans want. How is this seriously being considered when there is no data to support that it will be effective and only a very small minority are in support of it? Your job is to REPRESENT your people. Your people want the state to invest in public education, not vouchers.

Robert Fait
Self
Sealy, TX

No to vouchers! No public tax funds for private schools. Bill does not have funding sustainability. Fully fund public schools. Vouchers have become an idol for lawmakers. Money, power, and politics have become more important than 5.5 million students. Let citizens of Texas VOTE on any voucher proposal. You have pledged to support public schools. This bill will take money from public schools! Accountability-private schools don't have to take all students. Where is common sense in our lawmakers?

Zainab Tinwala
Self
Coppell, TX

DO NOT VOTE FOR THIS BILL. We need to make Texas as one of the BEST public school states and not among the worst educated. Give more money to the schools to enable high quality top notch programs

Christy Wilbanks
Precinct Chair #414 Killeen Texas
Killeen, TX

I am for School Choice because our children are worth it and deserve it!

Nancy Clayborn
Self teacher
Newcastle, TX

I am against this bill as it gives taxpayer funded education dollars to private entities with no oversight on curriculum, teacher performance or student achievement. This is a wrongheaded and expensive program to increase segregation on economic and cultural lines on our schools. Please vote against this bill.

Karla Canada
Self
Abilene, TX

I am extremely opposed to vouchers or school choice as it's falsely called. This plan will hurt public schools and weaken TRS retirement funds despite the claims of state lawmakers. The plan will also create segregation of students. Do not let this harmful bill pass. Legislators need to listen to constituents rather than wealthy donors. Fully fund public schools and put a stop to Gov Abbott holding funds hostage until he and his deep pocket donors get their way. Passage of this bill will result in irreparable harm to our schools, teachers and children. I want my comments to be on the record as against any type of school voucher program. State money is for public schools. Why do you want to fund private businesses with state money? There are hidden agendas among Republican politicians. Stop the madness & vote NO on the use of taxpayer money for private schools!!!

Crystal Norman, Ms.

CVPE

Houston, TX

No vouchers

Mary Anne Marshall, Mrs

Self / Registered Nurse

Houston, TX

Vote against all school vouchers. We want a high quality and fully funded public school system for all children!!

Janice McDonald

Citizen

Abilene, TX

I am against the school voucher program. I was a public school teacher for 27 years and feel this would weaken our public school system irreparably. Please keep our public schools strong but voting against education saving accounts.

Yvette Paredes-Gonzales

Self

Castroville, TX

No to vouchers!!

Morgan Leal

Self/Educator

Fort Worth, TX

Vote "no" for HB 3. This bill will punish public education for the empty promise of making private education "more accessible". No state that has vouchers has seen an improvement in K-12 education overall. Vouchers in every other state has lead to students already paying private school tuition receiving a "grant". The bill doesn't have the funding, doesn't have accountability and will further punish public schools. Gov. Abbott stated this wouldn't impact HS football, but it already has. The funds he withheld to try and pass ESA's last session has lead to almost every district making cuts across the board. For the sake of our children and the future of Texas, ESA's cannot pass into legislation.

Rachel Paddie

Self

Center, TX

No to vouchers! Fund education for all students.

Justin Howard

Self

Belton, TX

I am for school choice

Thomas Hokanson

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote against school voucher bill HB3. No matter how the discussion is framed, this bill is designed take money from public schools and poor people and hand it to rich people. The incredibly sad thing is that the amount of money that would be handed over to rich people is far greater than what is currently spent on public school students. This is clearly a bill that will further divide the rich and poor.

Jamie Riding
Self
McKinney, TX

Private school vouchers should only be considered after ensuring public schools have been appropriately funded. Most families who will benefit from private school vouchers can already afford for their children to attend without the voucher. Those that this bill proposes to target will not be able to afford private school even with a voucher. State funds should be responsibly used to benefit the majority of the children, not a select few. You as our elected officials have a duty to make decisions that have the interest of the majority of your constituents in mind. You as elected officials should not be making decisions based on the interest of those who donate the most money to your political office nor should you be making decisions based on your own personal beliefs or interests. I urge you to vote no on this bill as it does not positively benefit the majority of Texans.

Lori Stover
Self
Amarillo, TX

I do not support any use of public funds being used for private school tuition.

Susana Carranza, Dr.
self/retired engineer
Austin, TX

I am Dr. Susana Carranza, I live in Austin, TX and I oppose HB 3. One more time, the governor is trying to push vouchers onto Texas taxpayers. Vouchers are so unpopular that lawmakers had to rename the effort, now calling it Education Savings Account (ESA) as a way to rebrand it. Multiple states that have implemented vouchers are seeing the damage done to the state budget without measurable benefits to show for. Why would we want to do that here in Texas?

I don't oppose private schools. What I oppose is using taxpayer money to subsidize them. Even though I don't have kids, I don't mind paying taxes to public education to all Texans. But I do mind when my tax dollars get used to subsidize families going to private schools. If private schools want to give opportunities to students who cannot afford the tuition, they can make their case to private donors. If the schools cannot demonstrate their value to philanthropists, why should we as taxpayers be stuck with the bill?

Public schools per student allotment has not been adjusted for inflation in many years, causing districts to operate with below par budgets. In 2023, instead of using TX's large budget surplus to help bridge the funding gap in public schools, the governor held funding hostage and called multiple special sessions to force the lawmakers to pass vouchers.

I urge this committee to reject HB 3. It is time for the Texas Legislature to do the right thing, fully fund public schools, and stop wasting time on ESAs, vouchers, or whatever future disguise of these blatant attempts to route our taxpayer money to private school vendors.

Kimberly Monteverdi
Self
Schertz, TX

Praying our representatives truly consider the consequences of this bill. School vouchers will not help our children. It will only further create a divide in the level of education our less fortunate will receive. Instead we should create a bill that increases our support for public schools.

Kailey Smith
Self
Austin, TX

I am against HB 3. Texans do not want our tax money to pay for private education. Our public schools create community.

Audrey Barnett
Self, registered nurse
Houston, TX

I do not support school vouchers. Private schools are not required to accept poor or disabled students. Private, religious, and home schools are not accountable to the state. Studies of similar programs found that voucher money largely goes to students ALREADY in private schools. Even with a school voucher program, we cannot afford to send our child to private school because we cannot afford any extra expenses. School vouchers would defund the public school my child is going to attend this year while making life easier for parents who can already afford to choose to send their children to private school. Please do not cheat our children out of an education and punish families for economic hardships.

Lissa Harris
McKinney ISD
Princeton, TX

Dear Members of the Texas Legislature,

I write to you today to express my profound opposition to House Bill 3 (HB 3), introduced by Representative Brad Buckley, which proposes the establishment of an Education Savings Account (ESA) program in Texas. While the intent behind this bill may be to provide families with greater educational choices, I firmly believe that its implementation would have detrimental effects on our public education system, exacerbate existing inequalities, and fail to deliver on its promises to Texas families.

Impact on Public School Funding

One of the most pressing concerns regarding HB 3 is its potential to divert essential funds away from public schools. Public education in Texas is already underfunded, and reallocating resources to support private schooling through ESAs would further strain the system. A recent poll indicates that 78% of voters believe Texas public schools are underfunded and support increased funding for reducing class sizes and boosting teacher pay.

The proposed ESA program would allocate approximately $10,000 per child, with an initial budget of $1 billion, enabling roughly 100,000 students to participate in its first year. This substantial allocation raises concerns about the sustainability of funding for public schools, which serve the majority of Texas students.

Insufficient Support for Low-Income Families

Proponents of HB 3 argue that ESAs would empower low-income families to choose better educational options for their children. However, the reality is that the proposed $10,000 voucher would be insufficient to cover the full cost of private school tuition, which often exceeds this amount. Consequently, low-income families may still find private schooling financially inaccessible, rendering the ESA program ineffective in achieving its intended goal of equitable educational opportunities.

Lack of Accountability and Oversight

Private schools receiving funds through ESAs are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. They are not required to administer state assessments, adhere to state curriculum standards, or publicly report student performance data. This lack of oversight raises concerns about the quality of education that students might receive under the ESA program and diminishes transparency for taxpayers.

Potential for Increased Segregation

Without requirements for private schools to accept all students, there is a risk that ESAs could lead to increased segregation within the education system. Private institutions may choose to admit only certain students, potentially excluding those with disabilities, behavioral challenges, or lower academic performance. This selective admission process could result in a more divided educational landscape, undermining the principles of inclusivity and equal opportunity.

Public Opposition

It is important to note that a significant majority of Texas voters oppose the implementation of a private school voucher program.

Gautam Penumetcha

Self - engineer

Austin, TX

I am vehemently opposed to SB 2/HB 3 and any school voucher program funded with taxpayer dollars. This bill will not support every school aged child in Texas, only a small few. Voucher programs have proven ineffective in many studies and evidenced by other programs in other states. With funding for less than 2% of Texas students, it's clear this isn't about choice, but providing a taxpayer funded coupon for the few. I am asking you to vote no - and to instead fully fund public education. The Texas State Legislature has not increased funding for public education since 2019. A voucher program funneling public tax dollars to private institutions will not solve our education gaps. Thank you.

Johanna Van Nijkerk

Self, VICE PRESIDENT of SALES, Cigna Healthcare

Southlake, TX

Vote this garbage bill down. This is being pushed down our throats now several times and neither side of your constituents want this. We all see what you're trying to do. Abbotts wife running a private school will benefit, we have great schools, stop this corrupt tax money grab. That's all it is..

I have 3 kids in these great public schools and we all see right thought this scam. Stop the corruption if you have any integrity left whatsoever...

Stop this school takeover attempt and maybe instead of trying to place the Ten Commandments and force Christianity on all kids, focus on supporting your teachers, your neighbors, your kids!

Blythe Koch

HPISD

Dallas, TX

The education savings account program should be structured in a way that it truly benefits those who do not have suitable educational opportunities. If it ends up in the hands of those who already have a suitable choice, it does nothing to improve education for Texas students and is a waste of taxpayer money.

The current proposed bill does not take into account the performance of the public school the student attends or is eligible to attend. Also, if a parent is already able to pay for private school, the government does not need to spend additional money to educate these students. Those outside of the low income brackets should not be eligible. Governmental money needs to be directed to those who truly do not have a suitable choice because their public school is not performing well (or they have special needs) AND they cannot pay for private school because of their income. This is how it will truly help those who need it, instead of going to those who don't need the help. If the amount allocated is not used by those in need, the program needs to be reevaluated or restructured.

The bill also needs to be structured in a way that gives future governments the ability to limit the size to what the government can afford. The current draft of HB3 guarantees that everyone on the wait list will receive funding in the next round. This could set up a budget disaster if the government does not have the funds it expects to have in the next round. It also guarantees that everyone on the wait list from the previous round who had no financial need will receive funds the next round. This is the opposite of fiscal responsibility.

Also, please guarantee that no recapture funds can be used to go towards ESAs. The purpose of the recapture program is to help other public schools, not private schools. Recapture funds should only be used for their intended purpose.

Lastly, please include a guarantee that a certain amount of money will continue to go into the public school system. The vast majority of Texas students will continue to rely on public schools, and they need to be improved, not abandoned. Adequate funding for public schools needs to be guaranteed, as it is required by the Texas constitution. An ESA program should not compete with or jeopardize that.

Emily Tankersley

Self

Tarpley, TX

Please don't sell our public schools short. Texas is a great state and we can make it better with a strong public education system. As a Mom of a rural student with big dreams, we depend on our local school. Our teachers need your help and resources. Thank you!

Diann McCabe

LWV-Hays Co

San Marcos, TX

I once visited a very good private school, thinking the environment there would benefit our son who struggled to read due to dyslexia and ADHD. The private school I visited was very good and very expensive, but the person I spoke to about my son said the school would not be able to provide accommodations for him such as having tests and texts read to him, as he had in our public school.

Luckily, we kept our son in the San Marcos High School where he was able to take an excellent class on Sisco Systems, learning about networking and computers, eventually securing a job in town putting this skill to work. He ended up graduating from college and now has a very good job putting all of these skills to work.

Vouchers for private schools divert state tax dollars from our neighborhood public schools to private businesses. The private businesses are the ones with choice: the choice not to accept a student with special needs. In addition, funding vouchers will suck funding from public schools which serve our communities, providing accommodations where needed, as well as investing in sporting events, the arts, and many other ways for our community to thrive. Vote NO on HB 3.

Please increase funding for public schools so Texas can be a stronger state in the eyes of the nation and the world. By not adequately funding our public schools, the Texas Legislature will further disable our community cohesion and wellbeing, marking a downfall in how we see ourselves as strong communities working together for the good of all.

Megan Li

Self, teacher

Grapevine, TX

Dear education committee, I urge you to keep an open mind and vote NO on the passage of HB3. This bill will irreparably damage education as a whole, not just public education. I have done very extensive research on this topic to try to understand why our governor seems so determined to pass this legislation. My conclusion is that he has profited financially and stand to profit even more with the passage of this. However, that is not the whole story. This will lead to more and more government control over education and more data collection over our students (the big end goal), leading to less freedom and less quality in the education afforded to the average Texan, in particular those with low income or special needs. I have a vested interest in this as I am a fine arts educator myself. My own job has already been affected by the dire lack of education funding. After a track record of 18 years of success my district, Frisco ISD, is eliminating the program. I am also very concerned about my daughter's future. She is enrolled in special education on an IEP and has had a successful 4 years so far in public school. She currently receives the supports she needs to be successful but I worry that with the push toward privatization I can't count on her future needs being met. This is an injustice to those in our society that are often overlooked and fought so hard to access the same rights to an education that all children deserve. Please take a hard look at the facts, including evidence that state who have had a voucher system in place, like FL and AZ have not seen the rise in academic performance that was promised. Additionally, the voucher primarily go to higher income families who can already afford private school. The majority of Texans DO NOT support this bill!!! Do not listen to the governor. Read any of the comment threads on his posts in support of this and you'll see that I'm right. Listen to your constituents on both sides of the aisle please. Both republicans and democrats DO NOT support a voucher system in our state. At least put it to a vote before you do anything. Thanks, Megan Li

Eric Roop
Self
Austin, TX
Do not pass!

Julia Neff, Educator
Self
Canton, TX

URGENT! ACT NOW THEN SHARE THIS POST!

Easy way to give comments without making a trip to Austin. This takes 2 minutes!!

Voucher bill being heard now!

Click and send:

<https://comments.house.texas.gov/home?c=c400>

Example you can copy and paste below!

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Gary Hazelip, Mr
Self
Frisco, TX

I am firmly against HB3 as it stands! This bill is about School Control and not choice. Any bill that ties funding to control of the curriculum taught will be subject to state manipulation of said curriculum. Today, parents are in full control of the curriculum and what is taught.

Allie Sauls
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Leanna Johnson
Self, Registered Nurse
Pflugerville, TX

VOTE NO TO VOUCHERS.

As a registered nurse who works with and attends school with my patients — children with special needs and disabilities — I have seen firsthand how important the public school system is for my patient population. These children deserve to have access to education as much as any able-bodied, neurotypical student does, and the voucher system would remove the legal protections and systems which are currently in place that ensure their access to education.

Jennie Hoefling
Self/ self employed
Austin, TX

I oppose HB3 bc I want our public schools to succeed and I don't want to give our tax money to rich parents who can already afford private school without it.

Mary Simpson
Self parent
Mansfield, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Angela Allen, Ms
Retired Teacher
Humble, TX

School voucher program will further divide students and not address. Their individual needs. Some teachers may need resources to teach students whether it's kinesthetic, audio, or visual. Students learn in small groups. I have seen a lot of students come to school in kindergarten that did not know their alphabet letters or songs, but they were taught them so that they could move on to the next level. I don't agree with the budget program, but I agree having pre-K for students that need that extra time to learn. All students won't be able to go to the voucher program so there's a day service right there.. if all students are not able to go to a private school then it defeats the purpose of a school voucher. Vote NO

Mike Leminger
Self/Teacher
Carrollton, TX

I am opposed to this bill as it is written. Before an ESA/Vouchers program can be addressed, we must first fully fund the public schools in the state of Texas & the over 5 million students who attend them. Pursuing any ESA bill first over this shows the citizens of our great state that our state government leaderships priorities are not in order. It is imperative that the state of Texas fully fund the public schools (which they do not currently) and give meaningful pay increases to teachers, and bring both up at least the average of the other 50 states first. Those two items should be the first priorities, so address those issues first.

Daniel Kryzanowski
self
Austin, TX

It is actually quite simple. Public tax money should be allocated to PUBLIC schools (100% of these funds). Private endeavors should be funded with private money

Mariel Cortez
Self
Flower Mound, TX

We don't want education vouchers it will affect more our public schools. Let us vote on the issue

Kea Czempinski

Self / Stay at home mother

Hutto, TX

I respectfully urge the committee to oppose the ESA/School Voucher Program. While we may all agree that our public education system needs improvement, diverting funds to private schools is not the answer. This program would strip much-needed resources from public schools and funnel taxpayer dollars into private institutions that are not held to the same standards of accountability. Public education is the foundation of opportunity for all children, regardless of background or income. But this voucher program threatens to weaken that foundation in several key ways:

It drains public school funding. Texas public schools are funded on a per-student basis. If students leave, their funding follows them—taking critical resources away from public schools. Even if a separate fund is created, it would require additional state spending, which would come from taxpayers.

It undermines teacher retirement security. The Teacher Retirement System (TRS) is funded by contributions from public school employees and the state. If teachers leave for private schools, which do not contribute to TRS, the system will suffer. A legislative report found that if TRS membership declines by just 1% annually, it could take 35 years instead of 28 to pay off its debt. To stabilize TRS, the state would have to either increase taxpayer contributions, cut funding from other programs, reduce benefits for retirees, or raise the retirement age—none of which are acceptable solutions.

It primarily benefits wealthier families. In Florida, after HB1 was passed in 2023, only 13% of voucher recipients came from public schools—meaning 87% of funds went to students who were already in private schools. These programs do not expand access; they subsidize private school tuition for families who can already afford it. Meanwhile, rural and low-income families, who have fewer private school options, are left footing the bill for a program they cannot even use.

It enables private schools to operate without oversight. Unlike public schools, private schools receiving voucher funds are not required to meet the same academic, financial, or ethical standards. Many are not required to accept students with disabilities, follow anti-discrimination laws, or disclose how taxpayer dollars are being spent.

It promotes instability in private education. Data from Milwaukee's voucher program found that 41% of private schools relying on vouchers failed between 1991 and 2015—leaving students without a stable learning environment. Unlike public schools, which have systems in place to reassign displaced students, when a private school closes, families are left scrambling.

It has failed to improve student outcomes. Studies from Louisiana, Indiana, and Ohio have shown that students using vouchers often perform worse than their public school peers—with academic declines comparable to or worse than the learning loss caused by COVID-19.

I urge the committee to invest in real solutions that will strengthen the public schools

Jai Daggett

DAGGETT Consulting Group

Pearland, TX

I feel strongly that communities with limited resources would be disproportionately burdened when implementing Educational savings accounts (ESA). Asking communities that don't have private school options to carry the burden of communities that do have private school options is the exact opposite of equitable representation. Using tax dollars to pay for a coupon for existing private school attendees is not how I would like MY tax dollars spent. No mandate on building private schools, or requiring a community to implement standards on curriculum, but asking them to foot the bill for existing students is just wrong. Politics aside, communities are struggling for medical coverage and basic internet services and we are proposing to take more resources from these already struggling communities and ask them to pay more? Please insert humility and compassion in your consideration of how things can be paid for. Please search within your own humanity.

Melissa Ibarra

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Stacey Barnes

Amarillo ISD- Caprock HS

Amarillo, TX

I am writing to urge you to ensure that your vote truly represents ALL students, especially those in public education. As a 16-year career educator in Amarillo, Texas, with 15 years in a Title I school, I have witnessed firsthand how public education transforms lives. Without the programs and support offered through our schools, many students would remain trapped in a cycle of poverty. Instead, because of dedicated educators who often give their own time and money, I have seen students go on to attend Ivy League universities, start their own businesses, and completely change the trajectory of their families' lives.

Despite these successes, public education continues to be underfunded and undervalued. We need a meaningful, across-the-board pay increase for public school educators and increased funding that is not tied to political strings, such as the Teacher Incentive Allotment (TIA) or curriculum mandates. The reality is that SB2 would provide $10,000 per pupil to private schools while public education funding remains stagnant at $6,300 per student—a number that, when adjusted for inflation, is a funding decrease since pre-COVID/2019. This is unacceptable.

I am extremely displeased with the continued push to funnel public funds into private education while our schools struggle with outdated resources, staffing shortages, and inadequate compensation for the professionals shaping the future of Texas.

Public schools educate the vast majority of Texas students—including my own 5- and 9-year-old children, who love their public school experience. Our state representatives should be standing with public educators and students, not wealthy donors or the governor in Austin.

I urge you to reject SB2 and any other measure that diverts critical funding away from public schools. Or if you are going to be railroaded into it by Abbott at least use it as leverage to make our PUBLIC SCHOOL BETTER- not worse off! It is time to invest in Texas' future by fully funding public education, providing competitive salaries for educators, and ensuring every child has access to a quality education—regardless of their zip code.

You were elected to represent me, my students, and my own public school children. I ask that you start doing so.

Meagan Nelson, Mrs.

Self, homemaker, home educator

Mount Pleasant, TX

As a lifelong Texas resident, I am against HB3. I do not wish to see any such bill pass in Texas. As a homeschool parent, if HB3 is unstoppable, I want homeschool to be exempt and untouchable from any future legislation. Public schools are lacking because of the breakdown of the family unit, not because of lack of funding. HB3 undermines the autonomy of private schools, thus making them public and subject to whims of the state.

Lisa Cochran

Self

Lake Jackson, TX

No true Conservative would vote for giving tax money to public schools or expanding the government. If you have $1B to waste, give it back to the taxpayers payers and let IS decide what we want to do with OUR money.

Even if I was for giving tax money to private schools, the math doesn't work. $1B divided by $30,000 is 33,333. There are almost 6MM Texas students and about 350,000 are already in private schools. Even at $10,000 for each ESA per the Senate bill, that's only 100,000 so still not enough to cover current private school students. Abbott says ALL students and ALL families will benefit. Not even close! How would that even work for a family that's not currently in private school? They have to find a school that is willing to evaluate the student, make a decision as to whether or not that student and family meets their qualifications (something public schools don't have the luxury of doing), and then hold a spot (passing up families who have the money in hand already) while the family applies for an ESA and wades through the red tape to see if they are one of the lucky few. It doesn't sound like something any good private school is going to do.

Also, saying that private schools can't charge ESA students more doesn't keep them from raising tuition and fees. If you insist on passing this, lock their increases to a maximum of the CPI.

Invest in public schools and drop the ridiculous rules that hogtie real education!

I could go on, but I'll end with saying that Conservatives are paying attention and when Republicans act like Democrats, it won't be good for the future of Texas.

Tiffany Montgomery

Self

Weatherford, TX

No to School Vouchers

Amanda Szymanski

Self

College Station TX, TX

I do not support this bill and feel funding should go to public schools to improve our education.

Hari Bhushan

Self Marketing

Dallas, TX

This is a bad bill. Public schools are already extremely under funded. This bill would even underfund them more. We need our public schools to be better not worse and this bill will make them worse by underfunding

Erik Brown
self Brookshire, TX

School choice is essential for improving educational outcomes, fostering competition, and empowering parents to select the best learning environments for their children. In a one-size-fits-all public education system, students are often trapped in failing schools based on their zip code, limiting opportunities for academic and personal growth. By allowing families to choose from charter schools, private schools, homeschooling, or voucher programs, school choice ensures that children receive an education tailored to their needs and aspirations. Education should be about students, not institutions. School choice empowers families, drives excellence, and ensures that every child has the opportunity to succeed, no matter their background.

Kristine Morrow
Kristine Morrow
Austin, TX

I am against vouchers. Public money should not be used for private schools. In every state where this has been attempted, public schools suffered. And the majority of those that used the vouchers....were wealthy children who were already at private schools anyway.
Most private schools cost $20k and up (super basic at 20k and a good public school is better) and up to $50k-60k/ year. People who are in under performing schools cannot afford $10k/year. If they could, they could move their child to a better public school. This is welfare for the wealthy

Kimbelry Davis
self; School Nurse
Canton, TX

completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

ELAINE Mittel
Self
LIBERTY HILL, TX

I am writing to oppose school voucher system. These privatization systems will erode our public schools and not allow special education laws to be maintained. Students will suffer and the rich will just get richer with privatization of education! Let the rich pay for their kids to go to private schools if they so desire. Support public education by stopping this continued nonsense that has been going on so long and wasted so much time in legislative sessions. Abbott just wants to put more money in his pockets along with his rich friends. NO to vouchers!

Page Bishop

Self

Ennis, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Tiffany Markwardt

Self

Mansfield, TX

Oppose

Fred Woody

Self - 4 decades an educator, now retired

Ausrin, TX

Current per student funding is less than $7,000 in our state. This bill provides $10,000 or more per student who moves OUT of an accountable, public school system. A more balanced approach would make state funding EQUAL for ALL students, both in the public system and in private schools. Increase state funding for public schools!

Donna Knight

Red Oak ISD

Red Oak, TX

Vote NO this WILL not help Texas

Jennie Hemphill

Self

Cypress, TX

HB3 needs to be voted away with. No one wants this. We already have a choice. This will be taking away money from public schools. It will only help very few considering how many students there are in Texas. It won't be the less fortunate. Increase the funds given to public schools they all need more. Texas public schools are hurting.

Julie Ford

Self Retired Texas Public School Educator for 35 years

Bryan, TX

Please do NOT support this bill and take away more funding from our public schools to fill the pockets of our governor and some of his major donors! Public schools provide an education for all students, including those with special needs and those that are economically disadvantaged. Texas public schools are available for all students who choose to attend them. Private schools and homeschooling are choices made by parents who do not want their children to attend public school. They are NOT governed by the same rules, regulations and accountability standards as public schools and should not receive any state funding.

Emily Warr

18 year educator representing myself

Katy, TX

Hello, I am writing to you as a mother of three public school children and an educator since 2007. Texas has always been a leader in providing the best public education opportunities for ALL kids. Over the past few years, this has started to shift and no longer be the case. Funding has been held hostage by political motivations and that is not what is best for the students of Texas. Vouchers are not the answer for ALL students. Taking money from public schools to provide private school vouchers is not equitable and wrong. Taxpayers are not ok with their hard earned money going to private entities, especially when the proposed disbursements are not equal. If vouchers pass, I worry about how this will impact the education of my own children. I have been proud of raising them in Texas and giving them the best education. If Texas continues to take from public education, teachers and staff will leave the profession, districts will have to close schools, classes will be larger and the children will be left with the pieces. Those pieces will not be enough to sustain Texas as being an educational leader. I urge you as an Educator and mother, DO NOT pass the vouchers. Thank you.

Adrienne Leyva

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers and strongly support fully funded, high quality public education in Texas.

Mark Johnson

Self- Retired

Lufkin, TX

Public money needs to stay in public schools. Private schools have no accountability. Most rural counties don't even have the option for a private school. This is a giveaway to wealthy parents who already have their kids enrolled in private schools; and trying to provide over 50% more money per student than public schools receive.

Vote this horrific bill down.

Frances Prukop

Self

Mission, TX

Public dollars should not be used for private schools. HB3 as currently written threatens the stability of public schools which are there to serve the public good. It also threatens the actuarial stability of the TRS system (per your own testimony). NO on HB 3

SALENA James

Self; CDM,CNA,CMA

Midland, TX

Taking away funding for education means, we will be leaving the children behind. Offering education to all children no matter what their parents position may be is securing our future leaders.

Jessica Roop

self / Mother

Austin, TX

I oppose you diverting public funds to private schools, no matter what you call it. I am a Texas voter and I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates, not divert funds to unaccountable private and religious schools. I know that virtually every other state that has created a voucher system with the limited guardrails you are proposing has seen a decimation of their public school systems and increasing burden to their state budgets. We don't want any of that here in Texas. Please fund our public schools and don't pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Patti Boerner
Self
Sugar Land, TX

I am a grandmother of school age children. I want strong public schools for our children. If you can afford a private school for your children that is great but do not make public schools worse to help people that can already afford a private school. Texas ranks 29 in education nationally. Why would we not want all children to get a wonderful education? I myself would rather have a state that holds public education as important. Would it not be best to have a state with well educated people? I think so and so should you. Vote NO to vouchers.

Shelly McNulty
Self
Smithville, TX

I am opposed to school vouchers and I am opposed to taking public money from public schools to pay for private school.

Tara Guillot, Ms.
Self Retired teacher
GARLAND, TX

Vouchers do nothing more than leave the most vulnerable behind. Few private schools allow students with an IEP in. This means that a very bright student with a disability such as cerebral palsy, will not be allowed to attend. Meanwhile the public schools become fewer and fewer causing smaller budgets, larger classes, longer bus rides (less sleep to meet earlier buses; less relaxation time due to late home arrival), all of which have detrimental effects on learning. There is a very small swath of upper middle-class students who MIGHT get the privilege to go to a private school with a voucher, only to face religious indoctrination in order to benefit from questionably better teaching. Vote NO on school vouchers. For the benefit of children, parents, teachers, and a better educated Texas.

Carmen Bessire
Self - Public School Teacher
Austin, TX

As a Texas taxpayer and teacher, I fully oppose this unpopular and harmful approach to educational funding. We are here yet again after years and years, and multiple regular and special sessions, to continue to vote down deeply unpopular school vouchers. This voting history and current polling continue to show how the majority of Texans, and therefore YOUR constituents, do not want this. Please listen to them over a Governor who received large campaign donations for this issue, and who seems to only care about that and not what his constituents want. He says that there is no school choice, but the majority of public school districts easily allow for campus and inter-district transfers, with no vouchers needed! He says that public schools are failing, but many of our schools, including my own, are still successful despite not having received funding increases since 2019. Public schools are still successful despite the Governor's lack of investment in us! Other voucher programs around the country have not created academic gains and have caused financial issues for states and schools. If this is passed, it will take away funding from the students in public schools who you, as lawmakers, are obligated to serve according to the Texas state constitution. Finally, this bill would not even cover the cost of tuition for private schools for middle and low-income families. Please don't give a tax-payer funded handout to the rich that won't benefit all Texans. If the Governor or any other lawmakers would like to do such a handout, please do it with your personal donations and not my tax dollars.

Joey Roberts

Self, Director of Public Relations

Abilene, TX

Vote NO to supporting school vouchers/school choice/educational savings accounts (whatever you want to call it)!

We need to fully and correctly fund public schools! Keep tax payer money in the independent school districts. Increase student allotment to where it NEEDS to be (I'd be happy in the top 25 percent in the U.S. for starters to get away from the No. 43 state we are sitting at currently (if my memory is correct). Also, we need to increase teacher pay for good, not just a two-year stipend to make people "feel" better. After that, the school districts are going to have to pick up the slack if the state doesn't figure out a way to fund teachers correctly and efficiently. And most districts don't have a way of doing that because they are underfunded.

Thank you for your time and consideration. Again, please vote NO to school choice.

Tracy Gallman

Self

River Oaks, TX

Please make a better bill. HB3 is a launch bill that is admittedly intended to grow. This bill is not about money, it is about destroying public education and eventually privatization of education.

Brooke Evans

Self -teacher

Grand Saline, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Kevin LaMarca

Self, Attorney

McKinney, TX

Public tax dollars should not be used to fund private school tuition. And with no safeguards for the Teacher Retirement System, this bill is wholly inadequate to protect Texans and the teachers who dedicated their lives to the public education system.

Gerry Carter

Self - Retired

San Antonio, TX

I am absolutely opposed to the ESA program. As a retired teacher I know that Texas public schools have not received the funds needed for their students and teachers. Giving tax breaks to rich people does NOT help our schools and is terribly misguided.

Jina Hopp

Self

Arlington, TX

As a former public school educator and administrator, I do not support education savings plans. This bill is not good for Texas students and will cause even more harm to public schools. Please do not support this bill.

Amanda Ballard
Self, Homeschool Parent
Tyler, TX

I am opposed to the ESA/voucher program in any form in Texas. We are satisfied with the educational freedom we currently enjoy as Texas homeschoolers, and this bill puts that at risk.

Chiraz Bessaoud
Self
Houston, TX

I do not support this bill, if the state wants to try something like this there needs to be a phased out approach at best. This is poorly planned

JoAngeli Kasper, LPC, ABD PhD,
Self
Denison, TX

Vote no. I do not agree. This bill would put families AND children at risk. Instead FUND public education. Everyone deserves the right to education. How can you in good conscience do this to our state and instead try and fund resorts????

Sophia Mirto
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Sophia. I was educated in the Texas public school system and hold two degrees. I also spent a year in a private Christian school, so I can speak to the difference.

My family had the economic privilege of school choice. My parents were able to buy a house that allowed me to attend a public school well-funded by high property tax dollars. When I struggled to adapt to the class sizes of the public school, my parents were able to afford a private Christian school, and drove me across town every day for over a year. Most families do not have the ability to take time out of their work day to shuttle their child across town.

After I spent a year in private school, I went back to public school. I took AP classes and had teachers who cared about my academic success. My public schools were safe, supportive environments where I had friends who spoke multiple languages, from many different countries, in different economic stratas, who practiced different religions.

Parents already have the choice of public, private, or home school. School vouchers are unnecessary and an insult to working families who cannot afford the time or money it takes to enroll their children in private schools. The suggestion that Texans, who have been paying taxes to fund our public school system for their entire working lives, should risk even less funding for our neighborhood public schools, is extremely out of touch.

I don't even have time to talk about education access for rural families who live nowhere near private schools.

In the last few decades, the Texas legislature has underfunded and defunded our public school system. Our literacy rates are shockingly low, our high school graduation rates are low, and access to higher education varies hugely between social groups and economic classes.

Now, you are considering rerouting public tax dollars from our public education system to line the pockets of private businesses that don't have the same mandates for education access or fairness. Private schools are not mandated to accept children with physical learning disabilities, adhd, speech impediments, or who are learning English as a second language.

I encourage you to properly invest in teacher salaries and school funding. I oppose vouchers and any attempt to take public tax dollars out of our public schools.

Susan Valliant, RN

Self, SREC SD10 Committee woman,
Arlington, TX

I urge you to reconsider supporting HB3. The number of students benefiting from the voucher and ESA bill is small, while the financial burden on taxpayers and the expansion of government is substantial. We want Public Education system but not at the expense of expanding government and increasing our fiscal responsibility. There are much better ways we can improve the education system for our children without expanding government and adding another tax burden on the people. Government is not the answer to our failing education system in Texas. Tax relief for parents is a much less intrusive approach that would empower the parents to make the best choice for their child. Empower the parents, NOT the government. Please do not support HB3

Ruthann Royal

Self
Austin, TX

I OPPOSE HB3, which supports school vouchers.

On all counts, vouchers harm public education and students. Vouchers steal scarce funding from public schools—which serve 90 percent of students—and give it to private schools that are unaccountable to taxpayers.

By design, voucher programs operate with impunity and are not subject to any meaningful oversight, allowing the pattern of discrimination to continue today.

I am an upper middle class Texas resident that sent my child to private school for 6 years, and then public school, and it would have been “nice” to have a voucher for her private school tuition. BUT, I would rather see Texas focus on IMPROVING PUBLIC EDUCATION and increase teacher pay before giving money to those who can already afford private education. I think this bill would be doing a disservice to the MAJORITY of our residents who rely on public education. Let’s focus on raising up the majority instead of creating more segregation and discrimination among our Texas children.

Lynda Gowin

Self
Montgomery, TX

As a life long resident of Texas and school district employee I am opposed to school vouchers. Private schools do not have to accept every student that comes to enroll, they do not have any accountability and should not be funded with public funds.

Adrienne Schoppe

Self
La Porte, TX

Please do not assume that vouchers are ok. As a teacher of 35 years, please respect not only our profession but our retirement. My classroom is 99% self funded. We haven’t gotten an increase from the state in years. And our thanks is to devalue us as a profession. Keep public schools public and private schools private or let the good citizens of Texas decide in a vote!

Allison Parkyn

Self
Fate, TX

School vouchers takes funding away from public schools and the schools are already struggling. If we fully funded public schools, you could improve education for ALL children rather than just giving wealthier families a tax cut / discount. Private schools do not accept all children and do not require the same qualifications for teachers. This voucher program would not help most families and I would like you to vote AGAINST school vouchers or “choice”. We already can choose.

Rebecca Mori

Self

San Antonio Tx, TX

The passing of these vouchers will hurt public schools and school aged children. For starters, one of the biggest issues is that it would take away money from public schools. Public school are already underfunded and to take away even more money would be disastrous. Elective art classes would suffer, classes would become larger then what they already are and schools would have even fewer resources. Another reason is policies, rules and regulations for public and private schools are much different. In a public school setting there is more accountability for teachers and certifications. In a private school setting these rules do not apply which can lead to lower quality learning in a private setting because teachers do not have to have specific certifications. There have been studies done on private schools that accept vouchers and what they found it that the academic outcomes of these students are questionable. Studies have shown that reading, writing and math scores in a voucher accepted private school are much lower than that of students from public schools, this is likely because again private schools lack accountability for those they hire. There is also the issue of inequality, you would be taking away from those families to give their children a quality education who can not afford to send them to a private school even with a voucher. Also the lack of transportation would also be an issue for those who do not have a private school close by. Passing this bill would be a mistake, one that our children would have to pay for. It would cause harm and destruction to the public school system.

Laura Garrett

Self

Dallas, TX

We do not want vouchers! It harms public education!

Jessica Reeves

Self

Kerrville, TX

I strongly oppose Texas' House Bill 3 (HB3) due to its harmful impact on public education, students, and educators across the state. While the bill purports to address issues within the education system, its provisions fail to support the true needs of our schools, especially those serving historically marginalized communities. HB3 pushes for unproven policies that divert necessary resources away from public schools, undercuts teacher salaries, and imposes unnecessary restrictions on curriculum content, all while ignoring the pressing need for increased funding and systemic reform. Education should be about equity, inclusivity, and preparing students for the future, not about restricting access to critical resources or limiting teachers' ability to teach freely. HB3 undermines these principles and threatens to deepen educational inequalities across Texas, and for these reasons, I cannot support it.

Amber Danley

Self accountant

Conroe, TX

Please do not support lowering public school funding for any purpose.

Jennifer Donato

Pleasanton ISD

Poteet, TX

In rural areas we don't have many private school options and if they do, not many special education students are being served within them.

Catherine Porter
Self
San Antonio, TX

Vote NO to any school voucher plan! States that have enacted such programs have shown only mostly wealthy families benefit and there is no real improvement in children's education outcomes. This voucher idea will strip crucial funding from public education, leaving our schools poorer. We need to fund our public schools more robustly, improve physical spaces, increase teacher pay, and offer our children the education they deserve. Vote NO to vouchers!!

Kathleen Murphy
Self, retired school receptionist
Austin, TX

I am in total support of our public schools. I do not support the voucher system. I am a grandmother, and mother to two young women who both went to Zilker Elementary in Austin. We could not love Zilker or the fabulous teachers more than we do. I vote NO on vouchers. My grandchildren attend Lively Middle School and Becker Elementary in Austin. Vouchers will take our tax dollars away from supporting these excellent schools.

Susan Mortensen
self
Georgetown, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3, which proposes the establishment of an education savings account (ESA) program in Texas. This bill would divert essential taxpayer dollars from our public schools to fund private education, undermining the foundational principle of providing quality education for all students.?

Public schools are the cornerstone of our communities, serving over 5 million Texas students. Diverting funds to private institutions through ESAs would exacerbate existing challenges, such as budget deficits, program cuts, school closures, and teacher shortages. These issues disproportionately affect rural and underserved areas, where public schools often lack adequate resources. ?

Furthermore, recent polling indicates that nearly two-thirds of Texans oppose voucher programs that redirect tax dollars from public schools to subsidize private education. This opposition spans across political affiliations, with 95% of Democrats, 72% of Independents, and 42% of Republicans expressing disapproval. ?

It is also concerning that private schools benefiting from ESAs are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. They are not mandated to administer or disclose results of state assessments like the STAAR exams, leading to limited comparability between public and private educational outcomes. ?

In light of these concerns, I urge you to oppose HB 3 and instead focus on strengthening our public education system by increasing funding, supporting our dedicated educators, and ensuring that all Texas students have access to quality education.?

Amanda Winstel
PTA and self
Garland, TX

Keep public dollars in public schools. Any institution receiving public funds should be held to all the same standard that public schools are held. Don't take away from the children of Texas, do right by them! Do what your constituents want!!!

Reagan Shedden
Parent
Roanoke, TX

No to Vouchers - Please stop Greg Abbott from hurting our public school systems any further. Vouchers are bad for our children, bad for our teachers and bad for our State. Please vote No!

Caren Christian
Wylie ISD
Abilene, TX

I am against this bill as it will inevitably take funding away from public schools where it is needed the most. If state and public funds had been taking care of public schools all this time and keeping up with inflation and paying teachers what they deserve, and if there was extra money just sitting around, then this would be a different conversation. But that is not the case. Do not fund private schools. They are already receiving funds from those who have already opted to send their kids there. Start funding public schools adequately and stop wasting time on an unneeded bill.

Amanda Dyniewski
Self, Physical Therapist
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you,
Amanda Dyniewski

Emily Jones
Self
Fort worth, TX

Vote no! This goes against everything America stands for. My children went to private school and i teach at a private school. This will drastically hurt the students who need the states help the most and benefit people who do not need help. Please vote no.

Kareena Mullens, Educator
Teachers state wide
Crosby, TX

Do not vote for this. This will segregate Texas and eventually dismantle public education. Texas will continue to move backwards This is nothing more than a move back to Jim Crow laws. Bria is Cain you will not be re elected.

Amalia Durbin
Self - clinical manager
The Woodlands, TX

Please do not pass this bill - my 2 children and our family are relying on public school and chose our home based on the public schools. Schools already get nil funding and we don't need further money taken from our public schools.
Thank you kindly.

Shannon May

Self

Austin, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB 3, I do not support school vouchers, and I ask that this bill be voted down. Public funds should not be spent on private schools. This scheme is a disservice to our children in underfunded public schools, as well as to children attending private schools with little to no oversight. This bill only serves as a tax break to wealthy Texans who can already afford private schools, and to the profiteers running those schools. Put those funds into our public schools where they can do the most good. Do not pass HB 3.

Karly Bailey

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Fran Coope

Self

Cedar Park, TX

Do not approve vouchers. Increase funding for Education

Jennifer Donato

Pleasanton ISD

Poteet, TX

Public schools get funded by attendance. How is that factored in?

Erika Gutierrez

Self, full time employee

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Crystal reeves

Self

Spring, TX

This bill will endanger the sustainability of public schools, harm underserved groups such as students with disabilities, and will further blur the line between the separation of church and state. The bill will funnel more state funds to wealthy families who do not need or require funds to send their children to private schools while simultaneously harming middle class families who rely on local schools for both education and a safe place to send their children while parents work. Private school standards are not equivalent to public standards. Texas is already failing at the education of our students and this will only exacerbate declining test scores and the ill preparation to join the work force or enter college. Please kill this bill!

Lisa Simmons

Self- Attorney

Dallas, TX

State-funded vouchers will take needed dollars from public schools. Vouchers take dollars from public schools that are already underfunded. Every dollar sent to a private or home school cannot be invested in public schools. Voucher advocates say funding schools and funding vouchers are separate, but in Texas, where “funding follows the student,” public schools will lose needed funding as millions of dollars are siphoned to unaccountable private institutions.

State-funded vouchers will take needed dollars from public schools. Vouchers will take dollars from public schools that are already underfunded. Every dollar sent to a private school or home school cannot be invested in public schools. In Texas the 'funding follows the student'. Public schools will lose desperately needed funding. Private schools do not have the same protections for students that public schools have. Private schools do not have to admit children if they have the voucher money and desire to attend. Please save the beneficial programming and teachers at my public school.

Julia Roff

Self

Houston, TX

I strongly disagree with school vouchers! They do not work and actively take money away from public school children! Be a proud Texan, and DO NOT give handouts to private schools!!

Stacey Myers

Self

Austin, TX

I am firmly against vouchers and anything else that takes money away from public schools. Please vote against passing vouchers. Thank you.

Mitzi Stoute Faniola, Nonprofit & Legislative Consulting Strategist/ Public School Parent

self

Dripping Springs, TX

Oppose any legislation that pulls additional funds from already underfunded public schools in Texas. Public Schools in Texas have been historically underfunded for decades and using underresourced and special needs families as the agenda to pass such heinous legislation is criminal.

Amy George

Myself

Lubbock, TX

As a former public school teacher I oppose the establishment of an education savings account program in Texas. Public schools in Texas should be fully funded. There is evidence that it has not been fully funded for many years. This bill will only make funding for public education decrease and hurt the most vulnerable children and families in Texas at risk.

James Doolittle

Self Retired

Galveston, TX

Please do NOT advance this weak attempt to give Billionaires & Millionaires taxpayers money. This will decimate our Rural school system. If you truly wish to help the education of Texas school children RAISE teachers salaries, hire more teachers & librarians!

Lori Logan

Self

San Antonio, TX

I don't have children or grandchildren. So why am I taking a stance on this bill? Because I want all Texas children to get a good education. I want to walk in to a grocery store where the cashier knows how to make change. I want to call a help desk and be understood and my problem solved. I want a society where we understand our history and role in the world. If only a few children receive a quality education, the working society will deteriorate and become dysfunctional.

Belinda Bennett

Self

Austin, TX

Hi y'all - I'm Belinda Bennett. I'm a concerned mom and a data engineer. But I think we've HAD plenty of extremely compelling data today. About how vouchers create worse outcomes and budget holes, not to mention that the private schools infrastructure is so far from being able to support any additional demand.

So instead I'll tell a tale. I'm FROM Midland Tx, where Timm Dunn, the billionaire behind vouchers, set up his school, Midland Classical Academy. I knew those kids. They had to take the GED because the school wasn't accredited. Not only that, they FAILED the GED multiple times. Because billionaires like Timm Dunn don't want to offer quality education, they want a complacent, uneducated proletariat. I want smart neighbors! I want open and free access to quality education for all Texas children, including my own children. Vouchers are throwing the baby out with the bath water. We need to support our students and not leave them high and dry to line the pockets of privatized education scams like Midland Classical Academy or Trump University.

I've seen the pro voucher "research". A pro voucher family member forwards it to me every two or three days. It's the most bombastic, cherry picked, misrepresentation of information. I use it in statistics classes to teach students how to spot bad research. Which is why quality public school education is so important!

So please, don't let Timm Dunn and his religious zealot revenge money scare you. Y'all are supposed to be representing the voices of Texans. Texans have voted against vouchers over and over, even in hyper conservative places like Midland. And it's not surprising! Midland has some STELLAR public schools. I'm so grateful I went through MISD and the University of Texas, and now I hold my own with my coworkers that have PhDs from MIT and Harvard and Stanford. I'm proud to be a Texas public school educated cutie pie, and I want that for the future of my own cutie pies!

Oscar Maldonado

Self - Construction Management

Boerne, TX

I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability. It's literally in the name, private schools are private.

michelle hall

Self

Willis, TX

No to this bill!

Kathy Day

Self

Van, TX

URGENT! ACT NOW THEN SHARE THIS POST!

Easy way to give comments without making a trip to Austin. This takes 2 minutes!!

Voucher bill being heard now!

Click and send:

<https://comments.house.texas.gov/home?c=c400>

Example you can copy and paste below!

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Samara Flener

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to private school vouchers and to advocate for full funding of Texas public schools and increasing per student funding to $1300. If Texas wants to lead in business and industry, it needs to invest in an educated workforce. Public schools are the bedrock of building the future of our state.

Alyssia Birnbaum

Self, parent

Spring, TX

I'm curious how many private schools within Texas specifically cater to children with learning disabilities that Mr. Buckley is referencing. Are there private schools that parents in all areas, even rural parts of Texas, can choose for their children with special needs? I have not found that to be the case for myself and I live in Klein ISD.

Scott Boone

self, engineer

Austin, TX

My name is Scott Boone. I have been a home owner in Austin, TX for over a decade, I am the parent of two children who go to public school, I am the son of two public educators, and I have built a successful career as an engineer after going to public schools. I strongly oppose school vouchers. I believe that the best way to ensure that all children in Texas receive the best education and job opportunities is to adequately fund our public schools. Vouchers take money away from public schools, which will make education worse because it will increase classroom sizes and reduce materials. It's fine that some parents may want to send their kids to private schools, but there is no reason that the government should give private schools more money. If vouchers go through I wouldn't be surprised if all of these greedy private schools raise their tuitions by whatever the voucher amount is. That would just mean worse education for public school students and the same for private schools - a lose/lose for children and Texas businesses who will have a less educated workforce. I ask that the committee please oppose this bill and stop private schools from stealing money from our great public education system. Thank you so much for your time and consideration.

Krystal Gonzalez

Self

Fort Worth, TX

No to HB3 by Buckley

Rose Marie Dillon

Myself

Pflugerville, TX

As a conservative homeschooling parent, I strongly oppose this bill. I've been very frustrated with Governor Abbot's campaign on social media that is trying to cause more of a rift between democrats and republicans. He constantly says this is an emergency but yall have had years to fix it. Why is it an emergency now?

I do not think a new agency should be created. That is creating more government not less government.

I do not think that $10,000 should be given to families who want to go to private school from tax money.

When we voted on the republican referendum, it talked about property tax money following the student. That is not what you are doing with this bill.

I also think our taxes will go up which is hard to take on this inflation economy as a homeowner.

Please do not pass this bill that is not improving education for the majority of Texans. It is very limited in what it is doing and who it is helping. Only 100,000 students of 5.5 million in public school and untold numbers in private / homeschooling.

We already have school choice. Our family has chosen to sacrifice things and not go on vacation and more so we can homeschool. School choice is there already.

Christine Payton

Self

Flower Mound, TX

I oppose Hb3. School vouchers are taxpayer-funded subsidies given to private schools and vendors without transparency and accountability for results.

Vote NO!

Beverly Sladek
self, retired ESL instructor
San Marcos, TX

As a native Texan, I oppose HB 3 and similar bills that shift money for public education to private schools. I share the historic skepticism of legislators who have represented rural areas in our state. They've known that strong local public schools are critical to maintaining viable communities across Texas. They've known that public schools need more state funding--not less--to attract and keep good, dedicated teachers who make public education work all over our state.

Now, politics have dictated the proposal of individual educational savings accounts (ESAs) and voucher-type use of them. This approach puts private schools that accept vouchers in competition with public schools for public funding. Proponents say that this competition will drive improvement of public schools. Opponents ask if private schools are up to the task if they provide the full range of services demanded of public schools. If we are to learn the reality of what takes place under these circumstances, then voucher legislation must create a level playing field and fair means of measurement and comparison.

To enable parents to make truly informed choices, voucher legislation should require that private schools that accept vouchers do the following:

- accept students with special needs and provide the same level of support required of public schools;
- meet the same standards of accountability and transparency as public schools;
- report and make available to the public their students' achievement as measured by the same testing instruments and procedures as required of public schools.

Furthermore, to enable Texas taxpayers to see how any funding provided by voucher legislation is spent, the voucher legislation should require TEA to conduct regular audits of private schools that accept vouchers and make the results readily available to the public. The reports should cover both appropriate use of all funding and compliance with laws and regulations in addition to stating clearly the total dollars that go to each private school and showing specifically how all funding is used.

As a mom, I can relate to the desire to support parental choice. But as a citizen and taxpayer, I call upon the Texas legislature to create responsible legislation that holds private schools that accept vouchers accountable and uses my tax dollars in the best way possible to support all our students.

Respectfully,
Beverly Sladek

Jennifer Kincaid

Self

Floresville, TX

School vouchers hurt Texas public schools because they direct funding away from an already critically underfunded system. Drain critical funding for Public Schools.

Vouchers drain additional resources from the public school system.

Texas public schools are funded based on student attendance, so each student who leaves the public school system takes crucial funding with them. This leaves schools with fewer resources and strains already tight budgets, making it harder to maintain quality education for remaining students.

Public funds should remain in the public school system that serves the vast majority of Texas students.

Financial Instability Seen in Other States.

States like Arizona, which implemented a universal voucher program, are now facing a severe budget crisis.

Importantly, nearly half of ESA voucher funding represents new costs due to applicants who were previously in private schools or homeschooled.

Uncertain Future Funding.

Texas may have a budget surplus now, but economic conditions fluctuate, and this surplus won't last indefinitely. Funding for ESAs in the future would likely compete with other state priorities, leaving public education funding at risk and creating financial uncertainty for both schools and students.

Additional reasons vouchers are bad for Texas:

Do not ensure accountability.

Vouchers send public dollars to private schools that are not accountable to the public for producing results.

Are a step backward in serving students with disabilities.

Over the past 30 years, federal and state laws have evolved to ensure students with disabilities receive a free, appropriate public education. Private schools are not required to provide special education services mandated by federal and state laws.

Violate separation of church and state.

The U.S. Constitution prohibits any government "establishment of religion." Tax dollars directed toward private schools of religious origin violates this principle.

The U.S. Constitution ensures the "free exercise of religion"; no government has proper authority to dictate a religious community's expression of faith. Regulation and oversight always accompany the allocation of public tax dollars, thus violating freedom of religion.

Parents already have "Choice."

Parents can already choose public school, charter school, home school, or private school for their children.

Provide private school choice for some, not all.

Vouchers do not address many needs of low-income, at-risk students such as transportation, free and reduced-priced lunches, textbooks and other instructional materials, assessment of special needs, access to additional remediation programs, and full cost of tuition.

Vouchers are disproportionately accessible to students living in urban areas due to limited access to private schools in rural Texas.

Private schools have a profit motive to admit students with the fewest educational challenges.

Alicia Kuhn
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Jessica Priemer
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Keeli Wilson
Kids in public schools
Lubbock, TX

I STRONGLY oppose this bill. Please vote no!

Roxanne Huckabee

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose you diverting public funds to private schools, no matter what you call it. I am a Texas voter and I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates, not divert funds to unaccountable private and religious schools. I know that virtually every other state that has created a voucher system with the limited guardrails you are proposing has seen a decimation of their public school systems and increasing burden to their state budgets. We don't want any of that here in Texas. Please fund our public schools and don't pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Sarah Adamson

Self -35 year career educator

Granbury, TX

Please do not approve this voucher proposal. Public education needs to be the first priority. Parents already have the choice to pick a school. Lower income and disabled students will not benefit from this proposal. Public schools need the money to improve and serve all students -which is their purpose.

I am a career educator with 5 grandchildren in public schools in Texas. Please help them by voting no tonight "big money" and special interests who do not want public education to succeed.

Mary Huschle

Self

Garland, TX

This is not in the best interest of Texas education. This is nothing more than a new way to segregate our public schools. Private schools do not have the same scrutiny as public schools. The potential for fraud is unmeasurable! If this passes it will benefit the wealth (who don't even need it). The public schools will suffer even more possibly never to recover. It is time we have term limits because public figures no longer represent the people but their political party.

Wendy Morgan

Self

GALVESTON, TX

Representatives,

I urge you to oppose school vouchers. They undermine Texas taxpayers by diverting public funds to unaccountable private schools, many of which lack oversight. Rural communities, where public schools are the backbone, will suffer the most with fewer resources and declining quality. Vouchers also expand government entitlement programs, increasing spending rather than promoting true fiscal conservatism. Please protect public education and reject this bill.

John Miller

LaPoynor

Malakoff, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Brooke McAdams

Self

Houston, TX

I oppose Bill HB 3. I do not want my tax dollars to be diverted from public schools to help pay for the voucher program. I do not want to send my kids to private school and even if I did, the vouchers are not enough to pay private school tuition in the city of Houston. I ask my representatives to vote no against HB 3 and not devalue our public education system.

Diane Keller

Self homemaker

KINGWOOD, TX

I am against vouchers. Public money should stay in public schools. If we would fully fund public schools they wouldn't be what Abbott considers "failing." He is the one who has refused to fund them. He has created the situation not the public, not the teachers, not the school districts.

Lisa Elliott

Self, Retired Teacher

CANTON, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Ana-Alicia Horn

Self - Director/Software Comp

Mansfield, TX

Committee members, I'm writing you today to ask you to fund public schools FIRST. Public schools across Texas, including my district, Mansfield ISD, are in desperate need of a $1,340 increase in the Basic Allotment. The State must prioritize getting public education back on track and ensuring our school districts are fiscally sound. Please vote NO on any Educational Savings Account legislation. Public funds should be kept in public schools. The most good can be done by fully funding public education.

Jerry McSherry

Self

Ozona, TX

Please put school choice ie. vouchers to a vote. The people need to decide not representation that could have been swayed by millions of dollars in donations.

Bonnie Adler
Self
San Antonio, TX

I urge you to put the well being of every Texas child above political power. These vouchers do not have support among Texas residents. You open up Facebook for two seconds and you see that. Greg Abbott is lying when he says that these vouchers won't defend public education. He's wrong. We've had a 32 billion dollar deficit because he's held that money hostage due to opposition to vouchers. Since the election, he has the people that needs to pass this legislation. I again urge you not to. If we don't fully invest in our public school, children from all socioeconomic backgrounds will suffer. Attendance will falter and schools will lose valuable staff. If we're saying that parents need choice because public schools are failing them, INVEST and have them run at full capacity so not one school is better than the other. That no matter where you live, each and every child will be provided the best environment to learn in. I can't believe we're even having this conversation but here we are. You know that this program doesn't make sense. In other states that have tried it, they've most that two thirds of the population benefiting from the programs already attend private school. Make that make sense. If private schools are not held to the same accountability as public schools, they should not receive public funds. End of story.

Miguel Larsen
Self Daingerfield, TX

I wish to comment against the bill.

Further, it's my belief the decision to use public money as a subsidy for K-12 private education rests squarely with the voters. As such, any decision to implement the use of said funds should be presented to the citizens of Texas in the form of a House Joint Resolution and a constitutional amendment vote.

Thank you.

Leslie Perkins
Self
Brownwood, TX

I am strongly opposed to public funds going to education savings accounts. I want to see our public schools given adequate funding from state dollars before money is pulled away to cater to such a small number of people. I reside in a rural area, as many Texans do, and this education savings account will not provide opportunities for those of us in rural communities. In rural areas, we depend heavily on public schools to teach our children. Any funding for these savings accounts could be used to make our public schools better funded and able to provide more services to the children in our state.

Erin Petkovich

Self, parent

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents. As the parent of a child with disabilities, I strongly oppose public money going to schools that wouldn't accept my son.

Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing, attendance and accountability requirements as public schools.

We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Erin Petkovich

Elizabeth Rosenthal, Dr

UT dell

Austin, TX

No thank you. I have two children and do not support private school vouchers even though I am sending my kids to private school. Public school is essential to communities and reducing funding in order to divert funds toward private education is not in line with our community values

Sylvia De La Garza

Self

Plainview, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

“I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund

Kerry Lemon

Self - Educator

Nacogdoches, TX

I am asking for a No vote on this bill. I do not feel that this bill supports public education which is one of the responsibilities of our government and a right for the people to receive an equal and comprehensive educational opportunity. This bill will also make it more difficult for children with special needs to receive the best services available to them. Vote No on HB3!

Kristen Thompson
Self / Educator
Canton, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Teri Pruitt
Self
Canton, TX

URGENT! ACT NOW THEN SHARE THIS POST!

Easy way to give comments without making a trip to Austin. This takes 2 minutes!!

Voucher bill being heard now!

Click and send:

<https://comments.house.texas.gov/home?c=c400>

Example you can copy and paste below!

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Allison Dwyer Forward ATX
Austin, TX

Texans do not want vouchers. We want strong public education. If you pass school choice you will give a few what you want but most will be left behind.

Trenton Fletcher
Self / CPA
Mansfield, TX

I oppose ESAs/School vouchers to fully fund public schools

Jessika Easterling

Self -SAHM

Orange, TX

This bill will destroy low income and working class communities especially in rural areas. I do not know a single person who approves of this bill. Please say no to HB3

Teri Stewart

Self

Austin, TX

I want to support public schools. I do not support vouchers.

Dustin Ellsworth

Self

Texas City, TX

School vouchers are the biggest scam to take away education from people and give money to the rich. This is just another way to siphon more money from us and give it to your billionaire buddies. Cut it out. Take care of your constituents make better choices live like Jesus would

Andrea Morgan

self Operations Manager

Lago Vista, TX

Please do not pass this bill! My three kids go to a hybrid homeschool program so we fit under the bucket of private (accredited) school which also has a component of homeschooling. Public school failed my autism spectrum son so we left. I'm a huge fan of school choice and support property tax deductions for families that choose private or homeschooling over their local schools. This bill in its present form has too many strings attached. No one I know in the private, homeschool, or public school world supports this bill. It doesn't benefit Texas families as a whole but rather caters to a small percentage of students yet also comes with requirements that may eventually make it much more difficult for private and homeschool families (since homeschool families are viewed as their own private school.) This bill seems to benefit school curriculum and service vendors instead of families. Please listen to your constituents and do not pass this bill.

Tiffany Mueller

Self - Hair Designer

N Richlnd Hls, TX

Texas children deserve better. This will take so much away from a demographic that needs so much more.

Candace Wilkins

Shallowater ISD

Shallowater, TX

As a High School Principal in Public education I do NOT support school vouchers. Vouchers are NOT supported by Texans and is NOT good use of our tax dollars. Students have choice now where they attend school. If they chose private education they pay. Private education is NOT held to the same standards as public education. SAY NO TO VOUCHERS and support our public education kids, staff, and communities!

Leo Young

Self

Buchanan Dam, TX

Vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy.

Jolie Willis

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

D'Lisia Bergeron, Mrs.

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
 - 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
 - 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
 - 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
- Thank you!

Jennifer Giles

Self

Grapevine, TX

Fully fund public education!

Peggy Herman

Self

Cibolo, TX

Our Texas children deserve a better PUBLIC EDUCATION. Segregating rich from poor is just as evil as previous segregation. Each and every child should have a state-funded, equal education. Rural kids, suburban and urban should all get the same, quality PUBLIC education. Dividing this into some sort of rich get richer scheme leaves behind the most vulnerable. It's been proven (in Arizona) that the cost of vouchers explodes and doesn't see the whole population uplifted. You guys need to seriously stop taking your education schemes being advocated by Wilkes and Dunn and Abbott and listen to teachers and school administrators and parents from all corners of Texas. We are saying NO TO VOUCHERS. And YES to quality funding of education (meaning fund schools, teachers, and staff). The damage done over the last 6-7 years is atrocious. We need to catch up. We need innovation not bigger football fields. We need to source the brightest and most dedicated educators. That is where our money should go, not to parents. Your plan does not address at all the issues you have created. You virtually defunded education with the tiff amongst yourselves, cannibalizing your own representatives; delaying raises and letting our schools fall farther behind.

Enough! Pay better. Quit the sledge hammer approach. Let educators do their jobs. Get rid of Miles in Houston (and get your noses straightened out of fumbling with education and return it to the educators.). I know you can do this. Get politics out of education. Our country needs Texas to be part of the solution and education is the key. Vouchers cause more problems for us, the working class they are less regulated, curriculum is shady, little accountability and again, it is segregation. Vote NO to vouchers!

Cecil Allee
Self Meadowlakes, TX

Fully fund public schools. Tax dollars should not fund private schools.

Kelly Beeler
Public Education
Weatherford, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS!!!!

Jo Lynn Dean
Self/retired
Rochelle, TX

Please vote where public school funding not decreased. Most Texas children are educated (and educated WELL in public schools!!)

Christina Landess
Self
McKinney, TX

Say NO to vouchers!!!

Donna Pfeffer
self
Austin, TX

Public dollars should go to public schools. Setting aside public dollars for private schools provides no choice for families that aren't already choosing private school. Private schools are also unregulated and do not have to allow all students to attend.

Judy Vasquez
Self
Lantana, TX

I am against HB 3, against vouchers, and I want our public schools fully funded.

Earl Bilbrey
Self/ Realtor
Lipan, TX

Governor Abbott

First off I want to thank you and your great staff for your continued hard work keeping Texas as the greatest state in the United States. With that being said. I would like to contribute my direct thoughts on Bill HB 3.

Though good for many of our more urban school districts. I whole heartedly believe this does not help in any way our more rural public school districts. Texas has been the #1 state for move ins the last 4 yrs. While many of these folks are coming to Texas for our beliefs and great benefits. They are settling into our more urban areas. Where we have better options for mass transit, schools etc.

meanwhile as we should. The folks who's sold their homes in the urban areas are looking for greener pastures and school districts where the beliefs of good wholesome education is still followed. Where kids can get out and enjoy the comfort of being outside without having to worry about such things as, fast moving traffic, unknown individuals coming into neighborhoods with bad intentions, better way of life for the family. More land to get outside and be a kid. Have the option of smaller classrooms with a teacher that you can call on her cell at anytime you discuss your child's progress. The enjoyment of getting to see your child play a sport they love. Versus some of the larger urban schools where your child may never see the field during games because of the amount of players on the sidelines. There are just so many benefits to moving to some of the more rural areas just outside of the major cities. Yes parents choose to drive over a hr one way to work. But the quality of family life far exceeds the sacrifice of those hrs in the car driving into the city to work.

Then the other side of the coin is this. Over crowded rural schools. Whose growth was so great and quick that they don't have to budgets to accommodate the building and teachers they need to keep providing that great experience. Yes you can argue that with growth comes a better tax base. But unfortunately when our rural schools have tax cap and the money coming in from taxes far exceeds our cap and goes back to the state versus stays in the district. We have a problem. Our public rural schools are strained. Yes our teachers need a raise. I guarantee they would rather have more money in the school district to better service their students. Our rural public schools are hurting. The bill does not address our rural public schools. I could go on about how this only helps families in urban based areas. I could go on how the money will get misused by people who don't care about their children's education. But I don't have that many characters to do so. We need more focus on Texas Rural Public Schools. We need relief for our Rural Public Texas Schools. Their is no greater gift than our children. Especially getting to see a young kid get a chance to play a sport they love. Or get to use their library for the first time. We need help, we don't need vouchers. Thank you

Nicole Burns
Self
Flower Mound, TX

Tax payer dollars should fund public schools, and not be redirected to private and religious institutions that lack public accountability. 5.5 million Texas students will be severely impacted because of this bill. Public schools should be the priority of our state government.

Allison McGuire
Self/retired
Ozona, TX

I adamantly oppose any PUBLIC school funds being used for PRIVATE schools. I live in a rural area with mostly low income families. The nearest private school is a 165 mile round trip. Fully fund our public schools and leave private schools out of it!

Randi Koenig

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Jennifer Drake

Self, CPA

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.
This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Jenn Drake

Mana Anderson

Myself

Houston, TX

I am voicing my opposition to HB3

Lisa Brantley
Self
Kerrville, TX

School vouchers and the related budget cuts to public schools will devastate the rural areas where there are little or no private school options. Their budgets are already too tight and they not only cannot afford to lose any funding, they desperately need it increased. Things like bus service to and from farms and ranches are essential to working parents. You have never been interested in losing rural voters previously. Why now?

Jennifer Center
Self
Copperas, TX

In my little city there is no access to private schools. I am like many Texas in rural areas that don't have access to private education. This bill will only benefit big cities. I urge my representative to not vote for this bill. We are a small town with mostly military families with limited income. This bill would hurt military families.

Tim Church
Self, customer service
Austin, TX

I'm a Texas resident who opposes vouchers as taxpayer money should go to fully fund Texas teachers and students. My partner works in a school district and vouchers would erase the funding for their retirement as well as many public school teachers who are already underpaid and overworked and spend their own money on school supplies. Send more funding to public schools instead!

Courtney McKay
Self / CPA
Arlington, TX

Vote NO on vouchers! Public money should support public schools. Private schools do not have to accept all students, do not have to follow state mandates, and do not have to provide special education services. The vouchers are also not sufficient to enable low income families to afford private schools - especially when the good ones raise tuition in response to vouchers. The public does not want or need vouchers. It has not worked in other states and won't work here. Do what's right for your constituents, not your political donors.

Donna Birdsong
Self
Austin, TX

School vouchers are one of the most ridiculous ideas ever. I taught for 26 years and public schools need all of the tax funding possible in order to make our public educated and accountable for a better populace. Money for them would benefit all of the nation. School vouchers are simply another way for the wealthier to take funds away from those who need it most.

Julie Etter
Self
Dallas, TX
NO to vouchers

Kathleen McCullough
self, public school teacher
Olton, TX

To the House Public Committee, I urge you to vote no on House Bill 3, the establishment of an education savings account program.

Firstly, please let me share what public schools provide, particularly rural public schools. I am a public high school teacher in Olton. As a rural, Title I school, the loss of taxpayer money would hurt schools like mine the most. Most rural schools in Texas have no alternative private school nearby to even choose from, so this bill would not create "choice" for our students any more than completely moving to another city would. The school is the heart and soul of our community. Within these walls, we provide two daily meals for our students, many of whom would otherwise not eat at home. We also have a service called Snack Packs for Kids, which provides much needed healthy snacks and food for our at-risk students over the weekend and long breaks. During Covid, we provided remote hot spots around town for our students to safely access internet, because many of our students do not have Wi-Fi access at home. Our world today runs on the internet, and many of our students stay connected to the world through use of the school issued Chromebooks and internet services. This especially helps with our seniors who are applying for colleges and scholarship opportunities, many of whom cannot access these websites at home. We desperately need public funds to continue to provide electronic services to our students. Right now, our district is in need of new Chromebooks, but because of this house bill, we are facing the possibility of losing more funds if our students choose to attend the private school 25 miles away. Our school provides safety and security for many of our students who come from dysfunctional or even unsafe home situations. Kids today face a myriad of issues, and counseling services aren't available for most. Many families struggle with putting food on the table, let alone being able to afford counseling services to their troubled teen. This is where the public school system yet again steps in. Many of our kids benefit from the guidance and care provided by our school counselors. They also have the watchful eyes of their caring teachers checking into their lives every single day. I wear many hats as a teacher, and counselor is one of them. I also happen to have a masters of arts degree in counseling, which brings me to my next point: Governor Abbott has posted frequently on Facebook saying that students will receive a better education from private schools, yet I want to say, we have some very well educated teachers out here in the public school system working hard everyday to become even better educators. I have a degree in English Languages and Literature along with my masters. My students leave my classroom prepared for college, and I am proud of that. I will end with this: public tax dollars should only be used for public services, not private schools. Public funds need to back public schools, not private schools.

Brittany Thomas
Self
Lewisville, TX

I live in Lewisville isd. Our district provides CTE courses for free in high school. Our district has all levels of classes for students with disabilities. Our district has open enrollment. Our district has a collegiate academy for high school and offers dual credit classes. We are doing all this we are providing all this even with a limited budget since 2019. We can only imagine what we would be able to do for our students if we were fully funded.

Kaitlin Jeffrey
Self/ public educator
Post, TX

As a public educator and a parent of children in a public school, I see first hand how public educators take what they are given and turn it into great things. Living in rural Texas, we don't have all the "choices" that are more available in other areas. The closest charter or private school is over 45 miles away. Parents in our community want more for our kids, but we want it here in our town from our current ISD. They just can't do more due to the lack of funding and the hinderances that are placed on them from bills like this. The issues facing public education are vast, but the fear is that we cripple the system to a point that it truly does fail and it will leave us with a functionally illiterate society that will in turn cripple our states workforce. We have to do better.

Brandy Wood
Brandy Wood, Olton ISD
Plainview, TX

I am strongly opposed to this bill. I value public education and have been in it for 32 years. I feel parents already have a choice and taking money from public schools would actually have the adverse effect and limit many students to no choice. Please do not pass this bill.

Julianna Russell
My grandson
Lufkin, TX

I'm against school vouchers!!! Don't take from the public school my grandson depends on. He is a G&T program kid with severe ADHD and no private school would be required to meet his needs. Don't further undermine the quality of public school education in Texas for kids like my Connor!

Sincerely,

Julianna Russell

Autumn Hardin, Dr.
Self
Beaumont, TX

HB3 would unfairly destroy our already crippled public education system. All students deserve quality education!

Kelley Kilgore
Self
Austin, TX
No to HB3!

Simone Jack
Self
Kempner, TX

Every child deserves the right to a quality public education that is fair and empowering, regardless of their background, location, religion, or family's income. Our public schools must be fully funded and equipped to help all students succeed. Public funding should directly support public education, benefiting every child, not diverted to exclusive programs serving only select groups. Voucher systems predominantly benefit affluent families who already have resources for private education, disproportionately disadvantaging families in working-class and rural areas. Students with disabilities risk losing critical protections provided under state and federal laws when utilizing voucher programs to attend private schools. Public schools rely on adequate funding to serve all students effectively. Texas communities, especially in rural areas, often rely solely on public schools, which cannot afford further cuts. We urge our lawmakers to firmly oppose any policies that threaten the stability and quality of public education by redirecting funds away from public schools.

Becky Koehler
Self - Teacher/Certified Librarian
Lubbock, TX

I have been a public education teacher for the past 25 years. I am so disappointed in the state of Texas for pushing this voucher system when we have excellent public schools that you could support now. We have underpaid teachers, and even this supposed raise leaves many of them out, such as librarians and counselors. This bill will continue to leave many of our underprivileged students out of an excellent education because they will not be able to afford the part of the private school tuition that is not funded by the voucher. I feel that my job is in jeopardy for no good reason. I want our state government to support the millions of students we already have in public school and the teachers who work tirelessly to make their education the best that it can be.

Jennifer Donato
Pleasanton ISD
Poteet, TX

School choice already exists.

Sarah Murphy, N/A
Self
Pearland, TX

For the most part, we have school choice now. This is a school voucher program that will only benefit those that want to go to private schools. What about the public schools? Don't abandon those students. This is a money grab and I am not for school vouchers. Make our public school stronger and don't abandon them.

Meagan Butler
Self, Tech Executive
Austin, TX

I am writing to express my deep concern about HB3 and the impact that it will have on our children, as well as the business sector of Texas.

Texas already woefully underfunds public education, and because of this, we are missing out on the intellectual growth of our children. If we want to remain competitive in the emerging technology industry, we must put more funding into public education. If we want to recruit the brightest minds to come to our state, we need to be able to educate their children.

I am a tech executive and former public school teacher. Vote No on this harmful bill that seeks to dismantle public education and makes no business sense.

Laura Modesto
Self
austin, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 because it diverts critical public funds away from Texas public schools and funnels them into unregulated private institutions. This bill threatens the quality and accessibility of public education, particularly in rural communities that rely on public schools.

Texas is already facing a teacher shortage crisis, and underfunding public schools will only make it worse. Teachers are leaving the profession due to low pay and lack of support, and instead of addressing this, HB3 worsens the situation by draining resources from schools that need them most.

Public education is also a key driver of Texas' economy. Major employers choose where to invest based on the availability of a well-educated workforce. Without strong public schools, Texas risks losing out on business investments and high-paying jobs. 77% of Texas voters support increased funding for public schools, and up to 94% favor investments in teacher salaries, tutoring, and mental health services. Lawmakers should listen to their constituents and prioritize funding for public education.

I urge you to reject HB3 and instead invest in strengthening public schools, supporting teachers, and ensuring Texas remains a competitive, thriving economy for future generations.

Andrea Ingersoll Totte

Self

Cedar Park, TX

Voucher programs take public funds and give them to private school organizations which have the ability to filter which students they accept and will not accept. Studies show this is detrimental to the academic and social development of children, who benefit from diverse environments where they learn to get along with people from backgrounds that differ from their own. Texas used to be a beacon in the world of education, my sisters who are teachers often used to emulate practices from Texas public schools in their classrooms. This is no longer the case as their funding and position has eroded over the past 30 years. Please don't let Texas public schools fall further behind the rest of the country than we already have. Everyone in America has a right to a solid free education, as this is how we invest in our future. $1 of investment in public education results in an average of $26 in return of investment in GDP. Invest in our future. Thank you.

Janice Francis

Self, a retired teacher

Perrin, TX

Vote NO on vouchers for educational choice. Public funds should never be used for private schools! I do not know of anyone who supports this bill. Do you represent the people or not?

Philip Wilhelm

Self

Austin, TX

No to this bill.

Arnetta Murray

Self

Iowa Colony, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed establishment of an Education Savings Account (ESA) program in Texas. While I fully support efforts to improve educational opportunities for all students, I am deeply concerned that this program will divert much-needed public funds away from our public schools, ultimately weakening the education system that serves the majority of Texas students.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, providing equitable education to students of all backgrounds, abilities, and socioeconomic statuses. By redirecting taxpayer dollars to private and unregulated educational institutions through ESAs, we risk undermining the resources that our public schools desperately need for teacher salaries, special education programs, classroom resources, and infrastructure improvements.

Additionally, ESA programs lack sufficient oversight and accountability, raising concerns about potential misuse of funds and the quality of education provided in non-public settings. Our focus should remain on strengthening public schools by investing in educators, expanding resources, and ensuring that every child, regardless of their zip code, has access to a high-quality education.

I urge you to oppose the establishment of an ESA program and instead support policies that reinforce and enhance Texas public schools. Our students, teachers, and communities deserve a fully funded, equitable, and accountable education system that serves everyone fairly.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Brian Jacobson, HMCS(FMF/SW) USN, Ret

Self

Seguin, TX

As a constituent and tax payer I urge the committee to stop this Bill as it will only harm our children's lives and education. Dumping our nation's student from public education to private schools does nothing to solve the issues of our drastically declining education levels in the country nor the quality of standards. By dumping it all over to private schools we are only going to overpopulate the private institution that will result in the same issues we have now of inadequate student to teacher ratios, and decreased benchmark standards in order to save money at the Federal level. We as taxpayers need to know more about this voucher plan because although it's advertised that these vouchers will get us into better schools with no real increase to our taxes or out of pocket expenses, I know the truth. I have had children in private schools and things like uniforms are costly, as well as, the costs of expanding campus to accommodate the proposed student influx, who is going to pay for that? The private schools are not going to do it, we as parents and taxpayers will have to pay the bill somehow.

We already have great schools and amazing teachers dedicated to inspiring and encouraging our youth in the public sector so why change that when all they need is support from our government, not the abandonment for private schools. This is not a viable plan for the future of our children, please stop this bill now.

Colleen Blume

self/teacher

lewisville, TX

I am against vouchers. I want our public schools fully funded. Come on, listen to the people that elected you!

Misty Henderson, Mrs.

Self

Austin, TX

Texas HB 3, which proposes sweeping changes to the state's education system, should be opposed for several reasons. The bill prioritizes privatization and voucher programs, which could divert crucial funding from public schools, further exacerbating the inequities faced by disadvantaged students. Instead of strengthening public education and providing resources to improve schools, HB 3 seems more focused on fostering a market-driven approach that undermines the principle of equal access to quality education for all. Additionally, the bill fails to address the systemic issues within public schools, such as insufficient teacher pay, overcrowded classrooms, and lack of resources. By shifting attention away from supporting public schools, HB 3 could ultimately harm the students who rely the most on robust, well-funded education systems.

Heather Herrington, Dr.

Self

Austin, TX

Tax dollars should go to public schools which serve ALL students and NOT to private schools that are not held to the same standards.

Kara Newcomb
Self, Accountant
Slaton, TX

As a parent to three children in public school, a taxpayer, and a leader in a small community, I strongly oppose establishing an education savings account program. There has not been any proposed accountability for private schools or homeschools to ensure that taxpayer dollars that will be spent appropriately. Currently public school systems have to meet safety requirements, testing requirements, submit financial reports, publicly disclose decisions made by the board including tax rates, and a number of other items to taxpayers, TEA, and the State of Texas. Redirecting public funds to entities that do not have the same requirements is the equivalent of embezzling. Tax rates will likely need to increase to cover the funding the public schools will lose, but then the State of Texas will come back in and cap tax rates. You are putting public schools that currently struggle with hiring and retaining good quality teachers in a lose/lose situation. The proposed increases to public funding do not sufficiently offset the cost of an education savings account program.

When explaining education savings account programs to people, it sounds ridiculous. Why would a corporate store like Walmart, Target, etc, be required to offer a gift card for their competitor? That is what an education savings account program is when you break it down.

Please do the right thing and do not approve this bill.

Angela Groves
self
Fort Worth, TX

Sec. 7. APPROPRIATIONS FOR SECTARIAN PURPOSES. No money shall be appropriated, or drawn from the Treasury for the benefit of any sect, or religious society, theological or religious seminary; nor shall property belonging to the State be appropriated for any such purposes. (Feb. 15, 1876 .)

oppose vouchers and HB3

Karen Linnartz
Self
San Antonio, TX

Please listen to the public, they do NOT support vouchers, school saving plans or whatever you want to call it. We want funding based on enrollment. Stop wasting time and start funding public education. Move Texas students to the top of the priority list. Show that you are listening to your constituents and end this nonsense

Laura Jouret
Self - Lactation Consultant/mother
Lorena, TX

Vouchers are not the way to help education. It will take money from public schools and they need more money. Vouchers seem like a good idea on paper but it's only going to give money back to privileged people that are already sending their kids to private school. Texas public schools need more resources to care for these kids. All kids school be able to have free and healthy meals at school, no matter their financial situation. Teachers need to be paid more! Vouchers will kill public schools!

Betina Ramos
Self
Victoria, TX

I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability.

Sheila Rothe

self--retired teacher--part time teacher at private school

D'Hanis, TX

Please do not vote for this bill. I do not think it will benefit private or public schools.

Jennifer Jones

Self

Diana, TX

I am a career and technical educator in rural North East Texas. HB3 could be detrimental to a small district like mine who relies so heavily on state funding. We are barely getting by as is. Any further cuts could be the end of my district altogether. The county in which I live in does not have a private school anywhere. Meaning, students may not use the vouchers, but we will still lose funding. We also serve several students with mental and physical disabilities that will suffer if our district has to close its doors. As a CTE teacher, my abilities to find a job in private schools is next to non existent. Most private schools do not offer career prep, so if I were to continue in education, I would be forced to switch to a subject that is outside my area of expertise. I can't see how vouchers benefit anyone, except for the few individuals who pocket off private education. Public school is a wonderful thing and should be supported by the state, not punished and stripped from. Please vote NO on HB3.

Trish Garcia-King

Self/Teacher

Midlothian, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Tiffany Jones

Self

Bridge City, TX

The definition of a private school vs a public school is one does not have government funding and the other is funded by the government. That is pretty simple. These vouchers will kill public school. If there is money for this voucher program, give it to public schools to make them stronger. Raise teacher pay! Vote NO on Vouchers! Texans do not want this!

Jennifer Johnson

Retired educator

Wills Point, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Kathleen Fischer

Self

Dallas, TX

Passing Voucher system may benefit some kids in Texas. But public education is about educating ALL kids to create a stronger state. A voucher system is a terrible idea as it disadvantages the already-disadvantaged by gutting our public education system. Vote against it

Christine Smikal

Self

Dayton, TX

I do not my tax money going to unregulated schools. Passing the school voucher bill or school choice bill will not help the low income students to have a better education. Most will still not be able to afford the private schools. It will however promote inadequate private schools to be started so people can cash in on the money that will be given to unmonitored schools. I am shocked at the billion dollars that is available to fund these bill and yet there are schools that could use money to have better programs.

As a teacher I have seen less funding available over the years for Career and Technology programs, which produces student that are ready to work with certifications at graduation.

Why is the money not being invested to fix the current public system that is available to all?

Robyn Hadley, Mrs.

Self

Austin, TX

Public funds belong in public schools, as spelled out in the Texas Constitution.

Michael Conti

Self

Austin, TX

I am urging the committee to strongly oppose HB3. Free public education is absolutely foundational to democracy. In a state that already struggles to fund education, HB3 funnels taxpayer money away from our public schools to private institutions that can pick and choose their locations and students, leaving behind kids and communities in both big cities and rural counties.

Please stand with parents, students, teachers, and communities throughout the state in standing against this cash grab that's stealing the promise of public education. Please oppose HB3.

Lori Laynes
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Lori Laynes

Christine Celio
Self, advanced practice nurse
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers that ultimately take resources away from public education and makes our community weaker and more segregated. Strong, well-resourced, and well attended public schools are essential to having well educated citizens. I implore you to vote against school vouchers because they destabilize our public school system.

Renee Fernandes
Self, business owner
Highland Village, TX

PLEASE FULLY FUND PUBLIC EDUCATION. It's not hard. It's important for the health of our state. I have 2 children in high school in Flower Mound TX and we started them at a private STEM school. My son lasted 2 years and my daughter 1 before I realized the teachers were not qualified. There was no training and soooo many serious problems in the classroom with discipline and learning. We pulled them out of that school and enrolled them in the public schools because our district is amazing. The opportunities they have to learn and grow are unrivaled! They went through a dual language program from K-8th grade. They are part of an amazing, very successful marching band that can and never will happen at a private school. Yet as funding is cut, these programs are in jeopardy. Schools are closing. While I very much appreciate the raises for our teachers, more needs to be done. We are talking about MILLIONS of children in our state. PLEASE FULLY FUND PUBLIC EDUCATION. Don't let Abbott and his wife- who has a huge stake in a private school- run you over. Help ALL our kids. FUND PUBLIC EDUCATION. Thanks for listening.

Rachel Aragon, Public School Teacher

Self

Amarillo, TX

Public schools have been facing the same inflation as the rest of the United States. The voucher system is not going to help public schools! Private schools are not held to the same standards as public schools are. Private schools do not require teachers to have certificates. Private schools do not have to follow the same state mandates or curriculum. But yet this HB wants to give them MORE money than public schools. Public schools need funding to make education better. Public school teachers need to be paid better so we can keep great teachers.

Rebecca Jefferson

Self

LUBBOCK, TX

I am AGAINST vouchers. I believe public monies should be used for public education. Public schools benefit the largest portion of society and therefore should be supported fully.

Megan Stuart

Self & Children

Houston, TX

Support public schools & education. Vote NO for voucher programs

Morgan Salari

self

Austin, TX

Texas HB 3, which proposes sweeping changes to the state's education system, should be opposed for several reasons. The bill prioritizes privatization and voucher programs, which could divert crucial funding from public schools, further exacerbating the inequities faced by disadvantaged students. Instead of strengthening public education and providing resources to improve schools, HB 3 seems more focused on fostering a market-driven approach that undermines the principle of equal access to quality education for all. Additionally, the bill fails to address the systemic issues within public schools, such as insufficient teacher pay, overcrowded classrooms, and lack of resources. By shifting attention away from supporting public schools, HB 3 could ultimately harm the students who rely the most on robust, well-funded education systems.

Melisa Markman

Self

Austin, TX

Several organizations have been providing members of the Education Committee with accurate data for several years, and this session is no different. HB3 is detrimental to Texas students. If you're going to support it, please be honest in your support and stop telling your constituents it's good for Texas. A struggling public education system is not in the best interest of the state, and vouchers and ed savings accounts take much needed funding away from the 90% of Texas students and families who will continue in the public education system and 100% of Texans who all rely on public education regardless of whether they have children enrolled in a Texas ISD or not. Private and charter schools cannot fill the diverse needs of Texas students like a well-funded public education system can. If you are genuinely confused by the information coming from the Governor's office which states the opposite, please refer to the data provided to you by any of the organizations that have been visiting your offices opposing vouchers and education savings accounts for several sessions. Thank you.

Annalie Grubbs

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Annalie Grubbs

Grace Mancilla, Mrs.

Self

Palestine, TX

Please stop vouchers. The majority of Texans are against vouchers and our representatives are not listening to us. Save our public schools and vote No.

Mary Fried, Ms

Self

Houston, TX

Citizens have the right to send their child to private school. But Vouchers are a give away to wealthy parents who already have their child in private school. Many counties in Texas don't even have a private school to go to. Taking money out of the education budget for this is not helpful and is unethical to present it as a "choice "

Henry Ho

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

Dawn Coker

Self - 2nd grade public school teacher

Lewisville, TX

Private schools should be faced with the same conditions we have in public schools - they must accept all students, provide services that they need, have certified teachers and provide transportation. Texas needs to fund education by enrollment NOT attendance!

Jeanne Connell

Self

Austin, TX

I am against this voucher bill . The majority of Texans are against this bill. Yet you are trying to ram it down our throats under pressure from the governor and special interests.

I believe good quality public school education is essential to providing opportunity for all Texas citizens and building a stronger, better educated citizenry which lifts us all up. This bill will hurt public schools. Texas has been failing students and teachers for decades and our education ranking vs other states shows that. In such a wealthy state that is shameful.

The answer is to support public schools and public school teachers, not to use taxpayer money for a scam that will support private and religious schools and benefit the few, not the many. We can do much better.

Beth Nepl

Beth Nepl

Grapevine, TX

Do not pass the Public Education Bill. Keyfunds in our public schools. The wealthy do not need subsidies for private education.

C.K. Christensen

Self

Tomball, TX

Please do not pass the voucher bill. This will detrimental to not only my own child who goes to an already underfunded school and also receives speech therapy services, but for all children who do not come from wealth. My child deserves to have a quality education- all children do. And vouchers will unfairly take funding away from public schools that need it. If someone is able to pay 5-10k a year along with the help of a voucher, to send their kids to a private school then they DO NOT NEED THE MONEY FROM THE VOUCHER. Most Texans live paycheck to paycheck, with no disposable income, so no matter how much money is "given" via vouchers my child, nor any child in my ENTIRE NEIGHBORHOOD would be able to go to private school. Instead these children who come from poverty, broken homes, have disabled parents (such as myself) and one income households (such as ours) are working so hard to put food on the table and provide for our children, and now our children will also have funding pulled from their school and given to private schools? Make it make sense! Every single child deserves a quality education. Disabled, poor, special needs, etc. VOUCHERS ARE WELFARE FOR THE WEALTHY THAT DO NOT NEED THE FINANCIAL HELP. Our schools are already struggling. My child's teachers have to buy paper and pencils for their own classroom! Teachers are already overworked and underpaid. Not only that but there is a severe lack of substitutes, so if my child's teacher is absent there is no sub for the class. Instead her class is divided into groups of 3 and sent to various other classrooms which disturbs everyone's learning. We need to work on these problems in our public schools before giving out vouchers for private schools. My child also receives speech therapy through school. She has been in speech therapy since she was 2. She is now 10. Without speech therapy she would not be where she is today. We work hard with her at home, but the speech therapists at her school have really helped her come out of her shell and be more confident in her speaking. Pulling funding will mean that children who need speech therapy such as my own and others and other special education needs will be even more underfunded than they already are. Please, I am begging you to not pass the voucher bill. Every child deserves a QUALITY PUBLIC EDUCATION. Please do not allow public school funding to go towards private school vouchers. It would truly be detrimental to my child and most children in Texas. Most people will not be able to use the vouchers, because we simply don't have the extra income to cover the test of private tuition. Also most private schools are Christian-based. Not everyone is Christian. Please take into consideration all of the above and say NO to vouchers. Instead put that money into our struggling public schools that so desperately need it. Do the right thing. Please. Thank you.

Judith Heike

Self

Dallas, TX

I believe this will be detrimental to our public school system as well as our community connections. The only way to lift all Texans is to continue to fund and improve our public schools. Please support our teachers, children, schools and communities and vote no!

Ronda Porter
Red Oak High School
Red Oak, TX

This bill will destroy our public education system and only be a benefit to those who are already attending private schools. Also, if they get tax payer money they should have the Sam mandates and testing requirements as public schools.

Sarah Contreras
Self
Lubbock, TX

I live in Lubbock and send both of my elementary aged children to private school. I am employed full-time, I own my home (and pay taxes into our local public schools), and I am a single parent. I would personally benefit greatly from the school voucher program, however I am GREATLY opposed to it. Government money does not belong in private schools, and our public schools need and deserve financial priority. The flimsy benefits being pitched by our local and state officials are unconvincing, and quite frankly insulting. We see the real motives behind this choice. NO SCHOOL VOUCHERS

Jeremy Brouse
Self cabinet maker
Abilene, TX

This doesn't help rural Texas. Only big cities like Austin and Dallas. Let's help all of our public schools not just some.

Victoria Falcon
self
San Antonio, TX

"Hi, my name is Victoria, and I'm a constituent from San Antonio. I urge the Public Education Committee to VOTE NO on House Bill 3. This bill is bad for Texas students, bad for public schools, and bad for taxpayers. It diverts public money to private schools with little accountability, while leaving public schools underfunded. For years, Texas lawmakers have failed to pass meaningful legislation on teacher pay raises, school repairs, and increased funding for our public schools. Yet now they're proposing $1 billion for private school vouchers. Texas students deserve real investments in education, not handouts for the wealthy. I urge the Texas Legislature to stand with Texas students and teachers and vote NO on HB 3. Thank you.

Sherri Ledford, Retired Teacher
Self
Adkins, TX

Vote NO!
Our students and teachers deserve better!!

Julie Petri
Self
Friendswood, TX

I strongly oppose school choice/voucher programs. It depletes public education funding which affects all of our children. Parents already have a choice -if you they don't like the choice -move to a more favorable choice.

Kathleen Young

Self

Cedar Park, TX

Please vote no on HB 3. I have two high school kids in LISD and my spouse is a teacher in the same district. We are already crushed by lack of funding. It is unacceptable to take public school funds and apply them to private schools. We know from other states that have used this scam that it only benefits the rich that are already attending private schools and increases segregation. The intention of this bill is to defund public school. Please vote no for the sake of ALL Texas children, who deserve a fair and equitable education.

Lindsey Ramirez

Myself

Austin, TX

As a taxpayer and parent to 2 public school students, I oppose this bill. This bill would raise my taxes to benefit children of wealthy families, who are the only ones that could afford to go to these private schools even with the vouchers. My CHOICE is for my kids to attend public school and I don't think I should have to pay for an alternative school for people who choose not to utilize a public service (for example, would we use tax money to pay for someone's neighborhood pool we all can't use?, what about tax money for security guards for private residence? It's all a choice for alternative services to public pools, the state and federal police, etc). Additionally, these schools are not held up to the same standards. As a tax payer, I shouldn't have to pay for education that's not required to have credentialed teachers, not required to take the same state tests. I am concerned these schools do not have to be accountable to the public even though we are paying for it (unlike public schools).

Eva Cuenca, Ms

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose to pass this Bill, public money collected by public government offices needs to be spend in Public Service therefore public education.

Focus on social wealth and our communities that need our services the most ! Stop privatizing human basic rights !

Adriana Yzquierdo

Self

Houston, TX

Dear Members of the Texas Senate,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to proposals that seek to divert funding from our public schools through private school voucher programs. As a concerned citizen, I urge you to stand firmly in support of public education and reject any measures that would defund or weaken our public schools.

Texas' public education system has long been a cornerstone of opportunity, ensuring that all students, regardless of their background, have access to a quality education. Our public schools serve a diverse range of students, including those with special needs, English language learners, and children from low-income families. They are places where every child, no matter their circumstance, has the potential to succeed. Public schools offer a sense of community, foster inclusivity, and provide a range of services beyond education, such as meals, counseling, and extracurricular activities.

Introducing vouchers that funnel taxpayer dollars into private schools would have a disastrous impact on our public schools. Vouchers would effectively siphon money away from the very institutions that serve the vast majority of our students. These funds are crucial for maintaining essential programs, improving educational outcomes, and supporting teachers. Public schools are already struggling with overcrowded classrooms, underpaid teachers, and limited resources. Redirecting money to private schools would only worsen these challenges and leave public schools with fewer resources to meet the needs of Texas children.

Private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. They do not have to accept all students, particularly those with disabilities, special needs, or English language learners. They can select students based on academic performance, financial means, or other factors, which leaves the most vulnerable students behind. Public schools, on the other hand, are required to accept every student, ensuring that every child has a fair chance at success. By diverting funds to private institutions, we risk creating a two-tiered education system that exacerbates inequality and disadvantages those who need the most support.

The focus should not be on dismantling public education but on strengthening it. Instead of providing vouchers for private schools, Texas must prioritize fully funding its public schools to ensure every student has access to a high-quality education. We must increase teacher salaries, reduce class sizes, improve school facilities, and ensure that every child has the resources they need to succeed. Our public schools can be the best they can be if they are given the support and funding they deserve.

Private school vouchers are not the solution to the challenges facing our education system. Public education has a proven track record of providing a quality education to millions of students, and it is essential that we continue to invest in and improve this system.

Amy Feaster

self/teacher, former principal

Ralls, TX

Providing vouchers for families to attend private schools is a bad idea and also not financially responsible. Parents have always had a choice on where to send their children to school. This bill says it will provide money in order to allow those not able to pay to be able to afford private school, but the amount given will not pay for a private school tuition and many rural areas do not have private schools in close proximity to them. The vast majority of children attend public schools and the money being proposed for vouchers can better be used to fund these schools. Public schools are mandated to accept all students in their district and educate them to the best of their ability no matter if the child is gifted and talented or requires special instruction such as special education, dyslexia and english as a second language. Our current teachers and schools are woefully underfunded. We rank very low in the nation in teacher pay and money provided per student. Please do not allow this large amount of money to be used for things that will not benefit students and to appease influential donors. Please use this money to better the future of Texas, our wonderful students. They deserve better from our government leaders!!

Laura Kroll
Self / educator
Floresville, TX

Please consider the detrimental impact this bill will have on rural/public schools. The disparity between the proposed ESA and its counterpart funding per pupil public school funding is atrocious. Current promotion of HB 3 has been misleading and untruthful. In addition, the outcomes this will have for the future of education in Texas is nothing short of disheartening. Please stop take heart into what we have worked so hard for in the state for the future of all children.

Jessica Rong
self
wylie, TX

Schools all over our state are closing due to lack of funding. Priorities of this administration have continued to drive unwanted interventions in our schools. We don not want religion. We want funding. We do not want vouchers. We want funding. Our teachers can barely survive on the salary they earn. It is shocking how little they make. Not only are they underpaid, the schools are underfunded and they pay for supplies out of their already meager pay. Lawmakers should be ashamed that this is our current state and it will only get worse with vouchers. So then what? The public schools are just left in the wind? Nobody needs these vouchers. Private schools are majority religious schools, so what you are really pushing is for rich families to subsidize their children's private education at religious school while children at public school suffer the co sequences. This has absolutely nothing to do with helping the families that want to go to private school. Schools will raise tuition so that doesn't happen. Private schools will teach what they deem appropriate, many including christianity, and will not provide services that public schools are mandated to provide. You will continue to underfund schools so programs for children with special needs will no longer be provided. Ultimately you don't seem to care what is best for the children of Texas, otherwise you would listen to parents not billionaires that bought your seat.

Yehoshua Knopf
Self
Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Joe Ravitsky, Mr
Self
Dallas, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Kelsei Fortenberry

Self

Lubbock, TX

As a public school teacher in the state of Texas, I do not support a voucher program in Texas. Students in Texas already have choice built into their education. My school has transfers from over 20 other schools in the area, because parents and students are already given choice in their education. The voucher program will divert funds from public schools into private schools, and will not even serve the purported low income students as the funds provided will not even be enough to help the truly low income. On top of that fact private schools do not have the same oversight that public schools have and also do not have to accept all students the same way that public schools do. Private schools do not serve every child and the system means that they will continue to not serve every child. Public schools have been and will continue to be the future of education, and we should fund them as such.

Danielle Valencia

Self - business analyst

Arlington, TX

Your constituents do not want school vouchers. Time and again when this issue is presented to voters, we vote against it. Public education is one of the most valuable public services we have in the United States and we cannot put it in the hands of private companies who have no stake in the future of our young people. We will remember those who vote for this bill during elections. Again I ask to please oppose this bill

David Wills

Self

Dallas, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Leslie Jacob

Self teacher

Red Oak, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Megan Corns
Self
Waxahachie, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Jack Lloyd-Reilley
Self, Engineer
San Antonio, TX

Everyone should receive the same education, so that they embark on their adult life with the same advantages and disadvantages, and rise or fall according to their own MERIT, and not the advantages conferred by their parents, or the state, on which their own decisions, skills, or talent have no bearing. These convoluted savings plans, school choice measures and voucher programs ignore the fact that it is the parents, not the student, who choose the school, and thus they are unmeritocratic regarding the student itself. Everyone should go to the same public schools, with the same funding, and have the same opportunities in life, so that they rise or fall based on their OWN choices, and not happenstance, connections or favoritism. Therefore, you should abandon this school choice effort, scrap this bill, and just reallocate the states budget surplus to improving our public schools for ALL students.

Joe Ravitsky, Mr
Self
Dallas, TX

Supporting the right for a parent to make choices as to their children's schooling increases the quality of the school product, we make all schools better, we increase diversity of education choices, and we provide parents better opportunities for their children, in doing so we improve the workforce that attracts quality companies to our state. Our public schools will not have less resources, but they will improve through some competition and will be forced to better respond to parents' and students' needs

Richard Kull
myself
Rowlett, TX

stop this scam, support appropriate funding for public schools

Dominique Buerkett
Self
Pearland, TX

The large majority of residents I come in contact with are against this bill. It does not benefit public schools in any way. Public funds should NOT be used to fund private schools. Put that money into public schools.

April Hughes
self; PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER
Moran, TX

I just heard James Frank say that public schools have choice in things that happen in their schools that parents don't have. Parents have choices in where they send their children to school. NO ONE ever said they did not. HOWEVER, choices have consequences, and those choices should be funded by the PARENTS!!!

Katrisha Smith

Self

Dallas, TX

School vouchers may seem like a way to expand opportunity, but they weaken public schools, increase segregation, and fail to improve student outcomes. In Milwaukee, decades of vouchers have drained public school funding without raising achievement. Arizona's program overwhelmingly benefits students already in private schools, diverting public funds to families who don't need them. Indiana has lost over $500 million from public education due to vouchers, forcing cuts to essential services like special education and counseling.

Voucher programs also worsen segregation. Louisiana's system allows private schools to reject students with disabilities, leaving public schools with the most challenging cases and fewer resources to support them. In Ohio, voucher students are wealthier and whiter than their public school peers. Florida's program enables private schools to discriminate against LGBTQ+ students while still receiving taxpayer money.

Despite claims that vouchers improve education, studies show they often harm academic performance. In Louisiana, students using vouchers saw their math scores plummet. Washington, D.C., voucher recipients performed worse in math than their public school peers. Ohio's data revealed lower scores among voucher students than those who stayed in public schools.

Private schools accepting vouchers also lack accountability. In Wisconsin, some employ uncertified teachers and use unregulated curricula. Florida has seen schools take millions in voucher funds and then shut down, stranding families. In Arizona, funds have been misused for vacations and personal expenses, exposing a system with little oversight.

Vouchers are not about helping students but about privatizing education. Instead of diverting funds, we should invest in proven strategies—smaller class sizes, teacher support, and early childhood education. Public schools serve all students, and we must strengthen them, not undermine them with failed voucher schemes.

Patti Powell, M.D.

Self

Waxahachie, TX

I send my child to private school, and yet I do not support school vouchers. A society is only strong when its citizens are well educated. That is what I pay taxes for - a well run government and educated society. Please do not pass a bill that takes money away from public schools, but instead work to FIX our schools. You can start by paying our teachers more and not holding their salary hostage. Vouchers DO NOT consistently work, as demonstrated in the states that have tried them. I live in a majority Republican / conservative area of Texas, and yet I don't know anyone who supports school vouchers. Please do better for Texas and our students. Thank you for listening to your constituents!

Kathi Thomas, Ms.

myself

Austin, TX

Listening this morning, I have this question-how to poor families pay the application fees? They're generally over $100. For a poor family, that's a lot of money- and if their child isn't accepted, that's money they can't get back. And some schools don't base their acceptance on the child, but on the family. I had friends whose students were denied acceptance due to parents being divorced, and another who was denied because parents were a same gender couple. They were told they "didn't fit their families profiles." This AFTER they applied. So yes, it is the SCHOOLS that have the choice, not the families.

I may be a rarity- our daughter was homeschooled, private schooled, and in 5th grade, transitioned to our local public school, which is excellent. Private school was a struggle, but she received a scholarship.

Taxpayer dollars should come with fairness and accountability. When the STAAR began, we were told that "public schools MUST be accountable to taxpayers." These private schools that want taxpayer dollars have zero accountability- they don't have to take the same state mandated tests that public schools do- most public schools would LOVE to be able to give norm-referenced tests instead of the STAAR, (which I believe is built to fail as many students as possible.) Taxpayers don't get to elect the boards of those private schools, we don't get to know what they're paying their admins, we don't get to vote on bonds to build their schools- they go directly to the state for low-cost loans to build whatever they want. There is NO public input or accountability and, given the strictures on public schools, it seems more than unfair. If they're willing to do all the same, then that's another conversation.

The concern about special education students is important. Despite what Chair Buckley said, most private schools don't accept special education students- given their smaller populations, special ed gets very expensive. There are schools that specialize in things like dyslexia, but not so much for other special needs. When we were considering a particular private school, we were advised by someone who taught there not to mention our child's ADHD, as that would keep her from being accepted!

Private schools tend to have few students per class, and that alone, even with a subpar teacher, would give each child more one on one time with the teacher. Why don't we put enough money into our public schools to allow them to have classes of 10-15 students- you'd be stunned how much better educated our children could be, especially with certified teachers.

Let's be honest- this is to give money to those already with students in private schools. Don't let the bullying of Abbott and his out of state billionaire force you to pass this bill, which is about removing students from public schools into schools where these far right billionaires can push their particular form of beliefs. Public Schools are where students meet with others who may be different from them.

Paula Niz, Secretary PTA & mother

Rustic Oak Elements PTA

Pearland, TX

Please don't allow this bill to pass. It is causing more harm than good to the majority of citizens. It will not promote the best education for all students and teachers in public school causing more harm to our future economy.

Sherry Owens

self/very concerned parent/grandmother/citizen

LUBBOCK, TX

NO to school vouchers - PLEASE!!

Pour any and all money into public schools, support public education - the ONLY true equalizer. Raise salaries, increase budgets for quality professional development. EQUIP districts, administrators and educators to be successful. NO, NO, NO to funding private schools and home schooling.

Carin Malmer

self

Sugar Land, TX

I vote NO to HB3. All of our Texas children need to be educated. Abbott has done very little to support students, parents, teachers or schools. As a former public school teacher of 35 years, I am opposed to taking even more money away from the students in the public school systems in Texas. We have 7 million school age children to educate in Texas and the vouchers only serve 100,000 students. How is this beneficial to our students and our future?

Scott Rogers
self
Corpus Christi, TX

Dear Legislators:
I write to convey that I do not support this proposal. We already have school choice and this will create more stress on the public school financing system. Thank you.

Amanda Elwood
Self
Orange, TX

This is absolutely absurd, vote NO!!!!

Katrina Donoughue
Self
Spring, TX

Please fund public schools and don't divert money from public schools into accounts to benefit rich donors. The public school children of Texas deserve better.

Justin Hart
Self/History teacher
Lubbock, TX

I am adamantly opposed to this bill. It is a massive giveaway to the small number of parents who can already afford private school tuition. It will not allow the average student to make a "choice" about their school. It will not protect special needs children. And, most importantly, it will further siphon money away from our already under-funded public schools--the schools that the vast majority of Texas children use.

Gail Sanchez
Self
Corpus Christi, TX

Example you can copy and paste below!

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Brooke Faulds
self- Social Worker
Austin, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose Texas House Bill 3, as it threatens the quality and fairness of public education in our state. This bill would reduce funding for public schools, leading to an uneven distribution of resources and failing to meet the needs of all students, particularly those from low-income backgrounds and those requiring special education services.

Public schools are the foundation of our communities, and every student—regardless of their financial situation or learning needs—deserves access to a high-quality education. HB 3 risks widening educational disparities by diverting funds away from the schools that need them most. Instead of undermining public education, we should focus on fully funding our schools, ensuring that teachers have the resources they need, and supporting programs that help all students succeed.

I urge you to vote against HB 3 and stand up for Texas students. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Brooke Faulds
Austin, TX

Marilyn Jones, Rev.
Self, clergy
Stephenville, TX

I am a proud parent of a Texas public school student. I am also a product of a public school education, and the child of a selfless public school educator. I also serve as a pastor in the United Methodist Church. I have served churches that have had private schools.

I am writing to voice my opposition to this bill. Parents in Texas have choices about how to best educate their child. Most private school or homeschool parents that I know are well aware of the sacrifices they must make in order to make those choices. They have been hurt by private school tuition INCREASES that are already occurring in anticipation of this bill's passing. This is an indication that this will happen all over the state, making this a tougher issue for families that have chosen private school.

I strongly believe that public money should belong to our underfunded and underserved public schools. Our gifted and selfless teachers and our Texas children deserve to be advocated for by our elected officials.

Through public education, and the strength of our local ISD, I have seen my child excel. She is a strong reader, though only in the first grade. She is learning to stand up for kids that are differently abled than she is. She is learning kindness and compassion.

I urge the house to vote no on this bill and support our public schools.

Angela Ramirez
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Thank you for considering an increase to the basic public school allotment, however an increase of $220 does not come remotely close to meeting inflation since 2019! Given the $24B budget surplus we currently have, and how far behind we are in funding the public schools that serve the MAJORITY of Texas students, I think it is reasonable to increase the allotment by much more than $220. Texas lawmakers have neglected our public schools for far too long, it is time to take our children's education seriously and make up for it!

Lisa Chen
Self, strategy consultant
Plano, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB3 and any school voucher program, especially ones that do not have an income cap. I want my taxpayer funds going to our already underfunded public schools, not to wealthy families that can already afford to send their kids to private schools. Private schools are enabled to accept/reject children as they wish and set whatever tuition prices they wish - that is the not the appropriate place to send public funds to. Public education has been fundamental to my success in life. Please consider your constituents and not your wealthy donors.

Israel Tarshish

Self

Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Lauren White

Self, small business founder

Austin, TX

I am a parent who opposes HB 3 and any private school vouchers. Our kids and teachers deserve fully public funded schools. Taxpayer money should be for public schools and not given to private schools and without any accountability.

2. Please take the time to text/share the link to leave a public comment to a friend! ????

Whitney Moskowitz

Self

Austin, TX

I urge you to oppose HB 3 and support Texas public schools. This bill diverts taxpayer dollars from public schools, which educate over 90% of Texas students, to private institutions with little accountability. Schools already facing teacher shortages and rising student needs will be forced to cut programs, increase class sizes, and limit services.

Private schools receiving taxpayer funds are not required to serve all students, follow state curriculum standards, provide performance data, or maintain financial oversight. If public money is being spent, there should be transparency in how it is used. HB 3 lacks that accountability.

While promoted as a "school choice," HB 3 benefits only a small group of families. Vouchers do not fully cover tuition, leaving many working-class and rural families unable to access private schools. Meanwhile, public schools serving most students will be left with fewer resources.

Strong public schools create strong communities. When schools suffer, property values decline, businesses struggle, and workforce development weakens. Texans have consistently rejected voucher schemes, recognizing that public funds should support schools that serve all students. HB 3 threatens that foundation.

I appreciate your time and consideration in protecting Texas public education.

David Hall

Self, Insurance Agent

Sweeny, TX

All parents should have the right to select the best education available for their children.

Kellie Early

“Self”

KERRVILLE, TX

Against

Robert Hamilton

Self

Plano, TX

I am not interested in the voucher program being presented. I want all our Texas schools fully funded. Vouchers need to be on the ballot. Not pushed through a committee. We want to vote on this directly. Please vote no on this bill

Janna Whaling

Self, Graphics Manager

Carrollton, TX

As a parent and PTA Board member of our local public school here in Carrollton, I hereby strongly disagree with the HB 3 bill as it is not enough of a fund increase for public education students. Please vote NO and go back and rewrite this bill to include more funding for the 5.5 millions students in this state that need it! Our school board just announced last week they are closing 4 of our schools, due to a budget deficit that cannot support our declining enrollment. Please help with our students futures in public education!!

Katherine Smith

Self unemployed

Frisco, TX

Diverting funds meant for public schools to fund people already sending their children to private school is a travesty. School districts are having to cut programs because they don't have the proper funding from the state. Other states that have passed this scam are regretting it. People in Texas do not want this, listen to your constituents not the billionaires funding the governor. Abbott is wrong and so is this bill. NO on HB3

Katherine Martinez

Self

San Antonio, TX

I'm asking you to reconsider voting for the voucher/parent choice. It would be a disservice to those parents and children that recite in the rural areas that do not have the access to have choices thank you.

Rachel Brohammer

Self (Licensed Professional Counselor)

Eules, TX

HB3 is unacceptable and will only lead to the detriment of education in Texas. Those tax dollars belong to our already underfunded public school system, not in the pockets of private schools that are no obligation to accommodate students with special needs. If parents don't want public education they can pay for it out of pocket, it's not the problem of other taxpayers if they decide that their child is too good for public schools.

Jennifer Mollenkopf

Self - teacher

Allen, TX

I strongly reject any public school voucher legislation. Public funds belong in public education and not with curriculum vendors, private schools, or home schools. Fund our public schools properly!

Buckner Sandra, Ms

self

Fort Worth, TX

Please vote against this bill. It is a scam to destroy our public school education and convert schools run by men whose agenda no longer have free education without intervention of religion and to restrict education to only those who can pay tuitions. Further, it seeks to promote teaching conservative religious education in all schools. In addition it will not fund education for students with disabilities.

VOTE to school vouchers

Rebecca Baker, Ms.

-- please select a prefix --self

San Antonio, TX

Texas should support public, not private, schools. Texas funds SHOULD NOT be going into private school tuition. Texas funds should increase the quality of public schools and increase Texas teachers' pay.

Stephanie Standley

Self

Tyler, TX

Please don't do this! This will provide a discount for wealthy families and leave the poor children of Texas from rural communities with an even more underfunded public school system. Fully fund the public schools, pay the teachers a living wage, then all the children of Texas will have a better chance for success

Theresa Hornung

Self

Cedar Park, TX

Please stop this bill. It will only serve to hurt vulnerable children in our public schools. I know you've seen the data and this just serves the already wealthy and not every Texas student. My children are special needs and no private school would take them so I need public schools to be fully funded for them to have a chance at an education and successful life. They are already suffering from budget deficits and this will only make it worse. Please be real Texans and serve your people not the rich donors. I miss Texas politicians that loved the residents of their state so much they would actually

Listen to them and honor all our needs. "Fair" doesn't mean everyone gets the same thing. "Fair" means everyone gets what they need. This bill is no where near fair.

Cynthia Hendrickson

Self

KINGWOOD, TX

Vote no on vouchers. They are going to take money from public education and give it to private schools. That is not in the best interest of children in the state of Texas.

Jennifer Wisler

Self

Frisco, TX

My children both attend a wonderful school in Frisco ISD. As part of the public school they have an attendance minimum they have to meet in order to pass a grade, they are not allowed to pray in their classroom, they have to take the STAAR testing. They have to do all of these things in order for their school to get state funding. By doing the school vouchers, their school will get less funding and the state will fund schools who do not have mandatory attendance, they are allowed to pray and teach a religion/ bible course, and they will not have to teach to/ take a STAAR testing but will receive MORE funding than a student in a public school. The ISD should not be subjected to more stipulations and receive less money per student than a private school receiving those increases funds.

Marta Rozanich

Self

Ft worth, TX

We are spending on you to vote no on HB3. We need our neighborhood schools, they are vital to our communities. Please fully fund our schools. Fix our system, do not destroy it. The rural communities will be decimated. Our families, our children are depending on you to vote for our kids, and no on HB 3.

Luke Allison

Self

Caddo Mills, TX

Strongly opposed to this bill.

Christina Sellers, Ms.

Self, speech-language pathologist

Westworth Village, TX

I oppose HB 3 establishing education savings accounts. I am a speech therapist serving special education students in public schools. Adhering to State and Federal special education laws on the meager funding the state has provided is already a daily challenge. Private schools will not be required to serve special education students and this bill will further starve public schools of funds to provide a free and appropriate education to all. Has the state abandoned its commitment to people with disabilities? Does it intend to follow laws designed to protect it's most vulnerable citizens?

I also come from a family of public educators who have dedicated their entire careers to educating all Texans. These educators made a commitment to bettering our state. How do you intend to keep your commitment to these dedicated educators in their retirement?

An educated population is good for our economy and for democracy. I urge you to not pass HB 3 and keep your commitment to all students and teachers.

Susan Mouser

Self Retired Teacher

Abilene, TX

The Texas Constitution hold you responsible for properly funding PUBLIC schools. You are more than 10 years behind in fulfilling this obligation. Private schools should not be funded by tax revenue. NO VOUCHERS! The Senate hid a line item in their bill so as to destabilize Teacher Retirement System. Do NOT allow that to pass.

*Properly fund Public Schools.

*Do not pass any voucher bill.

*Do not strangle school districts by passing unfunded mandates.

*Provide for retired teachers.

Dawn Fields

Self

Dickinson, TX

I oppose school vouchers

Jason Wu

self - information security professional

Sugar Land, TX

I do not support the devaluation of public education.

Tina Butler
Self
Houston, TX

I do not support the use of state funds for private school. This will disenfranchise rural districts. Students with disabilities won't receive the support they deserve and require. Private schools aren't held to the same standards as public schools. We need to support public schools to elevate education in Texas

Katherine Jewett
Self
Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Katie Jewett and I am a constituent in zip code 78735. I am writing to voice my opposition to HB 3. I am asking my Representative and this Committee to vote no and to instead fully fund public education. We already have meaningful school choice in Texas - what we need are resources so that our public schools can deliver the education that each child in Texas deserves, and that which has already been mandated, with accountability and due process ensuring that delivery. We do not need resources for privatized schools to thrive with no or little accountability to the public. I don't believe proponents of this bill can point to any examples of similar laws in other states achieving any of the objectives that are the supposed motivation for this bill. To the contrary, voucher systems like this are a failed experiment, and if this bill moves forward, this will predictably harm more families than it helps. Thank you.

Sam Douglass
Self
Round rock, TX

I am not in favor of Hb3. This takes money away from public schools and gives it to wealthy people who don't need it

Nicole Fuller
Self/ Teacher/ Public school parent
Tuscola, TX

Education Savings Accounts, vouchers, parent choice are all beasts of the same nature! All take public money from the already poorly funded public schools. Our Texas students deserve better than having more money taken away and less programs available. Do what is right!! Say no to ESAs!! Find public schools first and appropriately.

I am proud of our public schools. Teachers are working night and day to make classrooms work. With no further funding, we are facing critical shortages and cutting essential programs.

Texas kids and teachers deserve better!

Eliza Nguyen
Self
Austin, TX

The vouchers are not equal. They should be equal for private and public with same expectations. Otherwise they should not go through. All Texans are equal and you are not treating us that way. This voucher bill hurts kids.

Christy Watley
Myself- educator and parent of public schools
Woodway, TX

Texans public school educators, parents, and tax payers do not want this bill approved. It does not level the playing field. Listen to your TX voices and voters!

Laura Zehl
Self
Houston, TX

No to Vouchers! Public schools are already WAY underfunded & public dollars should stay in public schools. This would take much needed money away from public schools that can't afford to lose money. We owe our teachers & staff everything for educating our children and they are leaving the profession in Texas at record rates. Let the people of Texas VOTE on the issue. We do not want legislators deciding for us. Or we will remember at the ballot box next election if this is forced on us with no say.

Margaret O'Connell
Self
Dallas, TX
School vouchers

My name is Margaret O'Connell, and I am here today as a concerned citizen to strongly oppose HB3 and the proposed school voucher program. This legislation threatens the future of public education in Texas by diverting essential funds away from our public schools, deepening inequities, and undermining the very foundation of our education system.

Public Schools Are the Cornerstone of Our Communities

Texas public schools educate over 5 million students, serving as a lifeline for families across the state. They provide not only academics but also critical services such as special education, meal programs, and extracurricular activities. Instead of strengthening this system, HB3 and the voucher program will siphon taxpayer dollars into private institutions that are not held to the same accountability standards, leaving our public schools with fewer resources and greater challenges.

Diverting Public Funds Harms Students Who Need It Most

School vouchers disproportionately benefit wealthier families who can already afford private school tuition, while low-income and rural students are left behind. Rural communities, in particular, lack access to private school options, meaning vouchers will do nothing for them while still draining funds from their local schools. This creates an unjust system where public dollars serve private interests rather than the needs of all students.

Lack of Accountability and Transparency

Unlike public schools, private institutions receiving voucher funds are not required to accept all students, follow standardized curriculum guidelines, or meet the same academic and financial transparency standards. Taxpayers deserve to know how their money is being spent, yet HB3 fails to ensure oversight or equitable access for students with disabilities, English language learners, and other vulnerable populations.

Strengthening Public Education Should Be Our Priority

If we are serious about improving education in Texas, the solution is not to defund our public schools but to invest in them. We should be increasing teacher pay, reducing class sizes, expanding early childhood education, and ensuring that every child—regardless of ZIP code—has access to a high-quality education.

I urge you to reject HB3 and the school voucher program. Our public schools are the heart of Texas communities, and they need your support—not policies that weaken them. Let's commit to funding and improving the schools that serve the vast majority of Texas students.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Margaret O'Connell

Saige Prucha
self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education!

Connie Gooding

Self

Hutto, TX

School choice has existed for years and has been used by people seeking alternatives for their children. By financially subsidizing those who have chosen private schools you are not making private schools a viable option for others.

A map of all private schools in Texas shows that geography also prohibits many from your chosen education option.

I'm asking you to vote in favor of the majority of students in Texas and fund public education. I'm further asking you to prove to citizens of Texas that money from out of state does not buy its way into our state.

Thad Hill, Board Member

Bridge City ISD

Orange, TX

Please No vouchers

Benjamin Kozuch

Self / Software Engineer

Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Doreen Lerner, Dr

Self

Houston, TX

Please support HB3 and the Education Savings Account program. Every child in Texas deserves access to the best educational opportunities.

Education isn't one-size-fits-all, and families should have the freedom to choose the best option for their child. This bill empowers parents to make those decisions, benefiting students, educators, and taxpayers alike.

Nearly half the states have a school choice program — it's time for Texas to join them.

Norma Celinda Martinez

Self

Pflugerville, TX

As a constituent, a parent and a taxpayer I urge you to vote against HB3. I do not support this bill and it does not benefit every Texas child.

Linda Bessmer

self; small business owner

Brenham, TX

Texas public schools are not currently adequately funded! Estimates show Texas would need to add an additional $24 billion into public education to get schools back to the spending power they had in 2019. Texas is obligated to provide for ALL students not forcing districts to carry budget deficits to meet state mandates.

Public funds should not be spent on private K-12 education. If Texas does move forward with its "ESA" plan, private schools should be held to the same accountability standards - required to take ALL students (regardless of disability or zip code), provide services and accommodations for ALL students who need them, and administer and report on accountability standards (STAAR test). It does not track that STAAR state testing is the litmus test of success for public school students but NOT required for private school students (especially if funded with public taxpayer funds)! I hope Texas could learn from other states like Arizona as to the "true cost" of ESA/Vouchers. (<https://www.propublica.org/article/arizona-school-vouchers-budget-meltdown>).

Ginny Andersen

Self/ Retired Grandmother

Dallas, TX

I have three grandkids in Austin elementary schools. I have a daughter who teaches in Dallas area. They are so much against the voucher/saving accounts programs. We feel it would hurt the middle class students, parents and teachers the most. Please don't allow it to happen, for their sakes. Thank you.

Chelsea Rico

Self

Abilene, TX

This is just a Trojan horse coming in to take more funds from public education.

Public education takes away the chance of an educational lottery for students in Texas. Every child deserves a high quality education regardless of gender, race, economic status, learning disabilities, etc. Public schools deserve more funding as we serve regardless of these things, while private schools and charter schools get to pick and choose.

Please vote NO for the future of Texas kids.

Mary Jane Avery

self / retired

Burnet, TX

All children learn differently, and public school is not always the best option. I support HB3 because it gives parents the freedom to choose the environment and learning methods that will best suit their child. Texans should have the freedom to choose the best education for our kids. I support School Choice. Thank you for your time.

Paige Hebert

Self

HOUSTON, TX

Education choice already exists. This is unnecessary and will decimate the popular choice of public schools. Fund public schools and watch education soar. Give every kid in this state a chance by funding public education. Pay teachers and fund school resources.

Taylor Woolley
self
Longview, TX

Vouchers drain money out of public schools to subsidize private schools that are unaccountable to taxpayers and don't have to meet the same standards. Why would we create a new taxpayer-funded entitlement program to fund private schools? This largely benefits wealthy families. The only real choice in voucher schemes belongs to private schools who choose who they accept anyway. Diverting resources from the majority of Texas students to serve only a small segment of children who could be served through existing public school choice options just doesn't make sense.

Kyle Graves, Mr.
Self
Austin, TX

Creating a new big financially disastrous entitlement is not fiscally responsible nor a conservative value. Wake up Republicans: Abbott, Patrick & friends are setting you and your constituents up for higher taxes!

Joshua Nix
Mansfield ISD
Mansfield, TX

Passing this bill will hurt my children, and the teachers who have poured their lives into education. Please vote no for vouchers.

Annan Pascoe
Self -engineer
Irving, TX

Public schools need to be fully funded. They are the backbone of our education. I am
A product of the public school system.
Vouchers are insufficient to support Texas students at schools that can discriminate in any ways they choose and without the same performance accountability of public schools

Carolina Bonetti
Myslef
Prosper, TX

I do not want a voucher or parents school of choice. Leave our education system

Donna Cagle
Self retired
Burnet, TX

We put our 4 children through classical private school education at great expense. Other families deserve this option without having to pay public school taxes and pay for an alternative education that they choose.

Shelley Jansky, Speech-Language Pathologist
Slef
Hallettsville, TX

I oppose HB 3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability.

Kristin Knight

Self

Austin, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Karen Stanfill

Self

Red Oak, TX

I oppose any form of ESA/voucher bill. Texas needs to take care of all of its children, which means providing excellent public education. It is embarrassing to be almost the last in the country in terms of public education funding. The state needs provide at least $1000 more per student just to allow school districts to provide the minimum service. Do you want to be remembered as a person who helped reform public education, or the person who was bought and paid for by private school investors? Do the right thing and look to the future of Texas. We want to take pride in our public schools and take pride in our future workforce. Listen to your constituents! Vote NO on ESAs/vouchers!

Elise Kail

Self - Retired Educator

Midland, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

Rozalyn Stuckey, Ms.

self / lawyer

Houston, TX

I respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1. Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
2. HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice.
3. This bill does not increase accessibility to private schools.
 - a) The cost of quality private schools far exceeds the amount of any proposed voucher and far exceeds the amount that the legislature has shown it is willing to spend on public or private schools. Here's a couple articles about the cost of Houston Private Schools education <https://www.houstonchronicle.com/news/houston-texas/education/article/houston-private-schools-tuition-ranking-19387743.php> and <https://www.st-agnes.org/news-detail?pk=1427535#>.
 - b) Private Schools have limited capacity and many already have waitlists. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
4. Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
5. HB3, viewed in the best light, would support a tiny fraction of Texas students. The same dollars could be used to support all Texas students.
6. Texans should vote on the proposed bill – not some vaguely worded statement such as the one included in the Republican primary.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Sara Brown

Self

Palmer, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Allison Wardroup

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Corina Cabello

Self

San Antonio, TX

We need you to stand with Texas families and not special interests! Our public schools and the children and families they serve depend on you to stand up against hb3.

Ayanna DAVIS

Self

Cypress, TX

The Texas legislature's potential diversion of public school funds towards private vouchers or education savings accounts (ESAs) poses a grave threat to the very foundation of our public education system, particularly for rural and low-income students. This scheme, cloaked in the rhetoric of "school choice," would dismantle the equitable access to quality education that public schools strive to provide.

Firstly, vouchers and ESAs siphon vital resources away from already underfunded public schools. In rural Texas, where schools often serve as the community's hub, this funding loss would be catastrophic. These schools, frequently operating on thin margins, rely on every dollar to provide essential services, from teacher salaries to transportation and extracurricular activities. A decrease in funding would inevitably lead to larger class sizes, reduced program offerings, and the potential closure of schools, leaving rural students with limited or no educational options.

Secondly, private schools, unlike public schools, are not obligated to accept all students. They can selectively enroll students based on academic performance, disability status, or religious affiliation. This discriminatory practice would disproportionately impact low-income and special needs students, who are more likely to be excluded from private institutions. Public schools, on the other hand, are legally mandated to serve all students, regardless of their background or needs. This inclusive environment fosters diversity and ensures that every child has the opportunity to learn and succeed.

Thirdly, vouchers and ESAs lack the same level of accountability as public schools. Public schools are subject to rigorous state and federal regulations, including standardized testing, teacher certification requirements, and financial audits. Private schools, however, often operate with minimal oversight, raising concerns about the quality of education they provide and the responsible use of taxpayer funds. This lack of transparency makes it difficult to ensure that students are receiving a quality education and that public funds are being used effectively. 1

1.

www.publicschoolreview.com

www.publicschoolreview.com

Fourthly, the voucher system exacerbates existing inequities. In rural areas, where private school options are scarce or nonexistent, vouchers would primarily benefit wealthier families who can afford to supplement the voucher amount or transport their children to distant private schools. Low-income families, who lack these resources, would be left behind, further widening the educational gap. In effect, public funds would be subsidizing private education for the privileged few, while public schools serving the vast majority of students would be starved of resources.

In conclusion, diverting public school funds towards private vouchers or ESAs would dismantle the pillars of our public education system, particularly in rural and low-income communities.

Natalie Aviles

self

RICHARDSON, TX

please do not approve the TX school voucher bill.

Lorie Crowder

Self

WACO, TX

This is bad for the children of Texas. We need to fully fund Texas public schools and pay teachers and staff appropriately. We need to end the STAAR test. The job of our government is to provide a public education system not subsidize private and homeschooling with public funds.

Dennis Stieber
Self - Teacher
Terrell, TX

Please vote NO! Public tax dollars should not be used for private education facilities.

Monya Crow
Self
Lewisville, TX

As a public educator for almost 30 years, I see the voucher program as the dismantling of public education. People who CHOOSE to send their children to private schools should be responsible for paying for it. To funnel any tax payer dollars to private schools is purely robbing from public schools.

Mark Sherman
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.
This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Mary Taylor
Self
Angleton, TX

This bill is unconstitutional. Public funds should be used for the good of the whole. I am a fourth generation Texan. Our public schools are where we not only learned academics but also love of state, country and community. I am recently retired from public education after 41 years. I think our schools are filled of superheroes that truly care about our kids. Politicians the last few years have teased us with empty promises of raises, held funding hostage to manipulate political gains and mandated programs without funding. This needs to stop. I appreciate the law makers who speak out concerns. I have contacted my own local representative who answers along party lines - a change from previous years. I believe vouchers are bad for the future of our great state. I believe they are unconstitutional. Sadly, when you follow the money you can see how votes can be bought and paid for by those who have never stepped foot into a local school.

Valerie Laucks
Self
San Antonio, TX

As a parent of children in public schools in Texas, and as someone who graduated from TX public schools many years ago, I ask you to continue the tradition of having strong public schools for children, and to say No to this bill. It will take away from many children, and quite frankly, the taxes my husband and I pay are not intended to fund private schools. The cost of private schools is too high to allow the state to truly pay for. This will change the landscape of academics and sports at public schools across the state. As public education would suffer with less funds, there will be less opportunity for those outside certain income levels. And this will create additional problems across our state. I ask you to please use the position and influence we have entrusted you with to do right by the current and future generations of Texas. By declining this bill, you will help more people than the select few who would be admitted to private schools if you approved revamping our current system.
Thank you!!

Kaitlin Riojas
Self, my children
Shallowater, TX

I DO NOT support HB 3. A school savings account program is stealing from public schools. I DO NOT want a school saving account or voucher program. Public schools deserve funding, and this bill strips public schools of what they need and gives to schools that will have no accountability through the state government.

Aimee Wristen
Self
Abilene, TX

I urge to please not support HB 3- this bill would be detrimental to the future educational state of Texans. As a current educator it is clear that the state of Texas does NOT support this. Public education has been starved for years upon years now- do your job and fully fund public education! It is clear that criminal activity is amiss with the backing of this bill- follow the money! Texas students deserve better and deserve equal opportunities that this bill does not provide. Any logical person is taught to do their research and it is beyond me that our politicians do not follow suit. There is so much evidence out there showing how ESA does NOT do what it claims. In fact, I have yet to find a successful program that can back this concept. More than 20% of Texas schools are rural serving over 600,000 students- this bill would literally do nothing for those students and would serve them in no way. Not only that but there are no strings attached for accountability for private institutions. Tax payer money should be fully accounted for and should stay where it belongs!!!!!! We are fed lies through our so called elected politicians who are supposed to serve the people not their own greedy interests. VOTE NO TO HB3!!

Jill Bostur
Self / Quality Engineer
Austin, TX

No to HB3!

Rachel Mendrek
Self / Public School Teacher of ESL
Austin, TX

The education savings account program is a farse. It is a lie about helping provide equitable education to all. The amount offered does not begin to cover tuition at most private schools. Families would also need to cover other expenses, including uniforms, books, field trips, sports, enrichment and lunch. It just does not make any sense, except as a subsidy for wealthier families. Additionally, most counties in Texas don't even have private schools. Even where private schools exist, most offer no transportation and are housed in areas inaccessible to low income families. Furthermore, in HB2, the voucher program has been rejected over and over by the Texas legislature repeatedly their constituents' preferences. The overwhelming majority of Texans, both Republicans and Democrats, do not want taxpayer dollars meant for public schools going to private education, including religious schools. Stop this idiotic farse and do what is best for ALL children in our state!

Tatem Oldham

Self counselor

Austin, TX

I fear this bill will decimate our public school system. My kids are both enrolled in public schools in buildings 70+ years old. They have rat problems, raccoon problems, roof problems and a major lack of resources. This bill won't help the truly needy afford private school. It will just be a stipend for those who can already afford private school while weakening our pension system, our public schools and our educational foundation. Thank you, a concerned middle class Texan parent.

Wanda Stuart, Mrs.

Self/Retired educator

Bryan, TX

I want a quality education for all Texas students. I have grandchildren in the public education system. I want the very best for them. Taking funding from the public education system is wrong. Instead, we should increase funding to the public education so that class size can be reduced. By reducing class size, teachers can provide concentrated attention to students. Vote NO to vouchers!

Jamie Martin

Self

Cooper, TX

I am AGAINST the ESA bill (HB3). We already have school choice in Texas, this bill is not necessary. It is clear there are plenty of private donors with an interest in The education system and pushing this. Why not suggest to those guys that they use those funds and set up scholarships for Texans all over to apply for and use. There is no need to use state money for something like this. Like I said, we already have school choice. Vouchers will not fix the education system. I highly recommend that all of our political officials spend one week, even better, one month with a core subject teacher and see how you can better help. I will guarantee that vouchers will not be on your radar. I would also add the insanely hard push by Abbott for this has turned away so many conservatives. If our great state turns blue this bill alone will be the reason.

Teresa Castillo, Retired teacher of 30 years

Self/former teacher

Lexington, TX

I strongly oppose HB3.

Public schools should be fully funded and taxpayer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability.

Jeremy Davis

Self—Athletic Trainer

Shallowater, TX

HB3—. This bill is bad for public education. Children that want to go to private schools find a way without these vouchers. Many of the small details of this bill will make smaller public schools have difficulty keeping their doors open. Public educators have a big voice when it comes to voting. This will be bad for all involved if it gets passed. Withholding tax dollars for public education until this gets passed is not good practice. All this bill does is allow those with money to have more of it. Public schools should not be funding testing and evaluating kids in private schools as this bill allows.

Linda Sefton
Self
Universal City, TX

The Government School system has, had decades to clean up their act, but failed! We can no longer accept that tens of thousands of miss are written off as collateral damage and allow them to fall through the cracks and reach adulthood without being properly educated. Our entire state is suffering from having a poorly educated populace and it has to stop now! No one cares more for children than their parents and nothing gives a parent me grief and anxiety than seeing their child trapped in a system that causes actual damage to their little one, whether it is overcrowding, social engineering, lack of discipline, bullying, or teaching that does not like up with an individual child's learning style. The fact that the entire system os defended based on adult's job security, athletic programs ans protecting institutions rather than being child centrix, is absolutely outrageous. Put children first and vote yes for school choice!

Patricia Morgan
self
Austin, TX

This is a scam. Let private be private and public be public. If the free market can bear it, let there be private schools. If private schools cannot attract enough students to keep the doors open they should shut down. We need our public schools to be fully funded. The salaries of teachers and staff are a disgrace. Private schools get to pick and choose their students. Public schools educate every kind of student- including the very challenging students. We have a surplus of money in the state coffers- for the love of God spend this money fixing foster care and Child Protective Services! How long does that travesty have to go on? Sending kids to private school is a luxury. Placing kids in the CPS system is a necessity. Republicans, do you really want to help children? Walk the walk!

Linda Wright
Self
Aledo, TX

I am completely AGAINST school voucher funding in Texas. Public education should be our priority not private schools!

- Vouchers divert taxpayer money from public schools, which are already struggling to meet the needs of all students, to private schools, which may not be accountable to the public.
- Vouchers could lead to a decrease in funding for public schools, potentially impacting teacher salaries, resources, and programs, especially in underserved communities.
- Vouchers could exacerbate existing inequalities by allowing wealthier families to send their children to private schools, potentially creating a two-tiered system where public schools are left to serve primarily low-income and minority students.
- Voucher programs lack accountability, as private schools are not subject to the same regulations and oversight as public schools, potentially leading to lower quality education and a lack of transparency.
- Voucher programs disproportionately benefit wealthier families who can afford to pay for private school tuition, while low-income families may not have access to the same opportunities.
- Vouchers were first created after the Supreme Court banned school segregation with its ruling in Brown v Board of Education. School districts used vouchers to enable white students to attend private schools, which could (and still can) limit admission based on race.
- Rural communities, where public schools are often the center of the community, could suffer if funding is removed from public schools.
- Voucher programs in other states often have varying mechanics or eligibility requirements, and costly administrative burdens to implement and manage.

Jennifer Becker
Teachers in Texas
Austin, TX

This bill has been defeated numerous times. It is clear that it is not supported. It will not be available to all, it will tank TRS, and it will devastate public school funding. Continuing to fight for this bill, despite the obvious wishes of the public seems less like governing and more like a petulant child insisting they get their way.

Jesse Randle

Myself

HORSESHOE BAY, TX

Please do NOT support this bill. Please do NOT spend PUBLIC MONEY ON PRIVATE SCHOOLS!

Patrick Heep

self

Navasota, TX

This is the most un-American thing you can do. The separation of church and state is a basic good policy as it keeps all religious leaders from tainting the democratic way of life. These religious schools don't allow for any/all students to participate. These non-public schools don't accept the most difficult students because it takes more teachers/specialists to teach these students. Public school districts can not actively get into elections with public representatives and fund-raising like the church affiliated schools currently do. Why would you break a basic rule of a democratic society? Greed to expand your district voters by turning over public tax money for private institutions. And then from what I can see of any new "rules" for the private institutions, there will NOT be the public school rules to be audited, be tested, be open to public scrutiny. BAD BAD bill for all Texans if this is put into the law books.

Judy Cole

School board trustee

Bridge City, TX

I am strongly against vouchers. This will place burdens on our public schools. Vouchers should not be allowed to pay for private schools. This is public money for public schools.

Adam Humphrey

Self

Austin, TX

The school voucher system is completely unnecessary. It is a ploy to undermine public education and enrich owners of private schools. We need to improve funding of public schools to ensure that all children have equal opportunities for education. It is your responsibility to use the public's taxes to improve public resources first and foremost.

Brett Bothwell, Dr.

self

Spring, TX

If you actually pay attention to the political speech regarding this topic, you can see this issue is purely political - the right trying to weaken public education and fund the rich. If there is anything wrong with public education that needs to be fixed, you can 100% look to the Republican party, which has governed Texas for at least 30 years, mostly unopposed. When the speaking point is that public education is not performing well, the Republicans should be held to account for that. Logically, if they are responsible for causing this HB 3 need, allowing them to solve it may not be the best option. Politically, this bill gives $10,000 to wealthy people who already spend that money - they don't "need" the money, but the bill gives $1 billion to wealthy families. The 500% rule indicates that this bill is not directed towards low-income families (as 500% far exceeds even TEAs standards). This bill does not address the needs of SpEd students, particularly because private schools often do not accept these students, and when they do, they still pull funding away from public education to serve these kids - the bill does not change that. Because private schools often have shown they do not have space for massive numbers of additional students as they are have waiting lists to get in, there will not be a massive movement from public to private (due to space), which means the threshold to prioritize low-income and SpEd will not be met, leaving the only people getting the money to be the wealthy families that already have their children in private schools. You could write this bill to exclude the majority or all families with an income above $160,000, for example, which would be much more acceptable. Instead, those families are the primary target of sending $10,000 per child from my view. Why is the state so interested in giving $1 billion of taxpayers' money to wealthy people instead of to low-income people. And, if that is truly the intent, which I believe it is, why would the people support this bill. The House is supposed to represent the people, and this does not seem as though they would be. My last issue is the number of people who work for the Texas state government that will benefit from this program directly ($10,000 in their pockets per child) or either their businesses or family relation businesses that will profit from this bill being passed is suspicious. IN SUMMARY - if you want a bill that helps low-income and SpEd students, it could be written to exclude wealthy families. If it does not get rewritten to exclude wealthy families, then I believe it is designed for wealthy families who will disproportionately be receiving this money instead of the low-income families. All other states that have instituted something like this have failed to live up to the original promises - Texas will just be following suit. Please rewrite to exclude wealthy families or deny this bill's passage.

Sarah Pennebaker

Self

Weatherford, TX

Respectfully, Texas does not need a voucher program. Texas already has school choice as parents have a vast number of options in schooling: homeschool, charter, public, private, etc. All the voucher program has done is rob public schools of funding that they are in dire need of. After serving on my local school board for 4 years, I became much more educated on school finance and these schools need more financial assistance. Please fund our rural schools as they need and do not pass a school voucher program.

Todd Pruner

Self - Product Management

Austin, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose HB 3 and the school voucher program. This program is a handout to wealthy families who can already afford private school. A significant number of Texas counties do not even have a private school inside county limits, and therefore would be subsidizing private schools for residents in other counties. Because Texas public school funding is tied to enrollment, creating incentives to leave the public school system will weaken it. Private schools can discriminate regarding who is allowed to attend, and can deny admission to students of color, disabled or special needs students, or students who don't subscribe to a specific religion. This bill is a handout to rich families and private school investors, and I do not support it. The founding fathers of our country specified that there should be a separation between church and state, and this bill disregards their intent by allowing religious schools who serve a specific religion to receive public funds, and this is wrong. Please vote against HB 3 and instead, provide funding for our existing public schools in Texas.

Angela Sherr
Self/ teacher
Richardson, TX

Please oppose vouchers and vote no on HB3.

Laura NICKERSON
Self
Sumner, TX

I feel that the proposed educational voucher system will be a disastrous for the education in Texas. It will not benefit the children of Texas. It is a scam and will be taking away valuable money from public education. Everyone already has a choice to chose. DO NOT TAKE MONEY FROM OUR CHILDREN to fund this.I do not support this. Please vote this bill down and save our public education.

Amy Linex
Self/Public Schools
FERRIS, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Pamela Rickel
Self
Hutto, TX

I strongly oppose HB3. Public schools are the core of our communities and they should be adequately funded. Our tax dollars should not be spent on private schools. Parents already have school choice. Vote no!!

Marland Dewbre
Self
Levelland, TX

As a Texas Taxpayer I do not support the funding for vouchers and ask that our legislators fully fund Texas Public Education.

Amy Moore

Self

Austin, TX

Texas House of Representatives

Committee on Public Education

Public Hearing on HB3

March 11, 2025

Dear Honorable Representatives,

I am writing as a Texas parent, taxpayer, and voter to ask the Committee not to move forward with HB3. This is not what the overwhelming majority of Texans across the state want for their hard-earned, taxpayer dollars. This bill is not fiscally responsible, as it creates another bureaucratic system, and it has virtually none of the accountability we ask of our public schools. Please listen to the voices of your constituents, many of whom do not have a private school or tutoring company in their county.

Texans want their local, public school districts to thrive, which has been hard for them to do because they have not had a basic allotment raise since 2019. If there is $1B sitting in an extra pot of money somewhere, then please use it to bolster our public school districts across the state.

Thank you for your consideration,

Amy Moore

Jessica Campos

Self

Houston, TX

My name is Jessica Campos, and I am a parent in Houston ISD. I keep hearing that 'parents know best,' but let me tell you the truth—many of us don't always know, not because we don't care, but because we are struggling to survive in this economy.

Many of us are working nonstop, sometimes two or three jobs, just to put food on the table. We don't have the bandwidth to research every policy change, every school rating, every so-called 'choice' you claim to give us. Some of us don't even have internet at home. Some of us don't have cars to drive our kids across town. And what happens when we finally do find a school we think could help? If our child has a disability, they can just say no. Private schools don't have to take our kids. They don't have to provide bilingual education. They don't have to offer special education services.

So tell me, who does this really help? Because it's not families like mine. HISD is 50% Spanish-speaking, yet most of our parents have never even heard of 'school choice' because no one is explaining it to them. If you really cared about helping us, you would come into our communities, talk to our parents in our language, and ask what we actually need.

I am one of these parents. I have a child with special needs, and I am fighting every single day to get her the education she deserves. Instead of making public schools stronger, you are forcing families like mine into a system that wasn't built for us. Vouchers don't help when private schools can turn our kids away. 'School choice' isn't real when it only works for the privileged few.

What we need is investment in public schools, not a system that pushes out the families that need them the most.

Marisa Bernard

Self- stay at home mom

Boerne, TX

As the mother of 3 public school students who attend a GREAT public school, I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability.

Susan Backer
Self and family
Liberty Hill, TX

Our public tax dollars need to go to public schools and public schools only. No vouchers! Release the surplus of money and help our Texas Public Schools.

Timothy Mann
Self
Buda, TX

I oppose ESAs and School Vouchers in all forms. Stop wasting tax dollars on special interests and fully fund our teachers and public schools.

Jennifer Ferguson
SBISD
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,
We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Linda Shell
Self
Georgetown, TX

I am against this bill. I believe it will cause irreparable harm to public education and only help the wealthy districts. Fund public education for all. No to vouchers.

Beverly McCain
Self
Katy, TX

I demand that you do not vote against this bill to enrich already rich parents while abandoning the children of the state. Education in Texas is in poor shape already due to the lack of funding and low pay for teachers. This bill will further gut the schools that need it most and decimate the programs that our children need. Many rural areas, 150 counties, do not even have private schools for children even if the parents could afford to send them. This is not why I pay extremely high school taxes in the Katy ISD. It's bad for the Texas taxpayer, bad for public educators, and bad for the kids in our public school classrooms. Personally, it will cost $24,000 for my granddaughter - out of pocket to replace they program for dyslexia that will be cut from her school. Support our children, do your job and represent us.

Jennifer Clarke
SETX Impact Initiative
Nederland, TX

An education savings account program does not benefit the majority of Texas kids who have a right to accessible education.

You are sacrificing full access to education for millions of Texas kids.

It doesn't matter what language you wrap these bills in. They are bad for Texans. And that's who you represent.

Cara Johnson
Self
Austin, TX

Private schools receiving voucher funds are not subject to the same level of oversight and accountability as public schools. This can include a lack of standardized testing, curriculum requirements, and financial transparency. Our tax dollars must be used responsibly and private schools will not ensure that. In addition vouchers will lead to even greater inequality. As the mother of a second grade son, and as someone who cares deeply about the children in the state of Texas, I again urge you to vote no on HB 3. Thank you

Isabella Ness
Self, Author
San Antonio, TX

Public education is the crown jewel of Texas and you have sullied it beyond all recognition with the introduction of the voucher scam. Putting profits above children is the most un-Christian and un-American legislation I've seen in a very long time: Shame on you, shame on your wealth, and shame on every choice you make that strips children of their protections and birthright to build a better life for themselves and their families. If you sleep at night I hope your dreams plague you with the misery and guilt you deserve. The children will learn, someday and somehow, the way you have wronged them, and I hope you never know forgiveness a day in your life.

Christy Doolen
Self
Austin, TX

School vouchers will hurt our public schools and cost our state even more money. People who go to private schools can afford them outright. They do not need help with costs.

Savannah Stoute, Ms.
Self
Wimberley, TX

I oppose any legislation that pulls funds from already underfunded public schools. Public schools are vital to our communities and provide education and opportunities to children in our state.

Angela Wong
Self
Austin, TX

Please vote no on HB3. As someone who was raised in the public education system and now a parent with children in public schools, I'm acutely aware of how public schools are in need of more investment and support. This would severely tax an already over-burdened infrastructure. Our public schools connect our communities and neighborhoods. It's incredibly important that we can provide a healthy, accessible and equitable education to our children.

Jasana Tichy
Self
Arlington, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Jose Elias
Self
Houston, TX

My name is Jose, and I am a Houston ISD parent. I keep hearing politicians say that vouchers help low-income families, but that’s a lie. Vouchers are a scam designed to keep the rich getting richer while the poor keep getting screwed. If you actually cared about low-income families, you would know that we don’t have the time, money, or resources to ‘choose’ a private school. We don’t have the luxury to drive our kids across the city. Many of us don’t even have a car. Private schools don’t have to take our kids, and they don’t have to offer bilingual education or special ed services. So tell me—how exactly does this help working-class families? It doesn’t. It’s just another way to drain money from public schools and push out the families that need them the most. Stop lying about caring about low-income families. If you really cared, you would be investing in our public schools, not stealing from them to fund private institutions that don’t serve us. Vouchers are a scam, and we see right through it.

INNA MORASCH
Self, Business OPs
Austin, TX

NO to HB 3!!! Private schools should be funded by private funds not public tax payers money. If you take that route, you doom the foundation of accessible and quality education for all and its community as a whole.

Beverly MacNaughton
self
Austin, TX

Please do not allow school vouchers to pass in Texas. A strong and well funded public system helps to promote a strong work force in the future. This plan will hurt smaller communities that do not even have an option for private schools. This program only serves to hurt the most vulnerable children in our state. Why are setting up a system that will give money to wealthy Texans that can well afford private school tuition. This will damage our state!

Jennifer Barall
Self
Allen, TX

Support public schools! No vouchers!

Claire Miller
Self
Mansfield, TX

Good morning! I am a mother to 4 children that attend Mansfield ISD. Please oppose this bill SB3 for the sake of all public school students in Texas.

You are aware that many counties won't even benefit from this, as there are not private schools accessible. We know students with special needs will not benefit, as many private schools are not trained and equipped to handle them.

As a family at the poverty level in Texas, this bill will not give us any more choice than we have now. We can not afford to put even one of our children in private school even if we wanted or needed to. This bill will only serve upper class families that already have choice because of their income level.

Mansfield ISD prides itself on being a district of choice! One of our children attended schools in the district focusing on fine arts, and our youngest attends a Dual Language program. Please support what these districts are already accomplishing for students and support public education!

Juan Jose Reyes
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1. Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
2. HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
3. Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
4. We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Juan Jose Reyes

Graydon Jones
Self, Pastor
Fort Worth, TX

Public schools are one of the truest representations of our state, they are communities that welcome all, they are the standard for a benevolent vocation (teaching), and they need our support. I believe that vouchers will hurt my child and my neighbors' children. Please do not support this bill. Sincerely, Graydon Jones

Jenny Stevenson
Wilchester Elementary School
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,
We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Kaili Tseng
Self
MCKINNEY, TX

No voucher bill from Gov. Abbot!!! We want our public school funding to go up. My son's district has been cutting staff left and right, this is negatively affecting the quality of education the kids are receiving!!

Lucinda Melendez
Self
Arlington, TX

Please fund public schools. Let the rich pay their own private school tuition.

Amanda Tadana
Self
Arlington, TX

Praying this bill passes. We reside in a poor performing school district and even though there is a fantastic public school less than 10 miles from us, we are not permitted to transfer in. My son has special needs and his educational needs could be met by a great private school down the street but we in no way can afford it. Please vote for HB 3!

Cynthia Warner
Self
Prosper, TX

As a taxpayer as well as former educator, I propose my Senators and Representatives to oppose HB3. School voucherz only brnefit the wealthy and weaken the public education. The quality private schools will be full and inferior ones will appear, Private schools hire non certified teachers and dont have the facilities to accimodate the needs of students wuth spevial needs. The vouchers don't address root problems of our schools. Enrolling in private schools only change the geography of the real problems. Please vote against vouchers. Thank you for your consideration.

Katrina Kolb

Self

Leander, TX

I am deeply opposed to HB 3 by Buckley. This bill is yet another attempt to undermine public education in favor of Governor Abbott's push for school vouchers... an agenda fueled by out-of-state money and special interests rather than the actual needs of Texas students. Texans should be outraged that our governor is prioritizing private and religious institutions over the very public schools that serve the vast majority of our children.

At the same time that Texas lawmakers are trying to force the Ten Commandments into public schools, dictating what children must be exposed to, there is no such mandate for private schools, which will benefit from public funds with no oversight. Why are public schools being held to a different standard while taxpayer money is funneled into private institutions that can operate however they please? This is not about school choice; it's about dismantling public education while enriching private entities with public dollars.

If legislators truly cared about Texas students, they would be investing in public education, supporting teachers, and addressing real issues like underfunding, teacher shortages, and student well-being. HB 3 is a direct attack on public schools, and I urge you to reject it in favor of policies that strengthen, not weaken, our education system.

Courtney Prochaska

Spring Branch ISD

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Christopher Knecht
Northside AFT
San Antonio, TX

This program has proven to be a bad deal for the public in every state it has been tried, the data is clear.

1.75% of the students that benefit are already in private school (A coupon)

2. The students that do leave the public schools have terrible outcomes on par with learning loss during COVID, why? Because they are being admitted to "sub-prime" private schools, not the elite.

3. It drains money and leads to increased debt and eventually property tax increases just to pay for programs parents are used to seeing for their kids.

4. The parents don't choose. The schools choose. They have language in the bill that allows the private schools to reject kids for any reason. We already have a Parent choice law in Texas for kids stuck in low performing schools. Why not improve that program? Because it's about transferring money to the donor class,not helping kids in Texas.

As a Texas teacher with over 20 years of experience. I urge the Texas legislature to reject this voucher bill and fully invest in public education for the first time in decades.

Chris Knecht
San Antonio, TX

Katy Dougharty
self
cedar park, TX

I oppose opening the ESA fund for private/for-profit school vouchers in Texas. All of those funds should be placed into the Foundation School Funds for our public education systems that supports and cares for 5.5million students.

Based on your assumed cost projections for the proposed ESA, I request that and increase of $1,300 per public education be gradually installed by 2030.

Valerie MacLaurin
Self
Austin, TX

I have four children, two who currently attend public school in Austin. My older children graduate from public school and attended Texas public universities. I am happy with our public schools. The staff of our school work hard and truly care about the students. I am opposed to educational choice that uses public money for private school. Our family has significant tax burden with property and sales tax and I do not want my tax dollars being spent on vouchers.

Larry Redmond
Self
Hutto, TX

I am opposed to this bill. Put it to a public vote. Not the rich republicans who will be the ones who benefit from this. Let the people speak. We don't want it.

Brittini Garcia-King

Self

Midlothian, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

JONATHAN CAFFEY

LISD schools

Cedar Park, TX

NO TO HB 3!!!! NO

Jennifer Slater, Principal

Self

Lake Jackson, TX

Texas Texas and principals vehemently oppose this bill. By passing HB3, you are creating an even larger financial disparity for our students. Taking away PUBLIC funds to give to private institutions goes against the very foundation of our government. As a public educator and principal of a Title 1 school with 75% economically disadvantaged students, I have seen students coming in to our district that were “homeschooled” by their parents and are now years behind, because they did not do anything during that time. And now you want to give them money to do “nothing?” While your bill sets forth guidelines to supposedly prevent this, how well has that worked for Medicaid and Social Security? Let’s face it, there’s going to be rampant abuse in this system of vouchers, and the KIDS will pay the price. Not to mention the public school, when the parents returns them to public school. Meanwhile, our students in public schools will suffer every day because of reduced enrollment and reduced funding. You are robbing our students of the education AND RESOURCES they deserve. Do NOT vote for this bill. All Texas teachers will ensure any lawmaker who votes for this bill will be voted OUT next term. We deserve better!!!

Lynnor Matheney

Self

Spring, TX

Please support public schools in Texas. I do not support vouchers.

Tracy Matheson

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Sidney Beenken

Self

Paige, TX

Texans do NOT want vouchers and the resistance to place this issue on the ballot is both cowardly and dishonest. Gov. Abbott has been bought and paid for with out-of-state money and has no shame. Put money into our schools! Pay our teachers more! There is NO benefit to our kids with this bill and everyone knows it. Parents who want private schools already use them. This bill will gut our public schools....which I'm about to conclude is the goal of this administration. If you truly believe in "government by the people, for the people" then place this issue on the ballot as a single issue and let the people have the voice they are guaranteed under our constitution. Do not support this. Do not bow down to bought and paid for Abbott and his fear tactics. Stand up for the people's right to have a voice. Do not pass this bill!

Jonathan Norwood, Dr.

Self; clinical psychologist

Leander, TX

I am a parent who opposes HB 3 and any school voucher program. We have an obligation to provide universal free education to our children.

Gloria Sassman

Self (Retired Human Resource Director)

Austin, TX

I oppose using public school funds for private school funding.

Stacy Caffey

LISD schools

Cedar Park, TX

NO TO HB 3!!! PLEASE NO TO HB 3

Amy Smuts

Self

Dallas, TX

I support public schools and oppose HB3

Tana Palafox
Self. Teacher
Abilene, TX

Wealthy families are major beneficiaries of similar universal voucher schemes that already have been enacted in other states, including Arizona, while many low-income parents, even with vouchers, can't afford to send their children to private schools.

And, as reported last week by the San Antonio Express-News, critics also warn that many special education students would get left in public schools that already are severely underfunded and understaffed. Vouchers that would be offered to special education students wouldn't come close to covering the high tuition charged by the few private schools that accept students with special needs.

Many public-school districts in Texas are operating with large budget deficits because Gov. Abbott and the Legislature haven't increased their basic per-student funding allotment since 2019. And these public schools will continue to educate the vast majority of Texas students. Public tax dollars belong in public schools and should not be diverted to private schools and their upper-income students.

HB 3 is a voucher and will funnel taxpayer dollars through education savings accounts to students for private school tuition and related expenses at an initial cost of $1 billion in state funds for the first two years that should go to our public schools.

That amount will increase in subsequent years, at a growing loss to public education and other critical public services.

State tax dollars must not be diverted from public to private schools. I oppose vouchers and related schemes — including education savings accounts, tax-credit scholarships and for-profit virtual schools — that use tax dollars to pay private school tuition for selected students while undermining public schools where the vast majority of Texas students are educated.

Voucher schemes across the country have proven to be burdensome on state budgets, and a Texas voucher would eventually add billions of dollars to the state budget without an additional funding mechanism.

The universal voucher plan that Gov. Abbott supports has been used in other states to funnel tax-paid subsidies to wealthy parents who already were sending their children to private schools, while many low-income families, even with vouchers, can't afford private school tuition.

I urge you to vote NO to vouchers! Vote NO on SB 2 and HB 3!
Thank you, Tana Palafox

Joan Olson
Self
Mansfield, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

School vouchers have not been successful in other states and it only benefits the wealthy.

Ella Haag
self
Garland, TX

I will not abide my public dollars going to private institutions. This bill is a "handout" to the wealthy. That's who you serve, isn't it?

Sarah Harman
Self
Merkel, TX

This will destroy and already VERY fragile public school system. The rural community schools, where my children attend, will not be able to survive. Please just give public schools more funding!

nicole badovinac
Self
Arlington, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Shawn Kirkpatrick
Self
Lakeway, TX
For the bill.

Heather Breen
self
Austin, TX

"I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education."

Daniel Barton
Self
Cleveland, TX

Please vote no on vouchers/ESAs.

Holly pair
Self/ diagnostician
Corsicana, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Stephanie Shelby
Self
Flower Mound, TX

The voucher program is a disgrace to our public education system. Favoring the students from wealthy parents and harming the students from lower income by removing funds from the public school system. Anyone who votes for vouchers are entitled elitists and loses my vote for you for any future public office.

Meredith Bouchey
Self
The Woodlands, TX

I am strongly against HB 3 and I urge all representatives to vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy.

I am disappointed in the Texas lawmakers who support vouchers and ESA for working against the best interests of the public schools in our state and playing politics with our kids education.

Private schools are not school choice because the parents aren't able to chose a school - the private schools have all the power to select students by whatever criteria they determine. Private schools don't have to accommodate (and generally aren't equipped to handle students with special needs). Private schools don't provide transportation or free meals for economically disadvantaged students.

Reva Kestef, Retired teacher
Retired teacher
Weatherford, TX

Vote for public education. Stop holding our public schools hostage!

Amanda Carrell-Munywoki
Self/public school teacher
Denton, TX

I urge you to vote agains HB 3. I am concerned that the passing of this bill will weaken our public school system. Public schools should be fully funded. Vouchers for private schools will mostly benefit wealthy families that already attend private schools. You work for and should be serving the public as a whole, not the wealthy few.

Julie Wieters

self - Literacy Coach for a Title 1 school

Addison, TX

As an educator I am strongly opposed to HB 3 and beg our legislators to keep this bill from passing. I currently serve as a Literacy Coach in underserved schools but am also very familiar with the private school world. It sickens me to think that millions - maybe even billions- of dollars will be stolen from our public schools under the false promise of "parent choice". Parents already have a choice of how to school their children- well at least wealthier parents have a choice. Our public schools are in desperate need of funds and quality educators - that will not happen if HB 3 passes. Private schools are already bursting at the seams so it is a false promise to tell parents that they will now have the money to send their kids to private school - $10,000 is not enough for most school tuitions and there is no room!

I cannot see why intelligent and dedicated Texans would pass this bill and I hope and I pray that they will outnumber the greedy and foolish ones who want it to go through.

For the sake of our youngest Texans, please do what is best and what is right - vote against HB 3.

Lia Hellman

Self

Muenster, TX

Highly Oppose HB 3!

Jaclyn Meng

Self

Abilene, TX

I am opposed to this Bill. The money proposed for the voucher programs should instead be directed to public schools increasing the allotment per student. Public funds should go to public education and the teachers and schools that have to follow state guidelines, meet the needs of special education, bus students, and educate them no matter where they live in our state. Using part of the surplus to go to unregulated schools that can choose who to accept and don't have to play by the same rules is unacceptable.

Wes Brumit

self

Longview, TX

As a staunch conservative, I'm asking that you vote No on HB 3. Creating more bureaucracy does not empower Texas families to educate their children how they deem necessary. This bill does not create freedom of education as it has been portrayed.

BreAnna Jacinto

Teacher & Mother

Desoto, TX

I completely oppose HB3 along with the vast majority of voting Texans. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas. We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the "bought"? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Tamara Waddell
Self, mom, architect
Austin, TX

All students deserve a quality education. Please consider realistic funding to sustain the amazing work our public schools do. My son has a wonderful support team and it kills me that they might suffer financially or feel unsupported. I know folks at private schools who are discriminated against. It's not the answer. Better funding our public schools is the right answer. Don't be greedy.

Kelley Cummins
Self
Lewisville, TX

I strongly disagree with HB3. I have a 3rd grader, 1st grader, and soon to be kindergartener attending public school in Lewisville ISD. This fall, because of lack of funds, our school board had to decide to close 5 elementary schools, one of which is our school that is ranked 10/10 on Great Schools. Please do not give more money to those seeking private school education. This will not real "choice". Private schools can deny admission to any kid for any reason they want. It is not "choice" when the private schools have all the power. The majority of counties Texas do not have a private school in them, so all that will be accomplished is less funding for our already struggling schools. The vouchers will not cover the cost for private school, so all it will do is give a discount to already wealthy families. Private schools do not have to provide transportation or special education services, so this is not a fair "choice". HB3 will bankrupt our public schools. I am fine with private schools, and those that choose to attend them, but they need to pay for them on their own. Public dollars are for public schools. You will be using the tax dollars of my hardworking family and neighbors to fund benefits for the already wealthy. I am a strong Christian and firmly believe this is the most un-Christlike thing we could decide to do. We already have so many choices- in LISD we can transfer to other schools if they are a better fit, and many do. Please vote NO on HB3 and vote YES to raise the basic allotment. Our children ("the least of these" as Jesus said) need you to stand up for them!

Taylor Norton
self - teacher
Georgetown, TX

I am writing to express my deep concerns about HB3 and as your constituent and a public school teacher in Texas, I urge you to vote against its passage. This bill proposes a school voucher program that would divert public funds—an estimated $1 billion over two years—from already underfunded public schools to subsidize private education. Texas public schools serve over 5.5 million children and are struggling with severe financial challenges, often forced to cut staff and resources. Redirecting these vital funds will further strain public schools, leaving the majority of Texas students in more dire conditions and widening the gap in access to quality education. Public schools are the bedrock of our communities, and their ability to provide equitable education opportunities should not be sacrificed.

Additionally, HB 3 lacks sufficient accountability measures for private schools receiving taxpayer dollars. Unlike public schools, private institutions are not held to the same oversight standards, particularly regarding standardized testing and services for students with disabilities. This creates a two-tiered system where public schools face strict accountability while private schools operate with minimal transparency, leaving students and families vulnerable. Furthermore, the proposed voucher amounts are insufficient to cover the full cost of private education, putting low-income families at a disadvantage and exacerbating educational inequities. Texas should prioritize strengthening its public education system, not undermining it with initiatives that fail to serve the majority of its students. I respectfully urge you to consider these impacts and vote no on House Bill 3.

Mary Holt
Self, public school teacher
Prosper, TX

My husband and I are public school teachers. Our daughter attends public school. We HAVE school choice. Please do the right thing. Abbott has sold out for money hoping Texas wouldn't notice. But we have. There is absolutely no reason why public funds should be used for private schools. It is just for others to get rich at the expense of Texas children. Please.

Lauren Sieckenius

Self

Uvalde, TX

I am here to speak against HB 3. I am a mother of 2 Uvalde CISD students. I vote NO school vouchers. No matter how many times Abbott tries to promote this move as positive, we all know it will be financially disastrous to many districts across the state. Especially, rural districts like my own. I do NOT see how we can take from these teachers and students anymore than we already have. I can guarantee if you put this bill on a ballot and let the people of Texas vote, it would be a landslide NO, again. Abbott is too scared of that. Therefore, he's using his power push it through anyways. LET THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS VOTE ON IT!!! It's only fair!!

Blythe Goodin

Self-Customer Support Analyst

Cedar Park, TX

NO to ESAs and NO to De-Funding Public Education and Special Education

Dear Legislators,

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools.

I am writing as a deeply concerned parent of two autistic sons who rely on our public education system for the specialized support essential to their growth and development. Every day, dedicated educators provide the tailored interventions and nurturing environment that help my children overcome unique challenges, fostering skills that empower them to engage with the world. Cutting funds to public education would not only diminish these critical programs but also jeopardize the progress and futures of children like mine—whose potential depends on consistent, high-quality, and compassionate educational support. I urge you to reconsider any measures that would undermine the resources vital to ensuring every child receives the opportunity to thrive.

ESAs (vouchers) directly hurt students with disabilities who receive Special Education services in Public Schools in the State of Texas. Diverting $1 Billion of my PUBLIC taxpayer money to private schools who do not even acknowledge IDEA, do not follow IEPs and only provide services when they are negotiated, compromised and then charged back to parents at exorbitant rates well above typical tuition rates it is theft of services and money to the most vulnerable population in Texas.

14% of the 5.4 million public school students in Texas receive special education services. That's 760,000 students at a minimum. These ESAs are completely inaccessible to at least 90% of our disabled students, and that is before they have a chance at any lottery or know if a private school will accept, serve, or retain them. There's no accountability. Not of services, not of the $1 Billion of public taxpayer money this legislature wants to pour into private schools and not of impact or outcomes of our disabled students.

Even if we say ALL of the ESAs go to disabled kids receiving special education services, that still leaves a minimum of 700,000 students receiving special education services in underfunded understaffed Public Schools that this state put in this situation. This causes direct harm to these students with disabilities, the most vulnerable individuals in society, and it's at the hands of those who are supposed to represent us.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice (and students), and have the courage to do the right thing: say No to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Blythe Goodin

Madison Shera
Self- Public School Teacher
Lewisville, TX

My name is Madison Shera and I'm a resident of Lewisville, Texas. I have been a Texas public school teacher for 10 years, and I am in strong opposition of this bill which would promote defunding public education and further damage our public school system. I've seen firsthand the challenges our schools face, and wholeheartedly believe that the way to a brighter future for Texas and our children is to fully fund and support our public schools. Taxpayer public dollars should go toward public schools to help them meet the needs of ALL students. I hope you'll agree and oppose this bill. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Kristen Bryant
Self
New Braunfels, TX

Vote no to vouchers. Vote NO to vouchers... unless private schools who take public funds follow our state's accountability standards. They must do what public educators do. Otherwise, you must vote no.

Angie Sifferman, Ms.
Self, Business Consultant
Plano, TX

Please vote NO on public school vouchers. They dilute essential support for public schools, whose funding is guaranteed by the Texas Constitution that you swore an oath to support and defend. There are more than 5,000,000 children in public schools. At most, vouchers will only benefit about 10% of the Texas school children. We all know that "parent choice" is a false flag to hide the real agenda of privatization and support of private religious schools. The concern about uncertified teachers in public schools is magnified in home schooling. The past practice of underfunding (no increase since 2019) is consistent with handicapping public schools. The proposed increased support of $210 per student is insulting, insufficient, and insignificant. That is clearly inadequate when the proposed diversion to private schools is $10,000 per student. Thank you for taking the steps necessary to effect the improved education for the State's public school children that you claim, esp. when the federal government threatens to withdraw its support. Please protect the future of our children and our state. Your vote will be observed closely.

Jessica Mang
Self
Forest Hill, TX

Vote NO. This is a money grab. It does not serve ALL Texans. I DO NOT SUPPORT this Bill.

Charles Rawlings, Jr
Self. Student. Army veteran.
Harker Heights, TX

I believe it is a parents right to choose for their child where they receive their education. I also believe it is safer for children to learn in the walls of their own home.

Susan Pham
Self/mother
Missouri City, TX

No to school voucher. No to subsidizing private school for the rich. No...just NO

John Snelson, Mr.
Self
Dickinson, TX

Public tax dollars need to go to public schools, not private schools.

Justin Gomez

Self- public school Assistant Principal

Leander, TX

Please vote No to vouchers in Texas.

Please fund our public education schools and give the basic allotment of $1300 per student.

Jessica Haskell, Mrs.

Public education teachers

Deer Park, TX

Look at the disaster the vouchers have done to Arizona to the state budget. Please vote no for school vouchers. This bill would harm public education. It would harm our most vulnerable populations including low income and special education students. Passing this voucher bill is setting public education up for failure. No one wants this passed except wealthy families that can already afford private school. Public funds should go to public education. Parents have always had a "choice" on where their kids are to receive an education. There are even open enrollment options in better districts that do not take money away from public schools. Please vote no.

Amanda McCampbell

Self, teacher

Rockwall, TX

I am opposed to HB 3 and what it will do to the Texas public education system.

Juile Bobo

Self

Hurst, TX

Please do not do this! Please, please! Public education is far too important to take funds away from it. I'm the daughter of a public school teacher, and I watched her work so, so hard. I enjoyed my public education, and I have 2 daughters in the HEB school district now, where I went to school and where my mother taught. I think that it is absolutely atrocious of you to think about taking away funds from kids who need the public school system for their educations and give it to people who can attend private schools with their own money! If they don't want to have to pay for private schooling, then their kids can go to public schooling like the rest of us! Thank you.

Jennifer Rainey, Mrs

My family

Spring, TX

Please do not pass this bill.

This is not helpful for Texas families or our communities as a whole. Other states with this program have not seen an improvement in educational outcomes.

For teachers, private schools tend to pay less than public schools. And they do not have access to administrative help that is guaranteed with public funding for children that require 504s.

It's not good for parents. Providing a limited number of vouchers will just increase the price of private schools due to the increase in demand. But also, it is limited by the number of vouchers which means we are not helping everyone that may need help.

It's not good for students. There is no required minimum to graduate with homeschooling and private schools. There are no mandatory help for 504s. And schools also are selective and can discriminate against students.

It's not good for our community. We need well educated people to meet the staffing requirements needed in our state. We have a significant amount of technical jobs that require critical thinking skills. We should be working to improve our curriculum and increasing teacher and staff pay, rather than following through with this bill. Also there is no guarantee that parents who are Homeschooling are actually teaching their children. Which could lead to children with no education and a parent receiving $2000 a year to neglect their children.

Please do not pass this bill! Listen to your constituents and vote no.

Adela Meraz

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. Public education must not suffer. Public schools and the teachers who work within them need our full support. Expanding funding for charter schools fails to ensure adequate funding for 1) children who need accommodations for special learning needs, 2) campus safety needs of students, 3) teacher compensation.

Pam ADAIR

Self/retired FWISD teacher

Fort Worth, TX

All students have a human right to education. Vote no to school vouchers. Vouchers limit choices for all students and give more to people who can afford private schools versus those who need it. We are taking away the rights of all students if you support vouchers. There needs to be an increase in money per student. Teachers and students haven't failed the system, lawmakers have. As a retired teacher I feel that the testing system has failed students and teachers for years. Use that money spent on testing toward helping students in all of our schools and not just the affluent. Why do billionaires who sent our governor money get to decide what's right for all children. If it's done either no agenda, then invest in our students by increasing per student money. I am fortunate to live in a nice neighborhood where our school benefits greatly from the monetary support of PTA's but not all schools have this. I pay high property taxes to support education and am proud to do so. When I became an educator in 2007, I saw firsthand the struggles with inner city schools needing things as simple as choir dresses for contests, basketball shoes and sports equipment just so we could instill pride in our kids to look like the other kids from nicer neighborhoods. We know that fine arts and sports can and do motivate young people to study harder so they can pass classes and be eligible for other things that they love. I had $200 per year budget as a teacher and spent on average $200/month for supplies and materials. Our school was low-performing according to STAAR but some of the most respectful students in the district as far as kindness and character. They matter, their neighborhood schools that they walk to matter, and are a point of pride to them. They are unfortunately a part of generational poverty and education is their key to success and funding is essential to their success. If you want a great education system, go to the teachers who know should love their kids, not just their data and test scores, but know and love their kids, who want for them like what they want for their own.

I think you all forget what happens day to day. Go to school and shadow a student in the inner city, ride the bus, walk to school, ask them about their day and what their dreams are. Build that relationship. It is those people over 50 million children who you represent too, their families and teachers. Do the same for teachers and walk through the process of STAAR, a school day, an athletic event, a fine arts concert and then you would know why we need more funding for all kids. You can do this but, respectfully, I think some of you have forgotten your first priority of taking care of those. If you are a person of faith, this first love includes personal sacrifice, servant hood and looking through a filter of love and a filter of personal accountability. It starts with no vouchers and I am hoping and praying that you see that as clearly as many teachers do. Thank you and bless you.

Jessie Brooks

Self - Retired

Houston, TX

I am opposed to this bill. It takes money that could be better spent in improving public schools for all students and gives it to private schools. Our private schools will suffer tremendously and a system will be set up that will benefit the rich -- who can already afford to send their kids to private school. Please vote NO on this bill. Overall, vote down Christian nationalism!!!

Katheryn Moore, Educator

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Please do not forward this bill for school

Choice and ESAs as is. As an educator with over thirty years experience, please reconsider and correct the major flaws with this bill. 1)This bill grows the government by creating more entities that oversee the plan and that is a bad idea. 2)This bill takes away the freedom and autonomy of educational institutions by limiting participation to only those who use government choices which may not be best for child. 3)This program encourages data mining which invades privacy. 4)This bill will dumb down education by requiring only government options for curriculum and programs. 5)This is not truly the free market working to make things better because of the controlling factors on participants, therefore the controls will actually weaken and water down the educational institution. 6) The controls and stipulations of this bill deter individualized accommodations for students since tight parameters will govern the stipulations of participation. 7) This bill is a financial burden to the taxpayer and creates more spending. 8)Private and home schools that comply will lose their freedom to choose what is best for their students by having to comply with what the state deems best and this will be detrimental to the student. For these reasons and so many more, this is a bad bill. A school choice or ESA program must have few strings attached to be any good or the beauty of competition is stifled and cannot elevate and improve the system. Curriculum should not be dictated. Dumb down and socially driven required state testing is ruining Texas children and should be eliminated and certainly not required. The money must follow the child without strings attached if this plan is to work to improve education and elevate Texas students.

Lauren Muskiet, Mrs
Self- public School Counselor
Spring, TX

As a public school teacher and counselor for over 25 years, I urge all elected officials to vote against any voucher program or ESA. Public tax dollars should go to public schools. Period. Public schools accept all students, no matter their needs or backgrounds, and private schools do not. Public schools provide special education and 504 services to kids in need and private schools are not required to do so. Public schools are held to state mandates and STAAR testing and private schools are not. Texas legislators are beholden to follow the Texas Constitution which requires that Texas fund its public schools. Shame on anyone who is shirking this duty and allowing outside influencers with big money to sway their votes. Texas school children and their families deserve better. Anyone who votes for ESAs or vouchers by any other name will see that reflected in the polls. The overwhelming majority of your constituents do not support this bill.

Theresa (Teri) Wilson
Self
Grand Prairie, TX

This is bad for Texas. More wasteful spending and not rooted in anything good for schools, children, taxpayers, or truth. Texans already have "choice" in their public schools. This bill is about welfare for the wealthy. Brings no accountability. I am one for voice and I say no.

Jeff McKinley
Self/Teacher
New Braunfels, TX

I am against HB 3. I don't believe that tax dollars should go to private schools. To call this school choice is not accurate. Texas has school choice. This bill benefits very few at the expense of public school students. I believe this bill is not supported by the majority of Texans and should be put to a public vote.

Pam Gray
self
Keller, TX

I am totally against vouchers. Public money should only go to public schools. The Texas legislature needs to fully fund its public schools. Vouchers will not end up helping the students in struggling public schools, they will only give monetary breaks to students already in private schools and homeschoolers. People make a choice to send their children to private schools or homeschool them. In making that choice, they should incur the total cost themselves. Vouchers will in no way improve the education of all of Texas' children, only a select few that are already getting "special" schooling. Stop this foolishness!!!!

Mark Dykes
Myself
Childress, TX

Public Tax Dollars should not subsidize private schools.
The voters of Texas should be given the opportunity to vote on the matter.
Unfortunately the Governor has been wrongly influenced by taking campaign contributions from private school donors who own private schools.
Vote NO!

Wendy Stone
Self- Registered Nurse
Fair Oaks Ranch, TX

I oppose the education savings account program as well as the entire voucher plan. Texas has school choice, it needs a fully funded, high quality system that eliminates inequality instead of furthering it. There are several rural areas where students simply will not have the same resources as others, even if their parents are wealthy enough to participate. Fund public schools, provide teachers a living wage, and enable Texas students to obtain an education through the public system. Vouchers have shown to not be successful in other states, we have too many students to take chances that any could fall through the cracks. These students are our future, let's take care of them and ourselves.

Chrissy Healey
Self
Dallas, TX

I urge you to vote against this voucher. My three children attended private school in Dallas from 2015-2020. During those years, I watched the school discriminate against parents who were not donors (on top of the tuition), giving preferential treatment on education opportunities and lowered discipline for serious behavioral offenses. When it was clear one of my children was not learning to read in the way that was preferred by the school, we chose to move to public school. My children have all thrived in public school, where schools are accountable to laws. Test scores for all 3 of my children have skyrocketed.

Private schools do not have to provide the same protections for students that are required of public schools. Few students will actually benefit from a voucher system.

Vouchers will NOT provide competition for public schools. Competition exists when the same rules apply to the competitors; public schools have hundreds of laws, rules and regulations that must be followed; private schools have none.

Priscilla Swanson, Dyslexia Teacher
Self
Rockwall, TX

I am a parent/Texan who opposes HB 3 and any private school vouchers. Our kids and teachers deserve fully public funded schools. Tax payer money should be for public schools and not given to private schools and without any accountability.

Kacy Davis, Mrs.
Self Educator
Trophy Club, TX

Good Morning, as you sit, far removed from a classroom where students with special needs are learning, I am begging you to please not pass HB3. Public School has not had a significant increase in funding in nearly 6 years, we are in need of a solution that equally funds all students. ALL of them. Not a few, not a coupon for rich private school people, ALL students. Please invest in Texas for the future, please invest in public education.

Bruce Melberg
self
Weatherford, TX

I am opposed to HB3 in it's current form and ask that my representative Mike Olcott to please oppose this. Thank you.

Debra Beck

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose vouchers. I am a retired teacher from TN who is now living in TX. I have grandchildren in Texas public schools. Taking tax payer money to fund private schools is robbing public schools of much needed funding. Public schools exist to include all children, not just a select few. I have a grandchild who needs special needs accommodations. Voucher schools do not provide these. Please. Show by your vote that you represent all Texans, not just a few. Rural schools will be affected, too. People by and large love their community schools. Vote to save them! Thank you for your attention.

Harris Flax

Self

Cedar Park, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers! FUND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS. $1300 allotment per student at minimum and across the board teacher pay raises.

Trinity Erwin

Self, Student of NISD

Helotes, TX

Chair Buckley, Vice Chair Bernal, and members of the committee: I am a senior at O'Connor High School and proud product of Northside Independent School District. I stand in opposition to House Bill 3, which threatens the integrity of our public education system and poses harmful consequences for Texas parents, teachers, and students.

While "school choice" sounds appealing in theory, it disproportionately benefits wealthy families while reducing resources for the majority of students who depend on public schools. Living in Texas, I've witnessed families struggle paycheck to paycheck. This voucher program would only cover a portion of private school tuition, leaving families scrambling to pay the remainder.

Moreover, HB3 lacks accountability measures to ensure taxpayer dollars are spent effectively. Unlike public schools, private schools are not held to the same standards of transparency, curriculum requirements, or special education accommodations. Public schools have to take the State of Texas Assessments of Academic Readiness or STAAR test, are required to accept all students, and provide SPED programs—private schools do not and can reject students and avoid offering such services. Instead of funding private alternatives with minimal oversight, we should invest in improving public schools to ensure every child has access to quality education.

Passing HB3 would lead to cuts in essential programs like band, theatre, Advanced Placement classes, SPED services, and sports. At O'Connor, I have been a member of the theatre department, troupe 5872. Theatre has improved my public speaking, teamwork skills, and empathy. My school's AP courses have allowed me to start college as a sophomore in the fall. And thanks to the Independent Study Mentorship or ISM program, I have been able to mentor with an elected office inspiring me to pursue a career in government. Public schools have provided students like me with opportunities to succeed. If HB3 was passed, schools would cut these programs to save money, reducing our opportunities to succeed.

As you review HB3, consider how this bill would have impacted your former peers, students and/or school districts. Public schools provide opportunities for all students—not just those who can afford private alternatives. Texas students deserve a strong public education system that serves everyone equitably.

For these reasons, I urge you to vote against HB3. As I conclude, I want to leave you with one last phrase: the saying goes, "Don't mess with Texas," yet, I am here to tell you, "Don't mess with public education". Thank you.

Mary Russell

self

West Tawakoni, TX

I am violently against this scam! I want my tax dollars to go toward improving PUBLIC schools and PUBLIC school teacher pay!

Katherine Keske, Mrs

Self

Austin, TX

I do not support public taxes going to private schools. Our taxes need to go to public schools to support them. If parents don't want their kids to go to public school, then they should pay out of their own pocket.

Margaret Schulenberg

self/retired

Round Rock, TX

I am firmly opposed to HB 3 or any equivalent bill in the House or Senate.

My opposition rests on two main points.

First, all Texas children deserve a good education, and all Texans deserve a well educated citizenry. Public education is best suited to these dual purposes. Public education, by design, serves all Texans as well as the public good of the state. Vouchers, as they are generally called, will decrease funding for public education, shortchanging not only our children but the future well-being of our state.

I am also opposed to any policy which transfers my tax dollars to a private, profit-seeking entity. Private schools have their place, but they must in fact be private. Giving them my tax dollars is nothing but pork.

There is plenty of room for policy prescriptions and debate to improve our schools and education system. But we must always keep in mind that the private and public sectors serve different purposes.

Vouchers do nothing but enrich a few at my expense, while betraying our children and the future of all Texans.

Christmas Graslle, Mrs

Self

Dallas, TX

I am opposed to HB 3 as I believe it is a dismantling out of public schools. I do not believe this is the right choice for our community and believe this bill will cause great harm to the education of our children please do not move forward with HB 3.

Jessica Vass, Mrs.

Self - Public Educator

Baytown, TX

As a citizen of Texas, a parent of 3 Texans, and an Educator who has spent 21 years educating Texans, I am appalled at the illogical and ignorant idea that public funds should be removed from public schools. The deplorable attacks on public education do not reflect the work I have spent my lifetime on. My fellow public educators and I need your support, not your disdain. We need bold representation, not defunding. We need brave men and women to stand up against this current attack and hear our voices. Parents have always had a choice in Texas. This bill is a sham that will does not hold water fiscally and is morally repugnant. Every child in Texas deserves a high quality education. The data repeatedly shows that the very best way to achieve this is to fund our public schools. Please don't allow Texas to slip into lining the pockets of wealthy donors at the very expense of our greatest resource... our children. FUND PUBLIC EDUCATION! SAY NO TO HB 3!

Angel Fuentes

Houston, Texas of Harris County

Houston, TX

In Houston, which harbors the largest population of foster children in Texas, many of our youth are tragically labeled as forgotten or burdensome. This labeling is not just a label—it's a byproduct of systemic failures that allow subjective criteria and personal connections to influence who receives support and who does not. We must confront this issue head-on to ensure no child is left behind due to arbitrary standards or systemic biases.

To counteract this, I propose that HB3 include a provision that mandates the use of transparent and objective criteria in the allocation of funds from the education savings accounts. Specifically, these criteria must prioritize socioeconomic need over any other factor. This shift will help ensure that support reaches those who need it most, rather than those who are simply well-positioned or well-connected.

Moreover, to combat nepotism and favoritism, which are all too common in such programs, there must be rigorous oversight and accountability mechanisms. These should include:

Regular audits by independent bodies to assess compliance with the needs-based allocation criteria.

Public reporting of the demographics and socioeconomic status of the beneficiaries to ensure transparency.

Grievance procedures that allow families and advocates to report and challenge unfair practices within the system.

By embedding these safeguards into the legislation, we can start to dismantle the barriers that have historically prevented equitable distribution of resources in Texas. This is not merely a legislative change but a moral imperative to uphold the dignity and rights of every child in our community.

Jennifer Mlodzik

Self, Teacher/School Librarian

Leander, TX

NO to VOUCHERS

Funding to PUBLIC SCHOOLS

$1300 Basic Allotment per child

Sandy Self

Self/teacher

Canadian, TX

Public school monies should stay with public schools! We already have a terrible time with school funding as it is. This bill will drastically hurt rural schools like mine! This bill is NOT good for Texas nor our students. Class sizes have grown due to loss of funding already. After teaching for 38 years, I can promise you, class sizes matters. Please fully fund our public schools so that our students can receive the best education possible. If this passes, how do you plan to hold them accountable? If they don't have to go through the same STAAR test as public schools, then you should stop the test altogether. It's poorly written and designed to make our students fail anyway. When a test question is asked on a way to purposely trick a child, well, that's totally unacceptable! Fully fund public schools, and give teacher the pay they deserve, or you're going to wake up and not have any good public school teachers left. The teacher shortage will only increase and the problem will continually grow! Trust me! Please do not let this bill pass.

Sara Thompson, Ms.

Self/Retired

Austin, TX

Vote NO on vouchers! ALL children need to become thoughtful, informed citizens. We cannot prepare our Texas kids for the future without a strong and well funded system of public schools. If we divert public funding, the future—ours and theirs—will be the worse for it!

Sheila Weekly

Self

Austin, TX

I support public education and believe that diverting funds through school vouchers will greatly damage our public school system. We ignore the masses by allowing privileges to a few. Effective public education protects our future by educating most of our young people to be productive citizens in the future.

Let's direct our funds to bettering public schools which serves the majority of our children.

Angel Fuentes, Mr.

Houston, TX in Harris County

Houston, TX

Angel Fuentes Enters and Addresses the Court of Congress

"May it please the Court,

My name is Angel Fuentes. I stand before you today not only as a proud Texan and patriot but as a foster child alumni who has navigated every facet of our state's support systems. From childhood to adulthood, these experiences have given me a deep understanding of the critical impact legislative changes can have on vulnerable populations—especially changes proposed in HB3.

HB3, while theoretically safeguarding the budget for child welfare with commitments to 'help build stronger families and care for our vulnerable,' warrants a closer examination. We must ensure that its funding mechanisms do not inadvertently divert essential resources from these critical services. Specifically, the bill outlines its funding as follows: 'The fund is composed of: (1) general revenue transferred to the fund; (2) money appropriated to the fund; (3) gifts, grants, and donations received under Section 29.370; and (4) any other money available for purposes of the program' (HB3, Section 29.353). It is imperative that Congress ensures these funds are designed to supplement, not replace, the existing frameworks supporting our most vulnerable children.

The implications of HB3 extend beyond just funding; they touch on socio-economic disparities and educational equity. Without stringent safeguards, this bill could further alienate those less able to navigate the bureaucratic labyrinth required to access new educational savings accounts—primarily impacting disadvantaged families and increasing the gap between them and more advantaged groups.

Furthermore, the administrative hurdles of implementing such a program without a pilot to test its feasibility or consensus-driven research focused on particular populations in Texas could lead to deteriorated conditions and outcomes in our public education systems. This not only risks inefficiencies but could strain our budget further, diverting funds from where they are desperately needed.

Thus, I implore you, our legislators, to approach this bill with the utmost care and foresight. We must craft our funding initiatives to preserve the integrity of Texas's commitment to its future generations, ensuring that all children, irrespective of their socio-economic status, have equitable opportunities to succeed.

Thank you for considering these perspectives. It is our collective responsibility to ensure that legislative changes support, rather than undermine, the foundations of our society's welfare."

Lauren Gavin

Self

Princeton, TX

No, I do not want ESA's.

Jennifer Perry
Self-School Counselor
Carrollton, TX

Distinguished Legislators,

I am a school counselor with 21 years of experience in a large suburban Texas district, working with students from diverse backgrounds. I write as both a professional deeply committed to the well-being of my students and a concerned community member, deeply worried about the potential impact of school vouchers on our state and on our students.

While I understand the intent behind school vouchers—to offer families more educational choices—I believe their implementation in Texas would harm our most vulnerable students. As a counselor supporting students facing academic, mental health, and personal challenges, I see firsthand how essential public schools are in ensuring that all students receive the support and resources they need to succeed.

Public schools, unlike private institutions, serve every child, regardless of their background or needs. We support students with disabilities, English language learners, and those from low-income households. Public schools are equipped with services like special education, counseling, and critical support programs. In contrast, private schools are not obligated to provide the same services or accept all students, creating a system where access to a quality education is limited to certain children, while others are left behind—potentially segregating students along lines of race, class, and ability.

Moreover, school vouchers would undermine the financial stability of public schools. Diverting public funds to private institutions drains resources from our public schools, which are already struggling with budget constraints. This would force schools to operate on even tighter budgets, leading to larger class sizes, cuts to essential programs, and reductions in staff. Students who need the most support—those facing mental health struggles, academic difficulties, or challenging family situations—would be the ones most affected when schools are forced to do more with less.

As a school counselor, I know the critical role public schools play not just in academics but in providing a safe, nurturing environment for all students. We are often the first line of support for children in crisis, offering services that are unavailable elsewhere. School vouchers threaten to weaken the inclusive, supportive environment that public schools provide, especially for at-risk students.

I urge you to carefully consider the long-term effects of school vouchers on our public education system. Rather than diverting funds to private schools, we should focus on strengthening and supporting public schools so every child, regardless of their background, can access a high-quality education. Our focus should be on creating a system that ensures equity for all students, not one that exacerbates existing disparities.

Thank you for considering my perspective. I am happy to continue this conversation and share my experiences as a school counselor to find solutions that benefit all Texas students.

Sincerely,
J. Perry

Susan Umphres, Retired teacher
Self/retired teacher
Sandia, TX

Public school is a critical resource. Where we live, there are few private schools, they are 45 minutes away, and lack teacher skill sets and culturally appropriate settings. We had to go back to the public school! If anything, the public schools need a smaller class size limit, aides to assist learning, resources for challenging students. Up with public school funding, down with welfare for the rich!

Amy Van Blaricum
Self
Dallas, TX

As a teacher and a mom of 7 - all of whom went through public school, and now grandmother of two also attending public school here in Texas- I implore you to please make good and sounds decisions regarding the education of our Texas youth.

Patrick Huff

Self Retired Public School Principal

Tomball, TX

Representatives Oliverson, I stand against HB 3 in its present form. I ask as one of your constituents that you reject this bill. I am concerned that by approving HB3 private school integrity and independence will be jeopardized. Instead, I urge you to concentrate your efforts on legislation that will correct our public schools. In order to do this the #1 item that must be removed or severely amended, is the Accountability System. It is at the root of most of the problems, including the discipline problems, curriculum matters and teaching to the test issues. Removing the Accountability System, as it exists, is the only way ISD's can return to local control and the only way to save the teaching profession. I urge you to reach out to me and work with me to solve the education issues in our State.

Cynthia Garcia, Ms

Self

San Antonio, TX

Vote no not necessary when we should be funding public schools.

Shannon Fordyce

Self

Dickinson, TX

I am strongly AGAINST the voucher program and have many questions. First and foremost is why is Gov. Abbott pushing so strongly for what seems to be a highly unpopular plan? Additionally, when I look at the impacts to a local district, this does not make sense unless you are actively trying to destroy public education.

Texas City ISD (TCISD) has 8,000 students. They receive about $4,000 in state funding per pupil per year. So, if just 160 students leave with a voucher, TCISD loses $640,000 per year.

- Can Texas school districts and their surrounding communities afford to lose those funds? Especially when they may already be deficit spending?
- What happens to the teachers, staff, students, parents, local businesses, etc.?
- How many accredited private school options are nearby to consider? And would they even accept a student who has special needs?
- Will Texas tax payers property taxes go up to make up for that lost state money?
- Where exactly is that lost money going? And by whom will it be spent?
- Who else will be the "losers" and "winners" when vouchers become the law of the land.

PLEASE DO NOT PASS THIS BILL. TEXAS CHILDREN DESERVE BETTER.

Melissa Knee

Self

Conroe, TX

Families who choose to go to private school should pay for their choice. My tax dollars should go towards public schools!

Sarah Thayer
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am against the school voucher program. Taking money from every Texas taxpayer and giving it to wealthy urban families is unfair.

We must protect public school education for all, especially in rural and remote counties that don't even have private schools.

Defunding public schools for special interest groups is bad for Texas taxpayers, bad for public educators, but most of all bad for Texas public school students who deserve full funding, no matter where they live or their parent's economic status or religion.

Staci Kelly
self, teacher
Leander, TX

As a public school teacher, I am strongly against vouchers as it will divert money from public schools that are already struggling with funding.

Kirbi Barbosa
Self - Realtor and public school parent in Temple ISD
Temple, TX

I am writing to you as a concerned citizen of Texas regarding the proposed education voucher system. I strongly oppose any efforts to pass a voucher program that would divert public funds away from our public schools to private institutions.

Public schools serve as a cornerstone of our communities, offering an essential and equitable education to all students, regardless of their socioeconomic background. Introducing a voucher system undermines this foundation by siphoning off critical funding from already underfunded public schools. This will disproportionately affect students in lower-income and rural areas, further widening the educational achievement gap.

Vouchers may provide an illusion of choice, but in reality, they only serve to benefit families who can already afford private education or who have access to more educational opportunities. The reality is that most families, especially those in underserved areas, will not see the benefits of a voucher system. It will result in overcrowded classrooms, a reduction in resources, and fewer opportunities for our public school students.

I urge you to consider the long-term effects of such a policy on Texas students and to prioritize investments in public education that will help improve outcomes for all children. Rather than cutting funding from public schools, we should be working to strengthen and improve them.

Please do not pass any legislation that would create an education voucher system in Texas. I hope you will stand for the future of our students by supporting policies that ensure equitable, quality education for all.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Amy Crist
Self
Lubbock, TX

I urge you to vote no on vouchers. Using taxpayer money to fund private schools and homeschooling is opening the doors to fraud and misuse of money. I don't want tax dollars used for this. We already have school choice... I can choose where my kids go to school... whether it be a public school, private or homeschool. The latter two should be at my expense as those are personal decisions that involve many factors. We have great public schools to choose from too. Public schools accept all students therefore are the schools that should be funded with tax money. States who have introduced voucher programs have seen it become a drain on the budget and in many cases have done away with vouchers. Why would we be wasteful with taxpayers money and start funding something that isn't going to be successful.

No to using our tax money to supplement private schools and homeschooling. It's been proposed that private schools that take the vouchers will need to test their students with a nationally normed test that the private school chooses. That is laughable! Let them do the STAAR test like public schools. Most nationally normed achievement tests are much easier and straightforward than the STAAR test. The system being set up is wrong. No to using taxpayer money to support private schools and homeschools!

Caleb Lenard
Self
San Angelo, TX

Please do not make this bill happen. This is a threat to our public education system which has worked and continued to work in the United States. This is deemed unfair to the public education eyes and to citizens.

Sandi Therrell
Self/Teacher
Seabrook, TX

Despite what some would try to have us believe, Texans know and have seen the overwhelming majority are not in favor of an ESA. We do not want our public dollars going to unaccountable private institutions. Those who wish to homeschool do not want public funds, either.

Texas Republicans have held this state's education hostage for 30 years. They want to blame everyone for themselves for the state of it. As a teacher, I can tell you the problem is not with our local level decisions. The problem is with a state that wastes taxpayer funds on over testing our students to over pay their donors.

Properly fund Texas schools. Quit pushing something that actual Texans do not want in favor of Greg Abbott's OUT OF STATE donors.

Mary Calzada
Self
Canyon Lake, TX

DO NOT PASS THIS BILL !! YOU ARE NOT CONSIDERING ALL THE CHIKDREN IN TEXAS. THOSE IN PUBLIC WONT DO WELL AND THAT WILL BE ON "YOU"

ERIN Dempsey

Self attorney

Austin, TX

Public schools are the souls of our community and they are already drastically under funded. Our children deserve to have access to the best education possible and diverting money to wealthy people so that they can clip a coupon to send their child to private school is not the answer to the problem. School choice exists and if parents choose to send their kids to private school there is nobody stopping them. Their choice not to send their children to public school should not be the burden of taxpayers. Also, private schools do not exist in large swaths of Texas and the only schools available to children in these areas are public. I can think of nothing more punishing than taking away public funding that supports the public schools which are literally the only schools available for kids to attend in certain areas of Texas. In addition, private schools do not accept all applicants and many children who attend public schools have special needs that only public schools will and can address. Please do not take critical funding from our public schools to support private schools. We all know that these schools will only raise tuition and focus on becoming money making institutions rather than places of learning for all. And lastly, the amount of money given to support sending a child to private school is not even close to the entire amount that will be owed. Most people in Texas will not be able to afford attending a private school even if they are able to obtain the school vouchers. And as stated before, that is why this entire idea is a scam. The money will be used by people who are already sending their children to private school. Texas kids in public school need support and they will not be able to get the education they deserve if this bill passes. It is unfair and it is cruel. Do not sacrifice our children for the wealthy few who can already afford to send their children to private school. Our communities deserve to thrive, and we only thrive by giving our children access to the greatest public school opportunities possible.

Susan Sexton

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I am against this. At a time when we need better public education, higher paid teachers, it is 100% wrong to take my tax money to help someone pay for a private education. The future of Texas, and by extension the US, depends on all of our children receiving the best education possible.

Emily Matthews

ACPTA

Austin, TX

I am a constituent in zip code 78735. I am writing to voice my opposition to HB 3. I am asking my Representative and this Committee to vote no and to instead fully fund public education. We already have meaningful school choice in Texas - what we need are resources so that our public schools can deliver the education that each child in Texas deserves, and that which has already been mandated, with accountability and due process ensuring that delivery. We do not need resources for privatized schools to thrive with no or little accountability to the public. I don't believe proponents of this bill can point to any examples of similar laws in other states achieving any of the objectives that are the supposed motivation for this bill. To the contrary, voucher systems like this are a failed experiment, and if this bill moves forward, this will predictably harm more families than it helps. Thank you.

Denise Simmons

Oak Hill Elementary PTA

Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Denise Simmons and I am a constituent in zip code 78735. I am writing to voice my opposition to HB 3. I am asking my Representative and this Committee to vote no and to instead fully fund public education. We already have meaningful school choice in Texas - what we need are resources so that our public schools can deliver the education that each child in Texas deserves, and that which has already been mandated, with accountability and due process ensuring that delivery. We do not need resources for privatized schools to thrive with no or little accountability to the public. I don't believe proponents of this bill can point to any examples of similar laws in other states achieving any of the objectives that are the supposed motivation for this bill. To the contrary, voucher systems like this are a failed experiment, and if this bill moves forward, this will predictably harm more families than it helps. We are counting on you as our elected representatives to not pass this bill.

Carl Franklin, Dr.
Self; Small Business Owner
Brenham, TX

Public funds should never be used for private K-12 education. If HB3 passes, private schools should be held to the same accountability standards as public schools (e.g., STAAR exams). It would be far more effective to fully fund Texas public K-12 education. Please learn from the costly mistakes that Arizona and Florida have made after pursuing this private voucher agenda.

Denise Guanco
Self, CPA
Frisco, TX

I object strongly to this measure. Subsidizing private schools for the wealthy few harms the public schools system which helps the majority of our youth. This bill is a disservice to my children and many others. It also has the potential to harm our teachers as funding is taken from our public schools.

Jenn Massey
self
Cedar Park, TX

NO VOUCHERS!!! It will destroy public school education and athletics.

Please fund public schools!

Provide $1300 basic allotment per student.

Frank Hayes
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. Texas public schools are not fully funded and have NOT been since 2019.
•Districts are operating in the red and being forced to close schools and hire uncertified teachers.

Susan Holloway
Self
Friendswood, TX

Keep public school public. Vote No. Keep church and state separate. Vote NO. Instead give $10,000 per student to public schools. Vote NO. Parents already have a choice to do something else but should not be funded. Vote NO.

Megan LeCompte
Self
Cedar Park, TX

The voters of Texas have already spoken on this issue and rejected the idea of tax dollars being used to fund private education. Until our Texas legislature decides to fully fund our public schools, there is NO justification for establishing an ESA program. As a Republican, I am embarrassed by the obvious corruption with my party that has lead to this issue being up for debate without voter input. I'd also like to hear why this program will succeed in our state despite failing in others. Are we really that arrogant? And finally, let me bring your hero Elon Musk into the equation so maybe you'll actually hear my words. DOGE just uncovered rampant fraud from COVID programs meant to send tax payer funded dollars to those financially burdened by the pandemic. Good luck avoiding similar fraud with this program where most families who need access to better education aren't near a private school or able to accommodate the inconvenience of private school hours and lack of transportation. If this program passes, I can assure you the voters will ultimately decide what's best at the polls. We can do better. It's time for Abbott to go.

Amy Rork
Self - copy editor
Grapevine, TX

Public money should NEVER be used for private enterprise. Invest in Texas families by supporting a strong public school system. This will shore up property values and give Texas kids a bright future. Giving money to private organizations with no failsafes or accountability is theft from the taxpayer. Never never never again make us fight for our communities. Vouchers are theft. They're amoral.

Patricia Smith
The school children of Texas! Self!
TEMPLE, TX

This is a blatant violation of church and state!!! I am AGAINST THIS BILL!!!!

Linda Stoneking
self
Marble Falls, TX

In the midst of writing this comment, I was cut off in the middle and the message said that my comment was processed. I was not finished. In addition to lack of funds by parents who cannot already afford private school, these organizations do not provide any special assistance to children who need special accommodations, whether that is additional help because they are behind or gifted and talented programs for students who need that. In addition, private schools can refuse to accept any student without cause. Public schools are required to accept and educate all students. Please choose wisely for the children of Texas.

Sincerely,
An active registered voter.

Liz Edelbrock
Self author
Frisco, TX

Texans do not want this bill passed. We are only as strong as our people are educated, and this bill will severely harm public schools and the most vulnerable Texans. Vote no.

Leslie Guidry
Self
Austin, TX

Vote against school vouchers. They aren't going to help those who really needed as they don't account for uniforms, food, transportation, and accessibility (as in close to where they live). It will hurt rural schools. Instead support our Public Schools.

Mai Vo
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB 3. This will not benefit our students, families, or the general public. The passing of this bill will be a detriment to the success of our state now and in years to come.

Brian Cunningham

Self

Cibolo, TX

I am opposed to HB 3. It will cost taxpayers too much in the long run, and the benefits to a few do not outweigh the burden placed on the majority.

Focus on fixing the public school system. Vote against this costly bill that will not make a significant impact on student outcomes, and shift your focus to fixing the actual problem.

Jo Henderson

Self

Houston, TX

Vote against an elitist program. If you focused more on better education programming for children and continued education for teachers people would value the public sector more and want to stay in their neighbors for the children. Those who want private typically have the means or can qualify for scholarships.

Strengthen equal devices, books, and quality across the state, ie rural areas should be as robust as urban.

My daughter benefited from Houston ISD vanguard programs. She is Class of 2025. Her education had a downturn when Mike Miles came to help the school district. He focused more on his profiteering benefits ie bonus than the safety and consistency. Her high school years have been filled with inconsistent leadership. If this was fixed many parents would feel better about the school. My daughter is in public school which reflects the societal population of meeting people from all backgrounds and ethnicities. This is important as America is a melting pot. This builds social skills.

Jenni Trietsch

Self

Abilene, TX

Vouchers for “school choice” are effectively defunding public education and diverting much needed resources from the children of Texas. They will primarily benefit families who are already paying for private education. Redirecting these resources will especially damage rural and lower income school districts. It is not what Texans want. In the long run, this scheme is a scam and will cost significantly more than just properly funding our public schools.

Amy Moreland

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to ask you to protect neighborhood schools and oppose House Bill 3 in Texas.

All Texas students deserve an education that prepares them to succeed, not just students at exclusive private schools. The Texas state constitution says our Legislature is responsible for funding our neighborhood public schools for students, not subsidizing tuition for wealthy families at exclusive private and religious schools that pick and choose who will enroll.

As a concerned Texan in the field of STEM teacher preparation (and an ex-science educator myself), I ask you to vote down House Bill 3, which diverts tax dollars from neighborhood public schools. Public dollars should stay in public schools.

Say NO to vouchers that use tax dollars to fund the tuition at exclusive private schools.

Linda Stoneking
self Marble Falls, TX

HB 3
As a retired public school teacher and librarian, I have seen the damage the Texas legislature can cause by underfunding public schools. This school voucher bill will be one more disaster for public education and Texas children. I am opposed to this bill. Please use our taxpayer funds wisely to provide a quality education for our children through the public education system. Private schools provide a service to parents who do not wish to participate in the taxpayer funded public education system, but my tax dollars should be used to supplement their choice. Common sense will tell you that private schools will not help disadvantaged children at all. In addition to tuition, there are a number of other expenses for private school students, including uniforms, transport

John Gallen
Retired from teaching at CCHS after 20 years
Copperas Cove, TX

Look at how to level the playing field and potential for abuse of vouchers. There needs to be checks and balances on the voucher system. Additionally, fund public schools (allotment) comparable to the max voucher amount or at least a number closer to the proposed voucher.
Suggest $7500-$8000 per pupil,

Julie Loera
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Please do not support this bill. Private schools do not support ALL students. Public schools support every student regardless of their social or academic ability. HB 3 will take money away from supporting EVERY student.

Dawn Wallner
Self
Austin, TX

Both of my current AISD students (7th grade and 10th grade) attended a title 1 school that was under funded and overcrowded. Half their classrooms were portables. The teachers and administrators still managed to provide excellent instruction and motivation for learning. Both of my children CHOSE to attend magnet programs offered by AISD (THEIR CHOICE). They are both thriving at Kealing Middle School and LASA High School. However thanks to underfunding by Texas to our local schools and AISD being short millions of dollars to balance their budget (even though Texas has a HUGE surplus) Parents have been asked to participate in numerous meetings asking what our children can give up, transportation! , libraries, counseling etc. Because of Abbott trying to pass vouchers that would only help a very small percentage and not funding the schools we have, we are at risk of losing OUR CHOICE.
NO TO VOUCHERS

Christina Hollander
Public school counselor
Cedar Park, TX

Please vote NO to Texas vouchers. They only harm public schools and help those who are already taking advantage of private schools. Families have every right to choose their education for their child. They can enroll in the local public school, they can homeschool, they can do private school... they've always had that choice and the choice will continue. Our public schools have not seen a cost-of-living increase for students in years. Everything costs more now. Districts are doing what they can with what little they have. They are making cuts everywhere possible. They are increasing class sizes. They are cutting great programs. They are doing the best that they can with what you, our state elected officials, have given them. It's time to fund public schools. I want my future grandchildren to have the option of good doctors and good electricians and good plumbers and good lawyers and good teachers. It's our duty to educate all youth, but if vouchers are passed, it will harm students. Put money into public schools rather than taking it away and let's see what our amazing educators can do.

Angela Mestemaker

Self

Austin, TX

A public school teacher of 26 years and a now serving students with difficulties in the private sector- the gap in funding is evident and apparent! Vote NO to vouchers and fund public education at $1300 per student.

Katherine Regis

Self engineer

Wimberley, TX

Experience at other states who have instituted similar schemes shows this bill not improve school choice. Rather, this bill will result in transfer payments to wealthy individuals and harm Texas's already poor schools. Stop HB 3.

Bryan Murry, Past President of MISD School Board

Self

MIDLAND, TX

During my 2 terms at MISD, we valued our work with 1882s. Texas has school choice! Public Education needs increased funding to return to at least the 2019 levels adjusted for inflation. At MISD, we have paid in more than a billion dollars to chapter 49 and its predecessors. We are currently running a deficit budget.

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education. It's constitutional! Thank you!

Marie Medina

Self

Midlothian, TX

Vote no on HB3 for the children of Texas. The wealthy already have choice and do not need a billion dollar hand out. Public money should stay in public schools. These scams have failed in other states. Do not waste tax payer money on this scheme.

Kristie Vick

Self-public school teacher

Hemphill, TX

I would like to implore you to vote against the school vouchers/school choice program that is coming before you in the Texas House of Representatives. I realize that you have been a strong proponent of this plan, but I would like to express my beliefs on why I feel this program is an unfair use of taxpayer dollars. I am hoping to persuade you to change your mind on this issue. I am a public-school teacher of over 20 years (21 years in middle school and high school and 5 years of state adult education) I currently teach high school Spanish and Theatre Arts in Hemphill. I completely agree with you that we need more transparency and accountability in our schools. It is true that many of our public schools are failing our children in epic ways. I primarily teach high school, and I see students every day that can barely read or who have extremely limited skills in math and writing. That's inexcusable. I have said for years that we need major reform in our public schools. While MANY teachers are doing an amazing job, there are others that are simply collecting a paycheck, and that is theft of taxpayer money. While this is all true, I don't believe that the reform we need will come through the voucher program. We need higher educational standards, better discipline measures, and more accountability. Schools need the ability to fire teachers that aren't doing their job. We need to stop passing every child whether they have mastered the skills or not, and we need to return to some very BASIC skills in reading, writing, and math. We need fewer social/emotional mandates, and we need to teach history and civics more effectively. These measures could radically change the results in our schools, but we must have the courage to stand behind our teachers and administrators. The school voucher program simply aims to ignore rather than address the current situation in our schools, or even worse, it aims to dismantle public education altogether.

I believe that I am doing the job that I am called to do. I have been nominated in more than one district for "Teacher of the Year," and I received the 2014 Region VI Secondary Teacher of the Year award. (one of 20 finalists for State Teacher of the Year) I have worked in eight different districts in my career, I've taught in schools ranging from 2A-6A, and I've taught in rural and suburban schools in Central, South, and East Texas, so I have a great deal of experience in diverse school settings. I believe this experience has given me a uniquely qualified perspective on the current state of Texas public schools, and I feel this is why I am able to speak knowledgably about public schools and the effect a school voucher program will have on them. Here are the reasons I oppose school vouchers/school choice:

- The amount of money that is proposed for the ESAs for private schools is higher than what public schools receive per student. I cannot understand how anyone can justify giving $10,000 to private schools.

Jeremy Fry, Assistant Principal

Self

Round Rock, TX

Keep public money public and stop giving more tax cuts to the families who can already afford it. This bill will not add value to the public school systems that have already been decimated by the governor and the states funding. Say no to vouchers

Deborah Hokenson, Mrs.

THSC

Bryan, TX

Chairperson and Members of the Committee,

My name is Deborah Hokenson, and I am a mother of seven. I currently homeschool six of them, and my oldest—who was homeschooled his entire education—is now a college athlete with a 4.0 GPA. I'm here to support Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) and the life-changing opportunities they offer families like mine.

Homeschooling has been an efficient and effective way to educate our children. It allows them to learn at their own pace, explore their interests, and develop strong character and work ethic. But it also comes with financial challenges. We have made sacrifices to give our children the best education possible, but an ESA would ease that burden and allow us to do even more. With the proposed ESA, we could fully educate any of our children, providing high-quality resources without overwhelming financial strain.

Every child is unique, and parents should have the right to choose the best education for their child with any available option. ESAs give families the flexibility to invest in what truly meets their child's needs, leading to greater success and opportunity.

I urge you to support ESAs and give families like mine the freedom to educate our children in the way that best prepares them for the future. Thank you.

Shannon Reynolds

Self/retired School Counselor

Willow Park, TX

Please vote NO to vouchers/education Savings Account Program. The current bill is not ok. The current proposal does not take care of students equally. The current bill proposal does not align with the Texas Constitution. The current bill proposal can ultimately threaten TRS. I dedicated 28 years of service to children in Texas with no option but to pay into TRS instead of Social security. For a bill like this to cause my pension to be in the line of fire is unacceptable.

Taxpayers money simply should not go to private schools.

Please come up with a better solution to address the needs of ALL our students AND then let the voters of Texas be the one who vote and approve it. Again, please say no to Vouchers

Brooke Green

Self, admission coordinator

Richardson, TX

I am against giving public funds to private schools. I mainly fear the size of government this type of program would need and the corruption we will see as funds are wrongly distributed. Our beautiful rural parts of Texas can't be helped since there aren't enough private schools there. I previously lived in Arizona and saw how shady private schools popped up in shopping centers that tried to be in the "business" of schools. They failed and the state has no control over this project. Texans need to be smarter. Let's protect our public schools, students and precious things (like football!) by keeping public school dollars in public schools. Thank you.

Sheila Clemmons

Self

Fort Worth, TX

School choice = homeschool control. We the People of Texas want LESS govt.

Silkitwa Ferrel
Self
San Antonio, TX

I was educated in the public school system and my daughter was educated in the public school system. We must support and strengthen our public schools, making equitable education a right for everyone, rather than tearing it apart. Ignorance thrives in darkness!

Geany Glock
True Texas Project
Justin, TX

We need to be able to have school choice.

Gerald Finley
Self
Colleyville, TX

Vouchers support the ability for competition, and without competition, few excel. So let's compete and reap the rewards.

Deborah Ortega
True Texas Project
FORT WORTH, TX

I oppose HB3

Meredith Harris
Self, educator and parent
Leander, TX

Education Savings Accounts strip choice from far more students than they will help. Rural districts stand to be harmed the most by stripping yet further funding from our public schools. Instead of ESAs the legislature should focus on providing more funding for public schools by increasing the per student allotment.

Placido Gomez
Self, Grants Manager
Houston, TX

My name is Plácido Gómez. I'm an elected school board member in Houston ISD. I want to start by clearly stating that I'm in favor of school choice. We have a choice program within HISD and we have high-performing charter schools that operate in my district. But when the average private school tuition in Houston is over $25,000 per year and the proposed voucher wouldn't even cover half of it, the math simply doesn't add up for this bill which wouldn't provide most people in my district with more "choice."

I want to speak directly to our state legislators who represent districts where there are no (or almost no) private schools. Though I represent an urban part of the state, I grew up in rural New Mexico where the nearest private school was more than an hour away. I've heard talking points downplaying the negative effects of this bill in rural Texas, claiming that your schools won't lose funding since there are no private schools nearby. But this analysis completely ignores the $1,000,000,000 that could be going into the state's public schools but wouldn't if this bill passes.

In bringing up the harm this bill would do to rural Texas, I'm asking some of our Republican legislators to go against their party. I understand firsthand how challenging that could be. In the 2024 election, I went against my party in an extremely contentious bond proposal. My party said to vote "no," but my conscience told me to be outspoken about voting "yes" since many schools in my district desperately need major upgrades to keep our students safe. Though it was very unpleasant to go against people who would support me in most other issues, I can look my constituents in the eyes and tell them with honesty and conviction that I'm fighting for them. I ask you to do likewise for your constituents; vote your conscience and vote your district (keeping in mind that the governor's mansion is not in your district and its occupant doesn't get to vote in your election).

Holly Rudnick
Self - Attorney
McKinney, TX

School vouchers are shortsighted, premature, and illustrate a complete disregard or outright disdain for public schools. Seriously, are those who are pushing this that out of touch? Do they not see what is happening in our public schools? Services and programs are being cut, schools are closing, teacher-student ratios are increasing, teachers are leaving the profession, and school districts are opening enrollment to outside the district to try to cover costs. Look at McKinney ISD, Frisco ISD and Plano ISD - all suffering. Fund public schools!!! 5.5 million children are counting on you! Then we can talk vouchers.

Carolyn Yu SHORE
Highlands, TX

I am opposed to HB 3 as it is a violation of church-state separation and will negatively impact public schools and its students. This is not "school choice" option, rather this is moving public funds away from public schools and into private schools, which are often religious and less accessible for many students. I urge all who are concerned to vote no on HB 3!

Glen Reed
Self
Midlothian, TX

Please oppose school vouchers, as they divert essential funds from public schools. It's deeply troubling that an individual can sway policy by donating $12 million to a campaign, especially when his wife serves on the board of a private school. Moreover, it's concerning that many representatives may still support vouchers despite being aware of these issues.

Michelle Maley

Self teacher

Leander, TX

NO vouchers

Min. 1300.00 allotment per child granted

Fund public schools

Patricia Hilborn

Self, retired

Haslet, TX

I ask that you be leaders who take responsibility for the education of our children. Stand up to the Governor's voucher scheme, which siphons money away from public education needs. Instead, fully fund public education for Texas children. Defeat this bill that uses public tax dollars to fund private schools. No to vouchers! Thank you.

Terry Ganske

Self retired teacher

Katy, TX

I am a retired teacher that believes public schools should be fully funded. Tax payer money should not be given to private schools, especially without accountability.

Brandi Ancira

Self service industry

Canadian, TX

I would like to implore you to vote against HB3. Texas does not need a voucher system to allow for school choice. Parents already have a choice as to where they'd like to send their children. However, by implementing the voucher system you are robbing money from the public school system which will be detrimental to rural communities as well as the teacher retirement system. The governor's wife is in charge of a private school, he has his own personal agenda with this bill. Please, vote against school vouchers!!

Melissa Jezek

Self

Dallas, TX

Opposed

Russell Anderson

Self

Rowlett, TX

No Vouchers

Mary Coffee

Self, registered nurse

Plano, TX

I oppose this bill because public funds should remain in public schools. My son goes to school in our neighborhood and he has a fabulous group of teachers, including special education for his autism, adhd and dyslexia. My mother taught at the private school I attended growing up and there was a wide gap in qualification of teachers, quality and no opportunities for special education, if I had needed that.

Private schools are not regulated and therefore are a huge opportunity for students to fall behind.

A lot of rural students do not have physical access to a private school.

Private schools can deny admission to whoever they want. Private schools set their own curriculum which can remove standardized requirements needed to help children get prepared for college admission. Private schools aren't required to offer dual credit courses which saves kids thousands of dollars on college tuition. They are not required to pay teachers equitably. My mother had a masters in education and was paid less than a man who was not even a teacher. He was a pastor and was given a job and paid more than my mom because he was the head of his household. People who are not licensed teachers should not teach children. This is stealing from the texas tax payers and we demand the money be returned where it is desperately needed, not randomly dispersed to random children already fortunate enough to attend private school. All the studies from other states who have attempted this model shows 75% and higher of the lottery winners to children already in attendance. Welfare for the wealthy, since admission can be denied to any student who can't afford to attend. This is fraudulent and anyone who votes for this knows what they are doing. It is wrong. Send the money where it was intended, where it is needed, where it helps the most kids and pays the public school teachers, in public neighborhood schools.

Thank you.

Valerie Christ

Self

Cedar park, TX

Hello. Please do not support this bill. Please put $ to support public education. The future depends on what you do. Please put our students first and leave the $ in public education.

Wellesley Rogers

Self

Pearland, TX

As a parent of a 7th grader in Texas public schools and a supporter of the Texas PTA, I strongly oppose Texas House Bill 3 (HB 3). While presented as a school safety measure, HB 3 imposes unfunded mandates, misplaces priorities, and undermines public education.

1. HB 3 Creates an Unfunded Mandate

The bill requires every campus to have an armed security officer but fails to provide adequate funding. With over 9,000 campuses, the financial burden on school districts could reach hundreds of millions of dollars annually, forcing cuts to teacher salaries, student programs, and essential services. Public schools already face severe funding shortages, and this bill exacerbates the crisis.

2. It Misplaces Priorities, Ignoring Root Causes of School Violence

Instead of addressing mental health, bullying, and firearm access, HB 3 focuses on placing more officers in schools. Research shows this can lead to increased student arrests, higher anxiety, and a school-to-prison pipeline, disproportionately affecting students of color and those with disabilities. Safety policies should focus on prevention, not just reaction.

3. It Fails to Address the Mental Health Crisis

Texas schools suffer from a severe shortage of counselors and psychologists, with student-to-counselor ratios far exceeding the recommended 250:1. Instead of funding mental health support, HB 3 diverts money to security measures that do little to prevent violence. A more effective approach would be hiring more counselors, funding mental health programs, and expanding social-emotional learning initiatives.

4. HB 3 Undermines Local Control

Texas is diverse, and school districts need flexibility to determine safety strategies that fit their communities. Some may benefit more from mental health services than security officers. HB 3 forces a one-size-fits-all mandate, stripping local decision-making from school boards, educators, and parents.

5. It Ignores the Real Funding Crisis in Public Schools

Texas ranks below the national average in per-pupil spending. Instead of addressing low teacher pay, large class sizes, and outdated resources, HB 3 forces schools to shift funds to security costs, further damaging the quality of education.

A Better Path Forward

Rather than imposing unfunded mandates, Texas lawmakers should:

1. Fully fund public education to meet safety and academic needs.
2. Invest in mental health services, increasing counselors and psychologists.
3. Empower local school districts to determine safety strategies.
4. Focus on root causes of school violence, supporting gun safety and anti-bullying programs.

HB 3 fails to protect students and weakens public education. Texas must adopt evidence-based solutions that prioritize real safety, mental health, and adequate funding—not political posturing at the expense of our children's futures.

Marla Tillery

Self

Hillsboro, TX

Vote NO for school vouchers!!!! They are bad for all forms of the education system! Homeschoolers are against this!!

Annie Reeves

Self/teacher

Orange, TX

I am whole-heartedly against school choice vouchers, I am opposed to the open-district policy changes as proposed, and I fully oppose the withholding of funds from public schools. All monies appropriated to public education should be sent to the schools immediately. And shame on those who are working AGAINST public education.

Katie Duzan

Self

Arlington, TX

I urge you to vote no on HB 3. Good, funded public education helps our communities and creates more opportunities for more students. Do not divert public education funds into private schools. It's an inefficient and ineffective use of taxpayer dollars with no accountability.

Why put Texas kids at an educational disadvantage against kids from other states?

Emily Chenault

Leander ISD

Leander, TX

Stop what you're doing right now and get your comments into public record now AGAINST HB3! It doesn't take long. It's for the kids!

Hearing is tomorrow (3/11) at 8am and cannot be entered after they finish.

NO to VOUCHERS!

Please give funding to PUBLIC SCHOOLS and $1300 Basic Allotment per child

Marliese Stripling

Brandon Creighton

Montgomery, TX

I am for this bill. I am a certified teacher who had to quit to homeschool my son and daughter. I am not rich but I sacrificed to give them what they needed. Something needs to change in education

Sara Taylor

self

plano, TX

When gambling was allowed in Texas, we were assured the money would go to education. Our governor apparently lied. The money has gone to EVERYTHING but education. When will the Texas Congress honor their pledge? Or will we still be waiting? We await your decision and wait to vote.

Mimi Zotzky

Educator family and friends

Justin, TX

Hello, Both family and friends, who are educators would highly appreciate, help with funds to help supply needs for educating students (e.g., textbooks, supplies, computers, and more). I kindly ask for support FOR HB-3.

Thanks so much!

Renaë Heilman
Self
Van Alstyne, TX

Please if you care about our kids, vote no on vouchers. I was in public education and it still has my heart. Vouchers will serve a very very small population but hurt a large population. Our schools need a lot of work, our system needs reform, but taking money away and giving it to public schools is NOT the answer. We will see the fall of public education. While it may not happen this year, vouchers will destroy public education. If you truly represent the people vote no on vouchers

Erin Craig, JD
Self - attorney
Houston, TX

I oppose the voucher program in Texas, as it will take much-needed funds from public schools. I also object to the increase in religious schools.

Julie Slaven
Self
Grapevine, TX

Please vote no to HB3. As a republican, I do not believe public funds should be allowed to go to private schools. I think it's a fools errand to continue down this path and our children will pay the cost for it.

Mary Jackson, Mrs.

Self/Retired

Cypress, TX

Please represent your Texas constituents and not just a few billionaires, vendors, lobbyists or special interest groups. I watched the hearings last week from home and occasionally it looked like you were looking for input from the people testifying.

My input for you today is to stop trying to fix H.B.3. This bill needs to be trashed. Our public schools have been purposely destroyed over the past few decades. As I read through the 35 pages of H.B.3 I noticed a very expensive plan using millions of our tax dollars. To me it is a bureaucratic nightmare which doesn't address the need of many families in the current public schools.

In June 2024 at the Texas GOP Convention, a group of conservative delegates from across the state which included me spent Monday – Saturday (on our own dime) working diligently to get the Education Plank under Parent Rights “School Choice” out of the platform. As we spoke over and over with the determined Education committee members, who all but one, were unwilling to listen to the “serious concerns” we had with the plank, we decided to at least make sure the phrase “without strings” stayed in the plank. And that was a battle as well!

The School Choice plank which was passed by the thousands of grassroots delegates in the Republican party in June 2024 states: “We support further empowering all Texas families to choose from public, private, charter or homeschool options for their children’s education and funding which shall follow the student with no strings attached. We oppose regulations on homeschooling or the curriculum of private or religious schools and believe a constitutional amendment should be adopted accordingly. In lieu of funding, citizens may use property tax exemptions.

H.B.3 is loaded with strings and accountability. As a taxpayer I believe our tax dollars should be watched closely and have people accountable for the spending and oversight. That is why I believe using tax dollars to fund private education is a bad idea. I believe home schools and private schools should keep their freedom.

However, the propaganda and school choice slogans being thrown around by Governor Abbott, and many Representatives is very misleading to Texas families. I have seen and heard these slogans over the past couple years -- “Fund Students, Not Systems”, “Don’t Want It, Don’t Take It”, and “It’s My Tax Money”. These catch phrases are designed to hide the reality that any publicly funded option will be controlled by the same government that produced and broke the public education system.

H.B.3 proves the CEAO’s, and Comptroller will be controlling many aspects of how families will be allowed to educate their children if they take the funds in their Education Savings Account (ESAs). More and more voters are finally starting to hear the truth and are not buying the government’s rhetoric any longer!

Nyssa Powers

Self / First Responder

Lubbock, TX

I oppose this bill. If Governor Abbott genuinely believes that this bill aligns with the preferences of his constituents and desires its enactment, he should propose it for consideration in the upcoming election. However, this bill will only benefit 100,000 students out of the over 3 million enrolled in Texas Public Schools.

Historical evidence from other states demonstrates the ineffectiveness of state vouchers. Oklahoma serves as stark evidence of this. Implementing this bill would divert funding from public schools, potentially leading to increased class sizes. Furthermore, private schools will not be obligated to provide specialized education services or transportation for students. Private school tuition fees significantly exceed the $10,000 offered by Governor Abbott.

While Governor Abbott asserts that this bill will benefit every student in Texas, it is misleading to claim that it will. Considering that only 100,000 students will receive funding, this assertion is inaccurate. Individuals residing in rural counties without viable private school alternatives will be compelled to contribute their tax revenue to benefits that their children will not be able to access.

Governor Abbott portrays this initiative as school choice, but Texas already offers ample school choice options. Parents have the right to withdraw their children from public schools and pursue homeschooling or enrolling in private schools. Therefore, it is unnecessary to provide subsidies to those who can already afford these expensive educational institutions.

Furthermore, Governor Abbott markets this bill as benefiting homeschool students, but in reality, it will impose specific curriculum requirements on homeschoolers seeking funding. This is not true school choice; rather, it favors those who can afford to send their children to private schools.

A more appropriate bill would allocate increased funding to our existing public school system and provide wage increases for our teachers. While Governor Abbott boasts that teachers in Texas earn six figures, it is important to note that this statistic is derived from 6A schools, where sports coaches receive higher salaries than average school teachers in Texas. This legislation has repeatedly failed in Texas, and the fact that Governor Greg Abbott threatened those who opposed this bill with diminished support is appalling. The citizens of Texas have made their voices unequivocally clear: we unequivocally oppose the passage of this bill. Instead of representing the interests of his constituents, Governor Abbott is now pursuing the desires of his multimillionaire donors.

Dee Oliver

Tax payer private citizen

New Braunfels, TX

Bad for public education! This is only to help good ole buddies get richer.

Aimee Prudhomme

Self / Customer Success Management

Houston, TX

If vouchers pass, I worry that our already struggling public schools will lose even more funding. The way this bill is written, it won't actually help the lowest-income families—many of them won't even be able to use the vouchers because the value isn't large enough to even cover private school tuition. And what about the people who don't live near a private school? If their public school shuts down due to lack of funding, where are they supposed to go?

Vouchers aren't about real "school choice"—they're just a discount for the wealthy.

P.S. I don't even have children and I care about this. Strong public schools benefit everyone in society, not just families in the traditional sense.

Tara Alt
Self
McKinney, TX

When we moved to Texas from Louisiana 20 years ago, we were shocked to find that our very bright child was struggling in McKinney ISD. After all, we were sending her to one of the best private schools in New Orleans. That's when it hit us - Texas offered us not just a good or ok public school system, but an excellent public school system, with far greater resources and opportunities that even our fancy private school could offer.

And we saw that Texas was being made stronger because that excellent public school system was available to all students. Our public school system is what makes Texas a desirable location. Indeed, it drove the "Texas miracle." Companies want to locate here because their employees like living somewhere they can send their kids to strong public schools, and they have a deep pool of well-educated applicants to hire from locally.

In my case, the savings allowed me to be a stay-at-home mom, a school volunteer and a PTO president. I was lucky enough to see first-hand the dedication and professionalism of our public school teachers and staff. To see them maligned so by our own governor makes me sick. They deserve better than to be pawns to a sad political game.

In my 20 years as a public school parent and volunteer, I have seen first-hand how great schools make great communities. This voucher plan would destroy what we have worked so hard to build in this state. I urge you to say no to voucher plans and yes to funding our public schools fully and without strings.

Thank you.

Feliza Fernandez
Katy isd
Cypress, TX

Vote No on HB 3

Beverly Thoers
Self
Dallas, TX

Please vote no! Support all school children. Vouchers will ruin our school districts. Public tax dollars need to support public schools

Allison Bolton
Self
Granbury, TX

I am against vouchers. Please do not hurt our public school children's education with vouchers. Instead please stop the STARR test and give our children a good education that will help them be successful. Only being taught to pass the STARR test is not helping our children be prepared for college or life. Please do give our tax dollars to fund private school education. I don't know anyone who supports vouchers but Governor Abbott , big corporations and West Texas Billionaires.

Barbara Tatum, Ms.

Self Retired

Burleson, TX

I am against HB3 using public tax dollars to support private schools. Is there even one state that has implemented "school choice" where the majority of vouchers go to public school students? I could not find one. In fact, 70% of vouchers in states that currently have them go to students who were already enrolled in private schools.

In Arizona, 71% of students using ESAs in 2023 were already enrolled in private or homeschool.

In Arkansas, 95% of students using vouchers didn't come from public schools.

In Ohio, the percentage of participating students who were already enrolled in private school jumped from 7 percent in 2019 to 55 percent in 2023.

Vouchers are simply welfare for the rich.

It is baffling that you would be willing to give public tax dollars to private schools that are not required to abide by the same standards as public schools.

In addition, the discrepancy between the amount of money a voucher is worth and the per student allotment given to public schools is an insult.

I constantly hear from elected state officials that the overwhelming majority of Texans are in favor of vouchers. This is blatantly false as proved by the most recent polling published today (March 10). If you are truly confident in this statement, it seems you would have no problem putting vouchers on the ballot. Yet, you do not - even though it deals with huge amounts of public tax dollars. The fact that so many of you were confronted by your constituents at recent town halls should give you an idea of how Texans really feel about this voucher scam.

All of you need to gather your courage and put vouchers on the ballot or drop the issue. You do a disservice to your constituents and the State of Texas by continuing down this path that will benefit a few and hurt many.

Lareshia Bragg

Self

Dalhart, TX

I oppose the vouchers for private schools. There's no reason why people should be given vouchers for public schools, which are higher than the amount the state pays per student at public schools. And also, this will cause private schools to come under the rules of the government, private schools do not want that. That is why they are a private school. Put this money into public schools so we have the best public schools we can have. Pay the teachers what they should be paid to teach our future generations. I will not vote for anyone who supports this bill.

Rebecca Paige Martin, Attorney

Self - Education Lawyer

Missouri City, TX

Texas public schools are incredible places of education and formation for our students, especially those with disabilities. Our public schools in Texas are already vastly underfunded, and approving ESAs or any type of voucher program would be a terrible disservice to public educators and students. As a taxpayer, I do not want my money to be spent by a few people who want to send their kids to private schools. Public schools would greatly benefit from increased funding instead of giving money to private schools. Private schools in Texas do not have the staff and structure to meet the educational and behavioral needs of any student, especially those who qualify for special education. This bill would harm all public school students and employees, and devastate the Texas economy.

Please give Texas public schools as much funding and support as possible and do not pass HB3.

Amy White
Self/Professional Piano Teacher
Amarillo, TX

Dear Representatives,

I am writing to respectfully ask you to not support HB3. I know that we can agree that school choice is important and that education should be a priority in Texas but this bill is not an effective solution to those issues.

I am confident that you will hear from many sources discussing the parts of the bill that are ineffective or concerning for Homeschool, Private School and Public education and so I would like to focus on lesser represented areas of concern. In addition to these, I am deeply concerned about the effects on the private tutors/self employed education provider. If a student qualifies for funds and wants to use them toward private tutoring or music lessons, for example, then the system, as it is proposed, leaves the education provider with a requirement to be certified at personal expense, to obtain approval from the system and to agree to be paid by the system and not by the student's family or guardian. Private, one on one, self employed, education providers often do not have the time or financial resources to allocate to obtaining these credentials or maintaining the new paperwork and documentation this bill would require. Also of note, these individuals have chosen this field because they deeply desire to help students and the time spent in documentation, approvals and paperwork would limit the time they actually had remaining to educate.

I know this bill is set up to be a "choice." But whose choice? The parent's or the education service provider? What happens when a student is granted an account and has a need to work with a math tutor but they cannot find one willing to participate in the ESA program? How does it help the student to have money available that they cannot spend?

I will reference my own case. I am a private piano teacher with a specialized bachelors degree in piano performance with emphasis in pedagogy. I am not officially certified, only degreed. I have owned and operated my independent studio for 21 years. What will happen when a current student asks me to be an authorized provider so I can be paid by their ESA? I can choose to pay out money and time that I do not have to become approved or I can tell the student, "I am sorry, but I cannot afford to participate." What happens if I loose the student because of saying no? What happens if I loose multiple students? I cannot afford to be a part of the ESA program, as it is proposed, and I cannot afford to loose a significant portion of business due to a funding issue. My family is partially dependent on this income.

The proposed bill creates a problem where individual educators will face increased, unnecessary pressure and parents could, likely, struggle to find providers.

This is unnecessary. This is a terrible choice to make, not a benefit. I truly believe current education problems can be solved, but this bill does not solve them, it creates more. Please, do not pursue this bill.

Anna Hendrix, Ms
Self
Houston, TX

I am writing to share my concerns about House Bill 3 and its proposed Education Savings Account program. While the idea of more educational choices is appealing, this bill could seriously harm our public schools.

Recent polls show that 65% of Texans oppose using taxpayer dollars for private and parochial education, and 85% doubt that the proposed $10,000 per student would cover the real costs of private schooling. Frankly, the very introduction of this bill raises questions about the commitment to support the communities that public schools serve, especially when so many Texans disagree with diverting funds away from our public institutions.

Moving funds to an unproven voucher system risks weakening our public schools, especially for students with special needs who may not get the support they require in private settings.

I urge you to invest directly in our public schools by increasing funding, improving teacher pay, and enhancing special education services. This approach will better serve all students and strengthen our education system.

Thank you for your time and consideration. -Anna

Autumn Horne
Self-social worker
Sherman, TX

Please take a minute and submit a comment for the Education Committee. Feel free to copy and paste this comment:

Texas students need strong public schools—not vouchers or Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) that drain resources and lack accountability. Public dollars belong in public schools, where they serve all students and strengthen our communities.

Over 90% of Texas students rely on public schools for quality education, special services, and skilled teachers. Diverting funds to private programs hurts the students who need support the most, especially in rural and underserved areas. Vouchers and ESAs also lack transparency, allowing taxpayer money to flow to unregulated and unproven programs.

The solution is clear: fully fund public schools. Invest in smaller class sizes, teacher retention, and strong academic programs—not privatization schemes that leave students behind.

I urge you to reject vouchers and ESAs and stand up for Texas public schools. Our students' futures depend on it.

Megan Teal
Self/Teacher
Buffalo Gap, TX

Please say NO to vouchers. Public schools are necessary to ensure all Texas children have an opportunity for education.

Nova Broome
Self-Senior Analyst
Carrollton, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. Keep funding public education. Vouchers and savings account favor the wealthy and are segregation tactics.

James Busch
self.
Lubbock, TX

Any vote for school voucher programs is a vote against the interests of your constituents. It's nothing but a wealth transfer system away from rural school districts to the pockets of the already rich. Public schooling is a net public benefit. Every citizen benefits from an educated society and public education is the best way to achieve that goal. The number of private schools in the state could quintuple and there wouldn't be enough capacity to replace what is lost when public schools close. I write this knowing it will do nothing to convince our state representation to do anything that might improve the lives of its citizens. You only seem interested in enriching yourselves and hurting our most vulnerable populations. Try to stand up for us if y'all still have the backbones.

Alyson Cooley
Self. Retired Teacher
Portland, TX

Money for public schools will be diminished greatly if this bill is passed, and so will its success! My father, who passed away in 1995, has always said that private school vouchers would put an end to the success of public schools! He was an exceptional, highly respected educator with 30 years experience as a teacher and a principal. I can remember his opinion on the subject, and he knew what he was talking about!! Please consider the negative affect that the passing of this bill will have on our public school system, and vote NO for vouchers!! Thank you all!!

Alayne Jurgens
Self/retired
Georgetown, TX

Taxpayer funds need to go to Public NOT Private Schools!

Our Public Schools have been neglected for 5 years - DO NOT send Public dollars to Private Schools.

Billionaires do NOT dictate how taxpayers dollars are spent. Stand up for the hard-working Texans.

Vouchers HURT our neighborhood schools!

Vouchers HURT our rural communities ! We HAVE choice in our public schools right now! But the legislature is NOT funding CHOICE in public schools!

Texan billionaires just want WHITE, CHRISTIAN PRIVATE schools! We do NOT agree and you need to demonstrate courage and commitment to hard-working Texans and say NO!

We voted you into office to represent US -- say NO to VOUCHERS!

The Texas Senate was bought out by the Billionaire Texans -- the House needs to represent the people of Texas and show more courage!

State government has a constitutional responsibility to adequately fund public schools. Let's start doing that ! 5.5 million children are depending on it !

Sascha Grimes

Self
Spring, TX

Dear Committee Members,

As a parent and an educator, I employ you to disregard and dismiss HB 3. This bill seeks to underfund public education, limits accessibility for all students, and lacks accountability and transparency for all educational entities.

The implementation of educational savings plans/school vouchers/school choice (ie HB 3) will reduce public education funding in Texas. Texas is already at the bottom of the bottom quarter for per student spending. This bill would increase the deficit in spending on all Texas students. Texas government officials, including our governor, have admitted that spending for public education students would decrease. Texas must continue to support and grow our greatest assets, our children. You must dismiss HB 3 and work to adequately fund public education for the overall success of Texas.

Addition, many students across the state of Texas do not have access to school options and must attend their local public school. My husband grew up in rural East Texas without the option to even consider a private/charter school as there was not one available to him in his town. Many student across the state face the same lack of equitable options as they do not exist or the optional school is lacking academically.

Finally, HB 3 does not require private/charter schools to follow the same rigorous educational standards that are placed on public schools. Public schools have extremely high expectations to show growth of students while other schooling options are not held to the same standards from certification requirements to standardized testing.

Please stand for Texas children, choose to abolish the concept of an education savings account program and HB 3. Texas and all of our children deserve better, we all deserve fully funded public education.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Emily Wheelwright
Self
Georgetown, TX

Vote no! Please vote no - we highly value our local public schools. We have amazing teachers and administrators. I have 5 children in public schools - grades 4, 6, 8, 11, and 12. The lack of funding is harming education.

Julie Perkins

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote no to school vouchers and protect our public schools.

Peter Glasser

Self, Data Engineer

Elgin, TX

Public funds are for public schools, and should not be funneled toward some private corporation for wealthy children. I say this as a parent who sent my Autistic son to a private school for grades 6-12. Yes, my family was able to put together the resources for that, and I would have loved to have had help, but not at the expense of Public School funding. We lived in Austin where there happened to be a private school that better met his needs. But for many Texans, there aren't those options. A lot of politicians hate public services because they exist for the public benefit, and their wealthy buddies don't get the chance to get richer from it. This needs to stop. Don't play games with our kids. No to vouchers.

Vahista Ussery

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Please stand with Texas families, and not special interest groups. Vote no to school vouchers. They are lose/lose for everyone. My husband and I choose to send our kids to public school, where funds are already lacking and our community has had to step in financially to help. Vouchers will hurt our school district even more. Also, think of all the rural communities in Texas. These families do not even have reasonable access to private or charter schools, yet will experience funding declines. Vote for ALL of our kids. Vote for our future.

D.S. Zamora, Ms.

Self/Retired/Graduate & Lifelong Patron of Texas Public Schools

Houston, TX

Opposed to HB 3.

I am very tired of people having zero notion about how kids learn trying to pull this malarkey every time the Legislature meets. The governor has some sort of dementia issue preventing him from acting logically or even properly recalling what public education did for him. He should be ignored every time something about public education emerges from his mouth, his typing digits, or his pen. Same goes for the lieutenant governor.

We are still paying the price for the students we neglected under Rick Perry's special education cap. Special education needs proper attention and funding. Address that, and then be more serious about what we should be doing for the other students.

Jessica Singh

Self

Missouri City, TX

“Humanity will destroy itself, body and soul, before it will learn a simple lesson.” - Wells

There is no reason we should start a societal decline if we only just stop to think about the impact this bill will have. It may not be easy to be honest and make the right decision here but it is righteous to say no to school vouchers. We all know why. Now please, just make the right choice.

Halim Sakarya
Self-Educator
Houston, TX

I hope this message finds you well. I am writing to express my deep concerns as an educator regarding the proposed HB3, which I believe poses significant threats to public education and, by extension, to our community and its future.

HB3 threatens to undermine the very foundation of public education, which guarantees equal access to learning for all children regardless of their socio-economic status. By diverting funds or support away from public schools, this bill risks widening the educational disparities that already exist between different economic and social groups. Such a shift not only disempowers the most vulnerable populations but also strengthens existing privileges, exacerbating inequality in a fundamental area of public life.

Furthermore, the implications of HB3 extend beyond immediate educational concerns. The potential constitutional challenges it may invite due to conflicts with established educational rights and standards could lead to protracted legal battles, draining resources that could be better used to directly enhance educational quality and access.

Moreover, the broad and sweeping changes proposed by HB3 may result in numerous unforeseen consequences, affecting aspects of community life and governance well beyond the scope originally intended. The lack of clarity and the potential for wide-ranging negative effects should compel us to approach such sweeping legislation with the utmost caution and responsibility.

I urge you to consider these points carefully and oppose HB3. Please recognize that despite the challenges facing public education, numerous expert and dedicated educators are tirelessly working to create positive change against formidable odds. Our focus should be on strengthening public education, ensuring it remains accessible and equitable for all students, thus fostering a well-informed and capable future generation.

Thank you for your attention to these critical issues. The children of Texas need your support in protecting and promoting an equitable educational system.

Michelle Bellah
Self / Homemaker and Certified Teacher
Albany, TX

As a teacher, parent, and rural public school stakeholder, I am not in support of the ESA/voucher system. This legislation is a gross misuse of public funds, it will only serve to harm rural schools like the one my children attend, and this entire work detracts from the actual serious issues facing public schools. What an abomination that our elected officials have been wasting time with this billion-dollar scheme to serve 100k children when 5.5 million are in need of legislation that would improve their education. Please listen to the input of professionals tirelessly serving Texas students and say no to vouchers.

Mary Henderson
Self; retired teacher
El Paso, TX

School Vouchers are not helping ALL who need to have a public education. Keep funding public schools.

Carole Widmann
True Texas Project
N Richlnd Hls, TX

Vote NO

Deidre Feeguson

Self

Lubbick, TX

I am against vouchers or ESAs and in total support of public schools. I know there are improvements that need to be made to our public schools but give them the funding to do so. Private schools will not have the accountability that public schools do but will still receive taxpayer money. Our constitution states that taxpayer money will not go to private entities. Please don't let the big money of a few stop a good education for all. We already have school choice. Parents can home school or send their children to private school, but it should not be funded with taxpayer money. Vote no on this bill!

Olga Anderson, Mrs

TSTA/NEA

Lancaster, TX

Touching Tomorrow Today' we must fully fund Public School for Today's Future Leaders

Marisol Herrera

Self: Education Specialist

Fort Worth, TX

As funding for voucher programs has expanded in other states, the overall portion of state funding for public schools has decreased. Research shows that public school students who use vouchers don't stay in voucher programs long-term, returning to their public schools. Vouchers also typically don't cover the full cost of private school tuition, making it a tax subsidy for higher-income families. A growing body of credible research about school vouchers finds voucher programs often fail to serve students from disadvantaged or marginalized backgrounds, and the impact of vouchers on student achievement is either insignificant or mixed. Many voucher programs, including Education Savings Accounts (ESAs), claim to serve students with special needs by allowing voucher funds to go toward private schools or special education services. But these private schools and vendors are under no obligation to accept or serve students with special needs.

For these, and many other reasons, I strongly oppose ESAs and other "school choice" or voucher programs in Texas. My vocation and my passion is education, and I have been a public school teacher at Title I schools for over a decade. My hope is to continue to work in Texas public schools until I retire, and to continue to advocate for all students and their families. My son attends the same public school district I did growing up in Fort Worth, and the district I have chosen to serve as an educator. He receives Special Education services, and we have been blessed with wonderful school opportunities in our district. He participates in the FWISD Schools of Choice program and attended an Applied Learning middle school that focused on project-based learning, and now attends a Visual Performing Arts program at a local high school. Texas already offers many choices for education through public schools and charters. What would most benefit my son is to have more stability and funding for these existing programs, instead of the "choice" to attend a private school that may or may not accept him due to his disability, or that would be under no obligation to meet his needs and protect his rights. The public schools our state have are NOT failing, instead the state government is FAILING our schools by not supporting them fully. Do not undermine the work we are doing everyday with our students in places like the FWISD, and commit to fully funding all of these wonderful existing public school programs instead of using our tax dollars to subsidize private education for a minority of higher-income families.

Meredith Howse

Self /mom & business owner

Katy, TX

To the members of the committee:

I am a mom and former middle school teacher from Katy. You've heard all the arguments for and against vouchers, but I am sincerely asking you to look at the LOGIC, or lack of it, with this bill.

1. Public schools must adhere to various subject curricula approved by the state. Private schools will not be verified if they adhere to the same standards in the TEKS.
2. Public schools and their districts are given "report cards," but private schools won't have them.
3. The public elects boards of trustees to select a superintendent, set a budget and create policies that support enforcement of state and federal education laws. Again, will private schools be required to be transparent and will those tax dollars from vouchers be properly accounted for?
4. Public schools are required to take in any student at any point in the school year. Private schools limit enrollment numbers and limit enrollment periods to the semester before the new year starts.
5. Under current law, students with special needs must be supported with personnel and equipment where required. There is no such requirement for private schools. In fact, they can tell the parent that they do not have the ability, nor will they acquire the necessary personnel or equipment to assist a severely handicap child.
6. Many private schools are religious in nature. Because public schools are secular, all students are welcome. Religious private schools can, and have in the past, discriminated against students in admissions because they don't worship or believe the same way.
7. Our nation is a secular republic that does not favor one religion over another. By giving tax dollars to religious schools, we are showing preference and bias. It is the antithesis of what our Founding Fathers created and fought a war over.

Public schools in Texas have not been fully – and adequately- funded since at least 1999. That is when I became a teacher, and I saw shortcomings then. It has not gotten better, because there is no desire by many to actually improve the schools in their communities.

I urge all of you to vote down this voucher scheme because it is against the values of Texas. Look at our constitution for the state. It talks about fully funding our public schools, not giving tax dollars without accountability and transparency, to private schools.

Vote this down and end this.

Thank you.

Jared Shoemaker
self, business technology consultant
Plano, TX

Chair and Members of the Committee,

I'm Jared Shoemaker, resident of House District 66, and I support HB3 and the establishment of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs).

My personal experience navigating the educational system for my sixth-grade son has revealed significant flaws in our current system. The assertion that Texas "already has school choice" through inter-district transfers is, in practice, often inaccessible. Honestly, its a myth. In Dallas ISD, we witnessed friends struggle when our highly-rated school ceased accepting transfers due to capacity issues. When we later moved to Plano ISD, we ourselves were denied a transfer from a low-performing school to a higher-performing one, despite the latter being closer to our home.

These experiences highlight a critical issue: families are in practice constrained by arbitrary lines on a map drawn by bureaucrats who do not and cannot know individual student needs or family circumstances. ESAs would address this problem by truly empowering families to make the best decisions for their children with the financial means to access a wider range of educational options.

While we eventually opted for private education, this choice required substantial financial sacrifice – but is still a luxury we have that many Texas families cannot afford. HB3 and ESAs would democratize this choice, making quality education accessible to a broader spectrum of Texans.

It's important to note that supporting ESAs is not about undermining public education, but about empowering every Texas family with meaningful choices which will create a more dynamic and responsive educational ecosystem. By turning the mirage of choice into a reality where every child can access the education that best suits their needs, we can drive improvements across all educational sectors.

In conclusion, I urge the committee to support HB3. This legislation has the potential to transform our education system from one of limited options to one of abundant opportunities. By empowering families with real choice, we can ensure that every Texas child has access to an education that best fits their individual needs and aspirations. Let's make Texas a beacon of educational freedom and innovation. Thank you for your consideration.

Jared Shoemaker
Plano, Texas

Jessica Rasnick
Self
Silsbee, TX

I am very much against this bill. Lets stop finding ways to spend more money and let's budget what we have. If I can figure out how to budget our bills inspire of the rising costs of living then the government should be able to better allocate where the money is going to the public schools. That's what needs to be done. Figure out where the 15k per kid in public school is going. We already have school choice in Texas. We don't need the government to give us free money so they can tell us what and how to teach our kids. Obviously it's not going well in the already failing public school system. Fix the problem at hand. Pay teachers better. Less kids per class. Stop useless spending.

Lisa Jacob
Baptist Joint Committee
Lewisville, TX

I am ask you to reject HB 3 as I am deeply concerned about the allocation of funding to Education Savings Accounts (ESAs). Not only does this use Texas taxpayer dollars to fund religious education and instruction, but it also funds institutions that have no government oversight and accountability. Private schools that receive these funds can deny students access due to any reason and do not have to comply to ADA accommodations. There is no accountability in ensuring student achievement through standardized testing. Additionally, ESAs pull from funding that can be allocated towards severely underfunded public schools. In seeking to be equitable for low-income communities, ESAs do not provide the funding needed for students to pay their entire tuition and expenses, and thus, ESAs only support families wealthy enough to already afford a private school education. A vote for ESAs is a vote to cripple the public schools that 5.5 million students currently attend. Please vote NO to HB 3.

Alexandra Luning
Self, Self Employed
San Angelo, TX

As a military family, we rely heavily on well resourced public schools for the education of our 2 children. The district we currently live in has aging infrastructure and our property taxes will continue to raise as years of chronic underfunding are addressed. I am opposed to HB3 and the use of public dollars to fund tuition for private schools. If that money was directed instead to our public schools, children like mine could continue to have a reliable quality school to learn in no matter where they are in Texas. We have lived in other states that use lottery systems for charter schools and unfortunately we have missed the deadline for those limited spots. Since we move when the military tells us, often with little warning, the likelihood we could use the ESA/voucher is low. Not to mention the only private schools in a 100 miles radius are religious and lack transportation. Public schools have always been there for our kids and family though. They have accepted us last minute and mid year, provided supports we need, and have offered a community hub to meet families in our area. Please keep public funds out of private schools and protect the right to education for children like mine by opposing HB3. Thank you.

Jennifer Remington

Self

Cedar Park, TX

Please vote NO to ESAs and NO to De-Funding Public Education and Special Education

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools.

ESAs (vouchers) directly hurt students with disabilities who receive Special Education services in Public Schools in the State of Texas. Diverting $1 Billion of my PUBLIC taxpayer money to private schools who do not even acknowledge IDEA, do not follow IEPs and only provide services when they are negotiated, compromised and then charged back to parents at exorbitant rates well above typical tuition rates it is theft of services and money to the most vulnerable population in Texas.

14% of the 5.4 million public school students in Texas receive special education services. That's 760,000 students at a minimum. These ESAs are completely inaccessible to at least 90% of our disabled students, and that is before they have a chance at any lottery or know if a private school will accept, serve, or retain them. There's no accountability. Not of services, not of the $1 Billion of public taxpayer money this legislature wants to pour into private schools and not of impact or outcomes of our disabled students.

Even if we say ALL of the ESAs go to disabled kids receiving special education services, that still leaves a minimum of 700,000 students receiving special education services in underfunded understaffed Public Schools that this state put in this situation. This causes direct harm to these students with disabilities, the most vulnerable individuals in society, and it's at the hands of those who are supposed to represent us.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice (and students), and have the courage to do the right thing: say No to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jenny Remington

Brett Guillory, Mr

Self

Houston, TX

Pass vouchers at your own peril. We will primary every single one of you. I'm a Republican and have voted Republican since I was 18. I'm 44 now. I will never vote republican again if you pass this scam bill. You all belong behind bars for taking bribes if you vote yes. Don't you dare.

Elizabeth Love

Self and retired

Austin, TX

I DO NOT WANT MY TAXES TO BE USED FOR PRIVATE AND RELIGIOUS SCHOOLS. USE TAXES FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION!

Debbie Smith

Self

Plano, TX

No to vouchers.

Fund schools across the state and pick us up from a dismal 43/50 states. Vouchers WOLL NOT fix this.

Giving away $1B to vouchers and scatter children around the state is ludicrous. Fix what is in place now and LISTEN TO US!

We voted NO to vouchers more than once.

Lottery money that was promised to education never happened and ended up in a slush fund. Another promise broken.

LISTEN TO US. Actually!

Trent Juarez

Self, Substitute Teacher

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the establishment of an education savings account program. These vouchers—had they been present years ago—likely would have diminished the quality of public school education that I was fortunate to receive due to efforts toward adequate funding for public education. Additionally, this bill is taking up valuable time and resources capable of being used more efficiently and in less politically divisive ways. Thank you to the House of Representatives for your time and consideration.

Pauline Mims

UAW, 360 Corridor, TX afl cio

Fort Worth, TX

Dear Representative,

I am a taxpayer in the State of Texas, so I want it to be documented that I do NOT support vouchers nor an education savings accounts (ESAs) program. In fact, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools in Texas. We have had inflation of over 20% since 2019, the last time funding was provided for Public Schools in Texas. I want it to be documented that I support the following:

an Increase of the Basic Allotment, and

Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflated amount of over 20%.

Representative, we must support our Public Schools with the proper Funding necessary.

Sincerely,

Dear Representative,

I am a taxpayer in the State of Texas, so I want it to be documented that I do NOT support vouchers nor an education savings accounts (ESAs) program. In fact, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools in Texas. We have had inflation of over 20% since 2019, the last time funding was provided for Public Schools in Texas. I want it to be documented that I support the following:

an Increase of the Basic Allotment, and

Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflated amount of over 20%.

Representative, we must support our Public Schools with the proper Funding necessary.

Sincerely,

Pauline Mims

Mary Stevenson
Self
Round Rock, TX

I went through school in both the public school system and in some parochial school (Catholic). I understand the need to make sure kids are getting a good, quality education and agree that parents should have a choice. My concern is that, from a homeowner for 30 years and taxpayer, I see that the school finances appear that there is a slush fund for stadiums that is not a part of the picture when we voted for raising our taxes, there isn't clarity at all as to how much money they have and what it is being spent on. Many small towns only have one public school and "choice" for many means ripping at the fabric of their culture. With so much on the line for taxpayers, parents, children and our government to get this right. My suggestion is that if you decide to go ahead with vouchers, that you do test cases in several counties to make sure that if you roll this out statewide, it doesn't create problems for citizens and gets real education to kids. I also believe that if we raised teacher salaries, there wouldn't be a shortage of teachers. Teaching kids shouldn't be a starter job for people in college who took majors where they can't get employment elsewhere. Why are our schools seemingly scraping the bottom of the barrel for teachers for the next generation of leaders, parents and citizens. That is shameful. I've seen how privatization of our roads has created toll roads everywhere owned by foreign entities, privatized wars (no bid contracts) create huge military industrial companies and stripped rural areas of decent paying jobs so that companies could get huge salaries and pay 2 workers $9 an hour to do the job of a former government worker who knew how to do the job well and was replaced with workers who didn't have the ability to know all aspects of the job or do them tasks correctly. All of this was done to make our country better but it hasn't done that. I don't think that vouchers will really do anything but help private companies get wealthy. It is also intended so that each school can create rules to discriminate, deny any student. It all doesn't pass the smell test because it seems this is just a way to discriminate against handicap students, oppress teachers, corral the money for those at the top and for what? Do we have iron clad guarantees that they will raise education standards for kids? That is what this is all about and I don't hear anyone for this except the greedy. They want vouchers so they can get their hands (the private educators) on the money. The public is already frustrated about school finance. This is only going to make it worse. Greg Abbott needs to FUND PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Jennifer Ray, Mrs
self
Huntsville, TX

The national average tuition for private school is more than $12,000.

Pegged as a solution for financially struggling families to get their students into private schools, the real beneficiaries of such programs in other states are students who already attend private schools. In states like Arizona, New Hampshire, and Wisconsin, anywhere from 75% to 89% of the students using vouchers already attended a private school, showcasing that the parents who could already afford private schools are the primary beneficiaries of the programs.

While vouchers do a great job in providing financial assistance to parents who could already afford private schools and would have likely sent their children to private schools anyways, vouchers often leave behind other student populations. This is most evident in the lack of protections for students who require special education resources.

Students with physical, mental, or learning disabilities may not have access to the services they need. All of these services are legally required at a public school, but will not be guaranteed at a private school. Special education vouchers can hurt students with disabilities by weakening rights given to them under federal regulations of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). When a parent enrolls their child with special needs in a private school, they waive those rights.

Whether you call it an ESA, special education voucher, or some other flashy name that privatizers come up with, all of these vouchers do the same thing: undercut the communities they claim to serve. Using taxpayer dollars to fund private schools and vendors that do not have to account for their spending or the academic outcomes of their students is not a responsible use of these funds.

No matter how you package it, vouchers hurt our public schools and communities across the entire state of Texas. Public dollars should remain in public schools.

Aspen Larsen

Self

Spring, TX

I live in the Klein ISD boundaries and we love our school district. We left Denver, CO six years ago after the voucher program there destroyed the public schools. I have four school aged children and when we transferred from Colorado schools my children were far behind the Klein ISD students. The voucher system caused the wonderful teachers to move on after they were neglected and defunded in the public sector. The charter schools were out of reach for most people in the area who weren't wealthy. Even with the voucher system- they provided no transportation help, added costs of uniforms and astronomical registration fees. It is gross negligence to take from the public fund and support private education. The most vulnerable suffer and it makes little difference to the students who would have gone to a private school anyway. Educating the community with all the support of the state and local Government is the best answer for the whole community. Please don't further divide the communities between the haves and the have nots. It doesn't build a better America- it continues to divide. Please vote no on the voucher bill.

China Young

Self

San Angelo, TX

DO NOT MOVE THIS BILL FORWARD!

(1) This bill is full of variables that will continue to perpetuate inequity in educational access and support for students across Texas. It redirects public school funds into the private education sector through an application process that explicitly excludes children enrolled in public education. The only exception are students with special education needs, who may apply for an ESA as long as they stay in public schools, essentially segregating special education students OUT of private schools. In addition to this blatant segregation, the bill states that organizations that administer the application process "shall post on the organization's website and provide to each parent who submits an application" a notice that "private school is not subject to federal and state laws regarding the provision of education services to a child with a disability in the same manner as a public school" AND to "provide information regarding rights to which a child with a disability is entitled under federal and state law if the child attends a public school. "

This is the legislative equivalent of school-yard bullying that effectively shames children with disabilities and their families THROUGH LEGISLATION. I don't understand how you lawmakers can be so cruel to include this kind of discriminatory hatefulness in a House Bill, yet here it is.

(2) Parents/guardians must not only apply for this ESA program to receive these public tax dollars, but the language creating alternative allocation methods "due to insufficient funding" of the program give the impression that the program is inherently unstable, or is just another loophole to provide opportunities for discrimination and exclusion. It is also noted that the comptroller may deduct administration costs from the amount of money a participant is supposed to receive every year, redistributing THAT money to organizations administering the ESA program.

(3) Further, this bill also seems to legislate nepotism and favoritism with section 29.359, "(i) the comptroller or a certified educational assistance organization designated under Subsection (a):

1. MAY require the participating parent to submit annual notice regarding the parent's intent for the child to continue participating in the program for the next school year; and
2. May NOT require a program participant in good standing to annually resubmit an application for continued participation in the program.

This vague and indirect language leads me to conclude that this bill's primary purpose is to gate-keep how, when, and where public dollars are funneled into private education systems.

(4) Finally, the secondary purpose of the bill "achieve a general diffusion of knowledge" is not elaborated on, and is even more vague than the rest of the bill.

This bill is written BY THE ELITE, FOR THE ELITE and is NOT what Texans need or want.

Again, DO NOT MOVE THIS BILL FORWARD!

Heidi Geis

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote no on HB3. I am a parent to a student in a loving public school community. They say everything is bigger in Texas, except apparently for the investment in our children and schools. As you are aware, Texas sadly ranks among the lowest per-student investment in the country. The voucher system will further drain much needed funding from our public schools. Those who wish to seek out private education are of course welcome to do so, but every student across the state deserves to receive the education they need to thrive in a public school setting.

Brittany Cordero, Mrs

Self

Spring, TX

No vouchers! They are taking money from public schools and are disproportionately supporting wealthy families.

Amy Bakken

Self

Humble, TX

I oppose HB 3. It would devastate our public schools. My home ISD is expected to lose over $19 million alone.

Private schools cost too much for the $10,000 largely.

There is little to no oversight.

They can deny admittance.

They do not have to follow the same high standards.

Many counties in our state have zero private schools.

Let's strengthen our public education system instead of disenfranchising our kids and educators sabotaging their futures.

James Teet

Self

San Antonio, TX

Let my testimony be known, I strongly oppose the establishment of an education saving account program to be used for a school vouchers program. The state should be investing more money into public education. The schools in our district are overcrowded, we need more assistance with public schools not school vouchers.

Renon Freels

Self

Austin, TX

Texas needs to commit to fully funding our public schools prior to distributing our tax dollars to private schools. My kids currently attend a private school (because we already have choice!) and we still would prefer this money goes to funding our public schools in Texas.

I want all students to have the choice fo a great education and pulling money away from public schools (especially in rural texas) gives students less choices for well funded and thriving schools. I do not want the government to fund private religious schools with no accountability nor requirements to accept ANY student whose family pays taxes into the fund. If I pay into a fund that sends money to a private school than that school better be required to accept my student.

Just find public schools and stop holding our tax dollars hostage at the state!

Ann Stewart
Self
Stephenville, TX

Please vote against the proposed HB3 school voucher scheme currently being debated in the Texas House. This is a misguided and harmful policy that threatens the integrity of our public education system. At its core, this voucher program undermines the importance of a well-rounded education that can only be achieved in a public school setting where students learn alongside their peers from diverse backgrounds, gaining crucial skills in socialization, collaboration, and empathy. Public schools are not just places to receive an academic education—they are communities where children from all walks of life can interact and learn from one another, building a foundation for future success in a diverse society. Diverting tax dollars to private schools, as HB3 proposes, is both unacceptable and unethical. It represents a direct violation of the trust placed in our public funds, which are meant to serve all students, not a select few. The argument that spending public funds on private education would improve outcomes for all students fails to account for the unequal and exclusive nature of private institutions, which can pick and choose who attends.

Moreover, even with the substantial funding proposed by proponents of HB3, the scheme would only benefit approximately 100,000 students. This is a minuscule fraction of the total student population in Texas, which currently has almost 300,000 students attending private schools. Even if HB3 were to expand access to private schooling, it would still not address the needs of the majority of private school students, let alone the many students in public schools who are already underserved. Looking at other states that have implemented voucher programs, such as Arizona, Florida, and Oklahoma, we see troubling evidence of the failure of such initiatives. These states have seen massive overspending on their voucher programs without any clear improvement in student outcomes, leading to growing concerns over the sustainability of the system. These states have demonstrated that vouchers do not lead to better education, but instead foster a system of inequality and underfunding.

Texas should be focused on strengthening and fully funding our public schools, ensuring that all students have access to high-quality education provided by certified teachers and well-qualified support staff. We must prioritize equitable access to education for all children, not just those who can afford private school tuition or who are fortunate enough to benefit from a narrow and ineffective voucher system. Rather than diverting resources away from public schools, we should invest in improving the quality of education in every public classroom, addressing disparities in funding, and supporting our teachers who are the backbone of our education system. The future of Texas depends on a strong, inclusive, and well-supported public education system, not on an ill-conceived voucher program that ultimately undermines the goals it claimsto support.

Melynda Cook
Self, retired teacher
Overton, TX

As a conservative Christian voter, I do not want my taxes funding private or homeschooling. Tax dollars should instead fully fund public schools and mandates for those public schools so that all students (including those with special needs) have a free, fair education. State government should not be involved in private and homeschooling choices which already exist. Therefore, I do not support house bill 3 or any bill that includes Education Savings Accounts, vouchers or any other named program that gives public tax dollars (surplus or otherwise) to private or homeschooling options. The basic allotment in public schools should instead be raised to account for inflation and fully fund education as stated in our Texas constitution. Thank you, Melynda Cook retired teacher with over 30 years experience as a Texas teacher

Laurel Hoitsma
Self
Dallas, TX

Anyone paying attention knows this is an EXTREMELY unpopular bill among Texans of all political leanings. Read the comments on Gov. Abbott's social media pages. Even people who voted for him do not want vouchers. They want adequately funded public education that's accessible to ALL, not just those in cities or those with money. This. Is. Not. What. Your. Constituents. Want!!!

William Matthews

Self

Denton, TX

My personal concerns over HB3 are the following;

1. The different levels of funding for ESAs and public school students. Ask yourself: why is there a difference in the value attributed to students in Texas?
2. The long-term plan seems to be also focused on making TRS (Teacher Retirement System) insolvent. When I started teaching 26 years ago I was enrolled in this program and denied the option of Social Security. As a teacher nearing the end of their career in the next decade, I am terrified that everything that I have worked toward is a lie.
3. In the misinformation campaign Gov Abbott is trying to justify his ESAs as legitimate and not a handout by promising lower taxes. If the legislature wants to lower taxes, they should increase the state contribution to lower the burden on local taxpayers - this also would increase local control.

I am advocating on behalf of public education in the State of Texas. Schools in Texas, when compared to other states per student funding, are in the bottom five states - depending on the criteria. I am aware that the argument of spending shows that schools are funded more favorably, but that is really an indicator of the total number of students, and how widespread the influence is across the state. This increase also would not fully fund students at the same levels as 2019 when inflation is taken into consideration.

Just because teachers aren't protesting, speaking out, or striking doesn't mean they agree with this ridiculously low (not taking into account current inflation) increase in the per student allotment. Most teachers are intimidated or scared to speak out because we have been conditioned that way through rules that have put our certifications at risk. (This is my 26th year in Texas public schools).

The election was not a mandate on school choice. I feel that if this was sent back to the people in a referendum it would be overwhelmingly rejected.

Thank you for taking the time to read my appeal to create a truly bipartisan approach to serving the students and educators of Texas Public Schools.

Kayley Hager

Self/higher education administrator

Coppell, TX

As a mother of three children under 10 and with a background in higher education, I strongly support a free market that provides educational options outside the traditional public model. My husband and I both attended private faith-based universities, and we plan to send our younger children to a faith-based preschool before enrolling them in our neighborhood public school. While these institutions are privately funded, I do not believe taxpayer dollars should be used to subsidize them.

I am also opposed to using taxpayer funds for K-12 private school vouchers. A recent ProPublica article (Dec. 2024) raises concerns about the lack of transparency in voucher programs and their potential for misuse. In addition, my experience as a college admissions administrator has shown me how some for-profit colleges prey on young adults, knowing that federal loans and grants can help get these students to their door, but then they close, leading to the inability or extreme difficulties in students finishing their degrees. This misuse of taxpayer dollars makes me wary of extending similar funding opportunities to private schools at the K-12 level through a state voucher program.

For these reasons, I believe state taxpayer dollars should be allocated exclusively to public schools at the K-12 level, because they are accountable to the state. This would protect Texas families from the potential harm caused by private voucher programs.

Larry Bartoli, Precinct chair Parker county 325

Parker County GOP Precinct 325

Weatherford, TX

bad bill as stands increases government Administrative size without efficiency vote No on current bill

Rebecca Perry

self/artist and writer

Milford, TX

Chairman Buckley and Members of the Committee,

My name is Rebecca Perry, and I am a completed homeschooling parent from Milford, Texas. I would like to express my strong opposition to HB3 for a host of reasons.

I educated eight children at home for their entire primary and secondary school education. The two youngest are still in higher education; my youngest daughter is a PhD candidate at Harvard University, and my youngest son is a junior honors student at Texas Tech University. I have been thankful for the freedoms we have enjoyed as homeschooling parents in Texas, and I share my testimony simply because I would like to see those freedoms preserved for the next generations of Texas home educators.

We already have school choice in Texas. HB3 is not a solution to education problems in Texas; it is a pathway to more bureaucracy, more spending, and more regulation. Many proponents point to the ESA programs in other states. The budget-busting and regulation-increasing ESA programs in other states should, in fact, be cautionary tales to Texas legislators.

When my children were being taught at home, I would have very much appreciated the ability to use my own tax dollars to cover our homeschool needs rather than sending those dollars to the local school district. However, this is not the sort of "money following the child" idea that is proposed in HB3.

I urge you to vote against HB 3 -- against more bureaucracy, against more regulation. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Perry

Crystal Rivas
Self
San Antonio, TX

Hello committee members,

School choice is now a reality in Texas, particularly in Northside ISD in San Antonio. Back in August 2006, my son started at a charter school. I was initially drawn in by the new building and the promise of “100% of our students get into college.” But what they don’t tell you is that they only keep students who fit their mold.

My son faced behavioral challenges, and as a first-time mother, I was struggling to find a solution. After numerous requests for him to meet with the school counselor and for me to meet with the principal, I was finally notified of a meeting. However, this meeting wasn’t to support my son—it was to discuss whether he could remain enrolled, and I was told the school had no counselor. That’s when I made the decision to withdraw him.

I immediately searched for a local public school and called to inquire about enrollment. The next day, I visited the public elementary school and was warmly welcomed by Sylvia, who guided us through the process. She mentioned that if we needed supplies, they could assist us, and that the entire school received free breakfast and lunch thanks to a grant. I vividly remember that moment, and it brought me to tears. Sylvia asked if I was okay and if I needed anything.

It was then that I realized I had no reason to doubt my public school district. This is the same district that helped me improve my reading skills when I struggled with English as my second language. The same district that sparked my love for the culinary arts. The same district where I met my husband. The school embraced us, and when my son’s behavior challenges returned, his kindergarten teacher recommended counseling, which led to testing for ADHD.

Do you see where I’m going with this? Public schools are the backbone of our education system. They accept every child who walks through their doors—regardless of income, language, religion, or background. So, why should my public tax dollars go to a program that could harm our public schools?

You claim public schools are inadequate, but whose fault is that? Teachers aren’t paid a livable wage, and public schools are struggling to survive. And your solution? Send children to private schools, where they can decide who to accept and who to reject. Private schools aren’t required to accommodate children with additional needs. And to top it off, this plan would only benefit families with access to private schools nearby.

Make it make sense. It doesn’t.

The governor continues to say, “Texans want school choice.” If that’s true, let Texans decide. Let us vote. As a born-and-raised San Antonioan, I have school choice for my children—and I choose NO VOUCHERS!

Debbie Owen
Self/Retired Librarian
Prosper, TX

I am a retired middle school teacher and librarian from Prosper. You've heard all the arguments for and against vouchers, but I am sincerely asking you to look at the LOGIC, or lack of it, with this bill.

1. Public schools must adhere to various subject curricula approved by the state. Private schools will not be verified if they adhere to the same standards in the TEKS.
2. Public schools and their districts are given "report cards," but private schools won't have them.
3. The public elects boards of trustees to select a superintendent, set a budget and create policies that support enforcement of state and federal education laws. Again, will private schools be required to be transparent and will those tax dollars from vouchers be properly accounted for?
4. Public schools are required to take in any student at any point in the school year. Private schools limit enrollment numbers and limit enrollment periods to the semester before the new year starts.
5. Under current law, students with special needs must be supported with personnel and equipment where required. There is no such requirement for private schools. In fact, they can tell the parent that they do not have the ability, nor will they acquire the necessary personnel or equipment to assist a severely handicap child.
6. Many private schools are religious in nature. Because public schools are secular, all students are welcome. Religious private schools can, and have in the past, discriminated against students in admissions because they don't worship or believe the same way.
7. Our nation is a secular republic that should not favor one religion over another. By giving tax dollars to religious schools, we are showing preference and bias. It is the antithesis of what our Founding Fathers fought for and created.

Public schools in Texas have not been fully – and adequately- funded since at least 2000. That is when I became a teacher, and I saw shortcomings then. It has not gotten better, because there is no desire by many to actually improve the schools in their communities.

I urge you to vote down this voucher scam because it is against the values of Texas. Look at our constitution for the state. It talks about fully funding our public schools, not giving tax dollars without accountability and transparency, to private schools.

Stand up for your constituents and Stand UP TO Gov Abbott. Vote this down and end this travesty.

Sarah Freaney
Self, Finance Manager
Wylie, TX

My name is Sarah Freaney and I am writing today as a concerned parent to strongly oppose HB3 and proposed school voucher program. This legislation threatens the future of public education in Texas by diverting essential funds away from our public schools, deepening inequities, and undermining the very foundation of our education system.

Public Schools Are the Cornerstone of Our Communities

Texas public schools educate over 5 million students, serving as a lifeline for families across the state. They provide not only academics but also critical services such as special education, meal programs, and extracurricular activities. Instead of strengthening this system, HB3 and the voucher program will siphon taxpayer dollars into private institutions that are not held to the same accountability standards, leaving our public schools with fewer resources and greater challenges.

Diverting Public Funds Harms Students Who Need It Most

School vouchers disproportionately benefit wealthier families who can already afford private school tuition, while low-income and rural students are left behind. Rural communities, in particular, lack access to private school options, meaning vouchers will do nothing for them while still draining funds from their local schools. This creates an unjust system where public dollars serve private interests rather than the needs of all students.

Lack of Accountability and Transparency

Unlike public schools, private institutions receiving voucher funds are not required to accept all students, follow standardized curriculum guidelines, or meet the same academic and financial transparency standards. Taxpayers deserve to know how their money is being spent, yet HB3 fails to ensure oversight or equitable access for students with disabilities, English language learners, and other vulnerable populations.

Strengthening Public Education Should Be Our Priority

If we are serious about improving education in Texas, the solution is not to defund our public schools but to invest in them. We should be increasing teacher pay, reducing class sizes, expanding early childhood education, and ensuring that every child—regardless of ZIP code—has access to a high-quality education.

I urge you to reject HB3 and the school voucher program. Our public schools are the heart of Texas communities, and they need your support—not policies that weaken them. Let's commit to funding and improving the schools that serve the vast majority of Texas students.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Chris Jones, Mr
Self
Argyle, TX

These

Vouchers are awful as a parent with two kids in the public schools as well as a kid with a iep my kid can't just go to any school public education has been the best environment for my kid the Texas teachers are incredible why should our kids suffer for something that they want to pass like this and have our tax money go to wealthy by people who can afford private schools it's not fair they have chosen to send there kids it's a choice parents that have kids with iep public school is the way to go and to under fund these public schools is wrong for teachers and especially the kids there's already been multiple schools that have to close due to low enrollment and not enough money if this bill passes it's going to hurt even more and why should our tax money go to the rich people for private schools it doesn't make sense send that tax money for the special education teachers for more funding for the school the schools need it your not thinking about the kids that will suffer public school is there safe place for so many I can't believe this would even come up it's so sad my special ed kid wouldn't have the services to even help him out at a private school public schools are top for all kids but especially for kids that need a little extra help I ask you not to pass this bill not for me but for the kids that would suffer

Miriah Sachs
Self, disabled
Houston, TX

As a homeschooling parent, I vehemently oppose HB3 as written. As a family, we practice choice already and the requirements of this bill will limit our existing choice for our children, who are thriving with their current programs. We oppose ANY form of testing and data collection on children and would be defacto opted into these by our programs' participation. The RPT plank and Prop 11 both called for the money to follow the child and NO STRINGS ATTACHED. NOT a separate fund and a host of requirements allowing govt intrusion - STRINGS. Testing is not a good indicator of knowledge and harms children and does not improve outcomes. It is not enough that my family can decline participation when the program itself must adhere to testing requirements and ultimately alters curriculum to do so. We have made many major sacrifices in order to choose the options that work best for our children, which will be no longer a choice for us if this bill passes. This directly impacts their educational stability and continuity.

I have multiple other objections including teacher certification requirements, lack of definitions/criteria for what will be approved, and the cost. But I wanted to speak specifically to the very real immediate impact to my own children who would be directly harmed.

I ask that you not pass HB3 and instead look at tax credits/exemptions or eliminating property tax completely so that families can just keep their money up front to direct to the education of their children. This would be truly beneficial to all Texans vs a small percentage and taking away current choices.
Please vote no on HB3.

Devon Skinner
Self
Dallas, TX

Honorable Members of the House Public Education Committee,

As a Texan and product of the public education system in this great state, I request that the Committee not advance HB 3.

The State of Texas has a moral and constitutional obligation to uphold and maintain a free public education system in Texas. Any measure which would undermine such efforts are not acceptable. Further, subsidizing a program state-wide is hardly a Republican value, especially if that subsidy is poorly managed and not held accountable. Additionally, and despite claims to the contrary, this will certainly have initial and long term consequences on our TRS funding.

I had a unique education. I was homeschooled, I went to private school, and I went to public school. My family had the blessing of having enough money to afford private school at times, though the cost was not sustainable long-term. My discontinued private education was not just due to the cost of tuition, though that certainly played a role, it was also due to extenuating costs (for example, required uniforms). The voucher bill as currently proposed serves Texans making up to 500% of the poverty threshold, it caps at a certain amount that fails to account for expenses beyond tuition, and it does not adequately hold accountable those public funds in the private sector of education in Texas. It's hardly the shining example of government efficiency that Texans expect from the majority party in this State.

Public schools are a necessity and private schools are a privilege. We must sustain that which is a necessity before we can invest in that which is a privilege. We owe it to the families who, even with this program, could not afford private education and would rely on our public school system. If Texans deserve a better public education, then it should not come at the cost of abandoning our system of free public education. Rather, we should vigorously invest in our public schools, making our free education system the envy of the United States. We have an unprecedented means, we simply need an unprecedented will.

Thank you for your attention to this matter and I am available should you wish to follow up.

Respectfully,

Devon Skinner

Amber Caniglia

Self

Lubbock, TX

This is not good for Texas education and will make a bigger mess of public education than it already is. Vote no! We do not want this! Put the billions spent on standardized testing to actual good use in public schools. Let teachers and administrators do their already stressful, thankless jobs. Pay teachers to teach life skills students will use for the rest of their lives, not some nonsense they stress over when it comes test time. Let educators educate, rather than mandating what and how they teach just so kids will pass a test full of trick questions. Not every kid learns the same. No two students are alike. What works for one doesn't work for all. Give public funds to public schools to be put to good use whether that's leading kids down a path to higher education or steering them towards a vocation. Do what's right for Texans and leave public funds to public schools. Fix the issue, not create a bigger mess!

Laura Henry

self, public education parent

Houston, TX

We don't need a second educational system when we haven't fully funded the first one. Put the vouchers aside and fully fund public education.

Carrie Baker

Self

Flower Mound, TX

I am opposed to HB 3. Our Texas legislature should use public dollars to fund our public schools. As the mother of a special needs child, I am grateful for the amazing services that are available to our family, at no cost to us, through our public schools in Lewisville ISD. It is devastating to know that our leaders have moved to force the passage of ESAs by withholding funding that our schools and teachers desperately need in order to continue providing these life-saving services. I hope that the leaders of our Great State of Texas will, in the future, choose to serve the people who are impacted by their decisions, and not the highest bidder.

Caryn Goggans, Mrs

Self

Uvalde, TX

Vote no to school vouchers. It won't help our community, only take away more funds from our poor district. And stop connecting funds to attendance. Teachers/districts can't control attendance.

Thomas Bean
Self
Trophy Club, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed school voucher program. Please consider the following concerns:

- Unrestricted growth of vouchers: The voucher proposal has already doubled in cost from $500 million two years ago to $1 billion today. Will it cost $2 billion two years from now? What prevents this program from growing indefinitely?
- Underfunded public schools: Because of the failed promise two years ago to allocate $4.5 billion for public schools, districts across the state have been forced to make extreme budget cuts. With the unspent money from the previous biennium and a major surplus this year, only a paltry $4.85 billion increase is being proposed for public schools in this year's budget. Additionally, public schools still have not been compensated for the $5 billion cut in 2011, the unfunded security requirements, or the impacts of inflation. School districts need much more support than is being proposed.
- Incorrect assumption private schools are better: Private schools haven't been proven to be better than public schools. Private schools aren't held to the same standards. This bill doesn't require accountability, doesn't grade private schools like public ones, doesn't require teachers to be certified, and doesn't create a system to measure whether this voucher scheme is working. Why should we funnel taxpayer money to private institutions when the state won't hold them to basic standards of accountability?
- Questionable motives of billionaires: Billionaire-funded organizations, are spending millions in Texas to push this plan. Why aren't you asking why these individuals are so invested in school vouchers? What is in it for them? These powerful groups are driving a program that could benefit a small, select group while potentially harming the majority.
- A handout to the rich: Vouchers would primarily benefit wealthy families who already have access to private schools. A little over 250,000 students currently attend private schools. The proposal calls for 100,000 vouchers. It's unrealistic to expect private schools to instantly accommodate 40% more kids, meaning the majority of voucher funds will go to existing private school families, not to the low-income families who need it most.
- Unpopular and failing in other states: The experience in other states has shown that school vouchers often lead to financial problems. Arizona is already backtracking on their voucher program, and last November, voters in Nebraska, Kentucky, and Colorado rejected similar plans. If vouchers are truly a solution, then let the people of Texas decide through a public vote. The proposed program will direct large sums of money to a small, wealthy group without accountability or evidence of success. This is not a conservative approach—it is not the responsible use of taxpayer funds.

I urge you to reject this voucher proposal. Our public schools need real support, not further erosion of funding.

Thank you.

Robbie Low, Parent, educator, voter

Self, teacher

Center, TX

Texas HB 3 (2025) could negatively impact public education in several key ways:

1. Reduction in Public School Funding

- Loss of Per-Student Funding: Texas public schools receive state funding based on student enrollment. If students leave for private schools or homeschooling through the Education Savings Account (ESA) program, public schools will lose funding. This could force schools to cut programs, staff, or resources.
- Fixed Costs Remain: Even if enrollment declines, public schools still have to pay for facilities, transportation, and teacher salaries, leading to financial strain.

2. Widening Educational Inequality

- Benefit to Wealthier Families: ESAs may not fully cover private school tuition, making them more accessible to middle- and upper-income families rather than low-income students, who may still struggle to afford private school costs.
- Special Needs Students at Risk: While priority is given to students with disabilities, private schools are not required to follow the same special education laws as public schools, potentially leaving these students without adequate support.

3. Lack of Accountability for Private Schools

- Public Funds Without Oversight: Unlike public schools, private institutions receiving ESA funds are not required to follow the same curriculum standards, testing requirements, or teacher certification rules. This could lead to inconsistent education quality.
- Potential for Fraud or Misuse: With state money being used for private education expenses, there's a risk of funds being mismanaged or directed to unregulated institutions.

4. Further Strain on Rural Schools

- Limited Private School Options: In rural areas, students have fewer private school options, meaning ESAs may not be as useful. However, public schools in these areas could still lose funding, making it harder to maintain staff, transportation, and educational programs.
- Teacher Shortages Worsen: Funding cuts could lead to layoffs, lower salaries, and fewer resources for teachers, exacerbating Texas' existing teacher shortage.

5. Undermining Public School Improvements

- Diversion of Resources: Rather than increasing funding for struggling public schools, HB 3 shifts focus to private options, potentially stalling necessary improvements in public education.
- Decreased Community Support: As students leave for private options, public schools may lose community investment, further weakening their ability to serve all students.

In summary, while HB 3 aims to provide school choice, it could ultimately weaken Texas' public education system by diverting funds, increasing inequality, and reducing accountability.

Jo McEnroe
Self - retired teacher
Cedar Park, TX

The greatest thing a nation does for itself is to invest in its greatest resource: the education of children. HB3 , aka Voucher scam, aka Vendor hill, is DEvesting the education of children in public schools. Don't rob the taxpayers by funneling their money into private schools. How can you possibly explain why private vouchers are worth $10-$11,000 when we're still in the $6000 range for public school kids. And please don't tell me that this is school choice. It is not! If it was then every child would get to pick a school. Private schools don't have to take students with disabilities, but if they do and need resources- that comes out of the public funds. Do not tell me that those funds come from the federal government as a excuse because when you pull a teacher or an aid or equipment or money to help a private school, it comes out of a public school. Public schools have to take the state test, and lose so much instruction time testing and testing and testing putting our kids further and further behind while private schools don't have to do this. I am disgusted that this bill only aims to serve 20 - 25% of our students. How can anyone put their head on their pillow at night after supporting this knowing they are hurting children in schools? Wouldn't you agree the statistics from other states that show that over 75% of voucher money went to kids who were already attending private schools would indicate they don't need this help? And wouldn't you agree that a family of two or three kids who will receive $20-$30,000 are receiving more than their parents would pay in property tax? So why are they getting extra money?
Governor Abbott brought this to four legislative sessions last term, and it failed every session. Billionaires paid big campaign donations to replace the people who voted against it with people they could manipulate. Please know that plenty of people out in the public know this. Those of us who stand against this vender voucher scam will not be supporting those who vote in favor of it in the next election. I urge you to not pass this voucher scam. Close your eyes and imagine all the kids in a public classroom. How does anyone look innocent kids in the eyes and explain they weren't worth the money, but this kid over here whose parents has money was worth it!

Heather Wilcox
Self
Webster, TX

Dear Members of the House Public Education Committee,

I am writing to urge you to oppose HB 3 and any effort to implement a school voucher program in Texas. Vouchers take public funds away from our neighborhood schools and redirect them to private institutions that are not accountable to taxpayers. This weakens our public education system and leaves many students behind.

Public schools serve all children, regardless of background or ability. Private schools, on the other hand, can select their students, leaving those with disabilities, behavioral challenges, or lower-income backgrounds with fewer options. Expanding vouchers would further strain already underfunded schools, particularly in rural areas where private school options are scarce or nonexistent.

As legislators tasked with overseeing public education, I ask that you stand with the vast majority of Texas families who rely on strong public schools. Taxpayer dollars should remain in the public education system, where they benefit all students rather than subsidizing private tuition.

I appreciate your time and your service to Texas students and families. Please prioritize strengthening public schools instead of undermining them with HB 3.

Sincerely,
Heather Eden Wilcox
Webster, TX 77598

Mellissa McCreary
Self/former teacher/private school administrator
Kilgore, TX

This bill will be a disaster for Texas students. It will be a giveaway to rich families and make things worse for the poor. Our property taxes will go up.

Amber Bond
Self
Richardson, TX

As a concerned parent of school aged children and a former public school teacher, I strongly oppose the implementation of school vouchers in Texas. While proponents argue that vouchers would provide parents with more choices for their children's education, the reality is that this legislation, in its current form, is nothing more than a taxpayer funded coupon for the wealthy who are already sending their students to private schools.

My children are in 2nd grade and kindergarten, and my youngest will start public school in 2027. My children, young as they are, are already feeling the impact of the public school funding crisis in Texas; a crisis that will only be exacerbated by the creation of ESAs. My kindergartner has 22 students in his class, my second grader has 25. All studies show that smaller class sizes lead to greater educational gains yet more and more students are put into classes as more teaching positions are cut to make up for the gap in funding. I fear what their class sizes will be, as well as the educational opportunities offered to them if more programs and services are cut as the funding crisis is exacerbated due to the creation of ESAs. Will my children have access to art and music classes, athletic programs, or basic school safety as more and more money is funded to ESAs?

Texans already have school choice. I can choose to make the financial sacrifice to send my students to a private school if that is my choice. Just the same as I cannot ask the taxpayers of our state to pay for a private country club membership for my family because we don't like the public parks, we cannot ask taxpayers to pay for families personal choice to pay for private education. To do so is a misappropriation of taxpayer funding. The schools who receive these funds will not be held to the same testing, safety, and accountability standards that public schools are held to and, therefore, should not be entitled to the same funds. Vouchers/ESAs are stealing from the poor to fund the rich. They are government overreach. They are wrong, plain and simple. Public support for vouchers is not there and voters will remember who chose to fund the rich at the expense of their constituents. I urge you to act on behalf of the 5.5 million public school students whose programs will be cut, schools will be overcrowded, and learning harmed to giving tax-payer funded coupons to the wealthy Texas families. I urge lawmakers to reject the push for school vouchers and instead invest in strengthening our public education system for the benefit of all students in Texas.

Derinda Nickel
Self/teacher
Saginaw, TX

I do NOT support vouchers! Fund our public schools!

Elizabeth German
self - retired
Richardson, TX

I oppose school vouchers! Please do not vote for this. Our tax dollars should be spent for ALL Texas kids. Implementing the vouchers for private school will only benefit the affluent families who already send their kids to private schools. Take those billions of dollars to make our public school SAFER, pay the teachers in order to attract and retain quality educators who care about our kids. Kids are our future leaders, and they ALL deserve quality education, not just the more affluent. Where are the private schools accessible for rural kids, who make up a large number of Texas school children? Texas already ranks in lower percentages for education quality in the United States, please don't make it any lower. Parents shouldn't want to take their kids out of public schools - Invest in the public education. Parents still have a choice - taxpayers should too. If you pass this bill, then at least make it equal - for every dollar of the $10,000 you give to fund private education/vouchers, then you should equally give $10,000 for EVERY child in the public schools. Anything less than equal is just WRONG.

Tina Page
Self/ homemaker
Lumberton, TX

I am against bill HB3. I do not want it voted for or passed. Within a few year there will be rules and regulations attached to this money. There is no way this money will be given to us and you not make us jump through hoops once we take it. Public schools will suffer. Private school won't get enough money to cover tuition, uniforms, and anything else. Homeschool will get the most regulations. Within a few years they will have to take the state testing and answer to their districts ISD school. There is no way this money will leave regulations the same for anyone. This voucher will not make education better. The other states thay have it do not have good education. None of them are in the top 10, only 2 are in the top 25. Vouchers are not the way to make it better. Get some actual teachers from low income areas to come to Austin and tell you how to make it better. Stop asking private school achool teachers from affluent areas what needs to be done. Please vote against it.

Carrie Teague
Self
Pearland, TX

As a parent with children attending a public school, I oppose the HB3 bill. I would only support this bill if all regulations, requirements, and policies were enforced in all school receiving the vouchers. Until the bill reflect conformity among all types of school receiving the funds it is one side and unbalanced. Abbott keeps saying that all these other states already have it; great for them, go live there. We shouldn't be compared to other states as well. There is a reason Texas has more people coming here than any other state. Quit trying to make Texas, California. NO TO VOUCHERS

Suzanne Rahman
Spring branch ISD
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
 - 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
 - 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
 - 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
- Thank you!

Keith Harris
Self/Retired Texas Educator
Perryton, TX

If you're not going to increase funding to allow public education to flourish don't fund private education. "If" it's broken then help fix it but don't destroy it.

J Lawton Lander

Self, Parent of a Student With Special Needs and Public School Administrator

Bryan, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to HB 3, which proposes the creation of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs). HB 3 provides funding to ESAs at a level higher than current public school funding (when compared against the basic allotment), unfairly diverting public resources to private institutions without appropriate oversight or accountability. Additionally, the bill does not adequately support families with limited financial means, as the proposed ESA amount falls short of covering tuition costs at most private schools. This primarily benefits families already able to afford private education. Furthermore, HB 3 overlooks geographic challenges, as many Texas students live in areas without access to private schools, rendering this initiative ineffective for many families. Establishing ESAs would significantly reduce essential funding for public schools, weakening the education system relied upon by the majority of Texas students.

Rather than establishing ESAs, I urge the legislature to focus on improving current school funding formulas. This includes reinforcing weighted programs such as Special Education and increasing the basic allotment to, at minimum, match inflation rates since 2019. This approach would provide adequate and fair funding to benefit all Texas students.

I strongly encourage the legislature to reject HB 3 and prioritize improving public education funding that addresses the diverse needs of Texas communities.

Celeste Fahnert, Parent

Public school parents/taxpayers

Leander, TX

My name is Celeste Fahnert, and I am a resident of Texas, a taxpayer, and a strong supporter of public education. I am here today to oppose HB3 and the implementation of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) or vouchers in any form.

Texas is already failing to adequately fund public schools. Our school districts are struggling under the weight of underfunded mandates, teacher shortages, and outdated funding formulas that do not keep pace with inflation or student needs. Yet, instead of addressing these critical issues, HB3 proposes diverting public dollars away from our public schools and into private institutions that are not held to the same standards of accountability or transparency.

This is not school choice—this is taxpayer-funded privatization. Vouchers and ESAs are not about helping all Texas students; they are about subsidizing private education for a few while leaving the majority of our children behind.

Let me be clear: I do not want my tax dollars to be used as a coupon for private school tuition.

Public schools serve all students. Private schools can and do reject students based on disability, academic performance, behavior, or financial status. Public schools take every child who walks through the door, no matter their circumstances.

Public funds should remain in public schools. Texas already underfunds education—our per-student funding ranks among the lowest in the nation. Taking additional funds away will hurt the vast majority of Texas students.

Vouchers do not improve education outcomes. Decades of research show that voucher programs in other states have failed to improve student achievement and have often led to increased segregation and fraud.

If lawmakers truly cared about parental choice, they would fully fund public schools so every parent can choose a high-quality neighborhood school instead of forcing parents into a system where "choice" only applies to those who can afford to cover the tuition gap or live near a private school.

Texas does not need a scheme that benefits a select few at the expense of the majority. Texas needs strong, well-funded public schools that serve every child, in every community. I urge you to vote NO on HB3 and any attempt to take public tax dollars out of our public schools. Thank you

Julie Draper
Self, teacher
San Antonio, TX

I'm writing to vehemently oppose the voucher scam. I am a public school teacher who has a masters degree and a National Board certification. I have devoted 16 years to teaching in public schools, and I have seen the impact first hand as a teacher and also as a parent that lack of funding has played in the schools. The district where I teach, Alamo Heights ISD, has made many cuts to programs and personnel that have directly impacted kids. The only outcome of passing vouchers is that public school children will suffer. Public school teachers cannot do any more with any less. We are already there. The plethora of evidence from the other states that have already started voucher systems is that they simply don't work. I urge you to stop following Abbott's scam. Be a true leader and lead the state in the direction that puts public funds in the hands of public school children.

Taylor Sullivan
Self
Trophy Club, TX

I do not support this bill passing. I am a parent of 3 children who attend public school in Texas. Our school is amazing and does so much to provide excellent education to my children. Our governor holds school funding hostage currently instead pushing monetary support to residents through property taxes. This is shameful to not invest in our children's education as a state. This bill is also shameful. Its intention is to pass savings to wealthy parents whose children are already attending private school. It's a slap in the face to public school educators and parents, as well as Texas children who will one day operate as citizens (and economy stimulators). Please do not pass this bill and show our governor and other greedy selfish Texans that claim to support and advocate for our state that we see right through their lies.

Rachel Tarshis
Self
Austin, TX

I urge you to oppose HB 3 and support Texas public schools. This bill diverts taxpayer dollars from public schools, which educate over 90% of Texas students, to private institutions with little accountability. Schools already facing teacher shortages and rising student needs will be forced to cut programs, increase class sizes, and limit services.

Private schools receiving taxpayer funds are not required to serve all students, follow state curriculum standards, provide performance data, or maintain financial oversight. If public money is being spent, there should be transparency in how it is used. HB 3 lacks that accountability.

While promoted as a "school choice," HB 3 benefits only a small group of families. Vouchers do not fully cover tuition, leaving many working-class and rural families unable to access private schools. Meanwhile, public schools serving most students will be left with fewer resources.

Strong public schools create strong communities. When schools suffer, property values decline, businesses struggle, and workforce development weakens. Texans have consistently rejected voucher schemes, recognizing that public funds should support schools that serve all students. HB 3 threatens that foundation.

I appreciate your time and consideration in protecting Texas public education.

Sarah Pell Seld
Austin, TX

I urge you to oppose HB 3 and support Texas public schools. This bill diverts taxpayer dollars from public schools, which educate over 90% of Texas students, to private institutions with little accountability. Schools already facing teacher shortages and rising student needs will be forced to cut programs, increase class sizes, and limit services.

Private schools receiving taxpayer funds are not required to serve all students, follow state curriculum standards, provide performance data, or maintain financial oversight. If public money is being spent, there should be transparency in how it is used. HB 3 lacks that accountability.

While promoted as a "school choice," HB 3 benefits only a small group of families. Vouchers do not fully cover tuition, leaving many working-class and rural families unable to access private schools. Meanwhile, public schools serving most students will be left with fewer resources.

Strong public schools create strong communities. When schools suffer, property values decline, businesses struggle, and workforce development weakens. Texans have consistently rejected voucher schemes, recognizing that public funds should support schools that serve all students. HB 3 threatens that foundation.

I appreciate your time and consideration in protecting Texas public education.

Kami Winter
Self - curriculum consultant
Ovalo, TX

This bill will put public schools at risk of not being able to function. There are so many districts at the moment that are in a financial crisis and taking more money away from them will be detrimental. Public schools educate ALL students and with the right funds can do so very well. The districts I have been a part of are superior to the private schools in our area. Private schools have the luxury to pick and choose the students that attend and do not accept students with behavior issues or severe learning differences. Public schools not only continue to educate ALL students, they make a difference in the lives of ALL students. Funds need to be allocated to help the districts that desperately need staff and resources to assist in this education.

Michal Reed
Self
Dallas, TX

I support this bill and would like it to pass.

Elaine Talley
Self retired educator
Bridgeport, TX

We do not want vouchers. Vouchers are not the people's choice. I should never have to pay for someone to attend private school especially when our public schools are not fully funded! Listen to your constituents and not big bucks donors that don't care about all children.

Sincerely,
Elaine Talley

Mark Gray
Self
Argyle, TX

I am AGAINST HB 3 and against vouchers, and want our public schools fully funded!

Janice Ridlehoover

Myself

Austin, TX

I do not support hb3. Public schools need more funding not a loss of funding. My special needs granddaughter can only get what she needs in public schools. I had a child that needed a smaller high school environment and paid for private schools need never expecting taxpayers to reimburse me. Public money should never go to private unregulated schools.

Melissa Stillwell-Williams

Self

Flower Mound, TX

Taxpayer funds should not be funneled to the wealthy's private and religious education. They will never let the poor in their schools nor could we afford it if they did, even if subsidized. Keep taxpayers money in public schools and begin to better support public education. The US is steadily collapsing in terms of education around the world and this is a primary example of why. The privilege is disproportionately out of control, criminal, and deplorable.

Kaye Knox

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose - strongly oppose sending public funds to private school in the form of vouchers as co templates by this bill. Vote NO on HB3

Katharine Moore, Mrs

self

Lubbock, TX

I would like to voice my opinion on HB 3. I am NOT in favor of passing this bill. No to vouchers!!!!!! Public schools are paid for by public money and that public money should stay with the school districts. This money taken away from districts will hurt them even farther than Abbott retaliatory actions to not fund public education since before 2019. Inflation is killing our schools. Teachers pay enough money on their own for supplies for schools as well as students. I believe if you choose not to go to a public school than that is your choice. Rural students will not get the choice to go to private school. Our Sped kids will not be able to go to a private school because they do not have the programs necessary. As a retired teacher of 35 years public school are the center of all cities and town. The good that goes on in there is 10 fold the bad. All districts have problems, but Abbott desire to please the billionaire and indoctrinate the kids into Christian nationalism will cause more problems then solve. Look at AZ for example, the voucher scam is bankrupting their state. Here is a thought, let Dunn and Wilks supply all the kids that want to go to private school scholarships, Abbott and all the money he has received from the out of state lobby he can create scholarships and not one penny will come out of the budget. Then they will be able to indoctrinate as many kids as they have money. Sincerely, Katharine Moore

Melinda Grayson

Please Select

Round Rock, TX

I grew up in a town of 2500 people. The life of our town was it's public schools with its sport and music events. This bill would harm our smaller communities as well as their schools. These towns don't even have any private schools. Please vote against school vouchers and keep the separation of church and state. Small towns have plenty of churches to meet the religious needs of the people. You don't need to combine the two.

Saralyn Johnson
Self, Executive Director
Highland Village, TX

Lack of funding to Texas public education is ensuring our public education system fails. My children's school is closing after this year. After my husband retired from the Army, we wanted stability in schools for our children, since they had already moved away from friends so often. We found the best school that fit our family, only for my kids to again be forced to change schools. Lack of funding is moving some of our excellent teachers to other fields because they can no longer survive being a teacher in this economy. Our children are suffering. One of my children requires some extra help and has an IEP, charter, private, and religious schools rarely have options for students who need extra help every day. These schools also rarely provide transportation from lower income neighborhoods, so this bill only keeps more money in the pockets of families who can already afford the schools they choose. Lower income families are unable to pick these schools because they are not in their communities and transportation is not provided from their low income neighborhoods.

Please fund our public education so that we can be the best. Texas is soon to be the worst place to raise kids, because our children won't be able to get a quality education at public or any other charter, private or religious schools. Those schools will have more money, but they won't have to provide education, meals, or transportation to ALL Texas children, including those with special needs. Your constituents have continued to ask you to not vote in these voucher, or saving account, programs. Listen to what we, who have children, want. We Do NOT want vouchers, not by any name! Vote NO and save Texas education!

Laura Bearden
Self
Marble Falls, TX

So many of us are strongly against vouchers! If parents want private schools, it should be at their own cost. Let's work to make public education better rather than enabling the wealthy and disadvantaging the under-served.

Johanna Wolfe
Self - executive director
Houston, TX

For multiple sessions our Texas legislators have held public schools hostage by refusing to increase funding which would support student learning and teacher salaries. Billions have remained in the "rainy day fund" while legislators refused to take action to support Texas students.

Now that action is finally being taken, it's not to support ALL Texas students. Rather it is directed toward families who have the resources and access to attend private schools - to the disadvantage of families who have neither funds nor access to attend private schools.

Private school vouchers will not provide equal access to all. They will provide enhanced access for students with resources, students with access, and students who do not need the extra support guaranteed under the law for students with learning differences. In addition, it will limit student access to those "extras" - band, theater, choirs, and clubs - that help to engage children in learning. Finally, to place tax dollars with schools who have no accountability to parents, tax payers or the public is simply unAmerican and certainly unTexan.

I ask you to vote against HB3 and fund our public schools with our Texas tax dollars.

Henry Nguyen

Self/ CPA

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Henry Nguyen

Emily Habermehl

Self

Austin, TX

I am a social worker and mother of two elementary school age kids. I am begging you not to support vouchers in Texas. My son and daughter have attended public school since kindergarten. My son receives special education services at his school that have completely changed his life for the better. Now more than ever our public schools need our full support. Please fund public schools so every child can have what my son has. Vouchers do not give parents more options, they give wealthy families who were going to send their kids to private school anyway a discount. Speak up for the families that won't be accepted to a private school. The families that don't live anywhere near a private school. Speak up for my son and his public education and his growth as a student and human being. If you support vouchers, you take away money from schools that desperately need support. Thank you for considering my comment.

David Thompson

Self - Educator

Buchanan Dam, TX

Members of the Committee, I respectfully but adamantly oppose HB 3. This bill is Governor Abbott's signature piece of legislation in the 89th, and is funded by individuals with no real interest in Texas (e.g., Jeffrey Yass). The bill sets up new bureaucracy in the Comptroller's office, has a huge fiscal note, will establish increased control over private education, and is not conservative by anyone's definition of conservative. Contrary to Gov. Abbott's assertions, the bill will take money that could otherwise be used to raise the basic allotment for the first time since 2019. A parent of a child with a disability will very likely not be able to use the bill to choose and fully fund a highly specialized school (to the extent they exist). In addition, if passed this bill would be a death knell for rural communities in Texas, who have already suffered enough. Finally, this bill offends, at a minimum, the spirit of Article VII, Section 1 of the Texas Constitution, i.e., "A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools." Please leave the bill to die in committee, and exercise your constitutional duty to fully support our public schools. Thank you.

Tala Nimri

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 because it diverts critical public funds away from Texas public schools and funnels them into unregulated private institutions. This bill threatens the quality and accessibility of public education, particularly in rural communities that rely on public schools.

Texas is already facing a teacher shortage crisis, and underfunding public schools will only make it worse. Teachers are leaving the profession due to low pay and lack of support, and instead of addressing this, HB3 worsens the situation by draining resources from schools that need them most.

Public education is also a key driver of Texas' economy. Major employers choose where to invest based on the availability of a well-educated workforce. Without strong public schools, Texas risks losing out on business investments and high-paying jobs. 77% of Texas voters support increased funding for public schools, and up to 94% favor investments in teacher salaries, tutoring, and mental health services. Lawmakers should listen to their constituents and prioritize funding for public education.

I urge you to reject HB3 and instead invest in strengthening public schools, supporting teachers, and ensuring Texas remains a competitive, thriving economy for future generations.

Sa Nguyen

Self/ stay at home mom

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Sa Nguyen

The Honorable Evelyn Brooks

5.4 million public school students - Teacher

Frisco, TX

Public Comments by: The Honorable Evelyn Brooks

Date: Tuesday, March 11, 2025

HB 3: Against HB 3 as it stands

Comments:

More legislation does not make the great state of Texas better. I ask that you consider the negative impact that HB 3 will have on all choices of education before rushing to legislate. Calvin Coolidge, our 30th United States President once said in a letter to his father while serving as a Senator in Vermont, "It is much more important to kill bad bills than to pass good ones." I urge you to consider his words of wisdom as you get ready to vote on this bill. I speak as an expert teacher, a lover of freedom and liberty and as a parent who has already exercised her freedom of school choice for her own children using the options of public school, private school and homeschool.

Public Comments by: The Honorable Evelyn Brooks

Date: Tuesday, March 11, 2025

HB 3: Against HB 3 as it stands

Comments:

More legislation does not make the great state of Texas better. I ask that you consider the negative impact that HB 3 will have on all choices of education before rushing to legislate. Calvin Coolidge, our 30th United States President once said in a letter to his father while serving as a Senator in Vermont, "It is much more important to kill bad bills than to pass good ones." I urge you to consider his words of wisdom as you get ready to vote on this bill. I speak as an expert teacher, a lover of freedom and liberty and as a parent who has already exercised her freedom of school choice for her own children using the options of public school, private school and homeschool.

Callie Liles

Self

League City, TX

Commented: Vote No on House Bill 3

Used 2/3 of limit on comments. Representing Galveston County - Voting Precinct 353 Vote No!!!!!!!

Jean Potter

Parents in Technology

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 because it diverts critical public funds away from Texas public schools and funnels them into unregulated private institutions. This bill threatens the quality and accessibility of public education, particularly in rural communities that rely on public schools.

Texas is already facing a teacher shortage crisis, and underfunding public schools will only make it worse. Teachers are leaving the profession due to low pay and lack of support, and instead of addressing this, HB3 worsens the situation by draining resources from schools that need them most.

Public education is also a key driver of Texas' economy. Major employers choose where to invest based on the availability of a well-educated workforce. Without strong public schools, Texas risks losing out on business investments and high-paying jobs. 77% of Texas voters support increased funding for public schools, and up to 94% favor investments in teacher salaries, tutoring, and mental health services. Lawmakers should listen to their constituents and prioritize funding for public education.

I urge you to reject HB3 and instead invest in strengthening public schools, supporting teachers, and ensuring Texas remains a competitive, thriving economy for future generations.

Lesli Townsend, Mrs.
Self - Homeschool Mom
Oak Point, TX

It would be a huge mistake to pass HB3. This bill would take freedom away from Texas families, increase the size of our government, take much needed funds away from public schools, and require increased taxation to support this new program. The majority of Texas families do not want this education "savings." Please do not pass this bill. It would have negative consequences for generations of children and families.

Courtney Bonn
Self and TEACHER
Cibolo, TX

VOTE NO

Cynthia Manning Swain
Self
Pflugerville, TX

I do not want my tax money spent to support private education by teachers with no required experience. I want you to give schools enough money to carry out the job you charged them with. It's HORRIBLE that this is more per child than the state gives, and it will result in far less educated adults who cannot do the work of the future because they will further lack critical thinking skills. SAVE OUR COMMUNITIES! DON'T PRIVATIZE EVERYTHING.

Mandy Niles
Self - interior designer
Austin, TX

I oppose the establishment of educational savings accounts in Texas.

William FREANEY
Self- Environmental, Health and Safety professional
wylie, TX

I believe this bill only benefits those who are already able to afford private education. It's simply a discount those rich elite few who can afford private school for kids. A $10k voucher is not even close to private school cost. And there are no private schools in my town. Why are we not using these funds to support public schools? Why are elite texas families being given better and cheaper education?

Lizeth LoCicero

Self - house wife and substitute teacher

Frisco, TX

Texas House Bill 3 threatens the foundation that has enabled students like our son Edward to succeed. Edward's journey through Frisco ISD—from Early Childhood School to Memorial High School—demonstrates the transformative impact of a well-supported public education system. Born with chronic kidney disease and later diagnosed with autism, Edward's success is not just his own; it is the result of a network of dedicated educators, specialists, and resources that ensured he had the support needed to thrive.

HB3 undermines this essential support system by diverting public funds to private school voucher programs. Unlike public schools, private institutions are not required to provide special education services, follow individualized education plans (IEPs), or ensure equitable access for students with disabilities. Had Edward been placed in a private school without these mandated supports, his academic and personal growth could have been severely compromised.

Public education works when it is adequately funded. Edward's ability to participate in mainstream classrooms, excel in challenging courses like 3D animation, and find his voice in choir directly results from the collaboration and dedication within his public school system. Teachers like Heather Friese and Rachel Massey, who adapted instruction to meet his needs, could not have done so without the resources available through public education funding.

Edward's success should not be an anomaly—it should be the expectation for every student in Texas. HB3 threatens this by siphoning the funds that enable public schools to provide specialized instruction, mental health resources, and inclusive programs. Every dollar diverted to private vouchers is taken away from the students who rely on public education the most.

Texas must invest in its public schools, ensuring every child can reach their full potential regardless of ability or background. We urge policymakers to oppose HB3 and commit to strengthening public education—not weakening it. Our children's futures depend on it.

Lynz CostaAdams

Self - teacher and therapist

Dickinson, TX

Hello- teacher, social worker and foster/adoptive mom here. I have two girls in the public education school system in Dickinson ISD. I was a special education teacher there too before becoming a therapist. In my current career trajectory- I will never make enough money, nor will I be able to have enough time off to either homeschool or send my girls to private school. I adopted them in December 2022 and even with 10,000$ per year in subsidies - that would not cover the full years tuition of a private school.

My girls love their public school- their friends, sports and extra curricular. This bill drains public education and puts money into private schools. There is one problem with private schools- they aren't required to meet the needs of students with special needs.

As a special education teacher I poured thousands of my own salary into making my room one welcoming and supportive of children with special needs. The money wasn't there in the district to get my children devices to communicate with or to get basic necessary supplies.

I explore the state of Texas to put money back into public education- to people with degrees and the heart to teach children. Please don't take more away from my daughters or my former kiddos with special needs. I disagree with this bill and with think the entire state should be ashamed of its spending on public education.

Nancy Bankson
Self homemaker
Pearland, TX

HB3 is intended to financially benefit a small, special interest group of parents. Those monetary benefits will come at the expense of students. Most students in our state attend public school and will lose funding to pay for this outrageous plan. The citizens of Texas are aware that Texas billionaires are attempting to reshape politics in Texas by funding seats in the Texas legislature in order to force their political views on the majority of Texans that want fairly funded public schools. I urge lawmakers to listen to constituents, rather than the few writing the checks.

Amanda Neal
Self
Austin, TX

I urge you to oppose HB 3 and support Texas public schools. This bill diverts taxpayer dollars from public schools, which educate over 90% of Texas students, to private institutions with little accountability. Schools already facing teacher shortages and rising student needs will be forced to cut programs, increase class sizes, and limit services.

Private schools receiving taxpayer funds are not required to serve all students, follow state curriculum standards, provide performance data, or maintain financial oversight. If public money is being spent, there should be transparency in how it is used. HB 3 lacks that accountability.

While promoted as a "school choice," HB 3 benefits only a small group of families. Vouchers do not fully cover tuition, leaving many working-class and rural families unable to access private schools. Meanwhile, public schools serving most students will be left with fewer resources.

Strong public schools create strong communities. When schools suffer, property values decline, businesses struggle, and workforce development weakens. Texans have consistently rejected voucher schemes, recognizing that public funds should support schools that serve all students. HB 3 threatens that foundation.

I appreciate your time and consideration in protecting Texas public education.

Tara Bowman, Mrs.
self - librarian
Austin, TX

NO to HB 3. Public dollars for public schools.

Kristin Powers
Public education- speech language pathologist
Manchaca, TX

90% of the population of children and 95% of children with disabilities learn and grow in public schools. Millions of students across the country benefit from programs run by the department of education. Eliminating this department, and/or providing "school choice" is not for the people, but for the wealthy ONLY. You are giving up on our future and our growth and differences as a society and stealing resources from those that are vulnerable, poor and up to higher middle class, as well as CHOICE to stay in public schools. This will explode class sizes, overwork teachers, and professionals such as me, a Speech Language Pathologist, while cutting jobs, programs, and taking special education away from those in great need to even a child with just a speech-sound disorder like articulation errors that are extremely common and majority or a schools special education caseload. Passing this bill takes away rights and leaves most of American student's without free and appropriate education.

Sheri Yates

Texans

Boerne, TX

A public education is one of the rights provided to all citizens in our great country. A well educated public is what will sustain our future as a great country. The children of today will be your protection when you are feeble.

Private schools vouchers take money from the most vulnerable, our special needs, our great libraries, our famous sports programs and our wonderful music programs among other great attributes.

Please consider all of our citizens and all of the children as you do your constitutional obligation to represent all.

God Bless America and Texas

Tricia Evans

Public schools

Austin, TX

This bill is the result of government prioritization of donors rather than support for public school children. A handout for students already enrolled in private institutions that will further cripple schools who are already underfunded and jeopardize the educational opportunities of public school students. It must not pass.

Kim Bischoff Bischoff

Self

Highland Vlg, TX

Please have the interest of the 5.5M children that rely on public education in Texas in mind during this discussion. Diverting funding from public schools will devastate our education system which is already struggling so much.

Our public schools are making an incredible impact on the students in their classrooms but if funding decreases, additional cuts will have to be made. The schools, teachers, and administrators will have to make decisions that will leave a long lasting devastating impact across our state.

Stacey Wimberley

Self

Pearland, TX

The push for this bill is Ming boggling. Vote NO for these vouchers! Republicans do not want this! Democrats do not want this! Teachers especially do not want this! We are not the experts, they are! Listen to them. We voted you in to represent us. We do not want school vouchers. Please hear us.

Kali Bailey

self-homemaker

Rockwall, TX

I am a parent of two children and oppose HB 3 and any private school vouchers. Our kids and teachers deserve fully public funded schools. Tax payer money should be for public schools and not given to private schools and without any accountability. Please fully fund public schools-that should be the priority!

Sherri Baker

Myself and family

Flower Mound, TX

Do not pass this- we need more funding for our public schools teachers and students. I want my tax dollars to go to public education!

LeeAnn Turner
Self
Fort Worth, TX

As a lifelong Republican and former educator, I strongly oppose the voucher program. This will harm students who require special programs, the poor who cannot afford private school (even with a voucher), and those in rural settings with no access to private school. This is not good for the majority of Texas students and seeks to take funds from already poorly funded public schools and reapportion them to those who can ALREADY afford private education. Billionaires should not get to decide what is in the best interest of our students.

Courtenay Euton
Self
San Antonio, TX

Against HB3. Public school funding should not be taken away in favor of private schools.

Jessica Ramsey
self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,
We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
 - 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
 - 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
 - 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
- Thank you!

Heather Fitzgerald
Self
Azle, TX

As a former homeschooling mother, I am AGAINST school choice. We have actual freedom and choice as it is here in Texas. We do not need more government involvement in education, and despite peoples's best efforts In other states to keep the money from becoming strings attached to homeschoolers, eventually that's exactly what happens. History has proven it out in other states, and will only repeat itself here.

Karen Michie
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. My family have all attended public schools and we support public education. I oppose vouchers and am strongly against this bill. Thank you

Debbie Meiser

Self

Mabank, TX

I believe that this bill should not pass as it most definitely caters to those who already have children in private schools and only benefits them. Stop this bill and fund our public schools appropriately!

Alison Steele

Self

Austin, TX

No vouchers!

Shelly Server

Self

Burleson, TX

I feel that if this bill passes, public education will never recover. Vote for kids, not for corporations to make money.

Jana Pittides, CPA

Self

Universal City, TX

Vote NO! Texas public schools need proper funding and resources. Our children and their futures cannot be used for political games. The vast majority of Texans do not want school vouchers. My daughter goes to a Title 1 school. Most kids are on free lunch and take the bus to and from school every day. They do not have the means necessary to attend a school that doesn't provide these resources. Vouchers will further divide the haves and have nots and tear communities apart.

Michele Bennett

Self

Cuero, TX

I am a parent/Texan who opposes HB 3 and any private school vouchers. Our kids and teachers deserve fully public funded schools. Tax payer money should be for public schools and not given to private schools and without any accountability.

Gurlene Amin

Self

Sugar Land, TX

I oppose this bill. Please vote no.

Donns Featherstone

Self

Lantanna, TX

I am against vouchers and want our public vouchers fully funded.

Brianna Neal

Self, paralegal, mom.

Katy, TX

Vouchers are a horrible idea and will deteriorate the quality of education in this state. They are wildly unpopular and unwanted. Please vote no and protect our children's education.

Danelle Schwertner

Self - business owner/School board member - Miles ISD

Miles, TX

Vendor bills are not in the best interest of Texas school children. Texas should be innovating change, not advocating to follow in the footsteps of other states who are failing at voucher systems or education savings accounts. These programs have historically escalated into unmanageable systems that are pulling funding from public education. Texas does not need this. Texans have continually and overwhelmingly told legislators that they don't want vouchers, and yet you aren't listening to us. Republicans, Democrats and Independents alike have said this over and over. What is the reason you aren't listening? Please kill this bill.

Trina Williams

Teachers

Mineral Wells, TX

Vouchers are only beneficial to the wealthy. Put this to a public vote. The majority of citizens do NOT want vouchers. Stop letting billionaires pad your pockets and do what is right for children. Vouchers are NOT the answer.

Mendy King

Self

N Richlnd Hls, TX

I do not support the voucher bill in any way. This is not helping low income families have a choice all it's doing is providing those already in private schools a discount, 10k will barely get you in the door of ANY private school. Public education is FREE to all students and if our school tax money was actually going to the schools and the per student funding was increased we would be able to maintain all of our public schools, retain our excellent teachers and enrollment would once again grow. The state has handicapped all of our public schools to the point where we lose teachers and students every day because they can't provide what should be provided to their students every day. Greg Abbott and others should be ashamed of themselves for what they've done to the public school system, you are making everything worse, not better. Public education is the basis for the majority of Americans NOT a select few. INCREASE OUR PER STUDENT FUNDING across the board, release OUR money to OUR public schools and watch how everything improves.

Cindy Fleharty

Self

Leander, TX

NO to vouchers!!

Vouchers hurt Texans with disabilities. Private schools are not required to accept students with disabilities (most do not accept students with disabilities), and private schools are not required to provide accommodations under IEPs or 504s.

Christen Grace

Self

Frisco, TX

I qualify as wealthy, I live in the suburbs and I have school aged children. I am VEHEMENTLY opposed to this bill. In fact, I do not know of ANYONE in Collin County that actually supports this bill. I have many homeschool friends and they do not support this bill. It hurts EVERYONE and only benefits the wealthy who can already afford private school. I do NOT want my tax dollars diverted from public schools to support a small number of students in private schools. This hurts rural communities, special needs children, non-religious families. FUND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS, not the pockets of wealthy donors. Please stand up to Greg Abbott and the billionaires funding him. DO NOT support this bill.

Joa Muns

Self

Plano, TX

NO to Vouchers!

Mark Gormley

Self

Manor, TX

No to Vouchers!!!

Sheri Ceglarek

Self

Granbury, TX

I do not support the school voucher program. You should eliminate the STAAR test, pay public school teachers hers more & allow teachers to teach not teach to pass the STAAR test. Do not allow illegal immigrants to attend public schools it's ridiculous they are allowed to attend public schools. Vote no go school vouchers

Virginia Jarman, Rev Dr

Self, retired clergy

Hurst, TX

School vouchers will not help most Texas children. Our family has been educated in Texas public schools since 1924, for 4 generations. I am a retired pastor. In the churches I've served, some wealthy families sent their children to private schools. Many families could never afforded private school, even with vouchers covering partial tuition. Wealthy families have a choice. Poor and middle class families do not! I would like our TX legislature to turn down this bill, and increase funding to public schools and teachers salaries. Please vote NO today!

Beverly Kiser

Self

Leander, TX

Vote no for school vouchers. This will destroy public education in Texas. I'm a fourth generation Texan and raised my 3 daughters as fifth generation Texans and we all went to public schools. The public money should only go to public schools. The permanent school fund and property taxes should be plenty to fund public schools. They need more money, not less. I am now a substitute teacher and I see the need daily. Vote NO on vouchers.

Lisa Chapman

Self

Flower Mound, TX

A free quality Public education is a fundamental right. This bill is a clear representation of party politics and not what the people of Texas want. It has been shoved down our throats by the likes of Governor Abbott and his party only having a chance of being successful this year because he manipulated the primary process to replace those who stood against him. This is an action item that affects all residents and should be put on the ballot for vote. I have a son recently diagnosed with dyslexia and dysgraphia. He would not be welcomed in private schools and is dependent on a quality education with special ed resources that our public schools provide. Allowing vouchers will only poach funds from the school he attends putting him at more risk for academic failure. This bill is not about every student and choice, it is tax break for the wealthy. Fund Texas public schools properly, do not rob them.

Joshua Trott

self

Austin, TX

I oppose HB 3, vote NO. I want fully funded public education for my 2 sons currently in early elementary school.

Jessica Kuehn

Self, marriage and family therapist

Plano, TX

My child's school is being closed this year because of underfunding. We attend a high achieving district and my kids receive a great public education. Fully funding public schools will allow for our school district to do more and allow small rural districts to provide better education. This bill leaves rural students with no options and hurts my students in a big district. Please use your heart and own mind and support your constituents! No to HB 3!

Susan I Jones

Self, consultant

Austin, TX

I oppose public funds being used by private schools as proposed by HB 3.

Kimberly Trott

self

Austin, TX

I oppose HB 3. I want fully funded public education, my two small children depend on their elementary school education. Their teachers are already over worked, under paid, and our students deserve better. Essential areas are critical to their learning and development.

Susan Woodard

Self, Lecturer

College Station, TX

If passed, House Bill 3 will have negative consequences for our already struggling, underfunded public schools. Until Texas is a leader in K-12 public education, it is inappropriate to use taxpayer money to offset the costs for students choosing alternatives to public school education. Texans have a right to choose but siphoning funds away from public schools to private schools, where there is less accountability regarding students served, is a bad choice for the families of Texas. Please look out for the interest of all school children in Texas by voting against this bill.

mary bickert

self

austin, TX

Please don't pass school vouchers. Please support public schools. It's in our best interest to provide education to all Texas children. Vouchers would take money away from public schools. What would it do to Teacher Retirement System? It would create a hardship for most parents. Most Texas parents are struggling already and don't need this extra burden. Texans already have choice. We don't want to pay for their choices.

Ann Reed

Retired teachers

Jones Creek, TX

Texas education is sadly declining- compared to other states and compensation to teachers and staff us is far behind others. Vouchers is not going to help the situation!

Kathryn Riedesel

Speech Pathologist / Self

Victoria, TX

I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability.

Angela Reese
Self/homemaker
Sachse, TX

Vouchers erode the public school system by taking tax money meant to educate everyone and put it back in the laps of those that have walked away from the public school system rather than working to make it better. Vouchers take away any checks and balances for how that money is used because private schools and home schools are not checked. Vouchers were enacted in a school district I taught in outside of Texas, and it slowly eroded a way the benefits of having strong education in a community because it took education out of the community. Keep schools strong and well funded! Keep the tax payers money where it can be accountable.

LKevin Starnes, Mr.
Selt
College Station, TX

I strongly oppose HB3! We need to increase funding to our public schools. School choice is already present in Texas. Passing this will have massive implications for Public Ed and will create a "have vs have nots" system. Please don't pass this bill!

Stacey Gould
Self/engineer
Austin, TX

I oppose ESAs and support public money being used for public education.

Lauren McCracken
Self- parent
Mansfield, TX

As a parent with 3 school aged children, I am incredibly troubled by the idea of Educational Savings Accounts. Public money belongs in Public Education. A basic tenet of Public Education is that it is available to ALL students, without expectation for payment, without entrance exams, and available for ALL children— including those with special needs or learning disabilities. Diverting funds from public education will further divide the haves from the have nots... with private schools being able to cherry pick their students, and leaving the public schools with less money than what is needed to provide the free and appropriate public education that is needed to educate the populous of children that won't be served by private schools.

Looking at the numbers from states that have already passed vouchers/ESAs, Texas can see that it is a poor choice. In Arizona alone, the state is facing a $1.4 billion dollar budget deficit due to school vouchers originally touted to save the state money. In Florida, the cost of school vouchers for the state is roughly $3.9 billion.

In the states that have passed ESA legislation, many people that are taking advantage of it are people that are already sending their children to private schools or are homeschooling. These families have already made the choice in how to educate their children, and now just have a coupon for an additional money off. Sure that is "nice", but the cost for our society is too high a price to pay.

As I mentioned, I have 3 school aged children. All three have different educational needs. I have chosen to have one homeschool/private hybrid. I have one child in the district we reside in, and one child at a neighboring district with open enrollment who had a school that better suited her academic interests and needs. As a parent, I DO have school choice! Both Mansfield ISD and Grand Prairie ISD have amazing schools of choice options that provide opportunities to tailor the public education experience to each student's needs. Though I have chosen to withdraw one child from public education, it is MY CHOICE to do so, and MY CHOICE with how we choose to educate her. I, unequivocally, would also choose to have any and all monies earmarked for her education remain IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM, because I know that when the time comes for her to resume her public school tenure, there will be public schools available to her, with qualified and certificated teachers, to provide a free and appropriate public education.

Please VOTE NO on HB3

Ashley Poole

Self

Corinth, TX

Regarding the school voucher bill proposed and further shoved into Texas by Greg Abbott. Texans have overwhelmingly voiced that we do not want this bill. School choice has always existed and stealing money from tax payer funds to give to people who can already afford private school is lunacy. That is especially true given that our public schools are grossly underfunded. Our constitution calls very clearly for separation of church and state. You cannot mix the two. You can legislate using your own religious beliefs. You can allocate public funds to private (religious) institutions. It is illegal. You were hired by the people of Texas to represent our needs, desires, and to reflect our voices. Continuing to push a bill that your constituents have told you, we don't want, time and time again, is outrageous.

Your plan is to dismantle public education. You do not want equal opportunity for all children to learn, grow and someday become successful, contributing members of society. You are trying to create a bigger divide between the wealthy, the middle class and the underserved lower class. It's despicable, it's criminal, and if passed, we will not stop fighting until every penny that was stolen from public funds and illegally given for the use of unregulated private education has been recovered and properly utilized to fund our public schools.

NO SCHOOL VOUCHERS!

Sarah Huang

Self

Round Rock, TX

I am a public school elementary student mom, I oppose any funds diverted away from public schools to a voucher program.

Rachel Mitchell

Self

Allen, TX

Public funds should never be used for private schools unless they are required to meet the same testing, financial accountability, teacher and curriculum standards as public schools.

Jennifer Wilhelm

Self

Austin, TX

No

Shelli Moore

Self

Tomball, TX

Vouchers are terrible for the average person/student. They benefit people who already have resources and take money away from students in public education. Even if the rainy day fund is being used and no money is directly being diverted from public school funding, the rainy day fund could be used to benefit all Texas students not just a select few. Please vote against School vouchers!

Rebecca Rutledge

Self

Bridge City, TX

The basic allotment has not been increased since 2019 and needs to be increased substantially more than the proposed $220. By increasing the basic allotment it will fund raises to all supporting staff in the District such as custodians, bus drivers, cafeteria workers, librarians, counselors, etc.

Teacher deserve pay raises but they should not be tied to incentives. There are too many hoops for teachers in the current TIA program.

Vote NO to all voucher/ESA programs. The vast majority of Texas public schools are thriving. Diverting funds to private schools will hurt public schools.

Do not tie funding our schools to the passage of a voucher program. Schools are still trying to recover from the last legislative session.

Please do not sell out to the billionaires who stand to profit from the privatization of our schools. Do what is right for the children of Texas

Pamela Terry

Self

Friendswood, TX

Please vote NO on school vouchers. I would ask that you would consider the detrimental effect on the education of ALL Texas children. There are so many reasons why this should not happen in Texas, some of which are gutting rural schools, creating a huge financial obligation (see Arkansas) to the state, undercutting our teachers.... Please consider the good of all children in texas. Please do not pass this bill.

Jeni Rasco

Timber Creek Elementary

Flower Mound, TX

Please do not pass this bill!!! Our students have already been dealing with the effects of not enough funds and this bill would just make it worse. They are already missing out on services when teachers are pulled because they can't cover substitutes. Teachers are having to do so much more with not enough and giving private schools money will slowly continue to pull teachers and more funds. The private schools in our area would not participate so right off the bat, our entire district would not benefit. Parents nor educators want this to pass. Only those that will profit in already profitable private schools. Please don't pass this bill!

Shannon KH Smith

Self

Richardson, TX

Hello, I'm writing to disagree in the strongest terms possible with HB 3. It increases the size of the TEA by putting even more state administration in place to run the dispensing of the different programs this bill proposes, as well as whatever bureaucratic waste will be needed to administer a sham lotto for rich kids going to private schools. There is nothing in this bill that distinguishes it from other bills that are blowing up other states budgets. Arizona and Oklahoma both recently passed versions of these bills and they are struggling with huge shortfalls in their education budgets. Oklahoma has some version of this and it's done the same. We're Texas, we are better than Oklahoma. Thanks for your time.

Ruje Clark

Self

Conroe, TX

What would this mean to public school fundings ? It seems that it would be unfairly cut.

Meggan Fletcher
self/stay at home mom
Mansfield, TX

I am adamantly opposed to the school voucher/ESA bill. Public school dollars belong in public schools and public schools need to be fully funded. These scheme doesn't even benefit ALL Texas children yet it will impact every single one of them. Do not let billionaires influence what happens in our school system!! Stand up for our kids and for what is right. This is not a partisan issue - neither side wants this!! Stand up for public schools!!

Jennifer Holland
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support using public dollars to pay for private school. I am so grateful for my neighborhood public school and do not want it to lose funding. I live in a metropolitan area, but I especially fear what educational savings account would do to rural schools.

SHIRISHA REDDY
self
CEDAR PARK, TX

Please do not pass this bill. Vouchers will only hurt public education. I am the product of public schools and have a successful career as a physician. My kids have had incredible opportunities to excel because of what their public school offers. Please do not pass this bill.

Ronda Lindsay
Self
New Braunfels, TX

I'm writing to oppose HB 3 and request that the committee do so, as well. Passage of this bill will only increase the disparity in Texas children's education and opportunities. This bill only assists families who can already afford some level of private education, yet our public schools continue to suffer from lack of funding. I respectfully request that the committee vote no on HB 3 and instead focus on things that will make life better for every child in Texas (which will, in fact, make life better for Texans all around), like increasing teacher pay and providing public schools with the funding they so desperately need.

Kelli Kirk, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

Vouchers are undemocratic and a targeted undermining of public education. Vote NO on vouchers, and truly represent your constituents views. Most Texans do NOT want bouncers, and DO want to fortify our public school system.

Deena Minter
Self
Dallas, TX

I fully support the education saving account program as a homeschool mother in Texas.

Melody Bokmeyer
Self
McKinney, TX

AGAINST HB3 My children are in public schools and your stranglehold on finding them properly is causing closures, reduction in staff, and programs. Since schools are no longer hiring teachers, how will you retain the best and recruit the best? This bill is a disgrace to public education. The Texas constitution Article VII Section 1 requires the legislature to establish and maintain a system of public free schools. I'd argue that the legislature is doing a poor job of maintaining public schools!

Martha Spetseris
Self
Nacogdoches, TX

This bill has no purpose but to gut public education. It is a disgrace that the legislature seems poised to shove it down the throat of regular Texans. I want to voice my complete disapproval of it.

Katie Jeffreys
Self / Former Texas Teacher now Stay at home mom
Frisco, TX

Public schools are the backbone of our society. Please do not give away funds that our public schools desperately need. Families certainly do have the choice of private or homeschooling in Texas. Those choices should not be funded by taxpayer dollars when our public schools still have needs. Especially for such a small minority of children this private school choice bill is going to provide for vs the number of children total living in the state of Texas. Thank you.

Jeff Easley, GM
Responsible AI Institute
San Antonio, TX

Public funds should stay in public schools, and should always be transparent

Hunter Bonner, Mr.
self
Lone Star, TX

My name is Hunter Bonner, and I am in opposition of HB3. My reasons for being in opposition to this bill are that this creates more government bureaucracy, which is against conservative principles of limited government. This bill will create a number of paid government positions, thus increasing the size of government itself.

Second, the delegates to the RPT convention made it clear that any school choice bill must have "no strings attached." There are requirements for standardized testing, reporting back to the state the use of funds, and even intrusion into homeschooling to be regulated by the state government. All of this is a requirement for receiving funding under this bill, and thus are "strings." This is a violation of our platform, and as such, this bill is not consistent with what primary voters and delegates have stated over the course of the last 4 years.

Finally, this bill in essence provides a subsidy for those already sending their children to private schools. Subsidies are not conservative and are inconsistent with the Republican political philosophy of limited government. Please consider rejecting this bill for these reasons. Thank you!

Jaime Rocha
Self
Sweeny, TX

The majority of residents of TX are NOT for this bill. You need to listen to your constituents.

Susan Kacines
Self / pharmacist
Allen, TX

As a long-time resident of Allen, Texas
I strongly oppose HB 3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education. Oppose HB 3.
Thank You,
Susan Kacines

Catalina Johnson

Self and kids

Austin, TX

I urge you to NOT pass HB 3. My 3 children attend public school in Eanes in Austin and it has been the most incredible school experience with the most incredible teachers. They need to make these teachers and all the TX teachers teachers whole so that they stay in this selfless profession that we as a country desperately need in order to create the world's brightest and most innovative future generation. It starts with public school teachers. I have the rare experience to speak as a former private school kid. I attend a private school in Fort Worth my entire K-12 experience and I can tell you that my parents never once thought they should have a break in cost for supporting their neighborhood schools. They wanted the rest of the state to succeed and realized that they made a choice to spend more money elsewhere. If they had a public school in the area that was like the one my children attend, they would have sent us there. We won't get schools like Bridgepoint (where my kids go in Eanes ISD) without putting everything we have behind the teachers and schools. Don't gut public schools. It won't make our communities stronger, it will make us less prepared for the future. I implore you to truly think about the children, my children, my neighbors children, all the children who chose to support the public schools of this great state. We are all watching you. If you choose private schools over your own state then we will know there is a motive that is not the children's greatest good. And we will remember when we vote.

Reagan Berry

Self - Principal, Wylie High School, Wylie ISD

Abilene, TX

First, thank you for serving the people of our great state and serving on the Public Education House Committee. Second, I want to tell you that I have thoroughly enjoyed listening to the hearings within your committee. I find the dialogue incredibly insightful as well as clarifying.

As stated in my first sentence, the position you have chosen for yourself and then chosen by others to sit in is one of service. I hope throughout the 89th Legislative Session that you have the people you serve at the forefront of your mind. I hope you have all children, all parents, all teachers, all principals, all taxpayers, all community members, all industry leaders, all farmers, all businessmen, all healthcare workers, all homemakers, and all that you serve at the forefront of your mind.

On Tuesday, as you reflect, dig in, dissect, and listen to public testimony on House Bill 3, I pray that you will consider the voices crying and championing for public education. We're chanting for change. As a product of public education and a public educator now for 17 years, I see the cracks and the flaws. I see the need for improvement and I see the struggles many public schools are facing. What I do not see is how a voucher program will help in any of those areas.

What I see is a state government that has given up on their own public education system, a state government that refuses to see the ways it has failed its own people within that system, and a money-driven run to yet another government system that has not proven successful in any other states. This state does not need yet another bureaucracy-ran system in an area that was created to escape the government bureaucracy. This state needs a targeted focus within its own public education system. This state needs to reflect on the conservative values of "less government", examine how bureaucracies have infiltrated our public schools, untangle the web that has been spun within public education, and work to set new precedents within public education.

Texas has never been a state to follow other states, especially with systems that have proven to fail. Texas is considered great because of how it serves its people. Representatives, I urge you to consider the people you are serving. A school voucher program is not wanted by the people you serve. A school voucher program will not benefit those that are being touted as beneficiaries. A school voucher program will greatly impact the public schools that are called to serve their communities. Prior to voting for any voucher program, I urge you to remember the masses you are serving. I urge you to do better than follow other states' failed attempts. I urge you to innovate and partner with educators to reform our public education system that serves the families you serve. I urge you to remember that families already have school choice, and your duty is to make the choice of public education a better system for all families.

suzy stewart self retired school teacher
fredericksburg, TX

Please do not pass the HB 3. This state has always been in the lower 40's in education across the nation and yet you will not help the public education in this state. Passing HB 3 will hurt the public education even more. This is a slap in the face of the best teachers and schools and allowing the people who can already afford to send their child to private schools to get more tax payers money that is to go to public education. It is not right to direct these taxes to anything other than public education. I personally oppose this idea, and deffinitely oppose the private money going to law makers to get this passed. Its a bad bad idea.

Jennifer Matus
Self/Public School Educator
Spring, TX

I have been a public educator both as a teacher and school counselor in Klein ISD for 25 years. I have two children who are the product of our Texas public school system, and are now studying at the University of Texas at Austin pursuing college degrees. Public education in the state of Texas is critical to preparing the next generation in order to continue moving our great state forward. It seems vouchers passing is inevitable. At this point as a public educator and parent, I am asking that the public education student be valued equally to that of a student receiving a voucher. I am specifically asking if a voucher student receives $10,000 that a public school student also receive $10,000 in state funding. Without an increase in per-pupil funding public schools will be decimated over the next 2 to 3 years. The fact is that public school districts have not seen a per-pupil increase from the $6160 since 2019. We are paying 2025 prices on a 2019 budget. The headlines are proof all over the state. Great school districts are having to cut programming, cut staff and even close buildings due to not receiving an increase in over five years. I ask that in your deliberations today you consider increasing the amount of per people funding you currently have in HB3 to equal that of what a voucher student will be receiving. I further ask that public schools be funded on an enrollment basis versus an attendance based system. It costs the same amount of money to run and staff a public school classroom whether there are five students or 25 students sitting in the desks. This committee has an amazing opportunity today to equalize the playing field for all students in the state of Texas. I ask that you all reach into your mind and hearts to value every child's future. Thank you for your time today.

Ashley Draughon
Self
Cibolo, TX

Vote no against School Vouchers. It will destroy our public education. We should invest into our public schools to make them better verses giving our money in Vouchers to private education.

Michelle Moses
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose school vouchers. Public funds belong in public schools.

Catherine Garcia
Self
Lubbock, TX

I do not support the voucher program. It leaves students that are at most risk behind by not requiring acceptance of all students, like students with disabilities. Vouchers do not cover the full amount, so only the ones with enough money can afford it. Public education receives funding per student, so only the families that are lucky enough to be able to afford the remaining amount after the discount the voucher program offers, will leave. Public schools will have less and less money remaining for the students at most risk. Our rural communities that are already suffering will be impacted the greatest because those left behind will not have the resources to get the education needed for a better life, like transportation to education that is offered by public schools. Please do not leave children who need you the most behind.

Courtney Shipp

Self

Mineral Wells, TX

No. I do not, nor does my family of educators, support this bill.

jessyca Smith

Self

Roanoke, TX

I am asking our law makers to do the right thing and vote against vouchers. They are a waste of financial resources and have failed in so many other states. Do the right thing for Texas families and vote against vouchers.

Stephanie Webb

Self

Temple, TX

I strongly disagree with this program. Private schools and home schooling are not held to the same standards. Public schools are required to accept ALL students regardless of testing scores or behavioral concerns, they are held to attendance standards that deduct money for absences and private schools are not, the teachers are not required to have the same certifications in private schools, special education needs are not considered when expelling a child in a private school, and the public schools are required to teach a curriculum and pass standardized testing that a private school does not have. I am not opposed to school vouchers, but I am opposed to not having a level playing field. This bill is giving MORE money per student to a private school than a public school. This is a gross misrepresentation of what a school voucher could be.

Sylnovia Rabb

Self

Pflugerville, TX

As a proud product of public education, I stand in firm opposition to Texas House Bill 3 and the establishment of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs). This policy will further erode public school funding, disproportionately benefiting wealthy families while diverting critical resources away from the students and communities that need them most.

Our public schools are already struggling due to the detrimental effects of the Robin Hood funding system, which has failed to equitably support all districts. Instead of creating a voucher-style program that redirects taxpayer dollars to private institutions with little accountability, we should focus on fully funding our public schools. When adequately resourced, public education provides every child—regardless of zip code or socioeconomic status—the opportunity to succeed.

HB 3 is not about choice; it is about abandoning our responsibility to the majority of Texas students who rely on public schools. If we truly care about education, we must invest in our schools, pay our teachers competitive salaries, and ensure every child has access to high-quality learning environments. Texas does not need an ESA program—it needs a legislature committed to strengthening, not undermining, public education.

I urge our lawmakers to reject HB 3 and prioritize real solutions that uplift all Texas students, not just a privileged few.

Candice Swanson

Self

Hurst, TX

My husband and I don't have any children, but we have never had objection to paying the line item on our tax bill that specifically says Birdville ISD because we understand it's for the greater good. We paid FWISD taxes for 12 years, and now Birdville ISD for 24 years so lots of our dollars went into the coffers. However, we have objections for our tax dollars going to private schools. Public money = public schools. Save our public schools. My in-laws were elementary and jr high teachers. My cousin is a teacher in Keller. I have another cousin who teaches at a public magnet school in FWISD. We have dozens of friends who are public school teachers and my husband has a teaching degree from North Texas. We are standing with our family and friends who teach at the public schools here in Texas. NO PUBLIC TAXPAYER MONEY FOR PRIVATE SCHOOLS. That's simply a money grab for the people who already go to private schools. We've seen the statistics from other states that have tried the voucher system. We are being sold a bunch of baloney by pro-voucher people. Please vote "NO" on vouchers and ESAs. Thank you.

Vicki Scott

Self

Willis, TX

An educated society benefits everyone!! Stop this proposed SCAM in its tracks!!!

Stacy Roberts

Self

Cedar Park, TX

No matter how you name it, stop trying to gut public education! Only public education has to service all students. Only public education is subject to rules and restrictions of standardized testing and finance laws. A healthy public education system elevated us all. Stop trying to hurt educators and students.

Karen Gilmore

Self - librarian

Pearland, TX

The way I look at this issue is to compare it to a local police department: I am in favor of and certainly appreciate having the local police officers working for my good and for the good of the public in general. But if I felt the need for a constant police presence at my home specifically I would not expect the public to pitch in to pay for that - it would be my responsibility to pay for that privilege. Public education is there for everyone, and it is good. Taking funds away and giving it to people who feel a need for a specific and targeted type of education that is not a right but is a privilege is the epitome of selfishness. No one suggests that private education doesn't have its place but no one should expect the general public to help provide private education to the masses, especially when those private schools have the ability to turn away a student who doesn't fit their agenda. All private schools are not set up for children with disabilities or special needs, but public schools do accept all students with all abilities and needs. Public education is where the focus should be.

Susanna Olivarez

Self

Austin, TX

Do not support/ this is not about educating all our children/ it's about giving more money to the wealthy/ stop already

Alison Thorn

Self/Principal

NACOGDOCHES, TX

I strongly oppose Texas House Bill 3 (HB3) due to its undue burden on educators, the misallocation of resources, and the overreach into school operations without addressing the real needs of students and teachers.

Chelsee Jordan

Self/Children's Pastor & Mother of 5

Lubbock, TX

I am against Vouchers. That money should go to our public education system to pay teachers more and help with our teacher shortage. Classroom sizes are too high and more teachers are needed to lower the teacher to student ratio in the public school system. Public school teachers deserve so much more.

Many private school parents that I have spoken with also do not want vouchers.

Elizabeth Watson

Self

Lacoste, TX

I am opposed!

Anns Berasley

self

Austin, TX

Chair and Members,

I urge you to vote against HB 3 and all bills that will create Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) or other programs that will direct public money to be used for private schools. My K-12 education and that of my children has been a mix of public and private education. I understand why families may choose to send their children to a private school, but public tax dollars should not be used to support that choice. Public schools are already underfunded and diverting more funds will only make this worse. In addition, the fiscal note shows that the administrative cost will be $6.4 million a year and include hiring an additional 46 employees. Again, I urge you to vote against HB 3 and support public education in Texas.

Dori Reuscher

Self

Wylie, TX

Please vote no to vouchers. No one wants them.

Courtney Abubakar

WFISD

Wichita Falls, TX

I do not support the voucher bill. As a public school teacher I see every day how under funded our schools are, and the direct relationship of this lack of funding to harmful outcomes. This voucher scam is going to further harm our schools and the kids who attend them. Do not pass this bill

Megan Lanning

Self/My Children

Mansfield, TX

The only choice Texas wants is to fully fund schools and pay teachers fairly. Please give Texas the option to vote on school vouchers before ruining the public school system even further. NO VOUCHERS. Thank you!

Rebecca Lorzundi

Self, Crowley ISD, Dyslexia Interventionist

Burleson, TX

Please keep state funding in public schools that are accountable to the state. Private schools generally don't accept students with disabilities because they cannot serve their needs. For my students with dyslexia, public school is the only way they could get dyslexia therapy. Private dyslexia therapy costs hundreds if not thousands a month (if taught to fidelity). Let's use public funds to support public schools!

sarah rodenberg

Self - tech

Austin, TX

Education of our children is the key to a healthy functioning society. The Texas school system is already far underfunded. To take more away from a system that serves ALL children equally when private schools do not is abhorrent and dangerous to the future of our country's success. This bill is nothing more than the elite trying to stay elite. We should be ashamed of ourselves. If this passes, I certainly hope you choose to significantly increase funding for public schools.

Monica Marling

Self/Server

Austin, TX

I am opposed to an ESA or school choice or school voucher system. Our public and charter schools need greater funding, not to have their precious and few dollars diverted to private schools that have fewer academic oversights and that are not required to accommodate students with disabilities. Let's focus on uplifting communities, schools, educators and faculty who work tirelessly to support our Texas children and their families. Educators at my daughter's school are working full time and still struggling with food insecurity. Our educators and school staff should not have to visit food pantries to keep dinner on the table. Funneling money away from public schools to pay for private schools through a voucher program does not benefit Texas school districts. Please vote no on this bill and yes for MORE funding for our students. Texas ranks in the bottom of national education and we can and should be doing better by funding public schools with public dollars! No on vouchers or education savings account programs.

Allison Tater

Self—parent of public school kids

Austin, TX

Please do not impose vouchers on the people of Texas, this is not the way to go about addressing the issues we are facing with our schools.

Vote no on vouchers!

Rachel Smith

My family

Austin, TX

I believe in the public education system. My children deserve the same quality education as wealthier families. I refuse my tax dollars to support private schools that wealthy folks are fully capable of paying for themselves. This is an outrageous scam against our children and dedicated teachers. Do not defund our public school.

Debra Sherrill

Self

College Station, TX

I worked in education for 21 years and this bill is already hurting public education. The schools are having to cut teachers and counselors due to a lack of funding. Vouchers will ruin public schools and it has already started before the bill has passed. Vote no

Tamika Smith

Self

Houston, TX

I do not support this bill. This bill will cause problems for public school attendance, which would decline. I am afraid this bill would be issued out unfairly. I also feel private schools will unfairly pick and choose what students they will accept in their private schools. The only students benefiting from this bill will be the students already enrolled and Caucasian students.

Yolanda Noyola, Mrs

Los Fresnos
Los Fresnos, TX

Stop

Emily Watson

Self
Austin, TX

I do not support this scheme to defund our public schools. As a mom a two kids in public school, I've seen how our schools already struggle to meet funding obligations. My kids have had a wonderful experience in their schools. Public schools are the cornerstone of our democracy; they deserve your full support. Stop trying to give charity to the wealthy with this bill.

Betty Smith

Self
Pasadena, TX

I believe school vouchers is taxation without representation. If my tax money goes to private school I have no voice in what is taught or not taught. Instead of giving our tax money away invested in the kids in public schools by giving them a better education.

Angie Merriman

self
Austin, TX

I am a public school teacher of 20 years, and learning Texas elected officials want to take away from public education and focus on school segregation, that terrifies me! School vouchers will segregate families to those that now can afford private schools and those that can not. This will divide our families through financial means. Our school district has been careful with funds, but with no increase in the Basic Allotment in 6 years and other pressures like inflation and increased needs, we have had to let teachers and other vital staff go, increase class sizes, and discontinue programs that are beneficial to our students. I am angry about this; it will affect my child's school experience. I demand that Gov Abbott stop playing games with my child's future and FULLY FUND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS. I also demand that you VOTE NO ON THE VOUCHER SCAM so that our limited money and resources can be put to the best use for our students- and we have full accountability and transparency of that money. This issue matters to me and I vote. Thank you.

Elaine Kinzey

Self
Kingwood, TX

Please vote no on this give away of my tax dollars, as it will hurt public schools and the kids who attend them.

Amanda Braziel-Holleman, Ms.

Self- librarian
Austin, TX

I am writing to OPPOSE the creation of vouchers that would defund Teacher Retirement System and public schools. Our free public schools serve EVERYONE, and our educators bend over backwards and sacrifice untold amounts of energy and opportunity in an effort to educate and create a more informed citizenry. Public school teachers ensure our democracy. Do NOT defund public schools or public school educators' retirement!

Dave Holmgreen

Self, education

Portland, TX

If passed, this bill would open Pandora's box. Not only in education but for all private entities without state oversight to receive funding.

School choice already exists in Texas through open transfers for educational betterment. Please don't cripple the system that is already underfunded.

Boys against ESA's.

Julie Croy, Mrs

self

China Spring, TX

Dear Rep. Buckley and the Education Committee,

I oppose HB3. Parents already have school choice in Texas, however they may not have the funds to pay for a better choice.

Property tax relief or even elimination could empower parents to use that savings for education. It is THEIR responsibility, not the responsibility go EVERY Texas taxpayer to fund savings accounts for private education in addition to public school funding.

Our neighborhood schools are failing despite record funding. Why? HB3 is a bandaid for a system that needs major surgery. I believe HB3 increases government and decreases liberty and violates GOP core values. It is disappointing to see that this issue was not on the list of priorities determined by the people but the politicians deemed it so. You work for us and many Texans oppose this bill. I homeschooled my children AND paid for schools we did not use. Taxation is theft! HB3 will increase property taxes and eventually drive families out of their homes. Will there be a savings account created for them? Again, I oppose HB3.

Mrs. Julie Croy

K'Leigh Hernandez

Self

Slaton, TX

I opposed HB 3. As a resident of rural West Texas, many schoolage children do not have access to a private school within a reasonable vicinity. Most private schools in Lubbock County are religious private schools. Public funds are not meant to be given to private entities.

Janice Stokes

Self/ certified academic lang therapist

Houston, TX

I realize there are many problems in public schools but I don't believe this voucher is the solution for many reasons. One is I already leave in a district that has been taken over by the state and it mismanagement is sending kids away from the district in droves so it continues to lose more and money morning each year even though Mike Miles (Hisd) was supposed to make the district wonderful again. Not only that but teachers are also leaving the district, I personally know many wonderful teachers who left the district after 35-40 years and even principal of the year have now left. The state was supposed to come in and make this district better and if that was the case students pupils and leaders would not be leaving. As I see it, this is a ploy to get push people to go to charters. This is why I think this bill is not correct at this time. Maybe in the future but now let invest more in public schools . As a triplet mom even though I would have loved for my trips to attend private even with a 10,000 voucher per kid I would have not been able to afford it. Please don't pass this bill.

Jessica Gonzalez, Brownsville ISD Board Member

Brownsville ISD

Brownsville, TX

Public Written Testimony

<https://comments.house.texas.gov/home?c=c400>

<http://dontdefundmyschool.com>

According to Don't Defund My Schools, implementing a large voucher program would drain $15,192,173 from Brownsville ISD, diverting critical resources away from public schools to private institutions that lack public accountability. That could mean as many as 283 fewer teachers for students, 303,843 fewer library books, and a projected increase in student-teacher ratio of 7.29%.

HB 3 does not provide for parental choice, because it allows private schools to reject students based on their disability, race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Specifically, Section 29.368 of the bill gives private schools unprecedented autonomy, including the ability to reject any student for any reason. Many private schools will likely turn away students who are already struggling in public schools. All students deserve to have equal access to quality education and the same opportunities to succeed, regardless of their background. Texans would be better served by increasing funding to our community schools, which accept all of our children reg

According to Don't Defund My Schools, implementing a large voucher program would drain $15,192,173 from Brownsville ISD, diverting critical resources away from public schools to private institutions that lack public accountability. That could mean as many as 283 fewer teachers for students, 303,843 fewer library books, and a projected increase in student-teacher ratio of 7.29%.

HB 3 does not provide for parental choice, because it allows private schools to reject students based on their disability, race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Specifically, Section 29.368 of the bill gives private schools unprecedented autonomy, including the ability to reject any student for any reason. Many private schools will likely turn away students who are already struggling in public schools. All students deserve to have equal access to quality education and the same opportunities to succeed, regardless of their background. Texans would be better served by increasing funding to our community schools, which accept all of our children regardless of their background, ability, or identity.

Texas already offers school choice through inter-district transfers in BISD and other districts, as well as numerous public charter school options. Vouchers Do Not Equal "Choice."

— Thank you for all you do.

Elaine Golden

Self

Utopia, TX

Respectfully, please preserve small rural schools. School vouchers will be less funding and result in closure at small schools, which many cases is the largest employer in small towns which will effectively have poor outcomes for the small town. If will already add to income loss in the rural areas. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Shafaq Moten, Dr.

Self

Grand Prairie, TX

School Voucher. It is a ridiculous idea to take away money from public school to send less than 2% of students to school of choice. The amount taken away from public school will have a significantly larger negative impact on a public school than the positive impact on the school of choice. As history has shown again and again the vouchers overwhelmingly go to kids already enrolled in private school hence giving the "rich" a basic coupon as opposed to the student who was in the lower income bracket. That student couldn't even afford the difference of tuition to voucher much less any extracurricular activity costs.

I get that people who donated most to Abbot are wanting this as to gut the already lacking in resources public education system and perhaps the added pressure of re-election to the republicans but please do not forget the people who voted for you. History has shown how the vouchers program has gutted the public system in Alabama, Milwaukee and other cities and states. There is NO greater good in this bill. Yes we get $220 something more basic allotment per student but that is peanuts compared to the 10k voucher per student. Please do not pass this atrocity of a bill.

Odulia Ashby

Self

Cibolo, TX

Vote "NO" on vouchers. Do the right thing for your entire constituent population. Public schools support our future economies and local workforce. Private, Charter and Religious based schools don't adhere to all TEA policies and can willingly discriminate against any student who applies, especially students with disabilities. The schools accepting vouchers are not accessible to ALL students and there are limited or nonexistent in rural areas. Do the right thing and Vote "NO" on this voucher bill.

Melissa Tovar

Self

Marion, TX

Please vote no to school voucher program. Private entities should not receive tax money while being allowed to discriminate against those with disabilities. This program will benefit 1% of Texas students, which won't impact our state wholly at all. Vote no.

Roger Beikmann

Self

Lubbock, TX

I feel strong about education and having it available to everyone. I do not feel that I or we should fund, pay for families that want private education. I believe this is a privilege to attend those organizations and should not be funded by people that already pay taxes to public schools.

Jackie Kloppenburg

Self

Spring, TX

HB3 is a scam. It doesn't serve public school students, it serves only the wealthy. Please fund the public schools and remember the separation of church and state!

Jacquie Benestante, Mrs
Autism Society of Texas
Austin, TX

HB 3 - Against

My name is Jacquie Benestante and I'm the Executive Director at the Autism Society of Texas. Autism Society is the oldest grassroots Autism organization in the country. The CDC Autism prevalence rate is 1 in 36. The Autism Society of Texas, a nonprofit organization, serves families and Autistic adults in over 100 Texas counties through our free Navigating Autism Support Program, and we know what our community needs are. We are opposed to HB 3 and have several concerns regarding Education Savings Accounts, especially as it relates to students with autism and other disabilities.

While vouchers may sound like a great option for families, there are several issues the Autism Society of Texas and many other disability rights organizations have about their effects on students with disabilities.

The biggest issue families of children face when it comes to private schools is discrimination. Private schools are not required to accept students with disabilities, or if they do, they may expel them and keep the tuition.

Private schools are not required to provide disability services as outlined under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), which can mean a loss of individualized support, modifications and accommodations which are a critical need for students with disabilities to access learning.

Vouchers may only cover a small fraction of the tuition. While there are some private schools that cater only to students with Autism, they can range in price greatly, with some in urban areas ranging from $20-40,000/year. In addition, these are concentrated in Texas' largest cities, leaving the majority of children around the state unable to access any private school.

Private schools are not required to provide transportation for students. This sets up another burden for families who don't have the extra thousands of dollars needed to pay to get their student to the specialized private school when they also lack transportation.

We urge the Committee to instead, focus on increasing public school funding and changing the Special Education funding formula to an intensity-based formula that would address individual need, and not base funding on the setting where Special Education services are provided. Our Special Education students and their teachers should be fully supported in every school in Texas so that all students in Texas have access to a high quality education and the opportunity to succeed. Thank you.

Point of contact: Jacquie Benestante, Executive Director (jacquie@texasautismsociety.org)

Keithly Presley

self

Austin, TX

I do not support HB3.

Mike Royalty

Self (Self Employed)

Crowley, TX

Bad idea guys. Other states have tried this and failed miserably. I know, I know, because we're Texans "we can git 'er dun". My daughter is an elementary school teacher with a Master Degree. She enjoys teaching kids from all walks of life, all levels of financial security. This bill is designed to let the parents who can afford it, pull their kids from public schools, thus lessening both their kids and the "others" (less well off kids) exposure to all levels of society. HB 3 is NOT ABOUT THE KIDS - its about the parents and it's NOT a real Texas thing. Just say NO! Best Regards, Mike

Brittany Wright, Mrs.

Self-teacher

Lubbock, TX

My name is Brittany Wright and I live in Lubbock, TX. I am one of your concerned constituents and an active voter, asking you to stand up for public education in Texas and vote against Senate Bill 2.

I am included in the majority of Texans who do not support a voucher system and am alarmed at the proposed funding for education. This imbalance between public and private funding will further the gap of opportunity for marginalized students in our state and strip away accountability.

We need a well educated workforce in our great state and that begins by investing in our local communities and neighborhood schools. I am asking you to step up for our future and a fully funded public education system and vote against any voucher measures.

Thank you for your time and I will be watching how you vote on this critical issue.

Carl Blake

Self

Abilene, TX

Respectfully, I am a pastor and a lifelong resident of Texas. I am a strong supporter of public education. One of the promises of a free society has always been free education for everyone. Please strengthen our public schools and keep the promise.

Shamarie Mitchell

self

Littlefield, TX

Please vote no. This bill will hurt the average person. Even with the voucher only wealthy will be able to transport their children to these schools. It will also hurt the public school system.

Megan Parsill

Self

Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Megan Parsill, and I am a constituent in zip code 78735. I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 3. I urge my Representative and this Committee to vote against it and, instead, prioritize fully funding public education. Texas already offers meaningful school choice, but what is truly needed are the necessary resources to ensure our public schools can provide every child in Texas with the quality education they deserve. This includes the accountability and due process required to ensure that education is effectively delivered.

We should not allocate resources to privatized schools that operate with little to no accountability to the public. I believe proponents of this bill are unable to point to any successful examples of similar laws in other states that have achieved the stated goals of this bill. In fact, voucher systems like the one proposed have proven to be a failed experiment, and if this bill passes, it will likely harm more families than it benefits.

Thank you for your consideration.

Shera Welch

Teachers

Alpine, TX

No vouchers pay raise for teachers.

Hallie Garcia
Self
Richardson, TX

I'd like to comment against HB 3. My children go to an amazing magnet school in Richardson ISD. This school is also a title 1 school. The teachers, admin, staff, and principle are amazing and we believe in the quality of education they provide. With funding already short, I know bills like this will further impact wonderful schools like the one my children attend.

If offered a voucher, we still would not be able to afford private school. And quite frankly, I wouldn't want to. Private schools don't have to comply or meet IEP or gifted education standards, both of which my children need. Private schools aren't held to the same Texas standards, and therefore get to choose what they offer, which leaves kids unsupported and falling behind.

I've heard that funding this bill would ease overcrowding. Have any of you been to these community schools? I know my rep has, and they've seen the closing of schools and the district making hard choices because there aren't enough butts in seats. We don't need to loose more Texas children to private schools, when we instead need to be bolstering our Texas schools. Helping the MOST Texans, and not just a wealthy few.

Thank you.

Robert Bayard
Self - Realtor
Lubbock, TX

As a conservative Texan without kids in public schools, I urge you to oppose HB3. If 3% of Texas kids will take advantage of vouchers, then leave 97% of funding with public schools. The future of our Texas society depends on public schools. Gutting our schools of appropriate funding equates to gutting our future economic prosperity.

If you still feel strongly that Texans support vouchers/ESAs, then place it in on the ballot.

The communities that will suffer from this Robin Hood attempt at funding are small and rural communities where they depend on public schools which are the cornerstones of the communities they serve. The are the communities that solidly vote Republican. Imagine if you invest $1 Billion more into public schools! Texans would surpass educational outcomes of every other state in the country.

Jean Parrish
Self
Magnolia, TX

I do not support this bill for school vouchers. This will hurt our public schools and the future of education in our state. I urge all representatives to vote no.

Erica Mims
Self
Austin, TX

My name is Erica Mims - I am a resident and taxpayer in Austin, Texas, and I strongly oppose HB 3 and the creation of educational savings accounts (ESAs) for private school vouchers. I urge you to reject this bill. Please instead support our public schools to ensure equitable education for all.

Amanda Bailey

Self, teacher, tax payer, voter

Houston, TX

Please vote no to vouchers or any type of educational savings account program. I do not want my taxes going to any private institution that does not have the same regulations and testing requirements that public schools are obligated to follow. Private schools would have no oversight and no guarantee of that child's success. Please focus on fully funded all public schools, ensure there are certified teachers in all classrooms and have enough support staff to serve all students with disabilities. Increase funds for Texas public schools, make our public schools strong so we have a strong educated workforce that will be a benefit future employers. Invest in a strong trades programs in high schools because it's not all about going to college. Put more into elementary education so that all students are reading on level by 3rd grade. That means giving them enough funding to have certified teachers and support staff. Public education is meant to give every child an equal education no matter their parents income. Public education only works if you pour into it not take away from it. It's extremely disappointing that a man from Pennsylvania Jeff Yass can manipulate so many Texans into believing the lie that is school vouchers. Listen to educators, we are the experts we know what is needed and we are tired of being asked to do more with less. Please vote no and fully fund public education!

Cathy Kyle, Ms

Self

Austin, TX

My children received an excellent education and graduated from Texas public schools. My sister and husband taught in Texas public schools. They and their students have suffered from lack of proper funding of public schools for the last few years. Please do not continue to gut Texas schools with public school vouchers by using public dollars for private education which will be a further drain on our public schools. We should be putting more money in public education, not hamstringing students, parents and teachers by continued education cuts.

Carol Riedel

Self

MURCHISON, TX

This bill will destroy Texas public education especially in rural areas. It's not good for our kids! It's not good for our public schools. It's not good for our tax payers. I have not met a single person in the area where I live who is for it and, believe me, as a retired teacher I have asked! Nobody but the people who can already afford it want vouchers. Vote no!

Jenni Herzberg

Self

Mansfield, TX

One of the reasons I moved my family back to Texas was for the public schools. Over the last few years I have been disheartened at the way our schools have been politicized and used to push party agendas. Some public services are not meant to be privatized in public education is one of those things. After years of refusing to appropriately fund our students and teachers, there are many who now wish to pull public dollars away from public schools and make it harder to recruit and retain great teachers. Educational savings accounts are making it more difficult for districts to come up with the money to support the programs that most enrich our students lives — athletics, fine arts, librarians, and other enrichment programs will all be on the chopping block for public schools. Or public schools are expected to serve ALL students, private, and charter schools do not carry that same responsibility. It is difficult to digest that this bill is good for Texans when there are so many standing up and opposition to this legislation. Parent choice is propaganda, sold by our governor and many of you, on the errand of big political donors from outside of our state. The pitch for this program has been deceitful in the way that it's worded. If it was such a great plan, you would be able to speak more clearly and simply on its behalf. This plant is not fiscally responsible, and it is not in the best interest of all the children of Texas. But sadly, the way that you have funded this bill shows us where your priorities are. You have shown us in writing that you find more value in a student who is attending private school than a student who is attending public school

Manuela Tejchma

Self, IT manager

Austin, TX

Hi

I do not want my taxpayer money to go to private schools. I want public schools to be fully funded to give everyone access to a quality education.

Vouchers take away money and predominantly give it to private schools whose clients are already able to afford it. Vouchers will not do anything to improve education access in rural areas, and they won't do anything to improve education for all.

Other states have tried voucher programs and it ends up being more expensive than just funding public education. Example: Arizona. Catastrophic failure.

The best education and test ratings come out of states that fully funded public education. Take a moment to digest that. Texas can, and should be a top state for education. It is not. It is failing our children for the future and vouchers will make this even worse.

Say NO to vouchers!

Amy Roseman

Self

Dallas, TX

This bill will dramatically hurt the education of poor children while helping the wealthy. We need to boost education for ALL. Trxans

Elizabeth Wylie

Self

Weatherford, TX

Texas Residents kindly ask that the HB3 not be passed. This will mostly affect rural public schools who do not have the means with families that do not have an option for Private/Charter schools. Thank you for your time.

Staci Weaver

Self - school-based occupational therapist

Bryan, TX

I strongly oppose the creation of a school voucher system in Texas. I am deeply concerned about our public education system and believe that every resource should be applied to supporting reform within our current system and not creating a public-supported alternative that will drain our resources further. Texas has excellent teachers and school-based professionals who serve our children. The expectations placed on these individuals does not match their compensation or clear data about child development. Education reform is needed, but not at the expense of our public education system. As a parent, and now grandparent, I am extremely concerned about the majority of Texas children, and the state of education we will leave for them. I am also extremely concerned about the impact this system may have on the TRS system. Placing the TRS system in jeopardy, which has clearly been reported as a legitimate concern, is foolish and disrespectful to generations of retired teachers, current Texas teachers, and those to come. We must find a way forward by utilizing the knowledge and experience of those who are actually in our education systems. For too long, decisions about our education system have been placed within the hands of those who have no experience in the classroom or understanding of child development. We do not need outside consultation at a great cost to our state, outside firms creating testing scenarios that cost us billions, or a coupon system for the wealthy that provides supposedly more choices for those who already have the resources to make choices far beyond most Texas families with young children.

Our legislature must take responsibility for addressing the real problems in our school system. Privatizing the system is not the answer. This decision will impact generations to come. Let this moment in time represent a real step toward reform and accountability for our children, instead of representing further foolish decisions that negatively impact all of our futures in our state. We must do better.

Mark Johnson
Self, Mech Engineer
Liberty Hill, TX

I strongly urge any education savings account program treat every student in the state of TX equally, across the board, no exceptions regarding qualifications, location, funding amount [except for Home School funding per student] etc. We must allow ALL parents to make important decisions regarding their tax dollars and their children's education. Let the era of actual competition between all K-12 schools in TX begin. Now is the time.

Jill Adams
Self, mom and engineering project manager
Lewisville, TX

This bill is not school choice. This is a scam to create a larger educational disparity between the rich and poor. I live in a neighborhood which our public elementary school will be shut down in fall due to lack of funding by the state. It's absolutely disgusting that my child can be allocated more state funds going to a private school than our public school would get. If y'all are passionate about true school choice, the allocation per student for public schools should match the state allocation of the voucher. Texas is better than this. Texas children deserve more than this.

Grace Hedrick
Self, client management
Austin, TX

Defunding public schools and putting the few over the many is immoral and unAmerican. You should be ashamed of yourself.

Donna Short
self/public school educator
Wolfforth, TX

I completely disagree with this bill. It takes funding away from public schools. Further, private schools do not have to accept all students. Those with learning disabilities, those that are behind, and the like. I am disappointed that Gov. Abbott has visited schools to show public support, but he has only visited private schools. Not one picture reveals the diversity of our state! I know this because these are specifically stated on private school's websites here where I live. Additionally, there is no STAAR/EOC accountability. I also live in rural west Texas, what do those districts do when, they lose funding, but have no charter/private schools within 100 miles?

How about funding the public or and provide raises for counselors, educators and the like? I am frustrated that our leaders are not listening. Here we wanted, Cal Tepper to have a town hall. Not only did he refuse, but he yelled at constituents, and deleted his facebook account. Basically, revealing he has no desire to listen to the public.

I would hope this does not pass or, if it is so "great", put it back on the ballot!

Sharon Stratman
Self
TEXAS CITY, TX

This program has failed in many states, with clear winners and losers, with the winners being, predictably, the wealthy who already have resources. Before trying something "new" just fix the funding for a system already established to work when funded sufficiently, instead of funding your friends and donors that don't need it! The job of the state is to raise every child up with education, not those already riding high.

Michael Johnson
Self / Teacher-Coach
Granbury, TX

No

Michael Michaleson, Mr.
Self public school administrator
Olton, TX

If this bill is truly to implement a program to help lift the kids with few resources or options who are trapped in a failing public school, why set the qualifying number at 500% of the federal poverty rate? Surely there are enough children in the state of Texas at a number much lower who would qualify and thereby eliminate or significantly reduce the need for a lottery system to select the kids who would receive the assistance. Or you could really help a new set of kids by only allowing those who are currently enrolled in public schools (or better yet, schools on one of TEA's failing lists) the opportunity to receive the assistance. That would be putting the money where the rhetoric is...assuming that you agree with using public money to provide for an education with little to no oversight...which I don't.

Sara Abbas
Self / Marketing
Leander, TX

I am writing as a constituent and the parent of two Texas public schools students to express opposition to school vouchers for multiple reasons:

- * Vouchers defund our public schools: they are a scam encouraged by rich donors and lobbyists to steal public funds we paid for with our tax dollars away from public schools that serve our students. Evidence from other states shows the voucher model is not financially sound and destroys public schools and state budgets. This is in direct conflict with our obligation in the Texas Constitution to provide public schools for all Texas children.?
- * Discrimination: Vouchers drive discrimination against students and allow private schools to pick and choose who they want to admit. Private schools don't accommodate disabled and special-needs students and drive segregation. ?
- * Lack accountability: Private schools that receive voucher funds are unaccountable to taxpayers, with many examples of fraud and abuse of public funds. ?
- * Don't improve student outcomes: There's no reliable evidence that vouchers improve student success. ?
- * Weaken communities: Vouchers weaken local community schools, especially in rural areas where public schools are the main infrastructure for students and families.

As a Texas taxpayer, I demand that you do your jobs and prioritize the interests of Texans over this political scam. Vote NO on school vouchers.

Sara Mariani Abbas
Leander, Texas

Cliffton Karnes, Mr.
Self - PHP Manager
Early, TX

Putting it simply - no. I'm a hardline conservative Republican, and I do not support diverting additional public funds to privatize education. This is a public duty that needs full public support. With the "extra" funds, offset expenses to decrease property tax liability for citizens. There are many more legislative priorities than this. It has taken full legislative focus and shouldn't be this enamoring. In summary, NO!

Joan Carney
self
Lago Vista, TX

I'm a former fifth grade teacher and strongly support public schools.

I am against HB-3 because it will do little to help the groups that the program was meant to help and will drain public schools of badly needed funding.

One of the bill's provisions calls for giving low income families priority in the ESA lottery. Average private school tuition alone is $11,340, not to mention cost of books, transportation, and so on. For a low-income family, any additional cost over the legislated ESA amount is a burden most may not be able to afford.

The other prioritized group is families of children with disabilities. There are few schools available to them in the first place. And it's made clear in the bill that private schools can reject special needs applicants at will. So most of the families won't be able to find a school that will enroll their special needs child.

With those two groups out of the running, most of the funds will be available to regular students. The result is predictable based on what happened in Arizona. In 2023, 69% of the new Arizona student sign-ups were already enrolled in private schools. It amounted to subsidizing with taxpayer dollars tuition that wealthier families were already paying. Since the kids had never been in public school, it was a brand new cost to the state. I don't want to see that play out in Texas with taxpayer money.

Charitie Whitman
Self
Tyler, TX

Texas House Bill 3 and its inclusion of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) pose a significant threat to public education by diverting taxpayer dollars away from public schools and into private institutions. This voucher-style program would allocate $10,000 per student for families choosing private education, but the reality is that ESAs disproportionately benefit families who are already financially capable of affording private school tuition while leaving public schools and teachers underfunded.

Public schools serve all students, regardless of background, ability, or financial status. Private schools, on the other hand, are not bound by the same accountability measures, admission requirements, or special education mandates. They can selectively admit students, which raises concerns about equity and access. Furthermore, many rural areas in Texas do not even have private school options, meaning HB 3 will funnel taxpayer money away from local schools with no benefit to the majority of families.

This bill also puts the Teacher Retirement System (TRS) at risk. Public school funding is directly tied to enrollment, and reducing student numbers through ESAs will reduce the financial support for TRS, ultimately harming retired teachers who dedicated their lives to educating Texas children.

Additionally, homeschool families have voiced concerns, as accepting state funds could come with increased government oversight and curriculum regulations—something many homeschoolers strongly oppose.

Despite claims from Governor Abbott and other proponents, ESAs do not provide true school choice for all. The majority of private schools in Texas charge tuition well above $10,000 per year, meaning this program acts as little more than a discount for wealthier families, not an opportunity for all students.

Public dollars should remain in public schools, ensuring that every child—regardless of zip code, income level, or ability—has access to a quality education. Texas should focus on fully funding our public schools, increasing teacher pay, and supporting the students who rely on our education system rather than implementing a program that will drain resources from the schools that need them most.

I urge lawmakers to reject House Bill 3 and instead prioritize strengthening Texas public education for all students.

Julia Kovach
Self/Caregiver
Austin, TX

Esteemed members of the Public Education Committee, my name is Julia Kovach and I am a Texan, a wife, a mother, and a passionate supporter of public education. I am opposed to HB 3 and all bills trying to force vouchers/ESAs onto myself and other taxpayers here in Texas. Any person with an ounce of sense and a morsel of conscience knows that this is an attempt to strangle the public school system here in Texas. "Education Savings Accounts" and so-called "school choice" IS A SCAM! This scam steals my taxpayer funds and gives it to wealthier families while my children's schools have to make do with the scraps. NO SIR, not on my watch. I'm SICK AND TIRED of this nonsense with vouchers. I'm SICK AND TIRED of our hardworking educators being forced out of a calling that they love because of a handful of elected officials and their well-heeled financial backers. I'm SICK AND TIRED of you, Mr. Chairman, and your fellow ESA supporters wasting time on the dais and letting the wellbeing of Texas children fall to the wayside.

Thank you for your time, and be assured that folks like me are fired up and we aren't going to put up with this blatant attempt to steal from Texas children.

Audrey Allen
Self
LUBBOCK, TX

The people of Texas will not benefit from a voucher program and they don't WANT a voucher program. Instead, we should fund public schools with the aim of equal education across the board. Vouchers will raise the education of a select few while students who don't qualify or there isn't space for will suffer in poorly funded public schools. As public schools fail without funding, I trust our governor will claim they don't function as an excuse to further syphon funds from our students. It's unacceptable.

Jeff Black
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,
We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
 - 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
 - 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
 - 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
- Thank you!

Susan Cramer
Self
Georgetown, TX

As a fifth generation my entire family has attended public schools exclusively. I chose to send my 4 children to public schools as well. All tax dollars should go to support public schools that can be regulated and have to take all children. It is criminal to even think of giving tax dollars for private schooling or homeschooling. I do not want my property taxes to go up which will happen because money is being taken from my local district and given to private schools. This shouldn't even be discussion. Keep my tax dollars supporting public schools. And while we are at it let's work it improve public schools! Teachers and student need more support from the State, not less.

Evan Black
Self
Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,
We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

- 1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.
- 2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.
- 3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.
- 4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot. This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.
Thank you!

Julie Lewelling, Teacher
Self I'm a teacher
Lubbock, TX

Please do not pass this bill. You are not helping the students of texas by passing this bill.

Brian Lavelle
Self / Parent
Cedar Park, TX

Texas school vouchers are a deeply concerning policy that threatens the quality and equity of public education. The idea behind school vouchers is that parents can use taxpayer-funded vouchers to send their children to private schools, often religiously affiliated, rather than their local public schools. On the surface, it may seem like a good option for parents who feel their public schools are failing. However, there are several significant reasons why Texas should reject the implementation of school vouchers.

First and foremost, school vouchers divert critical funds away from public schools. Public schools are already underfunded and are struggling with overcrowded classrooms, outdated materials, and low teacher salaries. Taking more money out of public schools to fund private education only exacerbates these problems, leaving public school students with fewer resources. This not only harms students in public schools but also undermines the idea of providing every child with a quality education regardless of their background or financial situation.

Additionally, private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same standards as public schools. They can discriminate based on academic performance, disability, or religious beliefs. As a result, some students—especially those with disabilities, English language learners, or those who need additional support—may be excluded or face fewer opportunities for success. Public schools are required to follow strict regulations to ensure all students have access to a free and appropriate education, but private schools can often bypass these safeguards.

School vouchers also fail to address the root causes of the problems in public education. Instead of improving the existing system, they simply allow wealthier families to "opt out" of public schools, while leaving behind those who are most in need. By focusing on providing quality education within public schools, Texas can create lasting change that benefits every student, not just a select few.

In conclusion, Texas should reject school vouchers in favor of strengthening public education and ensuring that all students, regardless of income or background, have access to a high-quality education.

Shawntal Brown
Self/Educator
Austin, TX

Vouchers are not useful for the citizens of Austin and our public school children. Do not pass this bill as it doesn't benefit the public education system in Texas or the beneficiaries of public education.

Kaitlin Seymore
self Splendora, TX

I'm a Texas resident homeschool mother and I am against this bill. PLEASE DO NOT PASS THIS BILL!!!

Carol Ann Cordell
Self, Mom
Flower Mound, TX

HB3 does not give parents “school choice”, but it absolutely gives private schools a choice in who they pick to attend their school. Parents overwhelmingly are not in favor of HB3 and are prepared to vote out everyone who votes in support of it. This esa doesn’t serve all kids, but especially not the low income parents who still can’t afford private school nor the families with special education kids, who won’t be accepted into a private school. The money that will be removed from public schools comes in the form of 100,000 students leaving our districts will bankrupt many schools and districts that are thriving despite being unfunded and forced to cover many unfunded mandates passed down by the state. This is not about bettering schools, if you wanted that you would have increased the basic allotment in 2023. This is about money and power and the billionaires who support this and have funded Abbotts campaign are the winners and our poor children will be the losers. Public schools are required to accept EVERYONE, they have oversight and are held accountable, they have to provide FAPE for students and ensure students aren’t being left behind. Private schools have no oversight, no accountability in how money is spent, no responsibility to ensure any special education student is given accommodations and any fly by night program could apply as a vendor and start receiving tens of thousands of public tax money with no restrictions or requirements to ensure children are being educated as the constitution requires. A vote for ESAs is a vote against the 5.4 million public school children and will be the demise of each and every one of the house representatives who vote in favor because Texas Parents won’t forget.

Amy Chien
Myself, Mansfield ISD Parent and PTA Board member
Arlington, TX

Thank you for allowing us to leverage technology to submit our statement when logistics restricted us from being present today for this important vote. I have owned a home and two parcels of land in Mansfield ISD where we are happy to pay taxes and support our local, public school. We specifically chose our home and our future home site with the land we purchased in the Mansfield ISD school system. Both of my children are high achieving students with not only advanced scores in academics, but have received awards and accolated for their kindness, generosity, and problem-solving skills. My children are well-rounded and receiving an excellent education in STEM, Arts, and specialized services like Speech therapy. The education and specialized services they have received has been outstanding, and the professionals I have had the private of encountering have been next level. I am so thankful for the resources our school district has had in the past, and I fear a severe lack in ability to retain the level of excellency if public school funds are redirected to private organizations that are already self-sufficient or other alternative means of education, like homeschooling, that would be logistically impossible to hold to the same level of excellence and standard expectation.

Jennifer Wedemeier
Self - marketing
Westworth Village, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools. I fully support our public schools!

Brandon Sprinkel, Mr
Self: Sales
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3!

Tori Holder
Self - Mom
Houston, TX

I oppose our tax dollars going to private institutions. This bill is not fiscally responsible nor will it improve education outcomes for our state.

Cynthia Lopez

Self

Houston, TX

I will only vote for representatives who have opposed HB 3. I do not support this bill nor those who vote yes to HB 3. Hear the voice of the majority. Vote your conscience.

Elizabeth Moore

Self

Austin, TX

I could not be more disappointed in what I heard from you yesterday, as you argued for this bill to be passed. The travesty of appropriating this money to the wealthiest bracket of Texans is deplorable. And please do not say yet again that this is for parents to have better or more choices for their kids, because we both know that that is not the issue at hand. Parents already have that choice. The question is whether or not they have the means, and $10,000 will do absolutely nothing for a family who wants to send their child to a private school, but that school costs $30,000/year. On top of that, for you to say that Special Education is readily available in private schools is a blatant lie. Very few private schools can admit children with special needs and even if they can, the parents have to pay an additional expense to receive the offering. The worst part of this whole debacle watching you try to defend this is that you KNOW this is not the right decision for Texas and yet you appear to be advocating for it for personal reasons. I am disheartened on behalf of my children and all of the other children in public schools who will be affected by this unfortunate decision

James Strickland

Katy Council of PTAs

Katy, TX

I would like to voice my position AGAINST HB3, and urge you to do the same.

Respectfully,

Nicole Ivey

Self teacher

Wylie, TX

Nobody wants vouchers. Public schools are already under funded.

Ashley Johnson

Self

Wylie, TX

We do not want vouchers. Public education is vital for all children. Anything that changes or alters public education going forward only hurts our future. The children are the future. Please stop playing with these kids and their education. Stop and think about how this will hurt more than it helps. Keep the funds in public education. These are the kids who grow up to change the world. Or is that the issue? You don't want world changers or leaders you want compliance?

Robin Reyes

Self

San Antonio, TX

I strongly disagree with HB3 and school vouchers for private schools. Why can't every child in any school receive $10,000 for their education in public, private or charter school? Texas often has tax funds leftover so why not fund education for all children.

William Hanf
Self
San Marcos, TX

The taxpayers should not ever be expected to provide public money for private purposes. Vouchers are never the solution to ensuring every child in the state receives a quality education. As always, any program giving public tax dollars to private entities will be open to significant fraud and should be voted down.

Amanda Everly
self/ CPA
North Richland Hills, TX

Dear Legislators,

I urge you to vote "NO" to this bill. This bill has been advertised about school choice, but the truth is we already have a choice in where to send our kids. This bill is about taxpayers subsidizing private schools that are not held to the same rigor and standards as public schools. The majority of Texas taxpayers DO NOT support this bill. How in good conscience, can anyone vote to send taxpayer money to a private school when they aren't subject to the same mandates as our public schools? Put us all on a level playing field if that's the goal. Our kids in public school deserve better than legislators beholden to special interest groups. I urge you to stand for public schools and the millions of kids that benefit from taxpayer investment in their education. My 3 kids in public schools have seen the ill effects of our public education funds shrinking in our school district. Loss of programs, teachers with very low if any raises each year and being asked to do more, loss of coaches for our athletics programs and the list goes on. It is so frustrating to realize money for education is available in Austin and not being sent to our public schools. Do what is best for ALL children in the state of Texas, not just a select few (the majority of which are ALREADY paying for private school) and vote NO to HB 3.

Ralph Whitlow
self
Garland, TX

I usually stand firm with most Republican issues but this voucher program is just idiotic. I have no idea what Abbott is thinking here. First of all if these private schools accept public dollars then they must enter into the states school accountability system. That means they need to enact STAAR. Additionally these many of these private schools do not have the resources to provide services for programs such as dyslexia, etc. If you study how this has worked in other states it has NOT worked. What is not clear is if a student enters into a private school, that school is given up to $10,000 of public funds. In many cases the student does not stay in that school. That money should be automatically re-allocated back to public schools but I don't see a safety mechanism that ensures that happens. If you are going to setup these funds, and the students do not go to private school, then those funds should not be held, they should be sent to the public schools where those students attend, period. This will have to be reviewed yearly and cost the TEA a ton of work to administer. The only benefit this seems to serve is for the very wealthy, who's children already attend very prestigious schools where the tuition is way more than these education accounts will provide for, so the only real advantage is this will give wealthy schools a boost that the parents who can afford to send their kids there in the first place don't need that money. IDIOTIC! Don't even get me started on rural districts. If the closest school is 100 miles away how many students will take this up? If you really want to help pour that money into teacher salaries making the job highly desirable, which right now, it's not. Thank you for your time.

Rachael Metcalf
Texas PTA
bedford, TX

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to express my strong opposition to Texas House Bill 3 (HB3), which I believe will have a harmful impact on the education system in our state, particularly on the future of public schools, students, and teachers.

HB3, as proposed, includes provisions that I find troubling, including budget cuts, restrictions on curriculum, funding mechanisms, and testing requirements. This bill seems to undermine the goal of providing equitable and high-quality education for all students, regardless of their socio-economic status or background.

As a concerned parent, I believe that any changes to the education system should focus on increasing funding for public schools, supporting educators, and ensuring that all students have access to the resources they need to succeed. Instead, HB3 appears to prioritize revenue cuts, over-testing, etc., which will ultimately lead to overcrowded classrooms, fewer educational opportunities, and a decline in the quality of education.

I urge you to vote against HB3 and work towards policies that will benefit all Texans by strengthening our public education system. Our students deserve better than what this bill offers, and our teachers deserve the support they need to succeed in the classroom.

Thank you for your time and consideration. I hope you will stand with the students and teachers of Texas by opposing HB3.

Sincerely,
Rachael Metcalf

Britt Darwin
Self
Aledo, TX

"I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools."

Christy O'Brien, DISD Parent
Self
Dallas, TX

I am opposed to HB 3! Establishing a savings account (I.e, voucher program) for private schools only unfairly disadvantages public school children. Considering private schools are not held to the same testing and admissions standards as public schools, underserved children may be turned away from admissions for no reason, thus being enrolled in their public school that is now more underfunded than before. This is a scheme to financially support the tuition of students who are already attending these private schools and whose parents can afford the tuition. I adamantly oppose this bill!

Liz Stevens
self
Fort Worth, TX

This bill, if passed, will undermine the already precarious funding environment that our public schools find themselves in—and our children and society will pay the price, both now and in the decades to come. Public schools are the bedrock of this nation’s democracy. Don’t like them? Then fund them. Raise teacher salaries to draw the best and brightest to the field. Don’t just abandon public schools. Vouchers disproportionately hurt the poorest kids from the poorest families in our state. Why? Those families can’t afford the additional dollars it takes to pay a private school tuition, and they don’t have the flexibility (time) or means to get their children to and from school. Are private schools going to offer free and reduced price lunches? Busing? IEP and 504 plans for children who learn differently and require those interventions? No, no, and no. The governor’s voucher program is meant to saddle public education with the toughest kids, strangle it with less funding, and then point to the inevitable outcomes as more reason for “parent choice.” It’s at the very least unethical and cynical; and at the most just plain immoral.

Poor families don’t have the

Kristen Hudgens
Self
Austin, TX

Tell your representatives to stand with Texas families, not special interests. This bill is not about parent choice, it's about private school and vendor choice. It comes with a hefty price tag and zero accountability to the state or taxpayers!

Jessica Wood
Myself
Lubbock, TX

This bill will only do harm to the education of majority of Texas students. It is designed to help those who are already choosing to attend private schools. The financial blow that public schools will endure will only do harm. Our children deserve better.

Melissa Palma, CPA
Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

No vouchers for Texas. Our kids deserve equal opportunity and a sense of community. Vouchers are a means for fraud and abuse of tax payer funds. It creates division in communities by not keeping kids together and waters down ALL schools except those who opt for private. Voucher schools do not have the same standards and even less accountability. Grow a spine.

NO TO HB3!

Christi Rudolph, Mrs
Self
Frisco, TX

Please do NOT pass this. Our schools need us to support them

Matt McGhee
Self/Maintenance
Denton, TX

I oppose. No vouchers by any name. I had to move because our public school couldn't even keep the AC on and now you want to give it less money.

Pedro Requejo
Self
San Antonio, TX

I don't support vouchers. We need to keep the funds in public schools

Melinda Northcutt
Myself as a taxpayer
Porter, TX

Please vote against vouchers! Don't use the public's money for private schools!

Aditi Chakraborty
Self
Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS & "NO TO HB3"

Sonya Boyle
Self
Hurst, TX

I oppose this bill because it would take away from the families who don't pay taxes on homes or military families that send their children to public schools. This bill would only benefit the wealthy that already send their children to private school. And what about the children in rural communities that don't have access or choice to use private school. This is a scam bill. Please do not pass it.

Rocio Martin
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Taylor Drake
Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

No to vouchers and no to HB3

Jennifer Perry, Mrs
Self
Highland Village, TX

Please vote no to HB3. I stand with Texas families, not special interests. This bill is not about parent choice, it's about private school and vendor choice. It comes with a hefty price tag and zero accountability to the state or taxpayers!
As a parent in Lewisville ISD, our schools have to make cuts due to budget constraints. Our middle schools had to cut out block scheduling which allowed double block of ELA class and more planning time for our teachers. Now students and teachers are negatively impacted and more cuts are coming. Please fully fund public education by increasing the basic allotment and focus on that, not ESAs.
Fix the broken public school system before asking tax payers to fund another broken system with ESAs. Our 5.5 million public education students are the future workforce of Texas and deserve better.

Cassie Knapp, Advocacy Chair
Hays CISD Council of PTAs
Buda, TX

Mr Buckley-

I am one of very concerned constituents and an active voter, asking you to stand up for public education in Texas and vote against House Bill 3. I am included in the majority of Texans who do not support a voucher system and am alarmed at the proposed funding for education. This imbalance between public and private funding will further the gap of opportunity for marginalized students in our state and strip away accountability. We need a well educated workforce in our great state and that begins by investing in our local communities and neighborhood schools. I am asking you to step up for our future and a fully funded public education system and vote against any voucher measures. Thank you for your time and I will be watching how you vote on this critical issue.

Terri Guintivano
Paloma Creek Elementary PTA
Aubrey, TX

While this bill might seem like a benefit at first glance, all it does is reduce educational accountability and diminish the likelihood that lower income public schools will be able to keep qualified teachers, thus putting students even further behind. Focus should be on state funding to public education that actually makes sense. Stop continuing to hoard money in the rainy day fund; we are in a torrential downpour.

Brittne Bell
Plano ISD Parent
Plano, TX

I am not in favor of passing the bill in support of funding private school vouchers. It is not beneficial to all Texas students, as it claims to do, and will ultimately end up only benefiting those already in private schools. The focus needs to be on providing...NOT CUTTING...funding in support of public schools. Public school teachers deserve more, and they deserve better!

Dwayne Pavelock
Self; retired teacher educator and high school teacher
Huntsville, TX

I respectfully request you vote against school vouchers/ESAs. They will ultimately only help those who can already afford private schools and do significant harm to public schools. The legislature should make sure public schools are adequately funded first as they have had no state increases in more than 6 years in spite of the high inflation of the last 4 years. Public school teachers deserve a huge raise above all. I am especially appalled that the governor held hostage any help for public schools until he got his way with vouchers. But at the very least, please ensure public schools get the same dollar amount from the state as those who choose private schools. Please ensure funding is based on attendance for both. Please ensure it really is for lower income and special needs students. Please ensure that accountability is the same if standardized testing is the measuring stick (though I implore you to stop the standardized testing farce). I've been in public education for 38 years, as a high school teacher, principal, and as one who trained future teachers at the university level. The way that HB3 is written will do severe harm to public schools. I'd welcome a conversation, but for now, please vote against school vouchers, or at the very very very least, make the playing fields equal as I've discussed. Thank you, and God bless.

Madison Stripling, Ms.
Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS

James Shephard

Self

Lancaster, TX

This Bill will take away from public schools. Public schools have there problems, so fix the problems and fund public schools! Governor you haven't given public schools funding or a pay increase in 3 yrs .. Private School is not the solution! Same teachers Same result.. Please fix or save public schools.. I say no to tax payers money for Private School. Don't give up spend more . Don't destroy Public schools.

Sara King

Self/Public Education Teacher

Oak Point, TX

While I'm a public school teacher, I firmly believe that parents should have a choice in their child's education. While we have marvelous public schools, we also have some that aren't - the needs of the student should always be considered first. In my personal experience my sister and I were zoned for a public high school that would have been not only unsafe but would not have met our educational needs to pursue a college education. My parents made the financial decision to enroll us into a private school, thus allowing us to thrive in a safe and supportive environment. Public education has its place for many, but if it's not healthy or supportive, no one should be "stuck" with it. Thank you so much for your consideration of my views.

Claire Wrigley

Self / Parent

Houston, TX

As a parent of a child in public education, I cannot support any bill which would take funds away from our public schools and divert funds instead to private schools which do not have to accommodate all students or accountability standards. Other states which have similar educational vouchers have seen the systems abused, with upwards of 75% of the funds going to wealthy families already attending private schools which are often associated with religious institutions. The program will be run by for profit companies who will take 3-5% in overhead costs and there are no restrictions or limitations on who will be collecting this money, which will equal hundreds of millions over time. Instead of ramming through legislation which can only benefit a tiny percentage of children, instead invest in our public schools. Republicans have been in charge in Texas for 30 years, there are no excuses for state of education in this state. Please do not bow down to a small number of wealthy donors and instead listen to the parents and teachers who say vote no to this bill.

Tara Vu

Self

Allen, TX

I do NOT want school vouchers. Please vote against school vouchers.

Sarah Eaves

self/ parent

League City, TX

as a life long Texas resident, a former private school parent & student, and a former public school student & parent. I do NOT support ESA's. My tax dollars should not go to private entities but rather be used efficiently but public schools. I do not believe that taxes should be used to fund private citizens needs but rather the public good. I also believe in the separation of church and state, don't bring church into public schools and don't bring government into private/ home schools. Fully fund our public school students & programs!!!

Christopher Reck

Self aircraft dispatcher american airlines

Fort worth, TX

I am against this bill. Let's fund public schools and make them better so everyone can get equal access to education where they live.

Hilaree Casada

Richardson High School PTA and self

Dallas, TX

I am against HB 3 and SB 2 school vouchers bills. These bills will harm public schools throughout Texas and will not actually provide low income families with school choice. Our public schools should be fully funded, at higher levels than the current levels, before any school voucher or school choice program is enacted or funded. My son has received a top notch education in the Richardson ISD, while also receiving excellent support services from the district to remediate his dyslexia, improve his pragmatic language deficits, and accommodate his needs associated with those issues as well as ADHD and anxiety. He is a thriving 10th grader at Richardson High School who has excelled in AP classes, advanced classes, and the RHS Communication Magnet, is a student leader in the marching band, actively participated in public service activities, and is a member of the Latin Club. The private school he attended in kindergarten and first grade just set him aside and wrote him off when he was diagnosed with dyslexia. Attending RISD thereafter is a critical component in his success today. School choice and school vouchers will not help students like him because the private schools will either not enroll those students or simply fail to provide necessary support and accommodations. The only people who may benefit from such plans are the rich who already pay for private school education and people who are financially rewarded from investing in for profit schools. Please do not pass HB 3 or SB 2.

Sarah Kaushik

Self

Richardson, TX

Public funds should stay with public schools. Texas public schools are already underfunded and taking money away from them will only hurt our children. Private schools are not an option for every child in Texas so these voucher programs are inherently inequitable.

Benjamin Mancil, Mr.

self

Cedar Park, TX

I live in Cedar Park, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools.

ESAs (vouchers) directly hurt students with disabilities who receive Special Education services in Public Schools in the State of Texas. Diverting $1 Billion of my PUBLIC taxpayer money to private schools who do not even acknowledge IDEA, do not follow IEPs and only provide services when they are negotiated, compromised and then charged back to parents at exorbitant rates well above typical tuition rates it is theft of services and money to the most vulnerable population in Texas.

14% of the 5.5 million public school students in Texas receive special education services. That's 760,000 students at a minimum. These ESAs are completely inaccessible to at least 90% of our disabled students, and that is before they have a chance at any lottery or know if a private school will accept, serve, or retain them. There's no accountability. Not of services, not of the $1 Billion of public taxpayer money this legislature wants to pour into private schools and not of impact or outcomes of our disabled students.

Even if we say ALL of the ESAs go to disabled kids receiving special education services, that still leaves a minimum of 700,000 students receiving special education services in underfunded understaffed Public Schools that this state put in this situation. This causes direct harm to these students with disabilities, the most vulnerable individuals in society, and it's at the hands of those who are supposed to represent us.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice (and students), and have the courage to do the right thing: say No to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Mancil

Jordyn Combs
self - PTA VP & SAHM
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3 and I say NO TO VOUCHERS!!!!!!!!!!

Michelle Gemar Ortiz
Self
Buda, TX

Please say NO to HB 3. It does NOT put choice in the hands of parents. It offers no accountability for taxpayers or the state. It is fiscally irresponsible and is not sustainable. We all want smaller classes, neighborhood schools, better enrichment opportunities, highly skilled teachers, and parent engagement opportunities, so PLEASE do these two things: 1) invest whatever you were going to spend on ESAs (or vouchers) into our public schools, and 2) start trusting our public school educators by giving them the same freedoms you are so willingly handing over to unknow private entities. Thank you!

Wesley Baker
Self-teacher
Carrollton, TX

Texas House Bill 3, which seeks to establish an educational savings account (ESA) program, is yet another attempt to divert public funds into private interests under the guise of "school choice." Voucher programs have consistently been shown to be drivers of corruption, inequality, and the demise of public schools. Rather than strengthening Texas' public education system, HB3 threatens to undermine it by siphoning taxpayer dollars away from schools that serve the vast majority of students.

Across the country, voucher programs have been plagued by fraud and financial mismanagement. States with similar programs, such as Arizona and Wisconsin, have seen millions of taxpayer dollars funneled into unaccountable private institutions with little oversight. These programs often fail to deliver better educational outcomes while exacerbating disparities. Wealthier families benefit disproportionately, as vouchers rarely cover the full cost of private school tuition, leaving lower-income students behind. Additionally, many private schools receiving vouchers are not subject to the same academic and transparency standards as public schools, further widening the gap in educational quality and access.

HB3 also comes at a time when Texas has demonstrated a reckless approach to fiscal responsibility. The state has poured billions into Operation Lone Star—an initiative riddled with waste and inefficiency—while failing to adequately fund its public education system. Instead of misdirecting surplus funds toward an ESA program that benefits a select few, Texas should focus on strengthening its public schools by increasing teacher pay, reducing classroom sizes, expanding special education services, and investing in modern facilities. These measures would benefit all Texas students, rather than diverting public resources to private and often religious institutions with minimal accountability.

Texas' public schools serve over five million students, and they remain the backbone of the state's future. Instead of embracing failed voucher schemes that erode the integrity of public education, lawmakers should commit to ensuring that every child—regardless of zip code or economic status—has access to a fully funded, high-quality education. The state's responsibility is to invest in its children, not to subsidize private interests at the expense of public schools. HB3 is a step in the wrong direction and should be rejected in favor of policies that genuinely uplift Texas students.

Amber de la Rosa
Elgin Elementary School PTA
Elgin, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 and the expansion of Education Savings Accounts (ESA), which continue to make private schools unattainable for most families while diverting much-needed funding away from public schools. In communities like Elgin, where no private schools even exist, ESA provides no real benefit to students. Instead, we see growing class sizes and essential programs being cut due to inadequate funding. Middle- and lower-income families will still face barriers like transportation and additional enrollment costs, making private school an unrealistic option for many. Rather than prioritizing ESA, we should focus on increasing public school funding based on enrollment, not attendance, to ensure all students have access to a quality education.

Rachael Vorberg Rugh, Ms

Self

Fort Worth, TX

The majority of Texans want well-funded, high quality public schools. Education savings accounts draw public money away from public education and, as enacted in other states, disproportionately benefit wealthier families and do nothing to address the needs of students with disabilities and other children that private schools have no obligation to admit. The best way to support Texas public schools is by properly funding them - teachers, support staff, and students - not diverting resources they so desperately need. I urge members to listen to their constituents and vote against HB3.

Mohammad Abid

Self

Wylie, TX

'NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO HB3"

Carolyn Feese

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Vouchers are NOT what we want here in Texas. It will defund our public schools, use public funds to support private schools. There are already many options for school choice. Please vote against school vouchers for Texas.

Raegan Perry

self/ Custom Network Liaison

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Roma Giordano

self

St Paul, TX

I oppose HB3

Adrien Weeks

self - teacher

Farmersville, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Mohammad Abid

Self

Wylie, TX

'NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO SB3"

Jacob Wall

Self

arlington, TX

No one wants our tax dollars to go to private schools. This will add to the inequity of students. As a new teacher I would hate to see students receive less funding while for profit schools get richer. Do NOT pass this bill. I challenge you to do what is best for the students, not wealthy donors.

Public education is a right in the State Constitution. MAKE PUBLIC EDUCATION GREAT AGAIN!!

Amy Conine
Self
Corinth, TX

I oppose HB 3. The bill is fiscally irresponsible, and has too many questions and discrepancies in use and regulation.

Hannah Hebert
Self
Garland, TX

As a Texas mom, I am deeply concerned about HB-3 and its attempt to funnel public tax dollars into private school vouchers. My child, like millions of others across our state, depends on a strong public education system—one that should be fully funded, not systematically undermined.

A voucher program does not “expand choices” for families like mine. It drains critical funding from our already underfunded public schools, leaving the vast majority of Texas children with fewer resources, larger class sizes, and less support. Vouchers benefit private schools that are not held to the same standards, do not have to accept all students, and are not accountable to taxpayers. Public dollars should remain in public schools, serving all children—not subsidizing private institutions that can discriminate based on income, ability, or background.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, providing not just education but meals, special education services, and essential programs that support children from all walks of life. If lawmakers truly want to improve education in Texas, they should focus on fully funding our public schools, increasing teacher pay, and providing the resources students need to thrive—not diverting funds to a program that primarily benefits wealthy families and special interests.

I urge Texas legislators to reject HB-3 and any effort to implement a school voucher system. Parents like me are counting on them to protect public education—not dismantle it.

Geneva Feldman
self
Fort Worth, TX

"I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools."

Meghan Richey, Mrs
TCASE
Orange, TX

I disagree with Texas giving public tax dollars to parents for homeschooling and private school tuition, with no accountability or transparency.

For every student that leaves public school, already underfunded public schools will have less resources to provide services to all students. Meanwhile, students with disabilities and their families will have no special education rights guaranteed in a private school.

Katherine Schwind
Self
Burleson, TX

I do not support vouchers for public education. Improving public education in the public schools will allow the best education for everyone. Students in rural areas, students without transportation to a private school or students who can not afford the balance of a private school tuition will only be further disadvantaged by this bill. My family and I do not support vouchers.

Stacy Dodson

Self/Mother of Special Needs Children

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS!

Parents by and large DO NOT WANT THIS BILL TO PASS. If you pass this bill your name will forever be tied to ruining public education for the State of Texas. Wouldn't you rather be part of saving it from ruin? Making it better? Please stop forcing vouchers upon us.

Melanie Pratt

Self

Georgetown, TX

Please vote no—Gov. Abbott believes everyone who disagrees with him is a leftist in this issue. This is offensive—I am conservative and have voted Republican my entire life. This bill is simply wrong for Texas students and families.

Nydia Hernandez, Mrs.

Self

Arlington, TX

We attend a title one school in Arlington Texas. We are beyond happy where we are. My oldest is graduating to 6th grade from elementary but my youngest remains. Please do not strip us of this wonderful school that has given a beacon of hope in Arlington Texas. Title one schools matter for the little people. We absolutely need our schools our teachers. No one has any interest in going private not do we have thousands of dollars laying around to cover our half of public schools. Leave the title one schools and teachers alone. Us parents are extremely happy with the way things are. Title one schools matter without them there would be no free quality education.

Challie Sherrill

Self

Houston, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Challie Sherrill

Margaret Orgain

Self

Dallas, TX

I am opposed to HB3. My son goes to public school in Dallas and I am on the PTA board. I see how hard our teachers and staff work to give the kids everything they need even though our school district has been grossly underfunded for years. I also see the PTA raise money to fill the holes that we can. But there is only some much we can do. If this bill becomes law, our public school system will be gutted even more than it already is. If the bill works as you intend, and lots of students opt to attend private schools, the public school system will be pushed past the breaking point. There will always be students who can't afford to, do not want to, or cannot attend private school. What will happen to those students who rely on the public school system? What choice do they get in this "school choice" law? If the state of Texas can afford to give every student who wishes to attend a private school $10,000, they can afford to fully fund our public school system. Fund schools first. Then if the public wants a school savings account program, you can enact it then. Because there will actually be choices. Public school would be a legitimate option. At the very least, we need to have some sort of accountability for these public funds going to private institutions. Public schools are subject to rigorous and constant scrutiny. The same should be applied to any institution that receives public funds. To do otherwise would be unethical and corrupt. Our kids deserve better. Texas deserves better. Fund our public schools and vote no on HB3.

Cheryl Glasser

TRTA, PTA, Self

Katy, TX

I strongly oppose vouchers. I'm a retired school educator and president of the Katy chapter of trta. All three of my children have graduated from Katy ISD. I am an active volunteer in the Katy ISD schools. I believe vouchers are detrimental for public schools. I also believe vouchers will be detrimental to the TRS pension. As I watch news and social media, it is strongly evident that the public does not support vouchers. I feel representatives should be listening to their constituents.

Mahendra Mehta

Springbranch ISD

Richmond, TX

I oppose HB3

Magan Gentry

self billing specialist

WYLIE, TX

NO to vouchers!!

I OPPOSE HB3!!!

Pamela Pounds

Self

Rockwall, TX

As a Texan, I want to ensure my voice is heard on this bill. I am Against any voucher plan for schools. Our tax dollars should fund our public education system. If parents choose not to put their children in public schools that is their choice but it should not be funded by tax dollars especially when the standards are not the same as public schools i.e transportation, STARR Testing, ability to not accept students of the private school decision. Public schools need to be fully funded. Do not demonize our public school teachers. Give teachers the tools they need to be successful, don't criticize them when tax dollars are not given to them. My parents were teachers and I saw exactly how much of their own time and money was spent on/in their classrooms. Texas Congress needs to do better and support public schools in Texas.

Ashlynn Daniel

Self

Idalou, TX

I oppose HB3 and I do not support ESAs

Tamara Bell, Ms.

Self

San antonio, TX

I oppose school voucher in Texas.

Thalia Sanchez, Ms.

Self / NEISD PTA

San Antonio, TX

Vote No on HB 3. This bill takes money away from Public schools and extracurricular/sports that benefit all Texas children. The voucher program is designed to only benefit those that can already afford a private school education and not students in need. Public schools provide a place for all students in all communities.

Jillian Copeland

Self

Austin, TX

I firmly reject HB 3 - providing vouchers will NOT solve the inequities we already have in the education of our students, it will only broaden the gap. Students will not get the services they need in private schools or if they do there will be extra costs that are incurred and then who will pay those? The state? Please fund our public schools they way they need to educate all students without discriminations - fund our schools by allotment not by attendance. The lights need to be on whether there is 15 students in a classroom or 5, the teacher still needs to be paid, the cafeteria staff/admin teams - public moneys should fund public schools NOT private schools.

Allison Siglock, VP of Membership PTA

Fossil Hill Middle School PTA

Fort Worth, TX

Please do NOT use the voucher system for our public schools! We need a more fair system that will allow Public Schools to be fully funded the way they deserve to be!!!

Brandi Helm

Kimberlin Academy PTA

Rowlett, TX

As our public schools are already underfunded, I do not agree with anything that will take more money from our public school classrooms. Furthermore, I believe this move will negatively impact children with special needs who are unable to attain the services they need at private schools. I strongly believe that we should keep public funds public for the good of all students in our state.

Claudia Bell

Self

Grand Saline, TX

Please reconsider the ESA program. Taxpayer dollars should stay in public schools! Giving a larger dollar amount to go to private schools over public is NOT fair and equitable and does anything BUT level the playing field. You are hurting the vast majority of Texas school children and that hurts everyone!

April Hawthorne
Self
Canyon Lake, TX

My name is April Hawthorne. I am a rural, economically disadvantaged, single, disabled parent of disabled children and a homeschool educator. I am registering my opposition to House Bill 3. Although this bill falls short for many reasons, for the sake of time, I will only comment on the most important one.

HB3 puts a preference on disabled students; however, it takes no action to protect students of this demographic and the rights they are entitled to in taxpayer-funded public schools.

Although receiving taxpayer funds, there is a section in the bill that allows private schools to keep autonomy in their admissions preferences. This allows disabled children to be discriminated against immediately upon application. Private schools also get to keep their own discipline measures. In contrast, public schools are required to have alternate discipline procedures if a campus rule is broken due to the nature of a disability. Restraint and seclusion are already serious and detrimental issues in Texas schools. Zeroing out regulations meant to protect disabled students will only lead to harm and cause irreparable trauma. Further, public schools are not required to accommodate for disabilities, including in the required testing. In other words, this bill targets disabled students and encourages vendors and providers to offer no protection from discrimination, no assurance that they can access the curriculum, and refuse to provide reasonable accommodations.

I worked in a private preschool. We received government funds from USDA's food program. As a condition of participation in the food program, we were required by law to not discriminate against disabled children and to provide accommodations. Why are we asking anyone to give up their federal and state rights and concealing this as "choice"? I absolutely refuse to lose my tax dollars to a system that is, at its core, designed to prey on and abuse the disabled community.

Stephen Nichols
Self. Retired Attorney
Flower Mound, TX

“Texas House Bill 3 (HB 3) is a direct attack on education, disguised as “school choice.” It diverts taxpayer money from public schools to private institutions that lack public accountability, can discriminate, and do not meet the same standards as public schools. This violates the Texas Constitution’s mandate to provide a free, public education for all children. Proponents claim Texas can afford HB 3 due to a budget surplus, but this is shortsighted. The state is also pushing teacher pay raises and property tax reductions, all of which rely on temporary funds. Economic downturns or declining oil revenues could erase the surplus, forcing cuts to public school funding, teacher pay, or tax hikes to sustain the voucher program. Once public money is committed, it is difficult to reverse without harming schools.

Kayce McDade
Self
Cross Roads, TX

Please vote NO to HB 3. I am a public school educator and also the parent of a student with a learning disability. I am against giving more money to private schools while our public schools are extremely under funded. It is unethical and immoral to continue to not give proper funding to ALL Texas children, especially our most vulnerable. The wealthy do not need a discount on their childrens' schooling. However, we need to significantly raise the basic allotment to properly fund our public schools. We are drowning in our public schools because our Texas legislators refuse to listen to it's constituents and it's public educators. Vote NO to HB 3!!

Allyson Quigley
Self
Friendswood, TX

No vouchers.

Linda Smith
Self
Rosenberg, TX

Say no to ESA's, not 10k worth. Parents already have school choice. Public money do for public schools just like article 2 of the Texas constitution states.

Erin Hill
Self/ homemaker
San Antonio, TX

Keep public funds in public schools! Hold private schools accountable.

Crystal Sharp, Mrs.

Self - Stay at home parent to an elementary and intermediate student and active PTA Board Member, Booster Clubs member, Council PTA Delegate, Officer
League City, TX

I am a proud parent of a first grader in elementary school and a seventh grader in intermediate school, as well as an active member of our school community through the PTA Executive Board, Council PTA, and Booster Clubs. I recently attended Rally Day and listened to Senator Buckley's speech, and I want to express my deep concerns about HB 3 and its potential harm to public schools.

From my understanding, HB 3 would divert public funds to private schools, directly impacting the resources available to our students and teachers. My family chose to relocate to this district from North Carolina specifically for the high-quality education and opportunities provided by our public schools. My son, identified as Gifted and Talented (GT), has benefited greatly from Clear Creek ISD's exceptional programs, including the WAVE Program, designed exclusively for GT students. His school offers highly specialized educators, many with advanced degrees, who are dedicated to fostering academic excellence. I fear that under HB 3, critical funding could be lost, forcing schools to reduce or eliminate specialized programs like these—limiting, rather than expanding, choices for families.

Additionally, as a secular parent, I strongly oppose public funds being allocated to religious schools. Families who choose private or religious education do so as a personal decision and should bear that financial responsibility. Taxpayer dollars should be used to strengthen public education for all students, not subsidize private institutions.

I've also witnessed firsthand how underfunding impacts special education. A close friend had to move her child to a private school due to unmet needs in public school—only to find that private schools also lack the necessary resources. Instead of diverting funds away, we should be investing in improving special education programs, retaining qualified teachers, and ensuring that all students—regardless of ability—receive the support they deserve.

Ultimately, HB 3 claims to offer "school choice" but instead shifts resources away from the majority of students, teachers, and staff. Who truly benefits? In my view, the winners will be private schools, wealthy families already enrolled in them, and new microschool businesses. The losers? Public school students, teachers, and communities that rely on well-funded, inclusive education.

I urge you to oppose HB 3 and instead focus on policies that strengthen and properly fund our public schools—where every child deserves a quality education.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

JoAnne Scalf

Self

Allen, TX

The overwhelming majority of Texans do not want school vouchers!!

We are your constituents and we are speaking directly to you when we say NO VOUCHERS!!

This is why...

This bill only makes a very small increase to the basic allotment.

It doesn't even cover an increase equal to the rate of inflation.

Vouchers would provide 10k for private schools that are not held to the same standards as our public schools.

Public schools have mandates for things like security yet that's not covered?! You are leaving our children vulnerable to another tragedy like Uvalde.

SPED reimbursements do not cover the actual costs, any bill should cover the actual costs of those services.

If this bill passes then my school district will be further and grossly underfunded losing another over $1,600,000 + annually!!!

Lori Rutledge

Self- Educator/grandparent

Sugar Land, TX

Vote NO. As a 27 year public educator, parent and grandparent, this will be detrimental to our public school system and especially to lower income and disadvantaged students. Instead, use this money to fully fund public schools so that we may implement the services and programs needed by ALL students AND pay our teachers a competitive professional-level salary. VOTE NO to HB3

Mitchell Sickler

self

Wylie, TX

YES TO SCHOOL CHOICE & YES TO HB3!

Amy Dole

Self/nonprofit worker

Austin, TX

As a product of public schools in a time and place where funding was largely sufficient, and the parent of public school children, I urge you to vote against this bill which amounts to vouchers for the few. It pulls funds from public schools which are integral institutions of learning, employment and community building throughout the state. I fear the result of vouchers will be fewer of my tax dollars going to public schools, while private schools are likely to see an opportunity to raise tuition.

The focus on funds for schools should be on updating and revising the algorithm to more equitably fund all public schools in the state. That change is woefully overdue.

Brittni Austin

Self

Friendswood, TX

Please do not vote in support of HB3. I am a constituent in Galveston County, whose children attend Friendswood ISD. Our district is already underfunded and we cannot afford to lose more money for our government to fund private equities. We do not want the voucher bill to pass.

Anthony Spencer

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose hb3

Carol Hebert

Self

Garland, TX

As a Texas mom, I am deeply concerned about HB-3 and its attempt to funnel public tax dollars into private school vouchers. My child, like millions of others across our state, depends on a strong public education system—one that should be fully funded, not systematically undermined.

A voucher program does not “expand choices” for families like mine. It drains critical funding from our already underfunded public schools, leaving the vast majority of Texas children with fewer resources, larger class sizes, and less support. Vouchers benefit private schools that are not held to the same standards, do not have to accept all students, and are not accountable to taxpayers. Public dollars should remain in public schools, serving all children—not subsidizing private institutions that can discriminate based on income, ability, or background.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, providing not just education but meals, special education services, and essential programs that support children from all walks of life. If lawmakers truly want to improve education in Texas, they should focus on fully funding our public schools, increasing teacher pay, and providing the resources students need to thrive—not diverting funds to a program that primarily benefits wealthy families and special interests.

I urge Texas legislators to reject HB-3 and any effort to implement a school voucher system. Parents like me are counting on them to protect public education—not dismantle it.

Amy Beerwinkle

Self — SAHM and adjunct English teacher

Weatherford, TX

Texas already has school choice. What we need is a fully funded public school system for the 5+ million school children that will still be in public school even if ESAs pass. Diverting public tax dollars to private institutions with no accountability is not fiscally responsible or conservative, especially when it will only benefit less than 2% of students. The ballot “proposition” pointed to as proof of what Texas voters want is not valid because it combined 2 issues — school choice and public dollars following students. Our elected officials are not listening to their constituents: this should be voted on by Texas voters not decided behind closed doors by politicians clearly influenced by deep-pocketed donors.

Raphaelle lebourg

Self, Human Resources

Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose this bill; the data is clear in the states who have done this and it does NOT help families of little means make better choices for their children. What it does do, is take away more than the federal funding spent per child and funnel it to schools who 1) don't need it 2) teach a religious doctrine 3) do not need to accommodate special needs. This would be disastrous for rural communities. I sincerely hope our reps can ACTUALLY think of our Texas children vs lining their own campaign coffers to appease wealthy donors.

Renee Kelley

Self/Dyslexia Therapist

Wylie, TX

Please vote NO for vouchers and HB 3. Vouchers will take funds away from already struggling public schools. Please consider a way to give more funds to public schools in order to make them better. Lower income families will be hurt by vouchers, as they will still not be able to afford private school and public schools will get worse. Classrooms will be overcrowded because there won't be enough money to pay extra teachers. When classrooms are overcrowded, students learn less, and it just becomes crowd control.

MARISA DUNAGAN

Self

Allen, TX

Public education is at a crossroads in Texas. You have the option now to take us to the next level and make Texas a great state for all students, or to send us down a path that allows for private companies to profit at the detriment of our children. While I am fortunate to live in what some may consider a "wealthier" school district, we still struggle with the lack of funds for educational programs, teachers, and every day necessities (like Lysol wipes during cold/flu season). Public schools are the foundation of education for the majority of Texas children. While it may not be perfect, we can do better. Better, however, is not vouchers or an ESA. Better is releasing the funds held hostage by our governor. Many of the school districts have already begun planning for the shortfall in funds for the upcoming school years. Within Allen ISD, we will have classes hitting max capacity, the lack of paraprofessionals to assist teachers and special education teachers, and a decrease in overall services for children. Quite simply, it is ludicrous to think that the amount I pay in taxes will not go to my school district or public schools, but instead to fund private education. What about those of us that live in areas with good schools? We have no need for ESAs or vouchers as the school districts are performing well. Instead, we will see more of our tax dollars siphoned away from our schools at the expense of our children. Who is going to pick up the slack? Who is going to pay for the computer programs the teachers use day in and day out? The vast majority of Texans do not want vouchers. People from other states with a voucher program have shared their personal stories of how vouchers caused the educational standards to go down. Private school prices will go up. The rich will get richer. I can only imagine the devastating effect this will have on rural communities. I attended public school from K - 12. I then went to The University of Texas for undergrad and Texas Tech School of Law. I have always been a part of the public education system. Do not let millionaires from out of State dictate how Texas children should be educated. The people of Texas are overwhelmingly telling the Legislature that we do not want vouchers/ESA. We want our schools to be funded sufficiently. What is happening right now is a tragedy. It is said that the children are our future. If the Texas Legislature passes this bill, our children will not have the future they deserve. I urge you to vote No.

Whitney Pisani

Self and family Professor

Carrollton, TX

Please reject the bill to bring vouchers to Texas and instead support and protect our public schools. Teachers, students and families need support.

Gina Dobbins, Texas citizen and tax payer

Myself

Chester, TX

I am against tax vouchers. I do not the government should interject itself into private education.

Barbara Williams

self

Round Rock, TX

I do not agree with private school vouchers for all. A majority of the money is going to go directly to those who can already afford private education. I believe we should be directly funding disability programs, councilors and other personnel to help those with disabilities already within the public school setting. Our local districts are switching to 4 day weeks for school because the state has not increased their operating budget in 6 years - what other industry in Texas has had no funding increase in 6 years? Certainly not your salaries. How are parents supposed to keep their jobs when the school is only open 4 days a week and all offices are requiring employees to return to office? With no requirement for private schools to accept these individuals with disabilities, how does this really help them? And with no standardized testing, how are parents supposed to compare and vet schools? Public education exists for a reason. If you claim it is broken, it is you who is in charge, then you should fix it. Fund it. Help it. Don't throw it in the trash. Hurting the many to help the few is not the Texas way I was taught, no sir. Boo to you.

Jennifer Nichols

Self

Lewisville, TX

“Texas House Bill 3 (HB 3) is a direct attack on education, disguised as “school choice.” It diverts taxpayer money from public schools to private institutions that lack public accountability, can discriminate, and do not meet the same standards as public schools. This violates the Texas Constitution’s mandate to provide a free, public education for all children.

Proponents claim Texas can afford HB 3 due to a budget surplus, but this is shortsighted. The state is also pushing teacher pay raises and property tax reductions, all of which rely on temporary funds. Economic downturns or declining oil revenues could erase the surplus, forcing cuts to public school funding, teacher pay, or tax hikes to sustain the voucher program. Once public money is committed, it is difficult to reverse without harming schools.

Other states show the risks. Arizona’s voucher expansion cost taxpayers hundreds of millions more than expected. Florida and Wisconsin saw ballooning expenses that benefited wealthier families while draining public school resources. If Texas follows suit, the result will be underfunded public schools, larger class sizes, and fewer resources for students who rely on them most. HB 3 will not help the majority of Texas students. Vouchers disproportionately benefit families already in private schools. In Ohio, 88% of voucher users never attended public school. In Florida, most were already enrolled in private education. Vouchers do not create opportunities for most students—they subsidize private tuition for families who can already afford it.

Texans have rejected vouchers before. Proposition 2 in 1997, which sought to use public funds for private tuition, was overwhelmingly voted down. More recent efforts have failed due to bipartisan opposition, particularly from rural Republicans who understand that taking money from public schools will devastate their communities.

Yet HB 3 is being pushed through, fueled by out-of-state billionaires like Jeff Yass and Texas billionaires Tim Dunn and Farris Wilks. These donors have spent millions to unseat GOP legislators who opposed vouchers, proving this is a scheme driven by big money, not public demand.

If HB 3 is such a great idea, why not let Texans vote on it? This bill effectively amends Article VII of the Texas Constitution, which guarantees public education. The fact that its supporters are avoiding a direct vote shows they know Texans would reject it again.

HB 3 is reckless, fiscally unsound, and deeply unpopular. It undermines public schools while benefiting a privileged few. Lawmakers must reject this bill and defend Texas students, teachers, and communities. Public funds should support public education—period.”

Mary Kristen Valentine

Self

Houston, TX

I am a mom of two children attending spring branch ISD schools. While I attended private school as a child and my husband attended the same public schools as my daughters, I have been so happy with the public schools we are zoned too and love the sense of community it creates, which is so needed in this time of divide politics and ugly public discord. I am very concerned and confident that dollars siphoned away from public schools, which desperately need them to just keep up with inflation and retain teacher talent, will significantly hurt our schools and the majority of Texas children who attend them. To me, this isn’t school choice. School choice would be giving the same level of funding to public schools as what you are looking to do for private schools in the form of. Vouchers. Why not make public schools as competitive schools just as well funded so that students have a real choice? Please don’t choke our public schools, we need them now more than ever. Make Texas proud and do the right thing and give kids and their parents a real choice!

Beth Timmerman

Self/PTA Parent

Fort Worth, TX

PLEASE reject HB 3 - the only families that this truly benefits are those that ultimately don't need the help. We desperately need the funds in our PUBLIC SCHOOLS which serve ALL students. Stand with the students of Texas and REJECT this bill!

Geoffrey Hyder
Cowtown Democrats, President
Fort Worth, TX

This program will strip millions of Texans' right to a good and fair education with the explicit purpose of siphoning money from public to private schools. It is a naked effort to erode public education and close public primary and secondary schools. It is entirely for the benefit of Governor Abbott's political donors, not the people of Texas.

Please oppose HB3. It is your solemn duty to the people of this great state.

Kathryn Stendebach
self
Mansfield, TX

Strongly Opposed to this bill

Selina Keilani self, Director of Business and Finance
Austin, TX

I am strongly against this bill. Taxpayer funds shouldn't be used to support private schools of any kind. Furthermore, in the case of religious schools, this constitutes violating the separation of church and state. There is no oversight of any private schools; they can set their own standards, select the students they want and not admit others, and discriminate against children and families in terms of race, religion, gender identity, disabilities, and other categories. These vouchers would take funds away from public schools which are already severely under funded. I am especially concerned about the children who have learning difficulties or disabilities. Many private schools won't accept children with learning challenges, which will leave children and parents to flounder. We should be putting more money and support into our public schools instead of taking away from them. This will especially hurt low income families who won't be able to afford most private schools even with the vouchers. I implore you to consider what most Texans want; to support our public schools and not fund private schools. Thank you for time.

Barbara Crow
Self retired
Edom, TX

I am strongly opposed to this bill. It undermines public education while doing extremely little to help any student who actually needs help. Even those who are prioritized will not have the means to use the ESA account due to other costs incurred by attending a private school. The private schools have ALL the say on who gets in. Also there is nothing in the bill to prevent wealthy families with children already in private school from getting the ESA dollars. The cost of administering the program is too high. The idea of the 'money should follow the child' is flawed. If people whose taxes go to the local public school are only those with children enrolled there we no longer have free public education for all. There has never been an accurate non- partisan poll that says that most Texans want this.

Adrienne Buchanan
Self / Hr Executive and Mom
Rockwall, TX

Please represent what your constituents want. We don't want school vouchers. We want you to fund our under-funded public schools. How can we attract more corporate headquarters to Texas with abysmal schools for their employees children? How can we use public dollars for PRIVATE schools full of people who can already afford those schools? How are we okay with abandoning rural areas who have ZERO private schools? Texans do not want this. If you doubt that, please put it to a public vote. We will remember this when it comes time for your re-election. We will remember how you sold out our schools, teachers and children to the highest bidders.

Rebecca Teran, Mrs.

Self

SAN ANTONIO, TX

I support school choice for the parents of Texas.

Pamela Denney

Myself

Clifton, TX

I live in Will Texas and done so for the last 30+ years. We need well funded public schools. I am against school vouchers! NO SCHOOL VOUCHERS WITH MY TAX DOLLARS! I am for public schools!

Stephen Smith

SELF

Wylie, TX

I am against the vouchers.

Debby Kratky

Self

Crowley, TX

@everyone

ALL HANDS ON DECK-

Yesterday, I spent 14 hours waiting to testify on HB3 in front of the Texas Education Committee. Unfortunately, I left in tears. 396 people signed up to testify. They did not get to public comment until 7 pm.

Warning: these videos are longer than 20 minutes but VERY informative. If you just have time for action today, skip to the bottom, bec the action has to happen before 5PM. But please come back and watch/listen to the videos. They will help you understand the problem. I truly feel like the GOP has moved beyond their party politics of being fiscally responsible. This is dangerous territory, but in this we have the opportunity to make change.

I'll put three links in the comments:

1. local Tarrant County GOP Precinct Chair Hollie Plemmons testifying on HB3, in opposition. Hollie is my known adversary at school board meetings. We disagree on just about everything, but this! (we have GOP friends!)
2. a clip from 11:30pm, when a former budget chair for that very committee testified in opposition based on the FISCAL note for the bill.

Y'all, I'm so disappointed. At midnight, they announced there was 267 people left. I asked the clerk where I was on the list and he couldn't tell me if I was even on it. The next 6 people that were called were not ME! So I had to drive home in tears at midnight. I do know that around 2AM, they called my name and registered my opposition. The hearing went until 6:30AM

BUT, there was so much opposition to this bill that they left the portal for comment open. They want to gather more SUPPORT for the bill, so we need to flood it with more OPPOSITION.

Please ask everyone to submit opposition to the bill TODAY BEFORE 5PM.

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note listed. This is unfair to the children of Texas and will have a lasting impact on workforce development in our state. We need to spend more on public education because the majority of the students in Texas will always go to public schools.

Jennifer Marz, Mrs.

Self, Principal

Pearland, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 and the establishment of Education Savings Accounts (ESAs). Proponents claim these programs expand educational opportunities, but large-scale, independent research does not support their effectiveness. Instead, ESAs will further weaken our public education system, create greater inequities, and fail to address the root causes of educational decline in Texas.

First, there is no significant, independent research proving that ESAs or school vouchers improve student outcomes. Studies from states with similar programs, including Indiana, Louisiana, and Ohio, show mixed or negative results, with some students experiencing declines in academic performance. Public education policy should be based on proven strategies, not untested programs that may do more harm than good.

Second, private schools receiving ESA funds operate with little oversight and are not held to the same standards as public schools. Public schools must meet strict accountability measures, including curriculum requirements, standardized testing, and teacher certification. Private schools, however, are not obligated to meet these standards, raising concerns about transparency and educational quality. Texas taxpayers should not be funding schools that are not held to the same level of accountability as public institutions.

Third, private schools have the ability to pick and choose which students they accept. Unlike public schools, which serve all students regardless of background, private schools can deny admission based on academic performance, disabilities, disciplinary history, or religious beliefs. This means that ESAs will primarily benefit families who already have access to private education, while lower-income students and those with special needs will remain at a disadvantage. Instead of expanding opportunity, ESAs will create deeper divisions in our education system.

School vouchers and ESAs will not solve the real challenges facing Texas public education. Our schools are struggling due to inadequate funding, teacher shortages, and resource disparities—not because of a lack of school choice. When people talk about how strong our education system used to be, it's important to note that we didn't have school vouchers then. Our public schools thrived when they received the funding and support necessary to serve all students.

Instead of diverting resources to private institutions, we should focus on strengthening our public schools—raising teacher pay, reducing class sizes, improving school infrastructure, and ensuring all students have access to quality education. The solution to our education crisis is not to dismantle public schools but to invest in them.

For these reasons, I strongly urge you to reject HB3 and any effort to establish ESAs in Texas. We must prioritize strengthening our public education system, not undermining it.

It is also doesn't take a lot to follow the money/people backing school vouchers to figure out who will benefit the most.

Lauren PeCoy

Self

Wylie, TX

I do not support ESAs and HB3. Do not let this bill leave committee.

Cally Murray

Self

Austin, TX

Please set our state straight and give public education a chance to allow young ones to thrive which means funding increases to support opportunities in the classroom, teachers, programs and maintaining that support for years to come.

Whitney Wood Juarez
Fort Worth Focused Real Estate
Fort Worth, TX

Oppose!!!!

Gretchen Rossington
Self
New Braunfels, TX

I don't believe vouchers are right for Texas. Vouchers will hurt public schools. Please vote NO.

Cynthia Padin
Self, Texas PTA, Tom Hicks elementary, Lewisville ISD
Carrollton, TX

Stand with Texas families, not special interests. This bill is not about parent choice, it's about private school and vendor choice. It comes with a hefty price tag and zero accountability to the state or taxpayers!

Nancy R Stallings, Dr.
self/scientist, parent
Carrollton, TX

I do not believe that ESA/vouchers are in the best interest of ALL of the children of Texas. We should be working on strengthening public school which are the main path of education for 94% of students in Texas. Please do not use taxpayer dollars to fund ESAs. Vote No on HB3.

Cassandra Parish
Self
Wylie, TX

ABSOLUTELY NO to SB3 and HB3! This is a scourge on our state and nobody wants this. Every single constituency rejects this, has rejected it, and will continue to reject it.

Jennifer Ferguson
Self
Iowa Park, TX

This bill will KILL public education!! I'm an educator for almost 25 years.. Public schools take ALL students.. Private schools do NOT.. Keep that in mind when there isn't enough funding in public schools for the students who are turned away from private schools!!

Angelene Cisneros, Mrs
Self- TTUHSC SR PURCHASER
Lubbock, TX

Public schools are a blessing to kids of all kinds. I have two children who are dyslexic and one who also has ADHD and the public school system has been able to address these issues. They've given my children more one on one time with specialists and given my husband and I tools to help our children at home. I was worried my 6 year old daughter would never be able to read and here she is now being able to get through a book with little help all thanks to public educators and their time and effort with her. A voucher plan will take these specialists and educators from truly helping the children who need it most. Our teachers are already severely underpaid and this is only making it harder for us to keep quality educators who truly do this for the love of it. By putting this savings account program which is only available for people who are already able to fund a private school(they did not need help to get their kids in and now we are taking away from those who can not and will not ever be able to afford this type of schooling even with a voucher) and taking away a free school that needs all the funding they can get. I want my kids to succeed and I feel like this bill will only lead to my children not be able to learn to their full potential. This should be about the bigger picture. This should be about all children and how we want their future to be big and bright and not about pocket books.

Tabitha Hrynyk, Mrs.
Self
Justin, TX

No to vouchers. Public schools need more funding

Chelsea Walker
Self, Accountant
Dallas, TX

This bill is a nightmare disguised as 'choice' but it offers nothing of the sort. It contains no accountability and robs public schools of the funds they so desperately need. Raise the basic allotment for public schools before you spend any of our tax dollars on private schools! Parents already have a choice in where they send their children; homeschool, private, public, or charter. Raise the basic allotment to the $10k you propose for ESAs and give parents truly robust, fully functioning options for which they can decide what is best.

Velma Vargas, Mrs.
Self
Kyle, TX

I do not agree

Patrick Reed
Fwisd
Fort worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools

Melinda Webb
Northwest ISD
Trophy Club, TX

I am not in favor of an education savings accounts in the way that is has been presented. Why can't a homeowner receive a deduction on their property tax liability since property tax is how schools are funded by the community. I could have 15 school age children living in my home and I would still pay the same amount of property tax. Giving 10k or more per head for a school voucher seems out of line with the above statement. Governor, please stop holding teacher pay hostage with this plan. Texans just don't want it. I was born and raised a Republican conservative but... you are really disappointing me on this one. This is about our kids and you will go down if you continue on this road.

Sara Ortiz-Romero, Dr.

Self

San Antonio, TX

I oppose taking money away from public schools with vouchers. It will hurt Texas education.

Ana Miller

Self

Coppell, TX

I'm strongly opposed to HB 3. I live in a great public school that offered great programs free of charge and now we parents have to pay if we want our kids to be part of it!!! We need more money for our public schools. Great teachers are leaving! Classroom sizes of +30 children with only 1 teacher ??

Juliet Jennings

self and marketing director

Richardson, TX

I am opposed to the school voucher program. Children in Texas deserve the right to the best free, public education we can give them. The voucher program supports those that have the most versus those that need the most.

Public schools are the safety net that catch the kids that need the most support to reach their fullest potential. It is also a magical place that builds a sense of community. Supporting our neighborhood public schools means kids in the same streets and neighborhoods get to know each other, play and grow together. It means they grow up with a sense of belonging. It means that kids who don't have the support we would like them to have at home have a place to belong.

Please vote NO to vouchers and keep our tax dollars in the public schools that our kids deserve the most!

Clay Williams, Mr.

Self

Wylie, TX

No to vouchers. No to HB 3

Lindy McMahan

Self

Sachse, TX

I oppose school vouchers. It only gives those who can already afford private school a discount on their private educations. Please think about the public schools and use your power to support ALL students in Texas.

Stephanie Fitzpatrick

Self

Cypress, TX

I STRONGLY OPPOSE HB3 and would like all Texas State Representative to vote NO. This bill harms the majority of the state and takes funds away from the public education system, the children, the teachers, and the staff. This bill is being misled as "school choice", which isn't an issue. There has always been school choice, whether public, private, or homeschooling. Every family has the choice to participate in the education of their choice. Tax dollars are allotted for public education to ensure that EVERY CHILD, no matter financial situation or economic standing has equal access to education. If a family chooses to send their child to a private school that is a choice, and with that choice comes a cost. The limitations in private schools mean that not every child will get in or every child will get an opportunity for equal education like they would in public education, because they do not have to allow children with learning disabilities or special needs in, or allow lower income families in. Private schools are not regulated, therefore it's not an option for every child. But public education is. It's available EVERYWHERE and to EVERY ECONOMIC LEVEL and to EVERY LEARNING LEVEL, no exclusions.

This is the only option for fair opportunity to a rightful education. Taking tax payer money and allowing it to go to private or homeschooling education takes funds from every community. It limits the FREE educational opportunity that is a right to every child in this state. Programs will not be shoe up be funded, teachers will not earn raises that are well deserved, and the community will suffer!

VOTE NO!!! Do the right thing for the future of Texas!

Laura Hermes

self

Sachse, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS - NO TO HB3 - Texas does not want vouchers. Vouchers will not help the majority of Texans. Only Texans that can already afford private school. Private schools can deny my children entry solely based on their educational needs and 504 plans. All Texan children deserve a quality education. Release public funds to fund our PUBLIC schools. That's what we pay property taxes for!!!

Andrea Tyler

self librarian

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO HB3 and SB3

DeAnn Wilson

Sudan Elementary

Sudan, TX

Public school Principal here. No to vouchers!!!!

Sarah Allen, Rev. Dr.

self/clergy

Austin, TX

I urge the committee to vote against this voucher bill. It is detrimental for our public schools; public funding needs to remain in public schools.

Shannon Muldoon

Self

St Paul, TX

I do NOT want vouchers. I want you to fund public education fully and properly. I want you to care about the people who live in TX and support this economy. Most Texans are not wealthy. Your choices are showing us that only the wealthy matter. It is shameful!

Rachel Sossamon

Self / stay at home mom

Wylie, TX

NO SCHOOL VOUCHERS!

Our public schools struggle enough without the proper funds from the state. Support our public schools first!

Ruben Hernandez Jr.

Taxpayer

Corpus Christi, TX

Allocate thethe for teacher raises, improved music & arts. Improved technology & traing. Private education should be paid by private sector.

Gwendolyn Williams

Self/Advertising

Rockwall, TX

NO VOUCHERS!!!!

Chanel Gray

Self- Animal Behavior Specialist

Carrollton, TX

Texas House Bill 3 is a direct attack on public schools and will have devastating consequences for our education system. By pushing for school vouchers, this bill takes critical funding away from public schools, which are already underfunded and struggling to meet the needs of all students. Vouchers are not the answer — they divert resources away from the schools that serve the majority of Texas children and give tax dollars to private institutions that are not accountable to the public.

It's clear that Governor Greg Abbott is forcing this harmful agenda on the people of Texas, despite bipartisan opposition. A growing number of Texans, including both Democrats and Republicans, have voiced their concern and opposition to vouchers. Abbott's attempt to ignore the will of the public is a blatant disregard for what's best for our children, our teachers, and our communities. Public schools need more support, not less. If this bill passes, it will only widen the gap in educational equity and further harm the students who need it most.

We need to focus on strengthening our public schools, increasing funding, and ensuring every child has access to a quality education, not undermining the very system that serves the majority of Texas families.

Jessenia Curry

Self

Grapevine, TX

I am whole heartedly opposed to this proposal. There has not been any data provided upon the statewide benefit this has shown in the states that have approved this. This bill is not the solution to our state of education. We need to study places that have successful educational systems and high literacy rates and follow those procedures. This bill would also put the Texas teacher retirement system at risk which would also increase the teacher shortage. Please do not approve this bill at this time.

Jamie Dorobek

Self

Austin, TX

As a parent of 2 kids in public schools, I am against vouchers. Vouchers take money away from public schools. Private schools do not have to meet the same standards, can deny kids for any reason, not to mention, rural areas in Texas don't even have access to private schools. I do not support vouches.

Ann Zadeh, Hon.

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Kathy Minor Schneider

Women of Dallas United for Action

Dallas, TX

My two children are the products of Richardson Independent School District and are thriving, contributing members of our society. I am also a product of Texas public schools and I believe our schools should be fully funded, teachers paid a living wage and students given the best opportunity to learn facts and figures that are afforded them as the constitution provides. My tax dollars should go to public schools not private schools that are owned by churches and private entities that I may not support. Give my tax dollars to public schools. That is where they belong and that is where I want them to go. Put this to a vote if you truly want to represent the population of Texas.

Jasmin Brown

Hartman elementary PTA wylie tx

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS and NO TO SB3

Bonnie Norman

Self pastry chef

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Carol Bowles

Self- public school teacher

Adrian, TX

I oppose HB 3. I oppose vouchers. Public schools need to be FULLY FUNDED! You are not going to be able to provide CHOICE for ALL Texas school children. In my rural area - and ALL rural areas across the state - there will be NO CHOICE! These children are 60 + miles from ANY private or charter school! There parents are not capable of homeschool! YOU need to do what is right for PUBLIC SCHOOLS and FULLY FUND them! I WILL NOT support ANYONE who supports vouchers in the next election. TEXANS Do NOT support this! You are lining vendor pockets! NO VOUCHERS in TEXAS!!

Crystal Nguyen

Self / Financial Advisor

Houston, TX

I am against vouchers and for increasing the basic allotment per student by at least $500. I have two children currently attending a public school and in gifted and talented programs. They have suffered tremendously the last two years due to the budget cuts caused by lack of funding. Vouchers do not give parents a choice and will not help students truly in need. My taxpayer dollars are not going to the students in my district and we have lost teachers, librarians, school counselors, and programs due to the lack of funding. I urge you to vote no on HB3. There is no accountability for private schools and as such our public tax dollars should not fund private school.

Kimberly Lawrence

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Holly Ray

Self/ retired

Fort Worth, TX

I strongly reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal notes on same. As far as I can tell this is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools. Please reject

Jennifer Doherty

Spring branch isd, self

Houston, TX

I am OPPOSED to school vouchers. This does nothing to support our PUBLIC SCHOOLS. Former educator. Current public school parent and PTA President.

John Polidore

self

Austin, TX

For many reasons, we oppose HB3. No public dollars for private schools. Our lawmakers need to focus on funding PUBLIC schools. Public schools have been starved of proper funding for far too long. The Texas Legislature is continuing to hold back support and the basic needs of public school districts and then pointing the finger at the public schools for not improving. Fix the funding for public schools BEFORE you start funding private schools and home school options. Especially since this bill doesn't even require all special needs children to be served and standardized testing to be applied.

Texans do not want HB3. Fully fund PUBLIC schools.

Deborah Lockley Wilkes

Self

Houston, TX

I opposed any form of vouchers, educational saving accounts, etc or use of public funds for private school use.

Fabiola Lujan

Mother

Wylie, TX

F

Kristin Benton

Self

Frisco, TX

Please stand with Texas families, not special interests. This bill is not about parent choice, it's about private school and vendor choice. It comes with a hefty price tag and zero accountability to the state or taxpayers! By providing great quality public education to everyone, we are lifting up our entire state for the better. Why stop that for nonsense vouchers?? Say YES to supporting Texas public education and the teachers who serve to create a better future for our children. NO VOUCHERS!!!

Samantha Collins

Self

Wylie, TX

No to Vouchers and No to HB3

Roderick Zeman, Retired teacher

Retired teachers

Amarillo, TX

You are taking money from poor kids to give a payment to rich kids for their private school. As soon as you pass this private schools will raise their tuition! Also, you are putting my pension at risk, and that is so wrong!

Monica Muñoz

Wylie ISD Council of PTAs

Wylie, TX

PLEASE take care of our children by taking the monies allocated for these ESAs and pour those into our public schools! Now, more than ever, WE NEED more support for ALL children and not just for a small few!!

Carla Carter

self/principal

New Braunfels, TX

I am sharing my opinion to oppose HB 3 due to the anticipated cost that would impact my school district. Specifically, If a large? voucher program is implemented in Comal ISD, it would drain $11,994,683 from our neighborhood school district to unaccountable private schools. That could mean as many as 223 fewer teachers for students, 239,893 fewer library books, and a projected increase in student-teacher ratio of 7.25%.

Amu Abbett

Self, admin

Wylie, TX

I do not want the voucher system for my kids.

DONALD MCADAMS

self, retired

Bellaire, TX

After my 12 years on the Houston ISD board, I founded the Center for Reform of School Systems for the purpose of training school boards in good governance and reform leadership. I have trained over 100 school boards, mostly large urban districts, but also about 30 boards in Texas. I have also written four books on urban school governance. During this period I observed almost every reform effort advocated by education reformers and funded, sometimes lavishly, by major foundations. None were sustainable. The only strategy that will lead to sustainable improvement of public education is competition. School choice not only benefits the students who escape failing public schools for a non-public school of their choice, it also prompts school districts to improve. As they lose students, some of their best teachers and school administrators, and funding, school districts will be willing to take the sometimes painful steps to improve instruction, school climate, and student success. Placing public school districts into the market place is the only way to get their attention. Otherwise they get a burst of success with a good board and superintendent, but board elections and superintendent turnover inevitably bring these short golden periods to an end. The establishment reasserts itself. Universal school choice will benefit all students. And it will not drain money from the public schools. This is the big myth sold by the establishment. Indeed districts that lose students will lose funding. They will also lose the responsibility for educating the students they have lost. The argument that their fixed costs remain the same is not valid. All organizations have to manage variable and fixed costs—hospitals, supermarkets, and large manufacturing plants. School districts do this all the time as enrollments grow or decline. Also, have you ever known a school districts that said “we don’t need more money for increasing enrollment because it has a minimal effect on our fixed costs. Finally small town and rural districts need not fear that school choice will drain away students. Very few private schools exist in rural Texas, and where they do they are too small to compete even with small districts in curriculum and extra curricula activities. The big impact of school choice will be in large urban areas, and that is precisely where public schools are not adequately meeting the needs of their students.

Jesse Daly
Self
AUSTIN, TX

I am providing comments with respect to the current proposal regarding public education funding. I am opposed to the introduction of education savings accounts (ESA) in Texas and implore the House to vote against any such proposal currently under consideration.

In 2021, my wife and I made the choice to move our family from Missouri to Texas in large part due to the quality of Texas public schools. In Missouri, our children were enrolled in a French immersion charter school; one of the top performing schools in the state. We were selected via lottery to be able to enroll in the school and our children had a good experience while attending this charter school. So, we are familiar with school choice in some sense. And we made our choice. You could say we are Missourians by birth and Texans by choice. We are proud to be here and our choice has been absolutely the right decision from day one. Our children have flourished here and we continue to be impressed by the quality of the educational opportunities here in Texas, along with the parental and teacher support. We believe they will continue to flourish in the current public education system provided the state of Texas adequately funds public schools.

Therefore, we believe the current proposal to introduce ESAs is flawed and should be rejected for the following reasons:

- 1) There is limited oversight of the schools operating outside the current public school system who would be the beneficiaries of the ESA program. Additionally, public education is available to all children while private schools can choose which students to accept.
- 2) The ESA model negatively impacts rural school districts where existing public schools are critical to students' development and educational attainment in addition to being central to the local economy.
- 3) The preponderance of research in this area over the past decade on traditional vouchers strongly suggests they actually lower academic achievement according to the Brookings Institution.
- 4) Studies into a similar program in Arizona found that a disproportionate share of program beneficiaries appeared to be affluent.
- 5) Several studies have shown that both high exit rates from private schools funded with vouchers and/or ESA, as well as higher educational attainment upon returning to a traditional public school.

Our public schools here in Texas work. They need our continued support. Please reject the current proposal to introduce education savings accounts in Texas. Thank you for your consideration.

Abigal Rios
Self / Chef
Liberty Hill, TX

I am in opposition to HB 3. I oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

If the reason for vouchers is truly schools choice, then additional accountability measures must be added to the bill.

Measures such as:

1. No elected official past, present or future nor any family member by blood or marriage may financially benefit from the ESA program in any way, direct or indirect.
2. No family with a child currently enrolled in an education entity other than a Texas public school may use an ESA. They already have choice and they use it.
3. No education entity may deny admittance to a child choosing to use an ESA
4. No education entity admitting a child via an ESA may dismiss the child during the current school year
5. Any education entity that dismisses or denies continued enrollment to a child using an ESA before 5 years or graduation must fully refund the state plus a 25% penalty
6. Any education entity that accepts a child via an ESA must abide by the same rules, policies and procedures as every public school.

I oppose HB 3.

Stefan Terry
self, web developer and former academic support worker; spouse, educator
Del Valle, TX

Hello,

I write to express concern over the proposed education savings account program. Though well-intentioned, the results of similar programs in other states like Arizona show that it will do very little to improve school choice for those who want it, but will certainly max out its budget. It will almost certainly pull resources away from our already under-resourced public school systems, and will only succeed in funneling tax dollars into already-well-funded private operations.

Private and Charter schools on average only perform as well as the public options around them. If we really want to improve education outcomes and support school choice, we would focus our efforts on ensuring our public schools are sufficiently funded and work to push the cost of private options down, rather than give them the means to charge more knowing our tax dollars can pad the numbers.

Thank you.

H H

Self

Austin, TX

Dear Lawmakers,

My name is H.H., and I attended Austin ISD from pre-K through 12th grade. I graduated from Bowie High School in 2024 and now attend college in Texas, where I participate in sports and other extracurricular activities. I love college, but it is extremely hard for me. I have dyslexia and other specific learning disabilities that were never properly remediated during my time in Austin ISD.

My mom fought so hard for me for so many years, but when students do not get the help they need to be on grade level, schools do not have the resources to catch them up. Too often, students are just passed along without being truly college, career, or life ready. I am smart. I am capable. I have a better-than-average IQ and a strong desire to learn. But I did not receive the support I needed to be successful.

Schools do not have adequate dyslexia (and other) programs in secondary schools because of a lack of funding. That needs to change. Please increase the basic allotment to at least $1,300 per student so Texas kids can get the support they need to succeed. I am working to obtain a degree so I can help students with disabilities get the help I never could.

Texas students deserve better. Please fund our public schools.

Thank you.

B F

Self

Austin, TX

Dear Lawmakers,

My name is Berkeley, and I'm a middle school student in an academy program in Austin ISD. I'm twice exceptional, and I love math, writing, and history. I love my school and my teachers, and I want them to have the resources (MONEY) they need—and to be paid what they deserve.

A $220 increase to the basic allotment does not get us there. Schools are struggling, teachers are underpaid, and students are missing out on opportunities because there simply isn't enough funding.

Please provide more special education funding and increase the basic allotment by more than $1,300 per student to support kids like me—the future of Texas.

Thank you.

David Derry
self - rancher
Medina, TX

I am a strong conservative that holds to the values of limited government and fiscal responsibility. My view is that ESAs/Vouchers in general and specifically as outlined in SB2 and HB3 do not hold consistent with either of those values. Article 7, Section 1 of the Texas Constitution states: "SUPPORT AND MAINTENANCE OF SYSTEM OF PUBLIC FREE SCHOOLS. A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools." Anything outside of the public school system is a growth of government. It will require new staff to oversee the program, funding to various vendors and little oversight of public funds. Any public funds should come with accountability just as public schools do with publicly available audits, access to board meetings, access to curriculum and so on. It is imperative that public funds (tax money) are not expended with strict controls. Who is going to ensure that our public funds are not going to private education systems that indoctrinate or teach values inconsistent with other tax payers. Thus, such oversight counteracts what many who choose private education or homeschooling really want.

I think we all agree that there are issues that need to be addressed in our public schools. This proposal does nothing to address the issues. These issues need to be tackled head on, not by funding a few that wish to seek alternative educational opportunities. As we are taught in economics, all choices come with costs. The debate now is who funds the cost associated with the choices of a few. Using public money to fund the choice of a few is not consistent with conservative ideals.

I am all for educational freedom. We have that freedom in Texas now. A parent can send their child to any school that will accept them or homeschool them. If those are not an option then that parent can always utilize the public school system. The people of Texas should not be forced to fund two school systems and the free will choices of others. I implore you to take the fiscally conservative, limited government stand and vote against HB3.

Elizabeth Wilson, FNP
Self
Abilene, TX

I am strongly opposed to implementation of a voucher program in the state.

Alyssa Rios
Self, teacher
Liberty Hill, TX

I am in opposition to HB 3. I oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

If the reason for vouchers is truly schools choice, then additional accountability measures must be added to the bill.

Measures such as:

1. No elected official past, present or future nor any family member by blood or marriage may financially benefit from the ESA program in any way, direct or indirect.
2. No family with a child currently enrolled in an education entity other than a Texas public school may use an ESA. They already have choice and they use it.
3. No education entity may deny admittance to a child choosing to use an ESA
4. No education entity admitting a child via an ESA may dismiss the child during the current school year
5. Any education entity that dismisses or denies continued enrollment to a child using an ESA before 5 years or graduation must fully refund the state plus a 25% penalty
6. Any education entity that accepts a child via an ESA must abide by the same rules, policies and procedures as every public school.

Tonya Wilson
McMillian Junior High
Wylie, TX

As a child with an IEP that desperately needs the accommodations that private schools do not offer, I oppose school vouchers.

Michele Rutherford
Parent/tax payer
Smithville, TX

As a rural constituent, I oppose school vouchers. Not only will these vouchers strip our local public schools of much needed funding, they will put more of a burden on rural home owners to make up budget shortfalls by raising our local taxes. Most rural communities do not have private schools to even send kids to. Even if private /for profit schools open, they are not held accountable to taxpayers. No to vouchers!

Denise Mitchell
Self
Richardson, TX

I am asking you to vote no to the school vouchers bill. Our tax dollars should stay in our public school systems that serve all Texas children, including the kids that need it the most. It ensures they have access to the kind of education that grows the Texans of the future. Neighborhood public schools are the glue that helps hold our communities together and funding them only serves all of us versus the select few.

KIMBERY ELLIS
ROCKWALL HIGH SCHOOL PTO
ROCKWALL, TX

We are not in favor of HB3 and education ESA's. We believe that ESAs will hurt our school districts and only continue to contribute to larger classroom sizes, reduction in school programs and continue to not allow our district to have the buying power we need. School choice does not help RISD, it only helps private schools and the wealthy. This will also impact special education programs and IEP programs. Please deny HB 3 and increase the basic allotment to at least $7,655 to ensure we have what we need to be a successful district.

julie crowell
Self - Claims Manager
Houston, TX

School vouchers are a scam that redistributes tax payer dollars to wealthy Texans and I do not support this bill. Our public schools should be fully funded using these funds, not to create an even further unbalanced distribution of wealth. Education should be for everyone and you only achieve that by fully funding public schools. Representatives who vote otherwise are voting against the best interest of our state - an action that will be remembered at the polls.

Monica Gibson
Self
San Antonio, TX

As a parent and a foster parent, I do not support ESAs or vouchers. Our public funds should continue to support or public schools. They were instrumental in getting services for one of foster children who had additional needs. Please stand up for our public schools that provide education for all. No ESAs

Cathrine McMahan

Texas Public School Educator / Parent

Levelland, TX

I absolutely oppose tax-payer funded vouchers in any form or fashion for the state of Texas. As a rural resident, teacher, and parent there is no benefit of voucher funding for students in our communities. There are no alternatives in rural west Texas-- so the idea of "choice" does not apply to rural students. Furthermore, in more densely populated regions of the state, vouchers will fund a wave of self-segregation based on a variety of motives under the guise of "school choice." Representatives that vote in favor of this action are writing their legacy of public service and signing their name to "Jim Crow 2.0." What a shame and embarrassment to know that one's public service used the money of the many to provide for the few. Our state has a long history of promoting free and accessible public education, this is completely opposed to those foundational principles. As an active voter, I refuse to vote for any candidate in future elections that votes in favor of these actions.

Chelsey Rictor

Self/instructional designer

Denton, TX

This bill is disguised as a positive when it is just another way to take money away from public schools. Do not pass this bill. We won't accept anything less than public schools remaining accountable to the tax paying public. This bill would only lend itself to waste and fraud.

Heather Kay

Self

Denton, TX

HB 3 will cripple an already struggling public school system. I have two kids in public schools, one of which receives services that I do not know that a private school can provide. Even if a private school can provide the services my child needs, the tuition (even considering a voucher amount) is not feasible for my family. As a result, my children will remain in a public school setting that lacks sufficient funding. I worry what programs and tools will be eliminated from public schools due to a decline in funding. Additionally, this bill is not needed because parents already have school choice in Texas. Parents can choose whether or not to send their children to public schools, private schools, or home school. Within the public school system, parents have the right to transfer to schools outside their zone.

Meredith Culp

Self

Carrollton, TX

School vouchers weaken the public education system, disproportionately benefit wealthier families, lack accountability, and do not consistently lead to better educational outcomes. Instead of funding private schools, many believe that resources should be invested in improving public education for all students. Public schools still have fixed costs (buildings, teachers, programs) that don't decrease proportionally when students leave, worsening financial strains. Wealthier families, who can afford the remaining costs, benefit more, while low-income students are left in struggling public schools. Private schools are not required to provide transportation, further limiting access for lower-income students. Private schools receiving voucher funds are not held to the same academic and financial transparency standards. They are not always required to follow standardized testing or curriculum guidelines, making it difficult to assess student performance. Many private schools can reject students based on religious beliefs, disabilities, academic performance, or other criteria. Public schools are required to serve all students, including those with disabilities and behavioral challenges, while private schools can refuse to accommodate them. Please stop destroying our public schools to line the pockets of your friends. You are already destroying this state in so many other ways.

Katie Haydin
Argyle ISD
Justin, TX

As an assistant principal in Argyle ISD, I see firsthand the challenges our public schools face due to inadequate funding. Our district has not seen an increase in the basic allotment, despite rising costs and growing student needs. Now, HB3's Education Savings Account (ESA) program threatens to divert even more public dollars away from our schools and into private institutions that lack accountability and accessibility. While this program is being marketed as a benefit for lower-income families, the reality is that it does not cover the full cost of many private schools, leaving those families without real access while still draining resources from public education.

Our schools are already in a funding crisis, creating an unsustainable environment for our teachers and staff. Instead of funneling taxpayer dollars into unregulated private education, we need to invest in our public schools to provide competitive salaries, resources, and support for the educators who serve the vast majority of Texas students. Public dollars should remain in public schools, where they benefit all children—not just a select few. We had the opportunity to meet and I am so thankful for the productive conversations we had. It is crucial that this bill is looked at through the lens of what people really want and it doesn't seem like education savings account is it. We have amazing teachers and students in our district that deserve the care, resources, and compensation they deserve.

Rachel Shipp
Self
Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO HB3"

Please release funds to our public schools to help the students and staff there. We don't need vouchers for private schools. We need public school funding.

Connie Daniels
Self
Little Elm, TX

We do NOT want vouchers!!

Claire Early
Self, CPA
Allen, TX

My husband and I are both products of the Texas public school system - two proud CPA's working hard to support our family. We chose Allen as our home for its wonderful public school reputation. Our two children are in public elementary school and we hope to proudly continue their education in the public school system. We plead with Congress to oppose the vouchers or education savings accounts of any kind and to please keep our public tax dollars in our public schools. The proposals for current public school increased funding are welcome, but are still not enough. We have $30 billion surplus and are choosing not to fully fund our public school system. It makes no sense. A well-educated population benefits all Texans, and I beg you to please fully fund the public schools and keep special interests out of it.

Jacqueline Flesher
Kealing Middle School PTA
Austin, TX

Several studies have found that students who used vouchers to attend private schools often performed worse on standardized tests than their peers in public schools. A key reason for this failure is that vouchers often don't address the fundamental issues facing students in low-income communities—issues that private schools often do not address, such as transportation, limited special education services, or the support systems needed for struggling students.

Instead of relying on vouchers, focusing on increasing funding per student in public schools is a proven way to improve educational outcomes. In East Coast states, where many large urban school districts face significant challenges, higher funding can make a substantial difference in addressing educational inequities. States like New Jersey, Maryland, and Massachusetts have demonstrated the positive effects of strong public school funding, with increased investment leading to better educational outcomes for students.

In New Jersey, for example, the state has made significant investments in its public schools, particularly in low-income districts, resulting in higher graduation rates and stronger academic performance. Similarly, Massachusetts has one of the highest per-pupil spending rates in the nation, and its students consistently perform well in national assessments, particularly in areas like math and science. These outcomes show that when schools have adequate funding, they can provide better resources, support services, and quality teachers, all of which contribute to improved educational achievement.

As a parent of middle schoolers, Henry (8th) and George (7th), who attend an Austin magnet school, I understand the importance of school choice. However, I believe that school vouchers are not the solution. Rather than diverting funds away from public schools, we should focus on improving and adequately funding the schools that serve the majority of students, ensuring that every child, regardless of background, has access to high-quality education. Our magnet school is a fantastic option for my children, but they've had to make staff cuts, decreasing the rigor of classes, forcing larger core classes, and stretching the administrators and teachers thin.

We need to ensure all public schools have the resources they need to provide exceptional education for all students. Let's invest in our teachers and public schools, not in voucher programs that undermine them.

I've worked on PTA boards for years to help strengthen our schools, raising funds to make up for government shortfalls. Our family strongly supports increasing funding for Texas teachers to ensure they are among the highest-paid in the nation. Teachers play a crucial role in shaping the future of our children and our state, and it's time we prioritize their compensation to reflect the immense value they bring to our communities.

Investing in teachers will have a lasting positive impact on our education system and Texas economy.

Melissa Jacobson
Self / Mom
Hurst, TX

Texans do not benefit from this bill. We do not want to take any money away from Public schools that are already struggling with the paltry amount left over for them from state funding. Please keep vouchers and alternative funding out of the State of Texas! Stand with our kids, educators and tax payers!

Erin Sears
Self/pharmacist
Plano, TX

Daughter of educators, sibling of educators, mother of 3 public school children (includes one with dwarfism that has 504), active PTA volunteer and community leader. Public education is the crux of our society. Choice already exists- vouchers will remove the choice of a healthy, thriving public school system by depriving of needed funds. Please vote no! My son with a 504 will certainly be deprived of options because schools that are not public will choose against an individual with any needs above average. All of my children are active in extracurricular and are high performing within the public education we have. There are needed solutions to improve public school like fully funding Plano ISD, but vouchers will do quite the opposite. Vote a resounding no!

Jim Chadwell, Dr.

Self - Retired

Fort Worth, TX

Texas is on the verge of creating a statewide vouchers program. Elected officials and the public school should consider the impact fully before it is too late. I am proud that Texas is fiscally conservative and I am very concerned that the implementation of vouchers is a sharp departure from the fiscally conservative leadership of Texas that has led us to so much economic success. Vouchers are being promoted as a parent/student choice initiative. Choice is not free and the costs of this program and its effect on the entire public education system must be considered.

While the deregulation of public education is deemed by some as fiscally conservative, by definition it is clearly not. Similar to the military, police, and fire, the deregulation of essential services, such as K-12 education, will have a detrimental effect. Elected school boards with oversight by the TEA ensure that school districts are managed appropriately. The deregulation of public education to private entities with no transparent accountability is fraught with potentially negative consequences.

Measuring vouchers by the litmus test of fiscal conservatism will reveal that it is fiscally progressive, because of its redistribution of resources through governmental intervention. Fiscal conservatism is based on the control of public spending, lower taxation, avoiding deficits, and in supporting an efficient government. Vouchers will cost more money, create budgetary deficits, and represent a duplication of services. They create a redistribution of wealth.

Is it fiscally conservative to:

- Create more governmental bureaucracy?
- Spend more money without transparent oversight?
- Construct the largest entitlement program Texas has ever created, which will redistribute tax dollars to fund a private, preference-driven educational system?
- Create an ongoing structural deficit because of the additional cost of vouchers?
- Provide public funds for private purposes without oversight, specific expectations of financial or performance-related accountability?
- Create a system in which private school/homeschool competition will result in the need for fewer public school buildings, but will not reduce the debt service payments to pay off the school bonds for these buildings?
- Funding private schools with no elected school board and little to no organizational transparency?
- Redirect financial support for the public education system to a private education system?
- Create a system to fund parent and student preferences versus needs?
- Redistribution of wealth by using property taxes to fund private schools and homeschools?

The answer to each of these questions is a clear “no.” There is nothing fiscally conservative about the implementation of vouchers, but rather it is a ruse to use taxpayer dollars to create the largest entitlement program that has ever been passed by a Texas Legislature.

Jennifer Binsley

Self

Carrollton, TX

Most of the people in Texas do not want vouchers. My children's elementary school is being retired at the end of this year, along with 4 others in our district and countless others across the state, due to issues with underfunding. My family, along with so many others, couldn't afford public school even with the vouchers. They aren't benefitting anyone but the wealthy. Public schools are beneficial and need to be fully funded. My husband is a public school teacher and I know how they are underpaid, overworked, and are having way too many children in classrooms because of the public schools being closed. Vouchers do not benefit the regular working class members of this state. You are literally driving people OUT of the state and pushing them to move.

Stacie Gooch

Self

Wylie, TX

no to vouchers and no to HB#

Jessica Castillo
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

All Texas Families deserve better.

Daniella Torres
Self
Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS. NO TO SB3.

Marina Rodriguez
Self
San Antonio, TX

Public School Educator against vouchers! What happens to our low-income students that cannot afford the other part of tuition? "Scholarships" are not available for everyone. Also, students without transportation to a "better" school. So all these vouchers are doing is further widening the gap. Adequately fund public schools, give teachers AND instructional assistants a raise. Figure out a way for improved parent involvement. Then, we can begin to fix the public education system.

Melanie Devora
All Children
San Antonio, TX

As an advocate for public education and a concerned citizen, I strongly oppose House Bill 3 (HB3) in its current form. While the intention behind the bill may be to increase parental choice and improve educational opportunities, it fundamentally misguides the direction of educational funding and resources in Texas, potentially undermining the very institutions that serve the vast majority of our students.

Lani Caffey
Self/Public school teacher
Olney, TX

I am asking that, if you are going to pass this voucher bill, you hold private and home schools to the same accountability standards as public schools. I really ask that you NOT pass it and give fully funding public Ed a try. I saw that the latest version of the bill gives $30k for a disabled student. Did you know public schools lose money on most disabled or sped students bc we aren't getting enough funding for each of them? If leaders in TX are unhappy with public schools, you have only yourselves to blame. Abbott has been in power for 10 years. Why isn't he being held accountable?

I am a public school teacher and parent and I am exhausted. The constant disrespect from our state officials is demoralizing, but I keep showing up because I know that what I do provides generation-changing opportunities for kids.

The final concern I have is for TRS. The Senate Bill showed that TRS would be insolvent in a few years in an attempt to fund vouchers. My husband I are both educators. What are we supposed to do if our state officials are irresponsible with that money? Our livelihoods and retirements are in your hands right now. I know this decision is being made because of some billionaires. What about the regular people who make the state run every day? Please don't forget us.

Natalie Weimer

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools

Susan Van Sickle

Self, teacher

Frisco, TX

I am a 5th generation Texan and a 2nd generation public school educator. I have a master's degree in educational leadership from the University of Houston. I have 3 kids all in Texas public schools. I believe in public schools and the quality of education being delivered by our school districts. If vouchers pass, the future of public education in Texas is at stake. We need the funding to stay with the public schools is level the playing field for all children. We need the funding in order to retain the best teachers and administration. Say no to SB2!

Eunice Navarro Garcia, Mrs.

Self/homemaker/PTA member

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3, Vouchers are not the solution. The amount of money attached to each student does not cover a fraction of the funding needed to sustain an equitable learning environment for the growing number of children with learning disabilities and special needs. This is the biggest disservice to our most vulnerable. Vouchers will also create an instability in our communities. Many teachers, paraprofessionals, and specialized professionals like dyslexia educators, speech therapists, occupational therapists, and behavioral interventionists will be affected to name a few.

Another concern is that vouchers will likely create dangerous pop up campuses everywhere seeking payout but not providing adequate or even safe services for children. Law makers should anticipate schools with radical views to pop up as well.

As a parent of five kids, four who attend the public school system and one with special needs who homeschools, and only attends a public school campus for speech therapy, I do not support vouchers. I wholeheartedly hope my voice along with so many other parents will be represented against HB3.

Scott Matula

Self

Grapevine, TX

I and my family are against the idea of vouchers.

Cody Arthur

Self

Houston, TX

I stand proudly against HB3 and vouchers. Support public schools!

Nolan Navarrete

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I oppose HB 3!!

Ale Babino, Dr.

Self

Princeton, TX

I wholeheartedly reject vouchers and encourage the state to focus on fully funding our public schools.

Rebecca Welch

Self

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB 3! Abbott doesn't care for our students or teachers.

Rose Shiner, MS RDN LD

Self

Murphy, TX

I oppose HB 3

Stacie Smith

Self - Mother

Sachse, TX

I oppose HB3. Please do what is right for all Texas students. Fully fund public ed and ensure every child receives an excellent education. No vouchers, no ESAs.

Katharine Lachance

Self

Taylor, TX

Public funds MUST stay in public schools!! Eliminate standardized testing and use the funds where they will help most!!

Kristy Havard

self teacher

Laporte, TX

Texas House Bill 3 is an outrageous attack on public education and the children who rely on it. This bill would divert up to $500 million per year in taxpayer dollars from public schools to fund education savings accounts (ESAs), primarily benefiting private institutions that often operate with minimal oversight. The Texas public school system, which serves over 5 million students, already faces a massive funding gap—currently, the state is spending about $2,000 less per student than the national average. Diverting funds to private schools through ESAs will only exacerbate these disparities, leaving districts with fewer resources to address critical issues such as overcrowded classrooms and teacher shortages. Furthermore, this bill is a direct disservice to special needs students, who rely heavily on the specialized services, individualized education plans (IEPs), and support systems provided by public schools. Private institutions are not required to offer the same level of services or accommodations, meaning that many special needs students would be left without the support they need to succeed. The Texas public school system is already facing a shortage of resources for special education, and ESAs would only worsen this crisis.

Additionally, studies have shown that voucher programs, similar to ESAs, have failed to deliver improved student outcomes by gaining resources from public schools. In 2021, a Texas House Public Education Committee report revealed that many charter schools receiving public funds do not even outperform traditional public schools, raising serious concerns about the lack of accountability. Instead of addressing the real problems—such as inadequate teacher pay (Texas teachers are ranked 38th in the nation for average salary)—lawmakers are pursuing an ideologically-driven scheme that will only deepen educational inequality and harm the most vulnerable students. This is a disgrace and a blatant disservice to the future of Texas' children, especially those with special needs.

Paola Huerta

Wylie ISD

Sachse, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Christina Rigby
WHS PTSA
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3! I am a conservative republican who votes in the primary and general election. I voted the people in who are currently there. If HB 3 goes through I will not be voting for any of them again!

Amanda Moreno, Ms.
Self
Corpus Christi, TX

School voucher/savings are not needed. Texas parents already have choices. Public schools that are fully funded are necessary.

Julie Tran
Lakeview Elementary PTA
Sugar Land, TX

We need more funding for public schools, not less. This bill will reduce the financial support that public schools receive. As the Fundraising Chair on the PTA for the past three years, my primary goal has been to raise funds to cover the gaps that the school cannot address. These expenses include class field trips, teacher appreciation, programs like Healthy Minds, classroom support (including supplies and educational materials for teachers), library and PE programs, and more. Reducing funds for public schools will further widen this gap, and ultimately, it is the students, school administration, and staff who will suffer. Typically, school enrichment programs are the first to be cut, and all students should have access to art, music, and other enrichment programs. Public education is crucial for families, and our school should not receive less funding.

We must prioritize our children's education and ensure that every student has the resources and opportunities they deserve. Let's stand together and advocate for the future of our public schools.

Sabrina Lowther
Self
Round rock, TX

Please vote against this and fully fund our public schools.

Jack Wehner
PTA, Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3.

Madeleine Johnson
Self educator
Forney, TX

Please vote NO.

Elizabeth Griffin
Self
Dallas, TX

Increase the basic allotment for public school students to $10000. There is no reason it should be lower than your proposed voucher amount. This should also be enrollment based, not attendance based. We benefit from having a well-educated electorate, and thriving public schools are vital to achieving that end.

Please also give our teachers a raise. They haven't had one since 2019 and we all have experienced the significant inflation in cost of living over the past 6 years.

Carlos Saucedo, Teacher

Self

EL Paso, TX

Please STOP holding public schools hostage by holding back funding and teacher pay raises. Charter schools are not the answer! Privatizing education in order to make the wealthy wealthier undermines everything public school teachers and public education principles. STOP, stop, stop! Governor Abbott do the right thing and remember the great education you or some of your family members obtained through Public education, it got you and most people in government where you are now. Yours in Public Education, Mr. Saucedo.

Ava Wehner

PTA, Wylie ISD

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Ronald Hughes

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Amanda Miyamoto

Self

Austin, TX

I am absolutely against the establishment of an education savings account program. This bill is not about parent choice, it's about private school and vendor choice. It comes with a hefty price tag and zero accountability to the state or taxpayers! Please prioritize fully funding public schools first as required by the Texas Constitution before enacting a program that is both costly, has little data to back up that it ends in better outcomes for students, and does not help all children equally. My two daughters have attended excellent public schools (2022 Graduate and 2026 Graduate) most of their lives here in Dripping Springs and I fear that my neighbors and future residents will not have the same services or opportunities mine have had. My family also is an example of a family that an ESA would not help us fully cover anywhere near as a program as Dripping Springs HS and we would not be able to cover the remainder even if we wanted to. My oldest daughter also received FOCUS services through the Special Education program at her school that would not have been available to her any area private school. These services were instrumental in her success. Thank you.

Matt Write

Self

Ft worth, TX

Vote no on this bill it will destroy public schools and reward the rich

Alicia Guerra

Representing students and their families!

Mesquite, TX

No to HB 3.

Joshua Simkulet

Self

Wylie, TX

No to vouchers

Susan Link
PTA
Missouri City, TX
I oppose HB 3.

Patricia Green, Retired
Self
Bastrop, TX
Horrible idea. Absolutely no to ESA's/ Bouchers!

Arthur Liening
Self, Public School Music Teacher
Arlington, TX

As a Public School teacher for 10 years now, I urge you to oppose HB 3 and prioritize adequate funding for public school children. Studies show voucher programs do not equate to improved academic outcomes. HB 3 is NOT a parent choice bill – This bill funds private school selectivity with public money. Texas families already have school choice. They do not need an incentive to take them out of public school. Public school funding is directly tied to public school attendance, which means, this bill will directly, and negatively impact our public school system. Public money should also require public accountability—any school or entity receiving taxpayer dollars must meet the same standards, mandates, testing, and accountability requirements as public schools. If you start giving money to private schools, will you require them the same the same standards, mandates, testing, and accountability requirements as public schools? The answer is no. I also urge you to let Texans decide! Vouchers would use public dollars for private education, and Texans deserve a voice in this decision. Urge lawmakers to put the measure on a statewide ballot, in CLEAR and SIMPLE terms, for the average voter to understand, and let the people vote. Thank you for allowing me to make this public comment and voice my disapproval of HB3.

Pamela Boyer
Self
Kerrville, TX

NO to school vouchers! Fund our public schools instead of holding them hostage to pass this bill. Our public schools are suffering because our governor is not getting his way. Our students deserve the best public schools funded properly. I am a public school special education teacher and it breaks my heart to see our programs underfunded. Texas children deserve better, and school choice isn't the answer.

Kathryn O'Connor
Janie Stark Elementary PTA
Farmers Branch, TX

This bill does not create choice. Vouchers create inequality, undermine public education, and leave our most vulnerable communities with fewer resources and fewer options.

Nelson Negron, Mrs
Self
League City, TX

I support school choice vouchers!! As a mom of a special-needs child who never had this available, it would have been life changing!! I gave up my career and we went to a one income house after our public school lost our son multiple times!! They dropped him off at a strangers apartment who didn't speak English and he wasn't verbal at the time!! I became a homeschooling mom that day!! My husband worked multiple jobs with no sleep for years while we transitioned. That young man graduates this year and I am so grateful but imagine what could have been if we had the option to send him to a private school tailored to him! Lofe changing!!!

Roberta Love, Mrs

Self

San Antonio, TX

While passing this bill probably appeals to parents who choose to send their children to private schools, it is not in the best interest of those who attend public schools. Public education is provided, free of charge, through these schools to everyone who resides in the District. If parents decides to send their children to a tuition school, they have made the decision to personally fund their education.

Cynthia Williams

Self

Marshall, TX

I do not support this bill.

Victor Boswell, Mr.

Self - Public School Teacher Waco ISD

China Spring, TX

This bill will absolutely DESTROY not only public education for years to come but will also increase the strain on rural and middle class families across the state of Texas. I VEHEMENTLY ask our representatives to vote against this bill!

Brent Wehner, Dr.

PTA, Wylie ISD

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3.

Yvonne Darrah Steckel

Self

Austin, TX

As a former school teacher, school librarian, volunteer, and parent, I strongly oppose the use of state money for private school vouchers. Our public schools are already grossly underfunded and our state should increase funding for public schools, which are the bedrock for most Texas communities in urban, rural, and suburban areas.

Rogelio Alfaro

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I am a school teacher and oppose this bill. I paid for private for my children. My taxes of for public school education not private schools.

Abigail Johnson

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Galen Monroe

Concerned Citizen

Katy, TX

This bill is not to be passed because it does nothing to help educate the children of Texas, but to give tax money to people who do not need it. This entire issue is politically driven by people who want to destroy public education, not a concern for parental choice.

Raquel Goranson

Self

Dallas, TX

As an educator and parent of students in public schools, I STRONGLY, oppose the implementation of vouchers in our system. Public schools should be fully funded and supported but the state. A educated populace only helps elevate our state

No public dollars should be used for religious education as it blurs the line between church as state. Additionally, allowing public dollars to go to private schools does address accountability or our tax payer dollars.

Lastly, in my area, private schools should tuition varies from 20k to 36k. Not only is the voucher amount more than my public school students and children are allotted per year, they are also not enough to cover tuition for middle and low income families. Allowing people to withdraw tax dollars for private education will only hurt the most vulnerable and subsequently destroy our schools.

Akeena McDonald

Self

Missouri City, TX

Vouchers are not for all students. How will students who need special services be educated?

Nikki Prater

Self

Canadian, TX

Iam opposed to HB3 and I will be opposed to any bill that supports vouchers in Texas. Instead, fully fund Texas education as outlined in the Texas constitution so that ALL students will have equitable resources to learn.

Berthine Mason

Self

Spring, TX

I am well aware that your plan is to create a permanent underclass of workers who will not have options because they will be uneducated. If you removed significant funding from public schools what are other constituents supposed to do? Those folks who wish to send their children to private schools left them do. If they want to make that sacrifice, let them do what other parents have had to do. I did!

Frances Mott, Dr.

self/retired

Malone, TX

Private school vouchers are an attack on Public Education, our freedoms, and our democracy; stripping resources from our communities, silencing educators, and funneling wealth and power upward. Texas legislators must act now to stop Private School Vouchers.

Amy Frank
Self
Wylie, TX

This bill would not be good for Texas. I am a conservative voters and I am sending this to tell you that I OPPOSE HB3 and SB2. Vouchers have been proven to only help the wealthy. Low and middle class families still cannot afford to send their kids to a private school even with a voucher, leaving us to attend public schools that are now receiving even less funding. Make no mistake, this will pull funding from public education. All you have to do is look at every other state that has implemented them. What options, may I ask, are the 150+ counties that have no private school options supposed to do? Where is their choice? I had always thought that Republicans stood on the principle of less government regulation over private businesses and yet this bill allows public tax money to be given to a private business that the government now says it will regulate.

Also, how is it constitutional for public tax dollars to go to private businesses that can cherry pick the students they will admit? How is it that these parents who accept this voucher money have to acknowledge that these private businesses don't have to follow federal and state disability laws? They receive state money but aren't forced to follow state laws protecting students with disabilities? That is horrendous.

As a conservative voters, I STRONGLY OPPOSE HB3 and SB2. I am so disappointed in our elected officials. This is not setting up a bright future for our children.

Florence Gray
self/retired
Argyle, TX

I say NO to vouchers. Don't ruin the Great State of Texas. Our public schools need to be fully funded.

Sara Steinbrueck
Self
Tyler, TX

Our community is so proud of Tyler ISD. It accomplishes amazing things for the children of our community as well as for the community itself. Reducing funding for such a valuable service would only serve to hurt this community. Public schools serve all children, which benefits everyone through a better educated and better skilled citizenry. Please do not redirect public funds to private schools, who do not have the mandate to serve all. Public funds for public schools!

Lisa Bobo
Self
Lake Dallas, TX

No vouchers. No inequity. Accountability for all.

Gloria Alfaro
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I oppose this bill. If you want to send your child to private school pay for it yourself. I sent my kids to private school and paid for it myself. My tax dollars are for funding public schools not private school.

Sienna Gemar

Self

Buda, TX

NO to HB 3 - it is not about choice—it's about shifting public funds into private hands without accountability. This approach is fiscally irresponsible and unsustainable. Strong public schools benefit every child, and we all want the best for our students: smaller classes, well-funded neighborhood schools, excellent teachers, and meaningful parent engagement. Instead of diverting resources, let's strengthen our public schools by: 1) Investing ESA/voucher funds where they belong—in public education, and 2) Empowering our teachers with the same trust given to private institutions. Stand with public schools. Say NO to HB 3.

Heather Foster

self, homemaker

Sugar Land, TX

Please vote NO on HB 3. Any money earmarked for education needs to be given to public schools. A voucher system is not equitable and will not produce the quality education with quantifiable success Texas families want. Families on a tight budget like me would not be able to afford a private school anyway, so a voucher just takes money away from my child's public school. My child has an IEP, and I know that not all private schools would be able to provide the services my public school does. Most of the private schools in my area are religious—those schools should not be given tax-payer money because the Constitution guarantees the separation of church and state. Teachers, administrators, and staff at public schools in Texas are underpaid! They are heroes!! They work with every child to provide a good education, even though some of the children are lacking even a basic social safety net due to the choices of our legislature. Obviously an uneducated public is preferred by MAGA Republicans, which sadly, seems to be the majority in the Texas GOP. We already know you don't care about children—they are too young to vote! But think selfishly of the future of our state--do you think businesses will excel here without an educated work force? Do you think we will be innovative and profitable? Not if you weaken the public school system!! I hope you realize that parents are finally understanding that these voucher bills are the worst choice that could be made. Vote NO!!

Allison Autry

Texas public educators

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3!!!!

This is not good for kids!!

Lisha Tompsett

self, teacher

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

I support the public school system, and want all children in it to get the best opportunities. These accounts will NOT benefit ALL children.

Robin Lightstone

Self

Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose this bill which will defund public schools and benefit wealthy families with my tax money

Patricia Sobhani
Self
San Antonio, TX

Do not pass this. I am a parent of a public school child and I am very concerned about his future. He and many other students will lose out as their schools lose funding. It will cause severe inequity and will not help the future of TX. Paying for private schools goes against our fundamental rights to keep church and state separate. I urge you to vote against this. We already have school choice in place. I have chosen to send my son to a public magnet school. My neighbors have chosen to send their kids to a public charter. My brother chose to send his child to private school. This bill does nothing to help keep schools on a level field. Parents who live far from private schools with no transportation and not enough money to make up the difference will still be shut out. We need to keep the public funds in public schools. Thank you.

Jayme King
self
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Amy Olles, Ms.
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I'm a life long Texas resident who has many friends, and nieces and nephews in the Texas public schools. I have seen these kids I know and am related to really thrive at public school. I work with children in the foster care system. Often public school is a place of stability for those children in foster care.

This voucher bill would further erode funding from an already unequally funded public school system and further starve public schools of much needed funding. This will have detrimental affects to the every day lives of students and damage their future prospects. It will lower the quality and availability of education for the majority of children across Texas as so many families cannot afford private school tuition even with the proposed voucher plan. Some families don't even have access to private schools to begin with. I fear the voucher bill would completely strand children in the foster care system and hinder them from school attendance at all.

We need the TX Ledge to focus on the bills that will fully fund the classrooms and teachers salaries of our public schools. We need to ensure that public schools are good options for the working class families of Texas, and not just dying institutions people have no choice but to attend as the rich funnel all the money out of them.

I say no to vouchers. I hope the TX ledge has the courage to do the the right thing and reject this disastrous bill. Fully fund Texas public schools instead of foisting this voucher scam on Texans.

Stephanie Eda
Self - retired
Houston, TX

I am against providing funds for private education. Texas should put more funds into supporting public education. Teachers and other school staff members deserve a raise. More funds should be spent improving school buildings and other school facilities. Provide funds for more school nurses, counselors, and librarians. I do not support sending tax dollars to support private schools..

Tasha Yarbrough
Self
Channing, TX

Vote NO to HB3. Public schools are the backbone of rural communities. Fund public schools completely instead of lining schools for profit with no accountability. Champion public schools and have the backbone against the billionaire donors' interest but instead for the future of students. Texas could have the best public education system in the country if the amount of money and effort was put into solving the problems faced by public schools that has been put into diverting public money to privatization and tearing down our public schools.

Dorothy Robinson, Ms.

Self, retired

Dallas, TX

This bill will only destroy public education. If parents cannot afford to pay the difference in the tuition, what happens to the student? If the student is kicked out of the private school, where will he go? Stop wasting our tax dollars on testing and go back to educating our children.

Mario Rios, Educator

Self

Helotes, TX

I strongly oppose vouchers. Public schools have not received any financial increase since 2019 in Texas. Public school teachers in Texas rank near the bottom in pay in national rankings. Our public schools deserve support from the state of Texas. Our students are the state's future. Please support Texas public schools.

Vernagene Mott, Ms.

self

Pflugerville, TX

Against-As a life long Texas public-school educator, as a community leader/builder, as an elected official I cannot support public funds in private schools without the transparency, accountability and oversight of student outcomes. In the conservative State of Texas, laws should be base on serving the common good. Our local public schools are the heart of our community, Let's make them stronger, more efficient with improved results.

Katy Parish

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Justin Parish

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Laci Strickland

Self

Josephine, TX

I oppose HB 3

Jennifer Basich

Self-food service

League City, TX

Very sad to see our elected officials abandon public schools for what is being called "parental choice". Not really. And all the states that have already implemented this biased plan have seen costs skyrocket. Why not invest fully in what is already in place and starving? Do you think disenfranchising millions of Texas school children and giving them second rate educations is good for the future of our great State? Have you looked at those states that have already implemented this plan? NO voters have ever approved these plans on their own. The votes are bought by wealthy investors. So sad. Wake up and DO THE RIGHT THING. You know what it is. Stop capitulating to those with an alternate agenda.

Joel McElhany

Self

Fort worth, TX

I am opposed to HB 3 because school vouchers would take funding away from public schools, weakening the foundation of our education system and, in turn, our democracy. Public schools serve all children, regardless of background, and are essential to providing equal opportunities for success. By diverting taxpayer dollars to private institutions, HB 3 would reduce resources for public schools, making it harder to retain quality teachers, support vital programs, and ensure all students receive a strong education. Instead of undermining public education, we should invest in strengthening our schools to benefit every child in Texas.

Jon-Michael Parker

self, Chief Nursing Officer, School Board member

Eldorado, TX

I am firmly in opposition to school vouchers. Texans are not in favor of them and it will only further cripple funding to public schools. Texans should actually have a voice and make a referendum and let's vote on it.

Lois Jumper

Self

Carrollton, TX

As a parent of two school age children, I am deeply invested in the outcome of this bill. My husband and I are both products of the Texas Public Education system. My husband grew up in a suburban DFW neighborhood and I grew up in a rural West Texas 1A district. I graduated in a Senior class of 7 in my small town and was one of only 3 in the class to pursue higher education. So I will be the first to acknowledge a great disparity in Texas public education. Acknowledging problems and seeking data-supported solutions is a necessary path forward to improve our shamefully poor education system in the state of Texas. The data does not support vouchers as being an efficient and effective solution to improving education. Higher teacher salaries, higher per-student funding in the district, adapting educational objectives to limit the need for educators to "teach to the test" while inspiring and equipping students for real-life world experience and career development. These things show greater results in educational studies.

Vouchers cannot and will not serve the broader educational climate in the state of Texas. Where I grew up, the nearest private school was an hour away. This is nothing more a thinly veiled effort to privatize education and further drive a gap between the upper lower classes under the guise of lifting families out of poverty.

If this truly is what you claim for it to be, a limit of no access to these funds above a $500,000 household salary should be a minimum requirement for ensuring that funds are accessed by the poorest Texans looking for a pathway out of poverty. This should also be tied to a per-student pending increase to insure that funding is received and students are supported in the most rural areas such as my hometown in Shackelford County. This would ensure that the absence of access to a private education would not limit the investment in a student's funding.

Public school matters. Investment is necessary to improve the quality of student experience. Privatization does not solve this problem, it incentivizes the wealthy, burdens the poor with the gap in private education costs, and opens the door for fraud and misuse of valuable education funds. Families vote no against HB 3, we ask that our representatives hear our cry.

My daughter's A+ rated STEM Elementary was closed this year due to funding. Our SCHOOL OF CHOICE was closed because funds were being held hostage in the name of vouchers and "school choice". We cried many tears watching the Texas surplus sit in an account in Austin as our ISD leadership explained that they had reached the end of their fiscal rope. Please stop sacrificing our children on the altar of politics. Do what is right. Vote No on HB3 and vote yes to funding our precious public institutions.

Amanda Schumann
Self/retired teacher
Arlington, TX

I am proud to be a retired Texas public school, Special Education Teacher, the mom of a Texas public school student, and a product of Texas public schools. . I have many concerns for students with special needs, but today I speak to you as the mother of a typical 13 year old daughter. My daughter attends 8th grade at Central Jr High in HEB isd. I cannot imagine her getting a better education than the one she is receiving through our underfunded public school. She is learning mandarin, she is part of a wonderful band program and she is receiving advanced academics. She has teachers that go above and beyond to meet their student's needs. Instead of setting up education savings accounts, which most underprivileged students will not be able to use, that money should go towards our hard working public schools! As a former teacher it is an insult to hear Governor Abbott say public school are indoctrinating our students. Have you seen the requirements placed on public school teachers? There is no time for indoctrinating students. The list of falsehoods claimed to try to push this bill through is sad and alarming. I ask that you please keep our taxpayer money in our public schools and support our public school students and staff.

Joi Lunsford
Self
Canyon, TX

This bill does NOT prioritize public education nor will it help many of the families that it is saying it will. The lack of funding for public education is disgraceful, and this bill will benefit mainly current private school families who can already afford private school. If private schools are to be given vouchers, they should have the SAME accountability and requirements that public schools have. They need to take the STAAR test, and provide special education testing and IEP writing. The way that public school educators are being treated is embarrassing. I am highly concerned that we will not have enough willing employees to continue education for all at this point. We are making it harder and more time-consuming every single year, not funding it or even caring about parents that are unable to support their families with the low-paying income they receive. THINGS NEED TO CHANGE AND HOUSEBILL 3 is the MOST DISGRACEFUL AND POLITICALLY FILLED AGENDA WE COULD EVER PROPOSE!!

Make public education (that will always be available to ALL) the priority!! Listen to educators that are living the job every single day with any kid that walks in the building. We aren't able to turn anyone away, and we continue to love and educate kids NO MATTER WHAT! This bi needs to be thrown out and our focus should be on listening to those in education and helping improve our public schools!

Joe Berneathy
Self LaMarque, TX

No vouchers! Public education needs the funding!

Carly Murray
self; attorney; parent of school-aged children in Texas
Leander, TX

After having listened to testimony in support of HB 3 on March 11, 2025, I am infuriated by the blatant lack of transparency exhibited by supporters of HB 3. It is ABUNDANTLY clear that this is a financially-motivated agenda and has ZERO to do with special needs children or children in impoverished areas. Thank goodness for Representative Talarico for calling failure to respond what it is -- when a witness cannot definitively tell the questioner "yes" or "no" that is not because the issue is complex. It's because they cannot truthfully give the answer the question requires; so, they dance around it. There were a LOT of parents watching that broadcast yesterday (both in the room, in overflow rooms, and at personal computers all over the state), and we all see it for EXACTLY what it is -- a sham, a con, a grift. If this passes, you are condemning Texas schoolchildren to subpar education while putting taxpayer funds into the already overstuffed hands of the richest members of society. OUR CHILDREN DESERVE BETTER.

Robin Scheafnocker

self

Copperas Cove, TX

Reject vouchers and focus on fully funding our public schools. Privatizing education is detrimental to our students. Those who require additional support will be left without the guidance and accommodations necessary for their learning. Rather than providing monies for private schools and homeschooling without accountability, the legislature should fund public education by providing salaries that draw qualified educators and resources with which to teach 21st-century students.

Jeremy Thompson, Mr

Self - Public School Teacher

Temple, TX

I am a REPUBLICAN as are virtually ALL of the public school teachers that I teach with. We are devastated by the conservative leadership and our governor here in the great state of Texas who are pushing for HB 3. We serve the public schoolchildren of Texas, who are the vast majority of Texas schoolchildren. Do you not see what this bill will do to our students? Do you not see that it will take funding away from THE VAST MAJORITY of Texas students? Do you not see that it will put money in the hands of parents who can already afford private school? Do you NOT see that it will NOT provide enough funding to parents who wouldn't and couldn't send their kids to a private school anyway? We serve ALL Texas students. I. Texas public schools, regardless of behavior, socioeconomic status, and special needs requirements Private schools don't have to do so. Many of them choose not to. Not all, I realize that, but many do. I have taught in private schools. They are phenomenal options for some families. But not at the expense of public school funding. When the government holds a stake in private schools then they aren't really private schools anymore. They don't have to meet standardized testing requirements. They don't have to accept all students. Gov Abbot compared Texas to other "SEC" states with vouchers. That goes to show how little whoever actually made that Facebook post knows. The other "SEC" state public school systems are AWFUL. Much of it due to poor infrastructure thanks to lack of funding and poor teachers due to horrid learning environments and terrible pay. And, if you could hear the conversations among public school teachers - CONSERVATIVE public school teachers like myself...our votes will go to the candidates who support our public schools and their teachers and students. I, along with virtually all of my colleagues across many Texas districts, will vote against ANYONE who pushes this bill in the next election - gubernatorial or otherwise. I'm just one person. But there are many MANY who think like I do. If you want to see conservatives vote for democrats or anti HB3 republicans, then pass this bill. But I would hope that you don't for all our sakes.

Hannah Kania

self, PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHER

Round Rock, TX

NO VOUCHERS FOR PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

Joshua Billingsley

self / Data Analyst

Round Rock, TX

Please Vote NO on HB3

Kimberly Hoyle

Self

Houston, TX

I OPPOSE SCHOOL VOUCHERS.

I oppose so-called "school choice". I have 2 children in public schools and believe access to quality public school education is essential for all children in Texas.

Diane Hudson

Self

Spring, TX

As a certified teacher, I am not afraid of competition, but the state must hold voucher schools to standards and they must rate them in a way that helps parents make informed choices. If state money funds any part of a student's education, the state must ensure the student really is being educated. The state must also require transparency of how state funds are used at ALL schools, including public, charter and voucher schools. I have yet to see any legislation that offers parents a way to compare the voucher schools to public schools. Just because they say they offer a quality education, are we to trust them? If Texas goes with vouchers, I expect Texas to learn from the mistakes of other states and build a better program for our children. Without standard enforcement or a rating system, I vehemently oppose vouchers.

Diana Freeman

Self—consultant

Hamilton, TX

I do NOT support vouchers—nor do the majority of Texans. Vouchers are not good for students—parents already have choice within our public schools. Fully fund public schools before you call them a failure. Rural students will suffer from money funneled to private schools in more populated areas. The governor touts how many states have vouchers but not the lack of success in many states. There is no local oversight or representation on the boards of charter and private schools to give parents a say in what happens to them.

Our representatives have stopped representing us and are answering to big dollars and a Governor that's lost sight of his constituents. If reps really want to know how Texans feel, put it on a ballot. This would give Texans a choice.

Please support our local public schools by voting down vouchers. Keep our public schools!

Cody Fonseca

Self

McAllen, TX

I am a teacher with 3 children. 2 attend a charter school and 1 my wife homeschools. We already have school choice. I don't want vouchers. Even if we receive money for our child we homeschool, that comes at a great cost to my other 2 whose school may lose funding. It's a small school, perfect for our needs. They've already been through a charter school closing for a lack of funds last year. That was a big setback for us. My kids also receive different therapies and IEPs. They would be in danger losing those services, or at least have them drastically cut. Vouchers are not fair to our kids. As a teacher, they are dangling a pay raise to pass this bill. I would have to be a selfish person to accept the payoff only for my fellow teachers in rural schools to lose their jobs. Our public schools are underfunded. There is no justification to take money away from underprivileged kids and give it to the well off. If we do not pass vouchers, we can fully fund our public schools and provide the necessary resources our students need to thrive, while it'll be business as usual for private schools. If we pass vouchers, public schools will be underfunded, risk closures, and drastically affect testing performance (which private schools don't have to worry about). Meanwhile, private schools will be business as usual, but at a discount for the well off. This bill does not leave any guarantees in writing to protect the most vulnerable students. On its face; it only serves to line the pockets of the already well off. I live in a community that where most students are considered "at-risk." Taking funds from them will surely guarantee their failure. The benefits of this bill DO NOT outweigh the risks. Please reconsider.

Lisa Walters

Self

Anna, TX

I oppose HB3

Elisabeth Koonz

Self

Shiner, TX

Vite against the school voucher bill. Public funds should be benefitting public schools and public schools only

Elizabeth Tovar

Self

Sachse, TX

NO VOUCHERS. PLEASE.

Wendolyn Ulrich

Self

Melissa, TX

I vehemently oppose school voucher programs. As an educator in both public and private education, I can tell you that all children are not treated equally and those that need the most are not serviced in private education. If a child does have specific academic, behavioral, or health needs, the stipend offered by the state won't even come close to paying for private education. Send the money to public education where programs are already in place but desperately underfunded. We should be investing in the single greatest asset that produces the best outcomes over time - education. Please. I implore you- say no to school vouchers.

Broderick Mondy

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Cynthia Nwosa

Self/ teaching

Sugarland, TX

NO, TO PRIVATIZATION OF PUBLIC EDUCATION. SPEND MONEY ON MAKING OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS BETTER FOR OUR CHILDREN NOT ON PRIVATE SCHOOL VOUCHERS!!

Meredith Longino, Pediatric nurse practitioner

Self

Sulphur Springs, TX

I oppose this bill completely. Want full funding for public schools.

Shyamal Pidaparthi

Self

Plano, TX

I DO NOT support this bill and any idea of School voucher program. This is clearly an idea to dilute the public school systems and help special interest groups make money. State after state have shown that vouchers systems don't work. This is clearly a way to rip taxpayers and make education expensive for everyone and unaffordable for many.

Texas good public school systems is why we live in this state and area. If that is weakened then it will take away a big reason for good talented people to move to Texas or worse you will see an exodus of talented and hard working Texans.

Please do not support passage of this bill or you would have lost a vote on next election cycle.

Susan Snead
Self
Lubbock, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3. I feel it will be incredibly detrimental to public education in the state of Texas and only truly serves those parents who already have children enrolled in private schools. It will essentially become a tax subsidy for those who can already afford private school. The Texas legislature MUST fully and adequately fund public education and this proposed bill will make that difficult. It will also leave special education students behind. It will NOT be school choice, as it is advertised to be. I vote and will not vote for any of my elected representatives that vote for this bill.

Belton Tovar
Self
Sachse, TX

NO VOUCHERS

Gillian Brody-Wilcox
self
Austin, TX

I do not support HB3 and what it will do to our public school system and how it will impact the most vulnerable kids in Texas. I do support putting more money into public education in the state of Texas. Let's do the right thing.

Gabriel Alatorre, Mr.
Texas Public School Parent
San Antonio, TX

When public education is adequately funding then we can start allowing tax breaks for the elite. Every school must have certified teachers and adequate class sizes. Public school schools also require equity in resources and educational material. Fund Schools! Hell no to Texas Vouchers!

Adrian Munoz, Mr.
Self
Ysleta Del Sur Purblo, TX

No vouchers. No school choice

Justin York York
Self
Georgetown, TX

HELL NO!

Tim Anderson
self
Denton, TX

We educate our six children at home. I currently pay the usual property taxes while receiving no benefit from the public school system. All our school supplies, materials, curriculum, field trips, and any potential dual credit or extra curricular programs are purchased at our own expense with after tax dollars. This adds up to thousands of dollars per year. This is the price I am willing to pay, and will continue to pay, for my kids to be under the care of their mother who loves them, to prioritize family relationships over peer-to-peer relationships, to emphasis learning over grades/tests, and to be able to teach my children the virtues that have been lost in the public school system. I would very much appreciate a small portion of my tax dollars to be put toward my own children's education through an ESA.

Linda Hanratty
LWV Tarrant County Texas
Fort Worth, TX

Please oppose HB 3, which would siphon off funding from public schools and subsidize religious schools in opposition to the US Constitution's separation of church and state. The $10,000 payments are grossly inadequate to support a quality private school education meaning that most of the subsidy will go to higher income families, not the low income families the bill claims to support. A $162,000 family income is clearly not low income. And if nothing else put in guard rails to avoid waste and fraud and to assure voucher holders receive a quality education.

Shelly Burns
self Donie, TX
Vote NO

Mariah Hildebrand
Self
Plano, TX

No school vouchers. They do not help students or families. We already have school choice, we do not need or want vouchers.

Kimberly Handy
Self - Associate Product Owner
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Amber Newsom PTA
Wylie, TX

I oppose bill HB3! We need more funding to go to public schools. My daughter is dyslexic and she would never even be able to go to a public school. Quit cutting off the legs of an already crippled public school system!

Elizabeth Kernan
Self
Austin, TX

I am a longtime Republican and I am disgusted by the party's plan to defund public schools. States, such as Mississippi, that resisted the school choice lobby and kept those funds with public schools have seen their national ranking soar. Whereas States that embraced school vouchers have shown that children who use vouchers to leave public schools have persistent learning loss. Choice states, such as Florida, once a national leader in literacy, have seen their scores plummet. Private schools do not have to follow the same regulations as public schools. My daughter was expelled from private school, at a very young age, due to issues with her brain development. The Private School Director or her staff did not suggest what kind of help or support my daughter needed, they just wanted her gone. Oh, and I did not get a refund for her tuition. Luckily, I was able to get my daughter into a program at UT Austin, and later an amazing public school, where she received services to support her development. Long story short, she is a straight A student this year, at a public middle school, already taking high school courses. Allowing my taxes to be used as someone's tax credit to send their kid to private school, rather than being used to serve my daughter's public-school education makes me furious. Public School funding is an investment into our future workforce, our future society. These students, you are planning to rob, will enter our workforce, become EMS responders, Police Officers, Nurses, electricians. I want the person I reach out to in 10-20 years from now to have a firm educational foundation. If this bill passes in Texas, it sets a dangerous precedent. What stops future legislation using vouchers for individuals to hire their own emergency medical care and private security firms. Honestly, this bill is just as bad as defund the police legislation. Do not use school vouchers to fix the educational mess, the Texas legislature has made of Texas public schools.

Shana Bentson

Self

Allen, TX

Parents who are paying attention know that the vouchers are a bad idea. You need to listen to the people and vote against the vouchers. Many might not speak up, but I haven't met one person in my community that thinks this is a good idea and your power will only last so long when you go against the will of the people.

I can put my kids in private school if I want to and I don't need other people's tax money to do it. You all know giving "some" money to people to go to private is not enough for a "choice"

Leslie Morse

Self

Dallas, TX

I am strongly opposed to public funds being used for private education. School vouchers will only continue to deteriorate the educational system in the state. The better move would be to properly fund the public schools we have and quit withholding school funding as an ace in the whole to force through unpopular legislation.

Janet Marcum

Self - Real Estate Broker

Dallas, TX

Please don't weaken our public school system by incentivizing parents to leave. If we could fully fund our existing public schools and fairly compensate our teachers, our neighborhood gems could grow stronger and provide more quality education and serve ALL students. We don't need to shift to for-profit education, which only serves to discriminate against the poorest children and make outside parties wealthier. Stand with Texas parents. Listen to us.

Vanessa Vidal

Self

Garland, TX

As a Texas mom, I am deeply concerned about HB-3 and its attempt to funnel public tax dollars into private school vouchers. My child, like millions of others across our state, depends on a strong public education system—one that should be fully funded, not systematically undermined.

A voucher program does not "expand choices" for families like mine. It drains critical funding from our already underfunded public schools, leaving the vast majority of Texas children with fewer resources, larger class sizes, and less support. Vouchers benefit private schools that are not held to the same standards, do not have to accept all students, and are not accountable to taxpayers. Public dollars should remain in public schools, serving all children—not subsidizing private institutions that can discriminate based on income, ability, or background.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, providing not just education but meals, special education services, and essential programs that support children from all walks of life. If lawmakers truly want to improve education in Texas, they should focus on fully funding our public schools, increasing teacher pay, and providing the resources students need to thrive—not diverting funds to a program that primarily benefits wealthy families and special interests.

I urge Texas legislators to reject HB-3 and any effort to implement a school voucher system. Parents like me are counting on them to protect public education—not dismantle it.

Rebecca O'Neill Gemar

Self, teacher

Cedar Park, TX

Please say NO to HB 3! It shifts taxpayer money to private entities with no accountability. This isn't real choice; it's a reckless use of public funds that weakens our schools. Every child deserves access to strong neighborhood schools, smaller class sizes, enriching programs, and well-supported teachers. Let's invest in solutions that work: 1) Use ESA/voucher funds to strengthen public schools, and 2) Trust our educators the same way private institutions are being trusted. Say NO to HB 3 and YES to real public education support!

Robin Stokes

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3! Fund public schools already!

Colleen Olson

self

San Antonio, TX

Public funds should be used to fund public institutions, not private ones. Redirecting taxpayers dollars away from public schools undermines their ability to serve all students equitably and transparently. Private institutions are not held to the same accountability standards and can exclude students based on income, religion, and other factors. Our priority should be to strengthen public education, not diverting resources to institutions that do not serve the entire community.

Emily Weatherall

Self, mother

Richardson, TX

Please vote NO on the school vouchers bill. Local schools are the glue that holds neighborhoods together and they deserve to have more funding, not less. I want my tax dollars to support my local district schools, not vouchers. Vouchers will not benefit every student but continuing to fund public schools does benefit every student.

Cristie Avant

McMillan

Wylie, TX

Oppose

Mary Duffy

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote no for this, please prioritize our children and our public schools.

Tiffany Purcell

Self

Houston, TX

Say NO to school vouchers!!!

Ann Piano-Frosch, Mrs.
Tax payer / self (admin asst)
Coppell, TX

Texans DO NOT want vouchers. Diverting funds will hurt public schools. It will not give choice to families who cannot afford private schools. In our area, tuition to reputable private schools is almost triple the voucher, and even if that cost is covered, transportation would be a barrier for disadvantaged families to use ESA.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Rebecca Pollard
Self/Self-Employed
Wylie, TX

Please say NO to vouchers and HB3. This is not good for our education system.

Carrie Butler
Texas PTA
ANNA, TX

I live in a smaller school district and the overwhelming census is that we do not want our taxpayer money to fund private school tuition for anyone, we would like it to stay in public schools. With a billion extra dollars that is slated for this program, you could use that to raise the basic allotment higher than the proposed 220 for each student. We are at a $1300 shortfall with inflation and you are only proposing $220. Why not make it $400 with the money you want to put towards the ESA program? Studies have shown these do not work for the mass amount of students in a state and you could barely even begin to give the 5.5 million students in our state a chance at using one of these ESAs. We don't have the money to waste on this, you are throwing it away and WE DON'T WANT IT.

Kimberly Eisma, Ms.
Self - Parent and Legal Assistant
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3.

Morgan Louvier Parent
Elgin, TX

Our tax dollars need to stay in our public schools to support providing the best education we possibly can to our communities. Private schools should not be paid for with our tax dollars.

Abigail Johnson
Self
Wylie, TX

No HB3 and no SB3!

Kathleen McKenna
Self
Austin, TX

NO VOUCHERS

Jennifer Khorchani
Lakeview Elementary PTA
Sugar Land, TX

Public schools need more funding and vouchers will diminish their current funding. Most citizens strongly oppose vouchers!

Sarah Evascu
Self, homeschool parent
Austin, TX

I don't know that I can say or write anything more effectively than what several hours of public testimony have already committed to the record. My family has experienced public, private, and homeschool education in Texas. We have benefited from parental choice. We are against HB 3 and ESAs. Taxpayer dollars should be committed to the upkeep and improvement of public education, not private/religious education or homeschooling. Public special education should be funded more adequately at the state level. General education should be funded to surpass inflation (more than an additional $1,300 per student). HB 3 is a drain on resources. It enables large financial transfers to the Comptroller without defined fiscal formulas, guardrails, and oversight. It creates a large administrative infrastructure that will require $80+ million annually. It's a handout to families already private schooling and a small percentage of additional students who might have access and privilege to exit public education. ESAs have busted other states' budgets while not improving outcomes. We can do better with the system we have.

Meg Hetherington
Self/self employed
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3.

Rebecca O'Donovan
Self
Lewisville, TX

I am adamantly opposed to this bill, educational savings accounts, and school vouchers in any form. Our public schools are not adequately funded, and this bill does not solve the issue in an equitable manner. Please support Texas educators and students by NOT supporting this bill.

Mary Olson
Self
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

THERESA SPECK

Self

Brownsville, TX

to Texas HB3. This bill represents an unnecessary overreach of government authority, places undue burdens on local school districts, and fails to address the real issues facing Texas communities.

HB3's provisions, particularly those related to increased security mandates, threaten to divert crucial funding away from educational resources that directly benefit students. Our schools are already struggling with underfunding, teacher shortages, and inadequate mental health support—yet this bill forces them to prioritize costly security measures without providing adequate state funding.

Furthermore, HB3 raises serious concerns about individual freedoms and local control. By imposing one-size-fits-all mandates, it disregards the unique needs of different communities. Local school districts, not the state, are best positioned to determine how to keep their students safe.

Instead of enacting reactionary policies that fail to address the root causes of violence, Texas should invest in proven strategies such as mental health support, smaller class sizes, and community-based intervention programs. HB3 does not provide real solutions—it simply burdens our schools, restricts local decision-making, and fuels unnecessary fear.

I urge you to oppose HB3 and instead focus on policies that truly enhance safety and educational opportunities for Texas students.

Patricia Perez

Self- Structural engineer and mother

Fort Worth, TX

I strongly reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Brandy Watkins

self - retired

Houston, TX

I am a lifelong resident of Texas and an avid supporter of Public Schools. Public school dollars should go to public schools. We pay our public school taxes to insure that all children receive a good education. School Choice should be called School's Choice because private schools can refuse to service any child they choose. Public schools service all children and all children have a right to an education. Please leave public school funds where they should be...in our public schools where all Texas children will have a chance to learn and succeed.

Lara Bennett

Self Homemaker

Richardson, TX

I do not support HB 3. This idea disproportionately serves the wealthiest families in the state who have the means to send their kids to private schools. Tax money needs to stay in the public school system which serves all students in the state especially kids with special needs.

Laura Echols-Richter, Rev

Grace Avenue United Methodist Church

Frisco, TX

I oppose vouchers or "education savings accounts" that use tax payer dollars to benefit choice for the wealthy and continue to defund public education. These "savings" programs have no accountability while our state continues to place higher accountability and requirements on public education. The State of Texas continues to hold funds hostage with little support for public education.

Kathryn Nance Kathryn Nance

Self. Retired Texas Educator

Lubbock, TX

This is a bad bill. Taxpayers money (public money) must go to public schools. Any other use of our tax dollars will just wind up giving wealthy parents who can afford private schools a tax break or kickback. Rural, disabled, and poorer students will suffer as money is drawn away from their public schools. Tax dollars should support all public schools and no private schools who don't play by the same rules. They don't state test, they don't provide for children with disabilities, and they don't accept all students. Support public education and teachers!

Stephanie Tsapakis

Self, San Antonio resident

San Antonio, TX

I do not support any legislation that has any kind of school voucher program. I respectfully and urgently request that the state of Texas focus on adequately funding our public education system. I detest the fact that school funding was withheld, and do not support any form of school vouchers that take public money and allow it to be used for private educational services.

Whitney Jones

Self. Teacher

Canadian, TX

I am against any form of vouchers in Texas. The state has already made it clear that it doesn't value teachers or students. They only priority is giving a coupon to the wealthy. You know how few students will actually be able to benefit from this bill. A better option would be to fully fund Texas public education and pay teachers what they're worth. We would have smaller class sizes, many of the teachers who left would come back. Students would have better access to technology and resources and we'd all be better off. Please talk, and listen, to Texas teachers. We have a lot to share and would love to discuss this with you.

Jason Valentine

Self

Wimberley, TX

Dear House Public Education Committee Members,

I do NOT support Education Savings Accounts or vouchers. After listening to testimony this week, I am convinced more than ever that it is not what is best for Texas or Texans. Providing thousands of dollars with zero accountability to families contradicts Republican principles and as a taxpayer, I cannot support a program that does just that. The ONLY way a voucher should even be considered would be one that is used in a private institution that has to follow all of the mandates and laws of public schools. When they all follow the same rules, then you can truly call it competition. To summarize, I do NOT support vouchers or education savings accounts in Texas. That money is better spent adjusting funding for public school students and teachers. It is past time to offer inflation adjustments to public education. Thank you for your time.

Sarah Watson

Self

Wylie, TX

We do NOT want school vouchers!!

Stephanie Arneil

Texas PTA

San Antonio, TX

Our public education system needs help - but school vouchers are NOT the answer. Private schools will still raise tuition or reject the students they don't want! We need to infuse our public schools with more funding to level the playing field across the board. While I do not have the right answer, I know vouchers will not do anything but take money away from our public schools and students. Please please vote no on HB 3! Our kids and their future are worth spending more time researching an answer!

Tamara Hembree

Self

Temple, TX

Texas' support public education & have rejected any form of voucher for educating our children. Politicians need to be attentive to the direction the public seeks versus special interest. Continued working to work toward safe, comprehensive, public education for all Texas children.

Brenda Deneault

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose hb 3

Amanda Carter

Self

Frisco, TX

I beg of you to support public education and not vote for the vouchers. They will only make the rich richer and there is no guarantee that the private schools will even keep their prices the same. Public education is a basic right for the children of Texas and every child will need the opportunity to have a great education. Public education is so important and they need proper funding to continue to operate.

Ashley Tucker

self, Executive Vice President

League City, TX

Protect our public school funding. Vouchers are, historically, a disappointment at best and usually the beginning of a huge downturn in educational outcomes. Citizens are counting on the rich history of Texas public schools, that is why we live here and invest our lives and choose to establish our roots (and business with huge tax bills) here in Texas. It is in the best interest of the entire community to vote NO to vouchers.

Jill Cullinan

Self

San Antonio, TX

As someone who has had my children in both public and private schools with a household income, putting me in the top 5%, I oppose the use of taxpayer funds for this purpose. School choice isn't giving people who can afford private tuition taxpayer funds. Using the money to assist low income and at risk students to better afford college education and trade school is true school choice, not to mention would break the cycles of poverty, abuse, unemployment, crime, and unplanned pregnancies while saving billions in government assisted programs. School choice is education breaking the chains of poverty and inequality. Beyond my personal beliefs, it's worth noting that while various people have spoken on behalf of a successful voucher program in Arizona during these hearings, not only has Gov Katie Hobbs had repeatedly voiced her opposition to the universal expansion of ESA vouchers, aiming to return to the days when public funding was used for special needs children or children in failing schools, but that the expansion of the Arizona program has led to a financial strain on the state budget, forcing cuts to other critical programs and projects, such as water infrastructure and community colleges. The program cost has also tripled in the last year alone, from $332 million to $964 million, due to the state creating a "bottomless program" without caps.

Sheri Walston

Self

Maud, TX

I am asking my representative to vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded education, not welfare for the wealthy.

Erica Bekerman
Self-travel advisor (former teacher)
Mansfield, TX

Please do not approve vouchers! We don't want it. It will ruin public education that is already grossly underfunded and all of the good teachers are fleeing education and it's hurting our kids.

Diann Davenport, Dyslexia Therapist
Wichita Falls ISD
Wichita Falls, TX

This would be detrimental to public schools. It is a persons right to attend private school but it's a choice you pay for. I hope our elected officials listen to those that elected them and vote no. This is one thing I am highly disappointed in our governor about. Do what is right and vote no!

Kim Goad
Self
Wheeler, TX

Parents already have the rights for school choice - public or private school. The public education system needs an overhaul, no question. So, taking money away to fund a private sector is the answer? I do not understand. Why is our governor so against public school? He should be all about fixing it.

Merrill Helms
self, stay at home mom
McKinney, TX

Please make sure that all taxpayer money STAYS in public schools. Texans have no need for a voucher program to take money away from our public schools and funnel the funds to private schools with zero accountability. Our teachers, students, and future leaders of our community need a solid education through our public schools by using our taxpayer dollars for public schools. We do not need to listen to out of state donors who want this voucher system to undermine what makes Texas great!

Kristen Barnes
Self - Project Manager
Garland, TX

NO!! I absolutely DO NOT want a voucher program in our state. Shore up our public education system and keep our dollars where they are needed. None of us want this and if you vote this in we WILL vote you out.

Casey Bowles
Self
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

John DeBaun, II
Garland ISD
Garland, TX

It is unconscionable that you intend to use public funds to supplement private education. A free and accessible public education is one of the hallmarks of a free society. How dare an elected official, one who has lost the public fight for vouchers, go against the clear will of the people of the state of Texas. You should be ashamed that you care so little about your constituents. Follow the law, follow the will of the people.

Ashley Coffey

Self, mother and nonprofit fundraiser

McAllen, TX

I'm writing to voice dissent against HB3. I am a proud, successful product of the Texas public education system (Kindergarten in Bryan ISD thru my undergraduate degree at the University of Houston). Vouchers, which have failed students and families in every state in which they've been implemented, will cause further harm to our already-struggling public schools by decreasing funding even further and burdening property taxpayers more. This bill is unpopular on both sides of the political aisle and should be stopped immediately. The amount of time and money spent trying to push it through is wasteful and unproductive. Use the vast state surplus to fully fund our public schools and give every young Texan the education they deserve.

Marissa Marciel

Self

Elgin, TX

Valarie, who do I tell people to email this:

As a Texas voter and taxpayer, I am writing to urge you to oppose SB 2 and any legislation supporting school vouchers in Texas. Public tax dollars should be used exclusively for the public good, and that means fully funding our public schools—not diverting critical resources to private entities that are not held to the same standards of transparency or accountability. Texas public schools educate the vast majority of our children, serving as the backbone of our communities and economy. Instead of vouchers, I ask you to prioritize robust funding for public education to ensure every child—regardless of zip code—has access to a quality education. I implore you to use all your influence and resources in helping to release the over $4.5 billion that has been set aside for our schools without tying it to a voucher system the majority of Texans do not want. Please stand with Texas families and vote against any proposals that weaken our public school system. Your leadership on this issue will help secure a brighter future for all Texans. Thank you for your time and commitment to serving our community.

Dolores Piklewski

CCISD

Corpus Christi, TX

We need our public schools, not everyone has money to send their child to another school. I want to protect that public schools have made really good students and good people in our society. Do Not Let A Voucher Take Away From Our Students.

Jeena Stephen

Self

Grapevine, TX

School vouchers or ESAs will be disastrous to our Texas public schools. Our public schools are already underfunded and now with the dismantled Department of Education, we will no longer receive federal money either. HB 3 will not benefit the vast majority of Texas students. Instead, it will drop our education system further down in national ranking. To claim HB 3 gives parents choice is a farce. Texas families already have school choice. Please oppose HB 3.

Susan Skipp

Self

Houston, TX

HB 3- Vouchers are welfare for the wealthy. What is happening in Education, especially in Houston, is a rebranding of the prison pipeline, and targets the children of color.

Jay Hokett
self
Pearland, TX

I'm against this proposal. There is much more research needed and the history of this type of voucher program in other states has been a nightmare. If you want Public Education off the books, a better solution can be found. I'm also against listening to big money out of state contributors who are looking out for there cause and not for Texans having this much sway in a Texas Bill

Tamara West-Bray, Ms
Self
Austin, TX

I AM AGAINST THIS BILL.

It will take funds from our already UNDERFUNDED public schools, and IT COULD (MOST LIKELY WILL) impact TEACHER RETIREMENT PENSIONS.

Jacalyn Dielmann
self
Austin, TX

I am a retired Round Rock ISD public school teacher. I am very opposed to vouchers because I see this as a way of supporting rich families and taking away much needed money from public school children. Public schools are already underfunded by Gov. Abbott and vouchers support more underfunding. Abbott's wife may be attached to private Catholic schools but that should not determine the fate of the rest of the population that supports the incredible work done at public schools by devoted and talented public school teachers.

I was a practicing civil engineer for 10 years before I became a teacher. I choose to change careers because I wanted to make a difference every day. It was the best and more rewarding decision I ever made.

Please consider our children before pushing this bill forward. Thank you.

Lindsay Judy

Self

Wacto, TX

$4.5 billion was initially slated for Texas public schools in the 88th legislative session but was not allocated because some elected officials tied this funding to the passage of Education Saving Accounts (ESA), otherwise known as voucher programs. Public schools across Texas have been working on deficit budgets because Greg Abbott has dug his heels into school vouchers. Rich men like Jeff Yass, Tim Dunn, and Richard Uihlein have put millions of dollars into politicians who support school vouchers and will pass it into law. Nebraska, Colorado, and Kentucky let the voters decide and they all said “no” to school vouchers. Some of the states with school vouchers and their K-12 public school rankings: Arkansas (ranked #35), Alabama (ranked #43), Arizona (ranked #47), and Oklahoma (ranked #49).

Arizona’s universal school voucher program, which was estimated to cost $65 million, cost over $700 million. As funding for voucher programs has expanded in other states, the overall portion of state funding for public schools has decreased. While Florida increased its spending on three voucher programs by 313% from fiscal year 2008 to fiscal year 2019, the state decreased its per-pupil funding for public education over this time period by 12%.

As of Q3 2024, Texas's GDP was $2,727 billion, making it the second-largest economy in the United States. Texas's economy is the eighth-largest in the world, but yet, Texas spends less per student on public schools than many other countries, including the national average. Texas ranks in the bottom 10 states for per-student funding. Additionally, when accounting for the actual per-pupil spending in each state compared to the amount needed to achieve the modest goal of U.S. average test scores, Texas comes in 44th place. Just over 91% of Texas public school students are attending inadequately funded schools. Why do politicians in Texas' government not want to properly fund Texas public schools?

A state's economic success can only be improved by a public school system that benefits every single Texas child. Please think of bills and laws that will benefit every single child in Texas. A good public education provides students with the knowledge, skills, and critical thinking abilities needed to become productive members of society, fostering an informed citizenry, developing a skilled workforce, promoting social mobility, and creating a more inclusive community by providing equal access to quality education regardless of background; essentially, it prepares individuals to contribute positively to their communities and the economy while cultivating responsible citizens.

Ashley Hermann

Self

Anna, TX

Vouchers or ESAs do not belong in Texas. The best way to improve education for ALL Texas students is to fully fund education, not a lottery system that only benefits some. The best way to improve Texas education is listening to constituents, public school families and teachers. NOT listening to your big donors like Jeff Yass, who DOESNT EVEN LIVE IN TEXAS.

Stop offering us bills with strings attached. NO TO VOUCHERS AND ESAs

Leticia Salazar

Lovejoy ISD

Allen, TX

I am a parent in Lovejoy ISD. Our district is known for excellence—exceptional teachers, innovative programs, and a strong sense of community. But year after year, we have been forced to chip away at what makes Lovejoy special due to inadequate state funding.

The $220 increase in the basic allotment is simply not enough. Inflation has outpaced school funding for years, and without a meaningful increase, districts like Lovejoy are left making impossible choices—cutting programs, increasing class sizes, and struggling to offer competitive salaries.

Lovejoy has worked hard to stretch every dollar, but we are now at a point where we can no longer sustain the quality of education our community values without more support. HB 2 must include a significant basic allotment increase to ensure our students continue to receive the exceptional education they deserve.

Kay Coonrod, Ms

Self, Retired

Austin, TX

I oppose school vouchers. I

Eva Noyola, Dr

self

Austin, TX

As a parent of two Public school students, I beg our representatives to reject the school vouchers. It has been implemented in other states and the consequences are clear. Only the afluyente families use it because the amount is not enough to cover the actual cost of private school. It ends up being a subsidy for well to do people. It puts strain in public finances for no gain and it weakens public education.

This will be particularly harmful for families in rural communities, but it will harm all of the state.

Molly Frisinger

Self

Austin, TX

Please do not fund private education with public tax dollars. I am a proud Texas public school graduate and have picked the same for my child. Strong public education is the backbone of America. And this bill will take money from public education. Please vote against it.

Lisa Healy

Self

Midlothian, TX

I am a huge proponent of school choice, but not of this bill. This bill is adding to our government size. This is not what is needed for school choice. Keep it simple offer those who have chosen not to put their children in the public school system, the opportunity to have a rebate on their taxes. Let them use that money the way they would like to for their children.

Richard K
Self, COO
Austin, TX

I am a Christian, a conservative, and a retired air-force veteran. My daughter is four years old. She has autism and complex medical needs. She attends public school because, despite my best efforts, there is simply nowhere else for her to go.

Yesterday, I called every private school program in and around Austin—something I've now done three times in her short life. I wanted to be absolutely sure of the facts before I shared them with you today.

Here's what I found:

- Most private schools charge between $35,000 and over $40,000 per year, plus fees.
- Two religious schools charge just under $30,000, but they have no space—and they do not accept children with disabilities.
- Not one private school will accept my daughter, except for a single autism-specific school.

That one school? It costs nearly $50,000 plus fees. It has a long waitlist and it's an hour away in traffic.

A voucher will not cover any private school for my child nor will it help my child get into any other school.

In contrast, my Austin ISD public school is three miles from home. It provides transportation, a certified special education teacher, a trained TA, and a small class size. This is the only option for my child—and for so many children like her.

Public schools are not just a choice; they are a lifeline. I urge you to fund them properly—starting with at least a $1,340 per-student increase to the basic allotment and additional special education funding. Our children's futures depend on it.

Dipti Schraegle
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose the school voucher programs as it can divert essential funds away from our public schools. We need more funding in our schools to provide equal opportunities to our children. Please, please oppose the voucher program as it will hurt schools, families, and mostly, children.

Joanna Graham
Self/ Sr. HR Director
Houston, TX

Dear Legislators, I am Joanna Graham. I am a parent of two SBISD students. I want to write to express that I am Republican and I do not support for vouchers. I am a parent of students in high school. We are in Spring Branch ISD. We have the best educators and staff and strong community support for our schools. I'm highly involved in our school finances and can see how far our districts stretch too few dollars to provide for students. It is not enough. Our parents and community raise funds to personally fill in gaps. I have been an auction chair for our elementary school three times raising over $1,000,000 to help our school make up the gap. We directly pay for specialists in reading and math to support students that fail a quiz or test so they don't fall behind. Our class sizes are too big for a teacher to meet all needs. We pay for music instruments and art and field trips to nurture the whole child. As a result, we saw that our students are thriving. If we didn't pay for those interventions, our staar score would not be as high as it is. Our school is not wasting resources. Our school doesn't have enough. That is a failure on our state. The proof is that Texas sits in the bottom 5 of the nation in funding.

My efforts have shown what proper funding and support give. We're fortunate that we have the means, but it's not something others have. We were able to raise the success of 500 students each year just in one school. That is a massive impact.

With vouchers, most will go to those in private schools. We all know that and we've all seen that. The bill provides a clear loophole. I do acknowledge that a very small few will get a discount and they will have potential to better their education. On an individual level, I applaud that. However, that's a poor use of funds. It is better to take those funds and provide the better support to our public schools, which will allow improvement of millions. That will make Texas great again! Vouchers will denigrate Texas!

Greg Hluchan
Sealy
Sealy, TX

I am strongly against the creation of education savings accounts. This bill would essentially kill all rural schools, just like the one that my children currently attend. As a graduate of a rural public school, there are many other ways to better increase the efficiency and education within public schools that to allow for citizen tax dollars to be funneled to private schools. This bill should have never been reintroduced after it failed last year. This does no good for any Texas children and realistically gives no additional school choice to the vast majority of parents in this state.

Sarah Deller
Self/Educational Admin
Longview, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3. As a conservative citizen of Texas I believe the Education Savings Account bill is bad for our society as it will result in funds being diverted from our rural public schools. Parents, like me, already have school choice. I want to live in an educated society that allows ALL students access to a quality education not just those in metro areas and not just the ones who can afford it. Invest 1 billion in Texas Public schools, let's make them great.

Debi Buchanan, Dr.
Self
Heath, TX

As a former special education director for over 20 years and two Texas, public school districts, I saw school district struggle with providing adequate services that are federally mandated, according to student IEP's. Also as a parent and grandparent of children who attended public schools, I do not support how to spell three. The bill does not provide choice to all students because the amount of money allocated would not even come close to paying for private school tuition. Therefore, the students who would be receiving these funds are primarily students who are ready have a choice of going to a private school. Additionally, there's nothing in the bill that requires accountability for the private schools to provide "better" education. This is not a good use of state funds if there is no accountability for the receiving schools to be better or even as good as the public schools that are losing funding. This is not how I want my tax dollars to be used. I am asking that HB3 be rejected.

Yvette Cantu, Dr.

Self

La Feria, TX

Parents already have school choice! Open enrollment public schools and charter schools and the option to homeschool already exists! Despite this 5.5 million school children attend public schools so I ask which children will benefit from these Education Savings Account Program? Research shows that this has been a disaster in states that have implemented this. Plus how fair is it that these institutions don't have the same accountability or requirements that public schools do? This is wasteful and unnecessary! Instead is this money towards public schools! Increase that basic allotment for students, increase teacher pay, change the retirement plan to ERS like all state employees, and change the horrible healthcare offering to that of state employees! That would change outcomes for students, not this!

Sarah Daly

Self

AUSTIN, TX

Public school has a significant impact on the lives of so many families and taking away the opportunity to have funds going into the schools within the community would be a tragic failure. As a product of public schools, I know the impact quality public schools can make and the essential function of public funding on schools and educational quality provided to our children. This is why I am opposed to the introduction of education savings accounts (ESA) in Texas and implore the House to vote against any such proposal currently under consideration.

Growing up, my parents taught us the value of a quality public education. They showed us the value of giving back to our community. My mom was a public school teacher for over 35 years who poured her soul into her work. As a child, I saw the sacrifices she made to help her students to learn, feel safe, and make memories. Many former students come back years later to remind her of these moments when she was teaching their kids. Often, she took her own money to help provide students with supplies they didn't have or even clothes when maybe their jeans were full of holes. My father also worked for the public schools as the Director of Food Service and worked sometimes 14 hour days to ensure all the children were fed good nutritional meals. He worked weekends to ensure refrigerators and walk-in freezers stay online and food was safe to eat when the kids came to school. When the schools struggled to pay them or the school lacked things they needed, my parents did all they could to make things better, even when the state funding was light. So you could say, public education was very important to our family as it put food on our table and my parents worked during their careers to make an impact on generations of students.

Based on my parents' example, it was paramount that when I had children that they receive the best possible education. That's why we moved from our home state of Missouri to put our children in Texas public schools; schools known as top-notch nationwide. And now, the sacrifices our family has made (leaving our home state, moving away from family and friends, and leaving secure jobs to find new ones) seem to be all for naught with the proposed education savings accounts. We can do better. So, I urge you to vote against HB3 and any other proposal that introduces education savings accounts in Texas.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sarah Daly

Concerned Texas Citizen

Paige Heitzman

Self

Cypress, TX

I am opposed to school vouchers and an education savings account. Please fully fund public education in the state of TX.

Vince Jackson, Mr.

self teacher

Fort Worth, TX

I think this is a terrible idea. How does taking money from public schools to pay for wealthy students to go to private schools help Texas public school children? The other places this has been tried have not led to positive outcomes and instead have led to weakened public schools. Please do not do this.

Haley Garth

Self, children's mental health clinician

Houston, TX

Please vote NO to vouchers! This will irreparably harm public education in our state. Why can we not look to the states in our country leading education and emulate their methods? I sincerely fear vouchers are disenfranchisement in disguise.

Elaina Garcia

Self

Cypress, TX

Texas public schools are struggling to recover from the pandemic, which resulted in the need for additional funding to combat learning loss and provide wrap-around services. Schools are also grappling with unprecedented staffing shortages.

Vouchers have been shown to decrease, not increase, student academic achievement.

Despite claims that school voucher programs lead to gains in student success, there has been no credible research to suggest that vouchers improve academic performance. According to a report by the Center for American Progress, an independent, nonpartisan policy institute, the use of school vouchers is equivalent to missing out on more than one-third of a year of classroom learning.

Vouchers allow public funds to be spent without any accountability.

Texas public schools are held to rigorous accountability standards, so lawmakers should not allow public, taxpayer dollars to be spent at private or religious schools that do not have to meet the same standards. Private schools do not have to report student achievement data to the state, and they do not have to meet the same standards for hiring teachers.

Vouchers could be expensive to the state.

Depending on the limitations set in the specific voucher legislation, hundreds of thousands of students who are currently attending private schools or being home-schooled could begin to receive vouchers, requiring the state to spend much more on education than it does now.

The amount of a voucher would not be enough to cover tuition at most private schools.

The amount of a voucher would not be enough to cover tuition at most private schools. Only more affluent families with the means to pay the balance of their children's tuition would truly benefit. This would leave the very children vouchers are supposed to help left behind in schools with even less funding than before.

Most Texas public school students are economically disadvantaged.

Six out of 10 Texas public school students are economically disadvantaged, and economically disadvantaged students are the ones who would most likely be left behind in underfunded public schools should a voucher program be established.

Historically, economically disadvantaged are more expensive to educate than more affluent students because they don't have as many external educational opportunities. Also, districts often provide them with more services. Schools need more, not less, money to educate these students.

Private schools are not an option for most students.

Private schools do not exist in every part of Texas, especially in rural areas. If a voucher program is created, fly-by-night private schools could pop up across the state, offering "choice" while profiting from public tax dollars.

School choice is already offered in Texas.

School choice is already offered in Texas in such a way that preserves accountability and local control. Many districts offer multiple school options through magnets, academies, and transfers.

Donna Bahlinger, Mrs.

Self. Retired teacher

San Antonio, TX

As a parent, retired teacher, and Texas taxpayer, I am opposed to school vouchers. Basically, public tax funds need to stay in public schools. Public schools educate all children, while private schools are allowed to choose the students who attend. Our Texas legislators need only to look at other states such as Florida and Arizona to see the negative impacts of vouchers on public schools and state budgets. Voucher programs in other states have shown that the costs have been much higher than original estimates. At the same time, states that have implemented voucher programs have decreased the per-student funding. It is imperative that the Texas legislature support all students by increasing funding to public schools. Texas citizens are strongly in favor of increasing overall funding to public schools. In addition, Texans are in favor of increasing career and technical training programs, providing tutoring, increasing teacher salaries, and providing more mental health supports to students. I appreciate your time and attention to our children.

Karen Wyatt

self/ education

Booker, TX

1. How is it fair that student savings fund students/ families get $10,000+ and public school students only get $6100+? Those parents chose the private school option as the source of education for their children. They chose to pay that money.
2. Where is the accountability in the choices available? Who is going to check and hold these families responsible and accountable for where the money is truly going?
3. As a person who works in education, the funding hasn't kept up with inflation, with some districts seeing costs rise by as much as 22% in the past few years. I purchase items that were $150 last school year and are now $350 this school year. My budget doesn't even cover the items that I need on a yearly basis due to the fact that our funding has not increased to cover the costs.
3. I do not like the idea that Gov. Abbott put out there that teachers get a raise if the voucher system passes. I would call that bullying! We don't need that! I used to be a Gov. Abbott fan until this!

Lorena Sublasky

Teachers AFT

El Paso, TX

This bill would be a huge blow to public education. Please stand for the children of Texas! The funding is unfair to rural communities as well!

Carolina Gallardo

Self

Hondo, TX

I vote No to vouchers!

Jennifer rike

Self

Mansfield, TX

No vouchers public schools already offer choices. The schools need funding which hasn't been addressed since the late 1990's. If tax dollars are used to fund vouchers all accountability measures public schools are held to private/charter schools should also be held to.

NO VOUCHERS

Deborah Beck

self

Austin, TX

Vouchers are not good for kids, for education, or for communities. They are only good for private school operators and their supporters.

The real problem for our schools is lack of state investment. The proposed voucher amount of $10,000 per child is more than the average public expenditure per student ($9871) and much more than the state's basic allotment per student ($6160), which is unchanged since 2019. The $10,000 per student figure shows that the state doesn't spend enough money to educate our students.

Vouchers will do nothing to address that problem. More state money for public schools will.

Rural school districts largely oppose school vouchers because they are useless in rural areas. The typical rural community does not have private schools where vouchers could be used. Moreover, the public school often serves as a linchpin of such a community. The local school matters to everyone in a small town, not just its children.

Despite the higher allotment for children with disabilities ($11,500), school vouchers are a crap shoot for them. Public schools must admit all children, but non-public schools can reject any student they please. An Austin parent at a rally against school vouchers wept as they described having their special needs child turned down by 12 private schools. "Where am I going to use a voucher?" the parent sobbed.

For both rural communities and special education students, access to state money to pay for private school does not mean there is a private school that will educate a child.

Parents may think vouchers will get them a free or nearly-free private school education, but generally that is not so. Most private schools' tuition exceeds the school voucher allocation by a few hundred dollars to more than $25,000. Some parents will find a private school whose tuition is covered by the voucher allocation, but many will get serious tuition sticker shock.

Parents who homeschool are eligible for $2000 per child. That sounds fine, except that there is no state oversight of home schooling to ensure that homeschooled kids are meeting benchmarks like those required for public schools. There is no way to know what taxpayers are getting for our $2000. It might simply be a gift of public funds.

Perhaps most important, school vouchers do nothing for the millions of kids across Texas who are thriving in their public schools. Many kids are doing great would be doing even better if their schools were not being starved of funds by the state.

Texas ranks 43rd nationally in per-student funding for K-12 education. The state has done nothing to keep pace with inflation since the basic allotment was last increased, let alone to help teachers cope with the unprecedented challenges of teaching in pandemic and post-pandemic conditions.

Before giving away our tax dollars, the state should try investing in public education. We'd all be better off, not just private school operators.

Jill Lamping
Self / Actuary and Benefits Manager
Wylie, TX

It is beyond disappointing to see a $1 billion ESA bill put to the forefront before public education is funded by this legislature. With a mere $220 on the table as an increase to the basic allotment, it is insulting to Texans to suggest there is $1 billion, in year one alone, for a "nice to have" ESA program when we cannot properly fund the constitutionally mandated public schools.

Public schools need a fully inflation-adjusted basic allotment. That means over $1,300 for each public school student in Texas to get back to 2019 spending levels, plus an automatic escalator each year so we don't end up with 6 years of flat funding ever again. Our ISDs need to be able to adjust teacher and staff compensation significantly in order to keep the best and brightest in our schools, already a very tough task in the current environment with so many citizens and politicians demonizing our public schools and our educators. They also need to be able to keep up with the increased cost of operating the facilities due to inflation since 2019. Our small ISD spends approximately 80% of our budget on payroll, and we run a lean operation at the admin level. This is in part why it's so important to inflation-adjust the basic allotment: so we can inflation-adjust our beloved teachers' salaries. We don't need a one-time stipend, we need a sustainable and significant increase to the basic allotment.

While I realize HB3 does not directly address the basic allotment, it should be tied to it. To emphasize my point: if the legislature cannot budget for a full inflation-adjustment of over $1,300 to the basic allotment, then we simply do not have the means to add billions more in liability in the form of ESAs.

Sincerely,
Jill Lamping

Kaidan Nguyen
Self
San Antonio, TX

Please do not take away more monies from our public schools. Our public schools are already in dire straights regarding lack of funding. Not everyone has the means for school choice as many kids don't really have a choice. Only the well off families who have the ability to transport their kids to and from schools or parents who have the luxury of taking time off to transport their kids to school have a choice. School vouchers disproportionately reward wealthier families and harm lower income families. It punishes kids by taking away the dollars their school desperately needs. This is the opposite of what Jesus would do. Thank you.

Mathew Bartley
Self-teacher
Leander, TX

Putting public money into unregulated schools is just a boondoggle for people that already have their kids in private schools. No poor kid is going to be able to afford private schools because of this bill. We need to be putting money and resources into educational opportunities for all- public schools. I don't want my hard earned dollars helping a rich family pay less for their private school.

Stephanie Wehner
PTA, Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Stephania Bautista
self, disabled
McKinney, TX

Fully fund our public schools & teachers! Public education is vital to our communities & they have been under attack for far too long. Hell NO to privatization!

Kinsey Burrus

Self

Higgins, TX

I absolutely oppose school vouchers. I've done my research with an open mind and cannot see how it benefits 99% of Texas students. I've also researched who does benefit and who has funded the propaganda behind the bill. I cannot fathom how anyone with common sense can pursue this bill. Please come visit a rural school and look the teachers and parents and kids in the eye and say this is what is best for them. I'm a life long republican but I will not vote for a single representative who votes yes for this bill. Teachers will be fleeing our schools unless they are properly and fully funded.

Michelle Kaminski

Self, musician and music educator

Mckinney, TX

I will not vote in the future for anyone who supports vouchers. It will be the demise of the public school system.

Andrew Wrigley

Self / Parent

Houston, TX

As a proud native Texan who attended public schools and universities and as a parent of an elementary aged child in public school in Texas, I strongly oppose this bill. Instead of sending our tax dollars to benefit only a very small percentage of children, instead use the estimated $1+ billion to property fund our public schools.

Carol Bryant, Mrs.

Retired educator

Cypress, TX

No public funds for private schools!! Texas needs to fully fund our schools. Shameful that Republicans have been in charge for 30 years and we rank 45th in the nation for education success! Vouchers will not fix that!

Julianne Zuniga

Self- Teacher

Lavon, TX

I oppose HB3. I have a child that has learning disabilities that would be denied by private schools. Private schools only serve students they CHOOSE to, while public schools serve ALL students in their boundaries. Having grown up in a rural Texas town, private schools were over 55 miles away from my hometown of McCamey, Texas. Most Texan families are dual income families that cannot forgo the secondary income to homeschool or meet strict private school expectations. This bill does not serve most of Texas nor are more Texans in support of this. Listen to Texans, not private school representatives who only serve themselves to gain additional funding. I guarantee if this is a proposition put to Texans, it would overwhelmingly be shut down.

Ashley Mota

Self

El Paso, TX

As a parent and a teacher in the public school setting. Our public schools need to be fully funded to be able to give our students the education they should be receiving. Class sizes are too big and due to that students are not progressing the way they should be. Resources are too scarce to be able to fund a classroom

Pamela Souder
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am strongly opposed to educational savings accounts because I do not want my tax dollars funding private schools that do not have any accountability. The public schools that will suffer the most are rural schools. Texas needs to invest in public education and not divert our tax dollars to help the wealthy defray the cost of private school tuition.

Laura Kaarlsen, Teacher, Homeowner, Parent
Self
San Antonio, TX

Education is a gift from today's society to future societies, and it should remain "free" to K-12 students. Texas has this system in its public schools. If families are feeling the need to find other opportunities for the education of their children, then Texas needs to adequately fund public schools.

Texas works hard to appear to support public schooling while doing just the opposite.

Any bill that supports private or charter schools should support public schools in kind. All requirements placed on public schools must also be placed on any alternate form of schooling.

Anything different is undermining the very system Texas claims to support.

Jessica Shafer
Self, parent
Pearland, TX

I do not want my taxes paying for private schools. We need all the money we can get for the public schools, which are underfunded. Real texans don't want this!

Jessica Miller
Self Speech-Language Pathologist
Austin, TX

I want to express my concerns about the implementation of the school voucher program, which I believe could have significant negative consequences for our education system and the students it serves. By diverting public funds to private institutions, these programs create inequities in access to quality education, leaving public schools with fewer resources to support the majority of students who remain in them. This can result in larger class sizes, reduced educational opportunities, and less support for students who need it most. Instead of diverting funds to private schools, we should focus on strengthening and adequately funding our public education system, ensuring that our students have access to high-quality education and the support they need to succeed.

Thank you for considering my perspective.

Kim Beens
None
Helotes, TX

I am firmly opposed to HB 3 and the use of public school funds for private school tuition. We need to improve funding and support of our public systems, not take it away.

Widad Kinard

Self

Denton, TX

After watching 20+ hours of testimony in the HB 3 hearing, it is crystal clear that parents do not and will never have choice under this bill. HB 3 empowers private schools to cherry pick their students and deny enrollment to those with disabilities, like Felicita. Please, vote against HB 3 and fully fund our public schools.

Cooper Hilton

Self

Denton, TX

I am respectfully advocating AGAINST the proposed HB3. As a proud product of Texas public schools and a father of three children currently attending Denton ISD schools, I believe public dollars should remain in public schools.

HB3 would send public dollars to private institutions without sufficient accountability or oversight.

Texas public schools currently educate over 5 million kids. We must take steps to support these children rather than diverting funds away to provide scholarships for wealthy families.

Shelly Dittmar

Self - Foreign Service Officer

San Antonio, TX

I would like to register my opposition to the school voucher choice program. If individuals would like to send their children to private school that's their choice but I don't see how this will help change the gap between lower and higher achievers. It will drain resources from public schools and give private schools more money than public schools would receive for the same student. Those resources would be better used to improve public schools and expand access to charters within the public system. A better change to improve performance would be early intervention programs, additional student support, and a change to standards based grading that graded children on how well they master knowledge and skills instead of endless homework assignments. Let's put money towards that instead.

Marian Moore

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose this bill and policy idea.

Ashley Kolb

Self

Houston, TX

Please keep our public dollars in public schools. Sending crucial funding out of our public schools when it is already so thin and giving it to schools that do not have to meet our standards is not the Texan thing to do.

Please keep our public dollars in public schools, and fight to make them better.

Signed, a public educator and mom of two public school children in Houston.

Sebrina Winger

Beaumont Teachers Association

Silsbee, TX

Vouchers divert public tax dollars from public schools to private/ charter schools. But Private/ charter schools do not service all Texas students. They do not have special services for students who require special education. They do not provide transportation or nutrition to their students. Using public funds for private schools is a travesty against all Texas students.

Bettye Turney

Self

Jacksonville, TX

I live in rural East Texas. I am against School vouchers for the following reasons: There are not many private schools to use the vouchers. Transportation is not available to private schools and there are many parents who work and cannot take their children to a private school. This does not make sense in the rural areas which rely on public education and the transportation they supply for the students. I do not agree on spending public tax dollars for students to go to private schools. This takes away from the public schools. Cody Harris is my representative. I am a Republican and I did not vote for him in the Primaries because I knew he supported vouchers. In my opinion this law should be voted on by the people of Texas and not by lawmakers who are not listening to their constituents.

Bettie Millikan

Self

Austin, TX

This is a money grabbing scam by the ultra rich to their lap dogs Abbot and Patrick. We already have school choice, they just have to pay for it. Fund our public schools and do what's best for the state of Texas not just your rich benefactors. DO Your job.

John Brantley, Reverend

Self

Marble Falls, TX

Please find another way to do this. Or at least provide some protections for public schools. Please add that any private school entity must accept any student and provide for any and all accommodations that public schools are required to do. Additionally ensure that parents who take this program waive any and all rights to having their children attend public schools. Or if a child leaves a private entity the school must return monies to affected public school district.

Rena Honea, Mrs.

Self

Dallas, TX

As a graduate of public schools, former public school teacher, parent of public school students, taxpayer, and public school advocate, it is with the utmost respect that I vehemently urge you to VOTE NO on HB3! Passing this bill creates a third educational system that Texas funds will pay for and cannot afford. The largest number of students belong to the public schools in our great state with 5.5 million + students who are being neglected by the lawmakers not meeting their responsibilities to adequately fund our public schools which is the students' constitutional right. Texas public school funding has declined in the past 20 years to an amount that many find embarrassing. It is my hope that each voting member would put the political antics aside and treat the Texas students with the respect and dignity they deserve as they prepare to lead our communities, cities, and state. Ultimately, these are the people that will make decisions for us as we age and depend on their skills to take care of us and our quality of life.

Thank you for your service, consideration, and time!

Heather Horton

Yantis

Yantis, TX

Disappointed 27 year veteran public school teacher here. I'm a Christian and teach in a rural area. I am the aunt of a child with autism that depends on IDEA and my niece and nephew go to private school. I am mortified at the disregard our Republican governor and members of Congress have for our rural students, our special education students, our Head Start students -- and the way they speak about teachers. Vote no to sending public money to private entities. Following the trail of Abbott's funding from out of state financial backers is just disappointing. Let's make public schools better. There's got to be a better option than paying private groups with little to no accountability for them.

April Beeson, Mrs.

Self

Stamford, TX

PLEASE VOTE NO TO SCHOOL VOUCHERS!! It will do more harm than good to public education. Our students deserve better!!!

Christi Johnson, MS

Self

Burnet, TX

I am opposed to education savings accounts. I pay taxes to support public schools. I do not want my money to support private schools that have no accountability. The Legislature has underfunded public schools for years. It's time for the Legislature to step and do their job by fully funding public schools and providing teachers with much needed and deserved pay raises. NO SCHOOL VOUCHERS!

Cori Pratt

Self

Dallas, TX

I oppose vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

Stacy Castillo, Ms

self / attorney

San Antonio, TX

As a 5th generation Texan and a product of Texas public education (as are my parents, grandparents, and children), I strongly oppose the proposed ESA program for multiple reasons. The public schools in Texas are already grossly underfunded; our public school educators deserve substantial pay raises as well as increases in the retirement pension for retired educators. We should not be spending money on private schools. Any entity receiving public monies should be held to the same accountability (in testing, transparency, student performance, and spending). Some of the private schools I know take their students on annual trips (to London, Hawaii, NYC, etc) that are fully covered by the school. It is ridiculous to think that our tax payer money will essentially be subsidizing these kinds of trips for the private school students while the public school student is having programs cut! The other reason I oppose these ESAs is that the private schools are allowed to choose who they accept into their school. They are not required to take the disabled students, special education students, etc. Indeed, they can even choose to take only students who meet certain testing scores (ie only take high scorers/high achievers). That would skew any metrics when comparing private v. public school performance.

Public education is a public service, intended to provide our state with an educated citizenry - so that no one is left behind; it is not intended to be a business or run like a business. This voucher type program is the equivalent of me saying I don't like how the police department is run - please give me the equivalent of my portion of taxes spent on police so I can use that money for private security. Or give me my portion of taxes supporting the library so I can go to Barnes and Noble instead. Or give me the tax money spent on public/state parks so I can join a country club. See how that works? The taxes are meant to be spent on PUBLIC SERVICES which benefit EVERYONE, not a select few. If a parent wants to sent their child to private school, that is certainly their right (school choice has always been available), but it should not be subsidized by the Texas tax payer, especially when those private schools have no accountability or transparency and can pick and choose which students they admit. Our public schools deserve our unwavering support. Our public schools have been doing a fantastic job, despite the financial hardships that have been forced upon them. I expect our Texas representatives to support our hard working public educators and stop making it difficult for them to do their jobs and stop making them feel unappreciated. Our teachers and school personnel are providing essential public services to our littlest Texans. It is time you stand up for that.

De Anna Mondy
Dodd Elementary PTA
Wylie, TX

I oppose school vouchers in Texas. Public schools need more funding not less! This is an injustice to educators and school administrations across the state of Texas.

Rachel Allen
Self
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE VOUCHERS AND SB3. Why would we funnel public funds to private schools before we fund public schools? Most areas in Texas do not have access to private schools. Texas state Legislature makes public schools jump through hoops just to get the funding they are already owed. Public schools have to prove attendance in order to receive funding instead of basing it off of enrollment and you require public schools to take the STAAR test for funding as well. But you are willing to hand over money to private school children, not track their attendance and not require them to take standardized testing. How does that make sense? Why are you holding public school money hostage, so you can get this voucher scam passed. I personally know multiple multi-millionaires in the Tulsa, Oklahoma area that now use the voucher system, because why-not, it's available. They take $10,000 per private school kid in a state that is already ranked 50th in public school education. How is that not a scam? Why do you really want Texas to follow suit?

Erin Smith self - volunteer in public schools
Friendswood, TX

The great thing about the content of HB 3 is we have the benefit of not being the first state to look into this type of program. Several others have already implemented similar bills, with dismal results. The vast majority of families who utilize vouchers are ones that did not need them - they could already afford private schools. The poorer that would most benefit from school choice cannot afford most private schools even with vouchers as the balance after vouchers is still too high - not taking into account that many of those poor families do not have the support to know how to even get vouchers nor would they be able to get their kids to "the other side of town" to where the desired private schools are typically located.

The ones who most benefit from school choice/vouchers are the business people who are willing to open up private schools for profit - not because they care deeply about educating our nation's future leaders, but because they are looking at the opportunity to make more money. These schools often fail the students as the focus is on the profit and not the education.

Our state has purposely been withholding proper funding since at least 2019 (really longer than that if we want to get into how low Texas is on funding education) so that now representatives that want to line their pockets with money saved paying for their own kids' private schools, Mrs. Abbott can enjoy perks while sitting on the Board of a private school, and buddies earning money opening private schools, can say our public schools are suffering and we the public should be offered choices. We don't want new choices. We want our public schools properly funded. Every representative and senator in Texas (and our hypocritical leader, Abbott) knows the majority of Texans don't want this, that's why it was never put to a public vote. Those we have elected are no longer representing us. Fully and properly fund our public schools first.

Add on to this that the plan is to give more money per student to private schools than to public schools. There is no sound logic for this than to reduce the ability of public schools to do their job well and to help create an environment that sets private schools up for better success. In addition to this, will private schools accept children with IEPs and serve them properly? No, they don't have to. Those kids and their money can go to the private school, but then technically the public school system will still have to serve these children if called upon. This is so backwards. No one in their right mind truly thinks any of this is the right thing to do.

What happened to serving "we the people"? We the people did not ask for this. We do not want this. DO YOUR JOB. Do the right thing. As a Republican, I am embarrassed for this party. As a Christian, I am ashamed of this party - taking from children for years to build up wealthy adults' bank accounts.

I personally can afford private schools. I don't want your tainted dirty money.

Lynette Motte-Peters
AFT -Retired Public School Educator
Humble, TX

NO. We need public schools to serve all children. Public schools are regulated. Improvement can be made with support.

Casey Snyder
Household
Dallas, TX

Vote NO. Texas needs to fully invest and fund PUBLIC education. We consistently rank very low nationally for public education and this is unacceptable. Do NOT pass a bill to establish an education savings account. This primarily benefits wealthier Texans. Fully fund Texas public education now for a better tomorrow for all Texans. VOTE NO.

Michael Wilkins, Retired Teacher
Self
Goldthwaite, TX

I am against vouchers. It is not good for rural schools. You have done nothing significant to fix Public education.

Preston Horn
Mansfield ISD
Mansfield, TX

We've tried to pass ESAs in some form or another since 1957. It wasn't good for all Texans then, and it's not now. If you really care about helping the marginalized, put income limits in this bill, and then find a way to release more funds to public schools in some other way. Mansfield ISD approved it's first-ever deficit budget this year. It will get worse. David Cook co-authored this bill. Please ask him if he is happy defunding his hometown district.

Geri Brettmann
Self
Mansfield, TX

We need our schools to remain public.

Karen Porter
Self/Retired teacher
Azle, Tx, TX

Please vote no for school vouchers. We need a education that is available to all children in the state. We do not need to pull away from our public education funding. Texas already has school choice. Parents can choose any type of school they want for their children. If they choose private, then they pay for it. Taxes are to help Everyone go to school. That is why our educational system is better than any other country. We educate everyone. Other countries only educate their top level children. Follow the Texas constitution and fund public education we the people of Texas are against school vouchers governor Abbet quit trying to push what no one wants. You were supposed to represent us the people of Texas as are the representatives in the Texas house Represent your constituents. We do not want school vouchers.

Linda Way
Self
Georgetown, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 because it unfairly favors wealthy individuals and steals funds for public education.

Stephanie Wehner

PTA, Wylie ISD

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS/ESAs.

Marilyn Cobb, Retired teacher

Self

Lakeway, TX

Public money should be distributed ONLY to not-for-profit public schools! Withholding funds for several years now as a ransom for approving vouchers is unconscionable! And the future cost of these vouchers (& their administration) is an unknown (but predictably devastating) to taxpayers. GIVE IT UP! Stop wasting time & money trying to get this approved over the objections of the majority of Texans! Say NO to HB3 and any other attempt to take taxpayer funds from public schools!

Jessica Hillin

Self

Austin, TX

Reject this voucher system and supply our public schools better funding instead! This voucher system will dissolve our public education system and create unfair advantages to those who already have a leg up and can afford private institutions. We should be trying to bring everyone up instead of keeping the disadvantaged down. These kids are our future and we should invest in our public education system to help our future country have the best stewards. Taxpayers deserve excellent public education for all children! What about those kids who fall under section 504 and need IEPs, private institutions don't have to provide protections or equal opportunities for these children. Being forced into private institutions would leave so many children behind. REJECT THIS BILL!

CHRISTIAN-BELL LOUISA

Self

Houston, TX

This expands government, robs from public education, and will not create better educational outcomes (as it has not in other states implementing vouchers). Do not give more money to people leaving public schools than Texas currently does to children in public education seats. Please, please, decide to make Texas pickup education the best in the nation through investment, serious and experienced minds, and more appropriate relationships with testing companies. Texas is not made better by paying folks to further splinter the neighborhood, community school. Please don't do this - it's the one plank that urban and rural voters agree on.

Tracy Ryan

Self

Liberty Hill, TX

Vouchers are not right, I do not support private school vouchers

Gary PROFFITT

Self

Goldthwaite, TX

Please vote NO to school choice/vouchers and fully fund public education.

John Richardson

Self

The Colony, TX

If a parent wants to send their child to another school, the costs should be their financial responsibility and should not be subsidized by the state. Any voucher or savings program should be the same cost for educating a student and not depend on private school or public school status. Public school funding from the state should not penalize the local public schools if a parent chooses to send their student to another school. Property taxes should fund local school districts and not fund schools in other districts which penalizes the local school districts.

Vicki Cleland

Self

ALVIN, TX

Read the Texas Constitution

Mona Montgomery

Self

San Antonio, TX

No school vouchers. Public education must be equitable. No tax dollars should be used in private education.

Kenneth Langford

Self

Cypress, TX

Do not allow the voucher system.

Tonya Lambright

Self/Texas Teacher

Trenton, TX

Texas Teachers deserve a pay raise whether vouchers pass or not. I am finishing up my 12th year of teaching and I still do not make $60,000 a year. How is this possible? I'll tell you how; because Texas teachers are not a concern for our Texas Governor. How is it possible that someone who has a bachelor's degree and been in a job for almost 13 years still makes under $60,000 a year? Why are Texas teachers regarded by our state to be of such little value? I get to work every morning by 7:00. MANY evenings I don't leave work until well after 6 pm, then I go home and take care of my family. After that's done, I then grade papers and create lessons ON MY OWN TIME. I don't get paid for that. Regarding vouchers, you seriously cannot believe that a public school child is worth less money than a private school child, can you? Public school districts only get a little over $6,000 a school year per child to run their district. (Your numbers you have put out to the public are lies, and you know it.). However, you believe parents who want to send their kids to private schools should get over $10,000. HOW is a private school child worth more than a public school child? Also, public funds should NOT EVER pay for private school. Private school is a choice. If parents want their child to attend private school then those parents should find a way to pay for it. If I want my child to have private baseball or football lessons, I pay for that. The government doesn't help me. Why should parents (rich parents no doubt) be helped by the government to send their child to private school? Do the right thing Austin and vote to give Texas teachers a huge pay raise, but vote no for private school vouchers. DO BETTER GOVERNOR ABBOTT!

Krystal Sutton, Mrs.

Self/ educator

Garland, TX

HB 3 doesn't do enough to address the unique needs of special education students, particularly in underfunded districts. Special education programs often require additional funding, training, and resources, and if HB 3 does not sufficiently allocate resources to these areas, it could exacerbate inequities in education for students with disabilities.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Krystal Sutton

Persephone Barnett

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose school vouchers or saving accounts or anything other than supporting our public schools with more funding. Leave homeschoolers out of this. We choose to homeschool to keep the government out not to have more government involvement.

Sandal Stephenson

Self

Franklin, TX

I am very much opposed to the passage of HB 3. I am against sending public money, my tax money, to private schools. This bill is a voucher scam that will greatly hurt Texas public schools. Please vote down this bill.

Sharla Boyd, Dr.

Self

Lubbock, TX

Please vote against the education savings account program and protect public schools! The voucher program disproportionately harms lower income children, rural children, and kids with special needs. We need increased funding to strength public schools rather than lower amounts of funding for kids in public education.

Brenda Henricks

self - Librarian

Wolfforth, TX

Vouchers do not benefit the underserved or individuals with disabilities. From everything I have read and experienced in public education, this HB 3 takes resources from the poor and gives them to the wealthy. Abbott makes it sound appealing by offering money for private school tuition, but that amount will not cover the full cost of attendance. Consequently, many families who cannot afford to subsidize the remaining expenses will still have to send their children to public schools. These families pay taxes, but those funds are not being allocated to support their students adequately. Public schools were established and funded through tax contributions from all, and they are meant to serve all students/children in Texas, not just the wealthy. These funds are essential for hiring the best teachers, who often are not compensated fairly for their hard work. Public school students and teachers deserve better!

Amanda Killingsworth

Self

Brookston, TX

As a public educator and mother of public students it is disheartening how elected officials are ignoring the public and are trying to twist what should be common sense to fit their narrative. Any funding to put forth another education lane or however you want to say it is going to result unless funding for already underfunded schools. The schools have been targeted by the governor for one withholding any of the funding that could have benefited us unless we agreed with his agenda. It is common sense to open another lane means reducing funding for the majority of Texas students. The majority of Texas students and the future of Texas lies in public education. The public overwhelmingly says no to vouchers they see that this is not benefiting the majority of Texans. We see who this is benefiting. It is not to close any gap it is not out of the goodness of anyone's heart take a hard look because the public has at who this is actually benefiting it is not our students it is not the state of Texas. Any any voucher program is not for the benefit of the state of Texas. It saddens and sickens me every time I see common sense be cut off and talked down to by an elected official who the public can see and knows has an agenda and that agenda is not to benefit the majority of Texas it's not to benefit all Texas students as claimed we can see that we can run the numbers we know what's happening. Listen to your constituents listen to what is right and do what is right no matter what private agenda has been brought to you or what funding you have received do the right thing for all of Texas.

Pamala Sampert

TRTA

Whitesboro, TX

HB 3 needs to go to a vote of the citizen taxpayers of TEXAS!! NOT everyone wants vouchers, contrary to what the governor spins. NO VOUCHERS!!! Do NOT destroy public education!! Vouchers only help the rich, and hurt our rural schools. NO VOUCHERS!!

Wanda Wilkins

Self & all my retired co workers and family with public ed.

Goldthwaite, TX

I oppose vouchers and what people are trying to do against public education. As a retired paraprofessional, I have husband as retired coach, children who are in the professional. Hate it ruin it for them and the students nowadays. We live on our retirement and social security, what little we get, and hate to see it take away from us all. Please help save our professionals, public schools, retirees.

Kathy Major

Children and schools

Liberty Hill, TX

Please fight for public schools and against ESAs. This bill doesn't provide equitable choice and processes to achieve ESAs has hurt public schools at each step. Over 80% of public schools districts are having to drastically cut services and programs, not because of their inefficiency but because of unfunded mandates, arbitrary tax compression, and no new m/o funding over the last 6 years.

Additionally, information coming out of TEA on public school funding has been misleading. It illustrates all funding sources without clearly illustrating what cannot be used in any way other than line item application. Bonds cannot pay teacher salaries. PREK funds can't buy gas. It also includes ESSAR FUNDING that are no longer available. What it does not include are cuts to SHARS, fast growth funds, the lack of hold harmless due to tax compressions, and on going rules changes that take M AND O monies away.

In essence, the bills are NOT being paid for services rendered.

In addition, private school vendors are paying millions and pushing for ESAs which in turn benefit those businesses.

Parent choice is already available. If a parent does not choice a free, appropriate public education, they can choose a delivery system that fits their family;however, if they do not choice to engage my services, my choice is not to contribute to their choice elsewhere.

Fund Public schools first. It is your constitutional requirement.

Lori Alexander
Self - Teacher
Mont Belvieu, TX

As a Texas educator with 19 years of experience, I strongly oppose HB 3, which seeks to create an Education Savings Account (ESA) program. This bill is nothing more than a voucher scheme that will take taxpayer dollars away from public schools and redirect them to private and unregulated institutions. Public funds should support public schools—not private interests.

Texas public schools serve all students, regardless of income level, ability, or background. Private schools, on the other hand, are not required to accept all students, provide special education services, or follow the same academic and financial accountability standards. Yet HB 3 would allow taxpayer dollars to be used for private school tuition without ensuring those schools meet the same expectations as public institutions.

At a time when Texas ranks near the bottom in per-student funding, it is unacceptable to divert resources away from our public schools. Teachers are leaving the profession due to low salaries and overwhelming workloads. Schools are struggling with overcrowded classrooms, outdated materials, and a lack of essential student services. Instead of addressing these pressing issues, HB 3 would drain even more funding from the schools that serve the vast majority of Texas students.

Additionally, ESAs do not truly provide “school choice” for all families. They disproportionately benefit wealthier families who can already afford private school tuition, while lower-income families are left behind. Rural communities, where private school options are scarce or nonexistent, would suffer the most. The reality is that vouchers and ESAs do not expand opportunities—they widen inequities.

If Texas legislators truly care about education, they should be focused on fully funding public schools, raising teacher pay, and providing the resources students need to succeed. HB 3 fails to do any of these things. I strongly urge lawmakers to reject this harmful bill and prioritize real solutions that strengthen our public education system rather than dismantling it.

Desiree McAuley
Self
Plano, TX

I oppose bill HB 3, I have two children and am a 6th generation Texan. Voucher programs have been ineffective in other states. My tax dollars are meant for public services, not private companies. I want public schools fully funded, teachers pay increased and student lunches to be included. If someone wants their student to attend a private school, they already have a choice to send them there. Tax dollars should not be used towards private institutions. Im concerned this is the six or seventh hearing and it has been said 12 million dollars has been paid from outside our state to influence implementation of vouchers. Why is our elected governor still working towards something it's obvious his constituents are against? Is it the $12,000,000 paycheck he received? Is that what the millions of children's lives in our state is worth to him? Public taxes for public services. Say no to vouchers.

Heather Hullum
self
Fort Worth, TX

It is stated, “the bill would make no appropriation but could provide the legal basis for an appropriation of funds to implement the provisions of the bill.” Provide all legal basis for which an appropriation of funds to implement the provisions of this bill are applicable and the legal authority responsible for deciding the legal basis. In addition, provide how the appropriation of funds would be determined. I oppose HB3.

Erin Buchanan

My CHILD

Plano, TX

I am significantly opposed this program for the following reasons:

It pulls funding out of public education.

Private institutions (and therefore MY public dollars) are not held up to the same public scrutiny as public education.

Private institutions are not required to take the starr—accountability standards are different.

Public institutions are required to accept ALL students. Private are not.

ESA programs are not equitable. Countless small towns across Texas have NO access to private education, yet their schools will be the first penalized by this unconscionable funding pull.

Over time, in every state ESA programs have been attempted, they have proven unsuccessful.

The funders of this bill are not Texans. Texans DO NOT WANT THIS BILL.

Until the state can fully fund public education without strings attached, they should, in no way, shape, or form, be attempting to pull even more money from public education to benefit donors from outside the state and a precious few people who could already afford private education without an ESA program.

Shame on every single one of the legislators that votes for this bill. You're voting on our children's future and we won't forget.

Kathleen Smith

Self

McKinney, TX

My children thrived in public school. This bill presents a clear and present danger to our already struggling public school system. As proud Texans we should be pumping money into our public schools ensuring that EVERY student in the state receives the highest quality education money can buy! Every child in Texas deserves this and so much more! I want my tax dollars going to public schools for every child-not a fortunate few! Do the right thing by the children of this beautiful state-do not pass this bill!

Veronica Flaherty

Self

Flower Mound, TX

Do not pass! Public schools need funding

Matt Smith

Self

Mansfield, TX

Do not support school vouchers to pay for private schools. People have the choice to pick whatever school they want to send their kids to. Tax dollars should be used for public schools only.

Dawn Bennett

Self

Tioga, TX

I do not support HB 3. I only support public funds for public education!

Mary Shaddox, Ms.

Self/retired teacher

Wylie, TX

I taught in special education for 33 years. This bill will hurt all public school students but it will affect special education students even more. It will also affect students who are in low socioeconomic areas. The stipend won't help these students attend a public school. It won't be enough. The majority of counties within the state don't have a private school option. Public schools are already under funded. Teachers stay in education for the students but should be better paid. All students deserve a better education through public schools. Wealthy parents don't need to get a subsidy or stipend to attend a private school. Students in poor areas deserve an education just as much as those who live in affluent areas. If Texas wants a better workforce then Texas needs to fund public schools.

Larry Payne, Rev. Dr.

Self

Wolfforth, TX

The freedom of parents to choose their child's school does not require taxpayer money. Parents may change schools with a district, change districts, or vote out the school board. Public money should support public schools whose leaders are elected, not controlled by a corporation.

Joni Patterson, Teacher

Self

Stamford, TX

I have been an educator for 29 years. I believe in public school education, and I believe in the future of Texas. NO TO VOUCHERS!

Allyson Riley

Self

Lumberton, TX

I am a parent of an autistic student served by our local public school, and I am against HB 3. School districts in Texas have been underfunded since before the pandemic, and sending public taxpayer funds to private schools is not the answer to the issues public schools are facing.

My son receives services guaranteed to him by IDEA including instruction accommodations and speech and occupational therapy. Students like my son would not be accepted at private schools, because they are not required to meet his needs. Because we are in a rural area, there are no private schools within an hour drive that would accommodate his learning needs. This bill would only detract from an already struggling school budget, leading to more children like my son being underserved.

Texas children deserve the free, appropriate public education they are entitled to. That is not accomplished with this bill. Rural communities and already struggling students will suffer if this bill is passed. Republican legislators have had control of the Texas education system for 20 years, and have only themselves to blame for its faults. Fully fund the public education system so that schools can provide the services that are needed in their communities, instead of shuffling public taxpayer funds to private corporations who do not have to be accountable to your constituents.

Paula Wilder, Mrs.

Self retired teacher

Dickinson, TX

No vouchers!! Listen to the voters of Texas. Are we a state that can be bought by millionaires? No to both!!!

Lance Harris
Self
Kingwood, TX

This bill does NOT benefit ALL FAMILIES... only the ones deemed superior. Voucher schools will still be allowed to reject any student they deem inferior. How is that PARENT choice? Vouchers are about paying back the billionaires who bought all those Republican primary elections last year... See Jeff Yass! Do you think he gave Abbott all those millions because he loves Texas kids? This is about robbing taxpayers... NOT parent choice.

Gina Brustie, Dr
Self
Wylie, TX

I do not support school vouchers

Kathy Scott
Self - District school Administrator
Snyder, TX

I do not agree with this bill. We should not be using tax dollars for private education. If schools were funded adequately, we would not have many of the problems that we have. If parents want to take their children to a private school or home school them, that should be at their own personal expense not funded by taxpayers.

Roberta Gonzalez, CPNP, Certified Pediatric Nurse Practitioner
Self, Health advocate for children
San Antonio, Tx, TX

I am a concerned citizen, taxpayer and a health advocate for children as a Pediatric Nurse Practitioner. I am against HB3 School Vouchers for many reasons but will only discuss a few most important issues: 1.) lack of accessible private schools in low income and rural areas around Texas leaving those children out of the option; 2.) teachers are not required to be certified in charter schools; 3.) lack of assistance for children who require services protected by federal law (disabled, 504 plans, etc.) This does not align with Christian values of caring for those who can not care for themselves. I have many patients who require those services and cutting funding or taking funding from schools to support the wealthiest families who CAN afford private school is a disgrace.

Lezlee Moore, Teacher
Self
Knox City, TX

Please support Texas public schools and vote no to vouchers. All children deserve education they can count on.

Denise Klein
Myself
Danbury, TX

I am opposed to the idea of taking money from the public schools and providing vouchers. Instead, fund the public schools where they can meet the needs of the students. Public schools have not been given the funds needed to keep up with inflation, and teachers are tired of taking money out of their pockets to meet the needs of their students. As a teacher of 23+ years, I am also worried how this will affect my retirement.

I have not seen any evidence of vouchers working effectively in other states, so why do our political officials feel it will work in Texas.

Lawra Duy
Self
Dallas, TX

This is the worst idea for all Texas as it is for the entire country. Vouchers ARE NOT THE ANSWER for our kids!

Anita Knouse
Self - Retired Teacher
Livingston, TX

Private schools in our area do not help their students realize the mastery of education they need. Public education, the bedrock of our democracy, is undermined by the voucher system.

Tina Vanderburg
Self
PARIS, TX

PLEASE vote no to HB 3 and to support public education! Please take in to consideration ALL children. Children with disabilities, whether they are physical, mental, emotional, deserve to receive an education. HB3 puts programs for special needs children at risk of being lost. PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE VOTE NO TO HB3.

Paul-Anthony Middleton
TSTA
Del Valle, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House Committee on Public Education,

I urge you to oppose any form of school vouchers, no matter what they are called. Vouchers divert state tax dollars away from our neighborhood public schools and into private businesses, weakening the public education system that serves the vast majority of Texas students. Public funds should remain in public schools, where they benefit all children, not just a select few.

Please stand with Texas families and protect our public schools.

Adamaris Jimenez
Self
Paris, TX
Vote No!

Lynda Bauer
Self
Bellville, TX

I am adamantly opposed to this bill. I don't believe we should fund private school vouchers. We should fund publicly only public schools with tax dollars. Please listen to your constituents!!!!

Sharon Evans
Self
Early, TX
Vote NO on HB 3

Jayanthi Rapp

Self

Dallas, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Amanda Brummitt

self

Austin, TX

Please vote to oppose vouchers.

Amy Grubbs

Self, small business owner- LPC

Mansfield, TX

Governor Abbott, I urge you to reconsider HB 3, the Education Savings Account (ESA) bill, as it threatens the strength of Texas' public education system. Rather than expanding choices, HB 3 weakens public schools, lacks accountability, and diverts resources from those who need them most.

1. HB 3 Hurts Rural and Low-Income Communities

Texas' public schools serve all students, including those in rural areas where private schools do not exist. HB 3 diverts critical funding, leading to:

- School closures, forcing students to travel long distances.
- Teacher shortages, reducing educational quality.
- Cuts to special education, leaving vulnerable students without services.

Private school tuition often exceeds ESA amounts, meaning low-income families won't benefit—instead, HB 3 subsidizes wealthy families who already afford private schooling.

2. Lack of Oversight Leads to Waste and Fraud

States with similar programs, like Arizona, have reported widespread fraud, with funds spent on luxury goods, vacations, and non-educational expenses. HB 3 lacks safeguards, risking:

- Public funds being misused on unregulated services.
- Families exploiting loopholes, using tax dollars for non-education expenses.
- A two-tier education system, where well-off families benefit while public schools deteriorate.

Unlike public schools, private schools receiving ESA funds have no financial transparency requirements. Taxpayers should not fund a system without oversight.

3. Private Schools Can Discriminate

Texas public schools must serve every child, regardless of ability or background. Private schools, however, can reject students based on:

- Religion, gender identity, or sexual orientation.
- Disabilities, leaving special-needs students without options.
- Income level, favoring wealthier families.

Public dollars should not fund exclusionary institutions. HB 3 creates a system of discrimination, not choice.

4. Texans Oppose ESA-Style Vouchers

Texans have repeatedly rejected school voucher programs. In 2023, 21 Republican lawmakers joined Democrats to block a similar bill. Voters prioritize investing in public education, not diverting funds to private schools.

Even in conservative areas, parents support higher teacher salaries, safer schools, and better resources—not vouchers. Pushing HB 3 forward risks alienating rural voters, public school advocates, and moderate conservatives.

5. Strengthen Public Schools Instead of Weakening Them

If the goal is educational freedom, we should improve public education, not defund it. A better plan would:

- Raise teacher pay to recruit and retain quality educators.
- Expand Career & Technical Education (CTE) to give students real-world skills.
- Increase special education funding, ensuring every child gets the support they need.
- Invest in school safety and mental health services, addressing real parental concerns.

Real reform supports all students, not just those who can afford private education. HB 3 distracts

Martha Clay

Self/very concerned and rational parent

Austin, TX

This scam fits right in with efforts to make public school as terrible as possible. You are paid to represent all the people, not the three billionaires lining your pockets. Stop the lies - vouchers are not savings accounts; they are checks written to unqualified schools with terrible agendas

Sarah McElvain, LMSW

Self- private practice mental health clinician

Austin, TX

As a public school educator turned therapist, as well as a parent to two Texas children, I would like to urge the committee to vote NO to educational savings accounts. These vouchers are in support of a few privileged and come with irreversible deficits for the vast majority of families who cannot afford private schools, even with vouchers. What should be happening in this committee is the allocation of funds to public schools (as there is a surplus and school children's futures shouldn't be jeopardized). Increase the per student allotment, change funding to enrollment rather than daily attendance, and increase funding to be on par with the rising costs of inflation. Support public schools and the future of ALL Texas children by voting no to vouchers! Our communities depend on public schools.

Glenn Foster

Self and entire family

Alvin, TX

I believe this bill is embarrassing for ALL Texans. It just puts more money into the hands of a few privileged people, and sticks it to everyone else.

tamara blevins

Self

Houston, TX

Please support public education. NOT vouchers

Ronald Chalaire

Self

Paris, TX

I am opposed to HB 3. Please listen to the people and vote no to vouchers!!!

Miriam Kuznets

self, Psychotherapist

Austin, TX

This bill will not help impoverished or middle-classTexans; the state should be spending the money on improving public schools. I don't approve of my tax dollars or state congress supporting a bogus fund.

Tiffany Edwards, Mrs

Self

Runaway Bay, TX

No to vouchers

Carla Reasoner

Self

Grapevine, TX

Do the simple 5th grade math- $200divided by 8 classes= $25 per class divided by 187 days =.133689

That's a substantial funding increase!

No, that's moronic.

Linda Farral

Sekf

Watauga, TX

Voucher for private school education. So wrong!!!! I am sure it will pass. But don't short the public schools to fund. The cost of living since 2019 should be the amount of increase per student for funding public schools. And it should be more than that. Private schools don't have to admit disabled or special needs students or minorities or anyone that doesn't meet their standards. Don't leave the smaller schools floundering and having to close schools due to lack of funding. School size at public schools classes shouldn't have increase to make their budgets work. All Texas students should get a good education. Do not treat students in rural areas under these conditions. Give the school districts adequate funds to maintain their schools and provide necessary support, security and higher utility bills due to higher Oncor rates. Give the public schools a lot more funding. $220 more is a joke!!!! The Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and Secretary of State obviously don't care about all of the children in the state for education or the State of Texas wouldn't be in the bottom 10% of funding for the entire country of the U.S.. All Texas children need to have access to a better education. NOT JUST THOSE THAT GO TO PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

The legislators need to do better for all Texas citizens!

Justin Nuckols

Self

Amarillo, TX

I believe vouchers will perpetuate the lack of equity in our education system. They will no benefit students of low socioeconomic status or students in rural areas. Further, I believe better funding should be provided to our current public school system.

Sandi Newmon

Self

Garland, TX

School vouchers is not a good plan. Any plan that takes public tax dollars and hands it over to a private schools is wrong. Public dollars belong in public schools. Parents have a choice. It is a lie to say they don't have a choice.

I want my tax dollars to go to public schools. That is where public tax dollars belong---in public schools.

Elizabeth Turk

Self

Austin, TX

I do not support tax payer funded vouchers.

Rachael Shebeck Tonn

My 4 children

Wylie, TX

We do not want the voucher program. Keep the money in a public schools where it belong

Laura Arellano-Davis, Rev.

Self. Chaplain

Missouri City, TX

This state does not need a voucher program! It will hurt public schools, and send our public taxes to fund what is a PRIVATE choice and should therefore be privately funded.

Julie Germanio

Self

San Marcos, TX

I am writing to strongly oppose all efforts to implement school voucher programs in our state. School vouchers divert critical public school funds that are necessary to the success of our public schools in Texas.

It does not seem ethical that private schools would receive state money without being held to the same standards as our state public schools.

There is little evidence to show that voucher programs improve educational outcomes. If educating our children in Texas is the goal then we should invest that money back into public education, a system that benefits the majority of school age children in the state of Texas.

As a person who has had taught in a Texas public school for several years, I see first hand that these schools are more than just a place for an academic education. It is a place to not only learn new skills but gain confidence, get support from outside the home, and gain a community. As a teacher I am dedicated to my students, but I need the support of strong policies that prioritize education, not weaken or threaten it.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Julie Germanio

sue desai

self

Dallas, TX

I am against school vouchers for private school. This is not an education savings program. It's taxpayer dollars being given to parents to pay for private school. What if you don't live by a private school, as most Texas don't?? This is not giving families a choice! It's everyone paying for a small group of people to go to private school.

Arlene Tyndall

Self

Houston, TX

As a mother and teacher in a public school. I am against school vouchers. The program has not been successful in Colorado, Oklahoma and other states. It is not sustainable for public schools and equal education access. Many parents are two income households and to have them travel farther rather than ensuring safe transportation to their local school that has the funds to provide a safe learning environment and quality education, it's clear which would be better. Funding public schools especially those that fall under title 1 is more sustainable than the voucher system. Please please do not vote for this

Nikolas Fenster

self/property maintenance

Denton, TX

I oppose HB 3

Elizabeth Harris

Self

Kingwood, TX

Please do not pass this bill. Public funds belong in public schools. If a family wants to send their child to a private school, then the family should pay for it! Private schools are not help to the same accountability of public schools nor do they have to accept everyone. If private schools are going to receive public funding then they should be held to the same standards. Since that will never happen, please vote NO!

James Behlen

Self

Coppell, TX

Strong education has so many ripple effects. From the economy to crime. Passing vouchers while our schools are severely underfunded cannot be the solution. I know you've all the great reasons to fund public schools and not pass vouchers. Please do the right thing. Our children should not be a for profit product. Thank you.

Susan Scruggs

Famiies Engaged

Spring, TX

I'm a Republican from Montgomery County and I'm asking you to VOTE NO on HB3!

Republicans have always embraced the principles of limited government and 2ndly that Texans should make decisions on a local basis, because each community knows what's best for their area.

What's happened to these Republican principles? Have you all turned into Rinos?

With you folks voting in HB1605 last year, which places all curriculum in Texas under a newly created gov entity within the TEA, "We the People" and our steadfast Republican principles have been disregarded.

Now with HB3, the ESA bill, you want to take over all the schools in Texas, both private and home school with your exorbitantly expensive Voucher Scam.

These vouchers create Universal School Choice in Texas, whereby government chooses the student and school that qualifies for ESA's under the state's rules & regulations

Even Col. Allen West has taken a stand against HB3 and this new bloated gov entity, which ushers in control and money of government over Texas education. He states that School Choice and ESA's are against Plank 84 of the Republican Platform, which states parents are the decision makers of their child's education.

So my question to you is "Are you a Republican or NOT"? If you are a real Republican and not an Abbott Republican, you will vote NO on HB3.

Trudy Baggett

Self

Trenton, TX

This is not a good bill. Public funds should not be used for private schools. Also, it is not equitable fie to the lack of availability to our Rural students. Private schools not having the same requirements makes the system not fair / Equitable.

Heather Fuentes

Self- Medical Device Clinical Rep/R.N.

Ballinger, TX

HB3 should not pass as it will cripple the public school system further. If the intent is to elevate our education options as parents, then slash the extravagant money spent on the STAAR test for starters and allow teachers to teach. College professors comment how our children know how to take a test and that's about it. Why should they wait until college to actually begin to catch up to competitive nations? Vouchers for private schools will only allow those of higher income to attend private schools. The average Texan will not be able to pay additional tuition for private school. Yes, there should be a choice for parents on where their children attend- but could we not consider a way to achieve this without taking funds from the public education system? Education should be a top priority for all Texans - no matter where they attend. We can do better and this must be a priority for our future leaders.

Rebecca Welch
Wylie ISD Council of PTAs
Wylie, TX

This bill is robbing our public schools! Vouchers will destroy Texas! This bill is a spit in the face of our children and teachers!

Barbara Mainz
Retired Educator and Tax Payer
New Braunfels, TX

I am trying to comprehend how the most conservative republican could even consider establishing an Education Savings Plan while public school funding has not changed since 1997. Clearly the Texas people voted against vouchers, yet the Texas Republicans keep shoving down the tax payers throat! I listened to a former School Finance Director systematically explain where the tax payers throat! Fund public schools first!!! I do not want my tax payers dollars paid into a voucher system! Quit blaming school failure on Educators! The legislators pass the requirements for testing, non funded mandates, curriculum and “what” teachers should teach! It is the legislators and the Governors fault for NEVER listening to highly trained Educators “boots on the ground approach”. It is very clear that public education and private education have become the next Monopoly for the rich. It isn't designed for the best interest of families/child. If that were the case, public school would be a legislative priority! Children need funded programs in the public schools for extra curricular, special needs, free lunches for all, M&O for building in disrepair. God bless the rural schools that can't repair their schools, offer training for teachers, provide teacher pay incentives and function due to low ADA or lack of State funding. The marginalized children will be affected the most! There is an underlying reason why conservative Republicans want this finding for vouchers! We get it... but it is not for the families or children. We are losing teachers in the profession not only due to low teacher wages but, the demands put on them by Texas legislators that have not stepped into a public schools for classroom for decades. I want to let you know... yes we say the pledge every morning, yes we celebrate all the patriotic events, yes we stand by the raising flag for veterans day and most of all we force small children to learn how to bubble in test sheets to prepare for the mandatory testing legislators make children take while educators and parents say NO to testing! Will vouchers be the same way... a complete failure at the expense of tax payer dollars. In five years we will be spending from our tax dollars 5 M for a failed system. We dont need privatization of our public schools... we need the Texas Governor support for full funding of public schools!!! Property taxes are exuberant in Texas..... my dollars should go to public schools. Remember one thing... politicians have a job for the people. It is time for the career politicians to start listening to their constituents. No vouchers.... The fight has just begun .

Brenda Deneault
Public school mom
Wylie, TX

No vouchers!!! Keep our tax money in our public school system!!!

Jennifer Foley
Self
Arlington, TX

All money allocated for public schools should remain as such. No one wants vouchers and no one wants money taken from public systems and given to private. To do so would be a huge blow to our already low rated school systems.

Darla Holmberg-Abel, Dr.

Self, retired TRS school teacher & counselor; acting Tx public university faculty and LPC

Victoria, TX

Vouchers are a scam to take money away from our public schools and privatize them by large corporations who don't care about our children's education. All they care about is making money off the backs of the taxpayers. The voucher scam provides over $3,000 more per student than what the state is down allotting for each public school student. There are no or few private schools in rural areas and the public schools will be impacted the most. Furthermore, from my research, most private schools are about 20,000 a year consequently, only the wealthy who currently have their children to private school will benefit from this bill. Private schools are not required to follow strict guidelines such as providing education for students with disabilities, hiring only certified teachers, an educating all students regardless of who they are. Make public education better by finding it appropriately instead of taking more money away.

Amy Burrer

Self

Navasota, TX

Until public education is fully funded and supported, we cannot allow public dollars to support private entities. I am against this bill and any education bill that leaves out proper funding for public education.

Madisen Tucker

Self

Houston, TX

Thank you for serving on the public education committee. I ask that you vote no to HB3, SB2, or any voucher/ESA bill and instead prioritize fully funding public schools first by enrollment rather than attendance, increase the basic allotment by $1300 to catch up with inflation, and support strong teacher and staff pay raises. This bill allows people making above $160,000 to apply such that the richest families may benefit. Our tax dollars should support all students, not just a select few. Please prioritize strong public schools for all Texas children. Thank you for your time

Stacy Ramirez

Self

Kerrville, TX

NO to vouchers, this is welfare for the rich!

Heidi Reed, RN

Self-Registered Nurse

Helotes, TX

I have worked as a Registered Nurse for the last 19 years in public schools. I strongly suggest that before you spend millions of dollars on this voucher program that has a very LARGE opposition, you spend time in public schools. If public schools are failing, how about you listen to the people that work in public schools? How about you spend more money on materials for the classroom instead of spending millions on the STAAR assessment, which does NOT tell educators information they don't already know. Teachers spend countless hours with students every single day and 100% know the students that are low or high. Instead, you have chosen to not fund public schools effectively, and sadly you are now seeing the results of the gross mishandling of funds. In my district alone, in the last few years, nurses, art teachers, music teachers, STEM teachers, etc are being "split" between campuses. The very things proven to help students have been stripped and we wonder why public schools are failing??? We take away counselors and the one counselor we do have spends half of her time on testing instead of mental health counseling, which our students are in dire need of. Moving the "high" students with wealthy families to private schools will NOT help anyone. If public schools only accepted students who are high with no disabilities, no behavior issues, no learning disorders, etc, they would have just as high of scores as private schools. It is NOT the teachers or staff, this is a nation-wide issue. Every year, schools have more students with behavior issues, Autism, poor family dynamics, lack of housing and basic needs being met, lack of healthcare, increased single-parent families, and the list goes on and on. These challenges will not be solved by taking money away from public schools. Please consider the future of our children before you vote for this bill.

Heather Kelley, Mrs.

Self

Howe, TX

First, I appreciate that our government wants to help public education. I believe, after 24 years as a Texas educator and 13 years as a Texas public school student, that this is an imperative issue. However, as a lifelong Republican, I also disagree with the way this bill has been proposed.

Parents in our state DO have choice, though that choice may cause inconveniences. However, that is the reality of life sometimes. I do not believe that using money that could be helping to properly fund public education for private schools is fiscally responsible. It seems like more government, to which Republicans are supposed to be opposed.

I recognize that there are many issues with public education; however, those issues are not the norm in every single district. I've been in three districts: Two are excellent, one struggles, as a whole, to make decisions which are, in my opinion, best for students. I don't know how to fix that, but a blanket statement that "Texas public education is failing" is unjustified. I would really like to see some other options.

For example, could we offer tax cuts for parents who show evidence of payments made to an accredited private school? That way, money is still coming in to benefit public students, but parents are receiving a benefit for their child/children not utilizing public funds. Additionally, that would be a help for even those who are renters.

Or, could we cut property taxes? All parents will have more money in their pockets and can make the choice to utilize that money in the private schools of their choice without tying said private schools to the government. Many parents homeschool or use private schools specifically to avoid the government, yet this bill does the opposite of that.

As an example: If I feel that the public park does not meet my child's needs, does that mean I should qualify for using Park and Rec funds to build my own playground? No, sir. If the park is failing my child, there should be modifications to make it more inclusive. If those modifications are not met, there should be an investigation into the caretakers of that particular park and why they are failing. And, at its core, I believe that's essence of the issue being addressed right now.

I know this may sound harsh, but the money should NOT follow the child... Our entire society benefits from an educated public, therefore our whole society contributes to said public education. What about people like me who have never had children? If the money should follow the child, and there is no child for it to follow, then I should not have to pay taxes... But that's not rational, and I know that. I benefit from an educated public, whether I've given birth or not, and therefore I, like every other citizen, should be obligated to contribute to that public education.

Kim Johnson

Self - retired educator/ grandparent

Kemp, TX

I am in opposition to this bill. Keep public dollars in public schools.

Melinda Cox

Self

San Antonio, TX

Inflation in the United States has increased by 23.45% since 2019, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This means that the prices of goods and services are 1.23 times higher today than they were in 2019.

This also includes public education.. As a new public education trustee I am tasked with balancing the budget .. there is no balance when your expenses are higher than your input ..$220 is not going to offset inflation .. yes we are funded somewhere between $6100 and $10,000.. depending on the multiplier.. but again inflation!! As was mentioned yesterday, private schools raise tuition to account for inflation.. we need the Foundation Fund to do the same !

Sadie Wehner
PTA, Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

OPPOSE VOUCHERS, ESAs

Amanda Melton
TXPTA
San Antonio, TX

Our tax dollars should NEVER be used to fund private schools! Stop stealing from our children to fund private schools that are not held to the same standards and stipulations that public schools are. Public education should be supported and celebrated, not starved to line your donors' pockets!

Tawana Ford
Self
Spring, TX

Public tax dollars are scarce and should NEVER be given to private schools. I DO NOT support this voucher program. Texas can make public schools better by funding them properly and utilizing my tax dollars for public schools only. Private school parents do not want their students educated with public school students. As soon as this bill is passed, private schools will increase tuition and my tax dollars will be used to support families who are already sending their students to private school. Additionally, this bill is nothing more than a transfer of wealth from poor/middle class to the wealthy. Our education system should be the best in the world, but it's not. Our investment should include ALL students not only those with money. Please fund our public schools with tax dollars. Do not fund this bill.

Jimmy Martinez
Self
Richardson, TX

YOU'RE NOT LISTENING. This isn't what the vast majority of your constituents want. We want public schools to be fully funded and supported so ALL students, including those with special needs, those who require accommodations and those who live in rural areas without private schools, have access to quality education that prepares them for their futures. Quit ignoring us. This needs to be on a public ballot. Period. You will see for yourself how many are opposed to this.

Mary Marshall Martinez
Self
Richardson, TX

YOU'RE NOT LISTENING. This isn't what the vast majority of your constituents want. We want public schools to be fully funded and supported so ALL students, including those with special needs, those who require accommodations and those who live in rural areas without private schools, have access to quality education that prepares them for their futures. Quit ignoring us. This needs to be on a public ballot. Period. You will see for yourself how many are opposed to this.

Brent Wehner, Dr.
PTA, Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

OPPOSE BALLOTS

Dave Mason
self/retired
LEXINGTON, TX

Just say NO to vouchers and esa's..PUBLIC MONEY BELONGS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Beverly Riviello

Self
Buda, TX
Keep public dollars in public schools. ALL children have the right to an education!

Janet Railsback

Self
Nemo, TX
I am opposed to HB 3. I am from a small town and this bill will hurt our public school.
There are no requirements for private school testing unlike public schools. Private schools can select which students they want to accept unlike public schools.
And mostly I do not want my tax dollars to pay for private schools.
Parents have a choice where their child goes to school now.
Please vote against HB 3
Janet Railsback

Joyce Robinson

Self
Sour Lake, TX
No voucher. Put it on a fair ballot and let voters decide. Get the out of state money out of Texas.

Donna Scales

Self
Bridge City, TX
I whole-heartedly OPPOSE HB 3!
Public funds should NOT go to private entities to fund education any way or for any reason!

Jenny Box, RN

Self as parent
Grand Prairie, TX
This is nothing wanted by the people of Texas. Nothing is gained but much is lost. Fund Public Schools and leave the Private ones alone.

Christie Perkins

Self
San Antonio, TX
Keep public money in public schools.

Carol Fernandez

Self/Teacher retiring this year because of what my party has done to education in Texas
Spring, TX
As a 3rd generation Texan, I say NO to Vouchers! Public dollars belong in public schools. If HB3 passes, you are allowing our tax dollars to fund any form of schooling: radical Islamic schools, schools run by the Satanic Temple and homeschoolers like the Turpin family. Are you ready to open that Pandora's box and the dangerous consequences that will reverberate through Texas? 5 or 6 special sessions for something that no one wants, except the billionaire backers. Voting yes is a total misrepresentation of Article VII of our Texas Constitution.

Paul Benson, Dr
Self
Mansfield, TX

I strongly oppose any such bill that would be taking money from public education and placing it into the hands of private education. At a time when the current administration is dismantling the education department there's no explanation for taking money from public schools. Charter and private schools are attended by people with financial means to do so, and you would only be marginalizing public education even greater. I strongly oppose this bill.

Richard Pressman, Dr.
self, retired teacher
San Antonio, TX

I believe that the premise from which the pro-voucher folks are working is that offering "school choice" (even though there is plenty of choice within the public system) will create competition, which, in turn, will make public schools better. As a professional teacher, I never felt any pressure to work harder--because, like almost all teachers--I just wanted to do the best I could. If competition makes everything better, why do we not have two militaries, so they can compete with each other? Why not have two governments so THEY can compete with each other? The truth is that professional people overwhelmingly--of course with exceptions, as there are in any field. So the result is draining money away from the public schools is to make them worse, while giving a bonus to those families that can easily afford private-school tuition., Studies show that most charter schools do NOT do a better job than standard public schools, but mostly do worse. Private schools, even with vouchers, will be out of the reach of most people. Was it not the public-school system that allowed this country to take off, to be the most productive society in the world? We're just going backwards now!

Chris Melton
Self
San Antonio, TX

Stop sending our tax dollars to millionaire owners of private schools. Stop stealing public money from children.

Andra Villegas
Self
N Richlnd Hls, TX

No Vouchers!
How many Texans want this??
Not many.
Fund public schools-fully!!!
Do what is right!! Do you remember what is right????

Curtis Hodge
Self
Bastrop, TX

I do not think this is good for, teachers, parents and especially school children. I feel this will only bring division. Also if you can afford to send your children to a private school then why do they get additional money is not a fair deal. My wife worked in schools for years and she feels same way.. It will cause division as private schools can pick and choose who goes there. It's a disadvantage to lower income families.

Teri Payne
Swlf
Wolfforth, TX

I am strongly against the Texas school voucher program. This program diverts crucial public funds away from already underfunded public schools, worsening educational disparities and leaving the most vulnerable students behind. Instead of improving outcomes, vouchers primarily benefit wealthier families who can already afford private education, while rural and lower-income students—who often lack access to private schools—suffer from reduced resources, larger class sizes, and fewer educational opportunities. This system drains public education while failing to ensure accountability in private institutions, ultimately undermining the quality and accessibility of education for the majority of Texas children.

Samantha Cardenas
My child
Palestine, TX

NO VOTE NOOOO

Kayla Burns
SELF/ TEACHER
Kerrville, TX

Parents already have school choice. This bill is to provide for the parents that already send their students to private schools. Meanwhile, you will take money away from the public system. Texas already ranks in the bottom 10 in per-student public education funding. Lawmakers should focus on improving the funding disparities in our current system before implementing a new, private system. If a voucher is passed, our district will lose $532,915, meaning we would have to cut nine teachers, raising the student teacher ratio by almost 6%. As a 40 year Texas administrator/educator, I have watched students leave the public school system for private settings and, in most cases, returned to the public system farther behind. Our church currently has a private school in the church facility. The rigor and expectations of that school are minimal. Many times, I witness students napping on couches throughout the day in that setting. State standards are not being taught. One particular student's mother said they were returning to public schools because they only focused on RLA in the private setting. Recently, I tested a very young student for GT that came to us from a private setting. His parents stated that the move was to get him in a more challenging setting. He scored an 8 or 9 on every subtest of the CogAT and IOWA! The schools I have had the privilege of leading have been very successful and all have been Title 1. Our staff members meet students where they are and work hard to grow everyone. We have already lost staff members because funds have been withheld from the public setting. What a shame for kids?! Please do not vote for the voucher.

Stephanie Wehner

PTA

Wylie, TX

Committee Chair Buckley,

I heard you were shocked that you were boo-ed by PTA parents at the PTA rally day. I wasn't there, but I also was not shocked that they received you that way. Why? BECAUSE I AM A PARENT IN THE PUBLIC EDUCATION TRENCHES that you politicians refuse to listen to or talk to. Hi!

1. No to vouchers. Parents already have school choice between choosing public or private schools and PUBLIC TAX DOLLARS SHOULD STAY IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS. Why this even needs to be said by tax paying citizens shows how RIDICULOUSLY out of touch the politicians are with the average voter. And I am a conservative Republican for the love.
2. FULLY FUND PUBLIC SCHOOLS. I am a part of Wylie ISD in Wylie (not Abilene Wylie ISD), and Commissioner Morath just praised Wylie ISD (while testifying) for how much our educators accomplish with below average finances. IMAGINE what our educators could accomplish with FULL FUNDING in PUBLIC SCHOOLS. Again, why this needs to be stated is ridiculously asinine. Give public tax dollars ONLY to public schools and FULLY FUND them. Tomorrow.
3. Why on Earth are out of state organizations with political ties to Abbott giving money to campaigns and other things and trying to support/dictate what TEXANS do with TEXAS tax payer dollars?? Obscene.
4. If you lived in my House district, I would vote against you when you run again, just as I voted against Candy Noble this past election. Also? Be careful aligning yourself closely w Abbott if you want to be re-elected.
5. Last thing, I'm not sure how you sleep at night, especially being married to a public school educator. If she is a private school educator, then that tells me all I need to know about your character - meaning it's even worse than I thought because your family could personally benefit from these vouchers. Shame on you regardless.

Olivia Mayberry

Self, Spring Creek Texas Congress PTA 7764

Dallas, TX

I/we oppose House Bill 3 and its proposal to implement school vouchers in Texas. Public education is the foundation of a strong society, and it must remain fully funded and accessible to all children. Instead of diverting resources away from public schools, we should be working to strengthen and improve the system we already have. We need to ensure that every child in Texas has access to the resources, support, and opportunities they need to succeed, no matter their background.

Joann Wardlow

Self

Lavon, TX

Public funds should not be used for private schools. I am not in favor of vouchers. Public school need to be adequately funded. At this time they are not.

Irma Annillo, Ms

Lopez MS PTA

San Antonio, TX

Vouchers will HURT our public schools -

Gayland Taylor, Mr.

25's H.O.P.E

Mansfield, TX

Keep public funds for public schools and private funds for private schools.

Tammy Ventimiglia

Self - substitute teacher and mom

Mansfield, TX

Please do not do a disservice to the students of Texas and take money away from public schools!

Karen Nylec, Ms

Self retired

Van Alstyne, TX

Representing the people of Texas, was why you were voted in! Not to help the governor scam the people! The public schools need your help, no vouchers! Fund our public schools! Not the governor's pocket scam! We need a governor that is for the people of Texas, not just there to fill his own pockets!

Alexa Roser

Self

San Antonio, TX

School Vouchers will bankrupt our public schools. School Vouchers allow private schools to benefit from tax payer money where wealthy parents already send their kids to school and can afford it. Public schools will lose even more money than they already do. Special Education students are guaranteed a place in public schools and need that funding you help with their special needs where as private schools do not have to guarantee a place for special education students. Other states that have adopted the school voucher bill have stated that the private schools just raise their tuition the same amount if not more to keep their attendance with the wealthy families and not allow other families in, so who does this really benefit. I do not want School Vouchers. Both my school age children attend public schools and have been able to "choose" their school due to magney schools. If it is truly about having a choice where your kids get their education fund more of these programs. Thank you!

Shannon Anderson

Self

San Antonio, TX

Vouchers have failed public education in every state they have been implemented. Proving to increase divide among the educated and uneducated. School choice already exists! You can choose where your child gets their education and go private or charter if you want, but those that c a not choose because of cost or transportation still deserve an amazing Texas education! Texas can be the best in the education arena as well, don't we want to be the best everywhere? Say no to vouchers, this is not what your constituents want or need. Help make Texas public education the best in the United States.

Brian Mills

Self, former employee in higher education

Spring, TX

I was born and raised in Texas and both parents were public educators for 30+ years. This bill is one of the most shameful attempts by republicans to destroy public education and enrich wealthy donors at the same time that I have ever witnessed. Those supporting this bill are nothing more than glorified carpet baggers. Every state that has implemented this "choice program" has the same results of negatively impacted public education but it doesn't matter because it has never been about public education. The corruption around this bill is outright criminal. This bill is about removing as educated voters from the state as possible while removing many opportunities for advancement of the poor and people of color or those with disabilities. It is disgusting and shame on all of you. You support this bill knowing full well it is wrong both morally and ethically but that is not surprising anymore. Your contempt for the people is as bright as day and it is just heartbreaking that so many people ignore your blatant classism/racism/sexism/ableism and continue to vote for you. Just absolutely pathetic state "leadership."

Shanti Day
Self attorney
San Antonio, TX

I am a product of public school in Texas. My children are currently attending public school in Texas. We can afford private school and choose public. We are very much against school vouchers as they would ultimately hurt education for all children in Texas. Doesn't every kid deserve a good education?

Charles Moffatt, Mr.
Self
Austin, Tx 78737 Usa, TX

As a retired Educator of 35+ years at all levels from 5th grade to Graduate School, I am expressing my opposition to this bill. Vote NO! This piece of legislation has been put forward, in one form or another at least 10 times in multiple sessions. So far the Governor and his supporters receive an "F" in learning the lesson and in critical thinking. "We the people" have spoken! Now listen before you are served remedial discipline. The children of our state deserve the guarantee of an equal education. The public school teachers deserve a living wage. And to be Frank, retired teachers are suffering because of a paltry 2-4% COL raise last year after 18 years of no adjustment. Frankly this is criminal.

Deanna Mazzocco
Self
San Antonio, TX

Please leave public dollars in public schools! Parents already have choices. Don't forget separation of church and state!

Andrea Schwartz
Self Retired Librarian
Austin, TX

Please vote no on this bill. Public dollars belong in public schools.

Marianne Whitehouse
Self
Clarksville, TX

I've been in public Ed in Texas since 1977. I've seen a lot of things come to pass that weren't in the best interest of all students, but I've never seen anything as grossly unfair as using public funds for private entities. It's so obvious that this is a crony vendor money grab. Please, for all that is good and right, vote no on this disastrous bill and fully fund public education with public taxpayer funds.

GLENNA Howell
The majority of Texans who are against school vouchers.
TAYLOR, TX

Once again, it's geared for the rich. Who us going to own the private schools? Churches? Texas billionaires? Large corporations? All the money pulled from the public school systems will hinder public schools. Unless the private schools are in minority neighborhoods they aren't helping the poor. Most will have no way to get to them. What will happen to the public schools? Well, with less students comes less money. With less money teachers will be fired. Supplies will dwindle and become obsolete. Schools will have to close and combine. Students are no longer getting a decent education. Without a higher education, it will be hard for them to succeed post education. And what does that do? It will turn the clock back to the 1800s. You want the poor, immigrants, and women to bow down and kiss your boots while thanking you for letting you rule over them. It's supposed to work the other way. YOU WORK FOR US AND THE MAJORITY DOES NOT WANT SCHOOL VOUCHERS.

Kay Irlas
Self/Retired Texas Educator
Krugerville, TX

As a Texas Public Educator, with 35 years experience, I am OPPOSED to this Bill establishing vouchers.

Brittany Bethea, Registered Pharmacist
Self
Beaumont, TX

As a parent of a 9th grader a 6th grader at Legacy Christian Academy in Beaumont, I'm all FOR the school vouchers. Transferring my 2 children from the public school system in Houston to the private school in which they're now enrolled has been life changing in a very positive way. My children have excelled tremendously and I must say it was the best decision I've ever made regarding their educations. My mother was heavy on getting an excellent education and I too am a product of having received a private, Christian education. I know firsthand what a private education did for myself and I know that I want better for my children (just as my mother did for me). I've been a Certified Special Education Teacher in Texas in the past and I too know firsthand what goes on and what does not go on in the public school systems. I work my behind off daily as a single parent so that I can send my kids to Legacy Christian Academy and I strongly feel that if any great parent truly wants their child/children to be successful, one must do what one has to do in order to make it happen. The school vouchers are definitely needed in Texas to assist any and every parent that wants their child/children to succeed in life.

Andrew Stone
Self. Retired military officer/ veteran
LINDALE, TX

VOTE NO on HB 3. Under-funding the public education system via the Educational Savings Account programs/ vouchers in Texas is a threat to the next generation of Texas residents. A quality public education system is the great equalizer in our State and the Nation— diversity in economic, family, and ideological backgrounds enriches students' lives and makes them more productive members of society at large. Polarization harms children. The ESAs/ vouchers threatens public school funding by forcing public schools to choose where to cut programs. Should the public schools restrict UIL extracurricular activities or protect vocational training programs? Do they reduce the number of busses or cut special needs support? Hire fewer teachers or raise property taxes to accommodate population growth? Contrary to popular sound bites stating that ESAs will hurt the most vulnerable students (whose programs are mandated by and funded in part via Federal or State funds), I think it is more likely that the majority of students—many of them the highest-performing—will suffer consequences of public school defunding through ESAs. They will have fewer educational, academic, STEAM, and vocational programs available for them. They will still have school lunches; will still have special needs programs; will still have sports. Football will be protected. Low-income families desiring to use ESAs for private education will be forced to either increase spending on transportation to/from school or accept attendance at closer/ under-funded schools with school busses; the same will apply to those with special needs, since private schools are not required to provide these programs even with the ESAs. Vote no on HB3.

Amy Cobb
Travis County
Pflugerville, TX

Public funds belong to public schools. The wealthy will be fine. Please give everyone a shot at success.

Dawn Lewis
Self
San Marcos, TX

NO SCHOOL VOUCHERS!
SCAM!!!!!!!!!!

Jennifer Strich

Self

Katy, TX

I do NOT support the voucher bill which will negatively impact our public schools. Please think about the children. We do not need to subsidize private school, we need to invest in education for all in public school

Karen Schneider

Self

San Angelo, TX

This bill doesn't offer choice - it sets up a new bureaucracy to funnel tax money to placement agencies, while selecting fewer than 2% of Texas students to participate.

Pavla Guggenheim

self

Lakeway, TX

I strongly oppose SB2 and HB3, which would divert public funds to private schools through education savings accounts. These bills threaten to undermine Texas' already underfunded public schools, taking away critical resources from the majority of students who rely on them.

Taxpayer dollars should be used to strengthen our public education system, ensuring every child has access to quality teachers, well-funded classrooms, and necessary support services, not subsidizing private institutions that lack accountability and can selectively admit students.

Rather than funneling money into a program that benefits a select few, Texas should focus on increasing teacher pay, improving school infrastructure, and expanding educational opportunities within public schools. Our priority should be to invest in the success of all Texas students, not just those who can afford private tuition.

I urge lawmakers to reject these voucher programs and instead commit to fully funding public education for every child in our state. - Pavla Guggenheim

Andrea Solka

Self

Coppell, TX

Oppose this bill and vouchers

Brenda Spradling

Self

San Antonio, TX

Calling vouchers or ESA's "school choice" is preying on the uninformed parent. Parents already have choices, lots of choices. Funding some students or educational institutions more than others sends the message that not all students are equal. As a country working daily to unite why would the State of Texas pass legislation that doesn't treat all students as equal by funding them the same. As someone who volunteers, substitutes in schools and now works for a youth mentoring organization it is clear that the current education system and lack of funding is targeting certain groups. Not everyone can afford or has the ability to send their students to anything other than their neighborhood public school. Neighborhood public school, what a brilliant concept that should be preserved with equal funding for all the receive educational tax dollars. Private and homeschool are personal choices that have no business taking public funds, they choose that path because they've always had school choice. I will never understand why my children's educational institution, public schools, are valued less than all others. Please vote to support all students and children equally because they deserve it.

Karen Jurgensen
AFT
Lockhart, TX

Please do not pass a voucher system. Instead invest more money in public schools.

Jamie messner
Self /parent
Canadian, TX

I oppose the HB 3 Bill
Please fully & adequately fund public education.

Rachel Davis
Self
Arlington, TX

Please record my OPPOSITION to HB3.

I am a 10 year homeschooling mom of five. Texas Homeschool Coalition DOES NOT represent me or any homeschooling families in my extensive homeschool community consisting of families all across the state of Texas. Not only that, but my network also consists of many highly involved public school parents - some even on school boards - teachers, and coaches who are also vehemently opposed to this bill. My heart breaks for my many close friends who are special needs parents who already desperately fight through needless red tape to gain access to state assistance programs for their children as they now watch the public school special needs programs they rely on put in danger.

When you have homeschooling parents, who are traditionally a very religious and conservative group, siding with Texas democrats on an issue, you might want to take notice.

As a child, I was homeschooled, I attended public school, and I attended private school. The majority of that time, my family was a one income family. Yet my parents never met any barriers they couldn't overcome when making decisions about the place of my education. They could FREELY CHOOSE, as I and every other Texan can now, where and how their children were educated.

I have listened to horror stories from homeschooling families in other states where school choice programs have been implemented causing them to be subjected to excessive state intrusion despite promises that would never be the case (as we are being promised here). Texas boasts the most freedom for homeschoolers of any state in the country and our children thrive because of it.

HB3 will create a mountain of problems for homeschoolers, public schools, private schools, special needs parents, teachers, students, and the list goes on.

Texans are overwhelmingly opposed to this bill and on behalf of myself, fellow homeschoolers, my public school friends, and my private school friends, so am I.

If it is thought to be such a popular idea, put it on a ballot. Otherwise, HB3 needs to die in committee.

Vote NO on HB3

Janet Anders
Self
Mckinney, TX

As a taxpayer and registered voter in the state of Texas, I OPPOSE HB3. Tax dollars should not be used to fund vouchers, which will mostly benefit the wealthy. Having taught inner city for years, I know that the poor cannot afford to pay the extra costs above a voucher amount. This has been sold as "school choice" but it is a handout for the wealthy. Private schools do not have to take all kids and will select those who fit into their school culture and will match their clientele. Again, I OPPOSE HB3 and any other legislation to provide vouchers for private schools. I will not vote for any Republican in the future who supports these voucher schemes.

Marie Crawford
Self
San Antonio, TX

You should be fully funding public schools. This charter shit and education savings account shit is ridiculous. I work at a school in n the registration office. I see these kids that leave to try charter schools. They always come back. They come back saying how the charter promises to help their kids, but never do.

All y'all are doing is failing more kids.

Brian Lott self - real estate agent
Benbrook, TX

Do not jeopardize my TRS retirement account.
Tax funds should not be used for private education - SEPARATE is SEPARATE.
Tax funds are for a PUBLIC Fair and Appropriate Education.

Amy Herrin
Self - independent contractor
Flower Mound, TX

My name is Amy Herrin and I am a stakeholder of Lewisville ISD and mother to two school-age children. I am advocating for educational equity amongst traditional public schools, charter schools or vouchers where entities and/or individuals receive public funds, and against the diversion of taxpayer dollars to private entities who are not required to comply with Texas Education Code, ensuring transparency and accountability.

Public dollars require public accountability. Texas public schools are held to rigorous accountability standards. Ensure any diversion of public funds to a non-publicly accountable individual and/or institution will require compliance to all state accountability measures and state requirements already placed on public schools.

Vouchers remove dollars from public schools that are already underfunded by the state - Texas ranks in the bottom 10 nationally for per-pupil spending - $4,000 per student below the national average. The cost of voucher programs accelerates quickly - Texas budget officials estimated that costs for the voucher plan proposed earlier this year would double in three years.

Please do not establish a voucher program that will not only remove more dollars from our severely underfunded public schools, but will also primarily benefit those who can afford private education. Please do what is right and properly fund public education. Strong public schools are the bedrock of our communities and Texas schoolchildren such as mine deserve to have well-funded schools. Please prove self-serving interests of a few wealthy individuals are not the only motivating force in the Texas legislature. Do what is right and what makes sense for our public schools and do not vote to establish this program.

Caitlin Dougherty, Dr.
Self/Teacher Education Scholar
Dallas, TX

As a teacher educator, researcher, and former middle school teacher, I am writing to urge you to oppose the inclusion of educational savings accounts (ESAs) in House Bill 3. Voucher-style programs like ESAs have been implemented in other states, and research shows they fail to deliver the promised benefits while draining critical funding from public schools. Texas should not follow this failed model.

For example, Indiana's voucher program, one of the largest in the country, has been widely studied, and the results are concerning. A study conducted by the University of Notre Dame found that students who used vouchers to transfer to private schools experienced significant declines in math achievement and no improvement in English scores. The study also highlighted how vouchers disproportionately benefited wealthier families, despite being marketed as a program for low-income students. Similarly, research on Ohio's voucher program found that students who participated in the program performed worse academically than their public school peers.

Beyond academic outcomes, ESAs pose serious financial risks to Texas' public education system. Public schools rely on consistent funding to pay for teachers, classroom resources, and special education services. When funds are diverted to private institutions—many of which are not required to accept all students, follow the same curriculum standards, or provide the same level of accountability—our public schools suffer. A 2023 report from the National Bureau of Economic Research concluded that large-scale voucher programs often exacerbate inequality and increase segregation, further undermining public education. Rather than adopting a program that has been shown to weaken public schools and produce poor academic outcomes, I urge you to invest in policies that strengthen our public education system. Increasing funding for teacher salaries, reducing classroom sizes, and expanding resources for special education would have a far greater impact on student success than diverting taxpayer dollars to unaccountable private institutions.

I respectfully ask that you vote to remove the ESA provisions from House Bill 3 and support legislation that truly benefits all Texas students. Thank you for your time and service to our community.

Sincerely,
Caitie Dougherty, Ph.D.

Maria Garcia
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Vote no! Texas public schools need the money to make Texans smarter! Our educational system can seriously use funds to improve curriculum and scores. The rich already pay for private schools. They already made a choice. Do what is best for our average citizens and their kids. Education over political dollars!!

Brendy Corley
Self
Dallas, TX

Do not do this. Most Texans do not support this. This will only benefit the wealthy. Keep the funding in our public schools.

Kim Klataske
Self / Admin Manager
Austin, TX

I am opposed to an education savings account because it would disproportionately benefit the wealthy at the expense of the less privileged constituents, and those with special needs. Private schools that can select which students they would like to serve should not receive public funding. This will also strain public schools even further, making life harder for teachers and those left behind. It will also negatively affect those in rural areas who do not have private school options.

Amanda Johnston
Self
Houston, TX

Reject this bill. Support public schools.

Derinda Nickel

Self/teacher

Saginaw, TX

NO to vouchers and ESA's! Listen to the people!

Danielle Pothoff

Self

Austin, TX

Vote no to school vouchers. It will defund public schools and harm our children.

Heather Chesney

self, I am a mom and community volunteer

Austin, TX

As a public school mom, a graduate of public schools and committed school and community volunteer, I strongly encourage you to reject the education savings account program and instead fully-fund our public school system and increase the per student allotment. I have seen first hand the good work being done in our state's public schools, and I know the hard budget choices already being made. Please do what is best for ALL students in Texas by assuring that our school system is strong.

Mandie Sanchez

Self

Round Rock, TX

Vouchers will only benefit families who can already afford private education while siphoning funds from desperately underfunded public schools. As a Texan, whose entire family are products of the public education system, I implore you all to vote against the establishment of a voucher program. Please fund public education for our children and our future in accordance with the Texas constitution.

Kimberly Eisma, Ms.

Self - legal assistant

Wylie, TX

I think this should be voted on by the citizens of Texas and not decided by lawmakers

Rebecca Forchione

self, photo producer

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose diverting public funds to private schools, period. I am a Texas voter and I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates, not divert funds to unaccountable private and religious schools, under the guise of "school choice". The "choice" is not equitable, and many children in rural areas with no private school, and special needs children needing accommodations will have money taken from them - money so direly needed by our public education system in Texas. Virtually every other state that has created a voucher system with the limited guardrails you are proposing has seen a decimation of their public school systems and increasing burden to their state budgets. We don't want any of that here in Texas. As you overwhelmingly heard yesterday in the session from so many testimonies, PLEASE fund our public schools and do not pass the voucher bill out of committee.

Jaime Cutler
Self / Wealth management client service
Irving, TX

Bad ideas come from both sides of the aisle and this is one of them. Take 30 seconds to scroll comments on this issue on social media (Facebook) and Texans are not fooled and do not support this. I hail from a small rural Texas community (Colorado County) where every dollar counts of federal funding for our schools. There is not a private school option, nor would many of the residents be able to afford the rates of the average private school. As a mom of two children in Dallas county presently, we can afford private school and we do not expect a handout from the state. Again, this is something we have in our family budget and I would rather see taxpayer dollars go where they are NEEDED. That is communities like my hometown. Please listen to your constituents.

Blake Benson
Self social worker
Mansfield, TX

As a parent with two children that need specialized dyslexia instruction provided graciously by the public school system, I ask that you not remove ANY funds from public education. Private schools most often do not provide specialized and crucial instruction to students with learning disabilities. This specialized instruction is extremely expensive and not accessible to so many families whose children must have this instruction to succeed and graduate high school. Removing any funding from public schools threatens the availability of these critical programs and specially trained teachers. One in every five school aged children have been proven to struggle with a learning difference that effects their ability to learn to read and succeed in school and life as an adult. Please do not cut or move any funds from public education. Education is a human right that needs to be able to be accessed equally to all citizens. Do not increase the education gap by removing funds from public education that provide all students with equal access to countless educational and artistic opportunities that they otherwise would not have access to. Thank you

Larry Landusky
Retired
Lubbock, TX

I see absolutely no reason for my tax dollars to go towards vouchers. No other state that has them has seen any increase in private education mainly because the 98% of public school students cannot afford private schools even with vouchers. And there is no requirement of private schools to accommodate children with learning disabilities of all kinds. I know a man who went through public education in Slaton ISD who has dyslexia. Were it not for teachers that patiently helped him through school, we would not now be benefitting from his 12 patents. He is working on one now that when finished will absolutely change the world as we know it. Instead of vouchers, we need to definitely pour as much money as possible into our public schools. Some overlooked child who has no money has a natural curiosity for genes and might be the one that can create an absolute cure for cancer. Why benefit the wealthy even more than they already are?

Brandon Sprinkel, Mr
Wylie PTA
Wylie, TX

We do NOT want your vouchers!!!!

Cynthia Weber, Educator - Retired
AFT Retirees
Corpus Christi, TX

I stand with Public Education and I say NO to vouchers! You should too! The Texas Public Schools are already underfunded! Vouchers will take money from the public schools just like reducing the property taxes! The basic allotment for our students is only around $6500 while the private school students will get $10,000 at our children's & tax payers expense! How does that make sense? If the wealthy want to send their children to a religious private school- that's great but at their own cost! The voucher is merely a huge discount coupon for them!! Please stand up for the 5.5 million students and not your donors! Back off from your vouchers, Governor!

Teresa Rios, Mrs.

Self/Family

Liberty Hill, TX

I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

If the reason for vouchers is truly schools choice, then additional accountability measures must be added to the bill.

Measures such as:

1. No elected official past, present or future nor any family member by blood or marriage may financially benefit from the ESA program in any way, direct or indirect.
2. No family with a child currently enrolled in an education entity other than a Texas public school may use an ESA. They already have choice and they use it.
3. No education entity may deny admittance to a child choosing to use an ESA
4. No education entity admitting a child via an ESA may dismiss the child during the current school year
5. Any education entity that dismisses or denies continued enrollment to a child using an ESA before 5 years or graduation must fully refund the state plus a 25% penalty
6. Any education entity that accepts a child via an ESA must abide by the same rules, policies and procedures as every public school.

Autumn Sutherlin, Dr.

Self

ABILENE, TX

I do not support tax payer dollars going to private schools or home school education. I believe public education and the opportunities provided are the key to American success. I believe that many of the schools that the funds would go to are not a good educational choice for Texas's future success.

Alyssa Rios
self, teacher
Liberty Hill, TX

I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools, which serve 5.4 million Texas students.

ESAs divert vital funding from public schools, worsen budget shortfalls, and increase disparities, particularly in low-income areas. Private schools funded by ESAs lack transparency and accountability, risking misuse of taxpayer money. ESAs primarily benefit wealthier families, leaving low-income, rural and disabled students in underfunded public schools. They also risk increasing segregation by allowing private schools to exclude marginalized groups including disability populations.

Please prioritize funding public education for the benefit of all Texas students.

If the reason for vouchers is truly schools choice, then additional accountability measures must be added to the bill.

Measures such as:

1. No elected official past, present or future nor any family member by blood or marriage may financially benefit from the ESA program in any way, direct or indirect.
2. No family with a child currently enrolled in an education entity other than a Texas public school may use an ESA. They already have choice and they use it.
3. No education entity may deny admittance to a child choosing to use an ESA
4. No education entity admitting a child via an ESA may dismiss the child during the current school year
5. Any education entity that dismisses or denies continued enrollment to a child using an ESA before 5 years or graduation must fully refund the state plus a 25% penalty
6. Any education entity that accepts a child via an ESA must abide by the same rules, policies and procedures as every public school.

L. Marie Lebron
Self, COO
Austin, TX

I am a mother of four children in Austin ISD—each of whom receives special education services. I am a public school volunteer, advocate, and child advocate. And I am furious.

Every single lawmaker in Texas should be ashamed. Our wonderful and beloved Texas public schools have become The Hunger Games, with our children and their futures held hostage and used as political pawns. I watched yesterday's HB2 testimony, where intelligent, dedicated people stood before you like Oliver Twist: "Please sir, can we have some more?" Meanwhile, lawmakers seemingly expect gratitude for a measly $220 increase to the basic allotment—a number so out of touch with inflation and actual district needs that it's insulting.

Let me be clear: We need and demand better.

- A minimum $1,300 increase to the basic allotment—because anything less keeps districts in crisis. Our districts need more than $1,300 increase to the basic allotment.
- A transportation funding increase that reflects actual costs—because the last adjustment was made when gas was $1.00 and bus drivers made $6.50/hour. Today, districts pay drivers $24/hour minimum, and we all know gas prices are not a dollar.
- An increase in special education funding—because our kids deserve the services and supports they are legally entitled to.
- Higher teacher pay—because we cannot retain educators when they're underpaid and overworked.
- Reimbursement for special education evaluations—because districts shouldn't have to fight for what they're required by law to provide.
- Full funding for Dual Language programs—because our multilingual students deserve access to a high-quality education.
- A complete revamp of recapture—because Austin ISD is paying over $900 million annually while unable to afford to educate its own students.

You were elected to lead. Start acting like it. Do your jobs and fully fund our schools.

Benjamin Holder

Self - Consultant

Dallas, TX

Vouchers or ESAs to allow for private school funding is a harm to our state and my children. There's no conclusive evidence that vouchers improve the achievement of students who use them to attend private school. Nor is there any validity to claims that, by creating a "competitive marketplace" for students, vouchers force public schools to improve. In fact, the most dramatic improvements in student achievement have occurred in places where vouchers do not exist.

Private schools have almost complete autonomy with regard to how they operate: who they teach, what they teach, how they teach, how (if at all) they measure student achievement, how they manage their finances, and what they are required to disclose to parents and the public. You would be handing public money to organizations with no oversight that the parents were able to choose and the management were freely allowed to discriminate in enrollment and education content.

This won't save money. Vouchers / ESAs increase costs, by requiring taxpayers to fund two school systems, one public and one private. If you fund this from something other than the public school budget - that's funds that could go to other much needed areas. Private schools are ungodly expensive, they don't need our money and when you hand them taxpayer money, they're likely to just increase tuition by 10K to pull in more revenue and offer a more exclusive experience.

A private ESA doesn't give me more choice. I live where I live. I can only drive so far to take my kid to school I can't shop around to get the best deal like on a car. This a daily grind issue.

Don't waste taxpayers money providing more handouts to private organizations. Fix and support our public schools. They are the backbone of society.

Chelsea Cardenas

Self

San Angelo, TX

We do not support student vouchers

Marcella Hayden

Self

Cumby, TX

Vote no. This will be disruptive at best to our children's constitutional right to a free and equal education.

Coleman Julian
Self Executive Director Non-profit
Canadian, TX

To the Members of the Texas House Public Education Committee,

My name is Coleman Julian, and I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB 3 and to urge you to fully and adequately fund public education. As someone who has spent time as an educator in the private sector, I have seen firsthand the differences in resources, access, and outcomes between private and public schools. While private schools serve an important role for some families, the foundation of a strong and thriving society is built on a well-funded and equitable public education system that serves all students, not just those who can afford tuition or gain access to selective programs.

HB 3 represents a dangerous step toward privatizing a vital public service—our public schools. School vouchers will drain already limited public funds from our public education system, disproportionately harming the most vulnerable students and communities. Rural schools and low-income districts are already operating with limited resources, and diverting public dollars to private schools will only widen the gap between well-funded and underfunded schools. Rural schools in particular are often the heart of their communities, providing not only education but also stability, jobs, and community resources. The loss of funding due to vouchers will be a direct attack on these communities, many of which are already struggling to keep schools open and staffed.

Furthermore, private schools are not held to the same standards of accountability, transparency, or inclusion as public schools. They are not required to accept all students, including those with disabilities, behavioral challenges, or learning differences. Diverting public funds to institutions that are not required to serve all students equally is fundamentally unjust. This will create a two-tiered system of education in Texas—one for the wealthy and privileged, and one for everyone else.

Texas public schools are already underfunded. Our teachers are underpaid, our school buildings are in need of repair, and many students are going without basic resources. Fully and adequately funding public education should be the legislature's top priority—not creating a system that undermines public schools in favor of private interests.

This is not just about education—it's about the future of Texas. Every child in this state, regardless of zip code, family income, or background, deserves the opportunity to succeed. HB 3 represents a targeted attack on rural communities and working-class families. It prioritizes profit over people and threatens the very foundation of equal opportunity in our state.

I urge you to reject HB 3 and commit to fully and adequately funding Texas public schools. Public education is the foundation of a strong democracy and a thriving state. Texas families are counting on you to stand up for our schools, our students, and our communities.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Coleman Julian

Robert Criswell
Self
Mckinney, TX

Bill will hurt education and the children of our state. I was a 40 year educator with the last 20 as a superintendent. This idea is racist. Making education for the elite.

Jennifer Adams
Self - retired teacher
Austin, TX

The voucher program is a gift to wealthy Texans who don't need help. I am opposed to a voucher savings account as it would lead to the collapse of the public schools and the public welfare and the health of the teacher retirement system that my very existence depends on. I oppose HB 3.

Lindsey Cullison

Self

Richmond, TX

Please listen to the majority of your constituents and vote 'No' on HB 3. Using public funds to provide vouchers for private schools will ruin our public school system. I am a proud Texan, product of public Texas schools and a three-time graduate of Texas A&M University. I am also a public school teacher who believes that all students deserve a quality education. Are there ways to improve public schools? Yes. Can we and should we do better? Yes. Is taking funding from already underfunded public schools the answer? No.

Amy Burrer

Self

Navasota, TX

Texas public education isn't been fully supported or funded in over 20 years. Therefore, we cannot look to disperse public funds privately with an expectation of success. I am against this bill and any that provide public funds for private education.

lee Kaplan, Mr

Self

Houston, TX

Support public education, Before you give some rich people my hard earned money

Charlotte Ballard

Self

Tomball, TX

I oppose HB3. The state constitution demands a free public education for all Texans for the benefit of our society. Texas has failed to adequately support public schools for years under Gov. Abbott. Public schools are facing closures and economic failure. Your duty is to reverse this devastation immediately. Do not think we are fooled by semantics calling vouchers "school choice." Do not think that we are unaware this is the donor class of billionaires forcing this. Texans keep telling you not to do this. We know what you are denying: voucher bills are a tax break for the wealthy among us. They will not benefit the poor underclass which actually needs government services best provided through public schools. You have manufactured the lie that public schools are failing through the nefarious STAAR testing mania and the school report card system. You have manipulated your propaganda by openly disparaging public schools and dehumanizing public school teachers. You've had the luxury of running state government for too long to produce a war on public schools. We are very aware. We are angry at the governor, the Lt. governor, and Republican leaders who are waging war on public education. Do your duty to kids who do not have time for you all to fart around and waste their precious school years on your political games. Kids are not political pawns. They deserve better from you.

Denise Rhodes, Mrs.

Self

Hurst, TX

I am a retired but currently working retired public school educator of 40 years. I am a conservative voter however I am NOT in favor of school vouchers. This would crack the foundation of public schools in Texas. Private schools do not play by the same rules public schools must thus it is discriminatory for those "left behind". While the idea of vouchers sounds great on the surface, the children and families left behind will be hurting. Texas underfunds public school needs already compared to other states and to continue stealing from public schools is atrocious. Let's make Texas stronger, not weaker!

Abigail Johnson

Self

Wylie, TX

No vouchers for schools

Gail Hastings
self, business owner
Austin, TX

Public funds should stay with children in Texas public schools. Please vote down any voucher scheme that diverts tax dollars from Texas public schools.

Dory Holzapfel
Slef
Highland Village, TX

Texas needs to fully fund the public school system and day NO to this voucher scam! The proposed bill will do nothing to improve the options and opportunities for the millions of Texas students, it will only deplete the resources needed to fully staff and take care of all students. The people of Texas have repeatedly shown that we do not support this bill, and the governor knows it. Stop pandering to outside funding and instead focus on positively impacted the actual constituents that pay taxes in this state.

Brenda Kleinhans
Self
Richmond, TX
NO VOUCHERS!

Daniel Harper
Self
Burleson, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Alyssa Barbosa
Self. Attorney
Arlington, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools, students that rely on school programs, and teachers.

Gwenette J Kane
Self
San Angelo, TX

Please vote NO on vouchers. Look at the effects on the Arizona education budget. Fully fund public schools.

Miranda Martin
TEPSA
Colleyville, TX

Our schools need funds to improve our materials and training to provide top level instruction. Instead of sending our students away from public schools, fully fund us so all students can get the education they deserve. Public educators have the interest of ALL students at heart, no matter their income, race, IQ, or religion. We love and respect them all, and we need the funding to do so. Vouchers will take away from our mission and ability to attain our goals!

Julie MOYERS

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I am very opposed to school vouchers which will undermine the educational system of Texas. The premise that private education is superior to a neighborhood school is a strike against our democratic belief in a strong education for all. If the finances are placed in the local, public schools, the educational opportunities for every child will be raised. If teachers receive significant pay increases, competition for jobs in education will increase the quality of each class. Do not take necessary funding increases from the public schools for the wellbeing of every child in Texas. Vote NO to an educational savings account program now and forever!

Patricia Baust

Self

Northlake, TX

No on school vouchers

Amber Blair

Self HR Specialist

Benbrook, TX

I strongly oppose HB3. This legislation is detrimental to all students who utilize the public school system. This legislation is elitist and privileges only the wealthy citizens of Texas. Everyone deserves equal access to a supported and funded public school system.

Elizabeth Riley

Self

Plano, TX

This would be terrible if passed. I can't believe it is even being considered to make so many Texas students suffer. Don't let this pass!

Jack Simmons

self

Austin, TX

Instituting a voucher program almost exclusively harms public schools. It does not make fiscal sense and it does not make moral sense. Our public schools are already incredibly strained financially, and this will only serve to increase that burden. It is so blatantly a way for rich families to monopolize good education for their children at the detriment to everyone else.

Jenny Stremmer Jackson, Ms.

Texas PTA

Dallas, TX

I lived in Oklahoma when they decided to pass a voucher system in their state and the outcomes have been less than desirable. Teachers have no planning period, because the funding used to hire teachers is being given to individual families. Taking away 10 students from a high school teacher's 150, was enough to lose a whole position. Class sizes are in the 40s in high schools in that state. As a Texas native, I don't want my state falling behind in public education. I want us to continue to have a strong economy with people born and raised here leading the way. Without strong public schools businesses won't want to move in and we won't have the educated workforce we need to be successful. No federal vouchers please!

Henry Simmons

Self - attorney

Austin, TX

I'm a former bill drafter for the legislature.

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools

Carol Crawford Crawford

Self Retired

Round Rock, TX

I am against HB 3. Monies should be spent on public education rather than going towards someone's private education. Our state benefits when our citizens have strong public education system where we're assured of high Academic Standards for everyone.

Maria Solano

self

wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS & NO TO SB3

Jana Taylor

self-attorney

Murphy, TX

NO to Vouchers!!!

Oliver Escobar

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Glenn Hutchinson, Dr

self/professor

Fort Worth, TX

Please vote against this bill. It will have a negative effect upon public education. They are already starting to plan school closings in Fort Worth. Parents are mobilizing, and we are disappointed that Austin is not supporting our public schools enough.

Mary Guerra, Mrs.

Self

McAllen, TX

Please do not pass this bill. It will be devastating to public education. This will impact students, teachers, administrators, custodians, support staff and even retired teachers. It will also devastate our economy. Thank you for your attention

Maria Rodriguez

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Stacey Dehoyos

self

NEWARK, TX

While I understand that HB3 is proposed with the intent of reforming education funding, I believe that its provisions are short-sighted and will ultimately harm the very students it seeks to support. The bill includes measures that could significantly reduce funding for critical school services and programs that benefit students, particularly in lower-income and underserved communities like ours. The financial constraints imposed by this bill will make it harder for our district to maintain vital resources such as special education, counseling services, and extracurricular activities. These programs provide crucial support that helps students grow academically, socially, and emotionally.

Moreover, HB3 does not adequately address the growing need for equitable funding across Texas school districts. Many schools, especially those in rural or economically disadvantaged areas, are already facing budget shortfalls. If this bill passes, these schools will be even further disadvantaged, widening the gap in educational opportunities and exacerbating the inequalities that exist within our state's education system.

As a community, we have worked tirelessly to create an environment where every student, regardless of background, has access to quality education. However, HB3's funding model will make it more difficult to achieve this goal. The bill prioritizes certain areas of funding that will not directly benefit classrooms or students, leaving our educators to work with fewer resources, fewer support staff, and fewer opportunities for innovation and improvement.

In addition, HB3 fails to adequately increase teacher compensation, which is critical to attracting and retaining the talented educators who are the backbone of our schools. Without competitive salaries and proper support, Texas will continue to face a teacher shortage that undermines the quality of education and puts additional strain on schools and communities.

I urge you to reconsider the potential consequences of HB3 on our school community and the broader educational landscape in Texas. It is essential that we invest in all students, providing equitable opportunities and resources to help them succeed. Rather than limiting funding, we should be working to expand it, ensuring that every child in Texas has access to the quality education they deserve.

Please stand with students, teachers, and families across Texas by opposing HB3 !

Tamra McKlveen

self

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS & NO TO SB3

Cristin Stewart

Self

Mansfield, TX

I am against HB3. This is not in the best interest of children.

Alyne Jacob

Self

Wylie, TX

No to HB3. Our tax dollars should go to public schools as not enough is being done. There are areas that aren't receiving the right class room setting for behaviorally challenged children because there isn't enough resources to help with this

Jill Reynolds

Self

Benbrook, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Janice Smith
Self Retired Public School Teacher
Weatherford, TX

I oppose the allocation of public funds to private schools. Schools are already a choice, but private schools should not be paid for with public funds. Please support and fund our public schools.

Barb Schmidt Schmidt
Coppell ISD
Coppell, TX

Vouchers will destroy the public schools. Please increase the per student allowance which has been stagnant since 2019. If vouchers do happen then public school funding needs to be equivalent with $10,000 per student given to public schools.

STEVEN LEUNG
self
MISSOURI CITY, TX

How can we as Texans be so short sighted? We identify as Texans and we pride ourselves as Texans. But in order to keep our state strong and to raise strong Texans, we cannot take funding away from the public schools that shape our state and country's future. Allowing parents to choose where to send their kids and how to spend their money and make the best choice for themselves is important. But taking money away from public school systems where our state's children rely on is not the right pocket to pull from. By doing so, we will be reducing, eliminating, removing the success stories and potential from each and every one of our kids. Every child needs all the resources that we can provide them to succeed. Please look at this as if they're your own blood... you'd never hamstring your own child from success and potential. We've seen what becomes of this... look at our neighbor Louisiana.

Think about the children with disabilities who do not even have the option to go to a private school that'll suit their needs. Maybe they don't live close to one. Maybe they applied but didn't get in. Maybe... maybe there isn't even a private school that can specialize in what that child needs. The public system may have its flaws, but the system is in place to provide for these kids. The system needs to be improved, bought up... not put down and handcuffed or else we'll be taking away their futures, and their potential.

Don't do this. We need to increase funding for public schools. We need to pay our teachers for their worth. We need to strengthen our future by investing in our children.

This is sad. This is wrong. These are our kids. Don't mess with Texas we say. I plead you to 'Don't mess with our Texan children.'

Jessica Livesay
Self
Tioga, TX

I do not support HB 3. I propose you fund the school system in place and governed by our state elected officials.

Marquee Crandall
Wylie ISD PTA member
Wylie, TX

No vouchers. Our public schools deserve now then what they are given and taking more money from them is not the right thing

Jared Talton
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB3, let's keep tax payer money in public schools.

Diane Juul
Self
Austin, TX

This bill will hurt public schools. It will unfavorably affect Texans who depend on our public school system. I oppose HB 3 by Buckley.

Destiny Barnett
Wylie isd
Wylie, TX

'NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO SB3" please support our public schools and staff

Krista Bennett, Principal
Self--Principal--Rural School District
Lubbock, TX

As a principal of a public school district in a rural community, I have the opportunity to make a difference in lives of students every day. I am blessed with students who come from a wide variety of backgrounds, lifestyles, cultures, and ethnicities. I also represent students who display a wide array of cognitive, social/emotional, and physical abilities including students who are receiving special education, 504, ESL, and GT services. My teachers and staff are truly among some of the highest quality educators possible. I have many concerns about House Bill 3. The public education system is already struggling and instead of investing in the future; the solution that House Bill 3 provides is to strip taxpayer dollars from already-poorly funded public schools. PUBLIC means that it is a service we are provide to ALL students. I continuously hear that it should be a PARENT choice of where to send their students. I couldn't agree more. Parents should get to choose in which case they already do. Parents can choose to send their student to the public school (FREE of charge) or to a private school (if they can afford it), or homeschool. I've also researched into the options of private schools in my area for students (including my own children solely out of curiosity) and as a family making 6 figures, we would struggle significantly to send our students to private school with the remainder of the cost after the application of the "scholarship." My greatest concern and question for politicians proposing and passing this bill is----How is this benefitting society and Texas as a whole over time? Please use my tax dollars to fund public school districts. Increase teacher pay, provide curriculum and materials, increase support staff in areas of SPED, 504, ESL, and GT programs, and allow administrators to make decisions for what is best for their campuses. Invest in the future of Texas---invest in ALL students! Public schools are for everyone and I can tell you that I UNCONDITIONALLY support ALL students who walk through my halls. Regardless of what decisions you make, I will continue to do so, but eventually you will be losing the educators who are compassionate enough to teach through your lack of support. Then what? When this fails---which it will, what will you have gained from it? Think beyond the moment, beyond your personal families or relations, and consider how you can TRULY benefit ALL students in Texas. HB 3 simply is not the answer.

Dani Gerhardt
Self
Paris, TX

I OPPOSE! Please don't take away from our public schools! Oppose oppose oppose!

Robert Spalten
None
Austin, TX

Texans are overwhelmingly opposed to school vouchers. They hurt public schools and over privilege private schools. Do not allow Texas' education system to be destroyed by this!

Jessica Ringgenberg
Self
Dallas, TX

This degrades our public education and the future workforce of our state and country. I DO NOT support this bill.

Ashley Howard
self Elementary Prinicipal Levelland ISD
Lubbock, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to school vouchers, which threaten to divert critical funding away from our already underfunded public schools. As a concerned citizen and advocate for public education, I urge you to reject any legislation that promotes school voucher programs.

For Levelland ISD alone, vouchers will cost an estimated $1,074,128—a staggering amount that our district cannot afford to lose. Statewide, the cost of vouchers is projected to balloon to $4 billion by 2030, further exacerbating the financial strain on Texas' public schools. Given that Texas already ranks among the bottom 10 states in per-student public education funding, we cannot afford to experiment with policies that siphon money away from the majority of students who rely on public education.

Levelland ISD, like many Texas districts, is already facing challenges due to inadequate funding. We struggle to retain quality teachers because salaries remain uncompetitive. Our schools need updated technology, additional mental health resources, and infrastructure improvements—yet these needs go unmet due to budget constraints. Taking more money away from our district will only worsen these issues, harming the very students our state should be prioritizing.

Public schools educate over 90% of Texas students and serve as the backbone of our communities. Rather than funneling taxpayer dollars to private and unregulated institutions, we should be investing in our public schools to ensure all students—regardless of their zip code or socioeconomic status—have access to a high-quality education.

I urge you to stand with Texas students, teachers, and families by opposing school vouchers. Please support policies that strengthen public education rather than weaken it. Our students deserve better.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Lex-Anne Vogel
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools

Donna Oelfke
Self
Georgetown, TX

As you all know, the majority of Texans do NOT want vouchers. We believe in and want public education and we want better (honest) funding for our public schools. We want teachers to be paid a fair living wage. We want libraries back in schools. (See NES Mike Miles fiasco in Houston). You won't put it to a vote by citizens because you know you won't win. We adamantly disapprove of privatizing our children's education. We adamantly disapprove of the corruption currently at work in our (OUR, we the people's) State House and coming from our corrupt (see billionaires Wilks and Dunn) governor. NO VOUCHERS!

Kaci Brown
Self, Director of Revenue Hilton Hotels
Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS & NO TO SB3

Keep government out of private schools! Fund our public schools! At minimum, make this fair and let Texans vote on it. You are going to turn us blue simply by turning all your voters away from their previous support of the Governor. Is it worth it to line the pockets of your out-of-state billionaire donors?!

Amanda Wiegel
Self, Nurse Practitioner
Houston, TX

Please vote against the school voucher, so called "school choice" bill. Our public schools have already suffered from budget cuts and siphoning funding to private schools will only cause them to deteriorate further. These vouchers will only further the divide between children born to rich versus poor families. Every child deserves equal access to a quality education, and our focus should be on improving all public schools.

Enzo Ussery
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I aka third grade student in FWISD. My school might already close because there is not enough money in the district. If you pass this, what will I do? Please vote no.

Edna Cavazos, Ms.
Self
Sinton, TX

Please vote against it

Tamara Bowles
self - teacher
WYLIE, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO SB3

Amy Zehnder
Self
Austin, TX

I am firmly opposed to any form of voucher or education savings program that redirects money from public to private schools. I oppose this bill.

Caroline Eaves
Self, Assistant Principal
Gilmer, TX

If this is implemented, my school district will loose $474,524 to private schools which are not held to the same accountability standards. This could mean 8 fewer teachers for students, 9,510 fewer library books and increase in student-teacher ratio of 5.13%. In addition, this does not address the already starved system. Students are not commodities in a free market place. We must look at real solutions that will solve the real problem in the state of Texas. $220 as the proposed increase of the basic allotment does not cover the rising costs of inflation. The basic allotment needs to be raised by at least $1,300. We as Texans say no to vouchers and HB 3.

Ramona Lampley

Self

San Antonio, TX

Vouchers will have a devastating effect on public schools. For years the Republican Party and GW Bush have considered public education as the lifeblood of our civilized democracy. The good work done there paves the way for community, for future jobs and for the opportunity for every American to achieve the American Dream. Economists predict that a voucher program parents can use for unregulated, private schools will have a devastating economic impact on public schools. As a parent with three children, I have witness great teachers leaving school due to underfunding and lack of resources.

Texas should also be concerned about supporting an unregulated educational environment. What standards will these private schools use? How will they be measured? What are the criteria of accountability?

When public schools succeed, community succeeds and the economy grows. Vote against vouchers, vote against defunding public schools.

Robin Manuel

Self- Dallas County College District Employee

Rowlett, TX

Texas House Bill 3 is a direct attack on public schools and will have devastating consequences for our education system. By pushing for school vouchers, this bill takes critical funding away from public schools, which are already underfunded and struggling to meet the needs of all students. Vouchers are not the answer — they divert resources away from the schools that serve the majority of Texas children and give tax dollars to private institutions that are not accountable to the public.

It's clear that Governor Greg Abbott is forcing this harmful agenda on the people of Texas, despite bipartisan opposition. A growing number of Texans, including both Democrats and Republicans, have voiced their concern and opposition to vouchers. Abbott's attempt to ignore the will of the public is a blatant disregard for what's best for our children, our teachers, and our communities. Public schools need more support, not less. If this bill passes, it will only widen the gap in educational equity and further harm the students who need it most.

We need to focus on strengthening our public schools, increasing funding, and ensuring every child has access to a quality education, not undermining the very system that serves the majority of Texas families.

Kacey Depriest

Self

Brenham, TX

Under no circumstance is a voucher good for Texas public education. As a parent with two children and one under the American disabilities act who lived in katyisd while they attended school, the public school system could not even provide what they required to under federal law. Those of us oil industry professionals see the value in public education for an entry into a successful workforce. Gov. Abbott is so out of touch with parents and professionals in his state. Redistributing public dollars for private interests hurts everyone in the long run. Public education will continue to fail and Texas will be met with a generation of Texans unable to support themselves, which leads to 1) poverty 2) crime 3) declining health 4) increased use of state services to ensure every Texan's safety. Without spending the additional funds to correct what vouchers produce will end in a humanitarian nightmare. I have lived in so many places with the oil industry and Texas by far has been the most disappointing, poorly educated, ass backwards state with no regard for the people bringing in the income. I could not wait to have my children fulfill their higher education elsewhere. My daughter receives her doctorate in 2026, she refuses to return to Texas, my son with his tech degree refuses as well. This is what the current administration is doing to education and you haven't even begun to experience the long term consequences. What the legislature does now determines the path for Texas. Explain to Texans how subsidizing private education for people who can already afford to pay for private education (like me) will help raise the test scores, quality of life, employability of a student who relies on a defunded public education. My kids are grown and I'm happy to pay my taxes to ensure intelligent, hard working, WELL ROUNDED students fill the work force locally. I have no doubt the voucher kids will head directly out of state when given the opportunity.

Lynette Schwarz

Self

Plano, TX

I have two grandsons who are in elementary school in Plano ISD. Their school is wonderful. Their school is welcoming. Their school has community. Their school is inclusive. Their school is diverse. I sent my children to private school that I paid for. I never needed or wanted for the state to pay for the private education. I want my public funds to stay in public schools. My daughter is a speech pathologist in the schools. That is where the support is needed. All those funds should be sent to OUR public schools. DO NOT PASS HB 3!

Pat Sarp

Self

Arlington, TX

As a former TX public school employee I know this bill will devastate education for poor and special needs students. I attended private elementary school and my parents paid for it. Private schools should remain private. FUND public schools to the level they deserve. Texas, and her students, deserve no less.

Natalie Requenez

self, coordinator

THE COLONY, TX

Strongly oppose. Do Better

Kristin Rea

Self and teacher

Wylie, TX

No to HB 3; No to vouchers

Brooke Hughes

Self - Student Director

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS NO TO SB3

Jan Casner

Self

Dallas, TX

PLEASE do not establish education savings accounts. We do not need to send billions of public money to private schools. We need to adequately fund our public schools. This is not an acceptable use of our tax money, funding schools that are open to all children, our public schools, is what our tax money should be used for.

Laura Perry, Dr.

Retired CFISD principal

Cypress, TX

I support public schools! I do not support using public money for private schools. Parents should spend their own money if they insist on sending their children to private schools. My tax dollars should support PUBLIC education. Greg Abbott needs to properly fund public schools instead of taking money away from them for his personal agenda that most Texans do NOT support. Both conservatives and liberals are against school vouchers. They will not serve our schools and students. They will harm public education, even more that Abbott has harmed them by holding public funds hostage to push for his personal agenda. Please adequately fund public education with tax money, so that districts and schools can properly service the diversity of their populations.

Carla Bremer, Ms.

Self-Retired Public School Principal in Texas

Dallas,, TX

As a retired Texas Public School Principal and a product of K-12 Texas public schools myself, I am firmly opposed to the Education Savings Account Program. Instead of passing a bill that would take funding away from public schools (as students who secure a voucher leave their current public school), the Texas Legislature and Gov. Abbott should focus on providing exemplary funding to our Texas public school system in order to prepare our students to be the best prepared for the future that they can be. Texas public schools, their educators , their students and parents deserve the very best. A “voucher” program is not that.

Melanie Burford

Self

McKinney, TX

I strongly oppose the savings account program, which is starving public schools and many, many children and educators.

Brandon McElroy

Self/audit manager

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Justin May

self, manufacturing

Lavon, TX

Vote no on HB3. School vouchers will hurt public schools, which hurts the students, teachers, and families

Lindsay Gibson

Self/Counselor

Wylie, TX

It will not benefit students who receive sped services. They will not get the necessary intervention in a private school and there will a be lack of school funding for intervention services. Private schools will go up and parents will have to pay the remaining balance for their children. Educational salaries may decrease due to lack of funding and there will not be enough educators to teach due to lacking resources.

Marcie Miller

Self, Associate Professor

Lubbock, TX

I oppose HB 3 and hope my representatives will too. Please vote to fully fund public education. Public money should be kept in our public schools. We do not want education savings accounts or vouchers. In my area, public schools are hurting and could greatly benefit from an increase in funding. If money is available for education, it should be put toward public schools. Thank you for your time and service.

Sascha Terry

McMillan Junior High School

Wylie, TX

I am opposed to HB3. I do not want to see public funds set aside to aid private schools. My children go to public schools and I do not want to see my money go to private schools or education programs that my family is not connected with.

Erin Pitts
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am writing to express my opposition to HB 3. As both a public educator and a parent of children in the public education system, I have never been more disappointed in our state's support for the constitutionally established public education system. My husband and I moved to Texas over 16 years ago while I was pursuing my Master's degree at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. After completing my degree, I chose to work in Texas' public education system, driven by my passion to serve students and my desire to model Christian values that define my life. My calling is to serve the students and families in my community.

We chose to stay in Texas—despite not being native to this state—because of the value and support Texas places on public education. I have consistently shared with friends, family, and colleagues how much I admired Texas' commitment to public schools. However, I can no longer say the same as I watch policies like HB 3 unfold.

Public dollars should not be diverted to private educational institutions. If private citizens choose to support or donate to a private institution and then those institutions choose to use those funds for scholarships, wonderful.

Public schools have long been held to rigorous accountability measures—through assessments like STAAR, student achievement benchmarks, and financial accountability reports required by the Texas Education Agency (TEA). These accountability measures have been outline through HB 22, FIRST, and TAPR. HB 3 ensures that private and homeschool entities are exempt from these same measures. This raises a critical question: Why are public schools subjected to these measures, but private entities are not? How can we ensure true accountability for taxpayer dollars with this bill?

While there has been talk of supporting public schools, we have seen little in the way of substantial funding. This lack of support continues to be evident in the absence of in the failure to adequately adjust student allotments for inflation since 2019.

If we are truly committed to public education, let us start by fully funding our public schools in a way that reflects the constitutional rights of every student in Texas. Once we've done that, we can have a meaningful conversation about equitable accountability for all educational opportunities that receive taxpayer funding which may include an educational savings program.

This legislation represents an opportunity to either continue the harm being done to public education, and Texas students by extension, or to set a new standard of support for Texas students. Public educators are desperately asking for support. We give tirelessly to our students, often at our own expense of both time and money. Texas has not shown the same level of commitment.

I urge you to consider the long-term impact of HB 3 on Texas' public education system and the future of our students. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Ross Lynds, Dr.
Self/physician
Fort Worth, TX

There were many republicans in opposition but the pro voucher folks are not listening so we have to OBSTRUCT. I will bring you more ways to do that. But today, I just need you to register your opposition.

"I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Candace Ryan
Self
Wylie, TX

No to SB3 and no to vouchers.

Jennifer Torres
Wylie ISD PTA
Wylie, TX

I am writing to voice my opposition to the "education savings account" program. We all know this is to benefit the wealthy who already send their kids to private school. We already have school choice, I choose to send my kids to public school. Our public schools could be SO MUCH BETTER if we fully fund them. This bill will not help the majority of Texas children who go to public school, and will be detrimental to the success of our children and their future. I do not support my public tax dollars funding private school education.

Kimberly English

Self

Wichita Falls, TX

I am totally against any government subsidies or vouchers to support private education. This redirection of public funds will devastate schools in the many remote and rural areas of our state. It will leave students with IEPs throughout the state underserved. And, it will starve the TRS, breaking a promise to every public educator who has served our state.

There is not a person in our state who does not have a friend or relative who is a public school employee. We all know how they and their students will be affected by this bill. And, we are ready to stand with them come election time.

Vote "no" on school vouchers.

Richard Johnson

Self

Wylie, TX

No to SB3 and no to vouchers.

Alyssa Moog

CISD

Coppell, TX

Texas for not want school vouchers, Texas students most benefit from schools being funded. Both my elementary students have dyslexia and have received phenomenal care and intervention from amazing teachers. Please do not allow HB 3 to pass. There will be so many students who fall through the cracks.

Kimberly Davis

self

Port Lavaca, TX

I would highly recommend this bill to not be passed. Being an educator for 26 years there has always been a struggle with money in public education. I have purchased many things for my students out of my own pocket. This is due to the funding in public education never being enough. Our educators give their whole heart in what they do. They want their students to be successful and give them every opportunity to do so. Please consider not passing this bill to make things even harder for educators in public education.

Ava Simkulet

Self

Wylie, TX

We do not want vouchers!!

Cheryl Hargrove

Self

McKinney, TX

I am against this Voucher bill. First fully fund public schools. This bill will leave SPED students and low income students with fewer choices and services. I will vote against anyone who supported this bill in the next election.

K Lioy

Self

Denton, TX

As s former public school teacher. I am vehemently opposed to this bill and all bills related to a school voucher program in Texas. Governor Abbott needs to rethink his support for these bills as most Texans oppose these bills.

Dvora Cristol
self
Fort Worth, TX

URGENT: REJECT HB3 – A DIRECT ATTACK ON TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Texas House Bill 3 (HB3) is not just flawed—it is an unmitigated disaster for public education, a direct assault on our children’s future, and a reckless fiscal blunder that will haunt our state for generations. It is a cruel, calculated, and irresponsible piece of legislation designed to dismantle our public school system under the false pretense of “reform.” We must expose this bill for what it truly is: a weaponized attack on students, teachers, and communities that depend on a strong public education system.

HB3 IS FISCALLY IRRESPONSIBLE

The fiscal note attached to HB3 makes one thing absolutely clear—this bill is an economic disaster waiting to happen. Rather than providing sustainable, long-term investments in education, it shifts the burden onto local school districts, forcing them to cut essential programs, increase class sizes, and lay off teachers. Instead of securing adequate funding, HB3 funnels resources away from the very schools that need them most, all while failing to provide a transparent, accountable plan for replacing those funds. This is not just bad policy—it is deliberate sabotage.

HB3 WILL CRIPPLE TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

If enacted, HB3 will gut public schools and leave students without the resources they need to succeed. Teachers, already stretched thin and underpaid, will face even greater challenges as districts struggle to maintain operations. Our schools will suffer from teacher shortages, outdated materials, and overcrowded classrooms—all while the state turns a blind eye to the damage it has inflicted.

We cannot allow politicians to sell out our students’ education to special interests and ideological agendas. Texas public schools educate millions of children, and yet this bill treats them as expendable in a cruel political game. Our students deserve better.

HB3 IS A DIRECT THREAT TO EDUCATIONAL EQUITY

This bill is particularly devastating for underserved communities, where public schools serve as lifelines for children in need. HB3 will disproportionately harm low-income students, students of color, and rural communities—those who already face the greatest barriers to success. Instead of addressing systemic inequalities, HB3 exacerbates them, ensuring that only the wealthy and privileged will have access to quality education while the rest are left behind.

This is not just negligence. This is targeted harm. It is an act of legislative cruelty against the children and families who rely on public education the most.

HB3 MUST BE STOPPED IMMEDIATELY

There is no justification for passing a bill that deliberately weakens public education, destabilizes school funding, and creates chaos in our classrooms. The experts have spoken. The fiscal note is clear. The consequences are undeniable. To pass HB3 is to betray our children, our teachers, and the very future of Texas.

This bill is not about reform—it is about destruction. It is a reckless, cynical, and

Tianna Saulter
Self
McKinney, TX

I vote NO against HB3 and SB3

Lindsey Ferrell
self/teacher
Wylie, TX

I oppose school vouchers and SB3

Mary McDermott
Self
Carrollton, TX

This bill will kill public education, where we accept EVERY student at our doors, as opposed to the cherry-picking private schools do. Stop this lunatic idea NOW!

Abigail Johnson
Self
Wylie, TX

No school vouchers please!

Tianna Saulter
Self
McKinney, TX

I vote NO to HB 3.

Danielle Marrero self - program manager
Austin, TX

I OPPOSE HB3. Public money should not be reallocated to private schools in the form of school vouchers. Doing so would be an attack on our most vulnerable population of students who cannot afford to attend private schools. The taxpayers deserve transparency in school funding by keeping funding in PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

McKenna Tooke
Self, former teacher
Fate, TX

I oppose school vouchers. Private schools = private funds.

Natascha Webb
Self
Conroe, TX

I do not support vouchers or ESAs for Texas schools! Those making over 500k should not have access. Put that in the bill, prioritization does NOT= enrollment for lower income nor sped. I am a sped administrator for an ISD in Texas! Instead of stating how many private entities accept sped compare the numbers that don't. When you say sped do they have an actual IEP, what disabilities do they accept? All or a select few with lesser needs? Vote NO

Amy May
self; teacher
Lavon, TX

Vote NO to vouchers and NO to HB3. An "education savings account program" only benefits the wealthy, and will fundamentally harm public schools.

Christopher Barrett

Self / Producer

Austin, TX

Hello, I am writing to express my opposition to voucher bill HB 3. The bill for creating vouchers to fund private school education for students using tax dollars and public funds will significantly impact our local schools, potentially taking millions of dollars from local schools, which are already extremely underfunded. I am an advocate for funding schools using enrollment based per student allotments in alignment with national averages (Texas is currently 42nd in the US in funding, and has a funding deficit of approx $4,000 per student).

We need to stop trying to line the pockets of Billionaires from out of state, and start educating young Texans, as they are our future. Jeff Yass, Tim Dunn, and Farris Wilkes do not represent us, and should not dictate the education of our children. Say no to HB3, and instead fund Texas public schools appropriately!

Thank you,
Chris Barrett

Abigail Johnson

Self

Wylie, TX

No school vouchers

Grace Gayos

CFISD

Cypress, TX

Please do not vote for HB 3. I am a special education public school teacher. My son goes to public school too. I would always choose to teach at a public school and send my son there too. Public school is where students from all economic backgrounds are given a fair chance. We do not choose whom education should be for. We educate and service even the most challenging students. Please protect and support our public schools.

Sincerely,

Grace Gayos

Kaleena Fenno

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools. Shame on this bill and those who wrote it and champion it for deprioritizing education for Texas children.

Abigail Johnson

Self

Wylie, TX

No school vouchers

Diane Smith-Pinckney

Self

Fort worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Celia Salas
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools

Stephanie Wehner
PTA, Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

Vote NO to vouchers/ESAs

Julie McCullam
Self
Keller, TX

No to vouchers!

Meredith Watkins
Self
Wylie, TX

Please support our children and the future of Texas education by voting NO TO VOUCHERS and NO TO HB3 and SB3!

Sandra Grannan
Self (retired)
Livingston, TX

I vote no against vouchers.

Marty Kirkland
Self
Dickinson, TX

No

Angela Moss, Dr.
Self, adjunct professor
Prosper, TX

I am writing to voice my concern regarding the negative implications that HB3 will have on our public education system if passed. This bill will pull vital funds away from our public schools. As a result, our teachers, students, and families will suffer, with the greatest burden falling onto those families who cannot afford to send their children to private schools or whose students will not be accepted into private schools for a number of reasons. Please vote against the passage of this bill. Studies have shown that vouchers do little to improve the test scores of low-income students and there is nothing in the bill to ensure that all students will be accepted into private schools should they opt to participate. Additionally, vouchers will siphon funding away from programs designed to benefit special education students, who may not be accepted into private schools since those schools are not required to accept all students. Finally, the voucher program will primarily serve to benefit the students of wealthy families, who already are able to pay for and attend private schools. Our public schools are already underfunded, and the voucher program would only hurt these districts further.

Janie Baker
Texans for Public Education
Seagoville, TX

With regard to education saving accounts:

Public dollars should not be spent on private education. I am a retired public school educator in the State of Texas. I have been witness to families who start the school year in private schools only to decide that they do not provide for the needs of their children. This usually happens around the end of the second six weeks when PEIMS reporting has been submitted. So, classes begin to crowd, creating a disparity in the teacher pupil ratio. Quite often students coming in from private schools have special needs that could not be accommodated at the private school. So, we see disparity in the SpEd rooms, too. Essentially, the money spent by those parents is wasted while the public school goes in need.

Jacob Isom
Self
McKinney, TX

I fully oppose HB 3. As someone who went to public schools and has many loved ones who teach or are administrators at public schools, it is truly a slap in the face to all of them AND students. If you truly cared about students and teachers you would fully fund public schools. Our ranking on the national scale for education shows our state government does not care about public schools. I would also encourage every state representative, senator, and the governor to spend real time in rural, inner city, and suburban schools so they can learn what teachers and administrators are truly up against. Instead you all sit in Austin with little to no real education experience and try to dictate how it should be run. Teachers are already over worked and under paid and you all do not care about that you care about pleasing large donors whose only interest is making money. As a Republican, this issue makes it extremely difficult for me to continue to support candidates who support HB 3.

Lindsey Moser
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose this bill. We need to fully fund our public schools and keep public money out of private schools. Vote NO!

Chantel Kastrounis
self- Public School Administrator
Carrollton, TX

Vouchers will cost Coppell ISD over $5M.

The cost of vouchers is expected to balloon to $4 billion by 2030. Texas cannot afford to experiment when public schools are underfunded.

Texas ranks in the bottom 10 in per-student public education funding.

My school serves ALL children. We are a high performing district that meets the needs of our 75% of emergent bilingual learners. We serve gifted children, special needs learners and learners with social emotional needs. We can't continue to serve ALL learners with current funding and vouchers. Vouchers would not only rob our incredible school of learners, but also of dollars we NEEDED to continue to do the incredible job we are doing.

Courtney Carpenter, Dr.

Self and Argyle ISD

Argyle, TX

Dear Members of the Committee,

I am writing to strongly oppose HB3, the proposed Education Savings Account (ESA) bill, for several key reasons that are not in the best interest of Texas taxpayers, students, or public education.

Firstly, this bill is essentially a vendor bill, designed to enrich private entities at the expense of taxpayers. The wide scope of the bill allows just about any resident to qualify, which opens the door for misuse of taxpayer funds. As written, it could allow illegal residents to benefit from state funds intended for legal, tax-paying citizens, further compounding the risks to fiscal responsibility.

Moreover, the bill proposes funneling money away from public education, which undermines the foundation of our public school system. Texas public schools, including those in underfunded districts like ours, have been showing excellence in academic, financial, and attendance performance. In fact, many of our public schools outperform private institutions when it comes to preparing students for the future. Redirecting funding from these schools to unaccountable private options could destabilize public education in the state.

The bill would also create new layers of government oversight and administration, which is far from a conservative approach. Expanding bureaucratic structures goes against the values of fiscal responsibility, limited government, and individual liberty that many of us hold dear. This bill would add more administrative positions and government intervention rather than streamline or improve the system.

In conclusion, HB3 is not written in a way that serves the best interests of conservative Texans. It increases government intervention, misallocates taxpayer money, and does not account for the proven successes of our public schools. For these reasons, I urge you to reject this bill and preserve the integrity of Texas public education.

Thank you for your consideration.

Cash Jennings

Self

Sterling City, TX

Fund public education and do away with Vouchers!

Jill Fisher

Self- Texas Public School Teacher & Parent

Highland Village, TX

Say NO to HB 3. You are a PUBLIC SERVANTS and should be fully funding PUBLIC SCHOOLS so that all Texas children have equal opportunities.

Benjamin Paser

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose this bill, as it prioritizes private education over public schools, which serves the majority of our children. Providing $10,000 to send children to private schools while defunding public schools would further exacerbate inequality and harm our already underfunded public education system. Every child deserves access to high-quality education, and we must focus on improving and investing in our public schools rather than shifting resources to private institutions, in which most will not be able to afford even with the voucher. Public education is the foundation of a fair society, and we cannot allow it to be undermined for the benefit of a few.

Jared Stevenson
Self / public education
Round Rock, TX

Texas is already in a budget crisis in schools. Due to state funding, teacher raises have been dwarfed by rising medical costs as well as the cost of living. Texas already ranks towards the bottom of per pupil funding and it is appalling to think we want our great state to continue to lag behind other states in our country. Texas schools are not failing - dedicated educators do the impossible everyday, serving kids of all needs and all backgrounds and create safe diverse environments. To think that public money would go to an institute that is allowed to deny access to education and not explain why is horrid. Students of color. Students with special education needs. Students with educational gaps. All of these are students who are routinely denied access to programs the vouchers intend to support. Families have school choice already. There are provisions for families to move from underperforming academic schools already. Many public schools have in district and out of district transfer applications. (With rules on who can be denied and why - that is open to open records.). Parents can also choose to participate in private religious schools, or schools geared to specific programs. Those exist outside of vouchers and won't go away. Taking money from our public schools, straining our public schools is only going to hurt the future of our state by hitting the educational experiences and opportunities of our students. I plead with you, do not vote for this measure.

Linda SHARPE
Self
GEORGETOWN, TX

Vote NO to school vouchers. Public school districts need our state's funds and our taxes to provide quality education to ALL our citizens. Send your child to a private school if you wish, but pay with your own money.

Carol Glover
Self/retired
Olney, TX

Public Education HB3
I oppose EducationSavings Accounts, Vouchers, School Choice, Parental Choice, or whatever is the buzzword of the day. I want my tax dollars going to strengthen public schools and not to private/charter schools. We have no private/charter school in my rural town, so this bill only takes from our community that benefits from our public school system. Do not hurt our rural Texas towns.

Moiria Plant
Self/Teacher
Cypress, TX

We moved to Texas 7 years ago for the opportunities my children would have and the surrounding schools were key in our selection of a community. Please continue to support our public schools as they truly are opportunity for ALL. As an educator, I oppose school vouchers.

Georgia Duncan
Self
Boerne, TX

Strongly, no vehemently opposed!!! The damage this bill renders to Texas society will take years to recover and ultimately be the undoing of the Republican party in Texas.

Strongly, no, vehemently opposed to hb3! The damage this will dump on the Texas society will take years to undo, and will ultimately be the undoing of the Republican party in Texas.

James Burkhalter
Self Retired
Lubbock, TX

I do not support passage of HB 3 as a grossly inappropriate use of public fund to support private schools. Contrary statements made by the governor and many legislators there is not a groundswell of support for this bill. The lack of accountability required for private schools is enough alone to invalidate this misuse of tax payer generated revenue.

Melissa Tortorici
Self, communications director
Texas City, TX

Public tax dollars belong in public schools. Vouchers divert critical funding away from our neighborhood schools, undermining accountability and leaving our most vulnerable students behind. Vote NO to protect public education and ensure every child has access to a quality school, not just a privileged few.

Jill Fisher
Self- Texas Public School Teacher & Parent
Highland Vlg, TX

You have been sworn in as PUBLIC SERVANTS, to serve and protect the PUBLIC. Voting for an ESA while still NOT FULLY FUNDING PUBLIC SCHOOLS is a violation of your oath, and sadly, the ones who are most affected are the CHILDREN OF TEXAS. Such a disgrace and travesty if you vote for his bill that DOES NOT SERVE THE PUBLIC!!!

Karen Garza
self, public school administrator
League City, TX

I urge our legislature to oppose school vouchers written in HB3. Our families already have school choice. Our current status provides families with this right. Parents have the right to select a private school, a charter school, or a public school. Parents are given even more choice if they select a public school as most public schools allow out-of-district and in-district transfers. What needs to occur is pure backing of Texas educators and public schools and students. Public schools are not able to "select" who attends their campus and must deal with ALL students who walk through the door. These students and schools need our utmost support! Please represent the majority public voice and not the deep pockets of politicians.

Lindsay Nguyen
Self - sales
Plano, TX

Please help make the public schools thrive, that is what is best for the overall state, we can't force people to not trust the state to educate their children and force them into a private school situation

Kimberly Prescott

Self

Dallas, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you

Micki Rosiles

self

AUSTIN, TX

I pay taxes for the public good, not a bunch of private schools with no oversight. That is taxation without representation. If the public schools are failing, use the funding to improve public schools for all to access. If someone has a child in private school, then they can obviously afford it and don't need a bonus.

Shannon Moore

Self

San Antonio, TX

School vouchers will not benefit the masses. They will take funds away from public schools and from the children and families that need them. They will cause the degradation of the public school systems in Texas as proven in many other states. This bill will only serve to out more money in the hands of the wealthy and will not support the working class.

Darlene Aksoy

self, retired

Coppell, TX

I am in adamant opposition to school vouchers, a/k/a "education savings accounts", as proposed by HB3 or any other House or Senate bill. Public taxpayer dollars are not collected to subsidize private businesses or private schools. Private schools are not regulated schools, they do not have the same or even similar oversight, rules, or requirements. Private schools are most often religious schools; funding them with taxpayer dollars violates the clear Constitutional separation of church and state. Vote an absolute NO on school voucher "education savings accounts" in any form.

Melissa Forey

Self

San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. I strongly oppose the so-called education savings account program because it takes money away from our already underfunded schools.

I believe in public education for all. And as Texans, we should be promoting public education and supporting our schools. This bill would further reduce the amount of public funds to our public schools which would have damaging effects on our children's education. Please oppose this bill.

Trey Beeson, Mr
Self
Stamford, TX

Please vote no to school vouchers! This is not wanted in the state and the people of Texas have voiced their concern!! It is being pushed upon us!!

Karen Anderson
Self
Red Oak, TX

As an educator, product of public education, spouse of school board trustee of 23 years, i adamantly oppose HB 3.

Cassidy Schnoor self/ college student
Round Rock, TX

I attended private school until 7th grade, then transitioned to a charter school for the remainder of high school. My parents made significant sacrifices to provide me with the education I needed. Every child has unique educational needs, and Texas should support families like mine, who are not only paying for their children's education but also funding a public school system their kids don't attend. I am writing to express my support for HB 3, as it represents an important first step toward universal educational choice.

Rhonda Stratton
Self, Administrative Assistant with an education degree
Crowley, TX

From the Texas Association of School Boards (TASB) website:
Public Schools, Not Vouchers, Offer the Most School Choice

Despite the escalating political rhetoric about taxpayer-funded private school vouchers, the truth remains: Texas public schools are the leaders in providing families with the most academic, athletic, career and technical, and extracurricular choices. Claims that vouchers will give Texas families more choices run counter to what is actually happening in public schools across the Lone Star State, where opportunities abound for students to select schools and programs that best fit their needs and interests. Among the state's 1,026 public school districts, families already have the choice to select magnet campuses, public charter schools, public online schools, or a more traditional K-12 option. Within many school district boundaries, families also have the option of open enrollment — or the ability to select a school other than the one in their attendance zone. Neighboring school districts sometimes allow transfers among students to accommodate specific needs, including academic, health, and family issues. That's the big picture for public school choice in Texas. Here are some other key truths to consider when comparing the choices offered by Texas public schools with those promised by voucher proponents. Vouchers Give Private Schools — Not Parents — the Right to Choose When voucher proponents talk about choice, they are essentially advocating for private schools to choose which students to admit — and at what cost to the families. There's little doubt that taxpayer-funded vouchers will pick up only a fraction of private school tuition, leaving Texas parents to dig deep into their pockets for the rest. Those who advocate for vouchers are not advocating for parents' rights. Texas families will have fewer opportunities to find out what's happening inside their child's school because private schools are not required to comply with state accountability and assessment standards, open records laws, special education rules, or curriculum requirements. And among the conversations happening about education today, it's important to remember that public schools give parents a way to be part of the discussions and the decision-making through locally elected school boards that are accountable to voters. Vouchers transfer the power of engaged parents to privately owned organizations and corporations, accountable only to their bottom line or inaccessible board of directors.

Continued in following comment...

Hayden Foster

Self, teacher

Dallas, TX

Our education system is desperate. The voucher system would devastate already struggling communities and individuals. We need to properly fund our public schools for them to serve kids effectively.

Molly Rhodes

Self

Plano, TX

Do NOT support, put those funds toward public school improvements.

Jeffrey Miller

Self

Austin, TX

No school vouchers. Fund public schools. Public schools integral to rural communities.

Stacy Hafernick
Calhoun County ISD
Port Lavaca, TX

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the potential impact of the proposed voucher system outlined in HB3. While the intention to provide more options for students is understandable, the financial burden it places on our district and on Texas as a whole cannot be ignored.

As proposed, the cost of vouchers could escalate to as much as $4 billion by 2030. This projection raises serious concerns about the sustainability of such a program, especially given that our public schools are already struggling with insufficient funding. These funds could be better used to directly support our public education system, which is in dire need of resources to meet the diverse needs of our students.

Texas currently ranks in the bottom 10 in per-student funding nationwide, and our district is feeling the effects of this financial shortfall. We are forced to make difficult decisions regarding staff salaries, classroom materials, and essential programs, all of which impact our students' educational experiences. For example, at [Your School], we have had to reduce [specific programs or staff] due to lack of funding, directly affecting the quality of education we are able to provide.

In addition to the general impacts on all students, the voucher program will disproportionately affect our special education students. Special education programs require specialized staff, resources, and funding to meet the unique needs of these students. Diverting funds to vouchers would severely limit our ability to provide individualized support services, such as speech therapy, behavioral interventions, and specialized classroom environments. At [Your School], we have witnessed firsthand how these resources are crucial in ensuring that students with disabilities have equal access to quality education. Without proper funding, these students will be left at a significant disadvantage.

In conclusion, while the idea of expanding school choice is worth exploring, it should not come at the expense of underfunding our public schools further or jeopardizing the educational support that special education students depend on. We cannot afford to experiment with voucher programs when our existing education system is already stretched thin. I respectfully ask that you reconsider the proposed changes in HB3 and focus on addressing the real needs of public education in Texas, especially for our most vulnerable students.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Stacy Hafernick
Director of Special Education
Calhoun County ISD

Meghan Powell
Self- homeschooling mom of 4!
ROANOKE, TX

As a homeschooling mother of 4, I am against this bill. There is already choices and freedoms in the education system established in Texas! The public schools deserve to be funded. Voucher systems allow for the opening of charter programs that run as business for-profits and little for the actual academics taught. There is not a voucher system established in the US that has a high level of education. We do not want this! I don't want the state entangled in my homeschooling days and those who go to a public school deserve to have them properly supported

Deborah Williams

Self

Roanoke, TX

I do not support vouchers. If any public funds go to private or charter schools, those institutions must follow all the guidelines as a public school. Ex Same funding amount, no funds when a child is absent, accept everyone who apply, provide special services and transportation , and take all state required testing.

Taxpayers want all entities to be held accountable for using public funds. Blank checks to these schools are not acceptable.

Estrellita Martinez

Self

Leander, TX

I am a Texas native and have lived in Central Texas my entire life. I am the parent to five children that have all benefited from public education. I disapprove of HB 3. If I chose to use this school voucher for my children, I would not be able to afford the remaining balance for my children enrolling in a private school. It is saddening to see the concern of our politicians hyper focused on helping families that are able to pay for private schools. When in fact, their efforts should be used for improving our education system so that our Texan students can improve testing scores. I vote NO for HB 3. If the politicians want this school voucher to be considered by the Texan citizens, then let the people vote on it and let them decide if this is something Texans want.

Thomas Donaldson, Mr.

Self -Retired

Lubbock, TX

I oppose the voucher proposal which provides funds to affluent families for private school education, while reducing state support if public schools which are the only option for most of the 5 million plus school children in our state.

Sarah Wilson

Self, mother

San Antonio, TX

Fund public education. Public tax dollars are not for private use and should not be welfare for the wealthy. Texas has been defunding education for years. Unfunded mandates and unnecessary testing waste dollars. Fully fund our public schools. No system gets better by taking away money that benefits all children and our society as a whole to give to the more privileged. Most Texans are saying NO to ESA/vouchers. I am a parent of three, my youngest is graduating high school this year. They all attended very fine public schools. I want my tax dollars to continue supporting public education for ALL children. My tax dollars are NOT for private gain. I am an active volunteer and understand the financial needs at schools and how state mandates have been working to dismantle public education. I will vote against anyone who supports vouchers. This is my number 1 voting priority. Vouchers are not fiscally conservative. Public education is the backbone of future Texas success. Thus is NOT in line with the Republican platform yet top Republicans are taking lobbyists money and pushing for this. It is clear to the public and will cost votes. Like other states, this system will cost the state exorbitant amount of money, go mostly to those who already can afford private schools, increase private school tuition, and worsen educational outcomes in our state.

Rachel Maldonado

Self

Cedar Hill, TX

My family and I are greatly opposed to this bill. My husband is a public school teacher and I'm a home school mom. We have the choice to do what's perfect for my family and do not wish to have ANY government input or involvement in our decisions.

Cindy Ashmore

Self

Lubbock, TX

NO on HB3. You cannot vote yes in good conscience when the overwhelming majority is against it. We will remember how you vote in the next election. Teachers have a LONG memory.

Jim Hill
Myself. Structural Engineer
Lubbock, TX

I am strongly opposed to this bill. As a graduate of Muleshoe High School I was admitted to Texas A & M and Texas Tech. The public school system provided me with the education needed to obtain my engineering degree. We need to strengthen public education for the common good benefiting all of society. This bill benefits only those who are affluent enough to take advantage of it. Forty five percent of the constituents in District 84 have an income less than $50,000 and can't afford the tuition. It is a return to segregation as well as a scheme to place more power into the hands of the already powerful.

George-Anna McCabe, Retired Educator
Self
New Braunfels, TX

Dash Kotska said it all early this morning in his testimony- vote NO to HB 3. I do not support taking hardworking taxpayer's money away from public schools to so others can use it for private education. Public funds need to stay in public schools PERIOD! What has the Texas legislature done to help public schools in the last 25 years- nothing. Governor Abbott has held public school funding hostage for the last 5 years so he can get vouchers passed. And why- to please the 3 mega billionaire donors who have given him more money than anyone else. Follow the money! It's not being given to help the over 5 million students in public schools. Shame on you if you vote yes to this bill.

Susan Aubry
Self
Wylie, TX

I don't support school vouchers

Caprice Cummings
Self
BOERNE, TX

I oppose school vouchers

Zachary Zeman
Self/student
Austin, TX

It's tough to know where to start on this, but to put it briefly, this bill which purports to provide school choice to students but does nothing of the sort. Not only will the provided funds be insufficient to pay for private tuition, it offers no options to students in rural districts with no private option. In addition, public schools will lose funding. As a former educator I've seen how focused schools are on students turning up to school because their funding depends on it. This will make an already underfunded institution worse while not providing for students. All this does is subsidize wealthy Texans who are already sending their kids to private schools. Please use this money to fully fund public schools not to subsidize wealthy parents and to divert state funds to religious institutions.

Nancy Johnstone, Ms.

Self Retired teacher Ex Texas Public school student

Desoto, TX

This bill would support capitalism and corporations, not students. It is not representative of what Abbott proposed, and it is not representative of what a huge majority of Texas parents want. Texas is too low now on the amount of money spent per student for their academic education. When I was still teaching, most local districts were unable to pay UIL entry fees for the wonderful, diverse academic programs set up for our students. If you will put in the money, Texas students can get back to being well-educated and prepared for college; prepared in all areas, including math and science, as well as music and all fine arts. When I was a student in Dallas ISD starting in the 1950s, I was able to get a great education in a well staffed public school. When we moved to Irving, they were just transitioning from a little town to a little city, and they had some catching up to do--I went to half of junior high and all of High School in Irving, and was a National Merit Finalist. So let's get back to having reasonable class sizes, no exemptions leaving classes of 50 or more and only room for 36 desks, and cut that down to improve personal attention and discipline. Let's make Texas Public Schools something to be proud of, without giving any of the budget to private schools. Charter schools are already fulfilling that need, and they aren't doing such a great job. Don't give this money away.

Jim Dunlap

Self

Longview, TX

I am opposed to HB3 as well as ANY other "Education Savings Account", a so called voucher plan, or any plan using my tax money for any such scheme that does not meet the same accountability required of public schools. Please increase funding to public schools to national average in all areas.

Paul Kinunen

Self

Grapevine, TX

I absolutely oppose HB 3. Do not allow this bill to be passed. As a Texan, I strongly strongly disagree with what HB 3 is trying to accomplish. Vote no to HB 3

Ken Lawrence, Colonel

Education

San Antonio, TX

Stealing from us all.

STASIA HARRIS

SELF - I WORK IN MGMT AT A NATIONAL BANK

Benbrook, TX

I DO NOT SUPPORT HB3, SCHOOL VOUCHER, ESA FOR THE STATE OF TEXAS. I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy. My belief is that the ESA program with indirectly and directly pull money out of the public schools. We are 44th in the nation in per child allotment and have gone 5 years without an increase, during particularly inflationary period. Further, in the current form, the allotment per ESA (up to ~8.5K) exceeds the per child allotment in HB2, even after the measly ~$200 increase per child. The fact that THERE IS NOT CAP on income is ridiculous. The ESA program indirectly affects the public school system bc of loss of students, public schools will be paid less but will still have to maintain facilities. I DO NOT SUPPORT.

Jan Bean

Self/retired educator

Amarillo, TX

Pubic education, fair, equal and open to all is vital. Work on improving public education and increase teacher pay to attract the best and the brightest to the teaching profession.

Lisa Guajardo

Self

Lufkin, TX

To Members of the House, I ask that you really think about all the children in the State of Texas and not pass HB3. First of all, make ALL public schools great. As a teacher from a great district, I think we could be even better if the state first spent money to provide better curriculum with engaging resources and more money per student. A skeleton of a curricula without resources is what many school districts have to teach children. We spend more time finding resources than having time to plan for delivery of lessons and to study data from students performances. Please help us with this! Also, the state has created nearly unrealistic goals for the average 8 or 9 year old to perform well on the state test. Why would we have children feel they did not master a grade level when the test is actually based on a reading level 2 grades above their own? It makes no sense. Many people want their child in private schools to avoid the state tests. And now... now the State wants to pay money to private schools who do NOT HAVE to take the same end of the year test as public schools? We would all love to simply have students take a Norms Test. Help Texas Public Schools. Provide more money per student so we can have lower teacher student ratio. This is the only advantage the average private school has over public schools.. Help every child in Texas- not the ones who can already pay for private school as we all know this will be who benefits the most from vouchers. The State's duty is to the general public. Help the public schools! Let's help make Texas public schools to be the best in the nation. Stop HB 3. Fund public schools so teacher to student ratio is less, like private schools.

Cheryle Simmans

Self: Retired teacher and school counselor

Victoria, TX

As a retired Texas educator, I want to go on record as opposing HB 3 and any other bills promoting vouchers. Public schools under the current administration have been weakened, underfunded, and sabotaged in order to sway public opinion against Texas public schools. Continuous testing, claims of indoctrination, unfunded mandates, and lack of funding have systematically been employed by our Governor and his wealthy donors to create a schism to champion "his" obsession with vouchers. I ask that our representatives do their homework and study the effects of vouchers and their subsequent runaway costs in other states that now regret their choices.

Public schools are required in our state constitution and are to be fully funded, not held hostage because the Governor of Texas was told "NO" by the previous legislature. If school choice is truly a choice, let the people of Texas vote on the proposal. Governor Abbott is not representing or listening to the people he was elected to lead. Rather, he is representing the wealthy donors who see nothing but dollar signs. Let the people vote or say "NO" to vouchers again.

Steven Prater

Self

Buda, TX

I do not agree with this bill. I do not think it will give lower socioeconomic families, a school choice. I believe it will give free money to wealthy families. Please use this funding to give more funding to public schools. Texas is one of the lowest states in funding public education.

Maria Portales, Mrs

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Katie Braden

Self

Fate, TX

Education Savings Accounts should not become reality until public schools are fully funded to adjust for inflation and increasing needs for security, special education and student mental health. Increasing the allotment by $220 is insufficient to meet any of those needs fully. Additionally this funding diversion to private school comes with no accountability like the public schools bear. The fact that we don't adequately fund public education, and we run the risk of running even shorter due to vouchers, is abominable. Our district has been cutting costs and shrinking services for years as a fast growth district that is underfunded by our state. This also pits the tax payers against local school because the state is shrinking its responsibility to fund public education appropriately. The narrative of demonizing public schools and saying this program will allow choice is false. The most needy of students will not be able to utilize a voucher. This is a tax grab for the wealthy. As a legislative body, your responsibility and obligation as a representative is to represent your constituents. Your constituents do NOT want education savings accounts!! Properly fund public schools by boosting the allotment to $7500 per pupil. Then students will have the programming and opportunities they need!

Alinda Maxwell

Self

Sherman, TX

I oppose (vehemently).

Wendy Ashley, Principal

Springtown ISD

Springtown, TX

This voucher will kill public school education as well as the educators that pour into lives every day. This voucher program will also continue to run people out of public school education because of the lack of support. The voucher system will also kill TRS & the educators retirement system. I am in the midst of my 24th year of dedicated service to our students & the community. We need to fund our schools & staff to be able to create a successful future.

Debbie Wise

Self. Retired teacher.

Nacogdoches, TX

I am strongly against vouchers/ ie education savings accounts. Public schools need more financial and positive reinforcement. My own child has cerebral palsy and requires special education protections and supports. These are not available in private or charter schools. I believe tax dollars are to be used for public education. Period!

Leslie Truelove

Self/Marketing

Dallas, TX

Taking $1 billion dollars out of public schools is a terrible idea. This argument about parents having a choice is a false narrative. Make Texas public schools the best they can be and there will be no need for private schools. Rural area if Texas don't even have private school options and private schools in big cities are so expensive this credit won't make a difference for the families that can afford it. Against.

Erin Lynds

Self/homemaker

Fort Worth, TX

This bill will cause irreparable harm to public schools. I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal impact presented. This is not a sound fiscal policy and will hurt already struggling public schools.

salvatory ndytabula

self

Wylie, TX

No to vouchers and no to SB3

Lydia Carrillo-Valdez

Retiree AFT

Leon Valley, TX

First, teachers pay needs to be separate and given automatically. It's actually backpay for missing those years from 2019 to now. When legislators come up with bills, they need to include all. HB3 only helps those who don't really need a school choice. They've already made their choice. It doesn't help children in rural areas. Be transparent and show taxpayers where their money really goes. You were voted to help your constituents, all of your constituents. Hold a Townhall meeting and see if this is what they want. Better yet, put it to a public vote like you all did with the TRS COLA.

Christy Tabor

Self

Dallas, TX

I oppose vouchers. This bill does not serve all students, as not all kids will have access to private schools. Private schools do not have to accept students, and rural students do not have access to quality private education. This is effectively a handout to the wealthy already attending private schools. In addition, vouchers will negatively impact those students who stay in public schools by taking dollars from them. Instead of shifting dollars to private schools, fund our public schools and work on making them better for everyone. Vote no on SB 3 and fully fund public education.

Crystal Adams

Self

Teague, TX

Submission Against School Vouchers and HB3 in Texas

House Bill 3 (HB3), which proposes a voucher-like program to divert public funds to private schools, poses significant risks to Texas' public education system. Here's why we oppose it:

1. Financial Impact on Public Schools

- Texas already ranks among the bottom 10 states in per-student public education funding, with 91% of students attending underfunded schools[10].
- The voucher program is projected to cost $4 billion by 2030, draining resources from public schools that rely on state funding based on attendance[9][10].
- In our district, where public schools are already struggling with budget deficits and teacher shortages, losing even a fraction of students to vouchers could result in severe financial setbacks.

Example: If 100 students leave our district for private schools using vouchers, we could lose over $1 million annually in funding, further straining resources for the remaining students.

2. Disproportionate Benefits

- Evidence from other states shows that voucher programs primarily benefit wealthier families already sending children to private schools[1][3].
- HB3 lacks income caps, meaning high-income families could disproportionately access these funds while lower-income families may still find private tuition unaffordable[2].

3. Public Accountability and Equity

- Private schools are not required to accept all students or adhere to the same accountability standards as public schools. This creates inequities and leaves vulnerable populations underserved[2][6].
- Our district serves a diverse student body, including special education and low-income students who would be left behind if public funds are diverted.

4. Misplaced Priorities

- While HB3 allocates billions for vouchers, proposals to increase per-student funding for public schools fall short of what is needed to address inflation and rising costs[4].
- Instead of experimenting with vouchers, Texas should focus on fully funding its public schools to ensure equitable education for all students.

Conclusion

HB3 undermines the foundation of public education in Texas by prioritizing private interests over the needs of the majority. We urge lawmakers to reject this bill and invest in strengthening our public school system.

Kaytee Shelburn

Self

Mansfield, TX

My child is a brain tumor survivor. Though she is alive, the tumor left her with physical and learning disabilities. She receives vision, orientation and mobility services, dyslexia services among a modified curriculum in the public high school. Vouchers will not provide the same free and appropriate education that the public school will. Stop funding private schools and start funding public schools. Allow my baby to be her best.

Kathy Mattox

Self, retired public school teacher

Cypress, TX

As a retired public school teacher, I vehemently oppose ESA or vouchers or whatever name you want to give it where our tax dollars pay for private schools. Properly fund public schools which serve 90% of students. Many rural areas do not have private schools nearby to choose from. Where are the accountability standards for private schools which are imposed on the underfunded public schools? This bill markets vouchers to help the poor and students with disabilities but tuition can be up to $40,000 and often lack resources for special education. I say NO to any form of ESA or vouchers !

Amanda Thomas

Self, cyber security senior analyst

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS & NO TO SB3

Thomas Russell

Self- engineer

McKinney, TX

I strongly do not support HB3. I want all Texas students to succeed, not a portion of schools. Vouchers are not the solution.

Sara Ross

Self

Houston, TX

I oppose school vouchers. Totally, completely, with my whole heart and soul. I OPPOSE school vouchers. Do NOT vote for school vouchers. Please vote AGAINST school vouchers. Thank you.

Sara Ross

Amber Carnell
Self, public educator
Palestine, TX
No HB3

My name is Amber Carnell, and I'm a resident and educator of Palestine, TX. I'm messaging you today to express my profound concerns about House Bill 3, which would create an Education Savings Account program and effectively divert public funds away from our public schools. HB3's promise of expanded school choice sounds appealing, but I fear it could lead to significant harm to our public education system, the bedrock of our community. We know that Palestine schools face budget challenges. HB3 will siphon off precious state funding, leaving our teachers, classrooms, and essential programs with less to work with. We need to support our public schools, not undermine them. Texas already has disparities in educational resources. HB3 will exacerbate this inequality by potentially enriching those who can afford private education, while leaving struggling families and students with fewer options. Public schools are accountable to our community. What assurances will we have for the use of public funds in the private sector if HB3 passes? We need transparency and accountability for these dollars to ensure that our public money isn't misused. Public schools are the heart of our town, bringing together families from diverse backgrounds and creating a strong sense of community. We need to invest in these institutions, not rip them apart. I urge you to think long and hard about the implications of HB3. Don't jeopardize the future of our public schools and the education of our children. Vote 'No' to House Bill 3.

Tammie Hartgroves
Texas NonUrban Rural Caucus and Democrats with Disabilities
Mcgregor, TX

My concern is how these bills will influence smaller, rural, and schools in economically disadvantaged communities/counties in Texas. Also, students with disabilities and special needs will be negatively affected by these bills. Lastly, qualified teachers will be leaving the field because funding to public schools will decrease.

Courtney Summers
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3 (HB3), which is currently under consideration in the Texas House of Representatives. As a concerned citizen of Texas, I believe that the proposed legislation poses significant risks to the future of public education in our state and would have long-lasting, negative effects on both students and educators. One of my primary concerns with HB3 is its potential to reduce funding for our already under-resourced public schools. Education is the cornerstone of a prosperous society, and our state must invest in our schools to ensure that all students have access to high-quality education, regardless of their background or location. Reducing funding for public education under the guise of "reform" will only exacerbate the inequalities that exist between wealthy and low-income school districts. It will hurt the students who need the most support, especially those in marginalized communities. Additionally, I am deeply troubled by the lack of sufficient investment in teachers and school staff. Teachers are the backbone of our education system, yet many of them are already underpaid and overworked. HB3 fails to address the critical need for fair compensation, professional development, and improved working conditions for educators. By not adequately supporting teachers, we risk driving talented professionals out of the field, further harming the quality of education for our children. Furthermore, HB3's approach to funding and accountability could undermine the autonomy of local school districts, further centralizing decision-making in Austin. It is crucial that we allow local communities to determine the best course of action for their schools, based on their unique needs and challenges. Statewide mandates and funding restrictions limit the flexibility and innovation that local school districts should have in addressing the diverse needs of their students. I urge you to reconsider your support for HB3 and to advocate for policies that will genuinely invest in the future of our children, educators, and communities. Texas should prioritize equitable funding for all schools, fair compensation for teachers, and an education system that values and supports every student. Thank you for your time and consideration. I trust that you will take my concerns seriously and consider the long-term impact of this legislation on our education system.

Lisa Mongoven, Dr.
Psychologist and self/parent
Flower Mound, TX

I am a parent and a psychologist in this state. I have had a large number of clients who have needed both special education and special accommodations through 504. To reallocate money in a way that harms access to these services is detrimental to the state and our children. Please reconsider.

Katiuska Herrador
self, Elementary School Principal
Hurst, TX

As a principal of a public school of choice in Arlington ISD, I strongly oppose HB 3, which establishes Educational Savings Accounts that divert taxpayer dollars to fund private education. These funds, which should be used to strengthen and support our public schools in Texas, are being redirected to private institutions that are not accountable to taxpayers and do not even accept all students and can turn away students with special needs. That is unacceptable. Public funds should stay in public schools, where they can benefit all students and help us continue to provide a high-quality education for every child. Strengthening public schools, which accept all children and are held to the highest standards, should be the norm and lifts an entire community up—stronger public schools=stronger communities. This bill, if passed, could severely impact schools like ours—highly popular public school choices that parents already rely on. It undermines the principles of equity, accountability, and accessibility that are central to the success of public education.

Krista Erbe
Self, self employed
Fort Worth, TX

As a Texas voter and taxpayer, I am writing to urge you to oppose SB 3 and any legislation supporting school vouchers in Texas. Public tax dollars should be used exclusively for the public good, and that means fully funding our public schools—not diverting critical resources to private entities that are not held to the same standards of transparency or accountability.

Texas public schools educate the vast majority of our children, serving as the backbone of our communities and economy. Instead of vouchers, I ask you to prioritize robust funding for public education to ensure every child—regardless of zip code—has access to a quality education. I implore you to use all your influence and resources in helping to release the over $4.5 billion that has been set aside for our schools without tying it to a voucher system the majority of Texans do not want.

Please stand with Texas families and vote against any proposals that weaken our public school system. Your leadership on this issue will help secure a brighter future for all Texans.

Thank you for your time and commitment to serving our community.

Sherry York
Self Retired Teacher/Librarian
Norton, TX

I absolutely oppose this bill which will destroy education in the rural communities of Texas.

Julie Wilganowski
Self- public school teacher
Waller, TX

I am a current public school teacher at a Title 1 school in Waller. I have been teaching in public school for 20 years and also spent a few years teaching at a private school. This voucher program will negatively impact every public school student and teacher in this entire state. How can you morally say that a private school student deserves more funding than a public school student? The majority of the families that will benefit from this are already sending their kids to private school. They can clearly afford to pay for school already and this bill basically just gives them $10,000 extra while the students that need it the most are not being helped. Texas needs to do better. The funds have been held hostage for long enough. We are losing teachers every year due to lack of pay and support. We are in the middle of an educational crisis and this will only exacerbate the situation. Please do NOT pass this bill. Our public schools, students and teacher cannot survive this. We deserve better. Every child deserves adequate funding. Fund your public schools now!

Brittany Lehning
McMillan Junior High School PTA
Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO SB3

Matthew McCullough
Self
Red Oak, TX

As an educator for 15+ years, I am on the front lines. We, one of the wealthiest states in the country, have been underfunding public education my entire career. As of late, we have been held hostage in efforts to pass this voucher scam. Yet, we are still trying to do what is best for kids. Imagine if we invested in public education? Spent the money necessary to put us in the top ten in the nation. We could knock down so many barriers for these kids. Lower class sizes. You name it. And then the second is investing in teachers, retaining teachers, and recruiting teachers. Nobody wants to be a teacher any more and who could blame them!?! The way no one wants to listen to our opinion (when we are the experts in the field) but then blame us with the results they get. Yet there are some of us holding the torch in the darkness waiting for the state to come to its senses. Texas already has school choice. Fund public education. Invest in teachers. Don't provide welfare to the wealthy.

Zachariah Morford
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I could not be more opposed to this bill and the thought of taking money from public schools. Public schools are the very heart of the American dream and sacrificing that funding for the unregulated use of private schools is a travesty to the hard working people of Texas.

Audrey Desjardins
self
Cedar Park, TX

I urge you to oppose school vouchers in Texas, as they divert crucial public funds away from our already underfunded public schools, weakening the education system for the majority of students. Instead of improving education, vouchers primarily benefit private institutions that are not held to the same accountability standards, leaving students and taxpayers vulnerable. Public dollars should remain in public schools, ensuring that every child—regardless of background or zip code—receives a quality education. Please stand with Texas families and educators by rejecting school vouchers and investing in our public school system.

Lorilee Bland

Self

Eules, TX

NO to vouchers or educational savings accounts. This ploy to slowly demolish public schools, for God knows what end, has got to stop. No tax dollars to private schools or to homeschoolers make public schools better by spending an adequate amount of money on our children and our future.

Lonnie Link

Self, self employed

Sugar Land, TX

Absolutely NOT!!!

Virginia Teguns

Texas Parent

Dallas, TX

Please help our public schools to receive the funds they need to help mold our future generation!

Lourdes Gonzalez

Self

Fort Worth, TX

No, no, and absolutely no to school vouchers, HB 3. I am a taxpayer and lifelong Texas resident. I strongly oppose school vouchers in any form. I oppose them now and always. Do not defund our public school system!

Blair Johnson

Myself and public schools

Katy, TX

I would like to express my concerns regarding the proposed School Choice bill. This legislation is not in the best interest of my children, or any child attending public schools. In fact, I believe it has the potential to severely undermine the public school system, which seems to be the intended goal of Governor Greg Abbott.

It is important to consider the impact on less fortunate families. How is it equitable to divert resources away from public schools, which serve the majority of children, to private institutions? This bill fails to address the lack of accountability in private schools, where standards and oversight are often limited compared to the public education system.

As a taxpayer, I strongly oppose my tax dollars being redirected to benefit the wealthy, particularly when our public education system is in dire need of more investment. All children, regardless of their background, deserve a quality education. Governor Abbott's approach does not reflect the needs or interests of all Texas children.

The best option for the future of Texas is to prioritize equitable funding for public schools and to hold private institutions to the same standards of accountability. Statistically, the proposed legislation is a misguided move, and it appears to serve the interests of the wealthy elite rather than the broader community.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Kind Regards,

Blair Johnson

Lex-Anne Vogel

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Oppose

Charlene Rodriguez Lane

self

Cypress, TX

Please do NOT support/vote for vouchers and politicize Texas children and their education. Help fund PUBLIC education in Texas instead. Support Texas public educators, administrators, and school districts with the funding needed to keep up with ever increasing demands. The children are OUR future and they deserve a free, safe, and high quality education. The current governor has had YEARS and YEARS to better and take action to improve our public schools but hasn't. Do NOT vote vouchers for the sake of our Texas public educators, admins, school districts, and CHILDREN.

Laure Owens

Retired Teachers

Spring Branch, TX

Vote AGAINST sending my tax dollars to private schools.

Kelsey Johnson

Self, graphic designer

Sugar Land, TX

I realize there is tremendous pressure to pass this bill, but do not compromise your integrity and duty to properly fund public education. This bill is antithetical to fair access to education for our children. For over 40 years, I've lived in both rural and urban communities in Texas. My family chose to homeschool when I was in elementary, then one year of private Christian school and the remaining years in public school. As a mom, my children have attended magnet public school and also participated in GT programs. I believe that the state of Texas should continue to uphold the strength of its public schools and invest wholeheartedly in their future. The government's long-term strategy for our state's economic and academic success ought to be the bolstering of public education. As a taxpayer, I do not want to subsidize wealthy residents' private school tuition. Quality education at every public school in Texas is possible and should be what we are all striving to provide. Expend your energies on that effort rather than forfeiting public dollars to the pockets of private schools with little oversight. How is that fiscally responsible and in the public's interest? Thank you for your wisdom and attention to this pivotal vote.

Donna Hill

Self

Amarillo, TX

It concerns me greatly that we're not learning from others mistakes when it comes to ESAs (vouchers). Texas could be at the forefront of education, but instead we're going to have a citizenry of poorly educated individuals who will be a strain on the systems of Texas government. Why would any Texan want this? With this plan, parents will be pulling their children in and out of schooling throughout the year. As a former teacher now retired, I've seen it happen. Parents don't like what's happening at their public school so they put their child in private school until the "three strikes you're out" takes affect. They then homeschool them until they see that isn't working and they again enroll them back in public school. The public schools then take the blame for these students being so far behind. State governments never look at these types of scenarios that are so often the case. Public schools see this all the time, and it will continue to happen under this plan. The only difference will be the loss of funding. Private schools will benefit greatly! They will lose nothing! After they dismiss students, they keep the funds, and who cares where they go from there. And homeschooling, how are you truly going to determine the funds are being used appropriately in that case? The numbers of children we currently see roaming the streets and parks during the day is disturbing. And yes, I've asked enough to know they're supposedly being homeschooled. Oh why is the government of Texas being so unkind to the children of Texas when it comes to their education and future?

We need someone to be brave enough to say, this isn't the way, and your money will not sway me.

Anastasia Armstreet

Self

Canton, TX

As a 16 year educator I cannot oppose vouchers enough. Instead of stripping away public education we should be pouring into it. We've been begging for years for changes to testing, better pay, and better support to be successful. If those things would finally be met we could push public education in the right direction.

All students, regardlessly of where they live or their socioeconomic status should be able to receive quality education. Not putting more money into title 1, rural schools will leave more students behind and widen the gap in academic achievement between the "haves and have-nots."

As someone who works with low socioeconomic students daily, I urge you to rethink the best way to spend this money. Should it really go to the already wealthy or could it be better used being allocated to those who cannot control their living environments and need more support from their neighborhood school.

Jessica Kingman

Self, self-employed

AUSTIN, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers in Texas.

Melanie Williamson

Self - accountant

Austin, TX

I'm opposed to this bill and to using public money in the form of vouchers for private school. Public education is a community good and should be fully funded, not impoverished for the benefit of the wealthy.

Ed Garza

Self

San Antonio, TX

I'm opposed to HB 3.

Public funds should only fund Public Schools. Any school receiving Public fund should be held accountable under the same enrollment and accountability standards.

Any diversion of public funds to private schools should require a public state wide referendum with 2/3 voter approval.

Scott Donald, Dr

Self

Austin, TX

No. This is total bullshit to spend our taxpayer dollars on a voucher system. I and everyone I know is against this bill.

Deborah Chavez

self; retired

Buda, TX

The voucher plan laid out in HB3 will funnel taxpayer dollars to private schools. State tax dollars must not be diverted from public to private schools - period. I oppose this bill and any plan that will use tax dollars to pay private school tuition. This is clearly a give away to people who can already afford to send their children to private schools. With this bill they get to do so at a discount. Meanwhile, the vast majority of children who attend public schools suffer. Low income families, even with vouchers, will not be able to afford private school tuition and all the other expenses involved - uniforms, fees, transportation, etc. I urge to to vote NO to vouchers. Not NO on HB 3.

Mari Ward

Self

Austin, TX

Please vote against this bill. It creates the illusion of choice but does nothing to guarantee that a parent's choice for their child will be fulfilled. It offers a chance, not a choice. Ultimately, the true decision-maker in this system is not the parent, but the private school.

Caroline Saucedo

Self

San Antonio, TX

Please provide more funding for public schools. We need a more equitable system and school vouchers are not it.

Catherine Casey

Self

Georgetown, TX

i am writing to express my firm opposition to any funding for school vouchers. Taxpayer dollars need to go toward adequately funding PUBLIC schools, not private schools. Vouchers hurt our neighborhood schools and our rural communities.

Marieta Hutchison, Mrs.

Self - Retired Teacher

San Marcos, TX

I implore you to vote NO on HB 3. HB 3 will damage public school financing and most of the children in Texas will suffer for it, as well as our public school teachers and staff. As a retired public school teacher who supports public schools, please do what is right for the right to be educated. Support our public schools. Vote NO on HB 3. Marieta Hutchison, MEd

Martha Enns

Self/ homeschool mom

Seminole, TX

Hello, my name is Martha. I am writing regarding the Education Committee hearing for House Bill 3 on Tuesday. As a homeschool parent, I value freedom from government strings and regulations in private education, and am against the expansion of government in the name of "parental empowerment." I would like to ask you as committee to please join a large constituency of homeschoolers in opposing school choice legislation like HB 3. Thank you!

Nancy Nicolas

self - attorney and PTA volunteer

Austin, TX

Hello, my name is Nancy Nicolas and I am a constituent in zip code 78735. I am writing to voice my opposition to HB 3. I am asking my Representative and this Committee to vote no and to instead fully fund public education. We already have meaningful school choice in Texas - what we need are resources so that our public schools can deliver the education that each child in Texas deserves, and that which has already been mandated, with accountability and due process ensuring that delivery. We do not need resources for privatized schools to thrive with no or little accountability to the public. I don't believe proponents of this bill can point to any examples of similar laws in other states achieving any of the objectives that are the supposed motivation for this bill. To the contrary, voucher systems like this are a failed experiment, and if this bill moves forward, this will predictably harm more families than it helps. Thank you.

Abigail Baiza
Teacher
San Antonio, TX

As a teacher in Texas, I strongly oppose public school vouchers for several key reasons:

1. Diverts Funding from Public Schools

Public school vouchers take taxpayer money that should be used to improve public schools and redirect it to private schools. Texas public schools already struggle with underfunding, and vouchers would further reduce resources for students who remain in public schools.

2. Lack of Accountability

Public schools are subject to strict state standards, testing, and accountability measures to ensure quality education. Private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same standards, meaning taxpayer money could fund schools that do not meet public education requirements.

3. Benefits the Few at the Expense of the Many Vouchers often do not cover the full cost of private school tuition, making them inaccessible for many low-income families. Instead, they primarily benefit families who can already afford private school, while leaving most students behind in struggling public schools.

4. Weakens Rural Schools

Rural areas in Texas often lack private school options, meaning vouchers would not benefit most rural students. Instead, they would drain resources from public schools that are the only educational option in many communities.

5. Violates the Principle of Separation of Church and State

Many private schools receiving voucher funds are religiously affiliated, raising concerns about public tax dollars funding religious education. This blurs the line between church and state, which is protected under the U.S. Constitution.

6. Fails to Improve Educational Outcomes

Research shows that voucher programs do not lead to better academic outcomes. In states with established voucher systems, students who use vouchers often perform worse or no better than their public school peers. Public education should focus on strengthening public schools, not funding alternatives that don't work.

7. Increases Inequities in Education

Vouchers allow private schools to select students, which can lead to discrimination against students with special needs, disabilities, or language barriers. Public schools must serve all students, while private schools can reject those who don't meet their criteria.

Conclusion: Invest in Public Schools, Not Vouchers

Rather than diverting funds to a system that lacks accountability and increases inequality, Texas should invest in public education—raising teacher salaries, funding special education, reducing class sizes, and improving school infrastructure. Our focus should be on making public schools the best choice for all Texas children, rather than funding a system that only helps a select few.

Abigail Baiza, Teacher from a Title 1 school, 11 years. Mother of 2 public school children. Wife of public school teacher. Keep funding the schools that take in every kid, any circumstance. Education is the stepping stone out of poverty!!

Susan Hurta, Mrs

Self

Houston, TX

To whom it may concern,

I am fundamentally against the current proposal for the education savings account program. As a retired special education teacher and administrator, there are some major red flags that pop up concerning students with disabilities.

1. The savings amount granted per student is more than the allocated amount given per student to the public schools- this is not equitable or fair.
2. Private institutions do not have to accept these students, or keep these students if they have difficulties after acceptance. If a student starts at a private school, and then is asked to leave, does the money then move with them, or does the private school absorb it all? When students aren't accepted, do the public schools then get the full savings amount or just the allocated public school per student amount?
3. In my professional capacity, working with parents, students, other administrators, teachers, advocates and attorneys, I often saw students return to the public schools from the private sector further behind than when they left. This can be attributed to different scenarios, including: a. Private schools are not required to follow individual education plans; b. Private schools often do not and/or cannot accommodate to meet the individual needs of a student with disabilities; c. The private schools were not able to provide additional staff to meet the needs of the students, including as an example- occupational therapy, speech therapy or assistive technology devices.
4. The private schools do not have all of the resources that school districts provide.

Whereas; some specialty schools may work well for this population, most private schools do not fall into this category. After 36 years advocating for this community, and working closely to accelerate the learning process so that these students could lead productive lives, my concerns are not political but genuine based on my many years of experience in the field. Please take the time to consider my concerns. I am a proud native Houstonian and Texan, and would like to ensure a successful future for all of our students, including students with disabilities. Please do not fail them.

Sincerely,

Susan Joachim Hurta

Erin Bendlin

Self

Cedar Park, TX

Please vote AGAINST school vouchers. This will not help public education. Students will see larger class sizes. Teachers will be even more stressed out with what they have going on. This will not help Texas as a whole. Vote No to Vouchers

Heidi Shanklin-Spock

self, retired, and have grandchildren in public school system

Austin, TX

I oppose HB 3. I am a long-time taxpayer in the State of Texas, and I do not want taxpayer dollars to be used to fund private school vouchers, which will only support the wealthy children who attend private schools. Texas public schools should be fully funded -- it is the right thing to do! I support an increase to funding public schools at the amount of $1300/student, or more, if possible. It is past time to totally fund Texas public schools and funding can be accomplished by using a portion of the Rainy Day Fund. Please fully fund Texas public schools!

Ashlee Neumann

Self

Austin, TX

As a soon-to-be parent in Texas, I once felt immense pride in raising my children here. However, after eight years of watching the systematic underfunding of our public schools, I am deeply concerned about the direction of education policy in our state. House Bill 3, the latest push for a private school voucher program, is yet another attempt to dismantle public education in favor of private interests—and I strongly oppose it.

Texas has the resources to lead the nation in education, yet our leaders refuse to fully fund our public schools, even while sitting on one of the largest rainy day funds in the country. Instead of strengthening our public education system, HB 3 would divert critical taxpayer dollars to private and charter schools that are not held to the same accountability standards. These schools are not required to serve all students, including those with special needs, and they do not have to hire certified teachers. Meanwhile, public school districts, like Austin ISD, are being forced to make devastating cuts—$92 million over three years—just to keep their doors open.

The Texas Legislature must take real action to support our public schools:

Reject HB 3 and any future voucher programs that siphon public funds into private and charter schools.

Fully fund public education by using available state resources to ensure schools can provide high-quality instruction and support for all students.

Prioritize teacher certification and accountability to maintain high standards in every Texas classroom, ensuring all students receive the education they deserve.

End the financial strain on public schools by revising the school funding formula and addressing the recapture system that forces districts to make drastic budget cuts.

Texas students deserve a well-funded, high-quality public education—not a system that prioritizes private interests over public good. I urge you to stand against HB 3 and commit to strengthening our public schools.

Becki Robledo

Self

Buda, TX

School vouchers will hurt our public schools, our communities, and ultimately, our entire state. Instead of investing in the public education system that serves the vast majority of Texas children, vouchers divert critical funding away, weakening our schools and shortchanging our students.

If Governor Abbott continues to underfund public education, Texas will face long-term consequences—lower economic productivity, higher poverty and crime rates, and reduced civic engagement. A strong public education system benefits everyone, driving a prosperous economy and a more informed, engaged society.

I urge you to stand against school vouchers and fight for full funding of our public schools. Texas students deserve better!

Aubrey Johnson

Self

Cedar Hill, TX

Dear Representative,

As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want an Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) Program. I pay my public tax dollars and, therefore, want my money to Fund Public Schools in Texas. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children and all the educators, and staff, deserve to have the funding. To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

- I do NOT want vouchers/ESAs.
- I support an Increase of the Basic Allotment.
- I support Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflation of over 20%.

Again, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools (not private schools) in the State of Texas.

Sincerely,

Aubrey S. Johnson

Kerrigan Manganaro

Self

Cedar park, TX

NO

Meredith Bell, Mrs

self

Pearland, TX

My name is Meredith Bell and I have been an educator in Texas for 24 years. 23 of those have been in the same district, a Title 1 district in east Harris County. I want to address HB 3 with a very honest question. Who does it benefit? Because it won't benefit me. My family and I are middle class Texans. My husband is a plumber and I work in education and $10,000 for each one of my kids would do nothing for us. In Houston, there are very few affordable private schools. Most start over $20,000. Even with the ESA, we still would not be able to afford private school for our kids. We also wouldn't be able to transport our kids to and from school, because we work, nor would we be able to afford all of the extras that lie outside of tuition. I have exceptional children, athletic, smart, musically talented, etc. but there is also no guarantee that they would be admitted to one of the very exclusive private schools in the Houston area. So, once again, who does this benefit?

On the east side of Houston, there are not any quality private schools. So, if $10,000 can't help me, how will a low-income family really afford private school? I predict a number of 'questionable' private schools will pop up in places like deserted grocery stores and old churches. They will prey on families with kids who want an easy way out and don't want to take tests or abide by certain public school rules. They will take these families money and give their kids a diploma. They won't teach them anything since they aren't bound by any rules or expectations set by the state. They will take money from our public schools, where students are getting a true education, and give them to someone who only does it for profit. Real educators aren't in it for the money. Next year, the district where I work will close an elementary school. This is a community school that is being shuttered due to decreasing enrollment and a lack of funding. This will be commonplace if money continues to be withheld or given away.

As opposed to this bill as I am, I think I could live with it if my public school kids were worth the same amount as a private school kid. Why does the state deem them less worthy? I have listened to hearings on finances and I know you all want us to hear that the funding comes in different ways but why does it need to be hidden? Give us $10,000 per student, whether they are present that day or not, and let us do our jobs. Hold the private schools accountable to the same rules that we abide by - certified teachers, educate EVERY student, standardized testing, funding based on attendance, Special Education laws, etc. Give us all the same amount of money and require the same things.

I sincerely hope that you really listen to educators and Texans on this issue. We know what we're doing and we know how this will effect our students, communities, and schools. The only thing we don't know is who does this really benefit?

Tanya Johnson

Self

Cedar Hill, TX

Dear Representative,

As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want an Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) Program. I pay my public tax dollars and, therefore, want my money to Fund Public Schools in Texas. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children and all the educators, and staff, deserve to have the funding. To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

- I do NOT want vouchers/ESAs.
- I support an Increase of the Basic Allotment.
- I support Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflation of over 20%.

Again, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools (not private schools) in the State of Texas.

Sincerely,

Tanya J Johnson

Nancy Mossman, Rev.

self

Austin, TX

I oppose the establishment of an education savings account program.

Tasnim Lat, Dr.

Self/physician

Temple, TX

I do not support the public school voucher program; I live in a rural area that will be severely impacted

Anna Peters

self

The Colony, TX

ESA program is set to cost $4.2 billion in a few years and it may help 100K kids. The average funding amount per student will be $42,000 vs. public schools that serve 5.5 million students would get $17,454 per child on average. It's not equitable.

Just like we pay public tax dollars to our cities, if we chose to not use the city rec centers, we don't get a coupon from them for a country club. Or if we decide to order books on Amazon instead of borrowing them from the Public Library, we don't get a refund. Our public dollars should not be going to private entities, especially when those entities are not required to follow the same standards and unfunded regulations the legislature has placed on public schools.

Furthermore, it's difficult to support this when there is no state assessment or requirements, no special ed programs offered, no free transportation, free breakfast or lunch. These would be only high achieving, high and high middle-class students whose education outcomes would naturally be higher than those of other income levels.

It's a fiscally irresponsible program.

Deborah Phillips

Self, retired

Amarillo, TX

I appreciate the opportunity to provide my opinion and thoughts on school vouchers. I raised 3 children that attended public school in Texas. They received good education here. I am concerned that a voucher program will take funds from public schools and seriously weaken the education system. Policy changes like vouchers will diminish public education in rural areas, especially those where there are few private school options. Many parents cannot afford to supplement the voucher for expensive private schools. A weaker public education system means a less capable Texas. Please do not establish a voucher system. Thank you.

Leslie Milford
Self, Educator
Levelland, TX

As a public education advocate, teacher, and parent, I strongly oppose House Bill 3 and its push for an education savings account (ESA) program. This bill threatens to divert essential public funds from our schools, funneling taxpayer dollars into private and unregulated educational institutions. Instead of strengthening public education, HB 3 undermines its foundation by prioritizing a program that benefits a select few while leaving the majority of students behind.

From a public education perspective, the establishment of an ESA program weakens the financial stability of our schools. Public schools rely on consistent funding to maintain quality instruction, support services, and extracurricular programs. By redirecting state education dollars to private and homeschooling options without accountability, HB 3 erodes the resources available to students in public classrooms, especially those in rural and underfunded districts.

As a teacher, I see how policies like this directly harm students. When funding is siphoned away through ESAs, schools face larger class sizes, fewer support staff, and cuts to essential programs. This ultimately hurts the students who need the most support—those with disabilities, English language learners, and children from low-income families. Teachers are already struggling with inadequate resources, and HB 3 would make providing a high-quality education to every child harder.

As a parent, I want my child—and all children—to have access to a well-funded, strong public education system. ESAs prioritize individual choice at the expense of the greater good, leaving public schools to suffer while taxpayer money supports unregulated private institutions with no guarantee of quality or equity. Public education should be a public good, not a system weakened by policies that divert funding without oversight or accountability.

For the sake of our students, teachers, and public education system, I urge lawmakers to oppose House Bill 3 and reject the establishment of an education savings account program. Instead, we must invest in strengthening public schools and ensuring that every child—regardless of background or zip code—has access to a quality education.

Robyn Lynch, Mrs.
Self
Hutto, TX

I'm the mother of 4 Texas public school students, spouse of a Texas public school teacher, and am the PTSA president of a high performing high school in Round Rock ISD. At it's core, if we say this bill is to give PARENTS choice, we need to acknowledge then that this should be given to a popular vote. If you want our opinion, ask us at the polls, not in some House Bill that has been pushed by billionaires with a superiority complex. The problem is, the Texas legislature knows it would simply NOT pass if left to a public vote. The Texas legislature members and the billionaires who are funneling money into the pockets of crooked political leaders to pass this do NOT speak for me. I speak for myself and I speak for the children who have no voice yet. In that, I do NOT support any kind of education savings account program.

It goes without saying that not all parents know what's best for their children, but that doesn't mean that those children shouldn't get a fair shot at a decent life with a basic public education just because their parents are inept, or cruel. And the children of more well-off families do not deserve MORE simply because they were born with more. Private education is NOT held to the same TEKS as public schools are and is not bound to the same hiring constraints for teachers as public schools are.

We will be heard. Education is a RIGHT, not a privilege.

Anna Ousley
Texas Public School Teachers
Orange, TX

As a voting, tax-paying teacher in Texas, I ask you to vote no on any voucher bill, including HB 3: ATPE opposes any voucher program, including a tuition tax credit, education savings account, or any other such program that would direct public funds to private, home, or for-profit virtual schools.

Alan Vorwald

Self, Financial Advisor

Dallas, TX

This is the most important bill the House and Senate will consider this year. One of the most important issues facing Texans today is wealth inequality. This bill begins to solve this issue by ensuring that every child gets an opportunity for a good education, giving them an chance to get a good job to end the cycle of poverty. Additionally, by bringing free market solutions to education, we ensure that out-performing schools and teachers will be rewarded, and that underperformers will have to recognize their faults and improve. This bill will empower parents to choose the best option for their children, rather than being assigned to a chronically underperforming school due to the location of their home.

Detractors will say that this bill might cause their local school to be underfunded in the short term as Charter School competitors spring up around them. But this objection only means that their school was not competitive--it can reverse the trend by becoming competitive again. Ultimately, public school unions fear their monopoly over state-funded schools will be harmed by this bill. Like sunshine, this bill will shed light on both the good and the bad of the school union monopolies. New, innovative local competition will copy the advantages and avoid the disadvantages. Both the incumbent and the start-up will have to improve to survive.

In short, if a Texas legislator considers what is best for the student, and the voting parent, they will vote for this bill. If, instead, the legislator sides with public school unions which fund their re-election campaigns, then they will be giving up on the student and the parent. In the short term, that may help re-election campaigns. But in the long term, it hurts Texas, her growth prospects, and her children.

I urge you to vote for Education Savings Accounts, HB 3, and the future of Texas!

Amy Conine

Self

Corinth, TX

I oppose this bill. The bill does not address funding on attendance versus enrollment, and thus is not equitable to funding for public school options.

Alison Amaro

Self/Teacher

San Antonio, TX

I have been an elementary public school teacher for 13 years. My passion in life is to engage and empower all of my students to reach their academic goals as well as to teach them to be kinder to others each and every day. In my classroom I have students that are truly from all walks of life (some receive free and reduced lunch, some are in the 1% of wealth, some have disabilities) and throughout the year they learn the beauty of community and how to care for one another. We need our community and our leaders to support the important work that is being done in public schools. Our public schools need to be fully funded. Texas ranks in the bottom 10 states in the country for education spending by several measures, including the report by the Albert Shanker Institute, the University of Miami and Rutgers University. The basic allotment should be adjusted to address the inflation that all of us are experiencing as well as the increase safety measures and insurance premiums that have been put on our districts. I attended private schools from kindergarten to college. There are some great private schools, but there are also private schools that are not great. Across the board they do not serve every child. They do not adapt to address the specific needs of individual children. They are not even accessible to most children in Texas. They are therefore not a better option. We need to fully fund public schools that do serve every child before we consider doing anything else. Thank you.

Suzi Kennon
Self
Sachse, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3 because it diverts essential funding away from Texas public schools, which serve 5.4 million children and are already critically underfunded and heavily regulated. Instead of allocating public funds to a select group of students attending private institutions with no state accountability, we should prioritize strengthening and supporting the families and children who rely on Texas public schools.

Our public education system is facing unprecedented challenges. Teachers and students are overburdened and under-supported, and HB 3 exacerbates these issues by directing taxpayer dollars away from public schools. While Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) are presented as a way to expand school choice, the reality is that they leave many students behind, particularly: Students with disabilities, who are not guaranteed access to private schools or the same legal protections they receive in public schools.

Middle- and lower-income students, for whom ESA funds are insufficient to cover private school tuition and additional costs such as transportation, books, and participation fees.

Rural students, who often have little or no access to private schools, rendering ESAs meaningless for their education.

No Texas child should be left behind due to policies that further strain an already underfunded system. ESAs deplete public school resources, limiting the ability of our constitutionally required education system to provide a suitable and equitable education for all students.

The state's priority should be to fully fund public education, ensure teachers receive professional-level compensation, and invest in resources that benefit all students—not to divert funds into a voucher system that disproportionately benefits a few while weakening the foundation of public education. Texans deserve a public school system that is strong, well-funded, and capable of meeting the needs of every child.

Kelly Jarrell Personal
Austin, TX

I do NOT support vouchers for education. I do NOT support the dismantling of the Department of Education. I DO support quality public education for ALL children. That is the BEST investment for our future.

Anne Williams
RRISD Family
Round Rock, TX

Support the Texas public school system and keep public funds in public schools!

Karen Sterling
"self" "retired"
Cedar Creek, TX

Dear Rep. Gerdes, as you are WELL aware, there IS no charter, private, or parochial school alternative "choice" in either Smithville, or Cedar Creek. Our options are public school, or home school. So please do NOT vote to rob our public schools for your elitist voucher scam. Thank you!

Rebecca Beck

Self

Austin, TX

Dear Education Committee:

Please do not vote HB 3 out of committee. Our students deserve fully funded public schools, not a system that siphons public tax dollars to 1.8% of the student population. It is not fiscally responsible nor does it align with fiscal conservative values. How will the education savings accounts be funded in the future? Why are you ok with spending that much money on so few students?

I am the parent of a child who receives special education services. Our public schools provide services for my child like speech therapy, dyslexia intervention and ADHD accommodations. What private schools in Texas offer these services and would take my child? How many available spots are there for students with disabilities? You need to provide a list as a resource for parents.

Prove your assertion that you want to give students with disabilities a "choice."

A better option is to competitively fund our public schools. Don't let Texas be at the bottom of state funding dollars in this country. Our kids deserve well funded public schools. Texas could be a great driver of innovation if we invested in our students.

Imagine the possibilities if we didn't have to worry about budget deficits!

How would you vote if you were beholden to our kids and no one else? Stop HB 3—Texan students deserve it.

Roger Paulsel

Self - retired

Weatherford, TX

I am against a school voucher program if it would take away funding from public schools - and I feel certain that it would take away funding. If the reason to promote vouchers is to get away from poorly performing schools, a better solution would be to fund school improvements.

Helen Berrott-Timsb

Goose Creek ISD, Board of Trustee

Baytown, TX

All Texas school district's public schools are underfunded. I want my tax dollars to go to the public schools. I oppose private school vouchers.

Amanda Ritchie

Alex Sanger Preparatory PTA

Dallas, TX

As a proud public school parent and a PTA Board member at Alex Sanger Preparatory in Dallas ISD, I urge you to vote NO on HB3 and reject private school vouchers.

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, serving all children regardless of background, ability, or income. Texas already underfunds its public schools, ranking near the bottom nationally in per-student spending. Diverting taxpayer dollars to private schools—many of which are not required to serve all students, follow state accountability standards, or provide special education services—will only worsen the challenges facing our public school system.

At a time when our public schools are struggling with teacher shortages, outdated materials, and rising costs, we need to increase the basic allotment by at least $1,300 per student to cover inflation. Texas schools have not seen a meaningful funding increase since 2019, while costs for teacher salaries, utilities, and classroom resources have skyrocketed. Instead of using public funds for private school vouchers, we must invest in our public schools so they can continue providing high-quality education for all students.

I urge you to stand with Texas families and educators by fully funding public education instead of subsidizing private school tuition. Vote NO on HB3. Our kids, teachers, and communities are counting on you.

Yolanda Bazan, Mrs.

Self

Edinburg, TX

Fully fund and protect public Texas schools! I am a retired Texas public school educator and school counselor who served for 25 years. I can tell you firsthand that Texas and our McAllen School District does an amazing job providing the best professional development (teacher training) for our teachers and staff. Every year, teachers attend a variety of trainings on reading comprehension, math problem solving, creative writing and science inquiry. The teachers are at the top of their game with the latest pedagogy instruction on how to teach students effectively. In the classrooms, students are actively engaged in a variety of learning modes. For examples, kids use their ipads for reading and science, they use manipulatives for math, they collaboratively work in groups and in every classroom there is a Promethean board to facilitate learning. Our school also has a science lab where students attended daily to reinforce science concepts. There is so much learning and excitement in the classrooms! Students also attend library, P.E. and guidance lessons (that's me!) on a weekly schedule. Our librarian reads stories to our kids and plans different centers in addition to checking out their library books. During guidance lessons, I read stories on positive self esteem, identifying and managing emotions, career & college awareness, empathy and social skills. We role-played scenarios, practiced being respectful during conflict, listened with empathy and always encouraged each other. Our public schools, teachers & staff make an impact of our kids' learning and development. Let's continuing improving our public schools! <3

Rebecca Duncan, Mrs.

Self

Tyler, TX

I am against HB3 by Buckley. Tax payer monies and any surplus money should be used to enhance Texas public schools, not private schools.

Cally Murray

Self and public school children

Austin, TX

Funding for our public schools is already completely inefficient and lacking, it is so important to keep funding public education so all children can be educated by qualified professionals. Driving out more families by funding vouchers will cripple our communities in Austin and continue to disparege those at highest risk. Do not support the funding of private school education.

Laurie Marshall

Self/Non-profit Program Manager

El Paso, TX

To My Representatives, I stand firmly against the Education Savings Account program. It sucks resources from public education and is not enough money to serve anyone but the wealthiest people of our state. The average cost of private school in Texas is $11,000. To make an equitable opportunity, everyone should get that amount in their savings account, which is not happening in this bill. Let us raise the support of children in Texas by paying the teachers more. Finland, Singapore and Japan pay their teachers as much as doctors. Their youth have outstanding success and test way above the United States.

I am against taking $1 billion from Texas taxpayers and giving it to wealthy families who are already sending their kids to private schools. This will come at the expense of public school education, especially in rural and remote counties (more than 150 Texas counties don't have a private school to send their children to, even if they could afford the difference between what the voucher pays and what tuition costs!).

Thomas Jefferson said that "Education is the handmaiden of democracy." There are too many forces trying to destroy democracy in our country. This bill is another one of the those forces.

Children are our nation's greatest resource. Fund public education.

Cassandra Morris
Self, Medical Coder
Mesquite, TX

I urge you to vote NO on school vouchers, as they would harm our public education system. By diverting taxpayer funds to private institutions, vouchers could lead to public school closures, especially in underserved areas, leaving many children without access to reliable education.

Vouchers also threaten funding for programs supporting students with disabilities, low-income families, and those needing academic assistance, as private schools aren't required to provide such services. This would disadvantage vulnerable students and widen the gap between wealthy and underprivileged children.

Additionally, budget cuts caused by vouchers could lead to layoffs of teachers and staff, further weakening public education. Privatizing education risks turning quality education into a privilege rather than a right, undermining the foundation of equal opportunity.

Public education is vital to our democracy and serves millions of children. Please protect it by voting NO on school vouchers and investing in stronger public schools.

Respectfully, Cassandra

Melissa Balsman
Self
Dallas, TX

Vote NO to vouchers!

Raleigh Hart
Self, attorney
Arlington, TX

I would like to provide a comment against House Bill 3. Taxpayers have felt a steep tax hike when it comes to funding for their independent school districts. This is a price that I, and many of my fellow neighbors and Texas residents, are happy to bear because of our shared belief in contributing to the public good. Texas schools have approximately 5.5 million students enrolled in grades K-12. The proposed "school choice" voucher program aims to give 100,000 students $10,000 toward private school education. That is $1 billion in taxpayer funds going toward less than 2% of the students in Texas.

I urge our representatives to not lose sight of the promises and freedoms that are so fundamental in America—liberty, justice, and equality for all. One of the main reasons why America has been viewed as a leader of the free world and as a model of democracy across the globe is because of its strength in its institutions. We are entering an era where people are being urged to look at their government and public institutions with skepticism and distrust. That type of dangerous propaganda threatens to dismantle so many of the things that have made this country one that people are proud to be a part of. We should not lose sight of the importance of education, and the value that public education brings to us as a society. The children sitting in our public schools are our future doctors, attorneys, politicians, teachers, scientists, etc. Each of these children deserve the chance to learn and better themselves. If this bill passes, it will weaken public school institutions, and move money that belongs to all Texas children into the hands of less than 2% of children getting an education in our state.

Let us not pretend that "school choice" has never existed before this. Texas already has school choice. Parents are free to decide if they would like for their children to go to public school, private school, or home school. However, the price that comes with choosing to send a child to private school should not be one that the public bears, nor is it what the public has agreed to be taxed for.

Jessica Harville

Self

Allen, TX

We do not want vouchers we want what is best for our students and school. Texas education is at a low and we are not doing what we need to do in our own schools. Why would we send funds to private?

Renee Shively

self

Austin, TX

I am writing in opposition of HB 3. I am a mother to two young children who will be entering Kindergarten soon. It is essential for a first world country that all of its children have access to a good and free school with low teacher/ student ratios, extracurricular activities, disability services, and happy, well paid teachers. Texas was always known for having well funded, top rated public schools. That has changed since Republicans took over this state and started defunding our schools. Vouchers for private schools will only further defund our public schools and raise our student teacher ratios. The vast majority of our state's children will get an even worse education than they are getting now and many will drop out altogether leading to higher crime. Every year my husband and I talk about whether we should leave Texas altogether. The abortion ban, the rampant gun violence, the unstable electric grid, the hateful laws and lawsuits put forth by Ken Paxton and Greg Abbott, plus the unbearable heat is wearing us down. Texas is not a place you can be proud to live in or be from any longer. If vouchers pass and my local public school is wrecked because of it there will be no reason to continue living in Texas. Is that what Republicans want? For the entire middle class to be so completely miserable here they give up and move to a different state? Texas is a powder keg because there is not one single thing you are doing with our money that makes our lives better. Vouchers is just one more thing that harms more than it helps. Just give us all a freaking break from your let the rich get richer schemes. Do something good that Jesus would actually approve of for once.

Rick Robbins

Carroll ISD

Denton, TX

Vote no. This will kill public education. Our schools can't afford to lose any more money.

Jeffrey Bassett, MR.

Self, I am a public school teacher.

Rowlett, TX

The voucher plan will not help public education and will only benefit those who do not need help. Please help stop the voucher plan. As a 30 year education veteran I am asking you to support the majority of public educators against the voucher plan.

Alexis Henke

Self

Garland, TX

As someone who received most of my education from Texas public schools and someone who is about to send my child to kindergarten at a public school in the state of Texas, I know how important our public schools are. I know the impact they can have on a child's life and future and eventually, the future of our state. Our public schools deserve to be fully funded. All of our children in Texas deserve the highest quality education possible, which is only possible by fully funding Texas public schools.

Therefore, I strongly oppose HB3.

Kathy Shaheen
self/retired teacher
Boerne, TX

As a former teacher, a parent and a grandparent, I am strongly opposed to school vouchers. Having attended and taught in private schools, I know firsthand how private schools operate. I have witnessed students being accepted by private schools based only on their parent's relationship to board members and turned away for minor reasons. Private schools are not held to the highest standards as public schools. Private schools do not have to provide transportation, special education or many of the programs that are available in public schools. They don't have to provide free or reduced price lunches which are sometimes the only meal some students receive in a day. Since the majority of counties in Texas don't even have access to a private school in their area, how are they going to benefit from a voucher program? If working parents can't drive their children to their school of choice, how are they going to benefit? Vouchers will mainly aid those parents who already have children in private schools and don't need the money. There is no solid data that shows that private schools provide a better education. In fact, most incoming data shows just the opposite: they fail at teaching children the basics. Washington D.C., Indiana, Louisiana and Ohio have seen huge test score drops. Arizona's voucher program is a dismal failure and is bankrupting the state. Why would I support a program that threatens to do the same to Texas? I want to keep my tax dollars in the public school system and NOT in a voucher program.

Amanda Davis
Self
Coppell, TX

As currently written, HB 3 looks like welfare for the wealthy. It lacks basic income restrictions that prevent abuse by economically advanced recipients and it lacks use-restrictions on private institutions whose enrollments benefit from these funds.

In order to show that ALL students are equally important to the state of Texas, please consider adding the following conditions to HB 3:

First, please apply the household income restriction of less than 500% of the federal poverty level to 100% of all applicants.

Second, please add restrictions for private institutions accepting HB 3 funds to match those of public schools, including but not limited to all Tier 1 components of the Foundation School Program, plus an average daily attendance minimum, and meeting state assessment requirements.

Lastly, make the per private-school student dollar amount equal to the per public-school student dollar amount.

If all of these conditions cannot be added to HB 3, please do not support this bill.

Jennifer Blumenstock
self
DALLAs, TX

I strongly oppose this legislation that will take money away from our public schools. Redirecting public school funds from public to private schools is not in the interest of the general public or our most vulnerable. Private schools are private and can deny admission to any student. Private school tuition is much more expensive than what the vouchers will provide not allowing low income families to use them. Our public schools are already underfunded and this will lead to even more budgeting issues. My family has gone through the public school systems in Dallas for generations and we are proud to support our public schools with our attendance, volunteer hours and $. Thank you.

Kara Welch
Self
Dallas, TX

Please protect public education for ALL children in Texas. Say no to vouchers!

Gina Gandy Parry

Self - Teacher

Lewisville, TX

To our Representatives, from your constituents -

We urge you to stand firmly against HB3.

By providing taxpayer dollars for private school vouchers that will exceed the basic allotment for public school students by thousands of dollars, we risk undermining the very foundation of our communities and our state.

By prioritizing private school vouchers, we are effectively placing the interests of a few individuals above the needs of the many. This is a direct contradiction to the values of equity and fairness that our public education system strives to uphold. We must resist any efforts that prioritize profit over the well-being of our children.

The financial burden placed on taxpayers to support private education, without the checks and balances that govern public schools, raises serious concerns. We must ask ourselves: who truly benefits from this legislation? The answer is clear: it is the billionaires and special interest groups who stand to profit from the privatization of education. Their influence has already corrupted the integrity of our political system, as seen in the support of Governor Greg Abbott and others who prioritize profit over the future of our children.

It is imperative that we prioritize public education and the recapture dollars that are being held hostage by Greg Abbott. These funds should be utilized to enhance the quality of our public schools, ensuring that they have the resources needed to thrive. By investing in our public education system, we are investing in the future of Texas—our children, our workforce, and our communities.

I implore you to listen to the voices of your constituents who believe in the value of a strong public education system. LISTEN. NO ONE WANTS THIS. Opposing HB 3 is not just a political stance; it is a commitment to our children's future and to the principles of accountability and transparency that our public schools uphold.

Please stand against HB 3 and ensure that our public schools continue to receive the support they need to provide every child with a quality education.

Thank you for your time and attention to this critical issue.

Terry LaFon

Myself

Azle, TX

I am opposed to funding private schools at the expense of public education

Many counties in Texas don't even have private schools if you want to attend one. This makes no sense if you can afford to send them then do it but not on the taxpayers back sara beechner

self/parent

AUSTIN, TX

Texas lawmakers and Governor Abbott - How many times do we have to say this? Do your job and protect our public education. Do NOT shift money to private schools in the form of education savings accounts/vouchers or anything that taxpayers fund. Furthermore, we see what Governor Abbott is doing to threaten and force lawmakers, who oppose the voucher scheme, to comply with his agenda. No means No! Listen to your constituents. We do not want vouchers. We do not want to shift money to private schools at the expense of taxpayers. Let's make our public schools as good as they can be.

Laura Lozano, Mrs.

Self

Manchaca, TX

Do not pass this bill. It does a great disservice to our most vulnerable public school populations.

Danika Meyer

Self

Northlake, TX

I am a Texas constituent and do not agree with this bill! We want public schools funded!

Jeri Hall

Self, pharmacy technician

Aledo, TX

Stop taking money out of the public school system! Not everyone wants to send their child to a private school!

Bonnie LeBlanc, Mrs.

Self

Frisco, TX

I have loved having my children in Frisco ISD public schools. They have received a great education and have access to so many extraordinary services through Frisco ISD to build a bright future. The fine arts programs in Frisco ISD are exceptional and my children have played in the band and danced through these amazing programs. If you take away funding through vouchers these programs will no longer be funded properly and I fear our children will suffer greatly.

In addition, my child is on a 504 plan for anxiety. I am desperately worried that taking away funding for public schools will put children like her in peril that need accommodations to be able to succeed in school. This requires extra funding for the schools to be able to adhere to all of the accommodations necessary.

The most angering thing is that you are telling me my children are worth 3/5 of a private school child. It makes no sense, they are worth equal amounts when it comes to education. It's repulsive that you want to give $10000 for a private school child and $6500 for a public school child.

Private school children are already at an advantage as their parents can afford to send them to private school. They don't need us to subsidize them. Not all of us can afford the extra fees associated with private schools beyond the voucher. It's not equal, you are putting many public school children at a disadvantage. Not to mention the private schools already have a long wait list if they are any good, so you are just telling us our children aren't worth what these children are worth because they can't get in anyway.

Having previously been a private school teacher in Sweden I observed the Swedish system where the funding followed the child, so private schools and public schools were funded equally based on attendance and parents paid nothing for private school. The premise may have been nice, but I will tell you it led to many extremist schools that taught no educational curriculum, just religion, as private schools did not have the same overview as public schools.

Do not do this to our Texas children. You will wreck our education system which will lead to a more uneducated, chaotic, crime-ridden society. We don't want that for Texas.

Jessica Grimm

Self, public school parent and pta member

Austin, TX

ESAs are not the answer. Texans don't want this and if they did, it would be on a ballot. Our public schools have been underfunded and undersupported for years. Abbott is accepting millions in out of state contributions to push this down Texans throats AND WE DO NOT WANT IT. We have school choice. What we need is to stop sending public schools dollars away from public schools. Private schools have no means to provide the additional support that public schools offer - my own daughter benefits from seeing a speech language pathologist on campus. Not to mention these ESAs wouldn't help the 5.5 MILLION children in our public schools. If Abbott wants to continually bash our public education system, he should look in the mirror - he has been at the helm for years. Public education is essential for a strong, informed society. Say no to this bogus bill.

Ann Sanders

self - retired

Dallas, TX

I oppose vouchers and ESAs. Vouchers will NOT provide competition for public schools. Competition exists when the same rules apply to the competitors; public schools have hundreds of laws, rules and regulations that must be followed; private schools have none. Fund public education!

Erin Venghaus

Self

Liberty Hill, TX

No to vouchers and less money for public schools.

Patricia Castella, Retired vice principal catholic school

Self. Retired educator

NACOGDOCHES, TX

I sent my children to private schools and I taught in private schools

I paid tuition because this was my choice

Tax payers should not pay for private schools

This bill will only benefit the wealthy and will further damage public education and educators

Another attempt to tax us not for the good of our students but to allow

Money to be given to those that can afford to pay for private school's education

Private schools are a choice made by people who want a different type of education for their children

Please don't delude your voters by telling us it will help the students who need it

Public schools need help

This bill once again ignores the needy student and is only another scam to put our taxes in the pockets of the wealthy

It is elitist It does not have guidelines

Students in very bad situations won't have access to

Money would be better spent on more counseling in the Public schools

Again we are violating separation of church and state

I am weary of a political system that ignores those that need them

I have taught in private and public schools

My children have attended both private and public schools

This bill does not help the students who need it

It takes away the money needed for more resources in our public schools

Patricia Hayden Castella

Allowing tax dollars to pay for private schools is another waste of our tax dollars

It will take money from the public schools

I am a retired catholic school vice principal

I have taught in private and public schools

My children have attended private and public schools

When I choose to send them to a private Catholic school I did not expect the government to pay for it

It was my choice

This bill is vague

It has no guidelines to control how it is distributed

It is just another insult to our public school system

It is a violation of church and state

I've often worked with at risk students

They will not be served by this bill

Hire more counselors in our public schools

Offer tutoring and after school care

Do what is right for everyone not just

A select population

Do what is Right not just obey leaders who will retaliate if you go against them

Pat Castella

Linda Carr

Self

Plano, TX

Distinguished committee members, please Do Not pass vouchers or school choice in Texas. We do not want our tax dollars going to private schools or homeschools. Vouchers are welfare for the rich. They don't need welfare and we don't want to fund their vacations. Public schools have been underfunded for far too long. The Governor's has tied public school funding to his voucher scheme, proof of performance, stalling for years, not paying for public schools. It's shameful that we have $24 billion in surplus in Texas, while Texas schools are in dire need of funding. Schools are closing, combining with other schools, while some districts consider forming two separate districts. Texas schools have never been this much in need. We need our lawmakers to protect precious resources from being unethically diverted to people who don't need money for private schools! The most important resource we have is our children. Children are our future and we need to protect their education. Do the right thing and block vouchers!

Elizabeth Boyt

Self

Austin, TX

I am firmly opposed to private school vouchers. Studies of other states' efforts at this show vouchers do not help low and middle class families at all. My children attended a rural public school which was the lifeline for our small community. The efforts to destroy public education are not new but are so destructive to our democracy which depends on an educated electorate and to our communities where the schools are the hub of activity. Please do not pass this bad legislation.

Brittany Trinite

Compose Yourself LLC, self, board certified music therapist

Round Rock, TX

Please oppose HB 3. As a product of public education, former public ed music therapist, and disability rights advocate, I must emphasize the need to protect funds used for food security, transportation, and therapies for students, especially disabled students. The ESA allotment is not enough to provide these supports. If we value ALL students, we need to preserve public education. Special education students, in particular, risk rejection from private schools due to lack of protections. They may be discriminated against because private schools do not have accountability to the state or disability rights protections as public education already has in place. Please oppose HB 3.

Mary Gilroy

self, retired Texas high school science teacher

Driftwood, TX

I am COMPLETELY OPPOSED to HB 3, the school voucher bill. My daughter graduated from Wimberley High School in 1996, where she received an exemplary education. I taught high school science for 9 years at Crockett High School (AISD) and saw the benefit of bringing kids of all ethnicities and income levels together in the classroom (and gym, clubs, playing fields, etc). This plan to take my property tax dollars away from these public schools and give it to families for private school tuition makes no sense, because it is obviously grounded in a series of false narratives:

First, that this bill will provide sufficient funds for low and middle income families to pay private school tuition and give them a "choice" if they're in a failing public school. FALSE. The amounts being discussed are nowhere near what private schools cost, so will only provide a subsidy to wealthier families, many of whom already can afford private schools. No middle or low income family has enough disposable income to make up the difference.

Second, that private schools are always "better" than public ones. This has not been the case in many other states, including Ohio, Louisiana, Ohio, and Indiana. These schools are not regulated by the state (thus the "private" designation) so how will we know if our tax dollars are spent wisely??

And finally, there is some strange thought that taking this money away from public schools will not impact the quality of public education, or will somehow incentivize the school to 'improve'. There is no validity in or proof for this statement, and since Texas schools have gone six years without an increase in the basic allotment, our schools are already underfunded. Our public schools NEED MORE FUNDING, NOT LESS!! Neighborhood schools are the lifeblood of many communities, especially rural ones- where the school district is a major employer, whether for teachers, aides, bus drivers or food service staff.

There is evidence that this bill has been supported by out-of- state billionaires, who also supported pro-voucher candidates in the last primary. Please vote your conscience, and show your constituents that you truly care for ALL Texas children. VOTE NO on HB3.

Jennifer Westbrook

self

Nacogdoches, TX

As a Texan, public educator, parent, and concerned citizen for the future of education in our state, I do NOT support HB 3. I will never support any voucher program, including a tuition tax credit, education savings account, or any other such program that would direct public funds to private, home, or for-profit (such as virtual) schools. Tax funds related to education should only be used to better our public school system. It is shameful that anyone in our government would be willing to divert tax funds elsewhere instead of investing more in public education. While there are improvements that can be made to the system, HB 3 is NOT the way.

Ann Heuberger
Self / Retired educator
Austin, TX

I am very opposed HB 3 and to Abbott and the big money behind the voucher scheme to divert public tax dollars to private schools that will not have to follow the same laws, policies, and standards that the traditional private schools have to follow. And for a reminder, private schools get to say no to any student that requests to enroll, unlike the public schools which must enroll any student in their district. There is no parental choice involved in this voucher scheme, the private schools make the decision, not the parents.

HB 3 is a voucher and will funnel taxpayer dollars through education savings accounts to students for private school tuition and related expenses at an initial cost of $1 billion in state funds for the first two years that should go to our public schools. That amount will increase in subsequent years, at a growing loss to public education and other critical public services. State tax dollars must not be diverted from public to private schools. I oppose vouchers and related schemes - including education savings accounts, tax-credit scholarships and for-profit virtual schools - that use tax dollars to pay private school tuition for selected students while undermining public schools where the vast majority of Texas students are educated. Many counties in Texas do not have any private schools. Will this bill allow anyone to open a private school for the voucher money with no guardrails in place? This happened in the 1960s following the desegregation of the public schools. Voucher schemes across the country have proven to be burdensome on state budgets, and a Texas voucher would eventually add billions of dollars to the state budget without an additional funding mechanism. The universal voucher plan that Gov. Abbott supports has been used in other states to funnel tax-paid subsidies to wealthy parents who already were sending their children to private schools, while many low-income families, even with vouchers, can't afford private school tuition. Protect Texas Public Schools as required by the Texas Constitution. I urge you to vote NO to vouchers! Vote no on HB 3.

Jill Cullinan, Mrs
Self
San Antonio, TX

I have children in both public and private schools and oppose this bill. Giving taxpayer funds to people like my family, which has a household gross income of $470k per year, does nothing to support school choice. It would be far more beneficial for the state to utilize these funds to assist low income and at risk students in paying for secondary education such as college or trade schools, thus breaking the cycle of poverty and reliance on state and federal resources as well as lowering crime, unplanned pregnancy, and poor health. It would save the state billions of dollars in the long run!

lori kirkpatrick self, physician assistant
Dallas, TX

I am OPPOSED to HB 3 and vouchers, ESA's of any kind. Vouchers have proven to be very little if any help to the most struggling of students and families, and in fact many students who have attended private schools on vouchers often end up back in public school with HUGE learning losses. The majority (around 2/3rds to 3/4ths) of vouchers end up being utilized by students already in private schools-thus welfare for the wealthy. Please listen to and read peer-reviewed voucher research to understand what a bad public policy program this will be.

Wanda Mead
Self-Retired Texas Teacher
Cedar Park, TX

Public schools are the heart and source of pride for a community. Strong public schools ensure that all students, regardless of their family's financial status, have equal access to a high quality education. Greg Abbott and Dan Patrick are controlled by billionaire mega donors who have no care or concern for the average Texas family. School voucher programs undermine public education, lack proper accountability and fragment communities. Please show your support for public school teachers and neighborhood schools by Voting to Fully Fund our public schools and Vote NO to any Voucher/ESA bill. I vote and this issue matters greatly to me! Thank you.

Carrie Delmare
Self
San Antonio, TX

I am in my 9th year as a public school teacher to children with moderate to severe disabilities. I vehemently oppose SB 3 for the following reasons:

I have spent well over the annual tax deduction of my personal money on the supplies needed to make my classroom run, such as laminating sheets, Velcro, colored printing, and so on. I do my job with the broken and already limited supplies available to me. I watch my students succeed time and time again, though the odds are stacked against them because the state of Texas continues to critically underfund the only school system available to them. I fear that ESA's will make resources far more scarce for our public schools. I fear that I will have to spend more and more of my own money to fund the supplies that are necessary in my classroom.

Next, creating a voucher system will further segregate my students from their peers and their communities. There are incredibly limited private school options for students with moderate to severe disabilities across our state; creating a voucher system without considering the limited educational options of students like mine is irresponsible.

As a future (only 20 more years to go) retired teacher, I fear the impact that a voucher system would have on TRS. A decline in public school teachers within the education system would be detrimental to TRS. Retired teachers deserve a fully-funded retirement system. Current teachers deserve to be safe from an increase in contributions to offset the harm done by a voucher system.

Finally, Texans didn't vote for an entirely new system of educational bureaucracy. We aren't stupid. We know exactly why school choice was put as an emergency item. If Texans had a vote, we would absolutely vote no to ESA's.

Texans know that creating this new sect of educational bureaucracy will be incredibly costly both in the short and long term and once we start ESA's, there is no turning back.

As a teacher, parent, and actively engaged community member, I strongly oppose my tax dollars funding private schools and homeschool families when my community's public schools are consistently and systemically underfunded.

Thank you for your time.

Melissa Keeland, Mrs.
Self
Cypress, TX

I DO NOT support the voucher bill! Schools are already stretched too thin. I am a school teacher, and I know that children will suffer from this bill. No to vouchers! Most of your constituents do not agree with it, as well as other Republicans, and yet you accepted money in donations from a man that does not even live in Texas to go against people in your own party that did not agree with you. It is despicable!

Keith Melvin
Self
El Paso, TX

Many parents want the best education possible for their children. Many find the means to send their children to private schools. But the rest depend on well funded school districts to provide the best education possible. This bill will not support those parents and is a thinly veiled subsidy for families already paying for their children's education. What will happen when districts face budget shortfalls? Especially since we face huge property tax bills in Texas already. As a retired homeowner I have to budget wisely to pay my property taxes each year. But my pockets are only so deep. Thank You.

Carol Hubbard
self
Georgetown, TX

Taxpayer funds need to go to Public NOT Private Schools!

Emad Salem
Self. Realtor
Eules, TX

Chairperson and members of the committee,

My name is Emad Salem, and I am here today as a concerned parent and community member. I strongly oppose the implementation of school voucher programs in Texas.

Public education is foundational to our democracy and community. Diverting taxpayer funds to private institutions through vouchers weakens our public schools, reduces accountability, and undermines equal opportunity. Voucher programs typically benefit families already capable of choosing private education, while disadvantaged students remain in underfunded schools with fewer resources.

Texas public schools educate all children, regardless of background, income, or ability. We must prioritize strengthening these schools by fully funding them, improving teacher pay, and enhancing programs that have proven effective for student success. Public dollars should remain in public schools, ensuring transparency and accountability to taxpayers.

I urge you to oppose school vouchers and instead invest in high-quality public education for every child in Texas.

Thank you.

Teresa Bliss
Self - School Admin Asst
Austin, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS!

Ariel Zimmerman

Self

Leander, TX

NO to ESAs and NO to De-Funding Public Education and Special Education

I live in Leander, Texas and I strongly oppose Educational Savings Accounts (ESAs) and urge you to focus on supporting public schools.

ESAs (vouchers) directly hurt students with disabilities who receive Special Education services in Public Schools in the State of Texas. Diverting $1 Billion of my PUBLIC taxpayer money to private schools who do not even acknowledge IDEA, do not follow IEPs and only provide services when they are negotiated, compromised and then charged back to parents at exorbitant rates well above typical tuition rates it is theft of services and money to the most vulnerable population in Texas.

14% of the 5.4 million public school students in Texas receive special education services. That's 760,000 students at a minimum. These ESAs are completely inaccessible to at least 90% of our disabled students, and that is before they have a chance at any lottery or know if a private school will accept, serve, or retain them. There's no accountability. Not of services, not of the $1 Billion of public taxpayer money this legislature wants to pour into private schools and not of impact or outcomes of our disabled students.

Even if we say ALL of the ESAs go to disabled kids receiving special education services, that still leaves a minimum of 700,000 students receiving special education services in underfunded understaffed Public Schools that this state put in this situation. This causes direct harm to these students with disabilities, the most vulnerable individuals in society, and it's at the hands of those who are supposed to represent us.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice (and students), and have the courage to do the right thing: say No to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Thank you.

Sincerely, Ariel Zimmerman

Adam Purnell

Self

Houston, TX

This private school voucher program will devalue public education where it is most needed, I.e. rural and under privileged communities. I would recommend putting this on the ballot for the people of Texas to vote on. I believe you'll be surprised by how unpopular this proposal is.

William Smith

Self - CPA

San Antonio, TX

As a husband to a teacher whose school is already underfunded and unsupported, I vehemently oppose allowing our public tax dollars to be given to private institutions. This will only serve to further undercut the already hurting public school system.

Robert Sherer

Self, systems administrator

Houston, TX

The state should be properly funding public education and not attempting to give public money away to private schools via vouchers. Private, religious, and home schools are not accountable to the state. Studies of similar programs found that voucher money largely goes to students ALREADY in private schools. Private schools are not required to accept poor or disabled students, and are not equipped to help children with special needs. And finally, siphoning public funds away from rural schools will deprive students of education opportunities where public school is the only alternative.

Latasha Melcher

Self

Midland, TX

As a public school teacher and parent of an upcoming kindergarten, I support public education and do not want to see education savings accounts. I will be paying close attention to which representatives back vouchers and they will not be receiving my future support.

Anne Ware

Self

Fort WForth, TX

I am emailing to publicly ask Texas State Representatives to oppose the upcoming school voucher bill for many reasons. Here are but a few:

- My biggest concern is that parents are being misled by an illusion of school choice – or a downright lie. There is no guarantee that each and every parent who wants to choose can actually have that choice fulfilled. The $10,000.00 proposed by the Senate and the 85% proposed by the House will not help low and even middle-income parents choose private schools in Tarrant County where tuition ranges from 11,900.00 per year to 29,000.00, not to mention other fees and costs. Most tuitions are in the upper end of that range (see Top 20 Best Private Schools in Tarrant County (2025))
- The proposed bill will siphon desperately needed funds from public education. We've seen it happen in other states that have adopted voucher programs – their funding for public schools has decreased. And it will also happen to Texas schools (see 89th Legislative Session: Voucher Loss Analysis - Every Texan) We can't let this happen to Texas schools. Taxpayer dollars should be spent on improving public education for all Texas children.
- The proposed bill also uses taxpayer money to fund private education without the accountability and transparency required of traditional public schools. Taxpayers will not know if their hard-earned tax dollars are being spent efficiently and effectively.

As a professional who has worked in public education and with organizations that serve children and families, I care deeply about this issue. Texas needs to support and fund quality public education for all children, not just those whose parents can afford and access private education.

Anne Walkup, Mrs.

self/former public school educator

Austin, TX

I oppose you House Bill 3 as I believe it diverts unfair funds to private schools. I am a Texas voter and a former teacher depending on TRS retirement, I want you to fully fund existing public school mandates. Please fund our public schools and don't pass the voucher bill out of committee. Our current teacher retirement system depends on current teachers supporting retired teachers. This bill will inevitably cause public schools to close, and fewer teachers will be paying into TRS, destabilizing it for current and future retirees. Thank you.

Spencer Wagley

Self/ teacher

Cypress, TX

Vote no on vouchers that give money to less accountable to the public schools such as private schools and charter schools

Kasey Edwards, Mrs.

Self

Mckinney, TX

Hello. My name is Kasey and I am a mother of 3 school aged children. Twin boys in 5th grade and a daughter in 8th. My children love their public schools. My daughter is involved in the music program and my sons will be as well next year. I would encourage you to VOTE NO on HB 3 . The school vouchers would take money away from programs like music, specials and discourage seasoned teachers to stay in education with HB3 putting their retirement in jeopardy. The public school teachers have been vocal about the terrible cuts coming to school districts because our Governor wants to pad his rich buddies pockets. Keep my children and all the students of public school from suffering from budget cuts and further more seeing the rich get richer.

Thank you for your time.

Kasey Edwards

Stephanie Wong, Mrs.

Parent

San antonio, TX

Vouchers should not be approved unless there is more accountability for those funds and similar standards required for private schools as they are for public.

Sara Pollard

Self, Licensed Master Social Worker

Fort Worth, TX

I strongly oppose school voucher programs like those in SB 2 and HB 3. Decades of research show vouchers harm public education and fail to improve student outcomes.

Lower Student Achievement: Studies on voucher programs in Louisiana, Ohio, and Indiana found students who switched to private schools performed worse in math and reading than their public school peers. Vouchers do not guarantee better education.

Defunding Public Schools: Texas already ranks 43rd in per-student funding. Vouchers divert taxpayer money from public schools to private institutions, worsening underfunding and inequities.

Lack of Accountability: Private schools receiving vouchers are not held to the same standards as public schools. They do not have to follow state curriculum, report academic performance, or hire certified teachers.

Harm to Special Education Students: Public schools are required to serve all students, including those with disabilities. Private schools receiving vouchers are not, leaving students with special needs without adequate services.

Increased Segregation: Voucher programs have been linked to greater racial and economic segregation in schools, further exacerbating inequities in education access.

Limited Access for Low-Income Families: The average cost of private schools far exceeds voucher amounts, meaning wealthier families benefit most while low-income students are left behind.

Texans overwhelmingly support strong public schools. Instead of diverting funds to private institutions with little oversight, we must invest in public education to ensure all students receive quality learning opportunities. I urge you to oppose vouchers and protect public schools. Our state has a surplus in the budget, why are we taking away from marginalized communities when we could just allocate more funding from our surplus. It appears to me that greed has won over our children's education in our state. We can and should do better for all of our children, not just the wealthy. I strongly suggest opposition on this bill.

Sincerely,

Sara Pollard, LMSW and Mother of 2.

Fort Worth, TX

Claudia Hurst
Self
Weatherford, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3. It is a fiscal money pit and jeopardizes the stability of public school funding. Secondly, I do not believe that the Texas Constitution allows for monies to be designated for private school tuition. Thirdly, a few wealthy donors should not supplant the voice of 33 million Texans. Constituents have overwhelmingly said NO to vouchers time and again. This year is no different. Thank you for your consideration of a NO vote on vouchers.

Theresa Teltschik
Self
The Woodlands, TX

I oppose HB 3 because it will benefit only the wealthy. All Texas children deserve a good education. This bill will be especially harmful to small rural schools like the one I attended. Please vote no on HB 3. Thank you for your consideration.

Cyndra Krogen-Morton
Self Social work student
Nacogdoches, TX

As a Texas resident and taxpayer I vehemently oppose HB 3 and the diverting of Texas taxes to be used on any form of education by families with children. If people want private school education for their children they should pay the full cost. Texas public schools should receive all of the tax money that is collected in the state. Our public schools are essential to the well-being of all children and residents in the state and should not be compromised by an attempt to supplement private education. No school vouchers for Texas!

Sarah Lackey
Self, social worker
Leander, TX

Hello Public Education Committee Members,
I am writing to express my deep concern about HB 3.
I have two children in Leander ISD. We are already struggling and the school district just announced massive cuts for the next school year.
It is unacceptable to prioritize funding for private schools when funding for public schools has not increased since 2019. This voucher bill is a scam meant to fill Greg Abbott's pockets and is disregarding the welfare of Texas children. $10K would not even make private school accessible for most people who cannot afford it at this time. Many counties in Texas do not have private schools. Lastly, I have a son in special education for ADHD and Dyslexia and private schools have no obligation to provide services for him and make the appropriate accommodations. He is one of over 600,000 children who are the most vulnerable in schools and need your full support.
Please do not support this voucher bill. I'm begging you to support the public schools that greatly need your help.
Sincerely,
Sarah Lackey

Teri Zadnichek

Self

Temple, TX

As a recently retired educator with 30 years of service to Texas public education, I would be remiss if I did not reiterate the duration and depth of my journey's experiences that have led me to this conclusion. I served as a teacher, interventionist, coach, curriculum instructor, mentor, current principal certification, assistant principal, data analyst, and many other roles as needed with a Master's in Educational Technology Leadership.

In all my years of service, I had the honor of being led by the best in Central Texas. I have seen everything from the best run schools to the worst. I have seen leaders who lead and experienced terrible leaders, too.

My last assignment was being hired by Priority Charter Schools through a TEA grant-funded position as Director of Data and Strategic Planning. I was super curious about who and why anyone would attend a charter school, when our neighborhood schools were pretty good. My eyes were opened during the two and a half years I spent there.

One size does not fit all, and I get it. I won't run through the many stories I encountered, but will use an event that happened today in Killeen, Texas as a simple example. If it is true that a student was stabbed in the neck and airlifted off the premises, why do I have to send my student there anymore, mandated by law? Or what about the news reports of teachers being arrested for inappropriate actions? What about those students affected? Should they have to walk those same halls knowing everyone in the school "Knows?"

I would instead put that money into an at-home curriculum, go to the nearest private school with strict policies, or create my co-op or school, for that matter.

Most families will likely choose their own neighborhood school because it's a great school, out of convenience, or because it's generally just what people do. However, empowering parents to choose what and how they would like their students educated in the State of Texas sounds like a very solid option for Texas Families. Make it fair, transparent, and VOTE YES for School Choice!

Kerry Peters

Self

Conroe, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to House Bill 3 (HB 3), as I believe it will have a detrimental impact on our community, which has always been a strong supporter of public education. Public schools are the cornerstone of our community, and HB 3, with its proposals, threatens to undermine the quality of education that our children deserve.

Impact on Local Education Funding: Public education in our area is already facing budgetary constraints. Reductions in state funding, which this bill may potentially cause, will only worsen this situation. Our children deserve access to high-quality educators, school resources, and extracurricular programs. The potential cuts or redirection of funds that HB 3 suggests would force our local school districts to make painful decisions that could lead to larger class sizes, reductions in teaching staff, and the elimination of programs that benefit students and help them thrive.

Undermining Community Values: Our community has consistently prioritized the well-being and educational success of our students. HB 3, by reducing the funding and support for public education, reflects a shift away from these values. Many families in our area rely on public schools for not only academic education but also essential services such as free and reduced lunch programs, special education services, and after-school care. Removing or reducing funding for these services would leave vulnerable children and families at risk, further deepening the divide between affluent and underserved communities.

The Long-Term Impact on Students: The long-term consequences of HB 3 are clear: fewer opportunities for students to excel, especially those from lower-income families. By focusing on cuts and redirections of resources, the bill will disproportionately harm students who already face barriers to success. Our students deserve a fair and equitable education, regardless of their zip code or socioeconomic background. HB 3 risks reinforcing systemic inequalities rather than addressing them.

A Call for Investment in Public Education: Instead of reducing funding or reshaping the financial structure in ways that hurt our schools, we should be advocating for increased investment in public education. Public schools are the foundation for a brighter, more prosperous future for Texas. We need to prioritize equitable funding to ensure that every student, regardless of background, has access to the resources and support they need to succeed.

For these reasons, I urge you to oppose HB 3 and work towards policies that provide more support and funding for public education, not less. Our community depends on it.

Sarah Baston Skiles

Self

Northlake, TX

My name is Sarah Baston Skiles and I am a constituent in zip code 76247. I am writing to ask my representative to vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy. Thank you.

Bill King, Mr.

Self - retired judge

Austin, TX

State Representatives are created by the Texas Constitution and have duties imposed on them by their oath to the Texas Constitution. The Texas Constitution creates and mandates an efficient public education system for all Texas children. This is a Constitutional requirement. Your duty is to make this happen. .

Your first priority is to fully fund the public education system so that all students can be adequately educated. After you fully fund public education, then you can talk about special programs not required by the Texas Constitution.

Just do your job!

Chris Armstrong

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose any school voucher legislation that diverts public education funds to private schools without transparency, accountability, or measurable outcomes. Our public schools are the backbone of our communities, and they serve all children, not just a select few. Sending tax dollars to private institutions with no oversight is a reckless use of public funds that undermines both fairness and educational quality in Texas.

Lack of Accountability: A Black Hole for Taxpayer Money

Public schools operate under strict standards for accreditation, curriculum, and teacher qualifications. They must meet state testing requirements and are accountable to voters through elected school boards. Private schools, however, are not held to the same standards. Many do not require certified teachers, do not follow state curricula, and do not participate in standardized testing. There is no way to measure whether our tax dollars are leading to better educational outcomes.

Under a voucher system, we would be handing out taxpayer dollars with no strings attached. These funds could go to schools that fail to provide a high-quality education, discriminate in admissions, or close unexpectedly, leaving students stranded and taxpayers footing the bill. Texas cannot afford to pour public funds into a system with no enforceable quality controls.

Public Schools Serve All—Private Schools Choose Who to Accept

Public schools accept every child, regardless of ability, background, or economic status. Private schools can pick and choose students, often leaving behind those with disabilities, English language learners, and students who need extra support. Vouchers do nothing to help those most in need—instead, they create a system where families who can already afford private tuition get a subsidy, while lower-income families still can't cover the full cost of attendance.

Every dollar taken from our public schools weakens them. Texas schools are already underfunded, with teacher shortages, outdated materials, and growing class sizes. Diverting funds to unregulated private schools takes money away from the very schools that serve the majority of our children. Worst of all, public schools, required to comply with special education, IEPs, etc will have the heavy burden of a huge percentage of their students being in these buckets, in numbers never seen before. This further disadvantages public schools.

We should invest in smaller class sizes, better teacher pay - not send taxpayer dollars into an unregulated private system that lacks transparency.

Protect Public Schools, Protect Texas Kids.

This bill does not improve education—it weakens our public school system and redirects funds without accountability. I urge you to reject this bill and instead focus on real solutions to strengthen education. Our children deserve better than a system that gambles with their education. If you really want school choice, make it a fair playing field first and hold spending to standards.

Paul Niles, Chef / instructor

Self

The Colony, TX

I don't want my tax dollars funding any private education. One that doesn't answer to the voters, can teach any curriculum they desire. One that can pick and choose whom they want in.

If you don't want to play with the average kids, don't expect us to pay for your private playground.

Sydney Ellis

Self

Plano, TX

Texas' public schools already face significant challenges in providing quality education, and this bill exacerbates those problems by reducing funding for traditional public schools. Our own elementary school is struggling as it is to make ends meet. This year our PE coaches had a budget of $200 to replace equipment. Luckily our PTA spent $2400 to get them the supplies they needed for a 40 year old school that serves 520 children in north Texas.

Soren Henderson

Concerned student from a public texas high school.

Kyle, TX

This bill will be ineffective to support the lower class, only raising the ceiling above the lower class, keeping them lower class. If Abbott truly cared about Texans, he'd realize that this bill only supports an insignificant faction of the populous. But he doesn't care because he's apart of this insignificant portion due to the upper class holding all the power in this great state. 33.76% of the electorate in the state of Texas is considered poor and lower class, while the upper class only makes up fewer than 10% of the Texas electorate. This bill would put a third of Texans at a detriment to aid nearly a ninth. Governor Abbott will tell you that this bill will make the lower class able to access private schools, but it only will add to the already steep bills families face in the modern age. In addition, this bill will only raise our state taxes and defund the schools that support us all. Without education, the US will quickly decline, and the great state of Texas has always set precedents for other states. If we show weakness in the normalization of the decline of education, we only serve to detriment the entire nation.

Danielle Webster

Self; Homemaker

Argyle, TX

As a parent of four children navigating the Texas public school system, I urge you to vote NO on HB 3. I want free and accessible public education for our kids, not welfare for the rich.

Carolyn Kundiger

Self Recent retiree

Houston, TX

Our public schools need more, not less public support. Taking our tax dollars away from public schools and handing them to private schools -- which are free to pick and choose who they admit and who they don't -- is publicly funded discrimination. It is rewarding the privileged and punishing the children who most need our help to live their most quality, productive lives. And it's driving the divide between the two even wider. Our children, all of them, deserve better.

Cherrise Thomas

Tax payers

Vidor, TX

Please vote NO on the voucher bill. This is a disservice for our public schools and teachers. You have seen the actuarial report for TRS that shows it is currently sound, but will be insolvent in 12-14 years the way vouchers are going to be funded. Schools have already been underfunded for several years as blackmail to get vouchers passed. How are schools supposed to be successful if they aren't adequately funded? Schools are being held to an unfair standard! Then you have TEA constantly making more and more mandates that aren't funded either. The TEA mandates have become so laborious that there are literally not enough minutes in a day to do all of them and adequately teach every subject required. This is probably why Abbott appointed a non-education person to be the head of TEA to sabotage our education system to make vouchers look better. We spend millions on STAAR testing on an invalid test. When true scores are in the 40's on many tests and they use a "scoring system" to show those students "passed" there is definitely a problem. The money could be better spent on fixing our school system than on vouchers on a real test. The other thing is private school students should not be valued more than public school students. A private student can't be worth $10,000 and a public student $6,200. They should be the same! The private schools should be held accountable. Public money should have the same requirements wherever it goes! That means it is for ALL students! You can't compare the success of a private school that only takes top students without any discipline or educational problems to public schools that are required to take ALL students with any baggage they bring with them. Make it a fair playing field if a comparison is going to be made! As a taxpayer, parent, and grandparent, I am asking each of you to vote against vouchers. Provide for our 5.5million public school children that deserve a great education from our great state of Texas!

Thank You,

Cherrise Thomas

Elizabeth Bowman, Dr.

Self, Research scientist

Round Rock, TX

As a parent of two young children in Round Rock ISD, I am deeply concerned about HB3 and its push for school vouchers, which threaten to divert essential funding from public schools. While Governor Abbott claims education funding is at an all-time high, our schools continue to struggle. The Austin American-Statesman and Round Rock ISD's latest performance report highlight a critical funding gap that is harming students and educators.

Despite increased appropriations, per-student funding—adjusted for inflation—is lower than in 2010-11. With federal pandemic relief funds expiring, districts are forced to make painful cuts, including layoffs and school closures. In Round Rock ISD, teacher turnover has risen sharply from 15.9% in 2021-22 to 23.9% in 2022-23, surpassing the state average. More than 1,400 teachers have resigned in two years, making it harder to retain experienced educators for our children.

The state's failure to increase the basic allotment, stagnant at $6,160 per student since 2019, further limits districts' ability to offer competitive salaries and maintain quality programs. Meanwhile, unfunded mandates, such as security officer requirements and underfunded special education programs, create additional strain. Local taxpayers now bear a growing share of school funding, despite state leaders touting property tax cuts.

Public education has been the foundation of this country's greatest achievements—from reaching the moon to advancements in medicine and technology. It fosters a stronger democracy, promotes social justice, and builds communities. At a time when public schools are in crisis, HB3's push for school vouchers would only worsen the situation. While Governor Abbott insists vouchers won't directly pull funds from public schools, the reality is that as students leave, per-student funding declines, further destabilizing districts already facing budget shortfalls.

I urge you to support:

- An immediate increase in the basic allotment to reflect inflation.
- Additional funding for special education, school safety, and other state-mandated programs.
- Policies ensuring state funding grows with enrollment rather than shifting the burden to local taxpayers.
- The rejection of school voucher proposals that siphon funds from public schools.

The Texas Legislature has a duty to ensure all children receive a high-quality education, regardless of ZIP code. As a mother of two RRISD students, I want to know my children—and all Texas students—are getting the resources they need to succeed. Please take action in the upcoming legislative session to oppose HB3 and protect public education.

Heidi Lario

self - full time teacher, part-time bakery employee

Melissa, TX

I personally disagree with the voucher program on several fronts, but after watching the state legislature brutally fail public education 2 years ago, I believe we've reached a breaking point. We no longer have the luxury of fighting against every issue that doesn't directly serve our public schools. We now wave our white flags. We surrender.

If vouchers and teacher raises must go hand in hand, so be it. Pass the vouchers. But we are asking for something more important: Increased teacher pay and better funding for our public schools. These are the real needs that cannot be ignored.

Anita Goss, Mrs

Self/ Retired

Arlington, TX

I am against this bill for Vouchers for the private schools it will be giving money to more wealthy people who can already afford the schools and take away services and funding for the public schools. The majority of citizens in this state cannot afford the private schools even with vouchers. Many are in rural areas not even close to private schools. Private schools can decide not to even allow students into their schools. Every child in this state deserves to have the best education available. There is no one less deserving. Governor Abbott is wrong, no question about it. He should not be threatening and and hateful in his anger at people who don't want the vouchers. This whole voucher situation is a scam and harmful to all who are not wealthy. Governor Abbott is fully aware of his intentions. Vote NO on HB3.

Gold Iwe

Self

Sugar Land, TX

This bill is whack and dangerous. How is the governor not seeing the actions of the Bill is going to affect every Texan school in the state? It's madness, I say!

Brigid Wilson, Dr

Self

Houston, TX

I have been a public school teacher in Texas for over 2 decades. I defend public schools and vote no against vouchers. Education is a civil right.

Sally White

Self

Plano, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House of Representatives,

I strongly oppose HB3 and urge you to reject any efforts to divert taxpayer dollars away from our public schools through an education voucher program. Public funds should remain dedicated to strengthening our public education system, which serves the vast majority of Texas children.

Texas consistently ranks among the lowest states in education funding and student outcomes. Instead of addressing this crisis by fully funding public schools, HB3 would further undermine them by diverting resources to private schools that lack accountability. The solution to struggling schools is investment, not abandonment.

Vouchers siphon critical resources from already underfunded public schools, exacerbating disparities and leaving students with fewer opportunities. Texas schools need more investment—not less—to address teacher shortages, improve facilities, and ensure every child has access to a quality education.

Unlike public schools, private institutions receiving taxpayer-funded vouchers are not required to follow the same academic, financial, or nondiscrimination standards. They can selectively admit students, leaving many—especially those with disabilities or from marginalized communities—without meaningful access.

Furthermore, HB3 threatens the separation of church and state. Many private schools receiving vouchers are religious institutions, primarily Christian, meaning public tax dollars could fund specific religious teachings. As a taxpayer, I do not want my money subsidizing religious education that does not reflect my beliefs. Public schools exist to serve all students, regardless of faith, and taxpayer funds should remain within that system.

Private schools are a choice, not a right. If a family chooses private education, that is their decision—but taxpayers should not be forced to fund it. Public education is a fundamental right and must be fully funded.

It is also deeply concerning that billionaire Jeff Yass, who doesn't even live in Texas, has spent $12 million pushing this voucher scheme in our state. Why should an out-of-state billionaire have more influence over our schools than Texas parents, educators, and taxpayers? Our education system should be shaped by those who live, work, and raise families here—not by wealthy outsiders with a privatization agenda.

Rather than funding an unproven voucher system, Texas should focus on fully funding public schools, increasing teacher pay, and expanding resources for students. Public education is the foundation of our democracy and economy and must remain a priority.

Please stand with Texas families and educators by opposing HB3. Our taxpayer dollars should support strong, accountable, and inclusive public schools—not subsidize private education.

Sincerely, Sally White

Plano, TX

Thomas Peoples

Self

Denton, TX

It is not only foolish, but is shortsighted and a misappropriation of tax payers money, to take it from a community and then rather than reinvesting it appropriately in said community giving it to a non state controlled school that is separate from the community that pays for it. We live in an age in which the phrase "We the People" is of great importance, this bill is a modern example of taxation without representation. To take the money from taxpayers and the public schools their children should be able to attend, both safely and with the best education the best state in the union could offer is an affront to the wellbeing of our communities. It is not of benefit to "We the People". If you find that there are no improvements or investments that could be made to our education system in order for it to be one of the top in this great country, you could at the very least invest it in programs that provide security in order to allow children to feel safe enough to focus, work hard, and become the wave of the next generation of Texans that will move our state ever forward. But do not invest it in private institutions or institutions that do not represent the entirety of a community. The children at these private institutions are given the opportunity to attend public schools for free, but if they or their parents feel it necessary to attend an alternative they are welcome to pay. And if they are unable to do so, the public schools in their community should be funded adequately so that they are of the high quality these parents desire. We do not pay our taxes in order to prop up a crowdfunded educational welfare program for some children, this money is for all of our children, here in our communities, with us.

Terri Bertrand

Self

Dripping springs, TX

Our teachers need to be paid more in order to improve our educations system. Allowing vouchers for wealthy. People will eventually take funds from our school districts. Less students in the classroom means less money for the schools. And less money for the schools means poor education.

public schools need

Michele Haram

Self

Austin, TX

This bill hurts rural Texans and as such hurts all Texans. Our resources need to go to fund public education, not to subsidize private schools for rich people. There is no guarantee that private schools will accept ANY student and no oversight on the curriculum. This bill is not good for Texans.

Darlene Aksoy

self, retired

Coppell, TX

Please vote NO on school vouchers by any other name. School vouchers will take yet more money away from public schools. Public schools must be fully funded FIRST. If there is any funding left after that, specially designated funding with strict boundaries around it may be considered with renewed funding requirements each year. Stop sabotaging public education in Texas by withholding needed support and then claiming public education isn't serving our students. Stop the hypocrisy. Fund our public schools. NO to vouchers!

Donna Waddill

School vouchers

Temple, TX

Do not want vouchers for schools. It is a disservice to public schools.

Vote NO on vouchers

Donald Crites
self
Henderson, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House Committee on Education,

I strongly support HB 3 and the expansion of school choice to ensure that families can select the best education for their children. Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) provide much-needed flexibility, allowing parents to tailor their children's education to their needs.

As a grandparent with grandchildren in Texas public schools, I recognize the importance of strengthening education across all sectors—public, private, and homeschool. While HB 3 is a step in the right direction, I urge the committee to consider amendments that preserve educational freedom and prevent unnecessary regulatory burdens on schools.

Concerns and Recommendations

Testing Requirements – While HB 3 does not impose STAAR testing on ESA recipients, the requirement for nationally norm-referenced tests could still be restrictive for private and homeschool families that use alternative assessment methods. I recommend ensuring flexibility, allowing portfolio evaluations or school-chosen assessments to demonstrate student progress.

Regulatory Oversight – The purpose of school choice is to foster competition, encouraging schools to innovate and meet student needs. Private schools and homeschoolers that accept ESA funds should not be subjected to restrictive government oversight, such as curriculum mandates or administrative red tape that could limit their ability to provide a distinct educational experience. HB 3 should explicitly protect the autonomy of these institutions while ensuring proper financial accountability.

Support for Public Schools – While choice is essential, public schools remain a vital part of Texas education and should not be burdened with excessive bureaucracy. Many public school educators are frustrated by the growing administrative demands that take time away from teaching. I encourage the committee to ensure HB 3 does not introduce additional regulatory burdens on public schools and instead promotes a level playing field where schools compete on quality, not compliance.

Conclusion

I appreciate the committee's efforts to improve education in Texas. HB 3 should advance parental choice while ensuring that all schools—public, private, and homeschool—are free to innovate and serve students without unnecessary government interference. A strong, competitive education system will benefit all Texas families.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Robert Williams
None
ARLINGTON, TX

I believe that giving public money for private schools is nothing but a gift to Greg Abbotts rich friends. It will starve public schools of desperately needed money. That is why I am against this bill.

Nancy Hinojosa

Self

Richardson, TX

Until we are willing to fully fund public schools as required by our own Constitution we should not allow payments to private schools.

My property tax for the school district is higher than my county tax. I am willing to pay it if it all goes to educating Texas children in public schools. Otherwise it is a tax break for wealthy parents.

I agree that tax money for parks shouldn't pay for homeowner's yards. I agree that public road funds should not repave private driveways.

I also believe that any regulation applying to a public school needs to apply to private schools as well.

Offering a pitiful $220 a year per student to offset is unacceptable.

A good public education for every Texas children should be a right.

Attending a private school should be a privilege.

Katie Hobson

STATE OF TEXAS

AUSTIN, TX

I oppose school vouchers! I grew up in Texas public schools in the DFW area. Access to a public school education enabled me to go on to college and ultimately become a lawyer who now serves the people of Texas working for the State. A voucher program would kill many public schools and this would be especially devastating in parts of the state where there are no private school alternatives. In rural areas, if the local school dies, the town often dies shortly thereafter. Please don't gut our state's great tradition of public education. It is such an important part of our DNA that you can become highly educated in our state even without access to private schools. I went to college in Michigan and met many people from small towns in other states who had an inferior education to mine because their public school system was not as strong. I don't want that outcome for future Texans.

Lauren Curtis

Self

Grapevine, TX

Please do not support the passing of HB3. Public education is already feeling the impacts of the economy. Public schools are so important for the education of our youth and also our communities. I fear education savings account would destroy the quality of our public schools, which are a necessity for the majority of Texas families.

Rajesh Muddasani

Self

Prosper, TX

I do not agree to the vouchers.

Diana Spain

Self

Austin, TX

While I acknowledge that families want more educational choices, this school voucher program does not create real choice for families. There are certainly many issues with our public education system that prevent it from effectively serving students, but funneling money out of this system and into private institutions through vouchers is not the solution to our problems. A strong public education system is integral to our democracy, and vouchers undermine public education. Additionally, these programs as implemented in other states lack proper accountability, exacerbate inequality, engage in exclusionary practices, fragment communities, exacerbate segregation, and decrease academic achievement. Instead of diverting funds to private institutions, perhaps you should focus on strengthening our public schools to ensure that every child, regardless of their background, has access to a high-quality education. Vouchers will take money from public school districts and will also have a detrimental impact on the Teachers Retirement System. We need to fully fund Texas public schools, so that all Texas children can get a quality education like I got, and parents won't have any reason to think an alternate would be better!

Aleya McGill
Self
Lewisville, TX

My family has already felt the impact of this bill, though it hasn't been passed. We purchased a home in 2023 before my youngest child began kindergarten. Our house was strategically purchased walking distance to the elementary school because my husband and I both have to be at work early and my mother could walk her to school. My mother does not drive. Last fall our district voted to close our elementary school along with 4 others due to the lack of property funding from the state. Our district is large and has a very high tax income, but unfortunately it's capped at what it receives and the rest goes into the general fund. If a district needs that money back for any reason, there is not currently a way for them to access it. That paired with our per student basic allotment being $6100 (for this district that is the correct amount based on all factors). My family (along with all the others impacted, hundreds if not over a thousand) now have to make serious changes we were not expecting. We have to coordinate with our jobs to ensure we can drive our child to the new zoned school, which is in the opposite direction of where we both need to go for work. We have to uproot our child who feels safe and secure at her current school and force her to move somewhere unfamiliar. We have to deal with the financial impacts to our property value with the loss of a school that is walking distance, something we paid extra for less than 2 years ago. We cannot get our school back, but all around the schools in Texas are struggling unnecessarily due to the lack of funding. I gladly pay property taxes so my local schools can be run at the best level but the state does not seem to care about that. My money should go to my school district, not to a private school, not to a homeschool. The basic allotment needs to be raised to at least $10k per student and our teachers need to be paid for the amazing work they do. Do not pass a voucher bill, use our funds that we have already paid to fund our public schools fully.

Matthew Sell
self
Fairview, TX

School voucher programs will weaken the public education system taking taxpayer dollars away from schools that serve the majority of students. I'm pleading with you to join me in opposition to the voucher program.

Nina Turley, RN Certified School Nurse
School Nursing and Students
Cedar Park, TX

Public Education is the foundation of democracy and gives ALL students the opportunity to become the best Americans they can be regardless of race, social position or ability. Public education should be the vanguard supporting our student population. Private education should be financed "privately" not with tax dollars draining support from public education. I worked for 26 years in pediatrics and school health in public schools in Texas and Arizona. Many students of all walks came through the health clinic doors at school serviced by nurses and therapists and social services. To take that away would be robbing Texas and America's future. No school voucher program in Texas!

John Sullivan
self/retired
Arlington,, TX

Please explain how this voucher system will aid children in rural areas. Are they expected to get up early and be driven to the nearest school in a metro area? Look at the cost of admission to these schools. The voucher will not cover the tuition costs, and the necessary books and supplies. This plan is nothing more than a subsidy to the rich, who already send their children to private schools.

Why are these schools not held to the same standards as our public schools? Why has funding for our public schools stopped? Are you purposely underfunding our public schools in order to eliminate the public school system in Texas?

I fully support funding our public schools. I do not support any of my tax dollars to be a subsidy for the wealthy. This is another handout to the wealthy and you can not justify it.

Eric Britt
Self
Arlington, TX

Passing this bill is a complete misuse of State funds. We must properly fund Public Schools and appropriately pay Teachers. This State cannot afford a give away to wealthy families while ignoring middle and lower class students education. As a people we will suffer unless we strengthen and support middle class and poor people. Please vote against this Bill, it is bad policy and a blatant give away to for profit schools.

David Edwards, Mr.
Self, Retired Public School Teacher
Arlington, TX

I fully support HB 3 authored by Rep. Buckley to provide TX parents school choice with tax funds given to parents to move their child to whatever school best suits their needs.

Justin Williams
self
Frisco, TX

School voucher programs will inevitably weaken the public education system by diverting public funds to private institutions, effectively transferring taxpayer dollars away from schools that serve the vast majority of students. This shift will have a long-term, cascading negative impact on the quality of education available to middle- and lower-income families, further widening educational disparities across the state. Instead of funneling resources into voucher programs, we should focus on strengthening public schools—improving teacher support, updating curriculum, and ensuring all students have access to high-quality education. Public education exists to serve everyone, and our priority should be making it as strong and effective as possible for all Texas students.

Katie Freeman
Self
Austin, TX

Public schools are not adequately funded and continuing this way only hurts children and teachers and inevitably creating education gaps across the state of Texas. Please seriously consider increasing funding per student by at least $1300. The State of Texas has these funds and should not hold it back to the detriment of public schools. Title 1 funding has already been cut causing schools to eliminate essential programs and positions, we cannot continue to put public schools and students last. Our state and our country will lose and the legislature will be those to blame. You have e the power to fund our schools! You have the power to make the right decision!

Dora Clutter, Mrs
Self
Passdena, TX

Please support this Bill HB3, to empower parents with school choice

Debra Braun
Self
Plano, TX

I am absolutely against the voucher plan. I strongly suggest you look at Arizona, the first state to adopt it, to see the mess they are in! It only benefits the people who already are in private schools. It does nothing for rural students. This is just one moore plan to help the rich!

Roy Michael Andrew

Self

Lubbock, TX

I support this bill

Lisa Brenskelle

self

Houston, TX

I am firmly opposed to vouchers, paid for with taxpayer dollars, to enable students to attend private schools. This is NOT an appropriate use of my tax dollars. In addition, our public schools need more funding, not less (and not just to increase teacher salaries). Vouchers take funds away from public schools. The funds being proposed for vouchers should instead be directed toward our public schools. Note that the Texas constitution is clear that public dollars may not be directed to religious education. As many private schools are religious in nature, vouchers clearly violate the Texas constitution. Fully funding our public schools benefits all Texans, whereas vouchers would benefit a small minority. Vouchers are therefore NOT an effective use of my tax dollars. And, private schools do not have the same level of accountability/oversight as public schools. This is inappropriate when public funds are being used. Public funds for public schools!!

Thomas Minor

Self

Georgetown, TX

State government has a constitutional responsibility to adequately fund public schools. Let's start doing that! You are in office to represent US...please say NO to VOUCHERS. They hurt neighborhood schools and hurt rural communities as well.

Thrinadh Yalamanchili

Self

Prosper, TX

Not agreeing with this

Ellen Alexandrakis, Dr.

Self/Teacher

Dallas, TX

Dear Members of the Committee,

My name is Dr. Ellen Kimbrough Alexandrakis, and I am a career teacher and administrator with over 25 years of experience in education. I write to you to express my strong opposition to HB 3 and to urge you to reject this harmful legislation.

The introduction of school vouchers will only serve to destabilize the already fragile public school finance system in Texas. Our public schools are already underfunded, and taking taxpayer dollars away from the public system through vouchers will further exacerbate these financial disparities. Every dollar diverted to private institutions is one less dollar available to our students, teachers, and schools.

Unlike public schools, which are subject to rigorous oversight, accountability, and transparency requirements, private schools that accept voucher funds are not held to the same standards. There is no guarantee that these institutions will provide a high-quality education, and taxpayers have no means of ensuring that their hard-earned money is being spent effectively. If we are going to spend public funds, those funds should go toward systems that are accountable to the public, not unregulated private institutions.

Vouchers disproportionately disadvantaged rural and marginalized students. I grew up in Paris, Texas, where there were no private schools. Our town relied on the public schools as a form of community and belonging. Additionally, marginalized students, including low-income students and students with special needs, are less likely to have access to private schools that can meet their unique needs. Vouchers will further entrench inequality and widen the gap in educational opportunities for those who need it most.

Vouchers impose a dangerous form of religious favoritism in our education system. By allowing taxpayer money to fund private schools with religious affiliations, we risk violating the principle of separation between church and state that is fundamental to our democracy.

As a career educator and administrator, I have dedicated my life to ensuring that every student, regardless of their background, has access to a high-quality public education. I believe that public schools should remain the cornerstone of our educational system, and I urge you to stand with our students, teachers, and communities by rejecting HB 3.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Dr. Ellen Kimbrough Alexandrakis

Dallas, Texas 75248

Alyssa Dadoly

Self

Austin, TX

I oppose the establishment of educational savings accounts in Texas.

Kristen Taylor Smith

Self

Houston, TX

Chairperson & Members of the Committee,

My name is KT Smith, I am a parent in Spring Branch ISD in Houston and I am providing my written testimony to urge you to support legislation that will close the funding gaps in critical educational programs that serve our students.

The data from SBISD's state funding allocations highlight a troubling trend—our schools are significantly underfunded in key areas, forcing them to absorb millions in unfunded costs. Special education, safety and security, transportation, and pre-kindergarten programs are all experiencing funding shortfalls that put immense strain on school districts and, ultimately, harm our students.

For example:

Special Education: The state allotment for special education in 2023-24 was $31.5 million, but actual expenditures reached $53.5 million, leaving a $22 million shortfall. This gap is projected to be $20.3 million in 2024-25. Without adequate funding, students with disabilities may not receive the legally mandated services they need to thrive.

Safety & Security: In 2023-24, the state provided only $0.9 million, but the actual cost was $8.9 million, creating an $8 million deficit. For 2024-25, the gap is projected to grow to $10 million, putting school safety measures at risk.

Transportation: The 2023-24 state allocation was $1.5 million, while the cost of maintaining transportation services was $10.4 million, leading to an $8.9 million shortfall. In 2024-25, the gap is expected to be $8.3 million, making it difficult to ensure students have reliable and safe transportation to and from school.

Pre-Kindergarten: This critical early childhood education program faced a $3.7 million funding gap in 2023-24, with an estimated $3.2 million shortfall in 2024-25. Underfunding pre-K limits access to high-quality early learning opportunities that set children up for future success.

Our educators and administrators are doing their best with limited resources, but without legislative action, these funding shortfalls will continue to compromise the quality of education and essential services for Texas students. We need a bill that ensures state funding keeps pace with the actual costs of running these programs. This includes:

1. Increasing the Basic Allotment at a minimum of $1,000

Fully funding special education services to meet the true cost of providing federally required support for students with disabilities.

Increasing state funding for school safety and security to protect students and staff.

Expanding transportation funding to ensure students have safe and reliable access to school.

Boosting investment in early childhood education to support pre-kindergarten programs that lay the foundation for academic success.

I urge you to prioritize our students by closing these funding gaps. Texas schools cannot afford to keep operating with such large deficits, and our children deserve better. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Jeff Sharp

Self - SDET

Dripping Springs, TX

The bottom line here is that Texans, including myself, DO NOT WANT our tax dollars spent on private schools, especially those affiliated with Christian teachings. If people want to send their kids to private christian schools, it's up to them, not the Texas taxpayers, to fund their choice for their child. Keep my tax money out of private christian schools!!!! And tell Defend Texas Liberty, including Strickland, Wilks, and Dunn, to keep their money out of Texas schools and politics. We are not for sale.

Roxana Mendoza

Del Valle ISD

Del Valle, TX

As an educator with over a decade of experience, I currently serve as a school psychologist at Del Valle ISD. I oppose HB 3 proposed by Buckley. Private and charter schools currently have the choice to deny entry and services to our most vulnerable populations. While these schools might be willing to accept students to cash in the check attached to them, this does not guarantee access to a free and appropriate public education. I worry that our most vulnerable populations will suffer because of this piece of legislation. Giving parents access to adequate funding for their children should not come at the expense of defunding the public education system.

Catherine Acker

Self

Austin, TX

Putting our tax dollars into "education savings accounts" should be something the taxpayers should be allowed to vote for either as a referendum or a proposition. It should be the taxpayers' choice whether to put so much of our tax dollars toward something only a small minority of us will be able to use effectively. This money should be going DIRECTLY to our schools, not to individuals' pockets. I pay my significantly high property taxes intentionally for the purpose of improving our local schools, the schools that my children attend. You are wasting my hard-earned money on something my children will not be able to benefit from, nor many of my neighbors' children. Only those with the privilege of already having the money to send their children to private school will benefit from this bill. The wealthy don't deserve my tax dollars while my children go without the school funding they need. Put my tax dollars into my children's schools. Stop this bill!

David Sherrill

Self

Houston, TX

Chairperson and Members of the Committee,

My name is David Sherrill, a parent in Spring Branch ISD in Houston, and I am providing my written testimony to urge you to support legislation that will close the funding gaps in critical education programs that serve our students.

The data from SBISD's state funding allocations highlight a troubling trend -- our schools are significantly underfunded in key areas, forcing them to absorb millions in unfunded costs. Special education, safety and security, transportation, and pre-kindergarten programs are all experiencing funding shortfalls that put immense strain on school districts and, ultimately, harm our students.

For example:

Special Education: The state allotment for special education in 2023-24 was $31.5 million, but actual expenditures reached $53.5 million, leaving a $22 million shortfall. This gap is projected to be $20.3 million in 2024-25. Without adequate funding, students with disabilities may not receive the legally mandated services they need to thrive.

Safety & Security: In 2023-24, the state provided only $0.9 million, but the actual cost was $8.9 million, creating an $8 million deficit. For 2024-25, the gap is projected to grow to $10 million, putting school safety measures at risk.

Transportation: The 2023-24 state allocation was $1.5 million, while the cost of maintaining transportation services was $10.4 million, leading to an $8.9 million shortfall. In 2024-25, the gap is expected to be $8.3 million, making it difficult to ensure students have reliable and safe transportation to and from school.

Pre-Kindergarten: This critical early childhood education program faced a $3.7 million funding gap in 2023-24, with an estimated $3.2 million shortfall in 2024-25. Underfunding pre-K limits access to high-quality early learning opportunities that set children up for future success.

Our educators and administrators are doing their best with limited resources, but without legislative action, these funding shortfalls will continue to compromise the quality of education and essential services for Texas students. We need a bill that ensures state funding keeps pace with actual costs of running these programs. These includes:

Increasing the Basic Allotment at a minimum of $500

Fully funding special education services to meet the true cost of providing federally required support for students with disabilities.

Increasing state funding for school safety and security to protect students and staff.

Expanding transportation funding to ensure students have safe and reliable access to school.

Boosting investment in early childhood education to support pre-kindergarten programs that lay the foundation for academic success.

I urge you to prioritize our students by closing these funding gaps. Texas schools cannot afford to keep operating with such large deficits, and our children deserve better. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Debbie Krawl

Self, Public school teacher

Cedar Park, TX

I'm glad our representatives are able to afford private schools and tutors for their children, because most Texans cannot. Public schools need more funding - more than you're considering. The needs of our Texas children are diverse, and it's expensive to differentiate instruction for our heterogeneous learners; I wish all of you would spend a day in a public school to understand why public school teachers are so vocal this session. As Colin Powell said, "Leadership is solving problems. The day soldiers stop bringing you their problems is the day you have stopped leading them. They have either lost confidence that you can help or concluded you do not care. Either case is a failure of leadership." Please show public schools that you care and can help us. Your future in politics may depend on us!

Michael Killalea, Mr
Indivisible 1431
Lago Vista, TX

Thanks for the opportunity to comment on HB3.

Please do not let this bill out of committee. It does not deserve to be brought before the full House.

School vouchers are a scam and a disgrace that should not be visited upon the taxpayers and students of Texas. Funding for a school voucher program will cause the state budget to explode. Arizona's universal voucher program, for example, has had a significant negative impact on the state's budget, causing a budget shortfall of nearly $1.6 billion through fiscal year 2025. That's more than double the In fiscal year 2024 Arizona's voucher program cost $738 million spent in FY 2024 on vouchers.

This has led to budget cuts across the state, including for public schools, higher education, water, and transportation.

In Texas, many communities have exactly zero nearby private schools. The Texas "two step" voucher scam would eliminate their choice of a public school.

Further, the vouchers, even at $10,000, do not come close to covering the cost of any decent school. Consequently, poorer students will struggle to meet tuition.

Consequently, school vouchers will contribute to segregation among our children. The façade of school choice will simply subsidize the children of the wealthy. It will be a big, unnecessary break for kids already in private school.

What accountability must private schools have? Little to none, apparently, which is ok --- but not when we are giving our tax dollars to them.

Further, what happens to special needs children, the blind and deaf? No private school must accept them. Are they cut out of the action.

Thank you for this opportunity.

Peggy Powers
Self-retired teacher
Austin, TX

Hi, I'm asking my representative to vote NO on HB 3. I want fully funded public education, not welfare for the wealthy. Our public schools need your full support. I was lucky enough to teach at an amazing school in the round rock district for 28 years. Our public schools deserve more support, not less!

Terry and Sherri Kinard
Self
Lubbock, TX

I am opposed to vouchers or any other name you might want to call it. This should be voted on by Texans. This is not in the best interest of public education. I am a retired teacher. My husband is also a retired school administrator. The people that voted for you will remember this at election time! You can just as easily be voted out of office. Do the right thing and do cave into the big money.

Christy Whitmore Citizen
Pearland, TX

This is nothing more than a way to give rich people more money and less to poor! All for the motivation of segregating our schools. Make Texas schools white again! Unconscionable.

Tina Caliga
self
Fort Worth, TX

I am against the voucher system proposed in HB3. It will draw funds from public education, which is already underfunded and not keeping up with inflation. My family has always attended public schools. I support having good public schools. Vouchers will be especially detrimental to education in rural areas.

Holly Leger
Northwest ISD
Fort Worth, TX

Dear Representatives,

I am writing to ask you to please consider our public schools and vote no to HB3.

I volunteer each week at our local elementary school. Teachers and administrators are working hard to educate kids at our school, despite the state's lack of support and funding. It was recently announced that our school district will have to increase class sizes next year to make up for financial deficits. Teachers already have their plates full – I've seen it firsthand when I am volunteering. To increase their class sizes and not have enough money to also increase their salaries is a huge disservice. These men and women are at the front lines, often working after hours, and they deserve support and encouragement from our state leaders.

Not only are you doing a huge disservice to the teachers, but you are taking away needed support for our children as well. For the last three years, our daughter has used the school's speech services to help overcome a speech disorder she has. Because the governor continues to withhold funding for public education, school programs, resources and teachers continue to be cut. Many private schools don't even offer the same special needs services, and they can deny admission to special needs students. Why punish special needs children in the public school system right now? So we can wait for a bill to pass that doesn't offer them equal availability of services?

Bottom Line: We are losing good teachers every year, because they are burned out, underpaid, and unappreciated. At the same time, our students are losing programs, mentors, and services. I realize voucher supporters want to push the image that public education is failing. But at what cost? How many of the 5.5 million Texan children will truly benefit from these vouchers? And where will you find quality teachers to educate the new influx of voucher recipients? Because right now, teachers are leaving the profession in droves, exhausted by the state's standards and lack of support.

I beg you to change the story! Public education is burning to the ground right now, and the majority of Texans (on the right and the left) see our state leaders holding the match. The Texas education system needs more than just a few private school vouchers to put out the fire. It needs leaders who support our teachers and students!

Thank you,
Holly Leger
Mother of a 1st and 3rd grader
Northwest ISD

Jennifer Bartsch-Allen
Self and my children
Dallas, TX

As a Texas voter and parent of two children currently enrolled in Texas public schools, I am very much OPPOSED to school vouchers. Keep public funds in public schools! Please vote no on this bill. Fully fund our Texas public schools. This bill will only hurt our Texas public schools and the children who attend them.

Holly Leger
Northwest ISD
Fort Worth, TX

Dear Representatives,

I am writing to ask you to please consider our public schools and vote no to HB3.

I volunteer each week at our local elementary school. Teachers and administrators are working hard to educate kids at our school, despite the state's lack of support and funding. It was recently announced that our school district will have to increase class sizes next year to make up for financial deficits. Teachers already have their plates full – I've seen it firsthand when I am volunteering. To increase their class sizes and not have enough money to also increase their salaries is a huge disservice. These men and women are at the front lines, often working after hours, and they deserve support and encouragement from our state leaders.

Not only are you doing a huge disservice to the teachers, but you are taking away needed support for our children as well. For the last three years, our daughter has used the school's speech services to help overcome a speech disorder she has. Because the governor continues to withhold funding for public education, school programs, resources and teachers continue to be cut. Many private schools don't even offer the same special needs services, and they can deny admission to special needs students. Why punish special needs children in the public school system right now? So we can wait for a bill to pass that doesn't offer them equal availability of services?

Bottom Line: We are losing good teachers every year, because they are burned out, underpaid, and unappreciated. At the same time, our students are losing programs, mentors, and services. I realize voucher supporters want to push the image that public education is failing. But at what cost? How many of the 5.5 million Texan children will truly benefit from these vouchers? And where will you find quality teachers to educate the new influx of voucher recipients? Because right now, teachers are leaving the profession in droves, exhausted by the state's standards and lack of support.

I beg you to change the story! Public education is burning to the ground right now, and the majority of Texans (on the right and the left) see our state leaders holding the match. The Texas education system needs more than just a few private school vouchers to put out the fire. It needs leaders who support our teachers and students!

Thank you,
Holly Leger
Mother of a 1st and 3rd grader
Northwest ISD

David HALIBURTON
Self
Waco, TX

I believe this bill is a waste of taxpayer money. It should be Texas residents and taxpayers first, not non Texan billionaires. Make Texas Smart Again

Katherine Good
Self, Real Estate Developer
Austin, TX

I am against HB3. We should keep our tax dollars in the public school system.

Leizel Stadler
Self
MCKINNEY, TX

I am against having vouchers in our school system. Public funds should go to public schools, full stop. Those that can afford private schools don't need vouchers.

Kristen Shaheen, Ms.

Self - public school educatorHB

San Antonio, TX

Please vote no on vouchers. Passing vouchers will cause many educators to lose their jobs, including myself. We will see more schools close if this passes. Public schools serve everyone, which is why they receive public money. The best course of action isn't passing a bill to remove money, but to create a bill allowing for more funding to go into public schools. A voucher system is already in place for families to send their children if their school is not up to par.

Texas should be proud of its public education programs, as we set the standard for the US. Having a voucher program would cause chaos and uncertainty with schools, and Texas would no longer be able to brag about the great things our schools have to offer.

Please vote no on vouchers.

As a public educator, I teach everyone that comes through the doors. The private and charters don't do this. We need to be able to say our public dollars are reaching everyone, and not just those with full pocket books. Vouchers are a tax break for the wealthy.

Vote no.

Alison Downs

Self; homemaker

Fort Worth, TX

I want to voice my strong opposition to school vouchers and any attempt to take money from our public schools. We all benefit from a well educated society, and most children in Texas are educated in public schools. As a public school parent with four children, I do worry that many public schools are underperforming, including in Fort Worth where I live. But I don't blame teachers or administrators for that - Republicans have been in charge in Texas for decades and it is within their control to fully fund schools so that all Texas children can thrive. You all know that the majority of Texans do not want vouchers and you know it will cause irreparable harm to our public schools and students - but if you truly believe this is what Texans want, then put it on the ballot and let us all have a vote. I have lived in Texas all of my 40 years - I did my undergrad at TCU and I got my MBA at UT Austin. My Rice-educated husband and I intended to raise our four children in Texas to be near family. My FW-born cowboy father raised me on Bob Wills, doing the three-step around the dance floor to "Miles of Miles of Texas" - him singing "I've seen miles and miles of Texas, gonna live here till I die." My dad means those words when he sings them. But I can tell you with 100% certainty that if you pass vouchers and bankrupt our schools, my family is out of here.

Sarah Flores
Self
Fort Worth, TX

My name is Sarah Flores. I am a first grade teacher in Parker County and I have been teaching 18 years. I graduated and was certified back in 2007 when the recession had just hit, and teaching jobs were scarce. Teachers were needed, but districts had no money to hire the teachers they needed. I worked as a paraprofessional (with a college degree, and teaching certification) in an elementary school for two years, making around $15,000 a year until a position opened up for me.

The year after I began teaching, my district at the time (Crowley ISD) announced they were in a budget deficit, and had to lay off teachers and staff and move people around through attrition. Fortunately I had worked for the district for three years so I had some "seniority" so I didn't get laid off, but I did get moved to a different grade level and a different school. There were many others that weren't as fortunate as I was, and they lost their jobs.

This, unfortunately, is what we are looking at again if we don't protect and prioritize neighborhood schools and oppose House Bill 3 in Texas. School districts all over the metroplex are in the news about closing dozens of schools I believe Fort Worth ISD said their plan is to close 2 dozen. This is madness.

The Texas state constitution says our Legislature is responsible for funding our neighborhood public schools for students, not subsidizing tuition at private and religious schools that pick and choose who they allow to enroll.

This will undoubtedly hurt rural schools. We have school choice currently, and to pretend we don't is asinine. Parents can choose from many of the public charter schools, they may home school their children if they want to be more involved with their child's curriculum, they can choose to go to their neighborhood public school, or many of the open district schools that don't require residence for enrollment. Or they may choose a private or religious school.

We ALREADY have school choice. We both know it. Greg Abbott knows it. To pretend we don't, is ludicrous.

Everyone pays taxes for the betterment of our great state. Just because I pay taxes and some goes to TXDOT, does not give me the right to raid flowerbeds at state funded rest stops for my yard at home. It simply makes no sense. Public dollars should stay in public schools.

As a proud, concerned Texan, I ask you to show some integrity, do the right thing, and vote down House Bill 3 which diverts tax dollars from neighborhood public schools.

Please say NO to vouchers that use tax dollars to fund the tuition at private schools. Your constituents DO NOT WANT THIS.

Do not be bought out. Please do the right thing for thousands of Texas children. They are counting on you and your vote. We all are.

Jennifer Mitchell Citizen/self
Richmond, TX

I work in the Texas public education system as a school counselor. I see the need for continued growth and the need to continue to invest in public education. I'm a product of both private and public, and I can say that public is what taught me how to be the person I am today. This is just another way to separate people and honestly I feel like it's another form of segregation. Greg Abbott does not have the interest of the average Texan in mind, he's only playing to the elite. I work in the mental health space, and I see the continued need for students of all races and backgrounds to be able to continue to foster their need for mental health education. I'm afraid that this voucher system would take away from the mental health space.

Yazmeen Tuskan

Self

Austin, TX

I strongly oppose the Texas school voucher bill (HB 3) for several key reasons that directly impact the future of our public education system. As someone who is a product of a Texas public school, whose mother was a dedicated public school teacher in Texas, and as a parent with children currently attending Austin ISD elementary schools, I have seen firsthand the value and potential of our public schools. Public education is a cornerstone of opportunity, and this bill threatens to undermine that foundation in ways that will harm our children, teachers, and communities.

The governor's strategy of withholding essential funding from our public schools to push this bill forward is not only harmful—it's a betrayal of the teachers, students, and families who rely on these institutions every day. Our public schools have faced years of financial strain, with funding levels stagnating since 2019. Meanwhile, inflation has skyrocketed, increasing the cost of living for families and the cost of supplies and resources for schools. Teachers, who are already underpaid and overworked, have left the profession in droves. It's clear that instead of addressing these issues, the governor's priority has been to promote a voucher program that will do nothing to help the struggling schools that serve the majority of Texas children.

Furthermore, the evidence from other states that have implemented school voucher programs shows that they disproportionately benefit wealthy families who already have the means to send their children to private schools. Rather than creating equitable opportunities for all students, this bill would simply serve as a tax break for the rich, funneling public funds into private institutions that have no obligation to serve the diverse and vulnerable populations that our public schools are committed to educating.

Our schools need more resources, not less. We need to prioritize increasing teacher pay, improving classroom conditions, and ensuring that every child—regardless of their background or zip code—has access to the quality education they deserve. This voucher bill is a step in the wrong direction, and it will only exacerbate the disparities in our education system. I stand firmly against HB 3 and urge all Texans to do the same for the future of our children and our state.

Hannah Jacoby

Self - Oil and Gas

Midland, TX

Vouchers need to be voted no and we need to fund public schools wholly and completely with no less than what you are promising private schools.

Lisa Chavarria

Self

AUSTIN, TX

I went to a public school, attended and graduated from the University of Texas and the University of Texas School of Law and now my son goes to a public school. A strong public school system is essential to ensuring our state has a well-educated work force. School vouchers take away much needed funds from our schools. Please stop this nonsense.

Joan Fregapane

Self

San Antonio, TX

I support better funding for Texas Public Schools. Voucher programs such as this proposal will only siphon money away from our public schools system. Private schools should be privately funded and should not take needed money from public education. This goes too far toward mixing government and religious institutions and appears to be unconstitutional as well. As a citizen and taxpayer of Texas, please stop this bill from passage.

Catherine Creech

self

Austin, TX

I am against the school voucher bill. Please do not defund public schools.

Amelia Irene Patrick

Self

Spring, TX

I am the mother of two private school children. Please keep funding for public schools. We feel it is unethical to take away money from our public education system to feed to those of us who can afford to send our children elsewhere, even if it's difficult to afford it. This will raise tuition at these schools, which we will not be able to afford. Please don't do this to public education. We need a well educated populace to sustain our economy and our society. Don't do away with that. Everyone deserves a robust education, particularly people with little other chance at upward mobility and the American Dream, in both urban areas as well as rural areas.

Raye Mauro

Self

Fair Oaks, TX

I'm opposed to taking money out of public schools in anyway.

Monica Vega

self

Gonzales, TX

I am against HB 3. Public tax dollars should not be used to fund private schools. Private schools do not have to serve everyone, so this is not "school choice" for all. Tax dollars should not be used to provide affluent families with a discount on the private school tuition that they are already paying.

Sandra Parnell, Ms.

Self and School of Education, Baylor University

Waco, TX

I urge you to oppose any form of school vouchers or Education Savings Accounts (ESAs). Vouchers divert taxpayer dollars to private schools with little oversight, hurting Texas public schools that serve the vast majority of students.

Public money should support public schools, not private institutions. Rural communities, in particular, will suffer as resources are siphoned away. Texas families need strong, well-funded neighborhood schools—not a system that picks winners and losers.

In addition, vouchers will hurt educators who have paid into the TRS system and those who are retired. Please remember the oath you took to take care of everyone in the State of Texas and not just the ultra-rich.

Please reject vouchers and fully fund public schools to ensure every child has access to a quality education.

All children deserve a good education.

Miles Bintz

self

Cedar Park, TX

I am staunchly opposed to any form of school voucher program and fully intend to hold accountable every elected official that supports such programs. School choice already exists and always has. Parents are free to send their children to private school on their own dime. Parents are NOT entitled to send their children to private schools with my tax dollars. My tax dollars are for the public schools that support schools across the state. Such programs will do nothing but erode funding from the public school system that the state has already been negligent in providing.

Perry Fleckman
self/retired
Austin, TX

I oppose HB 3. Public tax money should used for public school education.

Gale Jarosz
Self
Paradise, TX

I strongly recommend that the school voucher program (education savings account program) be voted down. All children deserve to have a good PUBLIC education. The voucher program takes away funds for PUBLIC schools to then be given to private schools making the states education system totally unfair and unbalanced which only hurts the children, families and the state. Allocating property taxes to private, for profit schools, is a scam. If property taxes, which we all pay and are ridiculously high, now go to help these for profit schools then property owners should not be paying for them. Let the rich that can afford the private/charter schools pay for it all and not those who can not or do not wish to have this shoved down their throats. PUBLIC schools are to be funded by property taxes, which are TOO HIGH now. The school system in Texas rates 43rd in the nation which shows that what has been happening to the money so far for schools is not being used wisely to provide a decent education for those tax dollars. Do the right thing and find ways to make the PUBLIC schools better in providing education to the states children and stop wasting your time on trying to game the system for the rich billionaires. VOTE NO ON THIS DISASTEROUS PROGRAM.

Nancy Nichols
Self/ Educational Diagnostician
Tyler, TX

Vote no to protect public schools, educators, and retirees.

Melissa Gonzalez
Self/ Teacher
San Benito, TX

I am a product of public education. I know serve my community as a public school teacher. I have seen the affects of our district not being fully funding for the past 6 years. These school vouchers will not help our students from the Rio Grande Valley. They will only further hurt the districts ability to provide exemplar education to ALL students. Other states have tried this system and it has failed. Do not continue to fail the 5.5 million students that public education serves. When you invest in our students the investment is returned sevenfold. Vote NO to education savings accounts/school vouchers!

Gerardo Soliz, Mr.
Self Teacher
San Antonio, TX

Good Day, I would like to express as a teacher the need for more funds to help my students. School vouchers takes that money away from my students. Many parents cannot afford the rest of the bill that they will have to pay out of pocket to go to a private school. The more money we get for a child in our public schools the better, we can serve our students. Please vote against school vouchers.

Paul Ahrens Kids R Kids
Katy, TX

I support HB 3

Janet Fleckman

self/retired

Austin, TX

I oppose HB3. Public tax money should be spent on public education.

Pat Kahn

NCJW

Austin, TX

A portion of our propriety taxes are designated to support Public Education.

No where on the tax statement does it indicate we also support private schools. Parents choose to send their children to private school. I respect the decision to not attend private or charter school. Their choice should not take away more monies from public education! The other argument suggests low income families would be able to take advantage of private education.

This is what is being reported to the general public. When, in fact, there is a hierarchy in play. First, those already participating in private school get the money. Next, IF there is an extra spot, middle class get the next allotment. Finally, low- income families can fill any extra slots.

The Texas Legislature is not forthcoming with information to the general public.

Please do not support setting up vouchers in Texas.

The wealthy will have the advantage, while low income families will still be left without a choice!

Diane Walz

self/retired professor, UTSA

San Antonio, TX

I am strongly opposed to the HB 3 school voucher program! Please vote against HB 3! As students leave public schools to use vouchers for private education, public schools would lose state funding based on attendance, exacerbating existing budget issues and potentially leading to program cuts or closures. Private schools accepting vouchers often have less stringent accountability measures compared to public schools, meaning less transparency regarding curriculum, student performance, and financial practices. Voucher programs could lead to increased segregation leaving certain public schools with a disproportionate number of students from lower socioeconomic backgrounds. Vouchers cannot fully cover the cost of private school tuition, leaving many low-income families unable to afford private education. A small number of billionaires really, really want this voucher program. A number (not all) of wealthy people want vouchers because it will save them money. But this will seriously harm middle-class, lower-class and rural school districts, and I fear that this will disappoint and anger these voters. I'm a fiscal Republican and I don't want this state to become a Democratic state.

Cody Shaheen
Self / banking
San Antonio, TX

School vouchers have been proven to only benefit the wealthy and keep lower-income families from accessing quality education. The idea that giving thousands of dollars to allow for “choice” is laughable—the private schools they are meant to go towards will simply increase the cost of tuition, keeping it out of reach for those who will be unable to afford it, even after receiving the voucher. The wealthy families who receive it will simply line their pockets and keep their children in the schools they can afford. Additionally, private schools, being unregulated, do not have to abide by the rigorous and needed laws and regulations that public schools are, which results in widespread misinformation and a lack of certified teachers. These are the foundations of the public school system and, once removed, will cause untold harm to students. This issue isn’t about “choice”, it’s about the powers that be stifling and limiting access to public schools, which promote learning and curriculum that explores many facets and perspectives of our society. The implementation of vouchers is meant to remove that diversity and instill a system of learning which obscures facts in favor of religious ideology (specifically Judeo-Christian) which flies in the face of the First Amendment. The GOP is scared of people being educated, since that education is likely to expose the corruption and incompetence of that very party. By passing this legislation, they can ensure that future generations remain ignorant and blind to the realities of the world, thus keeping the GOP in power.

In short, if an actual human being is reading this, I implore you to think not of yourself, but of future generations who will be impacted by this. The rich have held power for too long and the move towards an oligarchy becomes frighteningly more real every day. This is not the America the founding fathers wanted (many of whom were non-aligned deists and NOT Christian); it is the powers that be want to keep them rich and in power. I’m sure this just gets dumped into a mass inbox and marked as “read”, but if anyone is actually reading this, do the state, the teachers, the staff, the administrators, and the students a favor and make the right choice—the one in which all this money the GOP wants to throw at private schools is instead routed to the public schools to make them the better, safer option they can be, if given the right attention and funding.

Don’t be Ted Cruz. Don’t be John Cornyn. Don’t be Greg Abbott. These people couldn’t care less about the people who will be negatively impacted by this, because they are making money on it. This world needs more teachers and less corporate-funded, spineless, uneducated, ignorant, selfish politicians like the ones mentioned above.

We can be better than this. We just have to take the power back from the stooges in power and return it to the people.

Kristen Wiggins
Self
Tyler, TX

I am a life long Texan who can trace my family back to fighting in the Alamo. I am the mother of a public school student. And I love this state from its rich history to its enormous pride. In that spirit I am asking you to please vote no on HB3!! Texans do not want school vouchers we want fully funded public schools where ALL of our students AND teachers are able to thrive. My daughter and many others benefit immensely from services like speech therapy and more through the special education programs. Private schools won’t help kids like my daughter who, while very intelligent, need extra help. Please protect Texas students. We are counting on you to do what is right for US and not what is right for the very wealthy who are backing this. Please do your very important job and listen to your constituents.

Thank you for your service, your time and for your upcoming vote against HB3

Kathryn Edwards
Self
Austin, TX

HB3 for school vouchers is not good for Texas or texas education. Gov Abbott finally admitted it would taking funding away from public schools and move it to private schools. Rural school districts would be adversely affected as would city schools. Not everyone would have the same opportunities . We need to increase funding for public schools and make them better. Not take away from them. I support public schools and teachers.public schools funded by taxpayers all over the state provide services to disabled and disadvantaged students private schools would not. I support public schools. Not school vouchers. .

kathleen born
Self
Richardson, TX

My daughter, son-in law, sister, brother, and father have all been teachers- mostly in the public school system. From experience, this system is very broken. My daughter is not allowed to give high school students homework. My son-in-law sends high schoolers to summer school for not attending school ALL year, and in less than a week, they are able to graduate. He wonders why he tries so hard every day to teach when a student can be passed in less than a week....I could go on. Unless the public school system sheds light on the problems and differences between a private education (which teaches with mostly less funding), a change for our children will never happen. We have to change the system. This bill is a beginning.... Vote YES !!!

Emily Fairbanks
Self
Arlington, TX

I am a retired educator from Arlington Independent School District, where I served as a classroom teacher, reading specialist, and Instructional Coach for over 20 years. I have seen the positive impact that public education has on the lives of our young population, and the way it can break cycles of poverty and ignorance, paving the way for children from diverse backgrounds to thrive and contribute positively to our society in the future. I know the public schools have been criticized for many things, and there is certainly room for improvement, but my fear is that the voucher system will rob our ability to make a good education available to all our citizens. The parents who are not happy with the admirable job our public schools are doing can pay for private education for their children. We should not condone our tax dollars going into their pockets, and away from the effort to upgrade Texas' education system to be more competitive with other systems around the country. I believe that the voucher system will inadvertently promote inequity and widen the gap between the "haves" and the "have nots". This will backfire on the citizens of this great state of Texas, leading to more money being spent on a potential "underclass" in terms of more social services and even more incarcerations. There's a reason we need a good public school program for all! It's good insurance for a better future for all!

Shannon Seidl
Self, homeschool mom
Arlington, TX

I oppose HB 1, 2, and 3 on the grounds that these can be used to enact regulations that will restrict homeschool and private school freedom in the future if Texas's reps become more progressive. In addition, more taxes will be required to fund the extra monies being used to bribe private and homeschool families and give kickbacks to vendors, making this more expensive and restrictive rather than offering more freedom. A bill that focuses on public school accountability or allowing more charter schools would be a better use of funds that benefit those most in need of help.

Michelle Edwards
Self, Associate Professor
Austin, TX

As a parent of two children in Texas, I strongly oppose any school voucher program. This is an obvious attempt at defending public education (which serves all) to subsidize private education for rich people. It is shameful.

Merrill Jones
self - attorney
Fort Worth, TX

I would like to provide a comment AGAINST this proposed bill. The use of public funds for private tuition is counterintuitive, inequitable, and frankly senseless. Parents already have "school choice" and the ability to educate their children how they see fit, whether it be public, private or home schooling. Of these three, only public schooling should receive public funding, as only these schools have state-specific reporting, standards, and admissions like STAAR testing.

Stephanie Bankhead

Self

Pilot Point, TX

Having home schooled my children, I was well aware that I paid taxes toward my local public schools while paying out of my own pocket for our home schooling. I believe in the right to do so, however I do not believe that our taxes should go toward funding private schools. There are a large amount of children who don't live anywhere near a private school. I am against giving parents who already pay for private school a discount by taking funds away from our public schools. Our public school children and teachers deserve better than that.

Bryan White

Self

Afton, TX

I oppose HB 3. I support the funding of public schools. HB3 is still below the amount needed to offset inflation. I oppose vouchers due to it taking away funds from public schools.

Karen Holloway

Self

Katy, TX

As a retired public school teacher in Texas I oppose HB 3 and any attempt to divert public funds for private education. These voucher or ESA programs will divert taxpayer money away from public schools which are already grossly underfunded in Texas. This will further limit important resources for the vast majority who can't access voucher-funded schools. Despite the attempt to prioritize lower-income families it is likely the gap between actual private school costs and funds provided to recipients will limit the number of low-income families who will benefit from this program. In addition, private schools are not required to accept all students or adhere to the strict standards of public schools. Many areas in Texas are rural and offer no private school options. All of these concerns are problematic. Meanwhile, the bulk of Texas students will be in schools that are even more severely underfunded with teachers that are overworked and terribly underpaid. I taught with so many exceptional teachers in Texas for over 30 years. We went above and beyond for any and EVERY student. All Texas students deserve a well-funded public education system. Let's not use our tax dollars to create a divide in educational opportunities. We must do what is best for all Texas students. Properly fund our public schools!

Crista Batt

Self / Parent and Nurse

Austin, TX

As a parent to two elementary school children, I see every day how much our local public schools mean to our community—and to my kids. I enjoy the excitement in their eyes when they learn something new or share a story from class, and it makes me worry that diverting funds to private institutions through school vouchers will take away the resources that help make those moments possible.

When I drop my children off at school each morning, I'm reminded of the dedicated teachers, supportive programs, and the inclusive environment that our public schools provide. I fear that with school vouchers, taxpayer money would be siphoned away from these vital services, leaving our schools with larger class sizes and fewer opportunities for those who need extra help. In my view, investing in our public schools is not just about education—it's about nurturing a community where every child, regardless of background, can thrive.

Donna Ferry

Self

Boerne, TX

One of the unargued negative result of vouchers is the huge impact it will have on the pension system. If the state cannot maintain a healthy pension now, vouchers will make the TRS as bad as social security.

Mary Ragland, Ms

Self

Austin, TX

Vouchers will not improve education for most Texas students. Increase funding for public schools to improve outcomes. Many rural districts have no private schools. Only the rich will benefit.

Sarah Berton

Self, student

San Antonio, TX

I strongly oppose this bill. If Texas wants to show it supports public education, it will reject vouchers. Vouchers harm urban and rural communities alike, as well as students with disabilities needing special education. Texans across the state have made clear they do not want this bill, and if it passes, it will be the result not of the people's will, but one governor's crusade to substitute the people's will for his own. Abbott does not care about every day Texans—those living in rural districts, those with disabilities, etc. He cares about sucking up to Republicans in Washington. Every day Texans, on the other hand, care about and support our public schools. And we want state funding to go to the state's public schools, not its private schools, which are not accessible to all students.

Margaret Trinidad

self / educator

Brownsville, TX

As a proud public educator and taxpayer, I would like to propose the following questions to those in attendance:

1. How many senators and house representatives actually have a degree in education?
2. How many of you have been to a public school or classroom within the past 5 years to observe a classroom?
3. How many have taken the time to review Texas TEKS and the STAAR test? My 4th and probably most important question: what has been done in the past to help public schools with the many obstacles we are facing? So much effort, research, and time have been put towards vouchers, yet what can be said about public schools? On a daily basis, I am responsible for the needs, wants, and much more for 20+ students. I help students tie their shoes, manage their feelings about their dog that has passed, concerns about their father and mother getting divorced, their stomach hurting, and their academics. These are the daily needs of children that need reassurance that they are cared for and loved. I spend more time with them in the day than some of their own parents. I do this all while trying to prepare them for a state test that is way above their grade level. Of course, it looks like students can't read if you are basing your information on the state test. The test has been proven to be at a readability way above their grade level. Why not put more money into helping students learn to read? This is one of the most difficult objectives in education that greatly affects their future. I do not want my taxpayer money put into vouchers or private schools. I want it to go to public schools and the many men and women working daily to help our future succeed.

Julie Davia, Mother and full time worker

Self

Trophy club, TX

I do not support this bill, and if the house wants it to pass, it should be held to a public vote so we can show you our support or not. I've tthis will greatly hurt my 4th grader who is in the gifted and talented program. Larger class sizes and lack of funding to support extra programs such as gifted and talented will greatly diminish her elementary education. Please do not pass this bill.

Public schools educate more than 90% of students in Texas. Those students deserve full funding for their schools before any discussion of diverting taxpayer money for private school subsidies.

School choice already exists in Texas via public school districts, charter schools, inter- and intra-district transfers, home schools, virtual schools, and private schools.

Emily Kaszczuk

Self/parent

Leander, TX

I am writing to you as a parent and a member of my local PTA. I wish to share my opposition to HB 3 and the Educational Savings Accounts. I am the mother of two children who attend elementary school in Leander, TX. Our district, Leander ISD, has announced a significant budget shortfall. Their remedy is staffing reductions for the upcoming school year. Over 200 district positions would need to be eliminated. In our school, this could mean fewer positions per grade level, increased class sizes and fewer support staff such as counselors, librarians, and aides.

Parents can already choose public school, private school, charter school or home school for their children. I have chosen public school for my children and I support my local school district as a tax payer and property owner. HB 3 and ESAs take away my choice by requiring MY tax money to support private schools. I do not have the choice to elect that $10,000 of additional funds be given to my local public school. I do not have the choice to opt out of my tax dollars going to fund school vouchers.

This is unacceptable. I want this legislature to take accountability, listen to the parent voice, and have the courage to do the right thing: say NO to ESA/Vouchers and Fund our Public Schools properly.

Thank you.

William Haliburton

Self

Robinson, TX

This bill is not needed in this State. Our Texas Public Schools provide a lifeline in our Texas urban and Rural communities. An Education Saving Account as read, will hurt NOT HELP those folks who benefit from public schools. WacoISD, MidwayISD, RobinsonISD, LaVegaISD, ConnellyISD, MartISD, and ReiselISD are not just institutions in McLennan County, they are Friday night get togethers, Weekly neighbor meetings. Pride they wear everywhere in their communities. TempleISD and BeltonISD, RogersISD, AcademyISD why would Rep. Buckley want to hurt these ISD in their district? Also, as a practicing Catholic, Need I remind you folks what Religious institutions can hamfist accountable when dealing with any type of scandal? This Bill is wrong for Texas and her Public Schools.

Jason Gay

self, IT

Richardson, TX

Please vote against HB 3. I'm strongly opposed to the Texas school voucher bill. My kids went to public school here in Texas, and my wife teaches at public school in Texas, and I don't want public schools defunded in Texas by using money on vouchers that could be used for public education. With school vouchers, money would instead be used for families who can afford private schools to get a subsidy and an entitlement for choosing to send their kids to private school, and doing so on the backs of taxpayers. And those private schools are not held responsible with the same accountability standards as public schools, which further dilutes education levels in the state. I'm all for school choice as long as it's paid for by the families who choose to send their kids to private school. I can't think of any other public-provided service that's subsidized if you decide not to use it. If I were to choose to use a private service to pick up my trash because it serves my needs better, I would never expect the government to subsidize that choice and expense. Please vote against school vouchers and against privileged subsidies.

Laura Wilson

Self

McKinney, TX

I am firmly against public school funds going to pay for private schools. This type of program has bankrupted Arizona public schools and produced education inequalities in Indiana. If a school accepts these funds, they should have to take the STAAR test, accept every student who applies and provide fee transportation. As a registered Rebulucan, I'm very disappointed in this because Rebulucans used to stand for fiscal conservatism. The vouches will be abused and will bleed money. It simply makes no sense.

Janelle Allen-Croxton
Self, Self Employed
Bridgeport, TX

I am NOT OK with HB3

My Money is for MY CHOICE SCHOOL for my child not a Government controlled option. Illegals shouldn't be able to touch Americans money!!! This is not ok.

Annie Wigley
Self / therapist
MCKINNEY, TX

Strongly oppose.

Amy De Rosa, Mrs
Self—grandparent who pays for and oversees grandkids' education
Harker Heights, TX

It appears Texas is not going to reduce the public education budget to fund school choice. Is that accurate?

If that's accurate, where is the money for the ESAs coming from?

Andra Villegas
Self
N Richlnd Hls, TX

No vouchers!

No education savings account program!!!

You need to listen to the citizens of Texas. If this is such a great idea, put it on the ballot for the public to vote on, not just Representatives in Austin!!!

Jill Smith
Tx State Teacher Association
Buda, TX

I believe it is a tragedy to not support our public schools as being an aunt and assisting taking care of my nieces and nephews I know the importance this has. I also remember how it impacted my life as a student.

JoAnne Owens
First Congregational Church
Houston, TX

There are many arguments against vouchers in any form:

While Texas's public schools must abide by certain curriculum and testing rules, private schools do not and will not be asked to do so when receiving public funds. In other words, there is no accountability and no control over what students are learning.

While Texas's public schools must accept every student in their district, regardless of income or learning disability or academic history, private schools do not. Vouchers will not provide choice for every student; they will provide choice for a certain subset of students.

And yes, vouchers WILL affect public school funding. Texas's school funding model is based on school attendance. If a school loses ten percent of its students, it loses 10 percent of its per pupil allocation. But its overhead expenses remain the same. It doesn't cost less to operate a building with 10 percent fewer students, and depending on the distribution of students, teacher costs will also stay the same.

There are no indicators from other states that school vouchers produce better academic results. And evidence shows that the chief beneficiaries are students from wealthy families who are already attending private schools.

The Texas Legislature has failed public schools and public-school students. School funding, when adjusted for inflation, has been flat since 2019. Texas, with the 8th largest economy in the world, falls in the bottom quartile of states when it comes to public school funding. The authority of professional educators is questioned at every turn. Teacher pay in Texas is ten percent lower than the national average, leading to teacher shortages and uncertified teachers in the classroom (in the 2023-24 school year, 38% of teachers were not certified). And there is no preparation for the almost certain loss of federal funding for Texas schools, which is 18 percent of school funding.

Yes, there are many arguments against vouchers. As I understand it, there is only one argument for – to give parents “choice.” But what is driving this need for choice? If it's underperforming public schools, then fund the schools and pay the teachers adequately.

Paige Wood
Self
Longview, TX

No Vouchers! Public schools will suffer. If private school students are worth $10,000 then do the same for public schools. If kids can choose private schools and avoid STAAR, then do the same for public schools. There are so many things that are different for public schools that are controlled by the government, giving government money to private schools with no regulations cannot be ethical. Harmful on so many levels.

Melissa Carnero
Self
Amarillo, TX

I bet that you do not agree to this! This is terrible and would be hurtful to so many kids in so many ways!!

The public school system has supports student who have many different learning disabilities, who do well and who struggle.

Don't take this from them. The public system helps families not just the students. We become family. Don't go this route! I beg you.

Yomaris Masterton
Self
Austin, TX

Before we begin funding private schools we should fund our public schools. There is no reason that a private school should receive more per child than a public school. Public schools help the most kids they deserve the most money!

Adonis Schurmann, Mrs.

TSTA as self

San Antonio, TX

Public schools must be fully funded. It is clear that public schools are under attack by those who are interested in person gain. There are numerous examples of abuse of funding by charter schools in the San Antonio area. Until there is oversight and a process by which charter schools are held accountable for their spending of public education dollars they must be stopped. Public schools service all students charters do not. Please consider what is best for all students in San Antonio and Texas.

Emily Gogineni

Self

The Woodlands, TX

I've been a hard working teacher at a low income school in Conroe ISD for 23 years. Public education is a mission field for most teachers who sacrifice for each student and work endlessly bridging gaps in learning. Life isn't fair to many of my students and education is their only way out of poverty. This Bill 3 will not accomplish that for those students and parents wishing more for their children.

Larry Jefferson

Self Retired Accountant

Dallas, TX

Please vote NO to this bill. Our public schools need supporting and a guaranteed education for those who can not afford private schools.

Shanna Peebles, Dr.

Self

Amarillo, TX

As an educator and researcher focused on rural education in the Texas Panhandle, I urge you to consider the disproportionate impact this legislation would have on rural communities.

New data from the Legislative Budget Board reveals that approximately 175,000 students already enrolled in private schools would receive vouchers, compared to just 24,500 public school students who would transfer—a 7:1 ratio. This confirms that the primary beneficiaries of this $1 billion program would be families who already have access to private education.

For rural Panhandle communities, the consequences are severe:

1. Financial Destabilization: Small districts with fewer than 1,000 students retain approximately 92% of fixed costs when students leave, resulting in losses of $12,500-$14,000 per departing student. For a rural district, losing just eight students could eliminate an entire science lab budget or force cuts to arts, sports, and AP programs.
2. Economic Ripple Effects: Schools employ up to 25% of some local workforces in rural counties. Studies confirm that rural business bankruptcies often follow school closures, creating cascading economic effects throughout communities already struggling with population decline.
3. Lack of Actual Choice: In many Panhandle counties, the nearest private school is over 100 miles away. Even when accessible, these schools often terminate at 6th grade, lack accreditation, and don't serve students with disabilities. The proposed "choice" is illusory when no accessible alternatives exist.
4. Special Education Gap: Only 6% of Texas private schools offer services for moderate to severe disabilities. In rural communities, school-based special education programs often provide therapies unavailable through local healthcare providers.
5. Virtual School Problems: Online options aren't viable for the 40% of rural households lacking reliable broadband access. Research shows virtual schools have a 30-point lower graduation rate than traditional schools.

If the Legislature proceeds with HB 3, I respectfully request these necessary amendments:

- Tighten eligibility requirements to prioritize truly economically disadvantaged students
- Require participating private schools to accept all students, including those with disabilities
- Establish protection mechanisms for small districts facing disproportionate financial impacts
- Create rural-specific education innovation grants that strengthen existing public schools

The issue transcends partisanship. It's about ensuring that state policy recognizes the unique needs of rural communities rather than imposing metropolitan solutions in contexts where they cannot function as intended.

Thank you for your consideration.

Parris Greer
Self/Psychotherapist
Dallas, TX

The purpose of this form is to aid Texas residents in electronically submitting public comments to House committees

Deseree Lopez
Self
Richardson, TX

Vouchers should NOT be in Texas. We should NOT take funding away from the already stretched Texas education system and funnel it into schools that barely educate 5% of Texas children. This would be hugely detrimental to more rural counties where private schools are unavailable but yet funding has been removed from their districts. Please vote against vouchers for Texas.

Anna Lindsey, Mrs.
Self, Professor
The Hills, TX

Vouchers will hurt our Texas schools. Texans already have a choice in how they school their children, but public funds should only be used for public schools. This is a universally disliked idea, with Texas across all political parties rejecting it.

Public school funding in other states has suffered when voucher or ESA programs have passed. Texas is already in the bottom 10 states in the country for per-pupil funding, and our 5.5 million students across Texas – learning in urban, suburban, and rural cities and towns in more than 1,250 school districts and charter schools – can't afford to see their schools' budgets shrunk any further.

Florida is an instructive example. While Florida increased its spending on three voucher programs by 313% from fiscal year 2008 to fiscal year 2019, the state decreased its per-pupil funding for public education over this time period by 12%.

Voucher program costs have also tended to outstrip their promised price tags. Arizona estimated its voucher program would cost $65 million, but the program has ballooned to over $700 million in taxpayer funds.

I urge you to fully fund our public schools rather than handing out coupons to parents already paying for private schools, which are largely unregulated and not required to provide services to all children.

Allison Hanschen
Self, speech-language pathologist
Austin, TX

I am an Austin resident and product of public schools in Leander ISD. My two children now attend Austin ISD schools as transfers within the district, as we already have school choice.

Please refuse the establishment of an education savings account program because it will remove public funds from public schools. We have a sizable budget deficit as it is, and this program would make it exponentially worse. Furthermore, children requiring specialized services (such as speech therapy) are not guaranteed those services in private schools. Students may be forced out of a private school for any reason and yet the voucher funds would remain in that private school despite the student returning back to attend the public school. Staffing is at a crisis level with teachers bearing the brunt of the shortage and minimal pay. We should be investing thousands more in public schools rather than removing allocated resources.

Public funds belong in public education.

Thank you for keeping public funding going to public education.

Theresa Reagan

Self

Harlingen, TX

I am against vouchers for private school. Funding should go to public schools. Vouchers will lead to hurting public schools and segregation will happen again. Separation of church and state.

Vanessa Alvarez

Self

Plano, TX

Pass school vouchers! Let me choose my child's education!

Melissa Glassman

Self, mother

Dallas, TX

I do not feel that this will support the majority of Texas students. In the end, it will hurt the majority of Texas students, including many rural families who have been clear about not wanting vouchers. I am also concerned about the effects this will have on special education students and family and will reduce their access to supports. This should not be a partisan issue, Texas needs strong public schools that are available to all. School choice already exists, families who wish to send their children to private school can do so. Thank you

Laura Coughlin

self - teacher

Houston, TX

I would like to know why public-school students are only worth approximately $6,900.00 a year while private school students are worth $10,000.00 a year. What justifies the difference in the value of each child?

Pamela Schwartz

Self

Abilene, TX

Vote definitely no on school vouchers, they are talking about taking from Teachers Retirement!!!! They have no right to take from teachers who have put in and are relying on that to live when we retire. Please vote no!!

Terri Childress, Mrs

Public schools

Plano, TX

Public and private schools must be held to same standards and governed in the same manner. That does not happen today. Teacher certifications are not the same, public paid on attendance as by, private I. Enrollment, testing and school trier cards not the same. Vouchers will not help people that cannot afford private school today. Public schools are hurting, teachers are hurting, kids don't get what they need because funding for public schools is poor and unfair.

Whitney Dunbar

Self

Prosper, TX

I have a child in private school (prestonwood Christian academy) and 3 in public schools (prosper ISD). Private school is a CHOICE! Public school is a necessity! Period! Shame on anyone who votes for this!

Torie Glover
Self
Prosper, TX
Strongly oppose

Ioana Radulescu
Pisd
Plano, TX
No

Kelsey Jensen
Self
Mckinney, TX

I am in opposition to HB 3 because this bill plan will divert taxpayer dollars away from public schools, which serve the vast majority of students, and funnel the funds instead into private institutions that are not held to the same accountability standards. Our schools are already under-funded. McKinney ISD just sent an email notifying parents of severe district cuts that had to be made due to lack of funding. My children attend MISD. What are you doing to ensure MORE funding for our children attending public schools? Why can't we invest in the children, the future of this country? Research has shown that investing in public education has massive benefits, including boosting the economy. Please do not take away more funding from our children.

jordan stephens self RN
plano, TX

I am absolutely opposed to this bill. I am the product of public schooling, my mother daughter in Texas schools for over 40 years, and I send my children to public schools currently. This bill will steal from my children and not give them the same opportunities I was given. Please do not vote for the bill.

Christi Caulfield
Self
Friendswood, TX

I want to register my opposition to HB3. I do not support tax dollars going anywhere but public schools. Texans don't want vouchers. We want strong public schools!

June Reeder
Self
Chico, TX
Funds for public education

abby brody
Self
GEORGETOWN, TX

Vote NO! School vouchers will gut public school funding. Texan billionaires just want WHITE, CHRISTIAN PRIVATE schools! We do NOT agree and you need to demonstrate courage and commitment to hard-working Texans and say NO!

Monique Miller
Self/marketing professional
Grand Prairie, TX

Instead of diverting resources to private schools, we need to focus on strengthening our public schools. We need to invest in our teachers, provide them with the resources they need, and ensure that every student has access to a quality education. We must reject the siren song of vouchers and instead champion a system that truly serves all students. This bill only diverts money to the wealthiest of students and leaves the others behind. Please vote no on vouchers and instead fully fund public education.

Jacob Klett, Mr.
Self
Buda, TX

I am opposed to HB 3 in its current form. The Texas Legislature should be weary of creating a new government entitlement program, the full long-term cost of which is difficult to ascertain. The fiscal analysis of Senate Bill (SB) 2 reflects an initial cost of $1 billion to implement an Education Savings Account (ESA) program expanding to $4 billion by 2030, only five years later. The establishment of an ESA program as described in HB 3 and SB 2 also does not meaningfully expand choice for families given only a small portion of Texas students would be eligible for funds under an ESA program. Further, the proposed legislation places no parameters upon private school institutions related to enrollment practices for students participating in the ESA program. Presumably, it is possible for a student to be eligible for the ESA yet not accepted to a private school under their enrollment process. As a condition of accepting public funds through the ESA program, a participating institution should be required to accept an eligible student. Without requirements on enrollment practices, regardless of the funding levels provided under the current proposed bill for students with disabilities, private institutions would have no obligation to accept students with more unique educational needs or any student who is academically underperforming. This seems at odds with the premise of school choice whereas families are assumed to seek alternatives to traditional public education to obtain stronger outcomes for their child. The accountability of private schools to produce positive outcomes under HB 3 and SB 2 is not strong enough to justify the investment of tax payer dollars in the ESA program as currently envisioned by the legislation. Texas tax payers deserve transparency into how tax dollars are being spent and public dollars should be allocated toward programs that produce measurable benefit. Public schools have clear and transparent standards of accountability that ensure families can be informed about the quality of the educational program. The same would not be true of institutions receiving ESA funds. A norm-referenced test requirement is not an adequate enough standard of accountability or transparency as a condition of receipt of public tax dollars. Private institutions accepting public dollars should be held to an equivalent standard of accountability and transparency for producing positive student outcomes as public schools. The tax paying public should have clear data to ascertain the effectiveness of the ESA program with metrics that allow for a comparison of student outcomes across the full landscape of Texas education including publicly provided programs and private programs that receive public funds.

Sarah Powell
Self
Grapevine, TX

I am vehemently opposed to this bill—this “education savings account” will be using public funding for private institutions, including religious ones, in violation of our constitution. There is absolutely no oversight to how the institutions will use the money, nor any accountability, while our public schools maintain stringent standards and actually receive LESS per student. This is a violation of our rights. I have two young, elementary aged children. They love their public school, and the teachers and staff there are only going to grow more taxed by increased class sizes and stagnant pay rates if this bill is passed. Save public education from this massacre.

Pamela Willey
Self
LUBBOCK, TX

I am opposed to providing money for private schools under the guise of school choice. Many areas have no private schools, and even with an education savings account, most people will still be unable to afford a private school's tuition. These schools pick and choose who attends and do not offer programs for special students. There is no oversight on these schools and how the money is spent. Public education is overseen by the State of Texas Education department and has to follow many state mandates, such as state testing and being rated by these results. Private schools have none of these mandates and pick and choose who they will accept. Public education must take any student who lives in their attendance area and provide an appropriate education. Public school teachers' salaries have not kept up with inflation and are lagging, causing teachers to leave the profession and have to have second jobs to live. The students being educated in public are the future of Texas, and education should be a priority. How does it make sense to give more to a private school and less to a public school to educate a student? Please consider the inequity in this bill.

Becca Luedecke
Self
Austin, TX

As someone who values our public schools, I do not support school vouchers.

Alan Lobaugh
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I strongly disagree with the School voucher program. I oppose the "Education Savings Account" program for the following reasons:

We need to be fully funding our public school systems and paying our teachers better

The ESA program will not pay the full price of tuition, thus it will benefit parents who already have their children in private schools and prohibit other families from using the private school

Many rural communities have no private school option

Most private schools do not have programs for special needs students, so you are in effect trying to defund the schools that help young people who need the most help.

This is a terrible PR situation. This would increase the education gap between the wealthy and the poor. We need to be building relationships among all our young people so that they learn to work together for the future. This program feels a lot like the "white flight" from cities a few decades ago.

I cannot speak to your committee next Tuesday, but would be honored to be invited any other time.

Ann Edwards
Ann Edwards
Plano, TX

Fund our PUBLIC schools. I do not agree with giving government support to private institutions. Our tax dollars should be designated for public education. Increase teacher salaries in public schools.

Rhonda Tiedt
Self
Fairview, TX

I just want to express my absolute opposition to this bill and school vouchers. I firmly believe the basic allotment for public schools should be increased to at least equal the rate of Inflation since 2019.

I also believe that public tax dollars should not be used to for private school funding. If you do provide vouchers of 10k, then the basic allotment from the state for public schools should be the same (10k/ENROLLED student, and not based on attendance). Mandates from the state, such as mandating security Marshals, should be fully funded by the state (I.e. our tax dollars).

Danita Sawyer

RENEWED AND RESTORED COUNSELING AND LIFE COACHING LLC

Houston, TX

I oppose this bill as it is taking funds away from public education in which their funds are in need of increasing to meet educational and mental health needs. Most public schools in Texas are understaffed with mental health professionals, counselors. Children are suffering, mentally and emotionally due to their backgrounds due to their home environments and the challenges of education. I am in favor of using the funds to support public education and adding additional counselors to every campus.

Hannah Cruz

Self, Teacher

AUSTIN, TX

My name is Hannah Cruz and I am a special education teacher here in Texas. I have worked as a special education teacher after graduating from UT Austin for eight years and across three different states. The conditions in Texas public schools are the worst I have seen for students with disabilities. We do not have adequate materials, qualified staff, sufficient numbers of teacher to support the high special education student ratios, we offer measly in school therapy services (occupational, speech, and physical), our infrastructure is dated, and our assessments and curriculum decades behind that of states that better fund their school systems and have higher qualifications required for teachers. Low teacher pay, budget cuts, a focus on test scores and not wholistic school measures, and worsening classroom conditions have contributed to high teacher turnover rates, low morale, and ultimately poorer outcome for students. HB3 will exacerbate all of these existing issues by pulling fund from public schools for Charters and Private schools. Having worked in BOTH of these settings, I have seen the financial abuse first hand - higher ups paying themselves inordinate salaries, the cherry picking of children to attend, de facto racial segregation, and cutting corners when it comes to IEP (individual education plan) implementation. Please here the voices of Texas Public School Teachers when we say STOP HB3. Thank you to whoever took the time to read my comments and hear my please. Respectfully, Hannah Cruz

Carolina Rittenhouse

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I urge the Texas House Committee to reject school voucher programs, which divert taxpayer dollars away from our already underfunded public schools. Vouchers primarily benefit private institutions that are not held to the same transparency, accountability, or non-discrimination standards as public schools. Instead of improving education for all Texas children, vouchers will deepen inequities, leaving rural and low-income students with fewer resources and opportunities.

One major consequence of this funding loss is the impact on public school athletics, particularly football and baseball—both of which are deeply rooted in Texas culture. With fewer resources, schools will struggle to maintain quality coaching, equipment, and facilities. Smaller schools, especially in rural areas, may be forced to cut programs altogether, depriving students of opportunities that teach discipline, teamwork, and leadership while also serving as a source of community pride. Losing these programs would be devastating for students hoping to earn athletic scholarships, as well as for communities that rally around their local teams.

Public funds should be used to strengthen our neighborhood schools—not subsidize private and religious education. I ask you to stand with Texas families and invest in the public education system that serves 90% of our students.

Nicole Wright

Self - events manager

Melissa, TX

PUBLIC EDUCATION DESERVES TO BE FULLY FUNDED.

Ali Bagheri

self

Austin, TX

I am a Texas native, a product of Texas public schools, and it is incumbent upon the representatives of this state to continue to use public funds only for public schools. Texas public schools were the springboard that got me into the University of Texas, and got me great jobs beyond that - all in Texas. Texas public schools keep the economy strong and offer an opportunity for everyone to be a productive member of our great state. Fund Texas public schools, not private schools. Vote no on HB 3.

Dana Palacios

Self - mother of 4 Texas public school students

Plano, TX

This bill is not based on what is best for Texas students. This is solely an attempt to appease wealthy donors. What is best for students is to increase funding to public schools. Of the 5 million public school students in Texas, over 3 million depend on the schools for more than an education, including meals. This is not a burden, but our responsibility. Offsetting the cost of private school for those families who CHOSE that path will make providing for the 60+% of economically disadvantaged students even more difficult.

Our family is not ED and we consider it our ministry to stand up for, work for, and protect the students whose parents are not even getting by at this juncture. Our very special elementary school is struggling as it is to make ends meet. This year our PE coaches had a budget of $200 to replace equipment. Luckily our PTA spent $2400 to get them the supplies they needed for a 40 year old school that serves 520 children in north Texas.

This bill is not widely supported by Texans. Only by the elected officials whose greed for power and money wants the financial backing from already wealthy donors who want to further line their pockets.

We see you. We know who is not listening to their constituents. The tide is turning and a few wealthy donors can't keep you in office forever when the rest of your district looks for someone who actually wants to make things better.

Brad Kirchhofer

self

HOUSTON, TX

I strongly support educational freedom for all Texas families. Please move this bill forward.

Eren Turner

Self, Licensed Professional Counselor

Corinth, TX

I am a parent of two high school students in public school, and I have spent 10 years of my career working as a counselor in public schools. Like the vast majority of constituents in Texas, I am vehemently opposed to vouchers of any kind. Our focus - YOUR focus, as our leaders - should be to serve ALL your constituents, to provide the best education possible for all the children in Texas, not to just gift the select few a discount on private school. Vouchers will take money away from so many of our students, especially the most vulnerable - those requiring accommodations due to physical or mental differences. Please listen to the people in your districts and vote no on this bill. Please put the focus on improving public schools so they are more equip to serve all students instead of pulling money away and causing them to struggle more. Texas will be better for it.

Fiona Neale-May

Self

Austin, TX

This bill is a complete sham to destabilize our already poor level of education in Texas, moving both power and money into the hands of the already wealthy and leaving our more vulnerable communities in worse state. How do we ever expect to become a smarter, stronger state and country if we don't invest in universal education that does not rely on this charter school / coupon garbage. Look at other states who have tried this and how poorly educated their youth are in these systems. Wake up.

Angie Nobles
Self
Georgetown, TX

I adamantly oppose vouchers!
Our Public Schools have been neglected for 5 years - DO NOT send Public dollars to Private Schools.

Karen McLachlan
none
Plano, TX

I am against school vouchers. I believe in supporting public education, and if people opt for private, pay themselves, not tax payer funded,

Joy Neale-May, Mrs.
Self
Austin, TX
NO - remove

Carol Chance, Dr.
Teachers
Georgetown, TX

As a public school educator/administrator of forty-two years, I am opposed to vouchers using public tax dollars to support private schools. On a personal note, my mother paid for my K- 12 Catholic school education. As a professional educator, I am severely aware of the under-funding of public schools. Budget cuts have been a routine procedure due to a lack of funds. State monitoring of public and private schools to guarantee equity and curriculum/testing compliance would be overwhelming. Vouchers would increase the great divide for quality education for all. Those that have resources would have more; those that don't have would lag further behind. School criteria for selection of students with their vouchers would open avenues to greater discrimination. PUBLIC TAX $s for PUBLIC SCHOOLS!

Rebekah Porter
Self/greater homeschool community
Mckinney, TX

Texans already have the choice on where and what institution to send our children for education. The voucher system is a bad idea all the way around. Please work alongside homeschool families before drafting bills that will greatly affect us. Many families move to Texas and choose to homeschool in Texas because it is literally the best state to do so in the union! Spend time working with educators, parents and your constituents before passing bills we do not desire and voting for bills with detrimental affect!

Tanya Easley
Self - Professor of Mathematics
Porter, TX

As a 27 year veteran of teaching, mostly in 6-12 public schools and most recently in our local community college, I truly believe this bill is bad for our education system. This bill will only serve to hurt public schools more instead of fixing issues. We will continue to lose great educators because more and more is expected with less and less. Unfunded mandates, high stakes testing, having to teach content and social-emotional learning and life skills and keep up with lesson plans and paperwork and required pd which is often completely unrelated to their actual needs have all served to burn teachers out at a disturbingly fast rate. Adding school vouchers which will likely only remove more affluent students and possibly top performing students will only speed up the burn out. The fix is to lighten the load of educators and trust them to be the professionals they are trained to be.

Auntie Dilts

Self

Alpine, TX

I am a homeschool teacher of 5. I am also a homeschool graduate. My family is a single income, lower middle class family. If anyone would likely benefit from a bill like this, it would be mine. That said, my family already has school choice. Leeper confirmed what Texas parents already knew that our children are our responsibility and the choice for their education is ours alone. My family and 1000's of others have chosen to make the financial sacrifices necessary to teach our own children. The cost is a million times over worth it. We do not want or require financial assistance to provide for our children, especially not from government. No matter how well intentioned some of you may be, the scariest words from the government remain, "I'm here to help." This is because "help" always comes with strings. Some of you may think that what you've authored wouldn't be used against those you're trying to help. But have you thought about where this could lead 5, 10-20 years from now? That is the concern of freedom loving families in Texas. We are not just thinking about the here and now, but like we always do, about our children's future. HB3 should receive a Nay Vote from every freedom loving Texan. Please do the right thing and vote No on HB3!

Anne Thornton

Self/Director of Agriculture in higher ed

Greenville, TX

As a Republican and career educator, HB 3 will create increasing financial hardships for rural Texas ISDs. All of the states that currently have ESAs are seeing that the intended beneficiaries in students are not receiving the funds, but wealthy families are receiving the greatest benefit. Likewise, using public tax dollars for private, religious oriented schools, would violate the US Constitution. It is an infringement on the separation of church and state. I have been in education for 31 years and State mandated testing has created a massive problem by promoting our ly teaching content on the test. If ESAs are passed, this will end up in a court battle. We would be more productive with fully funded schools, and increasing teacher pay. I am fully tested in TRS and close to retirement. If ESAs are implemented, my TRS is in danger if mass numbers of teachers leave the system. Even 1% loss would impact my retirement. Please stop this bill!!!!

Elena Coates

self; actor/media producer

Houston, TX

This bill is a disastrous move that will take critical funding away from the public school system. Texans deserve a public school system that serves the needs of all students with qualified teachers and professional staff, and the proposed $1 billion expenditure should support smaller class sizes, upgraded facilities, special education programs, and high calibre curriculum, including arts, physical education and libraries managed by librarians in our PUBLIC schools, and guarantee LOCAL ACCOUNTABILITY through an ELECTED SCHOOL BOARD. We have worked for decades to hold our public schools accountable for student progress and there is no standard to evaluate schools outside the public system. This is a blatant move to weaken the public system and it should be rejected AGAIN. Clearly the people of Texas do not want this; stop wasting our time trying to shove this bill down our throats and instead do something meaningful that benefits our children. Improve PUBLIC schools, and put oversight back in the hands of LOCAL COMMUNITIES.

Ava Bartek
Self-Retired Educator
Belton, TX

My name is Ava Bartek. I am a constituent of Texas House District 54. I am writing to ask my Representative and other voting Representatives to vote NO on HB 3. Our public schools need full funding. I am a retired public school educator with 38 years of experience. My profession was not just a "job"; it was a calling that I dearly loved. The days were not always easy; however, each was ALWAYS rewarding. Since my retirement in 2014, things have drastically changed. Each year, our public schools are being faced with more and more expectations and challenges put on them every day. They accept and take them on for the benefit of their students, our kids! There is only so much they can do. Now, you want to present the insurmountable challenge of even less funding of an amount that wasn't enough to start with. We are losing more and more of our valued, dedicated educators who are highly qualified professionals who make a difference in our children's lives every day. I'm afraid if this bill passes, we will lose exponentially more. The children of this great State of Texas deserve better than this. They deserve better from you.

I challenge you to:

1. Look deep within your heart and be brutally honest with yourself concerning what is best for Texas's children and public schools. Please take a stand for what is best for our children and for public schools, and do not allow yourself to be bullied.

Please vote NO.

2. I challenge you to take one day and spend it in the public schools of your District. Talk to your teachers in those schools. Take time to know their teacher's heart, their love for their students, and how they fear the passing of HB 3 will affect their students. Take time to discover the teachers' pride in their students and let yourself feel the dedication they have regarding their students' successes. Take a moment and get to know and see your public schools...don't just assume to know.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Ava Bartek

Retired Educator/Belton ISD

Daniel Selvaggio
Oxfam/Indivisible/Self
Temple, TX

Hello!

Please keep public education a priority. There is sufficient evidence that vouchers do not benefit communities at large. There is already school choice, taxes stay for public schools. I'd like to think you all know that and will make the right choice for Texas. Thank you!

Courtney Garrett
self, Librarian/GT Teacher
Plainview, TX

Texans are tired of hearing that the “overwhelming majority” of us support school choice, based on the following YouGov survey by the University of Houston and the proposition from the November 2024 election that was poorly worded and again, misleading.

The YouGov survey only included 2,257 participants, which is far from a reliable sample size. There are numerous high schools that have more people than that. I would be willing to bet that your offices have received far more correspondence on this issue than what took the survey.

<https://uh.edu/hobby/txtrends/education.pdf>

<https://texasgop.org/republican-primary-ballot-proposition/>

11.) Texas parents and guardians should have the right to select schools, whether public or private, for their children, and the funding should follow the student.

I would encourage you to pose this question to the constituents in your respective districts and gauge the true stance regarding school choice:

“Texas parents and guardians should have the right to select schools, whether public, private, charter, homeschool, or online, for their children, and they should be responsible for the costs associated with each type of school.”

Prior to this proposition on the November 2024 ballot, members were already receiving a lot of correspondence regarding school choice. Below are The House of Representatives Compilation of Public Comments Submitted to the Committee on Public Education For Hearing Date: Monday, August 12, 2024 9:00 AM:

Comments on HB 1605 (HQIM): 85 pages, 339 comments

<https://capitol.texas.gov/tlodocs/88R/publiccomments/Meetings/C4002024081209001/InputItems/75c98f31-6b17-4571-9f1e-13e244d1a3ea.pdf#navpanes=0>

Comments on Educational Opportunity: 198 pages, 606 comments

<https://capitol.texas.gov/tlodocs/88R/publiccomments/Meetings/C4002024081209001/InputItems/361d8e32-e055-4dd8-ad92-535106f1e431.pdf#navpanes=0>

A total of 2,257 survey participants in July 2024. A total of 945 unsolicited comments in August 2024.

Texans were proactively expressing their concerns about vouchers and school choice long before the November election.

TEA Commissioner Mike Morath testified at the Public Education Committee meeting on February 25 where he presented the following handout:

<https://capitol.texas.gov/tlodocs/89R/handouts/C4002025022510001/f8e1a795-659d-43d9-8290-86a303367463.PDF>

According to slide 3, Texas families have the “Current Learning Options” which is synonymous with “Existing School Choice”:

Public Charter Schools: 422,930

Virtual/Hybrid Schools: 51,904

Private Schools: 286,624

Homeschool: 494,251

1,255,709 students are in charter, private, homeschool, or online.

230,858 more students are transfers to another public school district.

In other words, they are “not trapped by their zip code.”

1,486,567 students are already taking advantage of school choice without the use of my taxpayer dollars.

Poll your districts. Represent their voice. NO TO SCHOOL CHOICE!

Madden Murphy

Self

Tomball, TX

I wish to voice my disdain on this proposed bill. As a public teacher for special needs children, we already lack the appropriate funding for our programs and students. It’s appalling that the state would consider throwing our much needed money towards a system of schools who don’t have to educate those with disabilities. Public schools have to educate everyone so we should be given the funding necessary in order to do that!

Joshua Isaacs

Self - Private Educator - Real Estate Agent

Damon, TX

As a conservative, I am ashamed of how the Republicans in office have been handling this bill. From the Senate, where anyone who so much as questioned SB 2 was insulted on Facebook by elected Republicans, to the Governor's excessive harping on the subject and "fact-checking" campaign, to the handling of communications via emails. I, and others, were called trolls and blocked on social media by the representative of District 23 for asking how many times her constituents had reached out in support compared to opposition. Over email, I have received zero specifics from any Republican that has actually replied, only stonewalling my question with a copy/pasted response about an intentionally absurd interpretation of government codes 552.001, as well as 306.003 and .004, and going so far as telling me that the speaker's office was responsible for the counsel to block the release of any information regarding public opinion, which is in itself quite concerning. Further, the Democrats, though I differ from them extensively on policy, have been totally transparent, open, and honest about it. Why would the party I am a registered voter of, the party I have supported and voted for in every Texas general election, be so unwilling to discuss their constituents' opinions of this bill? What is there to hide that the Democrats across the aisle are willing to disclose? Harris' Town Hall showed what the Republicans want to hide. Our Republican representative from District 44 even told me that, in effect, he is comfortable ignoring emails and calls he receives to his office because they're not an accurate reflection of voters--instead, in his words, "I was elected to use my best judgment." No sir, the dictionary's definition of a Republic in which the people's voices bear no weight is called a banana republic, and you're welcome to look that up. A real Republic is one where you vote according to your constituents--you are intended to be a mouthpiece, not to use your "best judgement."

Now about the polling: The polling this year has consisted of 2 separate polls of 1,200 voters, which equates to 0.0038% of the population of Texas in each poll. Further, the polls and the proposal we voted on in the primary have all specifically stated that the money was following the child, yet this bill is to create an entirely new fund. In order to be a scientifically accurate poll, it would first have to simply be an accurate one. Any truly conservative representative should be pointing out the stark difference between money that's already allocated and increasing the budget, and opposing this bill until it creates zero new spending. We used to be the party that generally opposed new spending when previously allocated funds could suffice... We used to be a party of a lot of things we are not any longer. Truth. Transparency. Honesty. Integrity. None of it means very much in the Texas Capitol anymore, does it? Vote. Pass it. Spend more of our tax dollars. Use your "best judgement."

Kathryn Gabbert

Self

Mckinney, TX

We demand that you fully fund public education!

David Kaminski

self

Hockley, TX

I am writing to you to voice my concerns about the planned support of a voucher program without equality and fairness with traditional public-school support. To be sure, I believe that with all things equal no private school can match the results of traditional public schools. Public schools have been under assault in this state for years and especially since the Gov and Lt Gov have launched their attack on public schools, including chocking off funding while increasing mandates. So, I'm saying if you want vouchers, bring it. But at the same time lets level the playing field. We both know once vouchers pass there will be a rush to prove private schools outperform traditional public schools. Without a level playing field this comparison will be skewed, at best. So, if vouchers are passed you MUST also remove all statutes and laws currently imposed on public schools which differentiate from private schools.

I have NEVER heard the Governor, Lt. Governor, or any legislator suggest putting together a task force to investigate what's wrong with public schools. Don't you think we should investigate what is wrong and how to fix it before we create another bureaucracy and pour millions into a sink hole the way other states have done? I would really appreciate a fair comparison and I fear this will not happen. I will forever fight for truth - as my parents taught me right is right and wrong is wrong.. I'm hoping you will at least be fair in your pursuit.

sincerely,

David Kaminski

Sarah Furman
Self
Friendswood, TX

We do not want ESAs in Texas. They are unfair for the majority of low income, rural, and special education students in Texas. There is already school choice and public money should not support private education.

Christina Gollis
Self
Plano, TX

I oppose this bill because it will take money from public schools and only benefit a small number of students in Texas.

Kurt Fischer
Self
PLANO, TX

As a long time Texas resident and conservative voter, I am against the proposed system of providing vouchers to individuals who wish to pursue their children's education outside of the public school arena. It will ultimately transfer funds from existing public schools to private schools and result in diminished resources available for public education. This will result in the closure of public schools and fewer teachers, resulting in fewer choices for those pursuing their education through public schools. It will harm both quality school districts and poor school districts. Register my strong disagreement with HB 3. And my pledge to hold responsible any legislators enacting it.

Katherine McIntyre, The Honorable
Self
Austin, TX

Please support public schools before funding private and charter schools.

Tom Cawthon
Self
Highland Village, TX

The school voucher program is one of the most out of touch bills that has ever been brought to the fore. It's quite simply a bad idea. Public schools are already terribly underfunded. Taking public school dollars and giving it to families to send their child(ren) to private school will further weaken the public education system as we know it.

Please reconsider your support of this bill.

Summer Konneker, Mrs.
Self, Public School Teacher
Plano, TX

This bill is not based on what is best for Texas students. This is solely an attempt to appease wealthy donors. What is best for students is to increase funding to public schools. Of the 5 million public school students in Texas, over 3 million depend on the schools for more than an education, including meals. This is not a burden, but our responsibility. Offsetting the cost of private school for those families who CHOSE that path will make providing for the 60+% of economically disadvantaged students even more difficult.

Our family is not ED and we consider it our ministry, our privilege to stand up for, work for, and protect the students whose parents are not even getting by at this juncture. Our very special elementary school is struggling as it is to make ends meet. This year our PE coaches had a budget of $200 to replace equipment. Luckily our PTA spent $2400 to get them the supplies they needed for a 40 year old school that serves 520 children in north Texas.

This bill is not widely supported by Texans. Only by the elected officials whose greed for power and money wants the financial backing from already wealthy donors who want to further line their pockets.

We see you. We know who is not listening to their constituents. The tide is turning and a few wealthy donors can't keep you in office forever when the rest of your district looks for someone who actually wants to make things better.

Buffy Kerkhoff
Self - currently unemployed but looking
Katy, TX

I am wholeheartedly against this bill. I believe that school vouchers will divert essential funds from public schools, and they currently operate with tight budgets. If students leave public schools for private institutions using vouchers, it will reduce the amount of money available to support the remaining students in public education. This will lead to larger class sizes, fewer resources, and diminished quality in public schools, which still serve the majority of students. Also, while school vouchers are intended to give families more choices, they don't create equal opportunities for all students. Families in low-income areas will find it difficult to access private schools, even with vouchers, due to transportation barriers, limited availability of private institutions nearby, or additional fees not covered by the voucher. This can exacerbate existing inequalities between wealthier and poorer communities and is being seen in Arizona currently because vouchers were passed in 2022. School vouchers will perpetuate or even exacerbate segregation along racial, economic, or religious lines. Private schools could have selective admissions policies or may cater to particular groups, which could lead to further division in society. We should all be concerned about vouchers because inherently, education is a public good and should be funded and controlled by the state to ensure fairness, equity, and accountability. I do not want an entire generation of children non-educated because funding for public schools is no longer a priority. In addition private schools are often not equipped to handle students with special needs, including those with disabilities, in the same way that public schools are. This leaves some of the most vulnerable students without appropriate educational support. I think that school vouchers will exacerbate issues of equity, fairness, quality, and the potential for negative consequences for public education systems and marginalized communities. As a society, we should focus on improving and investing in public education to ensure all students have access to high-quality schooling and have an educated populace. The best way to achieve this is to have educators making decisions about our public school system instead of lawmakers and school boards who do not understand that public schools are not businesses and shouldn't be run as such.

Cecily Riesenbergl
Self - parent
Amarillo, TX

Vouchers will destroy our schools and bankrupt the state. They are not choice bills. They are vendor bills to enrich others from our tax dollars. Vote no!

Philip Tucker
Self
McKinney, TX

Please fully fund Texas Public education, and say NO to vouchers.

Shannon Davis
Self
Anna, TX

Fully Fund Public Education

Tamara Lacy
Self
Amarillo, TX

Dear House Public Education Committee,

HB 3 will gut TX public education. It will funnel taxpayer dollars through education savings accounts to students for private school tuition and related expenses at an initial cost of $1 billion in state funds for the first two years that should go to our public schools.

That amount will increase in subsequent years, at a growing loss to public education and other critical public services.

State tax dollars must not be diverted from public to private schools. I oppose vouchers and related schemes — including education savings accounts, tax-credit scholarships and for-profit virtual schools — that use tax dollars to pay private school tuition for selected students while undermining public schools where the vast majority of Texas students are educated.

Voucher schemes across the country have proven to be burdensome on state budgets, and a Texas voucher would eventually add billions of dollars to the state budget without an additional funding mechanism.

The universal voucher plan that Gov. Abbott supports has been used in other states to funnel tax-paid subsidies to wealthy parents who already were sending their children to private schools, while many low-income families, even with vouchers, can't afford private school tuition.

I urge you to vote NO to vouchers! Vote NO on SB 2 and HB 3!

Sincerely,

Tamara Lacy

Lauren Doherty
Self
Allen, TX

I do not want educational savings accounts, vouchers, school choice, or any other program that will redirect funds from public schools to be passed. Texas needs to spend public tax dollars at public schools and at public schools ONLY! Our Texas schools are already severely underfunded. Not only do I not want the one billion dollars redirected to private institutions, but I want the billions of dollars in the "rainy day fund" released to increase the allotment as well. Please don't do this. Texans don't want it.

Bridget Harper
McKinney
McKinney, TX

Vouchers will destroy public schools. My children attend McKinney ISD and I am an employee of the district. It is unconscionable what legislation has been proposed that will give breaks to families who do not need financial assistance and take funds from vulnerable children who rely on public education. Texans do not want vouchers, and children need their schools to be funded fully. Parents are always free to choose the school that is best for their child, but giving preference to private schools is not the answer.

Katie Jeffcoats
Self
Plano, TX

Please do not take more money from public schools. This voucher bill would cause the public schools to be even less able to keep and hire quality teachers. Many parents can't afford private school, even with the voucher system, so this bill would directly impair the education of less fortunate kids. I do not want my kids to suffer due to other parents who feel public schools are not "good enough" for their kids. This voucher program seems like it validates that public schools are not "as good."

Katherine Hinz
Self
Plano, TX

Vouchers give parents a choice and make public schools competitive.

Rainbow Di Benedetto, Ms.
self, Director
Austin, TX

I strongly oppose school vouchers. We should be investing in our public schools to effectively serve our children, not continuing to starve them of resources. Please oppose this bill.

Cynthia Walker
Self
Allen, TX

Stop stealing our tax dollars. You've been withholding our recapture funds since 2019, putting our district in the red year after year. We don't want school vouchers. We want you to fully fund our public institutions.

Stephani Kyler
Self
Cedar Park, TX

Dear House Public Education Committee,

HB 3 will gut TX public education. It will funnel taxpayer dollars through education savings accounts to students for private school tuition and related expenses at an initial cost of $1 billion in state funds for the first two years that should go to our public schools.

That amount will increase in subsequent years, at a growing loss to public education and other critical public services.

State tax dollars must not be diverted from public to private schools. I oppose vouchers and related schemes — including education savings accounts, tax-credit scholarships and for-profit virtual schools — that use tax dollars to pay private school tuition for selected students while undermining public schools where the vast majority of Texas students are educated.

Voucher schemes across the country have proven to be burdensome on state budgets, and a Texas voucher would eventually add billions of dollars to the state budget without an additional funding mechanism.

The universal voucher plan that Gov. Abbott supports has been used in other states to funnel tax-paid subsidies to wealthy parents who already were sending their children to private schools, while many low-income families, even with vouchers, can't afford private school tuition.

I urge you to vote NO to vouchers! Vote NO on SB 2 and HB 3!

Sincerely,

Stephani

Bethany Hardwick
Self, educator
Mckinney, TX

I have been proud to be a public educator for 15 years. I have witnessed teachers create magic for their students on a shoestring budget. I've also been through multiple district budget cuts, but nothing as severe as what we are experiencing now. Texas has held on to public school funds while trying to push vouchers that most do not want. Vouchers should have been on a ballot for the whole state, not pushed through behind closed doors. Fully-funded public schools give every student a chance for a brighter future. Our representatives should be working for all Texans, not just the wealthy. Support public schools and say no to vouchers!

Andrea Johnson, Mrs
Self and. Retired Educator
Marathon, TX

83% of Texas is rural. There are 158 counties that do not have private schools. We have public schools that are the heart of our communities. Those schools provide a place for us to enjoy a meal together before Thanksgiving, come together for the fall festival, and celebrate our students' successors. COVID shook that foundation. We weren't able to gather. As an educator, I held a zoom meeting each morning at 8:15. Out of 165 students, I could only count on 30 parents to get their children up. Our students fell behind. Lack of funding during the last session didn't help. Governor Abbott's behavior has created a toxic atmosphere in our state. I feel that he is trying to create separate classes of people with this voucher program. There are only 10 counties in Texas that have more than 1 private school, and let's face it- the students in private school will be covered by a voucher program but no one else. So the numbers don't work-5.4 million students, vouchers for only 100,000. As Trump dismantles the Department of Education, what happens to our most vulnerable students- the ones covered by IDEA? Is Texas prepared to step up for them? Texans have voiced their opposition to a voucher program for years. We have watched other states try it and fail- the cost balloons and accountability fails. Don't fail our Texas students! Our spending should not be 41st. That is shameful. Do better- defeat this voucher scam so we can take pride in our education system for ALL Texas students.

Julie Lacy
Self
Cibolo, TX

Dear House Public Education Committee,

HB 3 will gut TX public education. It will funnel taxpayer dollars through education savings accounts to students for private school tuition and related expenses at an initial cost of $1 billion in state funds for the first two years that should go to our public schools.

That amount will increase in subsequent years, at a growing loss to public education and other critical public services.

State tax dollars must not be diverted from public to private schools. I oppose vouchers and related schemes — including education savings accounts, tax-credit scholarships and for-profit virtual schools — that use tax dollars to pay private school tuition for selected students while undermining public schools where the vast majority of Texas students are educated.

Voucher schemes across the country have proven to be burdensome on state budgets, and a Texas voucher would eventually add billions of dollars to the state budget without an additional funding mechanism.

The universal voucher plan that Gov. Abbott supports has been used in other states to funnel tax-paid subsidies to wealthy parents who already were sending their children to private schools, while many low-income families, even with vouchers, can't afford private school tuition.

I urge you to vote NO to vouchers! Vote NO on SB 2 and HB 3!

Sincerely,

Julie Lacy

Diana Cason Taxpayer
Bedford, TX

Regarding HB 3 creating Education Savings Accounts/Vouchers, I oppose using taxpayer funds to provide for private education (religious or non-religious). While there is much discussion regarding financial eligibility of these accounts, PLEASE consider the issue of access to private school. Private schools typically do not provide transportation, they choose which students to accept (not parent choice), they don't accept students with disabilities or typically requiring accommodation. So while some may be given priority in applying, will they be accepted?? Likely not. Privatizing education is not the answer. How about fully funding public schools?

Mary Barton
Self
Austin, TX

I do not support this bill. This does not create educational choice for all students in Texas. In fact it will accomplish the opposite, further dividing the wealthy from the non-wealthy. I do not want my tax dollars paying for private education. My tax dollars should never be used to fund private education. My tax dollars should support public education.

Mary Welton, Ms
Self
Bedford, TX

I agree that all parents need the ability to select the best educational opportunities for their children, however, public funds should not be used to give them that ability.

Rikki Koetter

Self, community volunteer

Dallas, TX

I'm opposed to HB3 as a parent of children in public school. Even if I didn't have school aged children I would oppose it. Texas' continued growth depends on a strong, educated workforce and taking money out of public schools will lead us down the path of an uneducated populace. Holding funding hostage as a means to pass undesirable legislation is not serving your constituents, but serving a very small group of wealthy donors. Make no mistake, the tax dollars you are holding back are ours. We pay the taxes, not the billionaires. My family could afford public school if we wanted our children to attend. I don't need a tax break though. I want my kids to attend school with all walks of life. We choose to go to a title 1 school. We donate time and resources to lift up others that aren't as fortunate as us. Vouchers will not help poor students go to better schools. Their parents rely on bussing, free/reduced lunch, sports with no fees, and school provided tech. Private schools don't offer any of this. Nor do they desire diversity outside of athletes. Our public schools need to be fully funded now. Our school districts need to get out from under the burden of recapture (which is not properly distributed), our teachers need the freedom to teach TEKS, but not be forced to teach to the narrow skills on the STAAR , our teachers need to make $80k+ because this job is hard as hell. You know that this bill will disproportionately harm those that are already in need. This bill is founded in greed, hate, racism, and is flatly anti-Christian. Taking from the poor to enrich the wealthy is just gross. Nobody wants this.

P. Cole

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Please, please please vote again vouchers!! This will benefit Noone except the greedy people in charge. We need to maintain our freedom to homeschool with zero government interference.

Lauralee Cornuauud

Self

Plano, TX

I'm not in favor of school vouchers. They will have a negative impact on public schools and will divert resources away from direct classroom instruction. School vouchers will funnel money away from already-struggling public schools and children. They will reduce and reallocate public school funding to private schools. Vouchers will facilitate subsidies for well-off families at the taxpayers' expense.

Eileen Hays

Self

Sweeny, TX

Why do you keep ignoring the wishes of Texas voters. These vouchers will be going to schools with no oversight of student well-being. This is basically taxation without representation.

Lea Isgur

self, retired

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill because it provides funding to a minority of people at the expense of those who cannot afford or do not have the opportunity to have their children in private schools. Public schools are already severely underfunded, and any additional K-12 education funds should go to public schools. Private schools are unregulated and are not subject to the same testing and standards required of public schools. Neighborhood public schools accept all students, but private schools can deny admission or educational services to any student, including students with disabilities, among others. Use of tax dollars should come with standards and not allow cherry picking of the easiest students to teach. Doing so would leave only the most challenging students in public schools, at a reduction of funding for the public schools (as the daily census would fall if students moved into private schools).

Karen Farrell

self

Houston, TX

I am a grandparent. I have received primarily a Texas education, a very good one. My children received & now grandchildren are receiving a Texas education. Please keep vouchers out of Texas. Let the schools keep that money. In fact, give them more! The public school system is good if it is funded adequately. If vouchers are allowed our children will suffer.

Hollis Ghobrial

Self

Dallas, TX

As a parent of 2 public school students, 3rd and 6th grade, I have seen firsthand the struggles our public schools have faced. Dwindling funding year after year continues to further squeeze parents, requiring us to pay more for educational services. This includes simple upgrades to the school, field trips, and in one case, saving our assistant principal from losing his position. In addition, my children encounter disruptions like teachers leaving mid school year (multiple times), making learning extremely difficult. Last summer, my 3rd grader lost two talented teachers. He was assigned to a new class with a teacher who scared him, and a class filled with more than the limit of 22 students. My 6th grader receives special education services, and the quality of these services continues to deteriorate due to lack of available staffing. Our public schools cannot suffer any more losses and focusing on a private school voucher program will only create more private schools who do not meet standards or private schools who will not admit students from the public school system. This further divides and separates economic groups but also reduces funding for our students. There has been no increase in per student funding since 2019, and this bill will only increase funding per student by $220. This doesn't even match the runaway rate of inflation. The education savings account program will continue to siphon dollars from public school funding, making it difficult for those of us who will continue to use public schools as the subsidized education account will not help pay for a full private school tuition. As a result, I am against HB3.

Joni Pearson

Self

Mission, TX

Against Vouchers

Donna Ullrich

Individual educator comment

El Paso, TX

I oppose house bill three. I opposed vouchers because I've seen that attempted in areas of Texas and it doesn't work and it only puts money in the individuals who created this. I've talked for 35 years and vouchers will not work and I vote strongly on house bill three no.

Veronica Johnson
Self / Systems Administrator
Kyle, TX

All children should have the freedom to learn and pursue their dreams. So we must equip every public school with the resources they need to deliver quality education that prepares every child for the future, no matter their color, where they live, their religious faith, or how much money their parents make.

Vouchers drain tax dollars from public schools to fund private and religious schools that aren't accountable to taxpayers. Public dollars should stay with public schools that educate all children, not just a select few.

Vouchers benefit wealthy families who can already afford private tuition, leaving working-class and rural families behind. Private schools can discriminate based on disability, religion, or LGBTQIA+ identity—while still taking taxpayer money. Students with disabilities lose protections under federal and state law if they use a voucher to attend a private school.

Rural communities will suffer most. Many have no private schools, yet their tax dollars would be diverted away from public education.

Texas schools are already underfunded. Instead of defunding them further, lawmakers should fully fund our public schools. "Education savings accounts" and "parental empowerment programs" are just rebranded voucher schemes designed to weaken public education.

Texans oppose vouchers. We must demand that lawmakers reject any plan that takes money away from public schools. Other states have tried the school voucher route, with detrimental effects. It is proven to not help the majority of constituents.

Marilee Hayden
Myself
Frisco, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to HB3. As a fiscal conservative & a Texas-licensed CPA (retired), I believe in upholding the principles of fiscal responsibility & accountability. HB3, in its current form, raises several significant concerns that I believe warrant careful consideration.

Accountability is the cornerstone of fiscal responsibility. HB3 allocates public funds to private entities with fewer accountability requirements than public schools. Ensuring that public funds are used as intended is crucial, & policies that impose strict accountability on public but not private schools raise concerns about the fairness & equity of funding across educational institutions. It is essential that all institutions receiving public funds adhere to the same rigorous standards to maintain public trust & ensure effective use of taxpayer dollars.

The economic landscape is uncertain, particularly regarding potential tariffs that could impact our state. If the Trump administration imposes tariffs, or if tariffs are imposed on us in return, we do not have sufficient information to estimate the impact of these tariffs or a potential trade war. Passing HB3 under these uncertain conditions poses a risk to our state's financial stability. Should the state incur negative consequences, it is unclear which items on the budget will have to be terminated or decreased to balance the budget. This uncertainty underscores the need for caution & prudent fiscal planning.

School districts in North Texas have already faced significant financial challenges, leading to the closure of schools in an effort to balance their budgets. HB3 will exacerbate this issue by further reducing the funds available to our school districts, inevitably resulting in more school closures. The education of our children should be a top priority, and reducing the resources available to public schools undermines this fundamental objective.

A Quorum Report published today, March 10, 2025, shows that two-thirds of Texans oppose private school vouchers. According to Z to A Research, "They (Texans) demand legislators focus on fully funding public schools, & legislators who support vouchers will lose their support." It is clear that the majority of Texans do not support the diversion of public funds to private schools through voucher programs. We should not even be discussing vouchers unless we fully fund public education back to at least 2019 purchasing power levels.

In conclusion, I urge the committee to consider the long-term implications of HB3 on our state's educational system and fiscal health. Please vote no on HB3.

Laura Farnell self--parent and musician
Arlington, TX

Please vote to support Texas students and teachers!!

Mary Landry
self/retired teacher
Houston, TX

Please oppose HB3 relating to school vouchers. Public dollars should be spent on public schools, not distributed to those who can afford the difference in the vouchers and the cost of private schools, which are not held to the same standards and accountability as public schools. A school voucher system will create a dual system where those with special needs and learning disabilities are left behind. It will also give a windfall to those who SAY they are homeschooling their students with no accountability to provide any level of education. It is a system that will be easily abused and detract from public education, the responsibility of the state.

Nicole Simmons, Mrs
Self
Mansfield, TX

I am a parent and a taxpayer in the State of Texas. I do NOT agree with vouchers or an education savings account program. I am an advocate for Public Education; in fact, my child is receiving an excellent Public Education that is robust and rigorous. It is inconceivable and irresponsible that the State of Texas has neglected its fiduciary duties and responsibilities to our children and educators since 2019. Since then, the cost of living has increased, and inflation is over 20%. Representative, you took a promised oath to the people of Texas.

I am advocating for the following:

- an increase of the Basic Allotment and
- Funding for Public Schools in Texas, including the inflated amount of over 20%.

Again, I want you and your colleagues to know that our children and the staff deserve to be treated with dignity and respect by Funding Public Schools in Texas.

Sincerely,

Nicole Simmons

Rachel Behnke
Self
Leander, TX

Vote no on ALL educational vouchers in HB3 and SB2. They will hurt Texas public schools. Instead, let's better fund all public schools to help all Texas students have the best educational opportunities. Thank you.

Christen George-McFerrin
Self
Houston, TX

Public education is critical to Texas' success. As a parent and community member, I value the hard work of our educators and administrators in SBISD. I urge everyone in the Texas legislation to support the public school systems by raising the student allotment by a minimum of $1000 and, in the face of a pending reduction of funding from the Department of Education, to lead the charge on supporting public education at the state level and be an example to the nation at large.

Leigha Riddle
Self, Homemaker
Brock, TX

There is an overwhelming consensus among Texas teachers AND residents that we do NOT want a school voucher system. The public schools in Texas are currently being INTENTIONALLY underfunded by Greg Abbott in order for him to have a scapegoat and reason to push for these vouchers. That's despicable behavior considering how terribly our state schools are struggling without these funds that they are owed. I have personally witnessed an A+ school district go from the envy of all districts to a sad and frustrated bunch of educators who have no resources and dwindling salaries. Greg Abbott has serious conflicts of interest regarding private schools, as his wife sits on the board of one of the largest private school systems in this state. He also enjoys white privilege and financial privilege; things that do not apply to all Texas residents across the board. Taking funding away from our public schools creates gaps that have already taken years to fill. I would like for everyone to stand up to this tyrant and tell him NO VOUCHER SYSTEM, and give our public schools the monies that they are owed (and have been owed for YEARS)!!

Jenny Panther Dickerson
Self
Round Rock, TX

I urge you to vote in favor of all Texas families and not special interests. Public funds need to ALL stay in public schools!

Julie Allen, Counselor
Self
Arp, TX

We do not need vouchers! I work in a small rural school and my students need all the funding we have plus the money that Gov Abbott has held hostage. Vouchers will NOT help the majority of my students NO VOUCHERS!!!

Karla Denise Johnson
Self
Amarillo, TX

I am a concerned citizen of Texas. I feel that passing the school voucher bill would kill our public schools. The advantage I see to this bill is to help the rich and the private schools. Let's concentrate on public education and improving what we have there. Shame on you the government leadership of Texas for trying to make it easier on the wealthy rather than showing a true interest in the education of the majority.

Tasha Yarbrough
Self
Channing, TX

Vote No to school savings account and fully fund public schools. Rural Texas schools are the heartbeat of the community and will be negatively affected by ESA program. There is not an equal accountability for public funds between public schools and an ESA. Private schools are not expected to accept and educate all students; therefore, students with special learning needs will be at a Disadvantage. This will create bigger divides between the upper class and lower class. No state that has approved a voucher/ESA system has improved student education and it's only negatively affected the state funding.

Rachel Wall

Self

Athens, TX

This bill is bad news for Texas. Public government money should not go to private or homeschools and should stay in the public school sector. It has the potential to cause financial problems for Texas' budget and interfere with the freedoms we fight so hard to retain as Texans. It would be a potential government overstep and impede the freedom to choose in education. It has the potential to limit school choices as opposed to creating more options in education for students. If the goal is to provide opportunity and choices in education, this is not the way to go about it. It would be better to foster online tuition free public school options as well as work on making public schools better as opposed to interfering in private/homeschool sectors. By creating this bill, private and homeschools would become public and no longer separate or an alternative for those in which public school is not the best fit. This could create a monopoly in the school system. This bill appears to create more problems than it is claiming to solve and comes along with limitations of hard earned freedoms in the private and homeschool education sector. It seems an unnecessary and ill fated bill and I am opposed to its passing. Many public school, private school, and homeschool citizens agree that this bill no good. I think we need to keep the current laws, rules, and regulations in the private/homeschool sector as is and focus on making public schools better.

Erin Brandstatt

Self- parent of public school children and educator

Amarillo, TX

We the people of public education do NOT want this. Vote NO!!!

Randall Purcell

self

Amarillo, TX

Vouchers SHOULD be allowed. The PUBLIC education system is an epic failure. It's bloated down from the top. A very high % of new money coming into the school systems the last 10 years has gone to admins not teachers or students. In the last 20 years we've added 3 layers of "admins" into the system. Enough already. Funny how the more money we throw at public education the lower the test scores. A good educator would see the correlation and adjust. What do our public educators do? They want more money, more regulations, more rules, more procedures, all the while our kids are failing basic studies. We have all the internet, but take that away from a student today and they can't think for themselves. It's sad what the public educators have done to our youth. Why pay taxes for 60 years when you only had 1 kid in the public education system for 12 years. Think about that. Our taxing system on property you own is wrong. I paid taxes on earning my money. Paid taxes when I purchase anything with the money I already paid taxes on, and then pay taxes on private property that I've already been taxed on TWICE? So if I keep a car or a house I could be taxed 20-25 more times for just owning that private property.

Cody Snyder
Self / firefighter
Amarillo, TX

I am writing to express my deep concern regarding the financial struggles of our public schools, particularly the impact of the Recapture Program and proposed voucher programs. Our district alone has over $3,000,000 redistributed across the state, yet we are currently operating under a $2,100,000 deficit due to a failed VATRE vote. The introduction of a voucher system will only further strain our public schools by diverting much-needed funding, making it increasingly difficult to hire qualified teachers and ensure proper security on our campuses.

While my children attend public school, I often consider homeschooling or private school as alternatives due to the lack of curriculum and state testing requirements in those settings. However, this is not a viable option for our family. Those who can afford private education already have access to these systems, and offering vouchers would either provide them with a discount or drive up tuition costs, ultimately keeping these options inaccessible to the majority of families.

As I have researched the issue, I have yet to find a state where a voucher program has yielded a positive outcome for public schools. Our districts should receive 100% of the funds allocated to them without being dependent on the passage of local votes. Furthermore, if private and home schools receiving voucher funds are not subject to state-mandated curriculums and testing, it raises the question of why public schools should continue to bear those burdens alone.

I urge you to prioritize the financial stability of our public schools and ensure that taxpayer dollars are used to support the institutions that serve the vast majority of students. Thank you for your time and for considering the concerns of your constituents.

Sincerely,
Cody Snyder

Meredith Lubbock, MBA self- tech specialist
Amarillo, TX

VOuchers are a great idea! It will allow my tax dollars to follow my child/children to the school of their choosing even if that means just switching public school districts to a BETTER choice for them. Why not allow the school that accepts the child to benefit from the tax dollars raised by that child's property tax? Educating that child costs the school something financially, so they should benefit from the property tax I am paying.

Jami Cowart
Self
Canyon, TX

School vouchers have not been effecting in any state. Over 70% of Texans do not want this bill to pass. Put the money that will go for this program back into the hands of teacher by giving them a raise and also put it into a school system that is already ranked toward the bottom. If you want to be a top notch state for students, they need the funds in their public schools, not the money to go to private school. Please listen to the majority of Texans, that's why you're there.

Amy Farkas
Self, Public Procurement
Amarillo, TX

I'm writing to voice my strong opposition to this bill because school vouchers can lead to a decrease in funding for public schools by diverting public money to private institutions, potentially harming the quality of education for students who remain in the public system, while not always guaranteeing improved outcomes for voucher recipients, especially if the private schools selected are not high quality; critics also argue that vouchers can exacerbate inequities by allowing higher-income families to further subsidize their private education with public funds. NO VOUCHERS!! Our school district alone stands to lose over half a million dollars and we are already struggling! We love and value our public educators. Please do not pass this ridiculous, harmful bill.

Karla McCall
Self / accountant
Abilene, TX

We do NOT want vouchers. Most of this state is rural or semi rural, without a private school in sight. FUND our public schools properly and they will deliver! We love our public schools and are proud of them. Wilks, Dunn and Yates do not get to tell us what Texans' priorities are. Enough already. LISTEN to the people you claim to represent.

Leslye Roberts
Self/educator
Abilene, TX

I oppose this bill and the use of public funds for vouchers to private schools. Private schools lack the accountability and transparency that is necessary for the use of taxpayer money.

Caitlin Dickey
self
Flower Mound, TX

Hello, my name is Caitlin Dickey. I am writing regarding the Education Committee hearing for House Bill 3 on Tuesday. As a homeschool parent, I value freedom from government strings and regulations in private education, and am against the expansion of government in the name of "parental empowerment." I would like to ask our representatives and lawmakers to please join a large constituency of homeschoolers in opposing "school choice" legislation like HB 3. Thank you!

Cindy Skinner
Self
Lago Vista, TX

I want you to know that this Voucher Scam represents a fight between a bi-partisan, pro public education coalition vs. billionaire mega-donors who control Greg Abbott and Dan Patrick. Your constituents love their kids, believe in public school teachers, support our neighborhood schools and want them fully funded. We don't want a Voucher Scam that will eventually defund our local schools.

I would like to see these things:

- * the Basic allotment tied to inflation indexes so Gov Abbott cannot hold it hostage anymore
- * The basic allotment become enrollment-based vs. attendance based
- * Full funding to make up for 6 years of missing funding
- * Vote NO on the Voucher Scam.

Thank you.

Beth Stratton
self
Garland, TX

This bill is SO bad for the education of our kids. Please understand that no parent wants this-only the companies that will benefit from it. It is not set up to really help those who need it. If you look at other states who have implemented this program, majority of the families were making above $75,000/year. Our public schools don't need money taken from them, they need money to raise the pay for SPED teachers and their aides (really, would you change a 7 year old's diaper for $10/hour?). This bill is a slap in the face to our teachers.

I am AGAINST HB3, and ask you our representatives to do what is really best for Texas and vote against this bill.

Beverly Cheevers

Self / childcare worker and homeschool mom

Fort Worth, TX

As a homeschool parent, I value freedom from government strings and regulations in private education, and am against the expansion of government in the name of “parental empowerment.” I would like to ask Representative Romero to please join a large constituency of homeschoolers in opposing “school choice” legislation like HB 3. Thank you!

Cameron Stephen, Mr.

Self / Educator

Cypress, TX

HB 3 is a voucher and will funnel taxpayer dollars through education savings accounts to students for private school tuition and related expenses at an initial cost of $1 billion in state funds for the first two years that should go to our public schools.

That amount will increase in subsequent years, at a growing loss to public education and other critical public services.

State tax dollars must not be diverted from public to private schools. I oppose vouchers and related schemes — including education savings accounts, tax-credit scholarships and for-profit virtual schools — that use tax dollars to pay private school tuition for selected students while undermining public schools where the vast majority of Texas students are educated.

Voucher schemes across the country have proven to be burdensome on state budgets, and a Texas voucher would eventually add billions of dollars to the state budget without an additional funding mechanism.

The universal voucher plan that Gov. Abbott supports has been used in other states to funnel tax-paid subsidies to wealthy parents who already were sending their children to private schools, while many low-income families, even with vouchers, can't afford private school tuition. States that have adopted voucher and voucher-like programs are now siphoning additional money away from public education to fund those programs. Schools are already underfunded. Educators like myself are losing their jobs to budget cuts. I exhort you to fund public education properly.

I urge you to vote NO to vouchers! Vote NO on HB 3!

Erica Porter, Mrs

self, retired BSN

Georgetown, TX

Vouchers support wealthy people who can already afford the private school of their choice. Racism is certainly involved, if only indirectly, lower income people cannot afford private schools, and $6000 will not pay the tuition. Public schools need more money, not less. Texas ranks near the bottom of public education results for a reason. Renaming the bill, over and over doesn't change it.

Barbara Kolb

Self

Austin, TX

Using vouchers for school choice is only benefitting the rich. Not the children who really need to be benefited by it. A wolf in sheep's clothing.

Polly Ryan

Self, Paralegal and Parent

Austin, TX

I am opposed to the education savings account program/vouchers/school "choice" initiative. No matter what Greg Abbott says this robs our public schools of direly needed funds and gives tax breaks for the wealthy. It is ludicrous that the state would even consider taking money from public schools when so many of them are already in desperate need of an increase in their per student funding. As you know, the state has not given an increase since 2019. Time + inflation has made this an untenable situation. FULLY fund our public schools NOW. Our kids and our future deserve no less.

Alison Bennett

Self

Pearland, TX

I am writing to express my concerns about House Bill 3 (HB 3) and its negative impact on Texas public schools. Although it is intended to improve education, this bill, as it stands, may exacerbate inequities, reduce education quality, and fail to address systemic challenges that many schools face. HB 3's funding structure disproportionately benefits wealthier districts, leaving low-income schools underfunded. The Texas Public Policy Foundation (2018) reports that funding disparities contribute to achievement gaps between low-income and affluent students. Studies by the Center for American Progress (2018) show that equitable funding is vital for closing these gaps. HB 3 risks deepening the divide between wealthy and disadvantaged districts, leaving low-income schools unable to provide necessary resources such as textbooks, technology, and after-school programs. While HB 3 increases teacher salaries, it does not sufficiently address issues like teacher burnout, high turnover, and lack of professional development. Per the National Education Association (2020), pay raises alone do not solve these problems. Teachers are often overworked and under-supported, and the bill's focus on performance-based metrics could increase testing pressures, narrowing the curriculum and stifling creativity. The American Educational Research Association (2017) found that performance-based funding models typically increase stress and decrease teacher autonomy, negatively affecting both educators and students. HB 3 introduces strict performance targets that may be unrealistic, particularly for low-income students who face additional barriers like food insecurity and lack of access to healthcare. The Education Trust (2016) warns that setting overly ambitious standards for disadvantaged students can lead to increased dropout rates. Such targets may lead schools to prioritize test scores over student development. Texas experiences high teacher turnover, with nearly 50% of new teachers leaving within five years (Texas Center for Education Policy, 2021). A survey by the Texas State Teachers Association (2019) revealed that administrative support and insufficient preparation are primary factors behind teacher retention. While HB 3 includes salary increases, it does not address these root causes. Without sufficient support, teachers may continue leaving, undermining the stability and quality of education in many districts. The bill's focus on standardized testing and performance metrics may disproportionately harm special education students and ESL students. The National Center for Learning Disabilities (2020) highlights the difficulties these students face in high-stakes testing environments, which are not designed to accommodate their individual needs. A more comprehensive and equitable approach is needed to address the real challenges facing Texas education, including sufficient funding for all districts, improved teacher support, and a focus on the diverse needs of students.

Kathleen Bolton, Mrs.

Self, parent

Houston, TX

Dear Chair and Members of the Committee,

My name is Kathleen Bolton, and I am writing to strongly oppose HB3. I had planned to testify in person today alongside my 5-year-old daughter, Ava, but unfortunately, I am unable to make the drive from Houston. However, I still feel it is important to share our story and the impact this bill could have on children like her.

Ava is a bright and creative child who dreams of becoming an artist. Since she was old enough to hold a crayon, she has been drawing. Art is not just a hobby for her—it is how she expresses herself, learns, and envisions her future. Public school arts programs play a crucial role in nurturing children's creativity, yet they are often the first to be cut when funding is reduced. If HB3 passes, it will jeopardize the very programs that help children like Ava develop their talents and find their voices.

Public schools should provide every child, regardless of their passion or talent, with the resources they need to succeed. Cutting funding could crush Ava's dream before she even has a chance to chase it. I urge you to vote against HB3 and stand up for the future of Texas children.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Bolton

Houston, TX

Kim Bullock

self - writer

Dallas, TX

HB 3 - This school voucher program is a scam. It will only help the wealthy since it won't cover the full cost of tuition to private schools. Also, in many areas there is no private school to choose, or the only choices are religious schools. NOT ALL FAMILIES WANT THEIR KIDS INDOCRINATED WITH RELIGION AT SCHOOL! Added to this, private schools get to choose who they let in, so forget about education for poor kids, gay kids, brown/black kids, or anyone with special needs. All this awful bill will do is take money away from public schools, making them worse, and giving taxpayer dollars to Christian schools. I am not okay with this.

Elise Dixon, Ms

Self- retired

Dallas, TX

I am adamantly opposed to vouchers/educational savings accounts. This is primarily just a giveaway to the wealthy who send their children to private schools. Private schools do not have to accept all students, do not have testing standards, instructional mandates nor do they have to provide transportation, assistance to disabled, armed security that public schools do. The vast majority of these schools are religiously affiliated. Let the parents provide religious instruction at home or in a school they pay for themselves. This bill will harm public education.

James Berbiglia, Chaplain(LTC), USA, Ret.

Ordained Minister, self

Helotes, TX

Establishing an education, savings account takes money directly from the school system, and gives it to people who cannot afford the additional tuition and who have no transportation to a private institution. The Texas school system is required to care for all children, disabled or poor and it provides transportation. Why not give the $10,000 to each teacher and school and raise Texas public schools out of the basement! Please do not use my tax money to send children to religious or private schools!

Ann Thompson

self

Hurst, TX

I strongly oppose any version of ESAs for students in Texas. First, the plan proposed falsely claims it is to help students with learning disabilities, and low socio-economic status. However, standards for many private schools do not provide for these populations. Second, the cost for private school tuition is prohibitive for the aforementioned populations even with an ESA. Third, it is unconstitutional according to the Texas Constitution, "No money shall be appropriated, or drawn from the Treasury for the benefit of any sect, or religious society, theological or religious seminary; nor shall property belonging to the State be appropriated for any such purposes."

—Article 1, Sec. 7, Texas Constitution

Secherre Michaelis, Nurse

Self

Dallas, TX

Vote school vouchers DOWN. NO ONE WANTS THEM IN TEXAS. GTFO

Monika Marjason

Self

Longview, TX

Public monies belong in public schools. Period. If a school is not up to par, fix it! Don't send money to private schools. I repeat, public monies belong to public schools! Period.

Suzy Hagar, Ms
Retired Educator
Dallas, TX

I do not support my property taxes nor consumption taxes supporting ESAs. Private schools are intended to select students who fit the culture of the school and the academic requirements. The proposal for universal vouchers is a $10,000.00 welfare giveaway to students who have never been to a public school.

Public Schools are heavily laden with state and federal mandates including accountability and questionable state assessment practices. Private schools are not required to go through the requirements setting an obnoxious dishonest system.

It is well known Texas doesn't adequately fund schools and it was no truer than last year when the Governor of the state literally held funding 5.5 million students funding hostage. It was negligent and cruel. It spoke volumes about the degree of how power hungry our governor has become. Texas should raise the basic school allotment to $7,000.00. Get serious. Truly act like you care. Stop the WADA formula. Everything is done is punitive. Private schools are intended as named to be private.

Get serious and fund public education.

This should have been a direct vote issue.

Hannah Decker, Dr.
Self, Emerita Professor of History
Houston, TX

I am firmly against establishing a Texas education savings account program. Such a program would harm public school districts by siphoning money from them. Most ESA funds would go to parents who already have children in private or religious schools. They do not need the funds, so it is not true that HB 3 would increase school choice. And as a college history professor, I have learned that public education has been the lifeblood of our democracy.

Thomas Eckols
Self
Missouri City, TX

No to vouchers. Look at the States that have implemented these and what a costly failure to actually achieve the goals to equalize education for all students. The public schools are already inadequately funded from the State. School districts have no choice to fulfill the State mandates, perpetuating the already onerous property tax system on homeowners.

Karl Johnson, Mr.
Self; retired
Benbrook, TX

A strong public education system is of great importance to society and should be supported by public policy. A voucher system, especially one like this, skewed in favor of private schools and parents that have chosen to enroll their children in private schools, would weaken both public schools and the social fabric. It would also strip public schools of needed funding and unnecessarily transfer resources to those who have chosen other alternatives at their own option. This would reinforce unequal opportunities and would be terrible public policy. Texas does not need this. Texas should not enact this.

Linda Baker
self
Georgetown, TX

I oppose school vouchers! Taxpayer funding needs to go to Public NOT Private Schools! Our Public Schools have already been neglected for over 5 years with Texas now among the worst for public school funding and teacher pay. Billionaires have bought politicians - they should NOT have the right to dictate legislation & taxpayer dollars for private schools, especially at the higher family income levels suggested. This is double my income! That means our tax dollars will be going to fund private education for the upper income. You have a constitutional responsibility to adequately fund public schools. 5.5 million children are depending on it. Stand up for the citizens and not only for your finance funds and the rich!

Priscilla Fisher

Self - retired public school teacher

San Antonio, TX

I adamantly oppose school vouchers. Our public schools are already struggling with the lack of funding by our state. Citizens are not fooled that this is to provide school choice, but it just supports those already in private school. Public education is the best thing that ever happened to this country. Please don't put a nail in the coffin of our schools. Vote against private school vouchers.

Constance Mccammon, Ms

Retired

Alvarado, TX

Please vote No on HB 3 . Leave public tax dollars in our public schools. Respectfully, Steven and Constance McCammon ,

Kay Bergen

self

Houston, TX

School vouchers are not what Texas needs. A shoring up of funding for public education in most important. Please do the right thing and vote against vouchers.

Virginia Mohlere

Self - scientific editor

Spring, TX

School vouchers by design are injurious to public education. Unregulated charter and private schools have no business using state money. Public money should stay with public schools.

Kelsey Cardenas

Self, public school teacher

Nolanville, TX

School vouchers should not be brought to Texas because they divert funds from public schools, leave out lower-income families, undermine public education, and private schools lack accountability and are selective with their admissions. While I understand the goal is to prioritize lower-income families and students with special needs, and more funds are apparently being poured into public schools alongside this voucher system, the end goal should always be to keep public funds with public institutions. There are numerous issues in our public schools that need addressing long before the effort and resources needed to run and uphold a voucher system.

Christina Edwards

Self

AUSTIN, TX

We need more funding for AISD to simply catch up with inflation. The State of Texas has not increased our funding since 2019 despite inflation and a budget surplus. As a taxpayer and Austin citizen, I request you consider increasing the amount of funding per student to a minimum of $1340 per student.

Jamie foster

Self

Plano, TX

I am against the voucher program and thing we should be funding our public school system with our public taxes.

Tracy Gilmore
Self
McKinney, TX

As a parent and grandparent in Texas strongly vehemently oppose HB3. Public Education should be FULLY funded with NO vouchers.

Erin Tucker
Self
Mckinney, TX

I strongly oppose this bill as a parent and a tax payer- and we pay A LOT in taxes here in Collin county. My tax money should be benefiting ALL children within the public education system and this is an attempt to defund public education. I have grown very weary of so many of my representatives and governor trying to spin this as if it benefits the children of Texas. It does not and should this pass, I will hope and advocate for the removal of anyone trying to negatively affect my community in this way. My school district has begun to announce the numerous cuts that are occurring due to you all holding money hostage from our public education system and it is very disturbing. If you all TRULY care about children as you say you do, you will release funds and fully fund PUBLIC education in Texas and let this terrible bill die. Our ranking in education is a direct result of you all not funding public education as you should. The fact that so many of our representatives then take to blaming hard working teachers and staff for the shortcomings is absolutely disturbing. Should you pass this bill we will lose even more wonderful teachers - the last of them who have been hanging on, trying to hold this system together for the children they already work so hard for. They care about Texas children, while our legislators have proven that they do not. Fund Texas public education NOW. Thank you.

LAURA Snyder
Self
Trophy Club, TX

The very reasonable, very necessary requests to highlight:

- Increase the basic allotment to match inflation. Right now, Texas gives NISD $6160 when because of inflation, we should be at $7500
- Allow for raises for all staff (not just 25% of teachers, which Abbott has suggested)
- Eliminate or reduce recapture (since 2019, NISD has sent $52.8 million in local tax revenue to the state for recapture)
- Hold private schools to the same testing and accountability standards as public schools in order to qualify for voucher money

Magdalena Camarillo
Self- teacher
Buda, TX

This bill negatively impact public schools. If they would vote to fund public education. At the moment public education is understaffed, overworked, and underpaid! Public school teachers are committed to their students to provide the best education. Students are getting their services met. If the state passes this bill it will greatly affect students and educators in the public setting. These choice schools do not adhere to the law like public school. They don't have to provide special education, therefore in October public schools get an influx of students because these choice schools tell parents that this is not the "best choice" for their child and they have to take them back to their home school.

Please vote NO on this bill.

Your constituent,
Magdalena Camarillo

Sherri Dunchen

Self

Spring, TX

It looks like the vouchers bill has the votes to pass. Please be sure there are sufficient provisions in that bill to:

1. Limit number of vouchers so that the cost of them does not blow up and break the budget for public schools.
2. Require private schools who receive public monies through vouchers to be accountable to the same educational standards and regulations required of public schools. Hold the private schools accountable.
3. Raise the public school funding to account for inflation since 2019. Fully fund our neighborhood public schools.

Thank you for working diligently on this committee to protect our public schools.

Kim Hardy

Self - school counselor

Justin, TX

I am opposed to any education savings account or voucher program in Texas. The $1 billion in funding for this program could instead be used to fund mental and behavioral health programs in public schools.

Anne LeNeave

None, private citizens

Magnolia, TX

This is an egregious insult to the majority of Texans whose children go to public school. Texans in rural schools will not even have the ability to use these vouchers due to travel distance. This benefits only high earners who can already afford to send their kids to private schools and to say anything contrary is willfully ignorant. I had previously enrolled my child in a charter school option and this year decided to move her to a public school where she is much happier. This bill will only benefit high earners by shunting money away from schools that already serve with meager staff and resources. I do not want this bill and if you vote for it, know that I will be taking this into account for my future voting choices.

Andrea Stout

Self

San Antonio, TX

No to vouchers! They will pinch the rural schools to close, take monies away from currently underfunded public schools. It's dramatically underfunding schools and teachers in need for well off schools and teachers to get a boost. All to promote what? What's the underling goal? The curriculum? We can't change or erase the past. It's the same cherry picking bible verse as they intend to cherry pick what children are taught in school. It's a bad direction to go. No to vouchers. Also protect and fund the 504 program for disabled students to get the education support they need in schools.

Mary Fried, Ms.

Self

Houston, TX

Vouchers are a handout to people who don't need it. We HAVE school choice, if you want to go to private school, you can go, just don't expect a subsidy. This voucher system is a thinly veiled attempt to segregate schools again and to subsidize wealthy people. It is simply wrong to take away funds from already struggling schools to subsidize private schools.

April Henderson
Self/ Licensed Professional Counselor (Mental Health)
Spring, TX

To Whom It May Concern:

I am a parent of two elementary-aged children who attend public school and I am writing to strongly oppose HB 3. This bill will directly harm public schools by reducing funding that is already so desperately needed. My family loves the public school my children attend, but it is a Title 1 school. The discrepancy in funding between our school and one 10 minutes away is evident. I fear our school would only suffer more should this bill pass. This bill does not allow families a choice as the voucher does not cover the entire cost of private school tuition, the voucher is only an aid for families that can already afford to pay tuition fees. Private schools are not accessible to all Texas families especially those who live in rural communities or to families with special needs children that would be declined admittance to private schools.

This issue has been brought up many times before by Governor Abbott and he has been unable to get it through. This is because this bill is wildly unpopular with actual Texas families and those who support public education.

Our state is already ranked so poorly in education, please do not pass this bill which would only cause more harm to Texas students. Thank you for reading my comment.

Leslie Bolivar, Mrs
Self
Brownsville, TX

I am against the voucher bill it will simply not help public schools at all. There are not enough private schools to serve our counties and right now Cameron county. We will not have the funding to pay for full tuition even with voucher assistance. I oppose and my family is not in favor of this voucher bill.

Angela Groves
Self
Fort Worth, TX

THE TEXAS CONSTITUTION
ARTICLE 7. EDUCATION

Sec. 1. SUPPORT AND MAINTENANCE OF SYSTEM OF PUBLIC FREE SCHOOLS.

A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the liberties and rights of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools.

Janet Pozmantier
Self; Trainer and Consultant
Houston, TX

Both my husband and I are native Texans who were educated in public schools. Our daughters are also products of Texas public schools and I am very proud that all four of us have successful careers, in large part due to our excellent K-12 education.

I have a Texas granddaughter now and her parents also want to send her to public school. However, we are all concerned that the ability for the state to continue its primary responsibility, providing the funding for an excellent public education system, is gravely threatened by school vouchers. The evidence is very clear in other states that have adopted voucher systems that public schools become underfunded and the quality of education suffers greatly. The efficacy of private school education is uneven, and children with disabilities are not properly served. Fiscally, the cost quickly escalates and many states find their budgets are negatively impacted.

Texas cannot remain strong and successful if our children - the future workforce - are not educated properly. This is a dangerous path that Texas has wisely resisted - for good reason - for many legislative sessions.

There's a popular Netflix show called "Nobody Wants This." It's about a romance but it could also apply to Texas and school vouchers. Nobody really wants this. We just want our public schools to be fully funded and strong, so Texas can be strong.

Please vote NO on school vouchers.

Melissa Jones
Self, childcare provider
The Colony, TX

Not fully funding our schools is hurting our districts! Please vote no on hb3 and say no to vouchers. This is a vendor bill that hurts students and taxpayers plus it's a government overreach. It contributes to irresponsible spending and it's against the Texas constitution.

Audra Embry
Self-Public school teacher
San Angelo, TX

As a public school educator in Texas, I wholeheartedly oppose the proposed school voucher bill. Vouchers funnel taxpayer dollars out of public schools and into private schools. Our public schools are already underfunded and struggling. Private schools may raise rates at and time and reject students for any reason. I encourage you to keep public funds in public schools and vote NO on this bill.

John Pulley
Self
Grand Prairie, TX

Dear House Members

I am writing to express my opposition to House Bill 3 . I believe that public funds should stay within our public schools to guarantee quality education for all. Redirecting these funds to private school vouchers undermines this foundational principle.

Sincerely,
John P

Kevin Hubbard
Self / Retired
Georgetown, TX

Our Public Schools have been neglected for 5 years - DO NOT send Public dollars to Private Schools.
Our Founding Fathers established a freedom of religion AND a freedom from religion.
Please honor the Constitution and the Founding Fathers by ensuring that Public dollars only fund Public Schools.

LOUISE DUNN, MS
SELF
ARLINGTON, TX

VOUCHERS ARE GOING TO HURT THE GREAT PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM WE NOW HAVE IN TEXAS. VOUCHERS ARE A TERRIBLE MISTAKE! TEACHERS ARE GOING TO BE HURT AS WELL.

Carole Howard
Public educators
City, TX

I am opposed to any House Bill that allows vouchers. Do not spend money on vouchers that should be used for public education!

Derrick Ratliff
Self
Fort Worth, TX

You can vote on this bill because big donors will give you lots of money. But please note that never in my memory have I been able to show the cost of blindly voting GOP to my republican friends. This is the issue that will turn Texas blue. You are taking money from schools and giving it to your rich friends and everyone knows it.

Seneca Fitch
Self
Mckinney, TX

This program is not in the best interest of the Texas public education system and should not be considered further.

Michelle Janes
Self
Plano, TX

Absolutely opposed to the bill. Vouchers should NOT be passed. Your constituents DO NOT want them. It will not benefit the children in this state. Fund our public schools with the rainy day funds that Abbott has been holding hostage.

Melissa Huckabay
self
Cypress, TX

As a former public-school teacher and current parent of a public-school student, I strongly oppose HB 3. This program would drain funding from an already underfunded school system, and I've seen first-hand how much our schools are struggling already with dated textbooks and severely limited resources. A program like this would hasten the collapse of our public schools and especially harm low-income, Title I schools. Please consider the harm this bill would cause in our state and do not pass it out of committee. Thank you.

Jennifer Fitzgerald
Self and my children
Dallas, TX

Please don't allow this to pass. This will be horrible for the state of Texas. Our children deserve better. We need to invest in them instead of giving our taxpayer funds to people who can afford private school. There are crumbling schools and underpaid teachers in our state. Please take care of them and think of all of these kids futures. This is an irresponsible use of taxpayer money.

Laura Gallier
Self
Houston, TX

Hello, I oppose HB3 and any use of taxpayer money for private education. I would like you to properly fund traditional public education so that Texans feel good about sending their kids to their neighborhood schools.

troy mannella
Rhett Ro LLC
Leander, TX

No

Ty Wilson
Self
College Station, TX

I do not support the school voucher program and I am in favor for more public school funding. Please vote NO on school vouchers.

Jinny Sutherland
Self Educator
Katy, TX

Vouchers will NOT make education better in our state - they will deprive children of learning opportunities they should have in our public schools! We need more money for public education, not a handout for the rich.

Corrina Garcia
Self/Business Owner
Mesquite, TX

Texans want all children to have access to the best education, not just the select few who can afford it.

John Campbell self - Systems Analyst
Houston, TX

This is blatantly unconstitutional. Article VII, Sec. 1 of the Texas Constitution states that "it shall be the duty of the Legislature of the State to establish and make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of an efficient system of public free schools."

Robbing the public school system to pay for vouchers does not meet this criteria, it would not allow anyone from a failing school to have any kind of "choice", as they are unlikely to have the funds to fully be able to actually enroll in a private school, and it would be death to our property values, as good schools will have their property taxes plundered and will start failing because of underfunding.

The only people who stand to gain here are rich out-of-state financiers who will run these "accounts", wealthy Texans who already have the money to send their kids to unaccountable private schools (and we'll be funding their trips to Disney World instead, as money is fungible), and for-profit schools, which again and again have shown to be poor investments for everyone involved. Left behind will be poor Texans (whose "savings accounts" will not cover tuition and whose own schools will be pillaged by the richer families leaving), students with disabilities (private schools are not required to enroll them), rural Texas families who are too far from private institutions, and the general welfare of the state, when we will be spending public money for something that should be a private decision.

I know that the conservative idea of a private school is a parochial institution, run by Christians that you approve of, but keep in mind that even you cannot overturn religious freedom. There is nothing to stop this voucher money going to groups that you don't like such as Muslims, Hindus, Pagans, Atheists, and The Church of Satan as a few examples. All they have to do is start or expand a private school.

I want our public money in our public schools for my child's future and for the future of Texas.

Fund our public schools as is your constitutional duty instead of starving them. Vote NO on this bill.

Hillary Bennett -Baker
Self
Dallas, TX

Vouchers are bad for Texans.

Veda Kull
Self
Rowlett, TX

Thank you for the opportunity to comment remotely. My husband and I have lived in Texas about 50 years altogether. We want to comment on HB3 because it is a scam being perpetrated on the citizens of Texas and many do not realize it. My understanding is it allocates $1BILLION for vouchers with no accountability. Altogether I have close to 30 years working in public schools and my husband about 15 plus a few substitute teaching years. I worked in one other state in education and am a proud product of another state where visitors were often seen because it was one of the most outstanding systems in the USA. With vouchers, that state is finding it cannot support schools and the entire system may fail. Yet another state where I began my teaching career has found itself in dire straights since implementing a voucher plan. We need to strengthen our public schools not spend $8 million in administrative costs for an unaccountable system. Our rural schools and small districts would suffer the most under the voucher plan proposed in HB 3. Please reject this plan as it likely is unconstitutional and lacks support for the most vulnerable among us.

Jan Forney
Houston family
Houston, TX

The truth is that charter schools
WILL cost Texas & Texans both short-term and long-term.

Shorter term charter schools represent a whole PARALLEL school system - essentially DOUBLING all the basic costs of having any school

Charter schools have been shown to be on average NO better than underfunded public schools, even by some who originally ADVOCATED for them.

And charter schools CHERRY PICK from our kids. They do NOT provide for ALL children to grow and learn or to become a strong part of our state's economy or of a good future for Texas

It's also sickening & wrong that the money for charter vouchers mostly goes to wealthier Texans who already are choosing to send their children to charter schools. It's NOT your job to subsidize private school costs or enrich those who decide to homeschool, especially at OUR expense

It IS your job to provide funds to all public school districts, along with TEA lesson plans, to support public school districts & teachers working to provide for ALL our students. The Texas Lege has not been a strong partner in this, their most basic obligation

Please refocus your efforts on the greater good of Texas and its future

By supporting of high quality public education FOR ALL. Dont hijack funding for separate charter system for some kids, some families, weakening the state

We mustn't pay the price.

Thank you. Your vote is important
Families are waiting to see who they can trust ????

Jennifer Williams

Public school teacher, mom, aunt, and attendee.
Uvalde, TX

Vouchers won't create competition and force public schools to be better. The state and federal regulations that put public schools in the mess they're in now won't change, so we'll be "competing" with unregulated private schools while still having to adhere to all of the harmful regulations the state forces on us.

Among the many disadvantages, public schools across the state are now working in deficit budgets due to 0 increases in funding since 2019, so districts across the state are being forced to make HUGE cuts, putting us even further behind.

Not to mention, it's hard for rural communities (like mine) to compete against private schools who will be getting more money per student than public schools. Abbott's $15,000/per student is a state average and not representative of rural communities like ours. Vouchers will be given out in full with no stipulations, while when public schools receive a specific amount per student, that number is then DECREASED based on attendance. A completely uneven playing field.

Will rural counties with few or no private schools be given their share of the voucher money they won't be able to use?? (No) If rural communities can't benefit from vouchers (if there were even a benefit), why won't they receive their portion of that money back and into their public schools?

If we don't like what the government has done to public schools, why do we think the outcome will be any different for private schools now that they're finally able to get their hands on them?

Julia Hughes, Mrs.

Self , speech language pathologist

Dallas, TX

Both of our children will attend DISD schools in the fall and we hope until they go to college. Although the schools we have chosen for our children are wonderful, we have already seen negative impacts from the withholding of funds over the past 2 years. I imagine the withholding of funds from the public schools has been in preparation for this education savings account program. I know so many involved and highly educated parents in the public schools in Dallas. We are fighting for our children to receive the best education possible as we feel entitled to as tax payers. We have incredible teachers and administrators in DISD. None of this however is possible without proper funding. Allowing an education savings account program will significantly impact the future of our entire educational system and I am concerned it will collapse. We know that private schools do not have to provide accommodations for students with special needs or learning differences. We know they are very costly and often not affordable to families even with a stipend. Please do not vote in favor of this bill. I and my fellow DISD parents stand against it.

Gina yokley

Self, HR

Boerne, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3 and the establishment of an education savings account (ESA) program. Public funds should be used to strengthen our public school system, not diverted to private entities with little to no accountability.

ESAs undermine public education by reducing the resources available to schools that serve the vast majority of Texas students, particularly those in rural and underserved communities where private options are limited or nonexistent. Taxpayer dollars should be used to support and improve public education, ensuring every child has access to quality teachers, curriculum, and facilities—rather than subsidizing private institutions that are not held to the same standards.

Additionally, ESAs create inequities by disproportionately benefiting families who can already afford private education while doing little to support students with special needs, English language learners, or those in low-income areas who rely on public schools for a comprehensive education. Texas should focus on fully funding public education, increasing teacher pay, reducing classroom sizes, and providing necessary resources to students—rather than implementing a voucher-like program that weakens the system for all.

I urge legislators to prioritize investment in public education and vote against HB 3.

Baird Campbell, Dr.

Self

Houston, TX

This is a blatant money grab. Abbott has received millions from donors to push forward this policy that, when tried in other states, put more money into the pockets of private school kids and made everybody else's education worse. There is absolutely no reason to give public money to private schools. Just use the money to make our schools better! Raise teacher wages and supply budgets, hire more bilingual and special ed staff, and ensure that students receive the resources they need regardless of zip code. It's not rocket science.

Sima Jahani

Self

HIGHLAND VLG, TX

I beg that HB3 not be passed!! Keep our tax dollars for Public Education!! Texans don't need education savings accounts we need public education adequately funded!!

Julie Baldwin
Self - finance
San Antonio, TX

Do NOT approve this bill. This bill gut the public school system and punish the students, teachers and parents who have chosen to attend. I do not approve of vouchers and did not vote for this program.

Ashley Brown
Self
Dallas, TX

An educated general population is in the best interest of every American. It is shameful to hide behind school vouchers to essentially defund public schools and promote largely Christian based private schools. It is not secret that private schools will just raise prices so the voucher won't cover tuition for those they deem "not appropriate" for their school. Private schools are also not required to provide any special services, accommodations, physical/occupational/speech therapy. So again only accepting those student they deem appropriate for their school. This is nothing more than a money grab, funded and backed by those who do not actually care about all children's futures.

Barbara Collins
Self
Austin, TX

Do not defund my public schools! I am against vouchers.

Jenelle Reed, Mrs.
Self - Parent
San Antonio, TX

Please reconsider funding for public education and for helping all instead of a tax break for those who can afford private institutions. We owe it to our most vulnerable populations to advocate for them and say no to school vouchers! Please stand United with me on this matter and speak up on how important public education and funding for public education is!

Margaret Garry, Dr.
self, educator.
Austin, TX

Greetings,
I write to encourage you to vote against HB3, and against any legislation that would redistribute taxpayer funding from public schools to private entities. I write to you as an alumna of a rural Texas public school district, where I received a strong foundation for my long term academic and career success. I am highly concerned that this bill will have an adverse affect on students in communities similar to my community of origin. The district where I grew up was dependent on local property taxes from homeowners and farmers, most of whom were working and middle class. Those taxpayers were already stretched thin making sure that students like me had access to good teachers, a library, and facilities where students had space to learn. We did not have extra money sitting around to help wealthy families in town fund their private school tuition, nor did we have an abundance of nearby private schools for families to choose from. I worry that if this bill were to pass, students from places like my hometown will be left with no options for their primary and secondary education.

I like to believe that we all agree that we want future generations of Texans to have more opportunities than those who came before them. This bill, rather than expanding horizons for all students, would collapse horizons for many students, including those in places like my home community. Young people across Texas, including in rural communities, deserve access to more and better resources than those who came before them.

I encourage all House members to support robust, well-funded public education for all Texans, from those in the largest cities to the most rural spaces. All students deserve a chance to succeed, regardless of their proximity to wealth and private education.

Thank you for your support.

Margaret Garry

Catheryn Dellsperger

Self

Friendswood, TX

Vote no! If you care anything for what is actually good for our children

Francey Parnell

Self

Coppell, TX

No to vouchers!! our public school dollars should not go to private schools where there is no accountability and no certified teachers. No vouchers. It will lead to profiteering by individuals. It will not run good skills and just want the money. Please say no to vouchers.

Stephanie Carpenter

Self/Attorney and former Texas public school teacher-Ector County ISD and Breckenridge ISD

Dallas, TX

As a mother and former educator, I am worried about the outcome of the voucher system. As a former educator our public school needs every single cent that is currently allocated to their budgets. Frankly, it needs far more funds than is allocated to it. I worked in school districts where some children could not read and write in upper elementary. Where we did not have enough aids for disabled children who needed them. Our classroom did not function properly because of the lack of support. As teachers, we buy our own supplies for the children on the measly salaries we get. The teachers who retire like my grandmother, AP Government, taught for 30 years and has to rely on family help to survive as teacher's retirement can no longer get her through the month. Teachers cannot keep up. The students cannot pay for meals and many in our state are food insecure. You are focusing on the wrong issues here. The system has issues. It is the reason I am no longer an educator. It is the reason educators quit. We love the children and the calling but cannot afford to rest our livelihoods on the education system. Taking tax allocated money from a system that is already lacking funds is a travesty. Vouchers have long been the argument by the rich who want to get richer. I am worried for the fate of our teachers, our children, and education system as a whole. We need a revamp but not by taking a billion dollars out and funds private institutions. What is the point of all the laws and standard for education systems if not to hold students and institutions to them. This is an absurd, reverse robin hood situation.

Rose Marie DeHoyos

self

San Antonio, TX

Texas should do everything to EDUCATE ALL STUDENTS at the highest level and give public schools everything they need. OUR KIDS ARE OUR FUTURE. Children with disability don't have a choice, they can only go to public schools. Citizens have a choice, all kids do not. I pay taxes to fund public education. I sent my kids to private school; that was my choice. Give Texas Children the highest education they deserve. We are a disgrace in Texas, we rank #42 in public education in the country. Shouldn't we be #1. Why is our governor only thinking about money and not the people? We deserve better.

Colin Ferguson

Self

Bertram, TX

I am writing to represent myself to state i wish to not have school vouchers

Nicole Stone

Self / Controller

Houston, TX

As I watched the live testimony yesterday, it was overwhelming clear that there are many things missing from this bill to make sure it does what the supposed intent is to do. This cannot pass as it stands now. Every idea on how to ensure that the vouchers get to the people who they are supposedly intended for were completely shot down. Which just proves that this is not about helping children, it's about politics. Public education should NEVER be political.

Meagan Killilea
Kay Granger Elementary PTA
Fort Worth, TX

I strongly oppose HB 3 and the push for school vouchers. Vouchers take taxpayer money away from public schools and funnel it into private institutions that lack the same accountability, transparency, and accessibility. This would be devastating for public education in Texas.

Public schools are meant to serve all children, but HB 3 would strip them of critical funding, leading to larger class sizes, fewer resources, and greater inequities—especially in rural communities where public schools are the only option. Private schools can pick and choose their students, leaving behind those with disabilities, lower incomes, or other challenges. This is not about choice—it's about weakening public education.

I do not support school vouchers. I want my tax dollars to go toward strengthening public schools, supporting teachers, and ensuring every child has access to a quality education. I refuse to let public education be defunded while private institutions benefit.

HB 3 is bad for Texas students, bad for families, and bad for our state's future. I urge lawmakers to reject HB 3 and any attempt to privatize public education. I will not stand by while public schools are dismantled.

No vouchers. No privatization. Fully fund public education now!

Sarah Jung
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Tim Hill
Self
Cypress, TX

While I support school choice and giving some level of tax break to people who choose private education, I do NOT agree with the inequality of funding. Public education funding should be significantly greater than any tax rebate for those who choose otherwise. Most families in Texas do not have a good school choice. Public schools need significantly more funding to attract excellent teachers, ensure full staffing like librarians at every school, and provide mandated services by state legislators - which private schools are not required to provide. Unless a better piece of legislation is written, the current bill should be overwhelmingly rejected.

Claire O'Berry
Self
Slidell, TX

The Slidell/Greenwood ISD is a rural school district which has no private school within travel distance. A voucher would not cover the cost if there was. The school IS the community. Lack of funding from the Dept of Education plus a school voucher program would destroy the hope of a good education for these children. I am an older home owner and am happy to pay my far share of property tax to keep a healthy, educated and happy community. Online learning is not an option because of intermittent online service. This is bad for my community and bad for Texas school children. Vote no or I will never vote yes for you.

Sheradon Waits

Self

Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose vouchers! Many other states have chosen vouchers and the information already coming out from them is that they benefit mostly the wealthy! This is wrong- tax money for public services- like our PUBLIC schools. Governor Abbott only wants to pass these to help pit his rich friends and appease the billionaire donor who asked him to pass vouchers!

Heather Seymour

Self

Austin, TX

Please do not vote for this. It will take money away from our already suffering public schools.

Michelle Dunlap

Self

Colleyville, TX

Our public schools are already underfunded and burdened with excessive regulations. Redirecting taxpayer dollars to private institutions that lack accountability does not improve student outcomes.

Even a small shift in enrollment impacts every public school. Fixed costs remain, but funding shrinks—leading to school closures, larger class sizes, and the loss of essential programs. Despite ISD's making painful cuts this year, 70% of school districts are operating at a deficit while covering billions in unfunded costs for special education, transportation, and safety.

Research from multiple states shows that voucher programs do not lead to better academic outcomes—and in some cases, they make them worse. If we want real solutions for students, vouchers are not the answer.

Instead, Texas must invest in its public schools by increasing the basic allotment, adjusting for inflation, and funding schools based on enrollment rather than attendance. Our children's future depends on it. Vote no to HB 3.

Patricia Everett

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Dear House Members of the Education Committee,

While I was a teacher in the classroom at a public school here in TX I was dismayed at the lack of support from many of our state leaders. I will never forget how a TX representative called us WASPs — “whiny a$$ school people”, I was teaching over 145 students a year, I often had to buy supplies with my own money and the pay was dismal. Now I am a parent of a public school student, and it is more than obvious that the teachers and schools are stretched thin even more than when I was teaching. If you want to help public schools, vouchers are not the answer. Sadly I have serious doubts that many of you do want to help. Too many state leaders have spent years and years working to dismantle public education. But I know with the amazing educators in this state that our public schools could be top notch, if only you would ensure our educators were treated as professionals and that school districts got the funding they need.

Also, I am a tax payer. Our tax payer money would go to the wealthy if vouchers are allowed. Even with a voucher there is no way I could afford to pay for my child to attend a private school here in Fort Worth. Why should our hard earned money favor the wealthy? How is that going to benefit society when so many of our children are born into poverty?

Please listen to us, the citizens of TX — we do not want in on this voucher scam! And to those of you working to protect public education, a huge thank you!

Thank you for your time

K Browning

Self

Abilene, TX

This Bill is not supported by people in West Texas, and we indicated that by re-electing Stan Lambert despite the many dollars that were put into a campaign to have him primaryed. Two public schools are already closing in our city; we don't need that to happen to even more. Vouchers provide funding for private education but not in amounts that would allow our low-income population to actually afford private school. And what about transportation to a private school? What about the fact that private schools don't have the same regulations as public schools? There are so many issues. This bill gives my tax dollars to wealthy parents who already have children in private school. Why? Provide funding to our public schools; stop holding those funds hostage until you get your way over public opinion.

Erin Clayton

Self

Sherman, TX

Vote no to school vouchers. Texas already has school choice and if you vote yes you are stealing our public tax dollars to pay for private school. Many rural communities will be negatively affected and are already struggling because money is being held back instead of the student rate being increased to keep up with inflation. Next election will turn Texas blue if you approve vouchers.

Christopher Greene

self

Farmers Branch, TX

As a stepfather with two children, ages 9 and 12, who just moved to the Dallas area a little over a year ago I looked at the school options in our area. My partner and I both earn >$100,000/year but the cost of the private schools in the area range from $25,000-$40,000 per student per year. That would be anywhere from 1/2 to 3/4 of one of our salaries, and that is excluding other cost of attending these schools. My kids were lucky enough to place into the Dallas ISD magnet program.

But to continue to take funds from the public school system to put into private institutions that most families could not hope to afford or do not live in areas that even have access to them is outrageous. Especially when these private schools are not held to the same ridiculous level of STAR testing that the public schools go through. But my disagreement with the increased level of standardized testing in schools is another matter. But if the state is going to allow funds to be diverted from the public education system to a private system then I believe they should have to test at the same requirements.

Lauren Schuler

Self

Austin, TX

No school vouchers!

Cathy Coleman

Self

Canyon, TX

I've been teaching for 34 years and it's getting harder. Let the kids with learning disabilities have the vouchers and leave the regular Ed kids in the classroom. Come see the difference.

Holly Burns

Self

Center, TX

No to vouchers! Support public schools and teachers!!!!!! Period!

Esteyasi Lopez

Self

Cypress, TX

I oppose HB3

Lisa Vanecek, Mrs.

Self

Comanche, TX

Vouchers are a HELL NO. Why don't you put it to a vote by the public? You'd find out very quickly that only a very small percentage of people want them.

Erin Ewing

Self

Sugar Land, TX

I oppose HB3!

Cindy Elrod

Self, accountant

Lewisville, TX

Please do not hurt our public schools and rural students education by passing this bill. The only people this will benefit is the rich who contribute to your campaigns! Stop holding the school districts hostage while sitting on billions of Texas taxpayer's money. Put it to a taxpayer vote!

Angela Beitelspacher

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3!

Karin Meredith

Club Hill STEM Elementary

garland, TX

I do not approve or stand by the voucher system. It would take funding from our Title 1 district schools, which we have several in Garland, Tx Dallas County. The title 1 programs benefit so many of our students.

Larry McLellan

Self

Godley, TX

Not one family will benefit from this bill in my school district. This only benefits a few families in the big 6 metros of Texas. Nothing for the rural counties even though the Governor said for all students. It's only 2 percent, but you want the rural isd's to help pay. Please drop this school choice and attack the big problems with public education and make it great again. Get the state of Texas out of the education business, and let the locals handle it.

Denise Moore, Ms.

Self- Teacher

Nacogdoches, TX

Texas students are behind in reading. We need ample resources and teachers to improve reading skills in order to close the gap ensuring that our students become strong readers. Please help support students in the lower socio-economic bracket become productive citizens in our society. We need to make our schools an environment conducive to learning. The right environment will influence students attitude towards learning as well as allowing teachers to become more effective in their practices.

Jennifer Haun

Self

Arlington, TX

It's clear HB 3 isn't about helping our students — it's about appeasing special interests. Claiming this is for the benefit of our kids is disingenuous when it's obvious the real goal is to funnel money away from public schools. Our students deserve better. They do NOT deserve policies driven by political agendas and special interest money. We see what's happening, and we won't stand for it. I urge you and your colleagues to vote NO on HB 3.

Thanks for nothing,?Jennifer Haun

Jennifer Vermillion

Self - teacher

WYLIE, TX

Please don't take money from public education. Many school districts are having to close campuses and slash budgets - we need funding!!

Priscilla Lumbreras, Mrs

Self

Granbury, TX

Vouchers will only benefit a select few of children, mainly wealthy families.

Nick Daines

Self

San Antonio, TX

NO to VOUCHERS! Public tax dollars are for PUBLIC schools. Constitution separates church and state. Private schools should only be private. If Texas will finally step up and FULLY FUND the public school system, we will have education we can be proud of again. Let's work harder to get our state out of the bottom 10 in education! No tax breaks, no hand outs to the rich. Help our kids! For the love of Pete!

Raquelia Rea

Lake Ridge Elementary PTA

Mansfield, TX

I am firmly against the creation of the ESA program. Instead of this voucher scam that will further create obstacles and disadvantages for our public school system. It has been beyond frustrating as a parent to know our state has had the money to fund our public schools, but it refuses to do so. Fully fund our schools!

I do not want our tax dollars spent to fund private schools. Those families can already afford to send their scholars to those schools. They have made their choice. Seeing as how the state of Texas has always been in control of the curriculum, so the argument that children are being indoctrinated by teachers is absolutely false. Critical race theory does not exist in our schools. The focus should be on providing quality education and teachers for all students, especially our most vulnerable.

Say no to vouchers! Fund our schools!!!

Kelley Lawrence

Self

Allen, TX

No on HB3. I do not support vouchers or ESAs. Fully fund public education first.

Ginger Collins

Self bus mgr

Fort Worth, TX

We do not support this bill. We have kids in public and private The public schools need money.

Micole Johnson

Self

Converse, TX

I oppose HB 3.

Amanda Brown

self (attorney)

Carrollton, TX

The arguments for vouchers are based on lies and misrepresentations. Vouchers have been a disaster in the states where they have been implemented and will do nothing except take already sorely-needed funds out of Texas public schools. It is absolutely shameful that districts full of wonderful teachers and staff are forced to shutter schools while the state sits on a multi-billion dollar budget surplus. We pay taxes and should get the funding back for our children's education, in the form of public schools, not useless vouchers for unaccountable private schools. Texas children are our future and deserve a quality, accountable, FREE education, as is their constitutional right.

David Konefal

self

Conroe, TX

No vouchers.

Russell Holden, Mr.

Self

Montalba, TX

No to the voucher scam. Public dollars for public school students. Let's get back to the 2019 level of funding before we even thinking about adding other programs. Most Texans do not want the Farris, Wilkes, and Yass funded voucher scam shoved down our throats calling it school choice. School choice is a joke, the only people that have a choice are the private schools in whether or not to accept these kids. FULLY FUND PUBLIC EDUCATION!

Laura Laubach Richardson

self

San Antonio, TX

Texans do not support the voucher system. It has failed in every location it has tried. It is clear this administration is after a money grab for the ultra wealthy and does not have the best interests of Texans at heart. We will remember what happens and will vote accordingly. All of you trying to ram this bill through against the wishes of your constituents should be ashamed of yourselves.

Heather Brown

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose vouchers as it diverts funds away from public schools that are already underfunded. It supports inequality as it does not serve those that cannot afford private schools (not even with vouchers). There is not consistent accountability between public and private institutions today

Carolyn Ckudre

self

New Braunfels, TX

I 100 percent oppose this bill. Public monies have no place being used for private use. If you want to help Texas school children and have improved results then fund correctly. Public schools having less money and many more un/underfunded mandates is not helpful. Taking money away from the public schools will just create a large divide in and result in lower educational gains for the very students who need it. School choice is already a part of the system. Parents can send their child to whatever school they choose. I do not choose to have my money sent to a school that has no accountability to the state and does not have to follow the mandates that the public schools have to follow. Public school districts do more with less every single day. Public school teachers spend endlessly out of their own pockets to help their students. Fund public schools and fund them at a 2025 rate and they will excel even more. Texas has historically not funded public schools correctly and yet we want to blame the state of education on public schools. The current state is the result of underfunding and the best teachers can't battle alone forever. I want my money going to the public school system. Just as I want my tax dollars going to other public issues. Tax money has no business being used for the gain of a private business.

Sarah Pequeno

Self, Instructor

San Antonio, TX

Our public education system is severely underfunded and the private school voucher program would take tax payers dollars away from public education. As a product of public education we need to invest in our public schools and provide all students in public school a high quality education. By taking our tax payer dollars and investing in private school you are continuing to discredit the importance and value of the public education system. This bill is discriminating against students with lower socioeconomic status, students with disabilities, and students in rural communities. This bill will not benefit students in public education. It is my belief that this bill should not move forward.

Samuel Prater, Dr.

Self

Missouri City, TX

I am a physician, Texas resident (since 1990 when I was in elementary school), , concerned citizen, and importantly, a product of the public education system in our state of Texas. I graduated from public school in the Rio Grande Valley and then went on to UTSA to complete my undergraduate degree. I am a practicing emergency physician and healthcare administrator in Houston. Public funds should be used to fund public institutions, not private ones. Redirecting taxpayers dollars away from public schools undermines their ability to serve all students equitably and transparently. Private institutions are not held to the same accountability standards and can exclude students based on income, religion, and other factors. Our priority should be to strengthen public education, not diverting resources to institutions that do not serve the entire community. I am confident that I would not be a successful physician if not for the excellent public education I received in Brownsville, Texas during the late 90s at one of magnet high schools.

Shuzhen Yang

Self

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Herlinda Rosales

Self

Cedar Hill, TX

It makes no sense to me as to why you would take from public schools to give to a lottery system who's kids will not get picked and then have to deal with barely getting by with less teachers and not fully funded schools

Katherine Woods

self

Fort Worth, TX

It is plain to anyone paying attention that this bill is not receiving support from legislators in order to help the low income who wish to change their schools. Greg Abbot and the Republican-led legislators are starving public education in the name of vouchers. Vouchers are programs that allow the rich to dip into taxpayer money under the guise of financial aid to low income families. Meanwhile, truly low income families are made to suffer from a starving school system

I was in the crowd when Mr. Buckley was booed from the room at the PTA caucus last month. I have watched him be booed from many rooms in streaming videos since. His tone-deaf ness and inability to read a room are being talked about by Republicans across the state.

To the Republicans in this session, know that the unpopularity of this bill has made it supremely toxic. This bill is being watched not just by parents across the state but by many of your constituents. People who have no children but can see the blatant thievery proposed in this bill. Do not support this bill if you wish for your voters to support you on your next election. Remember, you are not beholden to Greg Abbot. If you wish to continue to influence this great state, you need to vote down this bill. Even if you co-authored this bill, go on the record as having stood against it.

Abigale McFadin

Self

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

KARSEN KNIGHT

self

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS' & "NO TO HB3

Emily Hahn

self, public school teacher

Port Lavaca, TX

Instead of taking much needed resources away from already desperately underfunded public schools, our state should be pumping more resources into them. Public dollars should stay in public education. This bill will not shrink the learning gap between the lowest & highest achieving students, but rather expand it, by making crucial resources needed by public schools to support all of their student populations (including gifted and talented and special education alike) even more unobtainable than they already are. All around, this bill would be detrimental to public schools (who service & educate the vast majority of our state's children) and solely benefit private schools (who already have multiple advantages over public schools as it is). Lastly, as a relatively new teacher (going on 4 years) who has already repeatedly given sizable chunks of my already thin paycheck back into my classroom to benefit my own students, it worries me to think what it will be like with even less funding for public schools on an even larger scale.

Jill Cox, Mrs.
Self - Retired Teacher
Wylie, TX

I strongly OPPOSE school vouchers/ESAs or anything of the like.

Khin Gerard
Self
Flower Mound, TX

Tax payer money needs to spend on public education. Fund are schools

Lillian Cothrin
Self-public educator
Arlington, TX

Vote against HB 3. Texans do not want vouchers/ESAs. Parents already have choice.

Meridith Manning
self / producer
Dallas, TX

I live in an area of Dallas surrounded by private schools. I chose to send my children to public school K-12. Watching our friends' children go through private school at the same time, the differences could be found in the bells and whistles: They had brand new instruments; our children's instruments were hand-me-downs. They had top-of-the-line art supplies; our children had supplies donated, or found. Their teachers had ample supplies of tissues, markers, paper and crayons; our children were given a list in the beginning of the year of everything they needed to bring, then updated lists as the year progressed to fill in needs.

This issue is not a matter of choice, but a matter of funding. Texas public schools have been sorely under funded when compared to schools around the country. The last thing we need is to do anything that would pull funds away from an already struggling system. If a child needs a special education program which the public school cannot offer, or if a child's family seeks to have their child in a religiously-centered school, that is their choice however, we should NOT be impacting public school funds to pay for it.

My children graduated from public schools here in Dallas and were both accepted into the University of Texas into their first choice majors. Many of other- privately schooled friends have NOT ended up at better schools, nor have they had the exposure to classmates from different backgrounds in terms of Socio economics and ethnicity. That has, without a doubt, given our children in advantage.

Texas ranks in the bottom 10 when it comes to state public school funding per child. The focus should be on providing adequate funding, not pulling it. Doing so would reshape the Texas public school system in the most negative way that would take an entire generation to repair.

Please vote against HP3 and protect public schools. Build them up, don't break them entirely.

Taylor Walterscheid
Self
Argyle, TX

I live in the Denton ISD school district and do not support HB 3. I support fully funding our public schools and focusing on making them a more prosperous place for our students, teachers, and community!

Louis Luckhardt
self/Union Officer Dallas AFL-CIO
Ennis, TX

I live in Ellis County Texas and it is my understanding that our county has multiple rural ISD's and no private schools. Students here would not be able to choose a private school to apply, since none exist. It is my understanding that Ennis ISD could lose $2,648,177 in Funding if this voucher bill passed and our students need to be fully funded before we ever consider reimbursing parents for private school tuition payments. I have already shared this information with Representative Brian Harrison, and encouraged him to think about how much money will be lost by Ellis County ISD's if he votes for this voucher scam.

Haleigh Hite
self teacher
Gunter, TX

As an educator of 19 years, I strongly oppose HB 3. My mother was a teacher of 30 years. My father a Dean at our local community college. My upbringing is immersed in education and I strongly fight with the public education system of Texas. We are the center for most communities in Texas. We include all stakeholders in decision making, excel at academics, and care for the children of Texas. Listen to Texas citizens when we say we do not support giving public money to any sort of private school voucher system. It is not ethical.

Jessica Grove, Mrs.
Self/Teacher
San Antonio, TX

As a public education teacher I see every day how underfunding has hurt our children, HB 3 will only hurt public education more. Please properly fund our public schools and stop bringing vouchers and educational spending accounts up for a vote. Texans overwhelmingly do not support, nor will their children benefit from either.

Carolyn Croom, Ms.
self
Austin, TX

Please vote against this private school voucher program that takes tax dollars away from local public schools to subsidize a student's private school education. Thank you.

Kevan wood
Self
Livingston, TX

Please vote yes on HB 3

Rob Rennaker, Dr
self
wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Robbin Green, Mr.

Soon to be retired teacher.

Katy, TX

We Texans , do not want a voucher bill that will raise property taxes in this state. Please vote the Governor's plan down or create an amendment and let the citizens of Texas decide the fate of a voucher law. Rich people do not need a tax break for their 30,000 plus tuition for their expensive private schools. The lawsuits will be coming based on a voucher law. Private school kids should have to take STAAR exams in order to graduate from high school. Teachers paid with tax payer money should be a certified teacher and be required to pay into the Teacher Retirement System of Texas. Private schools who have high fail rates from STAAR testing should be shut down or have a state takeover by the TEA. Texas Representatives, should you vote for this bill, NO. Also be ready to be voted out in the 2026 Elections. Thanks, R. Green

Holly Thomas

Self / Self-employed

Plano, TX

Public funds need to stay with our public schools. There are so many children who benefit from public education and many teachers who are called to help these kids grow. We love our community school and it is the heart of our neighborhood, as are many other public schools.

Caitlyn Clark

Self

Cypress, TX

I believe in the power of public education to prepare Texans for the future, and encourage you to enthusiastically reject HB 3's voucher program.

The proposed education savings account program takes money that is desperately needed by the public education system away from the general public, who stand to see the most benefit from that money, and gives it to a very small percentage of the public who have physical and financial access to charter and private schools. This program proposes to take out more per student than the state provides as the basic allotment, meaning each child who leaves public education will do even more damage to this system they are leaving. Furthermore, this system won't benefit thousands of Texans in rural districts who do not have charter or private schools available in their areas. Private and charter schools also aren't held to the same standards as public schools in regards to transportation and special education services, which will put those schools even further out of reach for many students. On that note, the services offered by public schools compared to private/charter schools are incomparable. Public schools are open to everyone, regardless of disability, and are required to provide services in the least restrictive environment for all students; this means that Texans like my brother, who qualified for special education and Section 504 services, and the 100+ students I've taught like him were able to learn and grow in public schools. Charter/private schools are not required to accept students with special needs, and don't have the same requirements as far as providing services; indeed, school law tends to put acquiring those special services on the local school district to provide to special needs students in private/charter schools, students who would be contributing nothing to the public school under the voucher system. Private/charter schools aren't subject to the same accountability standards or testing programs that public schools must meet, which makes judging the effectiveness of education in those schools harder as well.

Finally, for most students who currently can't afford charter/private schools, the proposed $10,000 won't be enough for them to be able to afford a different school option. Private school is incredibly expensive, and this year a friend of mine saw several new students who were priced out of their charter school when they raised tuition in anticipation of vouchers passing. These students are now back in the public school system.

I fear that HB 3 will encourage segregation based on income, as the vouchers offer discounts to those already wealthy enough to easily afford school choice and public education is all that's left for the poor, middle class, and those with special needs. I fear HB 3 will see public education breaking down into a starving system that can't maintain itself, can't hire and keep quality educators, and ultimately fails our State. Please vote no to school vouchers.

Anne Greenfield

Self

Austin, TX

I am writing to express my concerns about the implementation of the school voucher program, which I believe could have significant negative consequences for our education system and the students it serves.

By diverting public funds to private institutions, these programs create inequities in access to quality education, leaving public schools with fewer resources to support the majority of students who remain in them. This can result in larger class sizes, reduced educational opportunities, and less support for students who need it most.

Furthermore, private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same standards of accountability as public schools, which can lead to a lack of transparency and oversight. This raises serious concerns about the quality of education and the protection of students' rights within these institutions

Instead of diverting funds to private schools, I believe we should focus on strengthening and adequately funding our public education system, ensuring that all students have access to high-quality education and the support they need to succeed.

Thank you for considering my perspective.

Michelle Lee

Reagan EM PTA

Cedar Park, TX

I'm not supporting HB3! This will disadvantage the public school students. Please do not pass this bill!

Laura McIlrath

Self

Hurst, TX

As a parent of a student in public schools, and a public school educator, please say no to vouchers. This will only hurt our students that are already struggling in the classroom and it will take away highly qualified teachers who have a passion for serving students and families. Vouchers are not going to be given to the families of students who struggle with academics or behavior, those that have been diagnosed with specific learning disabilities. Please do not hurt these children.

Julie Clemente

Self

Temple, TX

I oppose HB3. This bill i every texas child, put money kn the public schools and support our teachers

James Thomas

Self

Carrollton, TX

Vouchers would deprive our public education system of being adequately funded. Furthermore, you are giving money to people who already attend private school. They don't need the additional funds. And lastly, why would you give money to institutions that are not held to the same standards as public schools?

Jennifer Cashion, Mom and teacher

Teacher

Midlothian, TX

I oppose HB 3

Julia Draganski

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Senta Wilson, Mrs.

Dallas ISD Parent

DALLAS, TX

Why I Oppose HB 3 as a Proud DISD Parent

House Bill 3 (HB 3) imposes unfunded mandates on school districts like Dallas ISD while failing to address the real issues affecting students, teachers, and families. Instead of investing in education, this bill forces schools to redirect resources away from classrooms to comply with state-imposed security requirements.

Unfunded Mandates Strain School Budgets

HB 3 requires costly security upgrades without providing the necessary funding. While school safety is a priority, forcing districts to cut programs, raise taxes, or shift funds away from student learning is not the solution. The state should fully fund safety measures rather than leaving schools to bear the burden alone.

Takes Resources Away from Student Learning

Schools already face budget shortfalls, and HB 3 forces them to prioritize compliance over education. This means fewer resources for STEM programs, arts, mental health support, and teacher salaries—all essential to student success. Instead of improving learning conditions, the bill diverts funds from where they are needed most.

Fails to Address Teacher Shortages & Public School Funding

Texas faces a teacher shortage crisis, yet HB 3 does nothing to raise salaries, reduce class sizes, or support educators. Retaining quality teachers should be a top priority. Still, this bill ignores teacher attrition's root causes and adds new bureaucratic burdens on schools.

Lacks Community & Parental Input

As a DISD parent, I believe education policy should reflect local needs and not be dictated by state mandates. HB 3 was passed without meaningful input from parents, teachers, or administrators. Schools should be given the flexibility to determine the best safety measures rather than being forced into one-size-fits-all solutions.

A Better Approach

Instead of HB 3, the state should:

- ? Fully fund school safety without cutting student programs
- ? Raise teacher salaries and improve retention efforts
- ? Engage parents, teachers, and administrators in decision-making
- ? Support mental health resources as part of a holistic safety plan

Conclusion

HB 3 fails our students, teachers, and schools by prioritizing mandates over meaningful solutions. As a parent and community advocate, I strongly oppose this bill. I will continue fighting for policies that genuinely strengthen public education in Dallas and beyond.

Regina Booker

AFT

Beaumont, TX

It's unfair for students with accommodations. They will not have enough staff or experience to accommodate that type of student. The way everyone is approving marijuana and other drugs, students are coming to school with more medical issues than I've seen in my 23 years of teaching. During the right thing for all your constituents (NOT A SELECT FEW) is the right thing to do.

Jill Horton
Self - PTA Board Member
Richardson, TX

I am asking you to vote no to the school vouchers bill. Our tax dollars should stay in our public school systems that serve all Texas children, including the kids that need it the most. It ensures they have access to the kind of education that grows the Texans of the future. Neighborhood public schools are the glue that helps hold our communities together and funding them only serves all of us versus the select few.

Jennifer Rumsey
Self, educator
The Woodlands, TX

I believe that everyone knows that public schools educate the vast majority of students in the state, and that school choice already exists. Parents can choose to send their children to a private school, to a homeschool, or to a charter school. School vouchers are there only to funnel funds away from public schools and hand them into the hands of people that already can afford to send their kids to private schools the amount of funding that is proposed will not even be enough to cover a real private school. This bill is so bad and so dirty and it's purpose is to destroy public education and to foster a further divide between middle class poor and the wealthy. We the People of Texas should be allowed to vote on this because we are the ones who pay the taxes. I would like for governor Abbott, and whichever politicians support this bill to show us the facts and the successes from the states that have implemented something already like this. I believe that if they tried, they wouldn't find any successes except a further divide between the poor and the wealthy. Private schools do not have to educate all students but public schools do even if some people can get the money to from a voucher to go to a private school that doesn't mean that their children will be accepted in any private school. This bill is a sham and it's a shame and as a public school educator, I am so tired of being used as a political pawn and facing so much hatred for doing the work that I know that God called me to do.

Leah Barber
Self - Product Management
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3.
I want our tax dollars go to students who need free public education and not people who want to CHOOSE to take their kids to private school. We ALREADY have school choice. We. Already. Have. It. Let's infuse that money into making our schools better and paying teachers more. NO VOUCHERS. I do not want my tax dollars going to a private school that isn't under the same restrictions as public school. I do not want my tax dollars going to the rich who can already afford it. NO VOUCHERS.

Regan O'Steen-Tragon
self/attorney
Spicewood, TX

Vouchers are a scam and will raise property taxes. This bill is not backed by the people but is backed by a bunch of millionaires. Do not take our tax dollars to subsidize private schools. FUND OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND VOTE NO TO VOUCHERS!!!

Andrea Hern
Draper PTA
Sachse, TX

No vouchers unless they have to follow the exact same standards as the public system and should be the same amount.

Kathy Hoes

Texas public school teachers and staff

Sherman, TX

Vote no on HB 3. As a career educator, I can attest that Texas schools are doing a superb job, especially when the fact that they are severely and chronically underfunded. The educators have done a magnificent job making up the shortage that the state politicians have consistently implemented. Please know that I will vote for only those who vote NO on this bill or any bill that blatantly undermines our public schools. States with vouchers have failed the students in their states. Don't let Texas become one of those states.

Carlos Gonzalez

Self, education

Houston, TX

I don't approve of this bill, it will hurt students by segregating them into rich and poor ones via the schools they will be able to attend, and the voucher ones will have no accountability. Also, I oppose the use of taxes towards the vouchers because these schools might be religious-based, and churches do not pay taxes.

Anita Casas

Self

Houston, TX

Reject reject reject! I urge you to reject this bill and focus on strengthening our public education system, ensuring that all students, regardless of their background or economic status, have access to a high-quality education.

Dominique Harvey

self

Houston, TX

Chairperson and Members of the Committee,

My name is Dominique Harvey, and I am speaking as an advocate, volunteer, and community leader deeply invested in the future of Texas students, teachers, and families. I stand in strong opposition to House Bill 3 because, despite its intentions, it ultimately places undue burdens on our public schools without providing the necessary resources and support for student success.

1. HB3 Imposes Unfunded Mandates on Schools

While school safety is a priority for all of us, HB3 shifts that responsibility onto already overstretched districts without adequate funding to meet the requirements. The bill mandates that schools hire armed security personnel but does not provide realistic, sustainable financial support to make this possible without cutting critical programs, teacher salaries, or student services.

?? My concern: How can we demand increased security personnel while leaving districts to figure out how to pay for it? This is not a plan—it is a burden.

2. More Guns on Campus ? Safer Schools

Texas schools need comprehensive, evidence-based safety solutions, not just an increase in armed officers. Research shows that more guns on campus do not necessarily make students safer and, in some cases, escalate tensions. Instead of focusing solely on security personnel, we should be investing in:

- ? Mental health resources – More counselors, social workers, and intervention programs
- ? Prevention programs – Addressing threats before they escalate
- ? Safer infrastructure – Improving building security measures

?? My concern: HB3 is a reactive approach. We should be prioritizing proactive solutions that prevent violence before it starts.

3. Public Schools Deserve Support, Not Unfunded Directives

The educators and administrators I work with daily are not asking for more mandates—they are asking for more funding, better teacher retention, and student-centered resources. Instead of imposing requirements that force districts to cut from classroom instruction, let's listen to what schools actually need to keep students safe and successful.

?? My concern: If we are serious about protecting Texas students, we should be funding our schools properly, not forcing them to make impossible choices.

Call to Action

I urge this committee to reconsider the true impact of HB3 on our schools. We all want safer learning environments, but we must do it the right way—by listening to educators, funding comprehensive safety plans, and prioritizing student well-being over political quick fixes.

Let's work together to craft real solutions that give our schools the resources they need to keep students safe without sacrificing their education. I ask this committee to oppose HB3 in its current form and instead advocate for policies that prioritize funding, mental health support, and real safety strategies.

Thank you for your time and commitment to Texas students.

Veronica Rodriguez, Mrs.

Self.

Austin, TX

VOTE NO.

Hannah Norman

Self

San Antonio, TX

I am a public school teacher in San Antonio, where I have lived my entire life. I love my school deeply, and I have taught there for 15 years. My oldest son attends the same school, and my 2 younger boys will attend when they reach Kindergarten age. I am a Master Mentor in my district, a National Board candidate and in our first year of data collection in my district, I have been recommended for a TIA designation. I am a Kindergarten teacher, which is the best job in the entire world. My classroom is my happy place. I care deeply about public education not only for my students, but for my own children. I do not speak on behalf of my school, but I can tell you it's one of the best in the state. My principal is supportive, encouraging, and puts our community first. I feel incredibly blessed to be in the position I am in, and it fuels my fire for advocating for children in public education. Quite a bit has changed in public education since I began teaching, and we as educators have been forced to do more with less. Less money, less support from the state, less support from parents. My school is a magnet school. There are not enough students in our neighborhood to fill the campus, so the majority of our families choose to be with us. They already have choice. Our class numbers do not fluctuate throughout the year because our students typically do not leave. So much of the testimony I have heard is about how parents are unhappy with their neighborhood schools, so they're having to seek other options. What about the parents who are happy? What about the teachers who are happy? Private education is not automatically better because it costs money. Our public schools are doing incredible things, even with limited resources. Think of what they could do if they were fully funded. Please give public education a chance and vote no on this bill. Put this money into public schools. Put this money into special education in public schools. Put this money into retaining the best teachers in our the country.

Dorothy Scraggs

Retired teacher

Abilene, TX

Thus bill would only help the now private schoolers and be a detriment to rural schools and students with special needs and sparse funds. Consider the disadvantage to public schoolers and the Texas budget.

Debbi Van Etten

Self

Houston, TX

Please vote No on HB 3 in connection with the education voucher program. Our nation was build on an idea of free public education. The voucher program will primarily serve those who already utilize private education as their choice and can afford that luxury. This program will further the destruction of our poor Texas education system and its underpaid educators. That money should be used to improve our school buildings and school resources. It's an embarrassment that Texas already spends so little per student in comparison with most of the other states in our nation! This bill seems to serve only one man and his donor's objectives, not the people of Texas, not the children of Texas, not the future of Texans. Please vote No! Education of the children of Texas should not be sacrificed for a political favor!

Michele Smisek

self/teacher

San Antonio, TX

I would like to go on record that as a teacher who has taught in Texas at both private and public schools and who also sent my children to both private and public schools, I am OPPOSED to private school vouchers with public funds.

Rene Ybarra

Self

Georgetown, TX

I oppose HB3. Public schools should be fully funded and tax payer funds shouldn't go to private schools, especially without accountability

Louis Forrai
Self retired
San Antonio, TX

Any taxpayer-funded voucher initiative must require that participating schools:
Accept and retain all students.
Employ only certified teachers.
Use a Texas Education Agency(TEA)-approved curriculum aligned with the Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills(TEKS).
Administer state testing (STAAR).
Provide transportation, breakfast and lunch.
Be subject to voter approval via ballot.

Ashley Johnson
Self
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Stop taking funds from public education! Why are we even having to deal with this? Public education should never be in question! It is so important and vital for our future that all kids are able and have auto a free education.

Keri Bennett
Self, teacher
Garland, TX

Here are the comments I posted:

I strongly oppose HB3 and its proposed education savings program, which would allocate $10,000 per student toward private school tuition. While supporters claim this expands school choice, the truth is that Texas has always had school choice. Parents who want private education for their children—including myself—have always had the ability to make that decision. What this bill really does is shift public funds away from our public schools to subsidize private education, which has never been accountable to taxpayers.

HB3 will not help most Texas families. The reality is that this program primarily benefits those already sending their children to private schools. For many working- and middle-class families, $10,000 does not cover full tuition, especially in urban areas where private school costs often exceed $20,000 annually. Rural communities, where private school options are limited, gain nothing while their public schools lose funding.

A strong public education system is the foundation of our democracy—in Texas and across the country. Public schools serve all students, regardless of background, income, or ability. Instead of diverting resources to private institutions that can pick and choose their students, we should focus on strengthening our public schools. Texas should prioritize competitive teacher pay, classroom resources, and student support services to ensure the 5.4 million children in our public school system receive the education they deserve.

Public dollars should serve the public good. HB3 is a step in the wrong direction, and I urge lawmakers to reject it and invest in all Texas students.

Lakeisha Davis
David K Sellars PTA
Fort Worth, TX

As an educator and parent I'm disappointed of elected officials who have failed every single student in the state of Texas. The Bible says "Love thy neighbor as yourself." For a state and party to hold Christian values as a banner I question whether your beliefs are true and in alignment with the God you serve. Even Jesus considered and supported the poor and underserved. Why not you? Ask yourself? What we God say on Judgement Day about the way you treated your neighbor.

Patricia Lautenschlager

Self

San Antonio, TX

I do not support HB3 and vow that I will not vote for any representation that votes in favor of this bill! GOVERNMENT MONEY IS TAXPAYERS MONEY, and I do not support any taxpayer money funding private schools. I have not found a single person who does support this bill - even those who currently attend private school.

Nydia Cardenas

Self

Fort worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Having a vibrant economic future in our state is directly tied to the quality of our public schools and educated residents.

Alvin Jackson, retired

self

Clifton, TX

I do not believe the establishment of an education savings account program should be passed.

Ross Pruitt

Self -teacher

Plano, TX

I wish to go on record that I am fully against the provisions of HB3. I believe that public education should be fully funded and indexed to inflation before any private school voucher or esa program should be enacted.

Amy Rostvold

self

Austin, TX

I am writing to urge this body to raise the k-12 public school per student allotment to $7400/student. I am the parent of a child in public school -- my 7th grade daughter attends Lamar Middle School in Austin, TX -- and I am already seeing the effects of inadequate funding at her school. Most of her teachers have an average of 30 students in each classroom, with a total student load of 200 or more kids. Teachers at her school must differentiate instruction to meet the needs of a very diverse population of kids, many of whom are performing below grade level in math and reading. I know this money would be a substantial investment in our schools, but our children are worth every penny. Here is why this is important:

1. 80% of our schools are in financial crisis. This includes schools in areas with a heavy Republican voting population.
2. Inflation has set our school budgets back. We need this extra money JUST to break even with inflation.
3. Schools provide more than just education -- they provide food, transportation, social work services, occupational therapy, physical therapy, counseling, extra curriculums / clubs, special education services and technology for students with disabilities, and clean & safe facilities. This stuff is expensive.
4. The voucher program will not help our poorest students, our students with disabilities, or our students with special needs. Vouchers do not help with food, transportation, counseling, and special services. They do not cover the gap between the cost of private school and the cost of the voucher. Vouchers won't help a kid with special needs access a private school program that is not set up to service that kid. In Austin there are only 2 private schools that cater to special needs kids, and both are extremely expensive and very, very small.
5. Teachers are burned out and quitting. College students are not majoring in education. We are headed towards a major crisis, and raising teacher pay (substantially) will help attract the best and brightest minds to this profession (and it will help keep teachers in the classroom!)

I believe in the promise of education to help lift people out of poverty, to provide them hope for the future, and to ensure a robust economy for the future. Please, please, please consider the children who would be most affected by this bill when deciding on your vote.

Thank you,

Amy Rostvold

6.

Katie Bailey

Self

Round Rock, TX

My name is Katie Bailey and I am a mom to 3 current public school students. I am asking you to please vote NO to SB3. Private schools do not accept kids with special needs, do not have to honor IEPs/504s, do not accept children with behavioral challenges, and are not held to our testing standards. Charter schools "accept" some students with special needs, but it's few and far between and their support offered is far less. My friends daughter was let go from Valor because her absences due to hospitalization. Public schools are for ALL. Only public schools accept everyone, and provide free lunches and transportation for those that need it to learn. This benefits Texas' future as a whole. Public taxpayer money should be used exclusively for public institutions. Public schools need more support from our legislators, not less. My 3 children are all involved in programs such as sports, fine arts, and advanced classes that are at risk of being cut if funding decreases. Class sizes cannot increase further, per research, without devastating impact. Private schools don't have to honor their 504s, nor would they offer the invaluable experience of building community among their neighborhood families. Parents already have education choices. Vouchers will only serve to hurt our future workforce and our children's opportunities.

Please vote NO to SB3. Thank you for your time and consideration!

Brandy O'Quinn

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I do not want to fund wealthy people's private school tuition and you will be stripping money from our public school system. Texas needs a qualified workforce of all kinds of jobs, to attract good paying jobs and investment. I'm against HB 3. Focus on other important things.

Skip Fritze

Self

Wylie, TX

I absolutely oppose HB3

Connor Veltkamp

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Karen Pruitt

Self

Ben Wheeler, TX

Hell no to vouchers! Zero tax dollars towards any private school.

Dillon Burrus

Self

Higgins, TX

I am opposed to the voucher bill. Fully fund our public schools!

Nina Rao

Self

Austin, TX

Hello Representatives,

Please don't ruin our public school system. Please fund our public schools, not private schools. No to vouchers.

Thanks,

Nina Rao

Cassandra Whitsitt

Self

Hemphill, TX

Texas public schools are required to educate every child who shows up to their doors, regardless of income, disability, IQ, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, income, academic ability, or athletic ability. Many voucher programs, including Education Savings Accounts (ESAs), claim to serve students with special needs by allowing voucher funds to go toward private schools or special education services. But these private schools and vendors are under no obligation to accept or serve students with special needs. And even if a student with special needs attends a private school with a voucher, they will likely forfeit the protections they have under federal law. While public schools continue to strengthen and diversify services for students with special needs, the guarantees public schools offer are essential to these families. In public schools, students are guaranteed admission, transparency of funding and services, accountability for academic performance, and protections under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), which private schools are not required to follow. Teacher certification is not required for private schools. Students attending a private or parochial school are exempt from compulsory attendance at a public school if the school includes in its course a study of good citizenship. Texas Education Code Ann. Private schools are not required to provide transportation. Private schools are not required to administer accountability testing such as the STAAR test. IF vouchers truly give parental choice, why not make the playing field equitable? Public schools no longer have to administer the STAAR test; drop accountability ratings; drop the requirement of compulsory attendance; drop teacher allotment; drop providing transportation requirements; drop meeting the needs of the most difficult students with severe acting out behaviors; medically fragile, etc.... heck, let's just drop special education all together... Sound ridiculous? Apparently not to the ones pushing vouchers. In an idea world, all students would be cognitively average to above average; mom and dad are happynot divorced/ in prison/jail/undocumented family/lives with grandparents/works to support their family after school/parent is an alcoholic/drug abuse/ care for a sick family member/ home alone at night; they come to school with a full stomach; they were read books since birth; hope their parents have the cognitive abilities and/or time to tutor and help their children at home and work two jobs to support their families; hope they never experience sexual and physical abuse. I could go on and on. Come teach in a rural classroom for three months and then and only then should you have a voice.

Melissa Colvard

Self

St Paul, TX

I OPPOSE HB 3

Cynthia Riddle

Self

Austin, TX

I am against this HB 3 as a tax payer in Travis county. I don't believe this Bill will benefit public education for my son.

Virginia Garcia

TRTA

Hondo, TX

As retired educators, my husband and myself, we are strongly opposed to vouchers. We believe our taxes should be invested in public schools. Public taxpayer money goes to public schools not private. Seems self explanatory, public for public. Texans have always had a choice. Vouchers are misguided and unnecessary. They are not going to make anything better. They will only go to show that Texas can't learn from other states mistakes and that 'some' politicians are for sale. Invest in Texas public schools.

Lois LooneyKochie

Retired teacher

Houston, TX

Please do the job you were elected to do.

Jeanne Rubin

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3. Please save our public schools.

Laura Hines

Self/Speech Language Pathologist

Frisco, TX

I am firmly against school vouchers. This does not help our Public School system. This should be an issue that Texans VOTE on! Governor Abbott trying to push this through when most people do not want this - has he checked his Facebook pages recently??? He doesn't get to decide what's best for MY kids. Let us vote - he doesn't have a convincing argument!

Dylan Gardner

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Our public education system should not be undermined by subsidizing private education. This is a horrendous attack on education and an obvious attempt at subsidizing the wealthier members of society.

This is not the Texas way and it is not beneficial to the vast majority of Texans.

Parents currently have educational choice and it should not mean further weakening of our public schools.

Kelsi Strong

Self

Lake Dallas, TX

Please vote NO for HB 3. We do not want an education savings account program or vouchers.

Leane Krause

Self-public school teacher

Tomball, TX

Vote no for HB3. Public education needs to be fully funded before any discussion of public funds going to public schools is even mentioned. Public schools accept and support all students. Why is a student in private school worth more than a student in public. That's crap. Give the 5.5 million students in public school a chance.

Shere Kossie-Driver

AFT Aldine

Shepherd, TX

Vote No to School Vouchers!

Kern Arrott

self

Christoval, TX

Say no to vouchers!

Nancy Cook
Self
Colleyville, TX

I agree with most Texans that our public education system needs massive improvements. Class sizes are too large, teacher salaries are too low, we are hemorrhaging teachers and support staff, our special education departments need more resources, property taxes are too high and wealthy districts continue to have to fundraise because too much of their budget is distributed to financially needy ones...but vouchers are not the answer. Budget mismanagement has put us in this situation. Vouchers will only ingratiate us to the whims of private organizations. It is a short term solution that will have to be undone again in less than a decade. Do not pass HB3 unless you want to destroy the future of Texas children and teachers.

Candace Morse
Self, finance
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Jasmine Cluck
Self
Keller, TX

I am a proud graduate of Texas public schools and both of my children currently attend public school. Please protect neighborhood schools and oppose House Bill 3 in Texas.

All Texas students deserve an education that prepares them to succeed, not just students at exclusive private schools. The Texas state constitution says our Legislature is responsible for funding our neighborhood public schools for students, not subsidizing tuition for wealthy families at exclusive private and religious schools that pick and choose who will enroll. If you've seen the tuition costs at our many of our local private schools, then you cannot deny. That vouchers/ESAs benefit families who can already afford private school tuition. And what about rural areas in Texas who don't have private schools? They need fully funded PUBLIC schools.

As a concerned Texan, I ask you to vote down House Bill 3, which diverts tax dollars from neighborhood public schools. Public dollars should stay in public schools.

Say NO to vouchers that use tax dollars to fund the tuition at exclusive private schools.

Cindy Curry
Self
Coppell, TX

We DO NOT want vouchers!!!!

Sarah Hutchison

Self / Finance

Mansfield, TX

As a parent of two children in Texas public schools, a 10-year-old and a 7-year-old, I am incredibly frustrated and disheartened by the lack of transparency from my legislators regarding HB 3. This bill is being framed as a win for parents, but in reality, it's a dangerous shift of public funds away from our public schools to private schools and vendors with no accountability. This will hurt families like mine and the countless others who rely on public education to give our kids a strong foundation.

My children have had incredible teachers who have supported them academically and emotionally. My oldest has faced challenges with dyslexia, and thanks to the resources available through his public school, he's been able to grow and succeed. But I know firsthand how stretched those resources are. There simply isn't enough funding to give every student the support they need. Taking money away from our public schools to fund private institutions that don't have to meet the same standards is not the answer.

It's frustrating to feel like my voice, and the voices of so many other Texas parents, are being ignored. The lack of transparency surrounding this bill feels like a betrayal of the trust we place in our elected officials to represent the best interests of our families. Our public schools are the heart of our communities, and they need more support, not less. Diverting taxpayer money to private schools with no oversight will widen the gap between those who can afford private education and those who cannot.

Public education should be about creating equal opportunities for all children, regardless of zip code or family income. HB 3 will undermine that foundation and leave countless students behind. I urge you to stand with Texas families, not special interests. Please vote NO on HB 3 and protect the future of our public schools. Our kids deserve better—AND YOU KNOW IT.

Edith Cook

Self

Lockney, TX

Please do not vote for school vouchers! Our public school need more funding not money taken from them . Thank you for listening to our concerns

Rheonda Long

Self

Arlington, TX

I am against Educational Savings Accounts or vouchers. Tax dollars need to be spent on public schools not private.

Mary Cherry

Self

San Antonio, TX

I have commented before that vouchers are bad for the entirety. Private schools give scholarships to many students in need. The truth is also not being told about the open boundaries that can be found across the state. Most districts have school choice and magnet programs that allow students from outside of the district to attend at no cost. Publicize that when you discuss this with lawmakers and the public. Please stop hiding the whole truth. That we already have school choice in so many of our public schools. This will foster inequities. Please think about all of the students across the state.

I worked in private schools, so I don't dislike them but I am very aware of the lack of accountability in many of them. They need equitable accountability if the state is giving them money. Period.

Elaine Kiang

Self

Austin, TX

I hope this message finds you well. I am writing to express my concerns regarding the use of public funds to support private school vouchers. While I understand the intention behind these programs, I strongly believe that public resources should not be directed toward funding private school tuition for families who do not need financial assistance.

If the goal is to truly help underserved children who need support, I think it would be much more effective to implement a salary cap for eligibility, similar to other federal programs. This would ensure that the funds are going to families who truly need the help, rather than those who can already afford private education.

It's important that public resources are used efficiently and equitably, especially when it comes to education, and I believe that such a measure would better address the needs of those who are most in need of assistance.

Thank you for considering my perspective on this issue.

Sarah Durrant

Self

Lewisville, TX

I am a long time consumer of our public school system and I AM AGAINST VOUCHERS of any kind. Public dollars need to stay in public schools. I have 3 boys in public school and they all have hearing loss. They have all needed special education services at one time or another so private school was never an option for us. Please don't take away money from public schools. Please support the 5.5 million public school students in Texas. Vote NO on this bill.

Amy Angel

self, educator

Plano, TX

Privatization of education through a voucher system will hurt our state and our kids. I urge you to reject vouchers and focus on fully funding our public schools. Our students deserve state representatives who have their best interests at heart and will not be obligated to special interests focused on profit who send excessive contributions to their campaigns. Thank you.

Rosalie Dennis

Self

Eules, TX

Please vote NO on HB 3. Thank you.

Brittany Parker
Self - Small Business Owner
Plano, TX

As a Texas constituent, I strongly oppose HB 3 and will be watching closely to see which legislators betray public education by supporting this disastrous bill. If you vote in favor of this, you can count on losing support in the next election. Texans will not stand by while lawmakers gut public education to funnel taxpayer money into private schools that lack oversight, accountability, and equal access.

HB 3 is a massive giveaway to wealthy families, with an income eligibility cap set at 500% of the federal poverty level ($156,000 for a family of four). This is not about helping low-income students, it's about using public funds to subsidize private education for families who can already afford it. Meanwhile, public schools—where the vast majority of Texas students learn—continue to struggle with underfunding, teacher shortages, and safety concerns.

The data is clear: similar voucher programs in Arizona and Wisconsin have failed to improve student outcomes. Studies show that voucher students often perform worse than their public school peers, and in states like Indiana, Louisiana, and Ohio, voucher programs have exacerbated inequality while draining public school budgets. If HB 3 passes, the same will happen in Texas, leaving behind the students who need public education the most.

If lawmakers actually cared about improving education, they would be fighting to increase teacher pay, reduce class sizes, and expand mental health support—not lining the pockets of private school operators.

Make no mistake: Texans are paying attention. If you vote to dismantle public education, expect to be held accountable at the ballot box. We will remember your vote.

Oppose HB 3—or prepare to face the consequences in the next election.

Aubrey Shaw
Mothers of Texas and myself
Spicewood, TX

I oppose

Amianne Bailey
self--High School Librarian and parent of public educated students
Forney, TX

As a public educator for 27 years and parent to two publicly educated daughters, I firmly oppose vouchers because public tax dollars should not be used to fund private schools. In the age of eradicating "waste, fraud, and abuse," I do not understand how Republicans can cheer this on the federal level but then support public tax dollars being used in a private school system that does not have the same accountability standards as public schools. How is this right? I am also furious that this issue is WASTING time and money because it has been debated and voted down in numerous sessions. The people of Texas DO NOT support vouchers, and I wish that Greg Abbott would listen to us rather than push this agenda that he has been paid to push. It is infuriating to see how our lawmakers have such little regard for public education, which is a demanded right for all children under our state constitution. I am tired of the words and the games and the piles of money being wasted on this issue. Public education needs to be strengthened, and private school vouchers are NOT THE WAY. Please fully fund public education so that we can provide all Texas children with the education that they deserve.

Megan Matisi
Self
Austin, TX

I am an Austin resident who strongly opposes HB 3 by Buckley. I do not want a school voucher program in Texas or for any funds from the public school system to be re-allocated to anything other than public school funding.

Lynette Schnitzius
Self
Farmers Branch, TX

I strongly feel that all public tax money should be spent to fully fund public schools. EVERY student in the state of Texas deserves a good education!!! Citizens have a choice to send their child to a private school. I know for that the school affiliated with my church cannot even admit half of the students that submit applications. Please vote No to allowing public tax dollars go to paying for private school!

David Gibson
Self
Amarillo, TX

Every parent in Texas currently has total school choice. We have two systems of education in Texas, private and public. At no point should private funds be used for public education nor public funds be used for private education. They are completely different, one is a taxpayer funded system which takes in everyone that walks in the door, no one is rejected. The private schools have the right to reject students for various reasons - this does not mean that private school is not available, it simply means that parents may have to look around for a private school to take their child. Don't take our rainy day funds for Abbott's (emotional to him) position. Take your time and really think this through. Put more funds into public education for all of the special needs children and Career and Technical programs that very few private schools have.

This is certainly not a good time to make this decision. On the Federal level the Department of Education is on the chopping block, which is the greatest news to all teachers that truly want to educate their students. Wait until we see how this is going to play out before destroying public education in the name of Abbott.

Flora Reyes-Jimenez
Self - Parent
helotes, TX

Please do not pass this bill. Moving forward with HB3 will only hurt our Texas children and our public school education system. As a proud and successful graduate of Texas public schools, I implore you to preserve funding for public schools and NOT let these monies be siphoned away to private and charter schools. Success for the future of Texas and our Texas economy depends on an educated population and that comes from a strong public education system- not from pockets of unmonitored and unaactioned private and charter schools. Texas taxpayers should not have our money wasted on private and charter schools where there is little oversight and lots of failure. Please do NOT move forward with HB 3.

Madison Stripling
Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX

OPPOSE HB 3

Sherika Taylor, MSN, APRN, FNP-C
Self
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Hanna Patton-Elliott, Mrs.

Self

Corpus Christi, TX

I am a public school teacher and the mother of children who attend public school. The creation of a voucher systems for schooling in the state of Texas creates an environment of inequity bordering on resegregation based on socioeconomic status. It is harmful to students with any kind of disability, and lowers the quality of educator hired for thousands of students. Additionally, this bill would tragically limit rural campuses' ability to receive a fair education. I adamantly oppose this bill, as does every single educator I have spoken with about the issue. The citizens of Texas do not support this agenda, and affirm our right to an equal and fair education for ALL STUDENTS.

Rocio Zúñiga, Ms.

Self

Dallas, TX

I disagree with educational vouchers as this will affect the lower income students. This will make students have less access to education.

Kenneth Shier

Free public education

Corinth, TX

Please take care of the public schools. There is choice. You can send your children to alternative schools but since that is your choice, you should pay for it. No public funds for private schools or home schooling!

Kimberly White

Myself

Fort Worth, TX

Please listen to Texans. Our schools are suffering from lack of funding. Vouchers are not the answer. Texans and schools are overwhelmingly against this bill. Please stop pushing what isn't wanted. I am a republican and any official who is part of voting for this will lose my vote next election.

Lauren Sicarelli

self

AUSTIN, TX

Hello, my name is Lauren Sicarelli and I am a constituent in zip code 78735. I am writing to voice my opposition to HB 3. I am asking my Representative and this Committee to vote no and to instead fully fund public education, by substantially increasing the per student allotment AND making funding dependent on enrollment rather than attendance. We already have meaningful school choice in Texas - what we need are resources so that our public schools can deliver the education that each child in Texas deserves, and that which has already been mandated, with accountability and due process ensuring that delivery. We do not need resources for privatized schools to thrive with no or little accountability to the public. I don't believe proponents of this bill can point to any examples of similar laws in other states achieving any of the objectives that are the supposed motivation for this bill. To the contrary, voucher systems like this are a failed experiment, and if this bill moves forward, this will predictably harm more families than it helps. Thank you.

Elizabeth Reed

Self - Stay at Home Mom

Pearland, TX

While I lean conservative and am a mom of two (one a senior at Dawson HS in Pearland and one a freshman at A&M Engineering), I am against school vouchers for several reasons.

- 1) Whereas the TEA provides oversight and demands accountability over Texas public schools in the form of standardized testing, teacher certifications, and curriculum; little to no assurances would be given that students receiving school vouchers and attending home school or private school are being provided with the proper education. Many assume that because you are paying $50K/year for a reputable private school, your child's education is much better than public school. In my children's case, I completely disagree especially as it relates to Dawson High School and the GT Academy (both Pearland ISD schools). They both have received an excellent education and my son is excelling in college due to his public school's high-quality educators, strong curriculum, and extracurricular activities. The premise of private school being better than public school is not always accurate.
 - 2) School vouchers would be limited to the upper socioeconomic population as they would be minuscule to the overall private school tuition. For example, few families now attending public school would be willing or could afford to pay $40K to attend a private school if they weren't willing to pay $50K without vouchers. Also, what would prevent private schools from simply raising tuition rates? Vouchers highly favor rich families and would help destroy Texas' hard-working middle class.
 - 3) How would sufficient funding be maintained for our public schools? As a CPA, I know that embedded in the "cost per student" is not just the educator cost, but overhead costs such as administration, insurance, utilities, and maintenance. If more students go to private school, the public schools would be hit with even more financial hardship than they currently endure as these overhead costs would not disappear.
 - 4) Families who thoughtfully moved near a quality public school would likely see their property values fall if this bill is passed.
 - 5) It is a violation of the separation of church and state and I do not want my tax dollars funding school programs which I am not aligned with fundamentally. What is to prevent funds going to a cult school on some compound?
- Please consider all of these ramifications mentioned above when you vote.

Linda O'Toole

Self

Boerne, TX

Please fully fund our public schools by raising the per student allotment by $1500. Please say no to HB3 to help prevent (x) amount of funding loss to my district (using the don't defund number) because it will mean the loss of (x) jobs (again provided by the don't defund website). These job losses translate into lost opportunities for students because class sizes will balloon and there will be less programs to support our students which are the key to Texas's economic future.

Sheneka Rains

Self

Wylie, TX

The Texas school voucher program is a dangerous policy that drains public school funding, worsens segregation, and reduces accountability in education. While marketed as “school choice,” vouchers primarily benefit wealthier families while leaving low-income and special needs students behind in underfunded public schools.

Deepening Segregation and Inequality

Vouchers disproportionately serve affluent families who can afford to cover the remaining private school tuition and fees, leaving lower-income families with limited or no access. Private schools can reject students based on academic ability, religion, or special needs, fostering economic and racial segregation. Instead of expanding opportunities, vouchers create an unequal system where taxpayer dollars subsidize private education for families who already have access to better schools.

Defunding Public Schools

Public schools rely on state funding based on student enrollment. When students leave for private schools, funding follows them, but fixed costs—teacher salaries, facilities, and support services—remain. This results in budget cuts, larger class sizes, fewer programs, and fewer resources for students who remain in public schools, many of whom are already underserved.

Hurting Teachers and Undermining Accountability

Texas faces a teacher shortage due to low pay and poor working conditions. Vouchers worsen the crisis by taking money away from public schools, leading to salary stagnation and increased workload. Additionally, private schools receiving taxpayer dollars lack oversight—they are not required to follow standardized curriculum, report test scores, or disclose spending. This means public funds can go to schools that discriminate, provide inadequate education, or misuse funds without consequence.

A False Solution to a Manufactured Problem

Texas already offers extensive school choice through charter schools, magnet programs, and public school transfers. Voucher programs in other states, such as Indiana and Louisiana, have failed to improve student outcomes. In fact, many voucher recipients have seen academic declines, proving that privatization is not a solution for struggling students.

Conclusion: A Threat to Public Education

The Texas school voucher program is a direct attack on public education, transferring public funds to private schools with little oversight. It exacerbates inequality, defunds schools, harms teachers, and weakens academic standards. Instead of dismantling public education, Texas should invest in teacher salaries, classroom resources, and existing public school choice programs that serve all students—not just a privileged few.

Cecelia Wolsey

Self/ Operations Manager

Fort Worth, TX

Please say no to the education savings account programs aka the vouchers...for my child and for all the public school children in Texas! PLEASE say no and PLEASE properly fund the Texas public schools. Don't give up on the schools and these kids!!!

Claire Morel

Self - Educator (HS Math Teacher)

Austin, TX

NO to school vouchers: INVEST in public education.

charles Mott, Dr.

self

Pflugerville, TX

Against- My entire family of generations have attended Texas public schools which prepared them for respected successful careers. Keep public schools strong, safe, teaching core foundational subjects and real life skills. Schools ARE the center of our community, where we meet and interact with friends, neighbors in unity.

Matt Walker

Self

Austin, TX

I have two kids currently attending school in Dripping Springs ISD. I am a strong advocate for public schooling and a firm believer that public schools are fully funded and remain a viable option for every student. I strongly oppose HB 3 and any vouchers or ESA's as they will inevitably take funds away from our public schools. Families already have the choice to go to a private school, charter school or homeschool. This bill does not create more choices for parents. It simply funnels public money into non-public schools that lack the same oversight and accountability protections that public schools have. Please stop trying to force this legislation down the throats of Texans and start working on raising the basic allotment for our public schools!

Maria Cisneros, Mrs.

Self, High School GT Teacher

Helotes, TX

I am a republican teacher and AGAINST vouchers. While HB 3 is intended to address education challenges, it doesn't adequately address critical issues such as teacher shortages, increasing class sizes, & inequitable funding. Furthermore, proposed voucher programs would exacerbate these problems by diverting essential funds away from public schools, which rely on consistent state funding.

Texas is already experiencing a teacher shortage, with many educators leaving the profession due to low pay, poor working conditions, and burnout. We are leaving the profession at alarming rates, & HB 3 fails to address the root causes of teacher turnover. Instead of providing meaningful solutions to retain teachers, the bill places additional pressure on educators through performance-based measures, which could further contribute to teacher burnout & attrition.

Class sizes in Texas are already large, & HB 3 does nothing to address this issue. Despite additional funding, many districts are faced with tough decisions on how to allocate limited resources, often choosing infrastructure over hiring more teachers. As a result, teacher-student ratios remain high, making it harder for teachers to provide personalized instruction & support, especially for students with diverse needs.

Additionally, HB 3's funding structure disproportionately benefits wealthier districts, leaving low-income areas with fewer resources. Tying funding to standardized test performance only worsens these disparities, as districts serving high percentages of at-risk students are more likely to face funding cuts. This creates a system where schools in low-income communities struggle to provide the necessary resources, while wealthier districts continue to receive more funding.

The inclusion of voucher programs in HB 3 would severely impact public school budgets. Vouchers allow public funds to be used for private school tuition, diverting much-needed resources away from already underfunded public schools. With fewer funds, public schools will struggle to maintain services, reduce class sizes, or offer special education programs. This will further deepen the inequities between public & private education, leaving many students in underserved communities with fewer opportunities for success.

Special education services, which are already underfunded, would be particularly harmed by vouchers. Many districts are already struggling to provide adequate support for students with disabilities, & vouchers would divert funds that could be used to improve these services. In conclusion, HB 3 does not adequately address the root causes of teacher shortages, increasing class sizes, or funding inequities. The introduction of vouchers would further undermine the stability and effectiveness of public schools by diverting funds away from the very institutions that serve the majority of Texas students. I urge the committee to reconsider the provisions. Signed, a very tired teacher ready to leave the profession.

Rosi Laberis

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Celisha Drake

Self

Magnolia, TX

I am not ok with a voucher system for our public education.

Sabrina Ball

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools

Nancy Weston, Mrs.

Self/ retired teacher

Austin, TX

I do not support school vouchers at all! I support public education.

Karen Beeson

Self

Dallas, TX

Vouchers are not the answer for educating children in Texas! This huge push by Abbott is simply to appease his rich donors and has nothing to do with helping our children. Public education is - and has been very unfairly harmed by the lack of funding. That's what I pay taxes for - not to subsidize private, unregulated schools.

Neothies Lindley

Self

Lancaster, TX

I am a son of a Texas public school teacher and I am a graduate of a Texas public School. There is no reason for there to be less support for public schools in the state of Texas than there is support for school choice in giving people with the ability to pay for private school more of a break to be able to pay for it. That funding can go towards making our public schools safer, more technology driven and updated and for better pay for teachers, which will attract more teachers and more experienced teachers to this great state.

Amber Lasseigne

self

Carrollton, TX

Based on the hours of testimony regarding HB 3, it is clear Texans do not vouchers in this state.

Liliana Beacham

Self

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHES

I OPPOSE HB3

Michelle BORLAND

Self

Magnolia, TX

I do not support private school vouchers for private school. This is a disadvantage to our education system. Also, using TRS to fund these vouchers is unfair. How about using some of the legislatures and govonors retirement to fund the vouchers.

Private schools don't accept all children and don't have to complie to the same regulations that public schools do. Most teachers are not certified. Rural families will not benefit from these vouchers. The governor is only looking out for the wealthy that fund his pockets. Think of all the children in the state of Texas they deserve the best too. Most families will not being able to afford private school with vouchers.

Allstudetns should receive the 10k public or private schools should receive that among per student. Don't hold school funding as a hostage to get your way. You were voted in office and can be voted out.

Ronda Reyna, Dr.

Self

Humble, TX

Now is the worst time to force the school choice bill onto the backs of Texas taxpayers. If this is done, all who support this bill will be remembered as dismantling public education that will lead to higher school dropout rates and increased crime in communities across Texas. Vote for this bill and prepare to be voted out!

Nichole Bentley self, CEO
Coppell, TX

Good afternoon, congratulations on your appointment to the Public Education Committee and thank you for your service.

I am grateful that an increase to the basic allotment is being considered, and I want to share a brief story about Brady, the third of my four sons who attended Coppell ISD. He is charming, funny, athletic and makes friends easily. He is a solid B student who could do better, but academic accolades are not what drive Brady. (He is a typical general education student who does not receive GT, AP, honors, SPED, etc. services.)

Brady attends school to see friends and he kept his grades up to stay eligible for varsity choir, ultimate frisbee and wrestling. He was not sure if he wanted to be an EMT, go into the military or continue to college until the very last minute.

Students like Brady are why I encourage you to consider increasing the basic allotment. With the current proposed increase, $132 is available for his classroom teachers, electricity, the wrestling coach and ultimate frisbee sponsor – his reasons for school. In a school district known for high academic achievement, more than half of our 13,000 students are like Brady. They will not qualify for any additional student funding and a $132 increase will not even cover the increased cost of these basic things since the last increase in 2019...which is when Brady graduated.

Why does this matter? Brady – this regular kid – went on to be his fraternity's President, a key student leader at Oklahoma State University, a student leader in Phi Delta Theta's national fraternal organization, and a successful MBA graduate with an excellent corporate job.

Brady is most of our kids in Coppell ISD. Brady is most of our kids in Texas. Brady is our future workforce, and it is essential his educational opportunities and his reasons for attending school remain funded.

Please, consider increasing the basic allotment to a level that allows all students to be well-educated and workforce ready. To stay even with inflation, a $1,340 increase is needed per student across Texas. I respectfully ask you to provide funding for kids like Brady.

With best regards,
Nichole Bentley
138 Windham Circle, Coppell, TX
214.850.5217
Coppell ISD Board of Trustees, Vice President
Coppell mother and grandmother

James Robles
Self, Educator
Austin, TX

As a taxpayer who does not have children, my taxes need to go to the public education system. As research suggests, an educated society is a prosperous society. Public schools are already underfunded and creating these education, savings accounts will take even more money away from a public school district. These tax dollars are used to build communities spaces create community camaraderie i.e. football, and host a range of extracurriculars that are needed for appropriate adolescent development. Private schools don't have to meet Texas education standards, don't have to take children with disabilities, and don't have to follow zoning codes, which ultimately creates a congestion of traffic wherever they are built. As a certified Texas teacher, I can tell you that a majority of the parents that I have worked with do not know anything about educating students. No daily reading, no homework support, no positive reinforcement, and no accountability for student participation. Please do not siphon public funds from public education.

Patricia McKaskle

Self

Sealy, TX

No vouchers! I live in a rural school district and the vouchers will affect our schools (all 4 of them) too much! We already have fundraisers and requests for basic classroom items for teachers constantly, please FUND THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS and let the private schools do their thing with the money the parents give them. They don't need MY money, MY district does.

Irwin Lightstone

Self

Dallas, TX

It would undercut our fine neighborhood schools and lessen much needed funding. This is a horrible idea

Dennise Moreno

Self

San Antonio, TX

PLEASE keep tax dollars in public education. There are plenty of grants/programs available for those that choose private education and cannot afford it. I want my tax dollars staying with public education; I do not support education savings accounts.

Edwin Terry jr

Concerned taxpayers

Houston, TX

I say no to school vouchers it's economic segregation. Fund public schools with the public's money only!

Lonnie Link

Self

Sugar Land, TX

I strongly oppose all of this bill ??

Lauren Reyes

Northside ISD

San Antonio, TX

Please do not allow the passing of school vouchers. This is a huge mistake that will hurt our schools and teachers. Our teachers deserve a pay increase to be competitive with other districts and states across the country. Holding teachers pay ransom for the governor's want of these vouchers to be passed when he's being paid by billionaires outside of Texas is criminal. Our schools locally already offer school choice to families. The reasoning being shared by Govt. Abbot are lies, families that can not afford to send their children to these private schools now will still not be able to send their children to private school with these vouchers. It's only going to line the pockets of the rich that can afford it already and will not improve public schooling across Texas.

Sharon Austry, Mrs

Self

Fort Worth, TX

As a former public school teacher, I am totally opposed to forcing taxpayer money to go toward private schools. They're supposed to be a separation of church and state so if someone wants their child to get a private school education, they need to pay for it. Everyone else should be able to go to a school free of charge and there should not be requirement to learn the 10 Commandments or any other Bible verses in a public school. This is outrageous

Karla Brown

Myself

Houston, TX

Vouchers are racially and economically discriminatory. This is a sad time for Texas and our country. As a public school educator, I stand against the desegregation of the education system, that vouchers will undoubtedly send us back to. Underfunding public education will have a domino effect on the state of education that no one seems to care about. I wish you all cared as much as you tell the people that you do...

Mark Gray

Self

Argyle, TX

I am an anti-voucher/pro-public education that privatization will hurt our state and our kids.

Urging you to reject vouchers and focus on fully funding our public schools.

DR. Linda Johnson

self

Houston, TX

I am a proponent because I went to Public school and it provided me with the diversity and cultural environment necessary to live in a diverse multicultural country with dignity and integrity. To accept individuals not based on their " Means but their character".

Ronda Reyna, Dr.

Self

Humble, TX

The school choice program does nothing to support children with disabilities. Both private and charter schools force children with disabilities literally onto the street looking for a school that will accommodate their needs. It will also force school closures. Now that the Dept of Education is being dismantled is the worst time to push this issue onto the public taxpayers of Texas!

Karen Miner

Self / Substitute Teacher

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB 3! No vouchers!

Brooke Wedemeyer
Self/ public educator
Jefferson, TX

Parents have a choice when it comes to their children's education. If they choose homeschooling or private schools, they should fund it on their own. However, I'm not opposed to there being a limited funds account that parents can access as long as public school funds are equal or greater. Fund our public schools. Fully fund them. This nonsense you say that a public school student gets way more than $10,000 a year is incorrect. Federal funds are being cut and now you are looking to cut what the state of Texas is willing to provide while talking about the states budget surplus. Are our children not as important as your donors? I have been a lifelong Republican but I am not likely to vote for you again.

A private school does not have to take a special needs student much less provide the appropriate education. A private school does not provide meals for free and reduced qualifying students. A private school does not have to provide transportation to and from school. In fact, a private school can luck out a kid at any time for whatever reason. There are no protections for children. A private school teacher does not require a degree to educate. A private school does not have to follow an age appropriate curriculum or take the state mandated tests.

If you will require anyone that uses the "savings account" to participate in state mandated curriculum and testing along with fully funding the public schools, that would make more sense.

If you had even tried to sell your proposal during a townhall meeting at a public school, that would have been more useful. Instead, you went to private schools. You didn't even reach out to homeschool groups who really do not want government meddling in their children's education.

You can do better for Texas children than what you are trying to shove down our throats. The majority of Texas do not want HB3.

Annette Bopp
Self
Conroe, TX

I am writing to you in regards to HB3. I am very much opposed to this bill due to the damage it causes to the public school systems state wide. There are too many rural areas that do not have access to private schools and yet they would be affected by this bill.

How is it right to give more money per voucher student than you give to the public schools. The public schools must provide free/reduced lunches, transportation to and from school along with the various special education and interventions that private schools are not required to.

This bill also allows for home schooled students. I feel there is an issue with both home school and private school students receiving this money when there are no minimum requirements in terms of their learning. These students need to be subjected to the same testing requirements as the public school students. Until they are required to meet the same standards they should not receive voucher money.

The loss of teachers in the public schools due to vouchers will further damage the public school systems by increasing class sizes. There are multiple studies that show the negative affects of larger class sizes.

You claim to want to improve education for students. This should be for all students and should be done by funding the schools with at least the minimum amount proposed for vouchers.

I plead for you to vote no HB3 and instead fund the public school system as is the duty of the state.

Jennifer Kitchens
Self - Compliance Manager
Corinth, TX

My tax money should not be used to fund private education. Public education is a right, if a person chooses to go to Private school or to send their children to private school then the financial burden of that is theirs not mine. Period. This is nothing but a stealing tax money. If this passes, I will never vote for a republican again period. It's the most egregious use of public money I have ever seen, what next, are we going to use tax dollars to pay for rich folk's medical bills if they want to be seen out of network work? Should that be all Texans responsibility too?

Leslie Adams
Self/ Teacher
Arlington, TX

As a 28 year veteran teacher, 20 years in public and 8 years in private education, I know firsthand that vouchers will not benefit the majority of students in Texas. Even with a $10000 voucher I would not have been able to afford the private schools in our area and I knew private schools could not provide the experiences and opportunities that our public schools do. Both of my children have received a stellar education in Arlington ISD. I know that every school public and private, has good teachers and bad teachers, and that is why we kept our kids in public. As a teacher, this year I have taken a $200 pay cut due to lack of funds and rising insurance costs and am anticipating an even lower paycheck next year. As my retirement date approaches I am also devastated to hear that passing of vouchers may deplete my retirement after giving selflessly to children all these years. It is not okay to take from me and help fund a private school for someone who can already afford it. Please end this bill and focus on funding public education.

Amy Verhulst
Self
Katy, TX

We ask that you NOT support HB3 which will divert tax dollars meant for public schools towards private school vouchers. This bill would pull funding from public schools at an immense cost to taxpayers, families and children.

Bonnie Millican
Self
Bend, TX

I am opposed to HB3 or any bill that supports vouchers for the state of Texas. I am a product of public schools and taught 33 years in public schools. Public schools serve the greater good. Taking money from public schools to give to private schools is antithetical to what education should be about. I question the motive behind this push. Dressing it up under the name of "education savings account" will not change the outcome of taking money from public schools. As the saying goes, "You can put lipstick on a pig, but it's still a pig." Please do not harm our public schools!

Michelle Iskra

self - public school teacher and professor

Cedar Park, TX

Vouchers sound like a good idea to people who have made the choice to send their children to private school, rejecting public education. This is a choice that is not available to most of the population who, because of limited financial resources, lack of access to private schools, or other issues, cannot take advantage of private schools. Public school, however, has long been available to everyone regardless of their financial situation or location in the country. An all-voucher system would degrade everything about our public schools because funding would be inconsistent. Public schools also hold communities together; relationships are formed between neighbors in support of children attending local public schools. Athletic, performing arts, and musical events are all available to communities as a result of public schools in neighborhoods.

Unfortunately, our governor has withheld funding to public schools because vouchers have not passed. He has a number of supporters of the plan who have not thought this plan through completely, as it appears to benefit only urban, well-off families. There are many consequences to the passing of vouchers or "educational savings accounts" as they are euphemized as now, among them public school staffing shortages, creating larger classes and more stress for teachers. Band and orchestra programs will likely disintegrate under the financial stress of not having a dependable source of support. Theater and choir programs, sports programs, ag programs, and other extracurricular activities would be lost (and these programs normally do not exist or exist only on a limited basis in private schools). Teacher training will suffer, relationships between students who are already stressed by life in our culture, and other community based effects will be felt. At my high school, excellent teachers have been furloughed, support staff has been cut, and other measures to limit spending are being implemented to cope with the funding shortage forced on us. Teachers are notoriously underpaid, as well; where do you think those talented potential educators are going but into the private sector to make a lot more money than they can now that there is a loud, continuous declaration that we and the students we teach are unimportant unless this person gets his way?

The efforts to pass vouchers are inappropriate and counterintuitive to a strong, future-oriented Texas. Politicians tout how great it is to have companies move their headquarters to Texas, but if the people who should be able to work for those companies are insufficiently prepared because of a lack of funding for their educations (that should be a right of every Texan), those companies will not come here. They see Texas's disregard for the incredible public good that is public education and they will go elsewhere. While their employees may come with them, where will those employees educate their own children?

Thank you for your kind attention to my remarks.

STEVE WICKWAR, Retired Educator

Self

San Antonio, TX

I could not imagine how anyone cannot clearly see that school vouchers are a bad idea. It is apparent to me that our states leadership is more interested in funding the pockets of the wealthy than looking out for what is best for children. I plan on doing my part at the ballot box to replace our current leadership, as I feel they no longer have the public best interest at heart. Do the right thing, or be replaced.

Ruby Robinson

self

Houston, TX

No on school vouchers. Money should go to funding public schools. Everyone deserves access to education not just the wealthy.

Emily Delgado

self - teacher, parent, and PTA member

San Antonio, TX

HB3 is the antithesis of the type of school funding bills we should be seeing come through the Texas Legislature. This bill focuses on putting public funds into private businesses, plain and simple. School choice already exists within public schools and charter schools in Texas. This bill does not increase opportunities for school choice, it merely makes it easier for money to be diverted away from the children who need it. This bill also removed public accountability for public funds, as private schools do not have to meet the same accountability standards as public and charter schools. They also do not have to serve students with disabilities and have the right to turn away any student for any reason. What's more, many counties in our state don't even have a private school. So who does this bill really help? Families with enough wealth to already attend private schools? Those who run private schools? Certainly not the majority of Texans, and absolutely not the children those who are supporting this bill pretend it will. Vote no on HB 3, and focus our state's resources on fully funding public schools.

Cindy Kost

Brinker Elementary School

Plano, Dallas, TX

need to keep funding for public schools in place considering our growing communities and increase in students coming in daily. It's important that every child gets the opportunity and support or education just as others

Angela Tarrant

Self

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Faye Cagle

TX PTA

ALLEN, TX

As a parent of three children enrolled in a Texas public school, I am NOT in favor of ESAs or Vouchers.

Kendall Perez

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Charles Nelson Needham

Republican voter

SAN ANTONIO, TX

As a voting, conservative republican, I do not want my hard earned tax dollars being spent to send student to private school, even if they are Christian based. Governor Abbott has bullied his way to get this bill moved forward. This will line his friend's pockets and lead to further murky corruption. Yes, the education system needs improvement, but giving money to more private causes is not the best answer.

Jennifer Siegel

Self

Dallas, TX

As a product of public schools and a parent of kids attending public school, I am strongly opposed to measure. The State of Texas should be investing in the education of its children through public education and not through school vouchers. This will benefit very few and harm the majority of our children. If passed, this measure will cause significant distress and harm to my children and every other child attending a public school.

Isaac Thomas
self/teacher
Wylie, TX

Please reject this bill. The implementation of a second educational system (which is what HB3 essentially is) does not make any effort to repair or improve public education. It does not address the governor refusal to fund public education as outlined in the Texas constitution. Removing funds from public education leads to increases in unsafe class sizes, increased teacher workload and unreasonable work conditions in the public classroom setting. HB3 segregates students as private schools are not required to provide services for children with disabilities as public schools are and can therefore reject any and all students with confirmed disabilities. As an educator I am asking you to reject HB3.

Amy Nguyen Education
Sugar Land, TX
I oppose HB3.

William Wiggins
Self
Mansfield, TX

Absolutely opposed to this program .. fund our public schools .. give the students and the teachers the money they deserve .. vouchers will only put money in the pockets of the rich .. enough screwing with the education of our most valuable assets .. our children ! No no no ! Opposed to vouchers !

Rachel Gregory
Leander ISD
Leander, TX

Say no to school vouchers!!! You have a duty to listen and VOTE for what your constituents want!

Joseph Colvard
Self
St Paul, TX
I Oppose HB 3

Brooke Raburn
Self
Mansfield, TX

Dear Members of the Texas House,

I urge you to carefully consider the impact of the proposed voucher program on our public schools. These institutions are the backbone of our communities, providing every child, regardless of their background, with the opportunity to succeed. Diverting funds from public education to private schools will only widen disparities and hurt the students who need support the most.

Please stand with our teachers, students, and families by opposing this program. Our children's futures deserve investment in strong, equitable public education for all.

Sincerely,
Brooke Raburn

Lindsay Suhor
Parent
Flower Mound, TX

I am AGAINST ESAs. I have 2 daughters in public elementary school.

ESAs are a distraction from your mandate, article 7 of the Texas Constitution provide free, PUBLIC education. This school year there have been times when my children's campus doesn't have the funds for toner for the copiers. Other times, when the district reached the number of substitutes it could afford for the day, my child had 6 "teachers", another occasion used stools as tables so that they could be worked into another classroom when, again, the district couldn't afford more substitutes for the day. I've stepped in as a volunteer just so the my daughter wouldn't have to shuffle around classrooms - I am not a teacher. Lewisville ISD has done a phenomenal job looking for cost-saving measures and has been transparent, posting everything online, creating YouTube messages to make sure parents and community members are in the know.

Private institutions should not be receiving public taxpayer dollars without being held to the same standards as their public counterparts. Raise up our communities by investing our school districts.

Give us Texas citizens the same opportunity as the citizens in Colorado, Kentucky, and Nevada: PUT THIS MEASURE ON A BALLOT. Let us vote.

Thank you,

Lindsay Suhor
Flower Mound, TX Resident

Lindy McMahan
Self
Sachse, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Jose Rodriguez
Self
El Paso, TX

This bill will hurt students who are in public education.

Pamela Murfee, Retired Teacher
Self
Lubbock, TX

I oppose HB3.
Public schools need to be fully and adequately funded.

Shawna Mitchell
Self
SAN ANTONIO, TX

We do not need vouchers. San Antonio has a strong and important public school system supporting a massive amount of students. Support public schools.

Anna Bright, Mrs.

Self Teacher

Wimberley, TX

I oppose vouchers for private school paid for by public tax dollars. Public dollars belong in public schools. Fully fund public schools.

Maria Garibaldi

Self

Houston, TX

Please listen to your constituents. Fully fund public schools, and do not pass the vouchers! Put it up for public vote! Represent our kids and do the right thing.

Gary Spencer

self

Horseshoe Bay, TX

Public schools are required to follow the laws related to the services available to all students. Private schools are not bound to offer special services. Private schools are not required to accept special needs children which places public schools with additional burdens. How is this fair? HB3 will make public schools less effective and give private schools selective admission.

Sandra Waggoner

Self

Aledo, TX

Please do not vote for the voucher scam. I am a foster parent and a bio mother who heavily relies of public school.

Lacy Newkirk

Davis PTA

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3!

Beverly Moncla

Self

Montgomery, TX

I've taught in public school, private school, plus homeschooling my own children. All Texans should have the opportunity to choose the school option that fits their unique family. Thank you

Debra Witter

self

Fort Worth, TX

My grandchildren and great grandchildren attend public schools. I am also a long ago student who attended public school in Howard county and went on to be a Pediatrician. (1st person in my family to attend college). I want all Texas children to have the opportunities that I had. I believe HB 3 will hurt them and strongly urge you to oppose it.

Katie Lazarowicz, Dr.

Self

Arlington, TX

this hurts kids with additional educational needs and appears to favor the wealthy, leaving the majority of children at risk of insufficient funding for their education. No to vouchers.

Sammie Minchew, Retired Texas Public School Teacher

Myself

Liberty, TX

I am opposed to ESAs. The majority of Texas students will be better served by increasing the Basic Allotment and fully funding our public schools. ESAs will siphon taxpayer dollars away from public schools and the TRS without acceptable accountability and transparency. As you heard in recent testimony, parents already have choices which could be expanded within public education by increased funding. All student needs could be supported with increased and adequate funding. Few public school students will benefit from ESAs whereas the minority and the wealthy will benefit more. The Legislature is obligated to support ALL students and teachers not just the few. I know that you are aware that the majority of Texans including Republicans, Democrats, and Independents oppose ESAs. Please do not bring this bill out of committee. If you choose to proceed why not allow us the taxpayers to vote on this issue? Please do right by our public schools, teachers, and TRS retirees by fully funding public education and rejecting ESAs.

Virginia Fredricks

Self

Austin, TX

I am opposed to this bill and feel it benefits higher income families

LaDaisha McBride, Mrs.

Self/Amazon

Cedar Hill, TX

Please keep ESA as part of public education bill. My child is part of ESA due to him being partially deaf and hard of hearing. He has been in the program since birth. Being part of ESA and his wonderful teachers full support has developed my now 5 year old child to now qualify to leave the SPED department and be with the first graders at the start of the new school year. This program is needed and needs to stay enforced.

Katherine Preuss

Self

Fort worth, TX

As a parent, a community member and former student of a Texas public school I whole heartedly believe that decreasing financial support for our public schools is the wrong decision. As someone in the middle class or lower an education savings account program will not enable me or anyone else to access private schools it is only going to increase the disparity between schools and limit our options for good public schools. Education for all with proper funding is the only way we make improvements as a society.

Adam Stiles

Self/ National Accts Coordinator

Austin, TX

I will be brief as I voiced most of where I stand regarding HB2 in previous communication. Please know that I am also strongly in favor of an education savings account program. Our future as a community/culture/society and GREAT state depend on it!
Thank you

Barbara Carlson

self

Austin, TX

I oppose vouchers! 155 Texas counties HAVE no private schools! There is NO OVERSIGHT to hold the schools accountable for providing reading, writing and arithmetic! Schools are already underfunded and with vouchers, the available amount can go down every year with NO "return on the State's investment of what our children are learning. Please drop the voucher idea and give every child a chance to get a basic education.

Mark Adams
Self, Software Engineer
Round Rock, TX

Good morning,

While I think all Texans share the goal of having our kids attend strong schools where they can get a great education, I do not support education savings accounts (ESA) or "school vouchers" like those described in this bill. This bill seems likely to significantly help wealthier Texans who are already able to afford sending their children to private school instead of supporting lower income Texans. In addition, I'm very concerned about the potential long-term impacts to our public school systems. Even though this bill does not directly appropriate money away from public schools, it does indirectly reduce their funding since a significant portion of state funding is tied to daily attendance.

I also am a big proponent of ensuring taxpayer dollars are spent appropriately. Any voucher plan should involve accountability for private schools to ensure they are meeting the same state standards that our public schools are required to meet. Without this sort of assessment, it will be impossible to know if the state is getting a good return on investment from an ESA program.

While I am against ESAs such as those proposed in HB 3, if we must pass ESAs, I think any plan must ensure that the amount going towards ESAs is tied to the state's public school funding (i.e. the basic allotment). There should never be increase in what the state is contributing to ESAs without a matching or greater increase in the basic allotment for public schools.

To summarize, I am against ESAs such as those proposed in HB 3 because I believe they do not achieve the desired outcome in an effective way. If the legislature does pass ESA legislation like HB 3, we must ensure that there is proper accountability in place to ensure private schools meet state standards and that the ESA subsidies by the state must be tied to the state's funding of the basic allotment such that they can never increase funding to ESAs without also increasing the basic allotment.

Thank you!

Teri Poon
self - spiritual director
Austin, TX

I am urging you not to move forward with school vouchers. I am the parent of two middle school children, one of whom has low-vision. Private schools are not required to exceed - or even meet - public school standards. There are no accountability standards to ensure taxpayer dollars are effectively spent and students receive an effective education.

Private schools are not required to provide special education services, which means if a student is diagnosed with any disability, including dyslexia, the private school is not required to provide reasonable accommodations.

This is not a good choice for Texans, and will especially harm rural communities that don't have access to private education, but will still be footing the bill for this. I grew up in a rural community in Texas, and we need the funds for public education to stay in public schools.

If you want to fund schools, consider releasing funds from the "rainy day" fund because our students are dangerously underfunded! My 6th grader is in an advanced math class that went the entire first semester without a permanent teacher, relying on substitutes. This was detrimental to her education, even though she has involved parents and other support structures.

Please prioritize funding for our public schools!

Carlotta Baird
Self - Artist
Sugar Land, TX

I am asking the committee to vote no on HB3. I want fully funded public education for Texas students! I have a son who graduated in 2022 and another son who will graduate in 2026. Both were educated in Ft. Bend ISD public school system and are in the top 25% of their class. One of my sons received special ed services starting in 2nd grade through senior year. We have an abundance of parental choice when it comes to educating our children. We have access to public schools, charter schools and academy schools. All of these use public education money, paid for by taxpayers within a system that currently provides regulation, standards and accountability. Parents are also free to homeschool or private school. Why would we take away money from Texas public schools who are currently underfunded and give it to a 'select' group of privileged students?

The ability to even apply to a private school at all indicates a level of privilege that the majority of Texas students cannot access.

I grew up in a low to middle income household. We rarely were able to buy brand new things. We took care of our cars, clothes and appliances and when something stopped working the way it should, the first plan of action was to repair it. If our public school system is failing in certain areas, let's fix it! The infrastructure is already in place! The public education system is accessible for all Texas students, not only for a small elite group.

Vouchers in other states have shown to be difficult to regulate systems that have caused fiscal harm in other states (Arizona) without significantly improving educational outcomes. Creating and maintaining vouchers would require an incredible amount of administrative work, the creation of new systems of accountability and taxpayer funds that would reduce the funding for public schools. Instead, let's invest it into making our public education system even better.

Our future as a state and as a country depends on how we educate our children. We need more than just a small group of children who were selected to attend private schools to make this happen. All Texas children deserve to be supported by a fully funded public education.

Thank you.

Charlotte Davis
SELF
Austin, TX

I am a parent of two children in Austin ISD and I vehemently oppose using MY tax dollars to fund vouchers. This proposal amounts to a transfer of wealth from the middle class to the rich. Vouchers divert funds away from public schools who have to educate every child and account for their outcomes, to private schools with no transparency requirements and indeed no requirements to even ACCEPT all children, let alone those with IEPs, special needs or disabilities. Vouchers are a big middle finger to the most vulnerable students and their families. Even if a public school family WANTS to send their child to private school, there is no guarantee that their child would be admitted, nor would the voucher cover 100% of the actual cost, and they would have to be able to arrange transportation (which skews to higher income families). Many of the private schools in my area already have wait lists filled with families who can afford the tuition now! It is disingenuous to market this proposal as "school choice" when in reality, the majority of those who will benefit will be privileged families who already send their kids to private schools. It's another tax cut for the wealthy by a different name. This awful voucher proposal is going to gut public schools in order to benefit fewer than TWO PERCENT of Texas students. Vote no on this disastrous proposal.

Michelle Rea
Self
Austin, TX

Public schools invest in our futures by ensuring we have an educated public. Siphoning money out of public schools and into the wallets of wealthy Texans is reprehensible. The wealthy don't need government handouts to make them wealthier. I could pay to provide my kid with private schools if I wanted, but I believe in my neighborhood and I want my tax dollars to impact the most vulnerable folks in my community. I am furious with Greg Abbot for pushing this scam for so long. Please vote NO on HB3

Cynthia Istook, Dr
Self/college professor
FORT WORTH, TX

AGAINST school vouchers!

Gina Vermuth
Self
Coppell, TX

To Whom It May Concern:

It's clear HB 3 isn't about helping our students — it's about appeasing special interests. Claiming this is for the benefit of our kids is disingenuous when it's obvious the real goal is to funnel money away from public schools. Our students deserve better. They do NOT deserve policies driven by political agendas and special interest money. We see what's happening, and we won't stand for it. I urge you and your colleagues to vote NO on HB 3.

Tara Sohlman
Self
Allen, TX

I oppose the establishment of education savings accounts. The funds are needed for public school. I do not want my tax dollars funding private school under the "school choice". Our public schools need that money.

Nina McClintock
Self
Flower mound, TX

I oppose HB3

Casey Reese
Self
Sachse, TX

I oppose HB3

Shane Webb
Self- superintendent, parent
Gatesville, TX

I am writing to say that I strongly oppose HB 3 and the establishment of education savings accounts funded with taxpayer money. This will drain our public school and rural communities. 70% of our TX public schools are currently operating in a deficit budget. Funneling close to 5 billion dollars of taxpayer money into private schools (that have none of the requirements, testing, or oversight of public schools) while our public schools are drowning, is not a conservative stance. I am asking that you stand with the children and educators of Texas and vote no to HB 3 and the use of taxpayer funds for private schooling.

Kimberly Hildreth
Self
Wylie, TX

Terrible idea! This would be the equivalent of segregating schools between the rich and the average household. Diverting funds to ESAs could reduce the resources available for public schools, potentially undermining their quality and stability. ?

2. Benefiting Wealthier Families: The program will disproportionately assist families already affording private education, rather than those in need.

Drew Harris

Self/PTA/Fort Worth ISD

Fort Worth, TX

I am writing on behalf of myself, my wife, my kids and all public school children in the state of Texas. I have 3 kids who have attended public schools in Fort Worth ISD, attending Ridglea Hills Elementary, Monnig Middle School and Arlington Heights High School. My wife and I have volunteered literally thousands of hours for our schools' PTAs and booster clubs. Our kids have enjoyed impactful teachers, quality educational programs and a diverse group of friends. Our public schools need more money, our teachers and staff need more money our facilities need more money. Private schools don't need any of that. Let those schools exist as they are. You get what you pay for. I can site dozens of kids who have transferred from their private school bubbles to our public schools and all of them had a better experience at our schools. This bill will hurt public schools across the state and only seeks to help the haves. Don't be fooled by the fake numbers that the voucher scam proponents use. Help public education and vote no on HB 3.

Angela Wallace

Self

Colleyville, TX

Vote NO to HB 3. Vote NO to any type of voucher or ESA program.
All for public schools getting the public funding they should receive.

Heather Lowe

Self - Development Director and Parent

Arlington, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Margaret Grill, Mrs

Self

Bulverde, TX

I am opposed to the establishment of an educational savings account program because I believe public monies belong in public schools and private schools are not subject to state requirements concerning teacher certification, state testing and they can refuse entry to any student they choose. Please don't give up on public education.

Sincerely,

Margaret B Grill

Vanna Oberholz

Self, SAHM

Allen, TX

Our public schools are already underfunded and burdened with excessive regulations. Redirecting taxpayer dollars to private institutions that lack accountability does not improve student outcomes.

Even a small shift in enrollment impacts every public school. Fixed costs remain, but funding shrinks—leading to school closures, larger class sizes, and the loss of essential programs. Despite ISD's making painful cuts this year, 70% of school districts are operating at a deficit while covering billions in unfunded costs for special education, transportation, and safety.

Research from multiple states shows that voucher programs do not lead to better academic outcomes—and in some cases, they make them worse. If we want real solutions for students, vouchers are not the answer.

Instead, Texas must invest in its public schools by increasing the basic allotment, adjusting for inflation, and funding schools based on enrollment rather than attendance. Our children's future depends on it. Vote no to HB 3.

Amanda Riley

Wylie isd

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Melissa McLean, Marketing Director

Self

Pearland, TX

My twins have gone to both private PreK and public schools. I believe in school choice, which is an existing right. However, I do not agree with moving public funds to support those who choose private school. Our public schools have been the backbone of our republic and what has and continues to make Texas and America great. This bill will only further create a divide between haves and have nots, make the wealthy, wealthier and the poor poorer. I'm lucky to be in the wealthier bucket, and wholeheartedly believe this is going to ruin public education and line the pockets of the politicians who seem to have no limits when it comes to being bought by special interests. This voter and constituent disagrees with HB3!

Jeanne Bharucha

Self

Richardson, TX

I am against HB 3. Our tax dollars should not go towards subsidizing private school tuition to families who can already afford it. We moved to Richardson for the schools, and they now need your help with funding to continue providing a strong education for Texas children. Do your constitutional duty and fully fund our public schools! I urge you to vote "No" on HB 3.

Ari Shehane

Self, teacher

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Erica Prater

Self

Missouri City, TX

Public funds should be used to fund public institutions, not private ones. Redirecting taxpayers dollars away from public schools undermines their ability to serve all students equitably and transparently. Private institutions are not held to the same accountability standards and can exclude students based on income, religion, and other factors. Our priority should be to strengthen public education, not diverting resources to institutions that do not serve the entire community.

Lisa Hanson
Myself
Fort Worth, TX

“Texas House Bill 3 (HB 3) is a direct attack on education, disguised as “school choice.” It diverts taxpayer money from public schools to private institutions that lack public accountability, can discriminate, and do not meet the same standards as public schools. This violates the Texas Constitution’s mandate to provide a free, public education for all children.

Proponents claim Texas can afford HB 3 due to a budget surplus, but this is shortsighted. The state is also pushing teacher pay raises and property tax reductions, all of which rely on temporary funds. Economic downturns or declining oil revenues could erase the surplus, forcing cuts to public school funding, teacher pay, or tax hikes to sustain the voucher program. Once public money is committed, it is difficult to reverse without harming schools.

Other states show the risks. Arizona’s voucher expansion cost taxpayers hundreds of millions more than expected. Florida and Wisconsin saw ballooning expenses that benefited wealthier families while draining public school resources. If Texas follows suit, the result will be underfunded public schools, larger class sizes, and fewer resources for students who rely on them most. HB 3 will not help the majority of Texas students. Vouchers disproportionately benefit families already in private schools. In Ohio, 88% of voucher users never attended public school. In Florida, most were already enrolled in private education. Vouchers do not create opportunities for most students—they subsidize private tuition for families who can already afford it.

Texans have rejected vouchers before. Proposition 2 in 1997, which sought to use public funds for private tuition, was overwhelmingly voted down. More recent efforts have failed due to bipartisan opposition, particularly from rural Republicans who understand that taking money from public schools will devastate their communities.

Yet HB 3 is being pushed through, fueled by out-of-state billionaires like Jeff Yass and Texas billionaires Tim Dunn and Farris Wilks. These donors have spent millions to unseat GOP legislators who opposed vouchers, proving this is a scheme driven by big money, not public demand.

If HB 3 is such a great idea, why not let Texans vote on it? This bill effectively amends Article VII of the Texas Constitution, which guarantees public education. The fact that its supporters are avoiding a direct vote shows they know Texans would reject it again.

HB 3 is reckless, fiscally unsound, and deeply unpopular. It undermines public schools while benefiting a privileged few. Lawmakers must reject this bill and defend Texas students, teachers, and communities. Public funds should support public education—period.”

Sarah Perkins
Self
Katy, TX

I'm frustrated that this has never been put on a ballot so that the constituents affected can decide. When wealthy law makers could mostly benefit from this coupon for schools kids are already in, it seems like a conflict of interest. The rest of us will have to stay at public schools that are under-funded, as they continue to lose funds, and the education suffers. Please vote NO.

Jenny Johnson
Self
Houston, TX

For the love of God stop it the schools need funding. Urban schools, rural schools, suburban schools, all the schools. Schools are already burdened by unfunded mandates, such as the armed presence on campus. This will hurt the quality of education as well as safety.

Jose Loa
Self
Houston, TX

Please reject vouchers and focus on fully funding our public schools. Thank you.

Rhett Richardson

Self

Gatesville, TX

Opposed

Jason Thomason

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Maneck Bharucha

Self

Richardson, TX

I am against HB 3. Our tax dollars should not go towards subsidizing private school tuition to families who can already afford it. Do your constitutional duty and fully fund our public schools so my grandkids can continue receiving a quality PUBLIC education. I urges you to vote "No" on HB 3.

Tara Edwards, Mrs.

Self/School Counselor

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Dee Dee Lynch, Mrs.

Self/Educational Diagnostician

Seminole, TX

Please stop using children as pawns for bribery. Please stop saying children in special education will be a priority. We know the private schools will not be supporting services for the most vulnerable. We know those children, if even accepted, would be children with IEPs and minimal accommodations, which makes them "special education". It's a ploy to suck parents into believing you have the "best" interest of their child. You don't. You have no background knowledge in special education. Please stop the pretense when you use terminology or acronyms regarding the IDEA. It's a farce and those in the trenches know it. We see through it. If you want to be helpful to children with special needs, as you keep claiming, fund public schools. Change the accountability requirements for these children. Create funding to help with services, remediation, special transportation, related services, opportunities for life skills and job training, staff support, evaluation staff support, and real meaningful training for our general education teachers who have willingly and lovingly served our students. That is how you can help. That would be meaningful legislation. We love these students. We have no plan, as HB 3 does, to toss the children and their families aside. We will educate them. We take all children and serve them with the God given talents we have, even when you don't fund the adults showing up every single day. We are going to show up for these students and their families. We are going to help them navigate the worst news they could hear...that their child has a disability. Leave these kids alone. They are not yours to negotiate. We have fought hard for their rights. Of all the states in the union, I thought Texas would be the stand-out..the trail blazer who did education differently. Governor Abbott has done the opposite. He's bought into the same sad song and dance other educationally broken states bought into. Privatization has no role in the success of a society. It leaves children, who have the ability to be contributors to our world, behind. Society as a whole will lose. Texas will lose. We will join the laughing stock of other governors who played the same game and lost. That'll be his legacy and what a sad and pitiful one it'll be. Fund public education. Fix the base allotment. Leave private schools out of the conversation. Walk the halls of our schools instead of hiding behind the state capitol and your microphone. Do your own meaningful work. Thank you.

Emily Hadley
self
Fort Worth, TX

Please vote against this bill that does not benefit the majority of TX school children. Only 38% of TX counties even have a private school option. This is absolutely not in the best interest of the the majority of Texas school age children.

Luke Thomason, Student
Self
Wylie, TX
HB 3

Pharren Devonish
Self
Richmond, TX
Oppose

Christina Criswell, Mrs.
Self Local Government IT
Anna, TX

I oppose the establishment of the education savings account program. This program is not in the best interests of the majority of Texans and most Texans do not support this. If you want to do something like this you should put it to a vote and see what the people say. It wouldn't pass.

Laurel Starkweather
Self
Murphy, TX

Please do not create a voucher system. It will hurt our public schools and ultimately benefit most, those who can already afford private school. This would be a tragedy for our puic schools in Texas.

Carol Marchi
Self
Cypress, TX

Vouchers will funnel money away from public education. I've been a public school teacher for 23 years. We need more resources and each year it is more difficult to fund our classrooms. Teachers spend so much money on trying to made school fun that we never get reimbursed for. We shouldn't have to pour our hearts and souls into the job along with our wallets. Fully fund public education. Our students deserve it.

Marinda Williams
Self
Granbury, TX

The vouchers will significantly hurt our public schools and most vulnerable population(s). Please reconsider this program.

Sharon Middlebrooks
Dallas NAACP & *Self
Dallas, TX

I Dr. Sharon Middlebrooks, President of the Dallas NAACP and on behalf of the membership of said organization, strongly disagree with the passing of HB3 (ESA) for vouchers. In addition too, as a constituent in House District 110, I am totally against HB 3 and vouchers for choice education over public schools funding. I am however, in support of the Texas Constitution wherein in Article VII cause for a mandate of the Texas Legislature to maintain a system of FREE public schools. However, it is apparent that there is total disregard for the Constitution, first in the Robin Hood approach that did not alleviate disparities and now, funds for school districts are being and have been withheld resulting in ISD's throughout the state of Texas being forced to close schools.

Leslie Jones
Tax payer and retired teacher/librarian
Bryan, TX

Please vote against this bill. It has been voted down by the people of Texas but yet it has been pushed by Governor Abbot. It is wrong on many levels. Please vote NO to House Bill 3.

Leigh Cain
Self - Software Analyst
Grand Prairie, TX

This is an attempt to destroy the public school system that provides opportunities for all of the children of Texas. We should fund our public schools. We should not divert money out of them.

Lea Mishlan, Dr
MS Principal (self)
Houston, TX

This is a bad bill! Bad for ALL Texans! Most importantly, tacans voted it down when they had the chance and there is an overwhelming super majority of your constituents - those who put you in office and gave you the honor of representing Texans - who do not support this! It is Bad for public schools, private schools, and homeschoolers, students, parents, and the community! It will bring us farther away from a state of educated Texans by dumbing down education, bankrupting the school system and the state of education. We will all be harmed. These children will one day run the state - you will be old and relying on uneducated Texans, who are less educated because of you - to take care of you in your old age! How do you think they will treat those who destroyed their public schools?! VOTE AGAINST ESA!! They are bad for all and will bankrupt our state! Just because you weee once a student does not make you an expert in education - just the opposite - you don't know the first thing about what's best for students or teachers! I am a public school leader of 20 years, as an expert in educating children in public schools in Houston I can tell you this is NOT what's best! The research is clear on that point!

Larry Hanson
Self. Retired
San Marcos, TX

Hell no on vouchers

Rocio Garcia
EMSISD
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Megan Lilburn, Rev.

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Please vote no

Melinda Samberson

Self. I am a parent and also a volunteer in our schools and our community.

Frisco, TX

Hello, First, thank you for enduring 24 hrs of testimony! I appreciate your dedication. I want to log my comments as opposed to HB3 and ESA's. We need to fully fund our public schools before we start talking about anything else. I would love for the basic allotment to be increased, for our teachers to be paid more competitively, our schools funded on enrollment instead of attendance, and for the funding to be adjusted for inflation. I am a conservative and believe this is not a conservative move (as you heard from many conservatives yesterday). We need to protect the 5.5 million students and educated them well as they are the future of Texas. Please do not pass this legislation. Thank you!

Jennifer Mackey

n/a

Allen, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Voucher programs cost accelerates quickly. The current senate proposal shows more than $11 billion will be spent on vouchers through 2030, with $4.6B spent in 2030 alone. Additionally, the fiscal note on SB 2 shows an increase of 42 employees to manage the program. Properly fund public education.

Fernanda Trevino

Self

San Antonio, TX

Vote no! Please have integrity and vote in favor of an educated future. I have been a teacher for 18 years and a mother with 2 school age children. So not defund our public schools. Educating the future generations is the only way we can have a better tomorrow.

Fund all schools and give a chance to all students.

Monica Munoz

Parent-PTA

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3!!!!

Tracy Bailey, Mrs

Self/

Celina, TX

I do not want money from the state to send my child to private school. Parents already have school choice in Texas we don't need the money. This will take finding away from the public school system that is already struggling. Please do not pass this bill and save our public education system.

Mary Jara

Self

Carrollton, TX

School vouchers divert critical funds away from public schools, weakening the foundation of our education system. Research shows that vouchers do not improve student outcomes and often exacerbate inequities. Every student deserves a high-quality education, regardless of their background or where they live. Instead of funneling money to private institutions, we should be investing in and improving our public schools to ensure all students have access to the resources they need to succeed.

John Young, Mr
self
San Benito, TX

Born, raised, and still a Texan, I know a thing or two about education.

My mother attended a one-room school class taught by her mother in a rural part of the Texas Hill Country, who went on to attend Normal School to become a librarian. She eventually completed some master's level classes at UT Austing went on to work for the Austin TX main library.

My father was the first member of his small town East Texas family to attend college and went on to become a UT Austin Library Science instructor and student advisor. My mother's mother was a well-read one-room school teacher and her father was a graduate of Texas A&M College living in a small Texas Hill Country town.

I earned a master's degree in psychology at UT Austin and a master's degree in Social Work from the University of Michigan (while retaining my residency & voting in Texas).

I've worked with abused children, welfare children, foster children, and school children with learning problems.

And I followed real-time how Texas moved from teaching children to "Teaching To The Tests" required for them to graduate up the school ladder towards work skills and college.

I saw live-time the problems arriving at the pre-school and day care levels and the routing of "problem students" into boot camps towards military service. I met juvenile gang members who moved up the ladder in their gangs by serving jail time and longer prison time, where they connected with members of larger & more 'professional' gangs.

I did volunteer work with a local Tough Love group. I worked with school counselors within their schools and supervised school counselors seeking to become Texas Licensed Counselors. I briefly did some contract work for children and their parents in a hospital program for "Underachieving Students" and their parents.

HB 3 seems designed to support more privileged children on their upward path. While lowering public school funding and teacher pay scales. In ways that will sink more of the faster into various under-class groups to fill private prisons, serve as cannon fodder in our Armed Services, feed payday lender operations, and to provide cheap labor for the more well-to-do families and corporations. And making it harder and more impossible for them to become qualified voters within the State of Texas.

Trish Penland Ashton
Self
Burleson, TX

House Bill 3 undermines public education. Public schools should be funded appropriately allowing access to an equal education for all. This bill lacks accountability as private schools has a seperate set of standards and are not held to the same testing mandates that public schools are. Segregation, discrimination, and inequity in access for all students are other reasons this bill should not pass. Protect education for ALL children. Properly fund public schools.

Lucas Leinberger
Self
Burke, TX

Hello, I am reaching out to express my support for HB3 and ask for your consideration in also supporting. As a parent of homeschool children, an ESA ,as provided by HB 3, would afford more opportunities and ensure funding for all homeschool families. Specifically, the ESA enables a homeschool curriculum aligned with how families want to educate and raise their children to become Texans who are successful and contribute to the future of the state and our great Nation.

Robbie Shepherd

Self

San Antonio, TX

Good afternoon. I would like to express my strong opposition of HB 3 as a lifelong Republican, proud Texan and parent of a school age child in Texas. This bill is morally questionable, not fiscally responsible, does not provide equal educational opportunities for all of the 5 million school age children here in Texas and is an extreme detriment to our future work force here in Texas. Investing adequately in public education is the only way to ensure that EVERY child in Texas is represented. This really the very least we can do for all Texas children. Please keep my PUBIC dollars in PUBLIC schools.

Cayla Halliday

Texas PTA

Fort Worth, TX

Against this!! Save our children's education!!

Karen Galley, Dr.

Self

Fort Worth, TX

Please do not pass these terrible school vouchers!! They are taking my tax dollars meant for public school and giving them to private schools! Despicable! It is NOT school choice! It is a coupon for rich families.

Ken McKee

Self

Pearland, TX

I oppose this bill. Tax payer dollars should be used to fund public school under local control. Private schools are just that, private and should be funded by those who choose to spend their children to private schools. Private universities are not funded by the state and neither should private schools.

Megan Fischer

Self

Dripping Springs, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Jennifer Coppinger

Self / Stay at Home Mom

Allen, TX

I oppose HB3 vouchers and ESAs. Public school students have a right to a fully funded education and should not be leveraged as a bargaining tool for political gain. Vouchers in Texas will divert funding away from an already critically underfunded system and voucher program costs have been shown to accelerate quickly. As a public school parent, I already have a choice of where to send my children for schooling. Public funds need to stay in public schools. Please stand with Texas families, not special interests. Our public schools depend on it.

Tarey Tarleton, Retired Public School Diagnostician

Self

Crowley, TX

As a parent, special education teacher, and Educational Diagnostician I am adamantly opposed to any type of “school voucher” program no matter how you title it. I have seen the results of limited school funding in our schools for the past 46 years. I worked for many years in west Texas where there are little to no private schools for parents to “choose”. Private schools do not have to accept those students who I fought for (and still do in retirement) access to an appropriate education. Taking tax money to pay for private school tuition for a limited few is an insult to those of us who have spent their adult careers educating Texas students-ALL Texas students.

Monica Da Jose, Ms.

Self

Dallas, TX

I oppose HB 3 as a public educator.

Brian Collins, Mr.

Self, Teacher

Midland, TX

ESA's are bad policy for Texas education. Private schools in my area are already full and this program will simply cause the cost of private schools to increase. Private schools do not have to accept any student that applies. Therefore, there is little chance that this funding will benefit the students that really need it. Our Texas representatives need to get to work on solving the school funding problems we have in our state. Our representatives need to solve the recapture payment catastrophe that is taking tens of millions of dollars out of our local district funding here in Midland every year. It is fact that public school funding has not been properly increased or addressed in many years. Public schools must be properly funded before any bills with ESA's should be considered. And, if ESA's ever do become state law, there should be provisions to only help the truly needy students of our state unlike the current bill. Many parts of the state do not have access to private school within driving distance. I pay a lot in property taxes and I am offended that the state has put off the need for public school funding for so long and has actually held this funding hostage in favor of attempting to ram through this voucher policy. Any truly accurate polling surely shows this is an unpopular proposition. More like an 80/20 proposition. The party that forces this through will surely reap the political whirlwind.

Summer Stark

Self-concerned parent

Mckinney, TX

As a parent of three children in public schools I am extremely concerned about the voucher bill proposed. We should be funding our public schools. After all aren't we in favor of everyone having the opportunity to get a fair education. Those with the means to pay for private school will continue to pay for it. Those with public educated children will be left to figure out how to make up the gaps.

Todd Evers

Self

Fort Worth, TX

As a public school teacher in Texas, and a parent of two public school students, I am very against this bill. It is not right for taxpayer money to go to help students attend a private school. Parents who wish to pay for private school have the choice to do so. That is parent choice. This bill will further deteriorate public school funding. Do not pass this bill!

Sidney Kammerdiener, Mrs.

Self

Colleyville, TX

As a mother of two daughter's thriving in public school, I implore you to not pass the voucher bill. Our schools have had to operate with less each year I have been a parent with a child in school and this is at a destination district. The passage of this bill will cripple public education. Shame on you for allowing it to go this far. Listen to the people, say NO to vouchers.

Andrea Park

Wylie ISD and self

Wylie, TX

I Oppose HB3.

Carrie Baker

self

Flower Mound, TX

I am strongly opposed to HB 3. The more I've listened to the testimonies and the questions being asked in the hearing on this bill, the more my concern has grown — not just because of the bill itself, but because of the outright refusal to seriously consider the consequences, both intended and unintended, that this bill would create.

Many who oppose HB 3 have pointed out a critical issue: this bill would likely function as a discount for families who already have children enrolled in private schools, rather than truly empowering low-income families to choose a better school for their children. At the same time, students leaving public schools for private schools would leave those public schools in a worse financial position than ever before.

And yet, when these concerns were raised, the chairman's consistent response was that they don't anticipate a significant number of public school students leaving for private schools.

If that's the case, I have to ask — who is this money really intended for?

Is it for the public school students who, by your own assertion, will mostly choose to stay where they are? Or is it for families who have already chosen private school — families who don't need to make a choice, because they already have?

The answers to these questions matter. And right now, it's hard to see how this bill serves anyone other than those who have already opted out of the public education system — all while draining resources from the schools still responsible for educating the vast majority of Texas students. That's not school choice. That's school abandonment.

I urge you to reconsider the true impact of HB 3 and the damage it would inflict on our public schools and the students who rely on them.

Evan Elwood

Self

Arlington, TX

I reject HB 3 based on expert testimony that it will hurt public schools and is NOT fiscally responsible.

Alexa Cariffe

Self

Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 and its proposed education savings program, which would allocate $10,000 per student toward private school tuition. While supporters claim this expands school choice, the truth is that Texas has always had school choice. Parents who want private education for their children—including myself—have always had the ability to make that decision. What this bill really does is shift public funds away from our public schools to subsidize private education, which has never been accountable to taxpayers.

HB3 will not help most Texas families. The reality is that this program primarily benefits those already sending their children to private schools. For many working- and middle-class families, $10,000 does not cover full tuition, especially in urban areas where private school costs often exceed $20,000 annually. Rural communities, where private school options are limited, gain nothing while their public schools lose funding.

A strong public education system is the foundation of our democracy—in Texas and across the country. Public schools serve all students, regardless of background, income, or ability. Instead of diverting resources to private institutions that can pick and choose their students, we should focus on strengthening our public schools. Texas should prioritize competitive teacher pay, classroom resources, and student support services to ensure the 5.4 million children in our public school system receive the education they deserve.

Public dollars should serve the public good. HB3 is a step in the wrong direction, and I urge lawmakers to reject it and invest in all Texas students.

Sabrina Anderson

PTA

Arlington, TX

As President for Corey Academy of Fine Arts and Dual Language PTA, a public school in Arlington, I can speak first hand about how the districts in Texas already offer school choice for students. Our district provides top notch education while operating for the first time in a deficit budget. This deficit is caused by their unwavering commitment to not only meet standards but rise above them. We should do all we can to fully fund our schools to meet 2025 economic levels but to reach a level playing field with the national average. I believe that if students leave our district for private or homeschool education the students will suffer from decreased funding not because our schools are subpar but because the requirements and mandates by the State will not change because of changes to funding. Please vote no to this Bill. It has been and will continue to be an unpopular proposal.

Sarah Soule

Self, teacher

Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and will hurt Texas public schools.

Alexis Gutierrez, Dr.

Self

Seguin, TX

While Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) are often promoted as a way to give families more flexibility in choosing educational options for their children, ESAs pose a serious threat to public education. The implementation of ESAs harms public education by diverting critical funding, increasing inequities, and undermining the very foundation of the public schools system.

Public schools are funded primarily through state and local taxes, with allocations determined based on student enrollment.

When students leave public schools using ESAs, a significant portion of funding follows them, reducing the resources available for remaining students. Since public schools have fixed costs- such as teacher salaries, transportation, and facility maintenance-losing per-pupil funding with a corresponding decrease in expenses further exacerbates statewide budget shortfalls that force schools to cut essential programs, increase class sizes, and reduce staffing.

One of the core missions of public education is to provide equal opportunities for all students, regardless of socioeconomic backgrounds. ESAs, however, tend to benefit families who can already afford private education. Even with ESA funds, many private school tuition rates remain prohibitively high for low-income families, effectively making ESAs a subsidy for wealthier households rather than a tool for equitable education. Meanwhile, students in underfunded districts-who rely most on public education- are left with even fewer resources and diminished educational opportunities.

Public schools are subject to strict accountability measures, including standardized testing, teacher certification requirements, and curriculum regulations. In contrast, ESA programs allow taxpayer dollars to flow to private institutions and vendors with little to no oversight. Many ESA-approved providers are not required to follow state curriculum standards, meaning students may receive subpart or ideologically driven education without guarantees of academic rigor. Additionally, cases of fraud and misuse of ESA funds have been reported in other states, where parents spend money on unapproved items rather than legitimate educational expenses.

The long term impact of ESAs is the gradual weakening of public education. As more families opt out of the public system, schools in struggling communities face declining enrollment and reduced state funding, leading to school closures and program eliminations. This disproportionately harms rural and low-income communities, where public schools serve as community hubs and provide essential services beyond education, such as meals, counseling and special education.

Public schools are legally required to provide services for students with disabilities under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). When students with disabilities use ESAs for private schooling they often lose these protections as private institutions are not bound by the same laws.

Jennifer Brunson

Self

Fort worth, TX

Against!

Jessica Ralph

Self

San Antonio, TX

As a parent and military spouse, education is a top priority to me. Texas lags far behind other states and it makes it difficult for military children to assimilate due to being ahead of their peers academically when they arrive in this state. We're doing a disservice to Texas children as well by holding them back from a quality education like that of their peers in other states.

FUND PUBLIC SCHOOLS

INVEST IN TEACHERS

INVEST IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

NO SCHOOL VOUCHERS

Bring Texas schools up to the level they should be, on par with education in top ranking states.

Amy Louthan

Self

Pearland, TX

I am a current public school educator. I've worked in public schools for 28 years. I'm strongly against this bill. Public education needs to be fixed and fully funded. ESA's will negatively affect the majority of students in Texas. If public schools were fully funded and teachers were paid a wage that keeps up with inflation people might be more open to considering ESAs. If it's not working in other states why do we want it in Texas? We do not need to experiment with our children's education.

Courtney Lewis

Self

Katy, TX

I oppose HB 3. Fully fund public education in Texas

Joshua Thronburg

Self

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Kayla Lain

Self

Godley, TX

Please vote NO to this bill. It limits choice, and imposes government strings like data tracking, pre approved curriculum vendors, and mandatory state assessments. This is another lane of government schools and will ruin private and homeschool! Say no!
https://docs.google.com/file/d/13507z72nPM6wgDLIHrfJodipQPK_f5_W/edit?usp=docslist_api&filetype=msword

Kathleen Czekaj

Self

Plano, TX

I am in opposition to HB3 and educational savings accounts. I strongly feel that the logic behind this plan is flawed and will result in further detriment to public education for our children. I will be watching to see which of my representatives vote to support this bill, and they will not receive my vote in future elections.

Ayn Bowron

self

Lubbock, TX

: Let the Private Schools be their own entity. There is no reason to finance their operations...

Monica Amundson

Self/School nurse

Sachse, TX

No to vouchers and no to HB 3.

Ashley Kinard, Ms.

Self, Technical Writer

Tomball, TX

No one wants this voucher shit scam, keep public schools public.

Paul Dabbs, Dr.

Self, retired educational administrator

Frisco, TX

In an ideal world, whether students are poor or affluent, whether they live in a rural town or an urban center, or whatever their ethnicity, those varying characteristics would have no effect on how much they achieve academically. Another ideal is that in any school most students would achieve at a level that would sufficiently prepare them for the next grade level.

People who are not involved in education may think that the task of guiding students to achieve at the standards identified by grade level is a straightforward process. But the reality is we are talking about complex processes of human learning that are influenced by factors beyond the classroom. Education is not at all similar to many business processes where input specifications may be changed and suppliers have limited time to comply or be replaced by another supplier. In public education, teachers do not select the inputs to the learning process, they must take the students who come through the door whether they “meet specs” or not. The objective for all teachers, campuses and districts is to take the “inputs” they receive and “process” them so that students have the foundation for success in college, the workforce, job training programs or the military. Students are not inputs and teaching is not a simple process. It is a fallacy to make such simplistic comparisons.

The economic status of families is the most critical characteristic that impacts educational performance of students. It is true that some students from families with very limited financial resources do well in school, but in general, economically disadvantaged students do not perform as well as those from families with more financial resources. Across the state, there is a direct relationship between the percentage of economically disadvantaged students and school performance.

Focusing on elementary schools, which represent the full range of neighborhoods in all sections of the state, the median level of economic disadvantage in elementary schools in Texas is 74%. Plainly stated; when the 4,489 elementary schools are placed in order, 2,244 have greater than 74% disadvantage. The average disadvantage in elementary schools is 67%. The probability of schools performing at higher levels (A or B rated) is significantly correlated to lower levels of economic disadvantage.

Even with this challenge, schools with high economic disadvantage provide educational opportunity and support that enables many students to perform at the highest level.

Schools are not “failing” because of lack of teacher skill or dedication. They are performing at these levels because that is where their students are at these snapshot moments in the accountability system. These schools need more resources to meet the demands of education students who come from families who likely do not have the personal experience and financial resources that compare to higher income areas.

Leeta Batlle

self

Grapevine, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

julia wickett

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Rachel Harris

Self/PTA/FWISD/Arlington Heights High School/Monnig Middle School/Ridglea Hills Elementary School

Fort Worth, TX

I am a proud parent of three in Fort Worth ISD and public education advocate. This bill, the voucher plans and so-called “school choice” are terrible for our students, teachers and staff across our state. Please vote against this bill and vouchers. Education is a constitutional right. All students deserve it. Be courageous and fight for ALL our students in Texas.

Elizabeth Mullins

Self

Sugar Land, TX

Public schools educate our most vulnerable and it's often the only way to leave poverty. Vote against establishing a saving account program.

Alejandro Davila, Mister

Self

austin, TX

I stand for safe, well-funded schools and a strong future for Texas public education. No vouchers for private schools, follow the constitutions and separate church and state. Keep churches AWAY from THE PUBLIC. And make ALL CHURCHES PAY PROPERTY TAXES AND INCOME TAX.

Heather Thurgood

Self

Coppell, TX

I oppose vouchers. It will hurt our communities in Texas.

Silvia Fuentes

Self

CORP CHRISTI, TX

I completely oppose HB3

Andrea Krieger

Self

Mckinney, TX

I oppose HB 3 and this committee should as well.

Christian Brand-Allah

Self

Cypress, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Christian Brand-Allah

Samantha Hsieh
Self/HR Manager
Austin, TX

Do not allow vouchers for private schools! Texas public schools are already very underfunded, and we can afford to use scarce tax dollars on a private school voucher program.”

Carol Caron
Parent of elementary student with developmental disability
Willow Park, TX

Parents need vouchers! I want to have some choice for my child since my current school district does not believe she can learn and has placed her into a secluded classroom and wants to forget about her and her learning needs. The current school (Aledo) has even argued that my child can speak. She is very articulate and they still argue that they don't see her independence and conversational skills like I do at home. I know they are lying and I need choices to take her to a school who believes in her. Public schools are becoming a corrupt waste!! Vouchers Please!!

Cornelia Sutton
Self-PTA
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Melody Sullivan
Self
Cypress, TX

Implementing a voucher system will significantly reduce funding for public schools. An analysis by Every Texan indicates that even a 5% student participation rate in a voucher program could lead to a $2.25 billion loss for public schools statewide. This reduction would strain resources, potentially diminishing the quality of education for the majority of students who remain in public schools. Texas serves approximately 780,000 special education students. Critics argue that voucher programs may lead private schools to favor less resource-intensive students, leaving high-need students in underfunded public schools. Moreover, Texas has only about 70 private schools specifically catering to special needs, primarily in urban areas, with steep tuition costs. HB 3 is NOT wanted or needed. This is TX republicans way of defunding public education and giving money to those who already have enough. It is shameful to vote in favor of HB3.

Maria Soto
Self
Houston, TX

I am writing to express my strong opposition to proposals that seek to divert funding from our public schools through private school voucher programs. As a concerned citizen, I urge you to stand firmly in support of public education and reject any measures that would defund or weaken our public schools. Texas' public education system has long been a cornerstone of opportunity, ensuring that all students, regardless of their background, have access to a quality education. Our public schools serve a diverse range of students, including those with special needs, English language learners, and children from low-income families. They are places where every child, no matter their circumstance, has the potential to succeed. Public schools offer a sense of community, foster inclusivity, and provide a range of services beyond education, such as meals, counseling, and extracurricular activities. Introducing vouchers that funnel taxpayer dollars into private schools would have a disastrous impact on our public schools. Vouchers would effectively siphon money away from the very institutions that serve the vast majority of our students. These funds are crucial for maintaining essential programs, improving educational outcomes, and supporting teachers. Public schools are already struggling with overcrowded classrooms, underpaid teachers, and limited resources. Redirecting money to private schools would only worsen these challenges and leave public schools with fewer resources to meet the needs of Texas children. Private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same accountability standards as public schools. They do not have to accept all students, particularly those with disabilities, special needs, or English language learners. They can select students based on academic performance, financial means, or other factors, which leaves the most vulnerable students behind. Public schools, on the other hand, are required to accept every student, ensuring that every child has a fair chance at success. By diverting funds to private institutions, we risk creating a two-tiered education system that exacerbates inequality and disadvantages those who need the most support. The focus should not be on dismantling public education but on strengthening it. Instead of providing vouchers for private schools, Texas must prioritize fully funding its public schools to ensure every student has access to a high-quality education. We must increase teacher salaries, improve school facilities, and ensure that every child has the resources they need to succeed. Our public schools can be the best they can be if they are given the support and funding they deserve.

Private school vouchers are not the solution to the challenges facing our education system. Public education has a proven track record of providing a quality education to millions of students, and it is essential that we continue to invest in and improve this system.

Daniel King, Rev.Dr.
TXUUMJ
Houston, TX

Strongly oppose public funds for private education

Amanda Payne
Slwd
Round rock, TX

Keep money in public schools! Our children and teachers need our support.

Cameka Crawford
Self
Bedford, TX

I do not support House Bill 3. This will take money from public schools to fund private education. This also does not hold private schools to the same level of accountability as public schools. Also, there is not evidence, even in Republican states, that this will not greatly raise expenses in Texas and take money from public schools.

Desiree Ford
self
Mansfield, TX

Concerned parent of a daughter in public schools (Middle School). In reading HB 3, trying to wrap my head around providing funds to families at 5x the poverty level. For a family of 3 this is combined household income of $250,000. If this is meant to be a school of choice option for families that cannot afford private school, would like to see the threshold reduced to 2x the poverty level in the bill. This would still make private school affordable if families received a subsidy of $10k toward a total cost of $20k private school tuition. If they are out of pocket $10k a year at 2x poverty level $100k this is 10% of their household budget which is reasonable. Texas is in a great position with a current budget surplus. Texas Public Schools need an increase in the basic allotment which has not occurred since 2019. To get the 2019 allotment to 2025 inflation adjustment means an increase of $1,340 is needed. If this increase is approved, public school funding will be more in line with the private school education savings account funding. Thank you for your time.

Kerry Dyer
Self/retired
GEORGETOWN, TX

Our household (two voters) does not support the establishment of the ESA program. Private schools are no longer private if they receive public money. How long before the state government starts regulating curriculum in these now-taxpayer-funded institutions? The ESA program will either create another layer of bureaucracy to ensure the funds are fairly rather than fraudulently distributed. If no oversight exists, what prevents fraud? Our public schools have not been fully and fairly funded for decades. Let's give them the money and a fighting chance. Well-paid teachers, no more unfunded mandates, and then the state can do as it sees fit with regard to curriculum and testing, preferably keeping in mind that the best places to teach religion are in the home and the church. What happens to the low-income families who either have no private school nearby, or for whom the planned allotment doesn't cover the expense? This program claims not to be, but seems designed to be, a subsidy for families who already have the wherewithal to afford tuition...now they'll get a tax break. It's only a "choice" if every family has access to the same options. We've seen in other states what happens to low-income families when private, poorly regulated pop-up academies start with the promise of high standards and good facilities, only to be mismanaged into the ground by a few unscrupulous administrators who then take the money and run. The education of our children is far too important to make it reliant upon the good intentions of a mostly unregulated small business. You know there's a small, well-financed group of people who want this legislation, but the rest of us, who have only our votes to lobby with, would rather see our public schools made the envy of the nation, as opposed the bottom-of-list embarrassment which has been the case for at least 20 years. Please vote no on the passage of this Bill. Thank you.

Rachel Duong
Self
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3

Leslie Campbell, Texas taxpayer
Self
Austin, TX

I oppose HB3 and believe public funds belong in public education.

Sara Whitney
Self
Mansfield, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Ryon Atwood
Self - Self Employed
Happy, TX

Rural Texas does NOT support this bill! Greg, stop trying to say that it does, with your skewed polls. As the husband of a public educator, we are adamantly against this bill. Do your job and keep our tax dollars out of private hands. Do your job and fund public schools, instead of holding them hostage. Do it, or we will be coming for you in the polls.

Tess Sherman
Self
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Elida Olivarri, Dr.
Self
San Antonio, TX

As members of our community in the great State of Texas, we have a responsibility to ensure our children have access to quality, funded public education. Instead of moving to savings account programs (ie vouchers), we should be funding our public school system. Please take the time to reconsider this Bill, it would hurt our education structure, our children, future generations, and the State of Texas would suffer future repercussions. Vote against vouchers (education savings account programs) and vote FOR public school funding.

Perdetra Wilson Cunningham
Self
Cedar Hill, TX

This bill is not fair to all students. It is taking funds from public schools. Low and middle class income families still can not afford these private schools. If students get into these schools and get put out for some reason will the money follow the students? The money needs to follow the students. This cut will hurt public schools funding Public schools will suffer for this bill. The parents that can afford these schools do not need additional help

Veronica McKay
Self Librarian
Wylie, TX

"I oppose HB 3"

Mitchell Richard
Self/Chief Plant Operator
Arlington, TX

As a taxpayer in the State of Texas, I do NOT want an Education Savings Accounts (ESAs) Program. I pay my public tax dollars and, therefore, want my money to Fund Public Schools in Texas. Public school funding has been stagnant since 2019 while we have had inflation of over 20%. Our children and all the educators, and staff, deserve to have the funding. To be clear, I want to reiterate the following:

- I do NOT want vouchers/ESAs.
- I support an Increase of the Basic Allotment.
- I support Funding Public Schools in Texas, including the inflation of over 20%.

Again, I support Public Schools and want my tax dollars to Fund Public Schools (not private schools) in the State of Texas.

Caitlin Pfeifer

Self, teacher

Aledo, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and personal experience as a public school teacher. This will hurt Texas public schools.

Elizabeth Barber

Self

Fort Worth, TX

I am against HB 3 by Buckley.

Courtney Brand Agbetola

Self

Fulshear, TX

Esteemed Committee Members,

We respectfully ask that you OPPOSE HB3 because:

1 Numerous studies show that vouchers do NOT equate to improved academic outcomes for kids. Texas can only continue economic growth and prosperity with a well-educated work force.

2 HB3 is NOT a school choice bill. Texas parents already have school choice. This bill funds private school selectivity — which means that PRIVATE SCHOOLS decide who to accept and who not to accept — NOT parents.

3 Public money should have the SAME accountability standards. Public money means public accountability — any school or entity receiving tax dollars must follow the same standards, mandates, testing and accountability requirements as public schools.

4 We support Texans having a voice on this issue. Vouchers would use public dollars for private education — Texans should have a say on the ballot. Some representatives believe that Texans had a say during the primary. However, the measure on the ballot during the primary does NOT give anyone a mandate for vouchers as it was vaguely worded and did not include specifics about how little oversight there would be for public dollars. Put vouchers on the ballot.

This entitlement bill does not benefit Texas but only a few Texans. Please reject this bill and look for a measure that holds all schools equally accountable for public dollars.

Thank you!

Peggy Jenkins

self

New Braunfels, TX

I urge you to vote NO to Vouchers (SB 2) that will effectively steal public school funds to pay for private religious schools. This is wrong in every way

Jesica Workman

Swlf

Rockwall, TX

I do not see any value in this. In fact I think it hurts public education long term.

Melissa Middleton

Self

San Antonio, TX

Do not approve this bill. An education savings acct will harm the majority of Texas children. Public funds need to be kept for public schools.

Charlotte Procter

self

Bellaire, TX

I do not support vouchers. This is not school choice. I have the freedom to choose the school my child attends, it is my personal responsibility to be able to pay for a private education or attempt to receive financial aid. Public money, my tax money, should not go to education that is religious or is not held to certain standards. No one else's tax dollars should go to my individual child to go to a non-public school. It is a waste of money. It is not an efficient use of tax dollars. It is also worse that more money will be given to an individual student with a voucher than that student would have had follow the student to a public school.

Vouchers will end up decreasing the quality of our public schools, and decreasing the quality of education all our Texas citizens receive. I am against the establishment of a savings account program that will only benefit a small percentage of our citizens. If there is money which can be put towards this program, then this money should instead be put towards making our public schools stronger and better, which will serve all our students and citizens and make Texas a stronger state.

Ashley Lacheney

Self

Wylie, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS and NO TO HB3.

Peggy Jenkins

self

New Braunfels, TX

I urge you to vote NO to Vouchers that will effectively steal public school funds to pay for private religious schools. This is wrong in every way

Mary Lovell

self, consultant, community volunteer

Coppell, TX

I am a fiscal conservative. Not one person I've asked has been able to explain how using public funds for private or home schools is conservative. Why has the fiscal note of HB3 and SB2 not been front and center by its advocates? Public education is a public good, our Texas Constitution explains this. It seems confiscatory to have 'frozen' the basic allotment our schools receive at the 2019 levels while the state has piled on unfunded mandates. Thank you for holding such extensive and important hearings.

Michelle Venegas-Matula

TXUUM

Austin, TX

I oppose this bill establishing ESA program, otherwise known as school vouchers. Gov. Abbott admitted it WILL absolutely take away money from our public schools. Let's keep our tax payer funds in public schools and FULLY fund them, so our Texas kids can have the best education they deserve! Do not subsidize PRIVATE COMPANIES at the expense of our children and teachers. VOTE NO on School Vouchers HB3

Susan Bohn, Dr.

Aledo Independent School District

Aledo, TX

My name is Susan Bohn, and I am honored to be a graduate of Texas public schools who grew up to be a public school educator. I have served Texas public school students, staff, and communities as a classroom teacher, administrator, attorney and superintendent, and I am currently the proud superintendent of Aledo Independent School District.

The message to our legislators from our Aledo ISD Board of Trustees and administration is simple: Fund Schools First.

Aledo ISD opposes any effort - whether it be called taxpayer-funded private and homeschool vouchers or an educational savings account - to divert taxpayer dollars for non-public education purposes.

I am blessed to witness how we are Growing Greatness each and every day in Aledo ISD. The public schools across our great state provide academic, fine arts, career and technical education, extracurricular, and athletic opportunities for ALL students as well as mental wellness support, college and career planning, transportation, meals, special education programs and so much more no matter the students' background, learning level, income or needs. We do all of this while being accountable to local taxpayers and the state government for the tax dollars that fund our schools.

No private or homeschool can provide or say that, especially not for ALL students.

We vehemently oppose transferring billions of our taxpayer dollars to private schools and private vendors without any accountability and while taking away from our public schools; a free public school system that the legislature is constitutionally obligated to support and maintain.

Please say NO TO VOUCHERS and YES to supporting - and funding - for the nearly 6 million students and more than 800,000 public school employees (and their retirement) in Texas.

Rebecca Glaze

Self theatre artist

Plano, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Stephen Kintner

Self

Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3.

Kim Moore, Teacher

Education

Nacogdoches, TX

I am a teacher of 27 years. This voucher bill is a scam and will not do anything to help education. The education system in Texas is so broken and fails our kids in so many ways. Shame on all of you. I would be interested to know how many teachers you've polled and how many are for it. I can't seem to find a single teacher in public, private or homeschool that wants it. Rest assured that I will not vote for anyone who is for this ridiculous bill.

Patricia Boudra

self

Friendswood, TX

HB3 will be detrimental to the education of Texas children and, therefore, to the state of Texas. Uneducated people are less motivated and less prepared to be a productive citizen of our society. Please vote against this bill.

Olga Cardoza

Precinct 146

Pharr, TX

Harmful Consequences for Special Education Students

Students receiving special education services under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) are particularly at risk when voucher programs are introduced. Public schools are legally required to provide a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) to students with disabilities, ensuring they receive individualized supports, specialized instruction, and related services necessary for their success.

Private and charter schools that receive voucher funding are not held to the same legal requirements as public schools, often failing to:

Provide specialized services, such as speech therapy, occupational therapy, and behavioral supports.

Employ trained and certified special education professionals.

Develop and implement Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) that meet students' unique needs.

Accommodate all students, as many private institutions reserve the right to deny admission based on disability status.

By funneling public funds into private schools that are not obligated to support special education students adequately, voucher programs create an inequitable system where students with disabilities are left behind, ultimately weakening the promise of IDEA and the rights of every child to receive an appropriate education.

Public Schools: The Pillar of Educational Equity

Public schools are the backbone of our communities, fostering inclusion, diversity, and equal opportunity. Unlike private institutions, public schools accept all students, regardless of income level, disability status, or background. They provide critical wraparound services, including social work, counseling, and intervention programs that help address barriers to learning beyond the classroom.

School vouchers threaten this mission by shifting essential funding away from the schools that need it most, leaving public education systems weakened and less equipped to serve their students. At a time when educational equity should be a national priority, it is imperative that we strengthen our public schools rather than dismantle them in favor of privatization efforts that benefit a select few at the expense of many.

Call to Action

We urge policymakers, educators, parents, and community members to stand together against school voucher programs and advocate for fully funded public education. Our Title I students and those receiving special education services deserve every opportunity to succeed in an inclusive, well-resourced, and accountable educational environment. Redirecting funds to private and charter schools through vouchers undermines this goal, exacerbating educational disparities and harming the very students our public schools are designed to support.

Instead of dismantling public education through voucher programs, we must invest in strengthening our schools, ensuring every child receives the high-quality education they deserve. Let us prioritize equity, access, and opportunity for all students.

Anna Ramos, N/A

Self

San Antonio, TX

This will only serve 300,000 students vs more than 5 million students. If all Texans are paying taxes then all 5 million students should get a voucher. This should only be passed if and only all students with no eligibility requirements needed can receive a voucher. Texas has great pride in High School football. More money is needed to support public school in all of Texas. In addition, there are not enough desks nor services in private schools for every student in Texas. Governor Abbott needs to support all families and their children.

Dionna Deardorff, Ms.

Self

Fort Worth, TX

School vouchers will harm public education for millions of Texas children. Please vote against this bill. Please keep public funds in public schools. Vouchers will only increase the tuition for private schools and benefit only private schools. All Texas children deserve a quality education.

Julie Hoeltzel
Self
HOUSTON, TX

I do not know one single person, Republican or Democratic, that is in support of this tragic bill. Please reconsider taking action that could decimate what integrity is left in public education.

James Finley
self
San Antonio, TX

As an educator, and as a parent of a student in a Texas public school, I strongly oppose vouchers. This bill will hurt both my family and the students who I teach by taking money from their schools and diverting them to schools that are beyond what I can afford and that will likely not accept my child because of his disabilities. Public education belongs to the public and it is a bedrock of a free society. It deserves to be fully funded and this bill attacks that very foundation.

Jennifer Ferguson
Self / actuary and former teacher
Sachse, TX

I am strongly opposed to this bill or any bill establishing an education savings program or voucher program.

Shelby Banning
Elgin ISD
MANOR, TX

This bill is a disgrace to the public school teachers, students, and families. As a proud teacher and recipient of a public school education, I'm appalled that our government rather invest in the rich and undercut the low-income, under-funded communities who would benefit the most from school funding. How miserable your lives must be, that you believe children of so many different backgrounds don't deserve the same quality education. Despicable. Disgusting. Downright inhumane and immoral.

Sharon Nichols
Self
Baytown, TX

Please vote no on school vouchers!

Carmen P
Self
Plano, TX

NO TO VOUCHERS; NO TO SB3

Kara Dennis, MS.
Self Leader, TX

I have visited towns in other states who has offered similar programs and all you kind find are thriving huge private schools and pitiful sub-par public schools who depend on teachers from Teach for America. I've spoken to these teachers and have heard how hopeless and sad these schools are. Once we go this way there is no turning back and the public school system will suffer. Some of the most beneficial things to Texans are our strong public schools. My children fully attended public school and were well prepared for college. Our schools were award winning schools. Our schools also helped keep our property value high because the schools were so good. If we start breaking apart these options only the wealthiest of our citizens will benefit and our middle class will very much suffer. Don't be fooled by this. Go visit place like Memphis, TN and see what public schools are like there. It is not something we want to introduce into our state.

Kim Distin, Dr
self
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3 along with the majority of TEXANS because it will pull public taxpayer funding from public schools and move it to private schools. ESAs are NOT a priority with our tax dollars. Instead, increase the basic allotment for public schools by $750-$1000 to allow a positive impact on the 5+million students in Texas.
We will ALL remember how you vote on this. Will you listen to the majority of your constituents and oppose this Bill or will you be one who blindly falls in line with the billionaire agenda? Will your legacy be of service to children, teachers, community, and tax payers or will you be remembered as one of the “bought”? Will you stand for your people now or will you end your service as one afraid to stand against a tyrannical push of our governor? These words may seem harsh but they represent the thoughts and heart of your constituents, your voters, your people! VOTE NO TO ANY ESA/VOUCHER BILL! Our children, teachers, community, and future deserve your courage to push back against this scam that only represents the chosen few! Create a legacy of courage and ethics and stand for ALL children. We will remember next election how you vote on this bill.

Kimberly Hollan Clear Creek ISD
League City, TX

Public funding needs to stay with public school and the public school children. It is our duty to educate the future generations!
Please vote NO to vouchers and education savings accounts.

Cynthia Hill
Wylie High PTSA
Wylie, TX

I OPPOSE HB3

Amanda Haldeman
Self, registered nurse
Plano, TX

Please keep our money in public schools. It is the right thing to do to serve your communities that you were elected to represent.
No to vouchers, no to “school choice”!

Charise Thomason, Teacher
Self
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Joann Smith, Ms.
Self - Manager
Wylie, TX

I oppose HB3. This will take resources away from my child’s education.
Thank you,
Joann Smith

Diane Bim
Myself as a citizen
Amarillo, TX

I am strongly opposed to school vouchers. Please vote against this proposal knowing that vouchers would never be used for the good of the majority in public schools. Vouchers would most certainly go to the loudest and richest families. Our public school system certainly has flaws but please remember they are trying to educate minorities and immigrants along with the general public.

Micheal Kennedy
Self
Pflugerville, TX

This bill would put strain on a public education system that is already underfunded, and would allow children with special needs and students from lower socioeconomic backgrounds to be left behind. It's bad for schools, it's bad for kids and it's bad for Texas.

Regan Burkett
Wylie ISD
Wylie, TX
I OPPOSE HB3

Jason Clemons
Self/ Creative Director
League City, TX

As a dad, I want the best education possible for my kids—and for all kids in Texas. That’s why I strongly oppose diverting public school funding to subsidize private school tuition. School vouchers/school choice/ESA - however you say it, is NOT supported by our community, and it feels as though this bill is being shoved down our throats. Our public schools are already stretched thin, and taking away resources will only make things worse for the vast majority of families who rely on them.

One of my biggest concerns is how this will impact our teachers. We already struggle to retain great educators due to low pay and underfunded classrooms. If we start pulling even more money from public schools, we risk losing more of the dedicated teachers who make a difference in our kids’ lives. When teachers leave, it’s our children who suffer.

The reality is that there aren’t enough private schools to serve every student, and a $10,000 voucher won’t come close to covering tuition, uniforms, and transportation. This program won’t help most families—it will only weaken our public schools and hurt our communities.

Strong public schools are the foundation of a strong Texas. We should be investing more in them, not less. I urge you to oppose the ESA and keep public education fully funded for the sake of all Texas children.

Carrie Ebbesen
Self
North Richland Hills, TX

Please do not approve vouchers. I work at a public elementary school and we are already underfunded . Teachers are under paid and leaving a profession they love because they are not able to support their families

Stefanie Hummon

Self

Austin, TX

This is what I submitted. You're welcome to use it or tweak it how you'd like.

I am writing to express my concerns about the implementation of the school voucher program, which I believe could have significant negative consequences for our education system and the students it serves.

By diverting public funds to private institutions, these programs create inequities in access to quality education, leaving public schools with fewer resources to support the majority of students who remain in them. This can result in larger class sizes, reduced educational opportunities, and less support for students who need it most.

Furthermore, private schools that accept vouchers are not held to the same standards of accountability as public schools, which can lead to a lack of transparency and oversight. This raises serious concerns about the quality of education and the protection of students' rights within these institutions

Instead of diverting funds to private schools, I believe we should focus on strengthening and adequately funding our public education system, ensuring that all students have access to high-quality education and the support they need to succeed.

Thank you for considering my perspective.

Stephen Newhart

Na

Fort worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

We could pay public educators more! Why have funds been held hostage for 5 years? No one in our district republican or Democrat alike want this! No No no

Scott Miller

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose HB 3

Kevin Padgett

Self

Royse City, TX

I oppose HB3. This bill will reduce the amount of funds our school districts receive. Our public schools deserve MORE funding.

Terry Maxson

Self Retired

Round Rock, TX

Please vote NO to HB3. I am retired and do not want to fund ANOTHER public school option. Please just take care of our public schools and consider the tax burden you are placing on retired Texans!

Susan Gebren, Mrs.

Self, retired music educator

Bedford, TX

I taught 6 years in a private school and 20 in a public Title One school. Over half the students were on free or reduced lunch. Students who needed extra help. Students whose parents couldn't afford a doctor visit. Or figure out how to fill out the form for Medicaid. A sick, hungry, tired child cannot focus to learn. These are the children this committee should be trying to help. The parent or parents of these children can't afford to take them across town to a private school. The voucher won't cover the extra expenses and tuition balance. The parents won't have time to volunteer for the Fall Festival or candy sales. If the child has a learning disability, the private school usually doesn't have special education teachers. When I taught in a public school, we had special classes for gifted students, emotionally disturbed, autistic, Downs Syndrome, brain damaged. We had specialists for speech therapy, physical therapy, occupational therapy. The State has guidelines for disciplinary procedures. Private schools can expell problem students.

The State has procedures for evaluating teachers. Many school districts have excellent maintenance departments to keep the school environment "top notch". There are NO guidelines and oversight requirements for homeschooling and private school curriculum and student progress.

Please vote NO to HB 3 and give that money to public schools to hire tutors and support our schools.

Candace Mangelsdorf

Self

Dallas, TX

I strongly oppose HB3 and its proposed education savings program, which would allocate $10,000 per student toward private school tuition. While supporters claim this expands school choice, the truth is that Texas has always had school choice. Parents who want private education for their children—including myself—have always had the ability to make that decision. What this bill really does is shift public funds away from our public schools to subsidize private education, which has never been accountable to taxpayers.

HB3 will not help most Texas families. The reality is that this program primarily benefits those already sending their children to private schools. For many working- and middle-class families, $10,000 does not cover full tuition, especially in urban areas where private school costs often exceed $20,000 annually. Rural communities, where private school options are limited, gain nothing while their public schools lose funding.

A strong public education system is the foundation of our democracy—in Texas and across the country. Public schools serve all students, regardless of background, income, or ability. Instead of diverting resources to private institutions that can pick and choose their students, we should focus on strengthening our public schools. Texas should prioritize competitive teacher pay, classroom resources, and student support services to ensure the 5.4 million children in our public school system receive the education they deserve.

Public dollars should serve the public good. HB3 is a step in the wrong direction, and I urge lawmakers to reject it and invest in all Texas students.

Carrie Stewart

Self

Colleyville, TX

I urge you to vote against this bill. As the daughter of a school superintendent I was raised on the value of public education not only to create an informed citizenry prepared workers, but to build community in the classroom, on the ball field, in the auditorium and the lunch room. Schools are responsible for so much in the life of our children - not only the 3 R's. Public schools are struggling with the lack of funds and still recovering from lockdown effects. Public schools need all the support we can give. Draining our public schools through a tax rebate for the wealthy will ruin our schools and does nothing to provide low income families the same opportunities. Vote NO

Jennifer Scheel
Self- realtor
San Antonio, TX

I believe that this bill is NOT in the best interest of Texas school students. I also believe it is not appropriate use of public funds/tax dollars. Please DO NOT vote for this bill.

Warner Watkins
Self
Flower Mound, TX

I am against the proposed Education Savings Account program. This proposal will remove funding from public schools.

Susan Laforet, Ms
Retired teacher
Humble, TX

Vouchers are NOT what we need in Texas! Fund public schools as they should be. Allow them to hire the teachers and support staff needed to run effectively. Vouchers will take money away from the children who need it most. The amount of the voucher per child is NOWHERE near the cost of private school tuition, and will only help the people who already have children in private school. There are very few private schools in rural areas , and very FEW GOOD ones in the inner city. It's basically a tax break for the Wealthy and will hurt lower and middle class children by taking resources away. The governor is not telling the truth and I urge my legislators to stand up to him, if you have the courage! Our kids deserve a free PUBLIC education.

Dana Fitzpatrick
self
Royse City, TX

I oppose HB3.

Kaylee Konidis
Self - Teacher
Groves, TX

Parents already have a choice of where to send their students. They already have the option to send them to a private school or homeschool their child. They can also do an in-district or out of district transfer so that their child can attend another school. Before giving private schools more money, consider this: Private schools do not have to hire certified teachers, private school DO NOT have to accept every student you give this "voucher" to, private schools do not have to "teach to a test", private schools are not put under a state regulation and graded based on how their students preform on a standardized test! Fund the public schools and make them better, stop trying to make rich people richer. Vouchers are a scam, it's giving the wealthy a tax cut and hurting the middle/low class families that send their students to public schools. Public schools are not bad like people in the government are making them out to be, they provide a safe place for students, and they provide extra curricular activities for students who may not excel in their academics. Private school are religion and academic based schools. Public schools are the HEART of our communities, they host events that bring families together while growing the minds of each student. Vouchers deem to hurt public schools. Local communities that do not have the funding from the state, will lose even more money to the voucher scam.

Cyral Miller

Self, special ed teacher

Austin, TX

Vote no on vouchers and build up our neglected public schools! Save Texas communities. 73% of all Texas school districts are underfunded and 17% are severely underfunded. HB-3 further reduces funding for public schools, and it uses public taxpayer dollars to fund private school tuition.

The bill creates the illusion of choice but does nothing to guarantee that a parent's choice for their child will be fulfilled. It offers a chance, not a choice. Ultimately, the true decision-maker in this system is not the parent, but the private school.

155 Texas counties do not have private schools within them. So, those children would be left out.

The economics of this bill will hurt small, rural schools.

HB-3 is not fair to the children and parents of Texas, has little oversight of how the public funds are spent, creates Constitutional questions about separation of church and state, hurts public schools, leads to class segregation.

When a voucher student leaves a public school for a private or home school that state money is lost (every year), because the state will only pay for students who physically attend a public school. For example, if 150 voucher students leave a public school, that costs the District $847,350 per year, further exacerbating the underfunding of our public schools.

Helen Ingram

self - retired

Austin, TX

If families want to send their children to a private school they should pay for the cost.

Helen Ingram

self - retired

Austin, TX

no

Kristen Hotopp, Ms.

Self, administrator

Austin, TX

As the parent of a middle school student, I urge you to increase public school funding support to $1,300 per student. A $1,300 per student increase will return Texas public schools to 2019 levels & lift our public schools out of the budget & inflation crises they're facing.

- Despite explosive population growth & available State funds, public schools are currently operating at 80% of the funding allotted in 2019.
- The State funding deficit is exacerbated by rampant inflation, which has increased costs across the board.

Children in Texas are the state's future: the workforce, innovators, & business owners of tomorrow that will lead our state in competitive national & global economies. Most Texas children attend public schools. To adequately prepare them for the future & maintain our state's leading role in established & emerging markets, we must INVEST more heavily in our public schools, which are the bedrock of civil society & workforce development in Texas.

School districts across the state currently suffer from huge deficits due to chronic underfunding by the State.

- In Austin we've had to pass bonds to supplement the insufficient State funding (exacerbated by recapture), to retain teachers, fix crumbling facilities, & maintain instructional quality.

State leadership claims that public schools have more money than ever are inaccurate; these statements are based on two-year old data that includes federal COVID funding that has already been spent. With calls to eliminate the Department of Education at the federal level, Texas can expect a decrease in federal dollars over the next several years.

- We must base all public-school funding decisions on current, accurate data.
- In real dollars, public schools are $1,300 per student behind 2019 levels.

Texas has the money to fund $1,300 per student, which will return public school funding to the sufficient 2019 levels. The Legislature has the money, the power, & the responsibility to adequately fund public schools!

- Adding $1,300 per student to the basic allotment across school districts is the most equitable & efficient solution, versus micromanaging how districts utilize funding. Different districts have different needs, and they know their children and their schools' needs best.
- Utilize the Rainy Day Fund & unspent funds from previous years. If cuts are necessary, make them elsewhere. There is no more important investment than the future of the Great State of Texas, which is our children.

The current HB2 funding bill proposes an insufficient increase of $220 per student. While some funding is better than no funding, this paltry amount is grossly inadequate to meet the needs of Texas public schools & our our children, particularly with high inflation.

Please ensure the future of our State & our children by fixing this broken funding system. Texas must prepare students for the world economy of tomorrow by adequately funding our public schools at the $1300 per student level.

Irma Sandate

Self

New Braunfels, TX

I am a former middle and elementary school principal. I know firsthand that HB 3 is not the best plan for Texas students. Already parents have had an option to remain in public schools or apply to attend a private, charter school. It's simple. Year after year, private schools take students who have zero to no barriers. Students with any barriers remain on the public campuses. This is inequity in a simple form. If Texas is ever going to prepare itself to compete on a national level, we must support public education. Investments in public education would mean students are provided the resources needed to build strong foundations in core content. It would mean students are in classrooms with technology. It would mean teachers are able to tackle reading issues at an early age. It would mean students have opportunities to study and explore new subjects. It would mean teachers have smaller classes that are manageable. The majority of us are public school graduates. We are proof that, when provided with the right resources and tools, public school education works. We are also savvy enough to know that creating a new system of educating students will create two systems that are not operating at 100%. This bill will set education back. We cannot afford to take Texas further back. Be part of a better solution to education. Do not be part of a bill that sets education standards for Texas students back.

Susan Wetmore

self--retired elementary school teacher

Austin, TX

I am opposed to establishing an "education savings account program", also known as a school voucher system. This system will take money away from public education, which is already underfunded and struggling to meet the needs of its students. It will not benefit those who do not currently have the income to send their children to private schools, but rather it is a bonus to those who already have the income to send their kids to private schools and would now be able to pay less. Public schools need to be adequately funded in terms of supplies, facilities, programs, and teacher salaries. Public schools --a backbone of democracy, civic awareness and civil discourse--deserve our support, not private schools. Vote NO on HB3.

Katherine Holbrook

Self

Austin, TX

I am a public school teacher and the mother of two public school children. I am opposed to private school vouchers. We should be investing in public schools, not subsidizing private schools. In state after state, vouchers have proven to be a waste of public funds and a harm to public education in the long run.

Lacey Lake

Self

Austin, TX

It is imperative that the TX legislature funds TX schools adequately. Voucher programs have been a massive failure in all of the states that have implemented them. They are often used not by disadvantaged students who are looking for a better school option, but by wealthy families who already have their children in private schools. Public tax dollars should stay in public schools. Things that you could do to appropriately fund TX schools would be to pay schools based on enrollment, not attendance. And with billions of dollars in our state rainy day fund, you should be increasing the state's portion of the per student allotment. Districts all over our state are having to take extreme measures that are having massive effects on campuses due to the deficits they are running in. The state hasn't increased their portion of the per student allotment in over a decade and definitely not enough to keep up with inflation. Please do better! The future of our state depends on a well educated population and when we are at the bottom of the country in per student spending, we are failing our students.

Scherry Johnson

self - retired

Dallas, TX

Vote NO on HB3! This bill is a fraud to give religious schools and wealthy families money that by the Texas Constitution is directed to a free and FAIR education to all Texas children. In small towns, the public school system is the glue that holds the community together. Shame of the very idea that this should be demolished!

Vicki johnson

Self

Converse, TX

I oppose HB 3

Jose Leon

Self

Wylie, TX

I oppose bill HB3

Lisa Seger
Self
WALLER, TX

I'm writing to urge members to vote against HB3, which will step needed funds from already underfunded public schools to subsidize tuitions for families that can and are already paying for private school tuitions.

The state of Texas is obligated to provide a quality public education to all of it's children, and frankly we are already taking short of that constitutional mandate. Draining funds will only make it worse.

Additionally, I object to my tax money finding religious education, as I see it as a clear violation of the separation of church and state.

Please listen not only to citizens like me, but to the myriad experts who have testified against this bill who have told you this will inordinately harm lower income students who are already struggling to have their educational needs meet. Do not pass this bill.

Ashley Newhart
Self
Fort worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Gail Price
Self. Retired
Georgetown, TX

I oppose this plan to provide vouchers. Public money should be used for public schools. An educated population benefits society and underfunding public schools is damaging to society.

Kat Clemons
Self/ Development Director
League City, TX

I strongly oppose diverting public education funds to subsidize private school tuition for wealthier families. Public schools are the backbone of our communities, ensuring that all children—regardless of their background—have the opportunity to learn, grow, and succeed. Instead of pulling resources away, we should be investing more in our public schools to strengthen our future workforce and make Texas a place where families want to live and thrive.

The reality is that there are not enough private schools to accommodate every student, and a $10,000 voucher doesn't come close to covering the true cost of private education, especially when factoring in expenses like uniforms and transportation. This scheme will not provide meaningful choice for most families; instead, it will drain funding from the vast majority of students who rely on public education.

Any reduction in public school funding will have devastating consequences for our communities. I strongly oppose the ESA and urge you to keep taxpayer dollars where they belong—supporting all Texas children through a strong public school system.

Michael Wolfenbarger
Self
El Paso, TX

As a retired teacher and conservative, I encourage each and every legislator to vote no on the proposed school voucher bill. This bill will accomplish nothing but further erode the public school system, which is already in need of serious assistance, not abandonment. The tax dollars were designed to primarily fund PUBLIC education, not private schools. Actions such as this are nothing but a "double jeopardy" for property tax payers and should be voted down at the earliest opportunity. Improve the system that is in place and refrain from making matters even worse...which is what this voucher bill will do!

Maaike Gomes
Self
Wylie, TX
I OPPOSE HB3

Tracey Mauss
self
Houston, TX

Vote AGAINST HB 3 since its not FULLY FUNDING PUBLIC EDUCATION. Vochers, school choice, or education savings account programs aren't good for public education or Special Education students. VOTE against HB 3. Support Public Education

Nickie Antonitis
Self- Corporate Giving Manager
Fort Worth, TX

I reject HB3 based on expert testimony and the fiscal note presented on HB3. This is not sound fiscal policy and it will hurt Texas public schools.

Jenny Sartain
Self
Friendswood, TX

As a mother of three children (all in public school system) I am 100% against the proposed voucher bill. This proposed bill would destroy the public schools as we know them.

Meghan Clyde
Self
Grapevine, TX

Our public schools are already underfunded and burdened with excessive regulations. Redirecting taxpayer dollars to private institutions that lack accountability does not improve student outcomes.

Even a small shift in enrollment impacts every public school. Fixed costs remain, but funding shrinks—leading to school closures, larger class sizes, and the loss of essential programs. Despite ISD's making painful cuts this year, 70% of school districts are operating at a deficit while covering billions in unfunded costs for special education, transportation, and safety.

Research from multiple states shows that voucher programs do not lead to better academic outcomes—and in some cases, they make them worse. If we want real solutions for students, vouchers are not the answer.

Instead, Texas must invest in its public schools by increasing the basic allotment, adjusting for inflation, and funding schools based on enrollment rather than attendance. Our children's future depends on it. Vote no to HB 3.